SIU In Favor Of College Branch In East St. Louis

The SIU board of trustees went on record Tuesday in favor of efforts to establish a four-year college program for Southwestern Illinois, centered in the heavily-populated Madison-St. Clair County area.

The decision was made after representatives of the Southwestern Illinois Council for Higher Education explained at a meeting here that the two-county area may have as many as 18,000 college students by 1970.

A resolution passed by the SIU trustees said the board would "make accelerated provisions for higher education facilities in said area as quickly as funds become available."

Members of the Council, including educators, businessmen and lay persons who have worked closely with school district organizations and school boards, said they felt additional junior colleges or extension of present college offerings would not solve the problem. SIU officials agreed that a separate four-year college program appeared to be the best solution.

Dr. Robert Lynn, an Alton physician who is chairman of the bi-county group, added that increasing enrollment of privately-owned schools to maximum capacity "could not in any way take care of the increase we will see by 1970." He believed that "some kind of state-supported institution is needed."

Dr. Lynn said Southern's help was sought because "SIU seems to be interested in us as well as in all of Southern Illinois."

Stressing the concern felt in the area over lack of adequate facilities on the college level, Dr. Frank Everell, a Belleville minister and former college president, said "this is not a flash-in-the-pen affair. All of us feel a crying need for better educational facilities and this institution (Southern) is a natural for us."

Matt Welch, Collinsville attorney, added that the Southern Illinois area was becoming too populous for one university, but a branch of Southern on the Illinois side of the St. Louis metropolitan district would help distribute the educational burden.

John Page Wham, Centralia, chairman of the SIU board of trustees, pointed out that a statewide campaign for financial support for a branch of Southern in that area would have to be left in the hands of the Council and other interested persons living there. He said the determining factor in establishment of a branch university would be appropriations from the state legislature.

SIU President D. W. Morris said Southern expects to continue expanding its Residence Center program in East St. Louis and its extension and adult education course offering in the area during the period of development of a four-year program.

Eight members of the Council's 16-member advisory committee attended the session with the SIU trustees. In addition to Dr. Lynn, Dr. Everell and Welch, they were: Miss Bernice Goodie, East St. Louis; Truman Davis, Alton; Mr. Lester Klop, Bethalto; Robert Maucker, Alton; and George Moorman, St. Edwardsville.

Wanted: First Tenors For Singing Squadron

The Singing Squadron needs about 15 more first tenors, according to Kenneth McLaren, director. "Only about four or five guys for first tenor have been showing up at practice," McLaren said. "We have had eight practices so far this year."

Anyone enrolled in the AFRO TC program is eligible to participate in the Singing Squadron, according to McLaren.

"Anyone interested in joining should just come to our meetings," he said. "We meet on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 10 a. m. The meeting places are posted on the bulletin board in Wheeler Hall."

SIU Goes to the Dogs Two Pedigreed Salukis Presented to Southern

By Gary Heape

It is a good bet that the Southern building expansion program is giving top priority to the immediate construction of two new dog houses.

After two years without a "real live" mascot, SIU has been presented two pure-bred Salukis, one of the rarest breed of dogs in the Southern.

The dogs are a gift of W.W. Vandever, alumnus of the Middle Tennessee campaign, and were brought to America where the General headed the British Joint Staff Mission.

"Washington was hardly the place for two desert grebeheads so they were sold to Mrs. Ester Bliss Knapp of Pine Paddock Farm."

The new SIU mascots will be cared for by Dr. Robert Scott, chemistry professor at SIU.

Their ration will be, as suggested by former owner Knapp, a box of Ken-L-Bisket supplemented by beet or horseman, powdered buttermilk, and vitamins.

According to a note written by Mrs. Knapp about the habits of the two animals she states that both dogs have been known to chew at and through wooden gates or doors, so they should not be left to their own devices behind any sort of wooden enclosure, no part of the pedigree includes a relation to the termite family.

