Helen Wilson denounces news about Cody as ‘scandalizing’

By Tim Capps

Staff Writer

UNITED STATES - Helen Wilson said Sun-Times reports that Cody frequently went to bars are false. She said she recalled only three visits, and that she never visited her alone. Cody had been with her since 1961 and was originally to be eliminated in the Reagan administration's 1982 budget. According to Wilson, retired principal of Oak Park, Illinois, the Chicago Sun-Times' article was not based on facts. Cody was a Quaker and a pacifist, and she said she was not comfortable with the daily newspaper's treatment of the issue.

The US Attorney Dan K. Webb has refused to confirm or deny a grand jury investigation of Cody. He said he received allegations of mishandling of funds by Cody and that it is his job to check them.

Rail project wins funding from House

By Lin Griffin

Staff Writer

Funding for Carbondale's Railroad Relocation Project has cleared the House Ways and Means Committee. The Trans-Union appropriation bill, passed Thursday by the House, includes $1 million for railroad programs nationwide. The $1 million would be used to compensate for the relocation of railroad tracks and to provide funds for the project's construction.

Golden teacher makes students should make their tuition rise yearly

By Mike Anthony

Staff Writer

Shaw and other state university students can expect to pay 8 percent increases in tuition "almost immediately" beginning next year. State Sen. Kenneth Shaw, a member of the Student Senate and a former chairman of the Organization executive staff, said, "I agree with the Board of Trustees' recommendation to incorporate a $12,000 housing allowance into Chancellor Shaw's total salary. However, large increases are needed to offset inflation and an expected decline in enrollment at state universities in the next 20 years."

Gus says maybe students should make their tuition rise yearly instead of the board's office.
Strain over budget reductions showing among Republicans

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress is moving into a new round of budget cutting with signs of strain showing between President Reagan and congressional Republicans who have backed his economic programs solidly.

The White House announced Saturday that Reagan will trim $13 billion from the defense budget over the next three years to $2 billion in 1983, $1 billion in 1984 and $6 billion in 1985.

Reagan, White House aides and top Republicans in Congress repeatedly said last week that the administration's new list of non-defense cuts - expected to be unveiled this week - would not include "entitlement" programs such as Social Security and other retirement plans.

But that is precisely the group of programs that some Republicans feel must be cut.

Iranian loyalists kill two guerrillas

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Armed bands loyal to Iran's Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini stormed leftist guerrilla hideouts in three cities, killing two "pro-Americans" in the fight, Iran's media said Sunday.

The government also set Oct. 2 for its third presidential election in the 21/2 years since Khomeini's forces toppled the late shah, Tehran Radio reported.

Newspaper executives of opponents blamed for assassinating the original inner circle of the Islamic leadership.

"They killed one post-shah president, Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, whose ouster three months ago ignited the assassination campaign by the underground opposition," was quoted Sunday saying the executions have "dramatically improved the image of Khomeini's revolution" and that he had tried to stop President Khomeini's forces.

Tehran Radio said 12 hours of gunfighting raged in the Caspian Sea city of Ramsar after Khomeini loyalists ambushed a guerrilla headquarters, killing two and capturing eight of the below the consumer price index.

A percent gap would save an estimated $1 billion over three years. But the White House and many other Republicans in Congress are worried that it might also prove disastrous for the GOP in the 1982 congressional elections.

Yet when further cuts of entitlement programs came up at a meeting, Reagan had last week with Senate Majority leader Howard Baker and House GOP's leader Bob Michel, the president is reported to have expressed opposition emphatically.

Reagan is expected to deliver his call for new non-defense cuts Tuesday. Domenici favors holding cost reductions. For 1982, Reagan had last favored $65 billion in defense and $5 billion in social programs for 1982. But Reagan is expected to deliver his call for new non-defense cuts Tuesday. Domenici favors holding cost reductions.

The broadcast reported three Mujahedeen leaders were arrested in the southern city of Resaren and that in Kermanshah in southwestern Iran, three others were arrested and one killed.

