Syrians shoot at U.S. planes

BEIRUT (AP) — U.S. jets came under attack for the first time in Lebanon Thursday when Syrian gunners fired missiles at carrier-based planes. At Beirut airport, small-arms fire hit Marine positions.

Pressure mounted on Yasser Arafat to leave the northern city of Tripoli and end the Palestinian guerrilla war that has killed at least 1,000 people. The PLO chief said he might return to Tunis.

Syria said its missile batteries in central Lebanon drove off four U.S. F-14 Tomcats. No hits were reported. Lebanese radio stations said the Syrian firing began in the early morning when the jets scrambled from the carrier Dwight D. Eisenhower on reconnaissance sorties.

Assistant White House press secretary Anson Franklin, with President Reagan in Tokyo, said the jets were on a "routine" mission when they came under fire from an unidentified ground site in central Lebanon. He did not specify the type of fire, but Beirut radios said surface-to-air missiles were used.

American Marines came under small-arms fire in the afternoon along the eastern perimeter of their base at Beirut airport. The Marines returned fire and the shooting ended in about 2½ minutes with no casualties, said Marine spokesman Capt. Wayne Jones.

The shooting heightened tension that has been escalating since suicide bombings killed 239 American and 58 French troops in Beirut Oct. 23, and 28 Israelis and 32 Lebanese prisoners in Tyre Nov. 4. The U.S., French and Israeli governments blame Moslem fanatics operating behind Syrian lines in Lebanon.

Italy Thursday ordered two helicopter-equipped warships to stand by for a possible evacuation of Arafat from Tripoli, where a cease-fire collapsed less than 24 hours after it was arranged by oil-rich Arab nations.

Rockets and artillery fire poured on residential neighborhoods of the port 50 miles north of Beirut.

Rashid Karami, a former prime minister and a prominent Sunni Moslem politician from Tripoli, said Arafat "should be out of Tripoli at this crucial time so that he can work with his brothers on confronting the dangers threatening the revolution."

Karami, currently in Damascus and unable to return to his home because of the fighting, said the Palestine Liberation Organization leader "must leave Tripoli." He added that he reached this conclusion after talks with "parties concerned in the fighting."

Health Service expects deficit, may raise fee

By John Stewart
Staff Writer

The Health Service Policy Board has projected a $146,000 deficit for this year and a $439,000 shortfall in fiscal year 1984. Sam McVay, director of the Health Service, said Wednesday night.

McVay, speaking at a meeting of the Graduate and Professional Student Council, said the main reason for this year's deficit is unexpectedly high increases in off-campus services, which have gone up 12 percent this year. Almost a third of the $3.8 million Health Service budget is affected by this increase.

In fiscal year 1984, the Health Service would go $439,000 over budget without fee or service adjustments, the board projected. McVay suggested four possible options for the group to think about.

A first option, he said, would cut out off-campus programs, such as treatment at Carbondale Memorial Hospital or Carbondale Clinic. Students would realize a savings of $10 to $15 on their $60-per-semester Health Service fee, he said, but would be required to purchase insurance from a private insurance company for off-campus services as a result of such a change.

A second option, he said, would be to reduce the percentage of off-campus services paid by the Health Service. A new plan would pay only 50 percent of the charges off-campus, a reduction of 40 percent, he said. This option would be expected to net $480,000.

Until 1982, the Health Service paid all charges, but this year students are only covered for 90 percent of charges off-campus, he said. Last year's compromise to not raise the $60-per-semester fee also implemented an on-campus $3 per-visit charge.

An increase in the per-visit charge to $10 was a third option, McVay said. An increase might cause fewer student visits though, which wouldn't raise the $400,000 expected from the increase, he said.

A fourth option, he said, is to raise the health fee from $60 to $71 starting summer term, 1984, which would balance this and next year's budget. McVay said he was only suggesting the various options, and that alternatives could include other choices and suggestions.

Dan Venturi, GPSC vice president, questioned the fairness of charging summer school students the same $60 fee as others pay for the longer fall and spring semesters. A shorter term of coverage costs the same price, Venturi said. McVay said a raise of about $4 during fall and spring semesters could make the health fee about $45 during the summer.

"It's obvious we either have to adjust income upward or adjust expenses downward," McVay said. He said he felt major cuts in previous years have left programs in a "mean and lean" posture, and he couldn't support any further cuts in the dental program, the infirmary, the Wellness Center, or the Health Service clinical services.

The $3 per-visit charge implemented this semester has affected a small decrease in the number of visits, but McVay still expects 40,000 visits this

Shaw: State might suggest tuition hike

By Phillip Fiorini
Staff Writer

Chancellor Kenneth Shaw said Thursday he expects that the Illinois Board of Higher Education will recommend a 6 to 8 percent tuition increase for state universities in January.

SIU-C requested $186.6 million for its fiscal year 1985 budget, which doesn't call for a tuition increase, but Shaw said his estimates assume that the economy "is going well."

If the General Assembly doesn't consider extending the income tax plan scheduled to be phased out next year, the SIU System will have to assess its budget again, Shaw said after a Board of Trustees meeting.

Ann Greeley, president of the Graduate and Professional Student Organization, said she would be opposed to any tuition increase, saying that "we're getting to a point where we have to draw the line."

"Nobody says let's stop here," Greeley said. "I feel the longer you can stave off an increase, the better off you are."

Greeley said she was tired of saying OK to increases in fees and tuition. "There are still corners we can cut," she said.

A tuition increase combined with fee increases is something the students "shouldn't have to take," she said. "Any increase means an automatic increase in students' bills."

Bruce Swinburne, vice president for academic affairs, is seeking an increase in the athletics fee, raising it $10, from $30 to $40.

The GPSC has opposed that increase and the Undergraduate Student Organization has delayed its decision on Swinburne's proposal.

Student Trustee Sharon Hutcherson also opposed the athletic fee increase, saying that other fee increases "could be waiting down the road."

University seeks funds for computer

By Phillip Fiorini
Staff Writer

To upgrade its entire computer system, SIU-C in December will ask the Board of Trustees for permission to get a $2.9 million loan to purchase an IBM computer with terminals and software. The University wants to make the purchase in December also, when it can be done at a 40 percent discount.

John Baker, executive director for planning and budgeting, asked the board in Edwardsville Thursday to approve the plan, but several board members "cautioned the suddenness" of the request and said the University could seek only bids until board approval is given.

President Albert Somit said a major effort began three years ago after consultants discovered that a major system upgrade "was necessary."

In the Finance Committee meeting, board Chairman Harris Rowe warned that a sudden decision would "bind the system and encumber the University." Rowe also called the sudden request "the funniest way of financing" he had ever seen.

In his request for the funds, Baker said the present system was operating "from day to day" and was "obviously going to fall apart." He said the University was "aborting disaster" by purchasing the IBM 3081 D computer, which will take about five years to repay.

Baker said the new computer, which he said won't be obsolete for about five years, will have four times the capacity as the present system, which is expected to reach capacity by July 1984.

The plan includes the purchase of a major system worth about $2 million and operation and application software totalling almost $200,000 for about three years, Baker said. Some academic and administrative software and terminals have been purchased, and funds have already been "earmarked" for that this year, Baker said.

Ivan Elliott, chairman of the Finance Committee, said that he would like to see "cash-flow plans" by December if the plan calls for the first payment to be made by September 1985.

Somit said that if the system became capacity-full in three years, it could be upgraded, which means it wouldn't "just be junked."

Baker said the upgrading would meet "growing academic needs," and would be a "positive step toward the solution of the problem."

New state rape laws expand wives' rights

By Karen Torrey
Staff Writer

A woman can now charge her husband with rape under a new set of laws that redefines sex crimes in Illinois.

The new laws replace the term "rape" with four offenses a person may be charged with, depending on certain circumstances: aggravated criminal sexual assault, a Class X felony; criminal sexual assault, a Class I felony; aggravated criminal sexual abuse, a Class II felony; and criminal sexual abuse, a Class A misdemeanor for first offense and Class II felony for second conviction.

Previous law defined rape as "a male person of the age of 14 years and upwards who has sexual intercourse with a female, not his wife, by force and against her will." The new law makes it possible for either sex at any age to be charged with sexual assault.

Provisions of the law pertaining to marital rape will make it easier for a woman to charge her husband, but more difficult to win a conviction, according to Polly Poskin, executive director of Illinois Coalition of Women Against Rape.