A letter-written by Prince Ali Kahn related that these dogs were "of the finest stock in the Syrian Desert."

"He was bred and hunted in the desert by the King of Saudi Arabia," according to a photostat copy of the history of Ornah's ancestors presented by Mrs. Esther Bliss Knapp, owner of Pine Paddock Kennels, Valley City, Ohio.

Close-Scheduled Homecoming Festivities Well Attended

Radio-TV Frat Sponsors New TV Series

An altogether new and different series of television shows will appear over Channel 22, WSLI-TV, in Harrisburg, starting in mid-November.

The half-hour shows will be devoted entirely to SIU and directed and produced by Southern students.

Sponsored by Sigma Beta Gamma, professional radio-TV fraternity on Southern's campus, the educational shows will be divided into two parts. Twenty minutes of the show time will be comprised of entertainment by Southern students, and the final 10 minutes will be devoted to specific departments of SIU.

This 10-minute interview portion will single out a different campus department for each show.

Anyone interested in trying out for the shows should contact Bill Turner or Phil Trammel in the radio-department immediately.

Cameramen, directors, floormen and talent openings must be filled for the first show.

A female vocalist is needed to sing with the ROTC Singing Squadron, for their appearance on the first show.

Plans for development of the new SIU series were discussed at the Sigma Beta Gamma meeting last Thursday, Oct. 18.

Also discussed at the meeting were plans for a future party, to be given on a pedagogic for incoming radio-TV freshmen.

Joe Gillis was elected social chairman at the meeting and is in charge of the party planning. Ron Danko, former social chairman for the organization, has dropped out of school.

Joint co-operation from WSLI-TV has been received by the SIU group, and time for the afternoon program may be 5 or 5:30 p. m.

Final Play Trouts Tonight

Long before the final curtain call had been taken for the Homecoming play, "Night Must Fall," preparation by the SIU speech department was being made toward the next Southern Players presentation, "Arms and the Man."

Final tryouts for the play under the direction of Dr. Sherwin Abrams, assistant professor of speech at SIU, will be held in the Southern Playhouse at 7:30 p. m. tonight.

"These tryouts will be more than just the ordinary reading type of trouts," said Director Abrams. "I don't want to say anything more about them, because I want all participants to enter the tryout session with an equal opportunity, with no chance for previous preparation."

Gray, Scott Here Thursday

An open forum will be conducted by Democratic Congressman Kenneth Gray, and his Republican opponent Samuel "Jack" Scott. The forum will be held Nov. 1, in Shryock Auditorium at 8 p. m.

Each candidate will discuss his proposal for representing Southern Illinois in Congress.

Gray, a former car dealer in West Frankfort, is seeking reelection on the Democratic ticket to a second term. When Gray was elected two years ago he was the youngest member in the House of Representatives. He was 31 years old.

Scott, an attorney from Metropolis, is making his first bid for elective office. Before being an attorney he was employed by the Federal Government.

The final climax to the 1956 Homecoming festivities was reached Saturday night when Johnny Long played before a capacity crowd at the Cinderella Ball in the Armory. Prior to the dance a concert was given by Jaye P. Morgan, the Hilltoppers, and the Buddy Moreno band.

Homecoming festivities started off with the annual Homecoming

Assembly in McAndrew Stadium, on Thursday morning. Thursday night 1,000 people saw Jane Curry crowned as the 1956 Homecoming Queen in Shryock Auditorium.

Members of the queen's court were: Pat Bruce, senior from Fairfield; Lois Kalla, senior from Chicago; Kay Sue Eadie, junior from Vandalia; and Dot Hamilton senior, from Galatia.

Attendants to the queen were: Pat Dey, Carbondale sophomore; and Pat Elder, Eldorado freshman.

On Friday night at a pep rally and bonfire Mr. and Mrs. Freshman were named. Pat Elder and Jerry Singleton were elected as Mr. and Miss Freshman at the assembly on Thursday. The freshmen also threw their green beanies into the bonfire.