The assaults by pro-Khomeini forces were apparently in response to Friday's grenade attack on Khomeini's personal representative Sayyed Taj Bibi, Ayatollah Asadollah Madani.

City vs. Murdale — water fight starts slowly, no end in sight

By Bob Rodenurat
Staff Writer

The legal battle between Murdale Water District and the City of Carbondale is proceeding slowly, and it may be a long time before any conclusion is reached. A temporary injunction against the city of Carbondale will not be filed in Jackson County Circuit Court as long as Carbondale does not hook up any more Murdale customers to city water, William Ridgeway, Murdale Water District attorney, said.

Carbondale has not hooked up any Murdale customers since Styrust Nursing Home began using city water about two weeks ago. Styrust was one of Murdale’s largest consumers of water, Ridgeway said.

Styrust and 26 other buildings on Tower Road were contacted by the city during the summer after negotiations with Murdale to purchase water district property stopped in May. Plans for the city to acquire the property within city limits fell through due to a price disagreement.

The city offered the buildings free hook-up to Carbondale water if they would change their water service from Murdale to Carbondale. This offer was made in an effort to bring the dispute between the two sides to the courts. Jack Foster, director of water and sewer treatment for Carbondale, said Murdale has complained that Carbondale doesn’t have the right to hook up water district customers to city water without compensating the water district.

Carbondale attorney John Wodnick has not filed a motion or an answer to the complaint, filed a week ago by Ridgeway. It is the next step in the proceedings.

Ridgeway refused to speculate on how long the proceedings would take “It’s hurry up and wait,” he said.

A proposal for partial funding of Carbondale Cleanup Day II will be discussed by the City Council, which is meeting for the first time in three weeks, at 7 p.m. Monday in the Carbondale Community Center at 907 E. College.

A request for $2,006 in city funds has been submitted by the Undergraduate Student Council. The city’s financial commitment totaled $3,900, while $1,847 worth of staff time was contributed.

The council also will act formally on the preliminary design report for the proposed downtown parking garage, which was discussed at the last meeting Aug. 24.

The job service office in the Eumra Hayes Center has asked the city council for free space due to funding cuts by the state Bureau of Employment Office.

Book co-op is good idea if students make it work

The Undergraduate Student Organization has announced that it will sponsor a book co-op in the near future. The co-op will operate like this: A student with a book to sell will drop it off at all residence centers, the site of the operation. The student will set the price of the book. He or she should be able to set a fair price for the book with the help of the bookstore's wholesaler blue book. Another student may buy the text when the co-op is open and pick it up at the start of the term.

And the prices should be cleaner at the co-op. There will only be a 10 percent operating expense to be taken out of the student's sales price. This will hopefully lead to a smaller and more realistic markup than the profit-making institutions have.

If the co-op is a success, the student will sell his or her book dropping it off to a book co-op at the end of the semester, and all books will be sold at a price conducive to monetary transactions, and we all know how long that can take.

The students selling the books will get 75 percent of the price of the book. Of course, the co-op may fail if the students sell their books to the University bookstore, for example, the University bookstore will probably pay less money for the book. They will probably get a better price for the books from the co-op, but many can't wait the longer time for the cash.

Another minor problem with the book co-op is that the co-op will open for the fall term. Anybody wanting to beat the inevitable long lines that the local bookstore always have the first week of school won't find an alternative at the co-op.

But the co-op is a sound principle and in planning. The University Bookstore is also planning to sell a fair price for the book with the help of the bookstore's wholesaler blue book. Another student may buy the text when the co-op is open and pick it up at the start of the term.

The problem with the proposed new rules is at bottom the problem with the present rules. The rules are fundamentally flawed by a fundamental flaw. The objective of an affirmative action program, says the Supreme Court, is to employ minorities and women on equal employment opportunity. But the two are mutually exclusive. There is no way under moon or sun that these opposing purposes can be reconciled.