Because of an amendatory veto by Gov. James Thompson, a woman does not have to have filed for divorce, separation or a court order of protection; does not have to be living apart from her husband; does not have to prove that her husband used bodily harm to commit the assault; and does not have to show that there was a pattern of violence in order to bring charges.

Elimination of those provisions, which had been approved by the General Assembly, is "a recognition that conjugal rights don't have a place in the law," said Poskin.

But, because a man who rapes his wife can only be charged with aggravated criminal sexual assault, a Class X felony carrying a possible sentence of 6 to 30 years in prison, Poskin believes juries will be reluctant to convict husbands unless the woman has been otherwise physically harmed.

"Under Class X you have limited the number of spouses who could bring rape charges," Poskin said. "Those most apt to bring charges are probably also women who have suffered other forms of physical abuse."

Poskin said her organization had hoped marital rape would be designated as criminal sexual assault, Class I felony, which would have given judges the option of sentencing a husband to probation. She believes that alternative would have made convictions easier to obtain.

The new law defines criminal sexual assault as "an act of sexual penetration by the use of force or threat of force," or one committed when the defendant knew the victim was unable to give consent or one committed against a victim under age 18 by a natural or adopted parent or grandparent.

The charge of aggravated criminal sexual assault will be made in cases where the defendant is accused of using, threatening to use or leading the victim to "reasonably believe" he will use a weapon; of causing bodily harm to the victim or posing danger to the victim's life; of acting with one or more persons; or of sexual assaulting the victim during the commission or attempted commission of a felony; of assaulting a person 60 years of age or older.

A Carbondale rape case was instrumental in broadening the legal definition of "consent," an argument many accused rapists use to defend allegedly criminal sexual behavior.

Consent is defined as "a freely given agreement to the act of sexual penetration or sexual conduct in question." Consent is not implied, the law states, by "lack of verbal or physical resistance or submission by the victim resulting from the use of force or threat of force."

Earlier this year an Illinois Appellate Court overturned the Carbondale man's conviction of two counts of deviant sexual assault on the basis that the victim didn't adequately resist the attack. The man had been sentenced in Jackson County Circuit Court for the attack, which took place near the Carbondale reservoir in 1980.

News Roundup

Non-smoking ordinance approved

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — After a campaign that cost the tobacco industry and its allies more than $15 a vote, San Franciscans have narrowly approved an ordinance giving non-smokers more clout than in any other big city to demand smoke-free zones in private workplaces.

Once the Board of Supervisors confirms the results, employers have three months to draft a smoking policy accommodating the preferences of both smokers and non-smokers. If non-smokers are dissatisfied with the arrangement and want smoking banned, employers must honor their wishes or face fines of up to $500 a day.

Officials silent on murdered family

BLOOMINGTON (AP) — Official silence Thursday shrouded the brutal killings of a woman and her three young children, while the surviving husband and father prepared for their funerals.

Bloomington Police Chief Lewis DeVault would say only that the investigation may hinge "almost entirely" on lab tests of evidence taken from the fashionable east-side home where the four bodies were discovered in their late Tuesday.

Local news media reported that police had found an ax and a knife in the home, but DeVault would not describe the evidence obtained.

Court overrules death sentences

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Citing "irrelevant" testimony that might have aroused racial prejudice, the Illinois Supreme Court on Thursday overturned the murder conviction and death sentence of Monroe Lampkin, accused of slaying two police officers and a third man during a night of gun battles on 1-57.

In a second capital punishment case, the state's high court also reversed the death sentence of Roberto Ramirez, who was convicted of the 1977 fatal shooting of an off-duty Chicago police officer during a bank robbery.

Reagan appeals to Japan for help

TOKYO (AP) President Reagan, making no apparent headway in his bid to expand American access to Japanese markets, appealed directly to Japan's legislators Friday for help in shrinking the huge U.S. trade deficit giving him political headaches back home.

In a prepared speech, the first by an American president before the Diet, the Japanese parliament, Reagan said, "We need your help in demonstrating free trade to address concerns to my own people."

The president told the lawmakers that "Americans believe your markets are less open than ours. We need your support to lower further the barriers that still make it difficult for many American products to enter your markets easily."

While strongly castigating the Soviet government, Reagan promised that the United States would never abandon arms control negotiations with the Soviet Union.

"Our great frustration has been the other side's unwillingness to negotiate in good faith. We wanted to cut deep into nuclear arsenals and still do. But they are blocking the dramatic reductions the world wants," the president said.

In urging a lowering of trade barriers, Reagan denounced legislation passed by the House last week over his objections that would attempt to curb Japanese auto imports by mandating inclusion of a percentage of U.S.-manufactured parts.

"This would be a cruel hoax, raising prices without protecting jobs," Reagan said. "We would buy less from you. You would buy less from us."

Referring to complaints by American businessmen that trade barriers are deeply entrenched in Japan, Reagan told the legislators, "It is not easy for elected officials to balance the concerns of constituents with the greater interests of the nation. But that is what our jobs are all about."

He said Japan had taken steps to lower its barriers and added, "We very much hope this progress will continue and accelerate."

On the troublesome issue of trade, which ranks high in Reagan's talks with Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone, there was no apparent movement on U.S. demands for greater access to Japanese markets and an easing of quotas on American beef and citrus imports.

year. Last year, before the per-visit charge, there were 45,000 student visits, McVay said he has no plans to adjust staffing until a prolonged pattern in the decreased number of visits appears.

Projections of the deficits were made from realistic expense projections, McVay said. Expenditures which cost about $1.2 million this year are estimated to cost 12 percent more next year. They include services purchased off-campus such as ambulance, emergency room and hospital costs. Another $500,000 in products for on-campus services such as X-ray equipment and medical supplies is also expected to cost 12 percent more, the board estimated. McVay said standard projections are that medical costs will increase by four times the rate of inflation.

Personnel salaries, which make up $1.8 million of the budget, are estimated to rise 6 percent, while $300,000 in non-medical items are to rise by 8 percent, the board estimated.

The new Unity Party

JOHN ANDERSON, who finished a distant third in his independent bid for the U.S. presidency in 1980, is eyeing the 1984 election.

But this time, instead of doing it on his own, he's forming a political party called the National Unity Party that he hopes will be able to get on the ballot in at least 10 states and receive some $5.8 million in public election funds.

While he is the founder of the party, he said that he would stand behind any candidate the party chose, although it is inevitable that his party will pick him.

WITH THE National Unity Party, Anderson hopes to crack the established two-party system and to bring change on issues that the other two parties have parallel stands on. Case in point, defense spending.

Anderson's views have always been right of center. His "pay-as-you-go" attitude toward a balanced budget allows no room for the ever expanding defense budget which he blames on both the Democrats and the Republicans. Anderson has dedicated his party to "the idea of redefining national security" and ending American military power projection around the world.

ANDERSON, like the Rev. Jesse Jackson, knows he can't win. But that is not his goal. His goal is to establish his party, draw a respectable amount of votes in the '84 election and plan for the future.

Also like Jackson, his candidacy opens up the election to groups other than the tradition establishment and will be healthy for the American political system.

Labels — who cares?

Doesn't the D.E. have anything more interesting to put on the editorial page than asinine observations of product ingredient labels? I'm referring to the hard-hitting "Grocery labels are not good reading" article. What is this? "A few minutes with Andy Rooney care-of William Jason Yong"?

Welcome to the modern world, pal. Products in the '80s have to have a gimmick to make it in the retail rat race. And, William, since you're so cynical about it, maybe you should just wash your hair with raw swine tallow or industrial strength lye soap. Like it or not, this is the age of tri-color toothpaste and permanent odor-eating socks. Without such marketing innovations, we might not have ever seen the likes of "soap on a rope" or "crazy foam." Would've been a darn shame, huh?

And don't get me wrong — I'm not against satire on the editorial page, as long as it's funny. I miss Andrew Herrnann's Monday morning mockeries as much as the next goof. I'd rather read no-holds-barred criticisms of U. of I. students or ruthless remarks attacking Cardinal fans, whether I agree with them or not. My only reaction to Mr. Yong's benign drivel which so poignantly pokes fun at toiletries and salad dressings is, "So what?" — Mark G. Jarzemyk, Graduate, Design.

The Daily Egyptian won't change

What makes the Rev. Jackson run? He is running to demonstrate the power of blacks, to protect the rights of blacks, women and other minorities, to test the democratic process and to satisfy his ego.

All of the above are acceptable reasons for Rev. Jesse Jackson running for President of the United States. Maybe, just maybe, there is another reason or set of reasons.