The freshmen oath was given on the fresh man class by President Delyne W. Morris. A student snake-dance through the city brought the bonfire activities to a close.

Following the bonfire the Southern Players presented their Homecoming play, "Night Must Fall." It was the first play to be given by the group this year. A crowd of 1,000 saw the well-acted play.

Jerry VanDover, sophomore from Poplar Bluff, Mo., played the lead male role of "Danny." The female lead roles were played by Jan Davis, a junior from Rock Island. She played the part of Mrs. Bramson. Harriet Sax, a junior, played Olivia.

Following the play the Homecoming Queen reception was held in the Woody Lounge.

Saturday morning at 10 a.m., the Homecoming parade was held. This year the parade included 47 area high school bands, and 25 organizational floats.

During the half-time of the football game Saturday afternoon, which saw the Salukis go down to defeat 21-7, announcements of the winners of floats and house decorations were made.

In the house decorations Theta Xi won The Class A men's division with "Three Little Pigs" in class A Women's houses Tri Sigma won with "Sour Grapes."

In the floats Theta Xi also won a first with their float named "Gulliver's Travels." Delta Zeta's "King Midas" won first place in the women's float. Organization float was won by the Industrial Education Club's float entitled, "Mother Goose."

Presentation of the trophies was made in the Student Union after the game.

The Queen and her court were presented at the dance Saturday night by Tom Still. A Homecoming breakfast was held in the cafeteria from 11 p. m. to 1:30 a. m. The cafeteria was decorated in colonial minut and a wishing well. Clyde Reynolds was chairman of the Homecoming Steering Committee. He was assisted by Emil Spees, vice-chairman and Mervin Hearn was secretary.

Plans Announced for New College of Education Building

Plans for the construction of a new college of education building will be discussed by an education committee and Pres. Delyne W. Morris on Nov. 5.

The building, which will extend from the southwest wing of University school to a point near Johnson Hall, will contain classrooms, laboratories, and offices.

This information about the building was given by John E. Grinnell, dean of the college of education, in a speech entitled "The Future of the College of Education" at a meeting of the local chapter of the Future Teachers of America on Oct. 23.

In the business session of the meeting, plans were made for participation in the discussion session of the Illinois Association of Future Teachers of America meeting which will be held on campus on Nov. 23. The FTA will discuss ways to raise funds, and other FTA meeting, Nov. 6.

A letter from Rove R. Bryant, chairman of the AIAA finance committee, was read by Arthur Carie, president of the Local chapter of FTA. In the letter, Bryant said that he appreciated the FTA's work in selling tags at the Illinois Education Association meeting on Oct. 19.

The group sold tags with bricks printed on them. The money collected will be used in a National Education Association building fund.

Also in the business meeting, an announcement was made that the FTA will meet with Kappa Delta Psi, honorary education fraternity, on Nov. 20. Plans were made for working with the College of Education in observance of National Education Week.

FINE JOB

The Homecoming festivities are over, and again it comes time to hand out laurels for a job well done.

Homecoming chairman, Clyde Reynolds and his steering committee have already been congratulated on the fine product they presented to the students and alumni.

However, receiving no publicity or recognition are the multitude of people who worked behind the scenes taking care of the countless little tasks that added up to the success of the Homecoming.

Without this army of "nameless" people, the celebration could never have come off the way it did.

Also to be congratulated are the groups which sponsored floats and house decorations. Many more hours of labor went into these preparations. All the planning done by the committees could not make a Homecoming as effective as it is with the color added by these attractions. More plaudits are due the workers of the physical plant and the radio service who did the manual labor of preparing sites for many of the events.

Praise is also due the student workers who spent much of the Homecoming weekend working in the cafeteria, the photo service and other places.

The Egyptian staff also wishes to express gratitude to the printers and reporters who worked to late hours getting the oversize paper out.

The list of people who have earned the gratitude of the students of SIU is formidable, and it would be impossible to mention them all in such a short message.