One might as logically say that the objective of peace is war, or the objective of sin is virtue. The whole idea of affirmative action is to give favorable treatment to certain people—blacks, women, or Hispanics. They are to be especially favored or hired in place of equally qualified whites, not necessarily whites and males. Thus the principle of equal opportunity is open to question. The rule of affirmative action is Orwell's rule at the Animal Farm: All the animals are equal, but some are more equal than others.

THE PROPOSED NEW RULES
The Supreme Court has propounded affirmative action rules. The new rules require the government to establish a quota of minority candidates to be hired by an employer because of race, sex, or national origin. The new rules have been in the works for several years, and they were set forth in a 1978 Supreme Court decision.

For the moment, let's look at the old ones. The Supreme Court has propounded affirmative action rules. The new rules require the government to establish a quota of minority candidates to be hired by an employer because of race, sex, or national origin.

Students pretend to have talent

By Vicki Olgensey
Staff Writer

SIU-C students got a chance to pretend to be talented during the All American Air Band Revue at the E Night festivities Friday. The whole idea was to be off the wall, said Jim McLaughlin, chairman of the SPC Video Production Committee. "I could see the contestants sitting in front of the mirror practicing."

The air band contestants showed the standing room only crowd just how crazy and imaginative they could be. They 'played' air instruments in sync with their favorite records and most were in costume.

Rick Binder and the Gauze Heads played and energetically danced across the stage to the music of the Deadboys. "The Gauze Heads will take over the 80's once we get the image."

A Staff Writer

The members of the Dead Zeppelin said in fabricated English accents that they performed only because they were drunk enough. One of the members of the Mirrors said they wanted to have a little bit of fun, become a part of it and not just watch.

Michael Hodock, a solo performer, said he wanted to let something go and admit, "I'm a little bit shy," he said. "I'm forcing myself to do this and believe me, I'm scared."

Heads played and energetically video recorded the show for another chance to play again. The committee may use the tape again and select winners based on costume, craziness and ability to keep to the music, McLaughlin said.

Anyone who missed the show can see the program on the television by the Student Center elevator this week.

Belt-tightening cuts flights of SIU officials

By Tim Cappa
Staff Writer

Economy measures have grounded at least some SIU-C officials who used to fly to Board of Trustees meetings at Edwardsville in a University-owned plane.

John Baker, special assistant to SIU-C president Albert Somit, said he suggested at a presidential staff meeting three weeks ago that the University no longer use its DC-3 airplane to fly administrators to the meetings.

"It was costing the University $100 per meeting," Baker said. "That was just more than we could afford in these times of tight budgets."

From now on, most administrators will have to drive to the board meetings in University vehicles. Baker said this was to be a permanent measure.

The new policy did not, however, affect everyone's wings. President Somit, Vice President for Campus Services Clarence Deeds and Vice President for Administration Rick Binder were all flown to Edwardsville the day before Thursday's board meeting in a smaller plane, to attend a meeting of the board's architectural committee.

News to be in little bits on WSIU-TV format

By Darla Watkins
Student Writer

Viewers tuning into WSIU-TV after Sept. 28 will see some changes in the programming of the student-run news programs. "The Morning Report," which is broadcast from 5 to 5:30 p.m. will end on that date, according to Ed Brown, former student news director of WSIU.

"Update Eight" will replace it, according to station manager Al Pizatto. The news updates will air last from one to two minutes. They will be broadcast hourly from 5 to 5:30 p.m. until sign-off.

"We will really believe this is a positive change," he said.

The decision to make the changes was mostly Ed Brown's work, Pizatto said. He added that he had wanted to make the changes "for quite some time."

After conducting a limited survey in the Carbondale and Murphysboro area, Pizatto said, it seemed better to position the news between shows that draw an audience. The news updates will air between popular shows such as M*A*S*H, "The Partridge Family," and National Geographic specials.

People will be getting less news on WSIU-TV. Pizatto said, but it will be presented throughout the entire evening, not in a final news report at 5 p.m.

No negative reactions to the changes have come from the students, according to both Brown and Pizatto.

"It's an increase in the number of students involved in TV news," Brown said.