That may be to indicate that there are black people who are capable of filling any position. How can that ever be accomplished? For one, staff writers, editors and managers for the Daily Egyptian should enroll in Professor Luke Tripp's courses in Black American Studies.

We have been informed that journalistic style requires the initial identification of a person, in an article, by their professional identification or by use of an identifying Mr., Ms., Mrs. The next time the person's name is used, generally the last name only is repeated. There appears to be some reason to this procedure.

Yet, the Daily Egyptian continues to lessen the stature of blacks by violating this style. Reread the article on Rev. Jesse Jackson by staff writer Karen Torry on Page 24 of the Daily Egyptian, Nov. 4, 1983. Professor Luke Tripp is identified as "... SIU-C professor in the Black American Studies program" in the second paragraph. From that point on, he is identified as Tripp. Rev. Albert Ross, president of the Carbondale NAACP is identified as Ross. But, professor John Jackson of SIU-C Political Science department is identified four times as professor Jackson.

My mistake, I see that the reason professor Jackson is identified as professor Jackson rather than John Jackson, or just plain Jackson, is to not confuse professor Jackson with Jesse.

Why do I do this? I don't know, it has no effect, the Daily Egyptian won't change. But wait, I see the headline of the Daily Egyptian on the day after the presidential election. It says "Jesse Jackson, first black president of the United States." — Richard C. Hayes, Carbondale.

Dangerous driving at Roxanne

I live on South Highway 51 across from the Roxanne Mobile Homes entrance. Two major accidents have occurred there in the past couple of months, and not a word was mentioned in the newspapers or on the radio. The biggest cause of these accidents is reckless and fast driving.

When drivers are stopped on the highway waiting to make a left turn into Roxanne Mobile Homes, other drivers come shooting over the hill behind them, unaware of the stopped car until it's sometimes too late. One of three things then happens: their brakes and/or reflexes work magnificently, stopping just in time to avoid a rear-end collision; they swerve into the pedestrian-bicycle path on the right-hand side of the road, endangering those in the path (by the way, bicyclists have been hit as a result of this); or ram into the rear end of the waiting car.

Twice I had to go out to direct traffic and call the police, ambulance and firemen because of serious accidents resulting in extensive damage and injury.

I've been told it would be nearly impossible to get the 45-mph speed limit reduced because of governmental "red tape." What else can be done? A stop sign? Stop light? Yellow flashing light?

According to the Department of Transportation, very few accidents have been reported compared with the high volume of traffic on that highway. But every day I see many very near misses that easily could have been serious accidents.

I believe the time has come to do something about this before someone is killed.

It would be in the best interest of our community (especially those in this particular area) if we voice our opinions and suggestions. If you are at all aware of this intersection and its dangers, please write a letter to J.F. Newton, District Engineer, Department of Transportation, Old Highway 13 West, Carbondale, Ill., 62901. It could be your own life you may save. — Douglas Coggeshall, Senior, Cinematography and Commercial Graphics.

A staredown with Tricky Dick and friends

TRICKY DICK and all his friends stare at me from the wall of my office each day — reminders of how much (and how little) we've progressed.

They adorn a poster which my family first brought into our house in Harrisburg in 1968. We found it in a closet a few years ago, and I've hung onto it since. It does, after all, represent a slice of American pie from a period of history which I remember only well enough to know what time Star Trek used to come on.

Dick and his buddies are all bunched together in the middle of the poster — with bright orange faces, too, thanks to an artist who surely could have named all the colors in a box of 64 Crayolas. Surrounding the great heroes of the 1968 GOP are dozens of sign-carrying youths; red, white and blue banners; an eagle and a sketch of the White House. In bold letters over the heads of the crowd it says, "Nixon's The One!"

1968, the youth of America called gaudy "psychedelic" and gave it social meaning. And that's who this poster was designed for — the youth of America who were so hard to reach in 1968. The National Youth for Nixon-Agnew paid for its distribution.

Many of the faces are still familiar to us. To Dick's left (perhaps inappropriately) is his right-hand man Spiro Agnew — that petulant punster from whose marvelous mouth emerged energetic examples of "antagonistic alliteration. Too bad his talent for the language failed him in court — all he could muster was "nolo contendere."

Ronnie Reagan and Jerry Ford are there, too. Nixon may have wanted their faces on the poster, but he never promised them a rose garden, especially not the White House rose garden they both wound up with.

AND I SEE Percy and Lindsay and Baker and Dirksen and Goldwater ... it starts to sound like the "magic mirror" sequence on Romper Room.

But the Youth for Nixon folks knew that the new generation couldn't care less about a lineup of politicians. So they put Bart Starr on the poster. Wilt Chamberlain towers over the crowd, also, sporting a bizarre "Milhous" button.

A woman whom the artist meant to look like someone famous is there, as well. Of the people who walk into my office, some swear she's Ursula Andress, while others defiantly claim she's Raquel Welch. For all I know, she could be an orange-faced Lauren Bacall.

Finally, there's smiling Milhous himself. If you look closely, you'll find that the artist has drawn one eye looking one way and the other eye looking elsewhere. It's a touch of the Marty Feldman syndrome — but what Nixon really needed, as it turned out, were eyes in the back of his head.

IT'S EASY to poke fun at simplistic name-dropping (or face-dropping, if you will). That's old hat in politics. The genuine social statements in this campaign poster, though, are the slogans on signs carried by scores of clean-cut young Americans in the background.

First, the routine: "Our Man ... Yea, Nixon" ... "I Love Dick." There's something to be said there, but not by me.

"I Go Spiro." This one was clearly conceived by the same person who wrote Tonto's dialogue in The Lone Ranger. "I go to town, kemosabe. I go Spiro, kemosabe."

"Dick Wants Voluntary Army." Yeah, right. But Dick wanted "peace with honor," too. The doughboys weren't exactly lining up at the recruiting office to support him in that endeavor.

"CHAMPION of Forgotten America." Careful research has led me to discover exactly which places in America were considered forgotten in 1968. These include Nome, Alaska; Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.; and Tolono, right here in Illinois. No doubt, Nixon carried these cities overwhelmingly.

"There's No Solace in George Wallace." I'll buy that. In Nixon's case, though, the pot is calling the kettle black — which, I'm sure, Wallace would take as quite an insult.

And finally, a statement on Nixon's credibility: "Our Bridge to Human Dignity." "Nuff said.

Teaching English abroad; one man's view of China

We have received the following note from Fred Marx, a member of the U.S.-China People's Friendship Association of Carbondale, who was a graduate assistant in English at SIU and active in the Graduate Student Council until last summer when he left to teach in Tianjin, the People's Republic of China. Here's his statement, dated Sept. 19:

Dear Gussie and Jerry,
Well, what do you know, I actually made it to China! It's funny now when I think back on all the frantic last-minute efforts I made in the spring to get here (with your gracious help, Gussie). Of course, in the end, what should work but the good old "back door" — thanks to Jianqui's connections.

So now I'm here, and it's almost impossible, even after only one month, to imagine I was never here before. It feels so absolutely comfortable, so natural. Needless to say, the Chinese bend over backwards to make us feel comfortable — my accommodations here are three times better than in Carbondale! Balcony, big wooden desk with glass top, air conditioning, bath and shower, big double bed, color TV, radio and cassette player, typewriter, two oriental rugs, bookshelves, etc. The food, though cheap and excellent, leaves a bit to be desired in terms of variety; and very few fruits and vegetables. But I already have a bike so I can freely explore the whole city.

I've joined the Tianjin University teachers' basketball team and am practicing hard already for the Tianjin City Cup in October: I'm the star.

I've got Western friends galore here, and some Chinese friends already.

Somewhere in my week I find time to teach 18 hours (four extra at the Tianjin Teachers College to high school English teachers — British lit, of all things!). I've already been to Beijing (Peking) twice, am going to Mt. Tai next week. Hope all's well with you both. Thanks again for your help — Fred. — Augustus Auerbach, Chair, U.S.-China People's Friendship Association.

It all comes down to honesty

While studying in the Student Center during the summer, I went to the third floor to make a phone call. At the phone booth I found a wallet. My immediate reaction was to ask around to see if anyone had left the wallet behind. When no one claimed it, I turned it in to the information desk.

On Nov. 2 I was studying on the second floor of Morris Library and had to make a phone call. This time I made a mistake and left my wallet at the phone booth. Later, when I remembered, I went back to the phone booth but my wallet was gone. I checked with the information desk at the library, at the Student Center and even with the police, but in vain. My wallet is still missing. I regret that some people choose to ignore a basic value like honesty.