So, to everybody who helped with any work that helped to make the 1957 celebration as big and successful as it was: Congratulations and thanks.

Applying for a Job?

Seminars Tell Students 'Dos' and 'Don'ts'

Deciding that you've got to get the job before you can get the job done, SIU's school of Business has begun a series of seminars on how to win interviews and influence interviewers.

In a group of informal sessions called "Your Job Opportunities and How to Use Them," SIU upperclassmen majoring in business and economics are shown what goals to go after and how to score when they get there. Also included in the meetings, which also include lectures on proper career selection, use of the school's Placement Service, management opportunities and preliminary correspondence, is a how-to-do-it skit on the job interview itself.

In the skit, Willmore B. Hastings, who held top level personnel sales and public relations positions in a dozen midwestern industries before joining the SIU faculty in 1955, plays the part of a graduate seeking permanent employment for the first time.

Ralph Bedwell, director of Southern Small Business Institute, "interviews" him twice: first as a clean and crew-cut go-getter who answers questions with crisp forthrightness; next as a Joe-elevator jockey who will obviously foul out on his first trip to the place.

Hastings and Henry J. Rehn, dean of the School of Business, say slushy conduct at interviews is blackballing many otherwise qualified job-candidates. Hastings presents them with an advance list of interview "dos" and "don'ts" designed to smooth the road to the personnel office.

Plenty of Openings

Agriculture Needs 15,000 Graduates Per Year

Looking for a field that isn't too crowded today by college graduates? If so, note some of the figures given by Albert Meyer in his "SIU Country Column."

Meyer collected these figures from a booklet, "Careers Ahead," issued a year or so ago by the Association of Land-Grant Colleges and Universities.

"Estimates are that agriculture needs 15,000 new college graduates each year, but only 8,500 agriculture students are graduating each year," said Meyer.

The idea brought out that 40 percent of the available jobs in this country are connected in some way with agriculture is another point to keep in mind.

The booklet quoted by Meyer told that 500 distinct occupations in eight major fields of agriculture.

The eight fields are: agricultural research, industry, business, education, communications, construction, and law.

Students Regain Interest in Rhymes
They had all taken off for Homecoming. Since the theme of Homecoming, entailed the decorating of houses and floats in the whimsical dress of the fable, individuals and committees rushed to the library by the score to check out books of fable to supplement their ideas.

"There are no statistics available on the exact number of books of fable that were checked out," said A. M. Cohn, Humanities Librarian, "but it was a sizable amount."

"We've loaned a book of Aesop Fables which we had previously stored in the special collections library," Cohn said.

The library staff was plagued by requests and questions concerning the Homecoming theme. A few students even inquired at the library's main office.

"At one time or another, throughout the week, probably every book on fable was checked out," Cohn said.

Probably not since childhood has the imagination of SIU students been peopled with so many goblins and faeries and heros and butlers as it has been during these weeks of Homecoming preparation.

Most of the student workers last year, under the supervision of Lysbeth Wallace, was the first year at weaving, with the exception of Mrs. Charibel McDaniel, who has been weaving for several years.

The four weavers from New York are engaged in weaving as a career. Ellen Siegel is a consultant to a textile firm in New York; Elena Cipola, Mary Allard design weaving commercially; and Ruth Robinson Warner, Nashville, Tenn., specializes in liturgical weaving — altar pieces and vestments for churches.

Those persons from Southern who are represented in the exhibit are: Donna Neve Richards, Carol Van Dam, Kay Group, Charibel McDaniel, and Miss Wallace.

A variety of materials were used in the specimens, including cotton, linen, rayon, wool, reeds and grasses.

They had all taken off for Homecoming. Since the theme of Homecoming, entailed the decorating of houses and floats in the whimsical dress of the fable, individuals and committees rushed to the library by the score to check out books of fable to supplement their ideas.

"There are no statistics available on the exact number of books of fable that were checked out," said A. M. Cohn, Humanities Librarian, "but it was a sizable amount."

