Economic revival plan

Clinton, aides map strategy to help boost U.S. economy

Los Angeles Times

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—President-elect Bill Clinton Sunday began mapping a hit-the-ground-running legislative strategy to revive the economy, and Senate Majority Leader George J. Mitchell, D-Maine, predicted that Congress will move quickly on such a job stimulus plan and enact health care reform later in 1993.

"We've got a big job to do and we've got to do it together," Clinton said as he prepared to host a working dinner here with Mitchell, House Speaker Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., and House Majority Leader Richard A. Gephardt, D-Mo.

Clinton said his first post-election meeting with the Democratic congressional leadership was intended to "kind of renew our acquaintance, talk about our obligations, look to the future a little bit, talk a little bit about next week when I go to Washington for the first time."

Clinton told reporters at the end of his customary morning jog that he was "very much" looking forward to meeting President Bush at the White House Wednesday.

"I think it's time we met and talked," he said. His people so far have been quite cooperative and I think it's time for us to go together.

George Stephanopoulos, Clinton's assistant transition director for communications, said the congressional leadership session was "an important way to break the ice and talk about what is coming ahead on the legislative calendar and talk about how they are going to work together for the next years."

Clinton also planned to discuss with the congressional leaders healthcare and political campaign reforms, Stephanopoulos told reporters upon arriving at the Governor's Mansion Sunday afternoon.

Various legislative strategies are under discussion, but one that is particularly favored by top Clinton transition planners is the formation of a high-level legislative strategy group to take charge of driving the new president's agenda through Congress, sources said.

Under such an arrangement, top White House aides would assume hands-on control of the complicated process — beginning with the drafting of legislation itself — in hopes of seizing the opportunities available to Clinton in the early days of his administration, adviser said.

"I think it had a great turnout and that a lot of positive feedback from students who came from all over the world as well as SIUC participants and advisers," she said.

Anthony King, coordinator of the conference, also said the conference went well.

"I think it had a great turnout based on the closing forms, goals that were met, and we set goals for the years to come," he said.

"The workshops touched on various subjects, including "The Rise of the Black Man," "Male and Female Relationships," "Unity in the Community," Health Concerns in the Black Community and "Religion.""

"The workshop topics brought about togetherness for the participants," Sherry said.

Tuesday Sherry, coordinator of the Black Affairs Council, said the conference was outstanding and there was a great turnout.

About 600 students and advisers from the United States participated in the conference events, Sherry said.

Dunn aims for education committee post

By John McCadd

Political Writer

State Sen. Ralph Dunn, R-Du Quoin, said he could become the first Southern Illinoisan to lead the senate's Higher Education Committee since its conception in 1977.

Dunn, who was re-elected Nov. 3 to his third term, said he may have increased leverage in heading the position because of his seniority on the committee and the recently obtained Republican control of the senate.

"The committee has always been a Democrat from up north for the past (15) years," he said. "It's important to have a representative from down here because it would give me a chance to help SIU through its money problems."

The election produced a 32-27 Republican majority in the state senate, which would give Republicans an edge in choosing party-aligned committee persons, Dunn said.

The committee's function includes the discussion and passage of bills pertinent to higher education, such as tuition hikes and decisions concerning university management, he said.

DeNoon said.

The SIUC women’s cross country team ran well at the NCAA District V meet at Ames, Iowa, but the competition ran a little better, coach Don DeNoon said. SIUC placed fourth in the 13-team field. Leeanne Conway-Reed was the top finisher for the Salukis in 13th with a time of 18:45. DeNoon said a little adversity was involved because not all the athletes were in the best of health for the competition.

"Debbie Daehler and Jennie Horner, two typically strong runners, were weakened by their respective illnesses," DeNoon said. "When you are running at the highest level, you must be at your best physical state."

DeNoon said he was not disappointed with the outcome because many of his athletes ran well. Cathy Kershaw finished in 26th with a time of 18:58, and Dawn Barefoot, who was 27th, came in a second later. “Leanne had an outstanding run," DeNoon said.

"Stacy McCormack was just 32 seconds behind, the closest she has ever been this season," DeNoon said.