Thirty-two students will be involved when the changes are completed, whereas 30 students were involved previously, Brown said.

"I don't see any problem with it at all," Brown said, speaking of the transition from the "Morning Report" to "Update Eight."

"We got the Morning Report back," said Les Hargan, WSIU student news director. "That's a real good cast."

The Morning Report's advantage is that it requires students to write the news fresh, not re-write the same news throughout the day, said Hargan, 20, a radio-television major.

The updates will improve the students' writing, Hargan said, because it will require them to write brief, concise accounts of the news to fit six to eight stories into one or two minutes.

Another advantage to the updates, Hargan said, is that students will be "wired in" and take direction from the director while they are reading the news.

It will be good experience, Hargan said, because many commercial stations now use news updates and it might help students land a job when they graduate.

"I think we'll have a real good audience," Hargan said.

The final update at sign-off will be five minutes, which is more time than the students have had during any of the other newscasts, Hargan pointed out.

Another advantage to "Update Eight" is, according to Hargan, is that students are "wired in" and can go to the directors and "get the question out of the way."

"It will be good experience," Hargan said.

Another advantage to "Update Eight" is that it is being presented at five minutes, which is what most commercial stations currently use.

"It will be getting less students involved," Hargan said, "but it will be getting more students involved in TV."

Jackson County tax hike approved

By Liz Griffin

Property owners in Jackson County whose homes are assessed at $30,000 or more may pay about $45.77 more next year in local property taxes due to increases in some county levies. But the largest increases for the fiscal year 1980 will be for parking. The Jackson County Board. The increase in the county levy for the parking division will be $140,000, up from $26,000. The increase is designed to cover the cost of implementing a parking management plan. The plan includes the installation of parking meters and the staffing of a parking management department. The department will be responsible for the enforcement of parking regulations and the collection of parking fees. The increase in the parking levy is necessary to fund the implementation of the parking management plan. The plan is expected to improve the efficiency of the parking system and to reduce the amount of parking violations. The parking management plan is expected to be implemented within the next six months. The increase in the parking levy is a necessary step in the implementation of the parking management plan. The increase is expected to be funded by the property owners in Jackson County. The increase is expected to be reflected in their property tax bills for the fiscal year 1980.
New faculty meeting Thursday

Two orientation day programs for new faculty members are scheduled at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. Thursday at SIU-C in the Faner Hall museum auditorium.

After remarks from Albert Mining director to speak Tuesday

The man who’s calling the shots on surface mining policy for the Reagan administration will talk about what those calls are going to be at 6:15 p.m. Tuesday, at the Mount Vernon Holiday Inn.

James R. (Dick) Harris, former Indiana state senator from Evansville and the new director of the federal Interior Department’s Office of Surface Mining, will discuss federal regulation of surface mining under Reagan.

Harris is speaking to participants in the 1981 Midwest Reclamation Tour and Review, which is sponsored by the SIUC Coal Extraction and Utilization Research Center and the Illinois Mining and Reclamation Resources Research Institute.

The program is designed to give university, industry and government people a look at the technical side of mined-land reclamation.

Hunt, fish holiday to be celebrated at wildlife refuge

Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge will celebrate National Hunting and Fishing Day with a variety of free demonstrations and exhibits at Hagan’s Point on Saturday, Sept. 14.

Signs giving directions will be posted along New Route 13. The point is one-eighth mile south on the Spillway Road from Epp’s Motel, Inc.

Items scheduled during the day-long event include conservation displays, air gun silhouette shoots, casting contests, retriever demonstrations, skeet shooting and black powder demonstrations.

The date is the 10th annual marking of National Hunting and Fishing Day at the park.

Southernfest seeks campus groups

Planning continues for the annual Activities Fair Oct. 16, although Diane L. Johnson, chairman of the Student Orientation Committee and fair coordinator says she'd like to see more campus groups involved in the planning stage.

Some 36 student groups were represented at a meeting last week, but Johnson said, "I was very disappointed with the turnout at the meeting. Each of the 156 recognized student organizations on this campus was not represented." The theme of the fair this year is Southernfest.