Anyone who carries a wallet does not carry only money in it, but also carries all kinds of identification cards. Foreigners carry their national identity cards as well. These are written in a language incomprehensible to most — their importance, however, should not be underestimated.

For example, to renew my passport at the Malaysian embassy in Washington, I must produce my identification card to prove my status as a Malaysian citizen. Imagine the time, effort and inconvenience I will have to go through if I cannot produce my Malaysian identification card. Owing to the fact that they are miles away from home, foreigners are more likely to face far greater difficulties than Americans when it comes to replacing lost documents here in the U.S.

While it is of no significance to another, one's national identification card is a valuable document. As such, anyone who comes across another's wallet should keep the money if you must, but please return the documents. — Shanthi Blanchard, Junior, Public Relations.

'New achievers,' not old addicts, sing java's tune

YOU'VE SEEN the commercials, Ken Anderson, Jane Curtin, Ann and Nancy Wilson, Kurt Vonnegut and David Bowie: the New Coffee Achievers.

I guess all those caffeine-free soft drink commercials are starting to take their toll on the wide-eyed java power base. So now Juan Valdez and Co. are taking action.

Gone are the images of rotund Rockwellian police sergeants and overtaxed city editors huddling over steaming mugs on cold December days. Also gone is Mrs. Olsen popping up from behind the sofa, pushing pewter pots of the stuff to coffee-ignorant newbies. The old standby middle-aged, gotta-have-help-in-the-morning, stereotypical caffeine addicts are gone forever.

NOW WE HAVE Ann and Nancy and David gyrating on stage to the thump of rock 'n' roll: Kenny going for the first down on his own and sleeping neatly out of bounds before he is crushed by the opposition; and Kurt, bless his communist heart, pounding down four or five cups before he cranks out his new bestseller. All of them young, vibrant or liberal. All of them achieving their white, middle-class butts off.

And why shouldn't they drink coffee? It has been helping people through hard mornings and boring meetings for years. In fact, the coffee bean is so rooted in American society that the New Achiever scam has to work.

JUST THINK of coffee's impact on language alone: Cold, lonely G.I.'s in World War II squatting in a foxhole brewing a cup of "joe" in their helmets. And redneck truckers gulping thermoses of "go-go juice" on Route 95 heading for Atlanta.

In the '80s, coffee has diversified and has attained a new class. Bourgeois coffees abound. We have instant Swiss Mochas, Double Cappuccinos and Cafe' Viennas. It's come to the point where the true, "give-it-to-me-black" coffee bound is almost ashamed to order. It's so ... common.

So the coffee baron has a three-pronged attack: keep the nostalgia (for your best coffee times), think up lots of elitist brands and tie the whole bunch in with those druggy rock 'n' rollers and he's got everybody. Problem is, he hasn't gone far enough. He needs to hit the salient interests of all those other American splinter groups.

I CAN see it now: Ron Reagan sucking instant Victory brand on the prow of a destroyer as the big guns pound some commie-infested island. Or John Glenn gulping Gee-Whiz brand as his sweaty fingers twitch on the joystick of an F-14 strafing Moscow on the Fourth of July.

But let's not be limited to commercials. Let's incorporate coffee into the network shows. Of course! Trapper John working in a rave-up medical center called Impatient Hospital where pots of crank endlessly boil at each end of the ward. A nurse (played by Madeline Kahn) sloshes vitamin-enriched Miracle brand into plastic cups and disd infuilly flips dying patients Tylanol 3 with a snotty "Here, take it."

NO, YOU'RE RIGHT, that's too much. Let's keep the coffee hawks on 60-second loops. But let 'em go after the young and impressionable if they want to. Maybe coffee will bump cocaine as the drug of choice backstage. After all, if Bowie drinks the stuff it has to be cool.

Wars are fought for economics, not ideals

One thing is for sure: the people who make wars (policy makers) don't fight them.

The price of freedom is high, but who pays this price? The poor.

Wars are fought for economic gains, not ideologies, as our glorious leaders would lead us to believe. Our so-called vital interests are economic, not peace and freedom as Ronnie "Rayguns" would lead us to believe. Our vital interests are not in people's lives or the improvement of the quality of those lives. Our government doesn't give a damn about the people of Lebanon. It is only interested in control and security of that region so our precious supplies of oil won't be interfered with.

Ronnie is for big-business interests and the interest lies in stability and proliferation of those interests, regardless of human life and dignity.

Our government supports repressive regimes all over the world, (Philippines, Haiti, El Salvador, etc.). Yet we call ourselves the "land of the free and the home of the brave."

If I am referred to as "an ignorant American revolutionary," it is only because I am, in the spirit and essence of our founding fathers' philosophy and constitutional premise. I am a revolutionary because it is American to question what our government does and why — to hold our president accountable for his actions.

Unfortunately, most Americans (and many SIU students) suffer sheep mentality syndrome. Whatever Reagan says must be right because he is the president (and a mighty fine actor at that). They would rather have people die for their ignorance than think for themselves and read between the lines.

I, too, grieve for the dead But why waste more lives supporting a government that is bound and determined to sacrifice more lives for the perpetuation of unjust and inhumane policies?

To be a true American would be to stand up and say, "What are you doing, Ronald Reagan, and why?" (This is truly the difference between our two systems, the right and duty to question policy.) But that takes guts and few Americans have that.

Unfortunately, there are not enough of them to keep Ronald Reagan out of the presidency, and to stop the ruination of more countries and people's lives.

I know Ronald Reagan lives well; do you? — Randolph Ortlund, Civil Service, Food Staff.

Former POW slated to speak at Veterans Day observance

By Dave Saelens
Staff Writer

As Carbondale winds down from the hectic schedules of Halloween and Homecoming, other cities are just getting started as they gear up for Veterans Day events.

SIU-C will get into the act Friday when it sponsors a program of organ music in honor of Veterans Day at 8 p.m. in Shryock Auditorium.

Robert P. Roubos, professor and director of the SIU-C School of Music, will perform works by American composers including "Variations on the Star Spangled Banner," and a toccata written for and dedicated to Roubos by Norman Lockwood in 1975.

One of the earliest events this year will be Veterans Day memorial services held at Riverside Park in Murphysboro at 11 a.m. Friday.

Program Chairman "Purp" Lavender said the American Legion Post 127 is in charge of the program this year, and the ceremony will be held in the center circle of the park near the cannons.

He said music will be furnished by the Murphysboro High School Volunteer Corps, and a color guard provided by SIU-C Army ROTC.

The main speaker at the ceremonies this year will be Benny Dunn, a former prisoner of war from World War II and author of the book, "Bamboo Express."

Lavender will also give a short talk on the Disabled Vietnam Veterans National Memorial located in Eagles Nest, New Mexico.

About 200 people attended the ceremonies last year, and Lavender said that if the "weather stays like it is, we expect to double that number this year."

The Veterans Administration Hospital in Marion will also be holding events in honor of Veterans Day.

Chief of Voluntary Service Ted Gaetke said a chapel service will be held at 11 a.m., and a brief memorial service will be held at 2 p.m. in the hospital by volunteer representatives from such groups as the Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion and American Ex-Prisoners of War.

Gaetke said the organizations will also be distributing gifts to the patients at the hospital.

For the 13th consecutive year, the city of Anna will be holding its annual Veterans Day parade.

Chester Spears, a member of the parade committee, said the parade will begin at 2 p.m. at Anna City Park and will travel up Davies Street toward Main Street, and will end at the Jonesboro courthouse.

Sponsored by the Anna Veterans of Foreign War, the parade will contain 122 units, Spears said, including 10 high school and grade school marching bands, and 25 floats from such organizations as the Department of Conservation and the Young Republicans.

He said the parade will also include an organization from Sparta known as the "Keystone Cops," and a marching band from Memphis, Tenn., known as the "Crackerjack Drill Team."

Spears said the drill team will later take on WRAJ, an Anna radio station, at 7 p.m. in a benefit basketball game for the VFW Youth Activities Program.

Included in the parade lineup will be a float sponsored by the SIU-C Veterans Association.

Michael Murk, secretary for the association, said the float, which contains a member dressed in Army fatigues inside a mock tiger cage guarded by two other members dressed as Viet Cong soldiers, was built to raise public awareness for the almost 2,500 American prisoners of war reported missing in action in Southeast Asia.

The float was previously entered in the SIU-C Homecoming parade, and Murk said that members of the group who walked behind the float in the parade felt their effort to raise awareness about the problem was a success.