Reed unanimously named to MVC academic team

By Sanjay Seth
Sports Writer

Leeanne Conway-Reed of the SIUC women’s cross country team was an unanimous choice to the first Missouri Valley Academic All-Conference team. Reed, a senior in English Education from Overland Park, Kan., topped the list of the 12 first-team academic all-conference, along with Debbi Ramseyer of Indiana State, who was another unanimous choice. The selections were made by the MVC’s sports information directors Friday. Reed is joined by teammates Deborah Dachler and Cathy Kershaw in the first-team selection which is based on academic abilities and athletic performance at the MVC championships.

Reed, who has a 3.62 GPA, finished eighth in the inaugural conference championships Oct. 31, which SIUC won with a mark of 17:58 while Dachler was sixth with a time of 17:52 and Kershaw finished in 13th with a time of 17:54.

"Leeann had a time of 18:45, which compared against each other by a qualifying committee. The results will be known Friday," DeNoon said. "We will keep up with the outcome of the season."

"We had a 30-10 win and we gave it everything we had," DeNoon said. "I’m proud of our accomplishments and there is a good future with the returning athletes and the fact that we have a good program."

Spikers finish Valley season

Salukis sweep Bradley, then drop match to ISU in conference finale

By Karyn Viverito

The Saluki spikers finished out their run in Missouri Valley Conference action this weekend.

The spikers ended their first season in the MVC with a record of 6-10 after losing to first place Illinois State Saturday and remarking a win against Bradley Friday.

Head coach Sonya Locke said she is proud of the progress that her team has made in a new conference.

"This is the toughest our conference has ever been, and there has not been one team that we can take for granted," she said. "I feel our players have worked hard together and individuals to improve their skills and play hard."

"Illinois State head coach Julie Moore said she saw a different Saluki team Saturday. "I feel that SIUC has made a lot of progress in its game. once the last we faced each other in the beginning of the season," she said. "They are a young team that has really come to work together."

"Even with progress in their game, it was not enough to stop Illinois State. The Redbirds swept the Saluki 15-11, 15-12, 15-0. The win tied the Redbirds for first place in the MVC with Southern Missouri State, who also won its conference match against Wichita State.

Locke said the Redbirds were able to take the fight out of the Salukis on Friday.

"We played tough in the first game and even though we lost, we did what we were supposed to do," she said. "The next two games we did not execute our game plan and they were able to break us."

Senior middle blockers Dana Olden and Stacy Snook led the Salukis in their last MVC match of their careers. Olden led SIUC with 6 kills and racked up 5 digs, one block solo and one block assist. She also turned her team's defense has always been able to come through in the match.

Senior Karen Hopkins had four kills to go along with her 32 assists for the Redbirds. She said they were able to put the Salukis away once the passing got better.

"When we weren't passing well, we were forced to go to the outside a lot, and we weren't able to do a lot with our offense," she said. "Once our passing cleaned up, we were able to run a lot of different plays and win the match."

Indiana State upsets SMSU; UNI smothers Western, 37-6

By Jay Reed
Sports Writer

Indiana State rallied from a 21-10 third-quarter deficit and held on to beat Gateway leader and No. 11-ranked Southwest Missouri 31-28 Saturday in front of only 981 fans at Terre Haute, Ind.

The loss sent the Bears, 6-4 overall and 4-1 in the Gateway, into a first place tie with Northern Iowa and boosted Indiana State. SIUC’s opponent this Saturday, 4-6 overall and 2-1 in the conference.

"The way we were able to protect the football was the key," Indiana State head coach Dennis Raatz said. "It was an important win in lieu of last year’s 48-31 loss at their place."

"David Wright led the Sycamores with two touchowns and 154 yards on 29 carries," Wright broke the Division I-AA record for all-purpose yardage by a freshman. He passed Eastern Kentucky’s Markus Thomas’ 1989 record of 1,156.

Northern Iowa jumped out to a 37-0 lead and pummeled Western Illinois 37-6 at the UNI Dome in Cedar Falls, Iowa.