"We've loaned a book of Aesop Fables which we had previously stored in the special collections library," Cohn said.

The library staff was plagued by requests and questions concerning the Homecoming theme. A few students even inquired at the library's main office.

"At one time or another, throughout the week, probably every book on fable was checked out," Cohn said.

Probably not since childhood has the imagination of SIU students been peopled with so many goblins and faeries and heros and butlers as it has been during these weeks of Homecoming preparation.

Most of the student workers last year, under the supervision of Lysbeth Wallace, was the first year at weaving, with the exception of Mrs. Charibel McDaniel, who has been weaving for several years.

The four weavers from New York are engaged in weaving as a career. Ellen Siegel is a consultant to a textile firm in New York; Elena Cipola, Mary Allard design weaving commercially; and Ruth Robinson Warner, Nashville, Tenn., specializes in liturgical weaving — altar pieces and vestments for churches.

EVEN if you are just starting college in the "Class of 1960," we suggest that you take a long look at where you are going. Know, don't guess, what is offered by fields like engineering and science, finance, marketing and relations. Too often young people discover late in their senior year that they can't qualify for the career of their choice. Why be caught short? Selecting a career and knowing what is expected will make it possible for you to prepare for it now. Many graduates will find their place with industry.

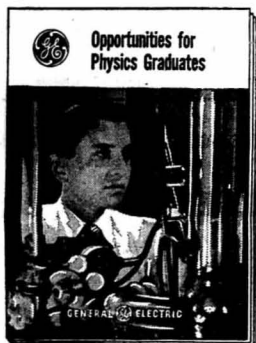

General Electric is typical of many large industrial concerns. We employ over 27,000 college graduates from nearly 700 different colleges and universities. And our future, as the future of any progressive company, hinges on these people. Young men and women that have initiative, analytical and creative ability will make progress with industry. If you are interested, write for information about one or more of the programs listed on this page. These are the principal doorways to success at General Electric. The booklets can also be found at most college placement bureaus in a binder entitled "Career Information."

Leathernecks Spoil Southern Homecoming With 21-7 Win

By Bill Epperheimer

The Western Illinois Leathernecks, taking advantage of a lag in Salukis pass defense to score one touchdown and intercepting a last-minute pass to score another, spoiled SIU's Homecoming Saturday, 21-7.

A crowd of over 10,000 fans was on hand to see the Salukis ahead their third homecoming line in a row.

Southern, with its first-stringers playing, but hampered by painful lime burns, twice drove deep into Western territory, but could not score.

The Salukis marched from their own 24-yard line early in the first quarter, only to be stopped on the Western two-yard line. Highlights of the march was a Dave Wheeler to Bob Barnes pass which covered 33 yards. Once at the two-yard stripe however, the Salukis were penalized five yards for illegal motion, and lost the ball when Carver Shannon was hit and fumbled.

With seven minutes, 30 seconds remaining in the second quarter, the Salukis drew first blood.

With a fourth and five situation and playing deep in their own territory, Western started to punt, but Timenok fumbled, and there was a pass which needed only two yards for Western.

Southern took over on the Western 17-yard line, and after Dave Miles and Cecil Hart were stopped, Hart went 12 yards through the line to the five-yard stripe.

From there, Hart balled his way five yards for the only Salukis touchdown. Shannon kicked the extra point to give Southern a 7-0 lead.

Bob McCue took the following kickoff on the Western 38. From there, the Leathernecks reeled off three consecutive first downs while marching to a touchdown.

With fourth down and eight yards to go for Western on the Southern 39, quarterback Ron Little fired a pass over the heads of two Salukis defenders to end Augie DeCenso for the touchdown. Paul Lashmet made his placement good and the score was tied, 7-7, with one minute, 37 seconds left in the first half.