---Monday's Puzzle---

Plates call for groups to set up tables and displays in the grassy area north of the Student Center and the Free Forum Area. Because of the organizing committee's limited funds, the entertainment plans are not final. Johnson added Most of the groups attending the first meeting were sports organizations, communications groups, medical clubs and Greek organizations, she said. "I thought more groups would want to get involved. This fair is going to be fun," she said.

Reborn hopes golfers are up to par

By Steve Metzch
Staff Writer

If the men’s golf team wants any shot at this year’s tournaments, it will have to avoid mistakes. According to Coach Jim Reborn, "It’s not easy. It’s hard to come back if you have a bad hole, because you have just one day to play." Reborn said. "On the other hand, if you get a break, a good round, he doesn’t have to worry about how he’ll shoot the next day."

The Salukis will play in the University of Evansville tournament at Oak Meadow Golf Course in Evansville, Indiana State University-Evansville, St. Bernard College, Kentucky Wesleyan. SIU-Edwardsville, the University of Louisville and the Great Britain All-Collegiate team will all be competing. The Salukis are for first place. The Salukis tee off at 11:45 a.m.

Reborn said the teams to watch for are Louisville and SIU-E which finished in the top ten of Division II of the NCAA last year.

The Great Britain All-Collegiate team consists of eight of the top college players in the British Isles. One of the members was this year's Walker Cup team and another played on the Scottish National team. The team is on a golfing grid.

overcome mistakes to contend for the conference title, the Salukis have to overcome something else, too—-injuries. Offensive guard Chester Cropp and linebacker Granville Butler each injured a knee in the WSU game.

"Both are doubtful for next week,” Reborn said. "But they hope those aren’t the types of injuries that require surgery. An orthopedic surgeon will check Cropp’s knee Monday.”

"As far as the mistakes, both Johnson and Dempsey think the Salukis can overcome them.

"It’s tough to bounce back after you lose like this,” Dempsey said. "But the attitudes here are good. They’ll be back. Our team is prepared for things like this.”

"I don’t think it will be tough to bounce back,” Johnson said. "I think our team’s better than the one that beat us today, and they’re supposed to finish second in the conference. Our receivers showed they can bounce back. They had a great second half."

Tour of America, playing five tournaments this month, it played West Point last week and will be playing in the Brigham Young University tournament this weekend.

Reborn said the teams to watch for are SIU-E, which finished in the top ten in Division II of the NCAA last year.

Freshman Mark Young will lead off for the Salukis. He will be followed by junior Robbie Hammond, sophomores John Schaefer and Tom Jones, and freshmen Glen Carpenter and Randy Harris.

"It’s really doesn’t make much difference whether you start from the No. 1 or No. 6 position. It’s sort of like being the top seed in tennis. Ideally, the golfer ranked No. 1 shoots the best score, but it doesn’t always turn out that way," Reborn said.

The team has been practicing at the par-71 Jackson Country Club. Mark Young won the No. 1 position by averaging 72.3 in practice rounds. Young’s average would have been even lower, but he tallied a 75 Wednesday.

During the tournament, Reborn will follow his team around the course and offer tips and correct any mistakes they may commit.

Reborn said it’s hard to predict how the team will shoot, because weather is a big factor. Cold or wet weather could adversely affect a player’s score. However, no one will be dropped from the starting rotation because of one bad round, Reborn said.

"But when this week is over, we have to get out of this bad hole and move up to par.“
Women golfers take 4th at Normal
By Doug Applebaug
Staff Writer
After playing 38 holes at the two-day Illinois State Interdivisional, the Saluki women's golf team took a sudden-death play-off Saturday to finish fourth.

The Salukis shot a team score of 956, tying them for third with the Chicago Bulls, who called "a vastly improved" Illinois State team. In the play-off the Salukis beat the Bulls and shot a pair of par fours, while Illinois State's par only once and shot three pars.