Schwartz, Akal fail to accomplish goals at District V championships

By Sanjay Seth
Sports Writer

Senior team-captain Nick Schwartz and sophomore Garth Akal failed to reach their goals at the NCAA District V men’s cross country championships in Ames, Iowa Saturday.

Schwartz and Akal hoped to finish in the top three to receive an automatic bid to the NCAA Nationals. Schwartz finished in 11th with a time of 31:45, and Akal finished in 33rd with a time of 32:39. The two were the only Salukis to finish in the top half of the 115 runners.

Head coach Bill Cornell said it was obviously a disappointment in all regards when the Salukis did not qualify.

"If our two athletes had run 10 seconds faster, we could have come in second place," DeNoon said. SIUC still stands a chance of qualifying for the NCAA National Championships when all third place finishers in all eight regions are compared against each other by a qualifying committee. The results will be known Friday.

"If our two athletes had run 10 seconds faster, we could have come in second place," DeNoon said. "If two of our athletes had run 10 seconds faster, we could have come in second place," DeNoon said.

DEMOCRAT PRESIDENT MEANS CUBAN SLIDE — Democrat Bill Clinton's presence in the White House means Cuba will slide much lower onto the U.S. political and policy agenda, only rising to visibility should the new administration be confronted by a crisis on the island in the next year or so, experts said. With the Democrats in control of the government after 12 years of Republican dominance, the influence of the powerful Cuban-American National Foundation will wane.

Blood drive nets 1,404 pints

Weather blamed for drive's failure to reach set goal
By Michael T. Kucia
Health Writer

A car crash, an organ, a transplant, an accident at work. Life-threatening catastrophes can cause an urgent need for extra blood. That need may be answered by the 1,404 pints of blood collected at the SIEU blood drive last week.

The blood drive, primarily sponsored by the Red Cross and the Inter-Greek Council, is part of an on-going competition with the University of Missouri to collect the most pint of blood.

Vivian Ugent, Red Cross coordinator of the 10-county Southern Illinois area, said the group missed its 3,000-pint goal because of the driving rain late in the week.

"Another 30 people showed up but were deferred because of health reasons, and 30 people were only able to give a part of a pint," she explained.

"In actuality, very nearly 1,600 people registered to give blood." Ugent said 235 people gave blood for the first time at last week's blood drive, and 92 of the 235 people gave on Friday, when 344 pints were collected.

"We obviously hope they will become regular donors," she said. "We need people to give blood every eight weeks. We need a solid donor base of people committed to giving blood."

Ugent said the IGC supplied volunteers who collectively put in hundreds of hours of work, doing everything from registering donors to serving refreshments.

John Senft, IGC blood drive coordinator, expressed surprise at the number of people who turned out to help.

"It was a tough week, but lots and lots of people came out to help," he said. "I was really impressed. To me, it put a lot of faith in the Greeks."

Senft said the IGC also helped out by donating $300 to $50 to pay for supplies for the blood drive.

Hunting season opens with bang as geese arrive at Crab Orchard

By John Rezanka
Environmental Writer

Goose hunting season opened with a bang in Southern Illinois during the weekend when area hunters flocked to their favorite blinds.

Todd Pearson, manager of the Crab Orchard Campground Goose Hunting Club, said about 14,000 geese were present on opening day but when the season peaks there will be more than 100,000 geese on the national wildlife refuge.

"It usually takes a while for the geese to get down here." Pearson said. "Right now, we are waiting for colder weather up north to push more birds down."

About 50 hunters showed up for opening day, he said. They rented 25 of the club's 50 blinds, but Pearson said he expects the number of hunters to increase as the geese show up on the refuge.

"With the weather being so cold early in the year, we will probably have a very good year," he said. "The colder the weather the better."

Dick Pearson, a Murphysboro resident who was hunting for geese at Crab Orchard during weekend, said he saw more geese on opening day this year than last year.

He killed a goose and two ducks on opening day.

"The cold weather has brought in a larger flock," Pearson said. "We are off to a better start this year than last year. I expect it to be a good season."

Pearson said a typical day of goose hunting begins at 5 a.m. when hunters drive to their blinds.