In the third quarter, the Salukis drove to the Western five yard line, after Shannon and Rannette Lewis ripped off gains of 10, 11, and 12 yards. With fourth down and three yards to go for a first down on the Western five-yard line, Shannon hit the line, but was stopped, and a five-yard penalty was called on Southern for being offside.

What seemingly was the break

SHORT YARDAGE

Halfback Carver Shannon burst through the Western line, but is fenced in by two Leathernecks. Shannon was held to 57 yards Saturday, and failed to score a touchdown. He kicked one extra point.

Salukis Lead in Pro-Western Statistics

A complete rundown of total game statistics prior to the SIU-Western Illinois clash Saturday, gives the Salukis an edge over opponents in every department except one. Southern's opposition has gained 349 yards passing to 295 for Southern, but the Salukis lead in percentage of passes completed, 35.5 to 34.3.

In total yardage gained, Southern leads its opponents 1339 to 1158, but the biggest edge is in rushing. The Salukis have rushed for 1044 yards to their opponents' 809.

The complete statistics:

	SIU	OPP
Net gain rushing	1044	809
Passes attempted	51	70
Passes completed	18	24
Percentage completed	35.3	34.3
Yards gained	295	349
Net gain	1339	1158
First downs	54	50
Times punted	29	34

The complete statistics:

	SIU	W
Yards rushing	131	123
Passes completed	5	6
Yards passing	70	92
Net gain	201	215
First downs	11	9
Times fumbled	3	5
Average yards	21	30

Intramurals

By Joe Melesi

When referring to years, twenty is the score. When referring to points in football, 20 is the score. When referring to Thursday's intramural football games, three teams made 20 points.

Three teams made no points. Well, the scoring on this coincidental 20-point afternoon went like this:

The Clowns whipped the Last Resort, 20-0. The Embassy dumped Doyle Dorn, 20-0, and Sig Tau spanked Sig Pi, 20-0.

Clowns 20, Last Resort, 0. Richard Ramirez romped two past the end stripe to lead his Clowns teammates to a 20-0 blank over the Last Resort. On both occasions, Larry Sear's accurate pitching arm threw complete passes to Ramirez.

Paul Worth broke through the middle to score the other Clowns tally. Red Leisman picked up two one-pointers after Ramirez's TD's.

Embassy 20, Doyle Dorn 0. Larry Smith threw two complete passes and two Embassy football players scored two touchdowns to help zero Doyle Dorn.

Cleon West's second touchdown was the highlight run of the game.

West intercepted a Doyle pass on the Embassy's own 10-yard line

NERVOUS COACH

Southern Coach Al Kaval is a busy man at a football game, walking up and down the sidelines, shouting to no one in particular at times, gesticulating wildly, smoking cigarettes continuously, and generally showing concern.

Our photographer caught him Saturday in a variety of moods, as the Salukis lost to Western, 21-7.

Sports In Spurts

By Bill Epperheimer

When Southern's football team invades Washington University next Saturday, they will be seeking revenge for a homecoming defeat last year, and if they don't beat the Bears, it shouldn't be because of the lack of student backing.

Probably the largest student exodus in Southern's history will take place with the ROTC, the Greeks organizations, and the Southern Spirit Council recruiting students to attend the game.

The SIU Marching Band is scheduled to march at halftime, and the game is scheduled to be televised over KSD-TV in St. Louis.

The Salukis will have the backing in St. Louis.

Carver Shannon stood in second place in the race for national individual scoring honors among football players of small colleges before last weekend's games.

Statistics released by the NCAA service bureau showed Shannon with 66 points coming from 10 touchdowns and six extra points.

	Points
Charlie Sanders, West Texas State	66
Shannon	57
Hart	4
Restivo	2
Hamilton	1

The defeat by Western Saturday brought Southern's season record to 3-3. The Salukis now have a 2-2 conference record.

Performing at the half of Saturday's game was Southern's 100-piece marching band under the direction of Philip Olsson and Art Barnes while Jim LaMasia is the drum major.

The Salukis carried the ball 44 times Saturday, while Western carried it 51.