Ryan to make visit to anti-drug center

U.S. Gov. George Ryan will tour the Hill House Drug Treatment Center at 2:30 p.m. Friday.

The tour of the facility at 408 W. Mill St. is part of Ryan's program to promote substance abuse treatment and prevention programs.

"Even though most of my efforts have been directed at the promotion of prevention programs, I recognize the desperate need for treatment programs," Ryan said. Ryan is chairman of the National Lieutenant Governors' Task Force on substance abuse prevention.

Decision delayed on cable TV rate

By Paula J. Finlay
Staff Writer

A decision on a proposed rate increase by Carbondale Cablevision will not be made for at least a month — until the company submits a 1984 budget for review by the city's Cable Television Commission.

Carbondale Finance Director Paul Sorgen reviewed financial reports from Cablevision with the commission Wednesday, but the group indicated it would not be ready to move on the proposed increase, which would increase the monthly basic service rate from $8.50 to $11, until Cablevision manager Craig Perica submits the company's 1984 budget. Perica said he would comply with that request, but an approved budget won't be ready until December.

According to the financial statement, Cablevision lost more than $200,000 in 1982, but Sorgen explained that the situation wasn't as bad as it appeared on paper and the company actually had a balance of about $18,000.

The review of financial reports is part of a recommendation made by the special committee in August that said "no rate increase will be considered until the company documents expenditures that demonstrate a need for an increase." The commission approved that recommendation and added others, including one calling for Cablevision's parent company, Telecommunications Inc., to submit an audited financial report by Dec. 1, 1983.

Sorgen said the city could not require an audited report because the franchise does not require it and, after comparing the TCI report to those from the past ten years, he was satisfied the report was complete.

"Our franchise requires a hell of a lot less than we've got here," he said.

A letter to Mayor Helen Westberg from David Humphrey, TCI's director of corporate reporting, said supplying an audited report would be too costly and time-consuming for the company, but that their "books are open" and a representative could come to their Denver offices and examine them.

A special negotiating committee set up to work out an agreement with TCI will review the reports and return them to the commission on Nov. 30.

The committee was formed last July after the commission recommended that the City Council require Cablevision to live up to the terms of the franchise.

GPSC votes to oppose library cuts, athletics fee

By John Stewart
Staff Writer

The Graduate and Professional Student Council voted to oppose any further cuts in SIU-C's libraries, and defeated a resolution to reconsider its stand opposing an athletics fee increase in its meeting Wednesday night.

The GPSC also passed resolutions opposing SIU-C's purchase of the Bracy Building, and resolutions calling for an access study by the Illinois Board of Higher Education and an increase in the revenue bond fee.

By a vote of 45-1, GPSC passed a resolution adopted by the Library Affairs Advisory Committee opposing any further cuts to SIU-C's libraries. Noting Northern Illinois University had already protected their library from cuts, the resolution stated SIU-C's academic standing would be diminished in the eyes of the academic community and accrediting agencies.

Les Polgar, a graduate student in zoology, said a meeting of the LAAC had been held Friday, when the resolution was adopted. Polgar said the committee was concerned about possible cuts in the fiscal year 1985 budget.

John Guyon, vice president for academic affairs, confirmed he is meeting with all the academic deans and asking them to set aside a reserve fund in anticipation of possible shortfalls in fiscal year 1985. Guyon said "enrollment shifts and funding for new programs" might cause less money to go to academic units. Guyon, who has yet to meet with Kenneth Peterson, dean of library affairs, declined to comment on whether the library would be excluded from having to set up a reserve fund in anticipation of possible cuts.

Peterson, who previously had sent a report to Guyon asking for no cut, said he was to meet with Guyon Thursday afternoon to discuss the matter.

A resolution calling for the formation of a four-member "study committee" charged to develop a compromise resolution on the athletics fee was defeated 42-2. At GPSC's last meeting Oct. 26, it considered six resolutions on the issue, and had three close votes. It voted 20-21 to oppose a $5 fee increase, 19-22 to support a $5 increase, and 22-15 to support no increase in the fee.

Supporters of the resolution felt it was necessary for GPSC to make a decisive statement on the athletics fee increase, which they said was not made by the close votes. Dave Rodgers, a graduate student in accounting, using a 5-4 Supreme Court decision as an example, said many important statements and decisions are made by close votes. Others felt the vote wasn't valid because only 46 of the 71 GPSC representatives were present at the meeting.

Detractors of the resolution criticized it as unworkable, as it would pit two supporters of the athletics increase and two against an increase and expect them to reach a compromise. "No one would budge," the representative said, remarking people are very adamant with their beliefs on the fee. The resolution would have been unanimously defeated if it were not for an objection.

GPSC did vote unanimously to oppose SIU-C's purchase of the Bracy Building in a resolution which noted the buildings unsuitability for storing books, and its unmanageable distance from campus.

The council also voted to support a $6.60 increase in the revenue bond fee, which GPSC President Ann Greeley said was "inevitable." Glenn Stolar, a graduate student in marketing, asked the GPSC to support a call to ask the IBHE to do an study to determine effects of tuition hikes on accessibility and retention, which was passed unanimously.

'Down-home sampler' musical to come to Shryock Tuesday

There's a gas station and diner somewhere between Smyrna and Frog Level that promises "a full tank and a full belly." There, the "Pump Boys" run the station, and if aided by quantities of time and beer, have been known to perform auto repairs. Across the street are the "Dinettes" of the Double Cupp Diner.

Together they become "Pump Boys and Dinettes," a high-octane Broadway musical that romps through a down-home sampler of rockabilly, bluegrass, gospel, ballads and blues.

This musical, nominated for the 1982 Tony Award for Best Musical, is coming to Shryock Auditorium at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

The touring company includes Nicolette Larson, famous for her 1979 hit "Lotta Love"; Jonathan Edwards, whose "Sunshine" hit the top of the charts in 1972; Henry Gross, one of the founding members of Sha Na Na; Gary Bristol, who recently toured with "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas"; Jonathan L. Segal, a talented composer who toured with "Oh, Calcutta!"; and Donna Watton, an actress, singer and dancer who has appeared in various Florida performances, including "Best Little Whorehouse in Texas."

In music and words, "Pump Boys and Dinettes" captures the spirit of the American roadside, the heart and soul of small-town America, conveyed with affection and warmth.

The musical has received rave reviews almost everywhere it has stopped for its original and lively performance.

Larson, who portrays Rhetta Cupp, one of the diner's owners, has earned a reputation for performing with such music stars as Linda Ronstadt, Neil Young and Emmy Lou Harris. This musical marks her acting debut.

Jonathan Edwards, who plays Pump Boy Jim, has spent 12 years traveling from coast-to-coast performing college and concert club dates. His feet are now planted firmly in the soil of folk and country music, and he's excited about the musical, which he says "is a perfect vehicle for me." This tour also marks his acting debut.

Created by six exceptional performers drawing on personal experience and dreams, "Pump Boys and Dinettes" owes its genesis to an amalgamation of friendships and talent that, together, were determined to make it work.

Principal creator Jim Wann and partner Mark Hardwick were performing at a popular Manhattan restaurant when, for their own amusement, they took to wearing gas station uniforms they found in thrift shops and singing original numbers about life along the nation's highways. About the same time, Wann's wife, Cass Morgan, and her friend Debra Monk, were developing a cabaret act about the "Dinettes," a couple of sisters called Cupp who run a roadside eatery called the Double Cupp Diner.

The ideas blossomed into a musical that held capacity crowds for four months at the off-Broadway Colonnades Theater in 1981. The musical then moved to Broadway's Princess Theater where it ran for 18 months and received the Tony Award nomination.

Tickets for "Pump Boys and Dinettes" are $13.50, 11.50 and 10.50.

Walsh to bring antics to Shryock on Monday

By Terry Levecke
Entertainment Editor

Joe Walsh, known as well for his wild antics and sense of humor as for his guitar playing, will play for Carbondale at 8 p.m. Monday in Shryock Auditorium.

His non-conformist approach to rock 'n' roll is capitalized on his new album "You Bought — You Name It," which was recorded from a second-rate rented Record Plant mobile truck.

The album marks the reunion with producer, longtime friend and collaborator Bill Szymczyk, who was involved with Walsh since the first James Gang album 15 years ago.

Walsh plugged in with Joe Vitale on drums, George "Chocolate" Perry on bass and guitarist Waddy Wachtel and jammed for three weeks in a ballroom for the track on the new album.