After the blinds are assigned, the hunters load up in their boats and travel to the spot to set decoys, he said. The decoys are set downwind in a position where the birds will land in front of the blind.

Once the decoys are set there is nothing left to do but sit and wait, he said. Hunters pass the time cooking food, eating sandwiches and talking.

Pearson recommended that hunters come prepared with 10 gauge or 12 gauge shotguns, good weather proof clothing, water proof boots and a lot of patience.

World awaits new American president

REASON, SET, GOVERNment!

President-elect Bill Clinton is making good of his time until he takes office in January by preparing for the job. He plans to hit the Oval Office running. But in that transition stage, other nations have been keeping quiet and not stirring up the American government.

This "different kind of Democrat" is working to prepare for a different kind of world— a world that questions the direction of U.S. leadership in international affairs. Clinton realizes the importance of being prepared for the job, and his recent efforts show he wants to be ready.

But the "different kind of world" seems to be on hold as Bush tries to wrap up loose ends to his administration and Clinton gears up to begin his.

AFTER A DAY OF REST from the campaign trail and the election hoopla, Clinton set forth first to assemble his administration. Though still weary, Clinton had some heated arguments with some of his closest advisers. At the same time, Bush is in a flurry to also set some programs in motion to overlap the administrations. But the international horizon remains silent.

Clinton wishes to "bring in some of the brightest people in the arena, a broad range of backgrounds, talk to them about the gravity of the situation, deal with what our options are, get as many good ideas as (he) can." Those situations include trade and other foreign relations.

Naming Warren Christopher as his transition director after Christopher worked as former deputy secretary of state, Clinton has alluded to furthering his position to secretary of foreign affairs. Clinton reminds the world who is still in charge. Not one and affected his operatives as well. A few more, and we can run. Clinton intends to expend his good office time with foreign diplomats. Clinton plans to hit the Oval Office running. But in that transition stage, other nations have been keeping quiet and not stirring up the American government.

Among all the preparations and heated arguments with some of his closest advisers, at the end of the day, Bush realizes the importance of being prepared for the job, and his recent efforts show he wants to be ready. But the "different kind of world" seems to be on hold as Bush tries to wrap up loose ends to his administration and Clinton gears up to begin his.

LITTLE REACTION HAS COME from overseas or elsewhere to any of Clinton's proposals. Though Mexican Commerce Secretary Jaime Serra Puche warned Clinton that there will be no renegotiations in the North American Free Trade Agreement.

But Jiro Tanahashi, Japan's vice minister of Ministry of Trade and Industry, said he believes Clinton is a believer in free trade. Tanahashi's tone remains steady and unthreatening.

It is still too early for Clinton to begin naming his Cabinet, said officials, but he will be working on that along with plans for "change." During the primaries, Clinton showed an explosion of energy and magnetic personality which drew in and affected his operatives as well.

That aggressiveness has poured into post-election planning. He already has been spending phone time with foreign leaders, working on understanding their wants and needs. Among all the preparations and heated arguments with some of his closest advisers, Clinton reminds the world who is still in charge. Not one and affected his operatives as well. A few more, and we can run. Clinton intends to expend his good office time with foreign diplomats. Clinton plans to hit the Oval Office running. But in that transition stage, other nations have been keeping quiet and not stirring up the American government.

Among other subject areas, Roundtable discussions covered "Hotel, Restaurant and Travel," "Power of Being Digital," and "Also at the confluence were various vendors who sold products pertaining to African-American culture, such as books and clothing. A cancer fair with representatives from the U.S. Navy and the Wellness Center among other organizations was also held during the conference. The entertainment was provided by local talent as well as SUIC talent.

"The BAC has a variety of programs geared towards the upliftment and advancement of African-Americans at SUIC." King said.

"With the extra revenue from the conference, we can strengthen our existing programs and develop new ones."

Although exact figures from the conference are still being tabulated, Sydrena Bogard, a junior in biological sciences from Memphis and BACLC assistant coordinator said the conference, which drew about 600 people, will turn a profit.

"We are planning on getting our figures together, but the early signs indicate a strong profit margin," Bogard said.