"It was disappointing to lose the play-off," said McGarr, "but overall we showed what we thought we would. We are balanced as a team. Our top four individual scores finished second," admitted McGarr. "We had perfect weather Friday afternoon, but we were just pooped out, and the final round was just too much. We added too many strokes near the end."

"We fell behind and not ready to do a lot of catching up to finish where we did," said a disappointed McGarr. "The second day we played very well because we were rested. We were a little edgy at the first day."

McGarr said the course at Normal is large and hilly, which, along with the seemingly omnipresent wind at central Illinois, made it tiring for the golfers after playing for several hours on Friday.

Warren won two of her three singles matches. Warren's only loss was to Louisville's Debbie Girey in straight sets of 7-5 and 6-2.

The Salukis' No. 1 doubles team of Amanda Allen and Heidi Eastman won the first match to Wheaton, but came back to lose to the Cardinals against Louisville and St. Louis.

The win improved the Salukis' record to 5-1 and McGarr isn't going to let the team slack off.

"We're going to have practice as usual on Monday and we're going to work on the areas that we've had trouble with," said McGarr. "We have to remember that we have to keep working hard if we are going to keep winning."

Harrier teams lose weekend meets

Despite Mike Keane's first-place finish, the Saluki men's cross country team was beaten by Illinois State at Champaign Friday.

Keane, who ran the 5-mile course in 26:29, was the only Saluki to finish within the top five. Captain Karsten Schultz placed 26th with a 25:58 time.

Saluki Mike Coffin, Tom Brennan, Bill Moran, Gary Mannon and Bill Lasser finished 1-4-7 through 14th spots.

On Saturday, the women's cross country finished second in the three-team Southern Invitational at Cape Girardeau.

On Saturday, the Salukis dumped Illinois State for the second time this season, winning 15-11, 15-9, 15-12. SIU-C then faced Illinois for the second time in three days but needed only two games to dispatch the Illini the second time, winning 15-13, 15-5.

Northwesterns put a damper on an otherwise bright weekend, beating SIU-C 15-10, 15-4 in the semifinals. The No. 11 ranked Wildcats went on to capture the tournament. Hunter said the semifinal match was a case of Northwestern being more prepared than the Salukis.

"They're just a little farther along than us," Hunter said. "They have had five or six matches, and we didn't play until Saturday against DePaul."

The 6-1 Salukis will play Nashville Saturday night at the Arena and begin its own Southern Classic tournament at the Arena Friday and Saturday. The highlight of that tournament will be a match pitting the Salukis against the Korean junior national team.

Salukis’ mistakes help Wichita State gain 13-7 victory

Both teams made mistakes in Saturday’s Wichita State-SIU-C game. The Salukis made more and last longer.

The biggest SIU-C mistake was tailback Walter Poole’s fumble, which the Wildcats recovered in the second quarter to score the first touchdown of the game. The fumble came inside the WSU 1-yard line and ended the second near-scoring drive of the day to be ruined by a Saluki fumble.

The fumble soured Poole’s 118-yard, 1-carry rushing performance.

“The last mistake was the big one,” SIU-C Coach Roy Dempsey said. “I thought we were going to win the game. You just can’t let a team off the hook like we did.

The Salukis had taken the ball from their 33 to the WSU 1 in eight plays and were driving toward the goal line. Two of the plays were incomplete passes, something the Salukis did a lot of.

“We had a lot of dropped passes, and they weren’t the finger-tip kind,” Dempsey said. “They should have been caught.

Saluki quarterback Rick Johnson completed 17 of 22 pass attempts. Three of the attempts came down in the end zone and were dropped by Saluki receivers Flanker Javell Heggs, back five Joe Williams and in the Tony Adams the other.

“I really don’t know anything about that,” Johnson said. “Every play is good to look at after the game. We should have won. We had the better team. We controlled the ball most of the first half.

The Salukies had 24 first downs and 397 total offensive yards. WSU had 26 first downs and 424 total yards.