"I was trying to get 180 degrees away from dwelling on anything, and just make music that would speak for itself," Walsh said about the LP in a Record magazine interview.

The sound of that LP could very well be with him Monday night. His touring band includes Chocolate Perry, Michael Murphy on key boards, Doobie Brother Chet McCracken on drums, and Ricki Washington and Minnie Martin on percussion and back-up vocals.

There was no mention of the 11-piece band that was originally promoted for the concert in the recently received contract.

Walsh's reckless energy is chronicled in the same article, which introduced an interview with him by recounting a time he trashed a hotel room with a custom-built chainsaw.

Even though Walsh has put out several solo albums reflecting good-humored rock 'n' roll — "The Smoker You Drink, The Player You Get," "But Seriously Folks" and "There Goes The Neighborhood" — Walsh said he regards "Hotel California" as his best effort.

Single and limited view tickets are still available for the concert. Any unclaimed crew tickets will go on sale at 9 a.m. Monday at the Student Center Central Ticket Office.

Trustees OK audit process, plan to recover military costs

By Phillip Fiorini
Staff Writer

The Board of Trustees approved proposals Thursday to reorganize the internal audit process of the SIU System and to revise a tuition policy for cost recovery programs offered at military bases by the two campuses.

Also, at the board's meeting in Edwardsville, Clarence "Doc" Dougherty, vice president for campus services, confirmed that the east stands at McAndrew Stadium are safe and "will not fall down" if a capacity crowd should fill them.

The board's action centralized the function of the internal auditor, who will now have direct access to SIU-C President Albert Somit and SIU-E President Earl Lazerson. The internal auditor will be a full-time employee of the system.

The reorganization combines the two audit departments into a budget for the entire system. Currently, each campus has an internal auditor. Jack Simmons serves as the director of internal audit at SIU-C.

The revised tuition policy halts the use of in-state tuition rates for determining overhead charges. Chancellor Kenneth Shaw and other "authorized personnel" will work with the Illinois Board of Higher Education to establish a fair overhead rate.

At the Architecture and Design Committee meeting, Dougherty said that staff members observed the movement in the stands at the Homecoming football game and there were no reports that would cause concern.

Somit said the University would be "hard pressed" to invest money for structural changes in the stands.

Agreeing with Somit, Dougherty said the inspections and the maintenance of the stadium would continue.

Awareness of Peltier's case judicial system group's goal

Four days of events have been planned for Leonard Peltier Week, which begins Monday and continues through Nov. 17, according to Earl Stibitz, a spokesman for Carbondale Citizens for Peltier.

The celebration of Leonard Peltier Week will be a first for the local group, which has about 12 members, and the second one for the national group, the Friends of Peltier.

The events, Stibitz said, are designed to promote awareness of the judicial system and to make people aware of Peltier's situation.

Peltier, a leader in the American Indian Movement, is serving two life sentences in the Marion Federal Penitentiary for the murder of two FBI agents in 1976 on the Pine Ridge, N.D., reservation.

Carbondale Citizens for Peltier are concerned that the public be better informed about the American Indian experience, Stibitz said, especially with the Peltier case.

Friends of Peltier hope that a hearing that was held in St. Louis Sept. 13 will lead the courts to call for an evidentiary hearing, in which new evidence of alleged falsification in FBI testimony at Peltier's trial might be presented and result in a decision for a retrial.

Events scheduled for Peltier Week include movies, lectures, readings and an Indian dinner. The events are open to the public, Stibitz said.

The film "Brave Hearted Woman," portraying the activity of a woman leader in the American Indian Movement, will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Morris Library Auditorium. A $1 admission fee will be charged.

Indian culture will be the focus of a meeting set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Orient Room of the Student Center. Anthropology professor Joel Maring and James Murphy, associate professor of history, will speak on American perceptions of the Indians and aspects of their history. Indian poetry will be presented by the University Poetry Factory.

A thanks-for-giving dinner of Indian food on behalf of Peltier will be served in the Wesley Center lounge at 6 p.m. Nov. 16. The cost will be $3.50 for adults and $1.25 for children.

The Peltier Week concludes with the movie "Big Mountains," which deals with the resettlement of the Hopi and Navaho Indians in the Southwest and with the problem of mineral rights of Indian lands. The movie will be shown at 4 p.m. Nov. 17 in the Student Center Video Room.

Stibitz said that Peltier Week was not organized because of recent events at the Marion Penitentiary, such as unconfirmed reports that Peltier was beginning a hunger strike.

"We've been planning this for weeks," he said.

Jackson unemployment drops; SIU helps business picture

By Karen Torry
Staff Writer

With SIU-C back in full operation for fall semester, Jackson County's unemployment rate dropped over two percentage points from August to September, reflecting lower rates in Southern Illinois and across the state.

The Jackson County unemployment rate stood at 7.3 percent in September, down from 9.4 percent in August, according to Illinois Job Service. The rate one year ago was 8.5 percent.

When the University's fall semester begins, temporarily unemployed people go back to work, a large number of students leave the job market and the unemployment rate drops, according to Dennis Hoffman, Job Service unemployment analyst.

The influx of students into the community creates increased retail trade, Hoffman added, and enables merchants to hire more workers.

The Illinois Bureau of Employment Security also credits increased hiring in universities and retail stores for a slight decrease in the state unemployment rate, up from 10.1 in September to 9.7 percent in October.

Bureau administrator Sally A. Ward cautioned that the figures could be misleading because the state labor force has decreased by 56,000 workers.

"It is encouraging to see that the downward trend in unemployment continues," Ward said. "But the employment data does not show that significant numbers of people are going

Southern Summit canceled; some events postponed

The second annual Camp Southern Summit, scheduled for Saturday in the Student Center has been canceled.

Clive Neish, coordinator of the Black Affairs Council, said Thursday that the summit was cancelled when keynote speaker Tyrone Cryder, director of Operation PUSH-EXCEL, cancelled the engagement to assist presidential candidate Jesse Jackson.

The summit will not be rescheduled, but most of the scheduled events will be conducted during Black History Month in February, according to Neish.

back to work."

The continuing slump in the coal mining industry kept unemployment rates in neighboring counties much higher than in Jackson County, but all showed some improvement in September.

The Franklin County jobless rate was 16.3 percent in September, down more than 3.5 percentage points from August's 19.9 percent rate. Union County unemployment dropped to 13.4 percent in September. The August rate was 16.5 percent. The Williamson County rate dropped from 20 percent in August to 17.3 in September.

Rate decreases were smaller in Perry and Randolph counties, where Hoffman said many coal miners are still laid off.

The Perry County rate dropped to 12.5 percent in September from 14.6 in August. In Randolph County, unemployment was down from 10 percent in August to 8.6 percent in September.

Hoffman noted that although there are been few callbacks of laid off miners in Southern Illinois, there also have been few additional layoffs.

"It seems to at least leveled off," he said.

Marketing students for rent; will help elderly with chores

By Sheila Rogers
Staff Writer

The American Marketing Association will hold a "Senior Citizens Day" to help senior citizens with errands, yard work and other chores.

To promote community service, the group will be helping senior citizens from 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday, said Steve Ellison, vice president of projects.

"A lot of elderly in the area can't do the work themselves, especially now that the weather is getting colder," he said.

Senior citizens may contact Ellison at 457-2825 or Susan Allen, executive director of projects, at 529-4965 until Saturday to arrange to have work done. Ellison said three senior citizens have contacted him and he expects that more will.

About 50 to 60 members of the American Marketing Association will run to the store, do light house work or just sit and talk to the senior citizens. Ellison said that most of the time, senior citizens would rather just sit and talk.

The service is offered to senior citizens in the Carbondale area. Ellison said that it is restricted to the area because of traveling time.

"We want to be able to spend some time with them," he said.

Anyone who would like to help with the work for the senior citizens may. Ellison said that a free pizza and beer party will be held afterwards for everyone that helped.

This is the first year that the American Marketing Association held "Senior Citizens Day" and Ellison said that they hope to start a tradition. The American Marketing Association, a Registered Student Organization, sold flowers for the Harold McFarlin Fund last year raising $1,000. The group participated in Carbondale Clean-up and is planning a bike-a-thon in the spring to help raise money for diabetes.

Honor society offers grad fellowship

The SIU-C chapter of Phi Kappa Phi National Honor Society is taking applications from outstanding senior students for a $4,500 graduate fellowship for first year graduate or professional study.