The registration costs were $30 and $40 for SUIC students and advisors, respectively. Non-SUIC students and advisors paid $70 and $80, respectively.

Tuesday Shorts, a senior in art and design from Chicago and BAC coordinator, said the success of the previous two conferences was a key to the financial success of this year's.

"Once the word spread throughout the country about the positive aspects of the BACLC, we had people calling us about the conference," Shorts said. "We knew our product was good and now the country knows. Our profit speaks for itself."

King said although the BACLC is a good article, the organization should be seen as money hungry.

"Our main goal is not making money for the sake of having a large account," King said. "We strive to make money to better the organization."

meetings at which the Illinois Board of Higher Education and state university representatives would openly debate program costs and allocation of funds.

"One of the biggest issues next year will be the program cut (proposed) to the schools are receiving," he said. "The cuts are already being debated, and I believe I would acquire some of the (complaints), but this would be the first time the (senate) would have a major debate by all of the schools."

Announcement of state senate committee appointments is scheduled for a N., 17 meeting, he said.

John Foster, associate professor of political science, said the Republican majority in the state senate probably would want to succeed Dunn to be appointed.

However, he said there is not an agreement of partisan theory regarding higher education, which makes it difficult to predict results of Dunn's appointment.

"Both parties seem to be interested in providing increased funding to the universities," he said. "Whether funding increases or decreases is anybody's guess."

Foster said the increase of Republican state senators probably is in line with the overall population growth, in which Republican theory often is popular in suburban areas.

"I said I would seek a higher position in the appropriations committee that handles higher education funding, but does not expect to become chairman because several Democratic have held committee positions longer.

He was in the Illinois House of Representatives' Higher Education Committee from 1973 to 1985, and was minority spokesman for the floor committee during that period until 1985.

his administration.

Although such tasks often are delegated to lower-level official, Clinton advisers said they hoped to model their plan upon the successes and failures of the White House administration by a similar team headed by James A. Baker and Richard Darman, then top White House officials.

Advisers said they expect that the as-yet-unnamed new director of the Office of Management and Budget also would become a major participant in the strategy group.

Appearing on NBC's "Meet the Press," Mitchell said he was encouraged in part by the pace and direction of Clinton's transition.

"I hope it is that there will be good bipartisan cooperation on the im portant agenda that the president-elect plans place before the Congress," he said. "I think he's on the right track."

The Panther defense allowed the Lookhommeggs only 44 yards rushing and held three-time Gateway offensive player of the week, quarterback Donny Simmons, to only 81 yards passing. The only WTU score came with 1:07 remaining in the game when reserve quarterback Matt Seman found Steve Ross for a 23-yard touchdown.

Northern Iowa quarterback Jay Johnson completed 16 of 23 passes for 338 yards, including an 80-yard third-quarter strike to Kenny Shedd. Shedd caught two passes in the contest totaling 122 yards.

"I think last night UNI just had all clicking," said WTU offensive coordinator Dan Dadd. "The combination of Johnson, Shedd and their other receivers really hurt us."

The loss sent WTU into second place in the Gateway at 4-2 and 7-4 overall. Northern Iowa regained a 3-0, first place in the Gateway at 4-1 and moved to 9-1 overall.

Eastern Illinois tailback Edson Castillo rushed for 211 yards on 21 carries as the Panthers defeated Western Kentucky 28-7.

The senior ran for the sixth-best rushing total in school history at Charleston. He got the scoring underway in the first quarter with a 59-yard touchdown run as the Panthers built a 21-0 halftime lead.

The win ended the Panthers season with a mark of 5-6 and 2-4 in the Gateway. The Hilltoppers fell to 1-6.

Illinois State quarterback Donny Barnett threw for four touchdowns to lead the Redbirds to a 52-33, non-conference win over Southeast Missouri State in Cape Girardeau, Mo., Saturday.

Tybe Davis, I-AA's second leading rusher, scrambled for 135 yards and scored three touchdowns as ISU ended their season 5-6, 2-4 in the Gateway.

SEMO running back Kelvin Anderson, the third leading rusher in I-AAA, gained 180 yards on 20 carries for the Indians in a losing effort.