There was too much yardage in this game for a 13-7 score. WSU Coach Jeff Leff said “The only time anything was fumbled was at the end of long drives, near the goal line.

Fouled-out pitchouts ruined a drive for each team near the goal line.

Behind 13-7, the Salukis had the ball in the first quarter of the third quarter. Johnson pitched the ball to Poole, but Poole was gone and WSU defensive back Steve Hendricks covered the ball.

“There was a mix-up there between Poole and Watts,” Johnson said. “He cut it farther than I expected.

WSU missed the ball all the way down to the Saluki 1, where quarterback John Dempsey was tackled back by a pitch. Saluki back four-bedroom Terry Taylor recovered “That was my fault. What can I say?” Dempsey said. “I threw the ball behind the runner. We’re going to have to cut out the mistakes to make a contender.”

So are the Salukis, and McJunkins thinks they can.

“They’re a contender,” he said. “Their defense was good, overall they’re good. The team just hasn’t had any breaks the first two games.”

The Saluki first chance to score came in the first period and wasn’t delivered. The Salukies had a 32-yard field goal attempt.

The only time WSU’s special teams came with time running out in the first half. The Salukies had a second down on the Shocker 10 but were moved back five yards for a delay. According to Johnson, he said mistakenly ordered the field goal unit onto the field, causing the penalty.

The teams squared scores before half. WSU put together a 9-yard second-half drive, which McJunkins ended by sneaking a 4-yard tackle. Touchdown sneak wasn’t McJunkins’ most valuable contribution. His pass coverage moved the offense. He completed 13 of 15 attempts for 296 yards.

The Saluki tied the game on their first drive of the second half. Foulled-out pitch to Johnson’s pitch for a four-yard score and Watts kicked the extra point.

The Wildcats scored on their second drive of the second half. Foulled-out pitch to Johnson’s pitch for a four-yard score and Watts kicked the extra point.

The Salukies were successful on a fake. Kickoff Adrian Shippen ran in a 1-yard touchdown. A low snap made it impossible for kicker Doug Schroeder to kick the extra point.

Tennis team sweeps 3 matches

The women’s tennis team displayed mental toughness and won the big points as Coach Judy Ald had hoped, and the Salukis swept all three of its matches over the weekend.

The team took defeat Wheaton College 6-3 Friday, and dumped the University of Louisville 9-0, and humiliated St. Louis University 9-0 Saturday.

The win over Wheaton was one of the keys to SIU-C’s weekend sweep, according to Ald.

“Wheaton helped us warm up for the Louisville match,” Ald said. “We had to play tough to beat them, and I think the momentum from the win carried over into the Louisville match.

Another key factor, according to Ald, was her team’s ability to come from behind and not get down on themselves.

The win over Louisville revenged last season’s embarrassment, 7-2 loss. In the final match against St. Louis University, Ald pulled most of the starters to let the freshmen and reserves play. According to Ald, the 6-3 win showed the team’s depth.

“I’ve got some people who can really fill in, in case of injury,” Ald said. “Our depth also came through in the Louisville win.

The Salukis’ depth was reinforced this weekend with the return of freshman standout Alexandra Molnari who has recovered from a sprained ankle which threatened to keep her out of the match earlier in the week.

Molnari defeated Wheaton’s Lisa Barber in straight sets of 6-3 and 6-1. She then defeated Louisville’s Kate Ramser in three sets by scores of 5-7, 6-3 and 6-0.

The Saluki volleyball team rallied five more wins before losing its first match of the season to Southern Illinois in the semifinals of the DePaul Invitational.

SIU-C started the weekend early with a five game come-from-behind victory over Illinois Thursday night in Champaign. The Salukis lost the first two games, but recovered to win 9-15, 9-15, 15-15, 15-14, in a match which lasted 2 hours, 12 minutes.

Coach Debbie Hunter said sophomore Erin Sartain was a key contributor in the third game, as she replaced Mary Maxwell, who was sidelined with a twisted knee.

“Erin did very well at the outside hitting position,” Hunter said. “Erin had a strong weekend.”