Each Phi Kappa Phi Chapter may nominate one student for the 40 to 50 awards that will be given nationwide.

Criteria considered in the selection process are scholastic achievement, test scores, transcript record, involvement in honors and enrichment programs, promise of success in graduate or professional study, leadership skills, participation in University and community activities, experience, evaluation by instructors and expression of study plan and career goal. Students in fields of study that do not require standardized tests will be given equal consideration.

The Fellowship Program, which was established in 1932, has given awards to 700 scholars. Phi Kappa Phi is the only national scholastic honor society that recognizes academic excellence in all disciplines.

Sorority slates party to raise scholarship funds

Zeta Phi Sorority will have a party from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday in the Student Center to raise funds for its Deborah Sheppard Scholarship. Applications for the scholarship will be available at that time or may be obtained from Deborah Granger at 529-5741.

The scholarship was created to honor Miss Sheppard, an SIU-C student who was killed in April 1982. She had worked in the Financial Aid Office.

The goal of the scholarship is to give a college-oriented woman "an opportunity to further her education and put what she learns back into the community," Granger said.

Women's Club plans field trip

The SIU-C Women's Club will leave for a shopping trip to St. Clair Square at 7:30 a.m. Saturday from parking lot number 63 on South Oakland Ave.

The group will meet at 5 p.m. in front of Stix for the return trip to Carbondale.

Four teams have earned places in the semifinals of the International Soccer Tournament as it winds into its final stages this weekend.

Malaysia will play Venezuela at 1 p.m. Saturday while Greece will meet Africa at 2:30 p.m. The championship will be at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. Battle for the third and fourth places will be at 1 p.m. Sunday. All matches will be at McAndrew Stadium.

Ten teams competed in the tournament, which started Oct. 15. Malaysia leads Group I with seven points followed by Greece with six points. Also in this group are the American, Palestinian and Chinese teams.

Africa leads Group II with seven points, followed by Venezuela, also with seven points. The United Nations, Japan and Pakistan are in this group.

Aris Kotsioris, president of the ISC, said that this weekend's battle for soccer supremacy among the teams will be "very interesting."

"The semifinalists are quality teams as they have proven throughout the tournament and in the past," Kotsioris said. "This weekend will be a quality battle, not a quantity-type such as the intramural tournaments organized by the Recreational Center."

He said that last semester eight teams vied for the championship. This year, the American and the United Nations teams also competed.

The International Soccer competition was initiated last fall. This semester's tournament is the third. The tournament is sponsored by the ISC and the Health Service and total cost is about $1,400, Kotsioris said.

The objectives of the tournament are "to enhance the athletic spirit. Not to win but to take part, not the triumph but the struggle; not to have conquered but to have fought well."

"This semester's tournament has been smooth," Kotsioris said. "Only four yellow cards were given."

He gave credit to Vivek Gupta, chairman of the discipline committee, for maintaining order throughout the tournament.

Kotsioris said that his long-term goal for the soccer tournament is to make it as part of intercollegiate sports, expanding to play with other universities.

"In years to come, soccer will be a popular sport at Southern," he said. "I think in three year's time, it's possible that we can achieve this goal."

Kotsioris said he believes that SIU-C is the only university in the United States that has an international soccer tournament. He said that through several encounters with other international student bodies in national conventions, he found that no other universities have such an event.

The first-place team Sunday will receive a championship trophy and 15 small trophies for each player. Second place will receive a runner-up trophy and 15 small trophies for the players. Third place will receive a team trophy.

Both championship games in the women's divisions are already set. In the A division, Soul Patrol, 6-0, will take on the Tough Cookies, also 6-0. In B division, Klymacks, 4-1, will square off with Last Minute, 3-3.

Wichita State has been averaging 465 yards and 22.9 points per game. Defensively, the Salukis have given up just 235 yards and 12.9 points per game.

AGAINST THE RUN. SIU-C has been giving up an average of only 109.8 yards, while the Shockers' main strength has been on the ground. They have rushed for an average of 239.6 yards, with their two lowest game totals being 147 and 166 yards.

Even though the Shocker offense has racked up some big numbers this season, it has not been enough to put some bigger numbers in the win column.

"It's just that their defense has been down with a lot of injuries and a lot of fumbles and miscues," Dempsey said.

Wichita State's defense has yielded an average of 392 yards per game this year, including 227.3 yards per game on the ground.

Offensively, the Salukis are probably hoping to match that average. SIU-C's offensive attack has built its average up to 315.8 yards of total offense, with 158.7 coming on the ground. The Salukis' scoring average of 35.2 is two points higher than what the Shocker defense has allowed for a game average.

SOME OF THE 20 injuries that have wracked the Shocker squad have knocked out two defensive backs, two linebackers, two receivers and a starting quarterback.

"What's been amazing," Dempsey said, "is that so many of their guys have been hurt. They just have a lot of depth."

The Salukis, though, will not be a completely healthy squad either when it takes the field. Dempsey said his team is "hobbling" this week.

"There have been a lot of players taking treatment every day," Dempsey said.

Dempsey said he discounts the talk of people saying the Salukis would win big because of a common opponent in New Mexico State. Last week, the Shockers lost 62-28 to the Aggies, while two weeks ago SIU-C beat New Mexico State 41-3.

"It would never happen," Dempsey said. "The only way that could happen would be if they didn't show up. No one on this staff thinks that, nor do the players."

Last autocross set for Saturday

The last autocross of the season will be sponsored by the Saluki Sports Car Club at noon Saturday in the Arena parking lot.

Previous trophy winners have been John H. Phillippe, principal of Lincoln Junior High School, with a first-place time of 41.38 seconds in a Mazda RX-7.

Second place went to Tim Haslett, an SIU-C student, with a time of 43.42 seconds in a Volkswagen Rabbit GTI. Third place went to Gomi Hidehio, from Southeast Missouri State, with a time of 43.77 seconds in a Nissan Fairlady 280Z.

"Autocrossing for some drivers is a way to relieve tension and anxiety," said Jeff Babcock, vice president of the club. "For others, it's dedication to the sport of driving. As with past events, I hope to see a wide variety of competitive cars."

Prior to the competition Saturday, a driving clinic will be held to show participants proper methods of braking and setting up for turns. Also discussed will be the spring starting date, tentatively set for March.

"Suzie is a strong one-meter diver who looks good in the air," Golden said. "With some hard work and some improvement of difficulty, she should be very good on the three-meter board."

Another diver, Wendy Lucero, is red-shirting after transferring from Denver, Colo. Lucero was a finalist last year in the NCAA and U.S. Championships. Although she will not be able to dive for the team this year, she gives the other divers advice and support, Golden said.

"Wendy is an extremely poised and graceful diver who contributes to the team by just being there," Golden said.

Hill said he expects newcomers Armi Airaksinen, Suzie Marin, Sue Wittry and Marianne Bentley to further the depth and versatility of the squad.

Among Hill's expectations for the season are to finish among the top five teams in the nation, retain the National Independents Championship, qualify as many team members for the NC/A Championships as possible and have an undefeated dual meet season.

"We have many talented swimmers on the team," Hill said. "I'm expecting some good things to happen."

Harrier clubs head to districts

By David Wilhelm
Staff Writer

The men's and women's cross country teams may have to face something they've never faced this season - running in snow. Both teams travel to Ames, Iowa, to participate in the NCAA District V qualifying meet this weekend.

For the men, finishing either first or second would place them in the nationals and fulfill Coach Bill Cornell's final major goal of the season.

Despite what could be inclement weather in which to run, Cornell said he expects his squad to be ready Saturday at 11:15 a.m.

"We're as ready as we have been," Cornell said. "We've looked very good in practice, our backup men, too. I have talked with the team to convince them to think positive. We've run more as a team the last two weeks."

Cornell expects his major challenges to come from Iowa State, Oral Roberts, Kansas

State and Nebraska

Iowa State has defeated most of the district teams and is ranked 13th in the nation.

"We're concerned about Iowa State," Cornell said. "If they run well, they're one of the top teams. We have to be the favorite, though. We're ranked ninth and Iowa State is 13th. We're confident, but it won't be an easy chore. We have as good of a chance as anyone if the guys run up to their capabilities."

The 10,000-meter (6.2-mile) race will be run on the Iowa State University George F. Veenker Memorial Golf Course. Cornell said the course has many hills, but only one major one.

To win, Cornell said the harriers need their "top three in the front of the pack and the back men in the top 20. We're capable of doing that."

Meanwhile, the women's team and Coach Don DeNoon do not have a strong chance of qualifying for the nationals.

DeNoon expects Iowa State and Missouri to battle it out for the top spot. Host Iowa State has lost only one race on its home course, and they will be the favorite.

DeNoon said he is taking all seven runners to Ames.

"The basic reason is that I thought we could still get the best performances from the girls," DeNoon said. "It gives them an opportunity to see what the upper level of competition is all about."

DeNoon is concerned about the cold weather in Ames, but is optimistic.

"It appears we're going into cold weather, possibly 20 degrees colder," he said. "We may find out we're cold weather runners instead of warm. We haven't faced this before."

DeNoon said that a top 15 finish from No. 1 runner Lisa Reimund would be "outstanding."

"It's been a good challenge," he said. "I feel we've had a reasonable amount of success. We can't stop where we're at."

Hill expects success with entire team back

By Scott Rich
Staff Writer

Dedication goes hand in hand with success, and success is what SIU-C women's swimming Coach Tim Hill is looking for from this year's squad, which opens its season Friday at Illinois.

The Saluki swimmers turned in a ninth-place finish in the NCAA Championships last year and Hill said he expects a better showing from this year's team. "We have a good chance to finish as high as fifth or sixth this year," Hill said. "We didn't lose any swimmers to graduation and we have four outstanding All-Americans returning to the squad."

Pam Ratcliffe, Barb Larsen, Amanda Martin and Janie Coontz are the athletes Hill was referring to. All four turned in school record-breaking performances at the NCAA meet and Hill believes the women can improve on those marks.

"The women showed improvement with every meet last year and they ended the season in top form," Hill said.

Ratcliffe, the team's top point scorer at the NCAA's the past two years, is expected to again carry a major proportion of the scoring for this year's team. Last year Ratcliffe set five school records in individual events.

Coontz, who specializes in distance events, also had a hand in rewriting the Saluki record books. She turned in four record-breaking performances last season and was also a major contributor in the NCAA point standings.

Larsen, the third of the All-Americans, set a school record in the 100-yard butterfly and was part of three record setting relay teams. She is described by Hill as an excellent come-from-behind swimmer and should again be a major contributor to the team.

Martin, the school record holder in the 50, 100 and 200 breaststroke, is a two-time All-American and was the 1982 AIAW national champion in the 50 breast. Her strongest events are the 100 and 200 breast.

Along with his high expectations for Ratcliffe, Coontz, Larsen and Martin, Hill expects good performances from numerous other team members.

"Seventeen of our swimmers have the potential to qualify for the national championships," Hill said. "Out of the 17, 15 of them should make the cut."

Stacy Westfall is among the group of talented swimmers expected to help carry the SIU-C squad to the top of the NCAA finals. Westfall's specialty is the butterfly and she holds the school record in the 200 fly.

School record holders Rene Royalty, 50 free and fly, Laura Peel, 50 back, and Paula Jansen, 200 back, should also play a

Divers looking for consistency

By Scott Rich
Staff Writer

Consistency is what SIU-C diving Coach Dennis Golden is expecting from his women divers, and Golden said he has four athletes that can give him just that.

The divers will have their first test Friday at Illinois. Golden described the meet as a "friendly reunion," since the teams practiced together during the summer and got to know each other.

The Saluki club is characterized by a balanced lineup this year.

"We have a young team this year," Golden said. "We don't have the standouts that we have had in the past."

Although Golden said the team doesn't have stars, he said he has one diver with the capacity to be an All-American. Angie Faidherbe, who qualified for NCAA competition last year, is the diver that Golden referred to.

Faidherbe was an NCAA qualifier on the one- and three-meter boards and is described by Golden as the team's top returning diver.

"She is a very elegant and artistic diver," Golden said. "She reminds me a lot of Jennifer Chandler, the 1976 Olympic gold medalist."

Golden said that Faidherbe needs to add more difficulty to her dives, which would make her more competitive at a higher level.

Another diver who Golden expects to place well in meets is Leslie Miller.

"Leslie is very consistent and makes very few mistakes," Golden said. "Last year she contributed a lot of team points, and if she keeps improving she'll do the same for us this season."

Sophomore Cheryl Olszewski is the third of the returning divers. Golden said Olszewski has made incredible strides since last year.

"Her dedication to the sport has shown up in her diving," Golden said. "She has made some wonderful improvements."

One potential standout that Golden said he should come on strong at the end of the season is freshman Suzie Staraub. Staraub was a high school All-American at Downers Grove as a senior and should help out on

More than just an undefeated season: rests in the I-AA No. 1 Salukis' last game of the regular season.

SIU-C, 10-0, needs to beat Wichita State on the road Saturday in order to take at least a share of the Missouri Valley Conference title this season. Tulsa and the Salukis are 4-0 in the MVC. The two teams will not play each other this year.

While chasing their first ever MVC title, the Salukis are also trying to become the first 11-0 team in the 77-year history of the MVC. A win against Wichita State would also give the Salukis the distinction of being the first undefeated team in 38 years in the MVC.

MVC schedule

SIU-C at Wichita St.

Indiana St. at Drake

Southwest Mo. St. at Illinois St.

W. Texas St. at Tulsa

IN 1945, Oklahoma A & M (now Oklahoma State) went 9-0. Only two other teams in the MVC have finished their seasons undefeated and untied. In the last two years, two squads have finished 10-1 in the MVC.

"To be undefeated in regular season play is a lifetime goal of coaches and the players," Saluki Coach Rey Dempsey said. "Eleven is a big number. We want it bad."

"We've had several seconds (in the MVC) since I've been here and we want to be first. We feel we're the team that can do it this year."

If the Salukis finish with a win over Wichita State, Dempsey said an 11-0 record for his top-ranked squad would just about assure SIU-C of a first-round bye and a home game.

"I can't say that for sure," Dempsey said, "because that decision is made by the NCAA."

THE SALUKIS will not be looking at the Shockers' 2-8 record, Dempsey said.

"Anybody who watches their game films wouldn't take them lightly," Dempsey said. "I wish they had a better record, like 6-4, but had less talent than they have now. Their offense has been moving the ball the way they thought they would this year."

Wichita State's No. 1-ranked offense in the MVC will be going up against the MVC's No. 1-ranked defense.

Cagers to square off with Turkish team

By Daryl Van Schouwen
Staff Writer

Saluki basketball fans will get their first peek at the 1983-84 team Saturday when it takes on the Turkish National team at 7:35 p.m. at the Arena.

Coach Allen Van Winkle, entering his third season at SIU-C, has named Cleveland Bibbens, Chris George, Kenny Perry, Nate Bufford and Roy Birch as his starters. Each of the five will be playing their first game in a Saluki uniform.

Birch and Bufford will start at the guard positions while George and Bibbens will play forward, with Perry at center.

"It's too early to expect us to look good, but at least it's a game where the kids can play in front of people and get some butterflies out of their stomachs," Van Winkle said.

"We'll probably be very ragged since we've had only 17 days of practice."

The game will reunite former Evansville teammates Perry and 6-foot-11 center Emir Turam. In addition to Turam, the Turks are big at forward. Their starting forwards are 6-foot-8.

The 6-foot-11 Perry and Bibbens and George give Van Winkle a much bigger front line than he had to work with last year.

Bibbens, a 6-foot-6, 200-pound transfer from Michigan State averaged 18 points and 14 rebounds per game while playing for Van Winkle at Jackson Community College. He averaged 2.8 points and 1.9

rebounds per game at MSU.

George, 6-foot-6, 190 pounds, averaged 13 points and 11.4 rebounds per game at Barton County (Kansas) Community College in 1982-83. He is considered a better-than-average defensive player.

Van Winkle said Bernard Campbell, Ernie Hubbard, Harry Hunter, Pie Walker and Dan Weiss are all expected to see action Saturday.

"We'll take a look at different people and use different combinations," Van Winkle said.

Van Winkle has been working with three basic combinations in practice. In addition to the conventional two guards, two forwards and center set, he has worked with two three-guard set-ups, one featuring two centers.

"All have looked good at times and it may be that we'll be able to use all three in certain situations," Van Winkle said.

Van Winkle is pleased with the squad's attitude in practice.

"This year's group has a great approach to practice," he said. "Their attitude toward working has been outstanding."

Van Winkle said he is behind in his teaching schedule since there is more to teach with a basically all-new squad. Of the 10 players who will dress for Saturday's contest, seven are newcomers.

Tickets for the game are $1 for students, $3 for adult general admission and $3.50 for reserved seats.
