City to press R-1 zone rule

By Toby Eckert
Staff Writer

Despite the outcry sparked by the city's decision to more aggressively enforce its R-1 single-family residential zoning ordinance, few citations have been issued for violation of the ordinance, city records show.

But that may soon change as the city's rental housing inspection program turns its attention toward areas of the city zoned R-1.

City records show that in the past 10 months, only four people have been cited for violating the R-1 ordinance, which makes it unlawful for more than two unrelated tenants to occupy a home in an R-1 district. The four people cited all lived at 1200 W. Carter St., in an area of the city zoned R-1, the records show. Two of those cited had violated the ordinance previously, according to the records.

An ordinance approved by the City Council in November 1985 states that when all residents of a dwelling have different last names, the city will presume them unrelated unless the residents can prove otherwise. Previously, the burden of proof was on the city.

The ordinance defines a family as "one or more persons each related to each other by blood, marriage or adoption and maintaining a common household."

City Attorney Patricia McMeen said the city does not have the authority to evict tenants violating the R-1 ordinance. The most the city can do is issue a citation to the violators. The city judge then has the authority to fine the violators from $10 to $500, she said.

Undergraduate Student Organization President Phil Lyons said he doesn't know of any students who have been cited for violating the ordinance. At the time the ordinance was passed, it was condemned by many as an attack on students. Some student leaders claimed the ordinance was designed to segregate students and city residents.

Lyons said city officials had assured him that only "blatant violations" of the ordinance will be prosecuted.

City Code Enforcement Director Morris McDaniel said the city's rental housing in-

City seeks Halloween rugby ban

By Toby Eckert
Staff Writer

The City Council is expected to take steps Monday to improve safety at this year's Halloween street festival, including one that may disrupt the plans of SIU rugby players.

In a memo presented to City Council members last week, City Manager Bill Dixon made several recommendations aimed at improving safety at the festival. The memo, dated Sept. 4, proposes that a can ban not be implemented at this year's festival and that several other steps be taken to curb crowd violence, including a proposal that SIU officials be asked to do everything in their power to prevent the annual All Ghouls Rugby Tournament from taking place Halloween weekend.

Rugby Club President David Graham asked Dixon last week to drop the proposal, claiming it was too late to cancel the tournament. He asked that the city instead consider placing the tournament on "probation" this year.

But Dixon refused to compromise, claiming that several sources had informed him that rugby players were involved in can throwing at last year's festival. Dixon did not name the sources.

The other recommendations made by Dixon include:

Asking local liquor dealers and the Halloween Core Committee to implement their offer to plan and fund a massive publicity campaign informing parties of "the dangers and consequences of throwing beer cans."

Asking the Core Committee to continue its campaign to encourage SIU, the Carbondale Convention and Tourism Bureau and other groups to promote safety at the festival.

Viewing 1986 as a "probationary year" for cans at the festival and that the matter be reviewed by the City Council later this year.

Allowing existing restaurants on South Illinois Avenue to operate outdoor food and soda booths on their own property.

Considering the playing of amplified, pre-recorded music by local radio disk jockeys as a diversion for crowds on the Strip.

USO urges more Halloween first aid

By Bill Ruminski
Staff Writer

Last year 62 people were taken to Carbondale Memorial Hospital for Halloween-related injuries. This year the Undergraduate Student Organization has asked that first aid help be closer to the festival.

Drayton Roose, USO student welfare commissioner, has asked the Carbondale City Council to consider erecting three first aid stations during the Halloween celebration — two along South Illinois Avenue and one along Grand Avenue.

"We want to promote safety at Halloween," Roose said. "But for those people who get hurt, we have to say 'We're here, we'll help.'"

Volunteers from the Jackson County chapter of the American Red Cross have supplied treatment for minor injuries during the 1984 and 1985 festivals.

Roose has asked local businesses to donate supplies for the stations in case costs make the additional stations unobtainable.

"Additional stations would reduce the amount of emergency traffic at the hospital, allowing doctors to treat major injuries more carefully," he said.

The USO resolution asks that each station be staffed with one emergency medical technician, one police officer and three volunteers trained in advanced first aid.

His written proposal states that until last year there were no first aid facilities accessible for people attending the celebration.

Jim Prowell, director of the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce, said, "The gentleman's proposal was accepted with great interest. The problem is that the Halloween Core Committee is having to work off of an old proposal that says we haven't had first aid stations before. That just isn't so."

"The City Council seemed very interested in the proposal, and the core committee is very much behind the idea of additional first aid stations," Prowell said.

"There is definitely a need for a station on Grand Avenue. However, I don't know exactly how many we need."

Prowell said the first aid station located on First National Bank and Trust's parking lot has been adequate in the past.

Bill Dixon, Carbondale city manager, said the proposal is likely to be discussed by the City Council, which meets Monday.

"The focus of the discussion will deal with whether the stations can be set up," he said. "Costs, if there are any, will be secondary to their decision."

In the past, Carbondale has not paid to have first aid booths set up.

Greece quake leaves 17 dead, 300 injured

KALAMATA, Greece (UPI) — Rescuers clawing through debris with their hands and clearing collapsed buildings with bulldozers Sunday freed 31 people buried alive in an earthquake that rocked southern Greece, killing at least 17 people and injuring 300 others.

Officials feared scores of people were still trapped beneath the tons of rubble in Kalamata, a city of 80,000 about 100 miles southwest of Athens, and held out hope that rescue workers could pull them out alive.

The earthquake wracked the port and resort community near ancient Sparta at 8:27 p.m. Saturday, plunging the city into darkness, toppling buildings and triggering landslides.

Seismologists said the quake measured 6.2 on the Richter scale and was followed by 15 aftershocks. It was centered in the Ionian Sea to the southwest.

"It was as if the city had been bombed," said resident Kostas Vassiliou, of the devastation.

Vassiliou said he was driving downtown when he "felt a rumbling and was shaken." He said he then saw "crowds of people rushing out of their homes, taverns and cinemas in a panic."

Housing, Planning and Environment Minister Evangelos Kouloumbis told United Press International 24 hours after the first shock that at least 17 people were killed, 31 pulled out of the wreckage alive and 82 of the injured were in serious condition. He said 12 people were reported missing and believed dead.

Petropoulakis said rescue workers were continuing at a "fervent pace."

Government cracks down on restive black campuses

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — The government Sunday pressed its crackdown on campus protest against apartheid, ordering 13 schools, including 10 in the black township of Soweto, to close for the school year. Education director Braam Fourie said the segregated schools were closed because "poor attendances and continued disruption made effective education impossible."

Aquino prepares for visit to United States

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Communist rebels, on the eve of President Corason Aquino's trip to the United States, issued tough terms Sunday in exchange for a cease-fire and accused Washington of trying to scuttle the peace talks. Aquino, hoping to convert the popularity of her government into U.S. support for her economic recovery program, leaves at 3 p.m. Monday on an eight-day visit that includes stops in Washington, New York, Boston and San Francisco.

Bomb hidden in flowers explodes, kills officer

PARIS (UPI) — A bomb hidden in a bouquet of flowers in a crowded restaurant exploded Sunday after it was carried to an underground garage, killing a police officer and seriously injuring two other people, police said. The fourth terrorist incident in Paris in 10 days occurred at 5:30 p.m. on the tourist-packed Avenue des Champs-Elysees; less than an hour before Prime Minister Jacques Chirac announced strict new measures to control the number of foreigners, particularly Arabs, entering the country.

Reagan, wife urge commitment against drugs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President and Mrs. Reagan, declaring drug pushers "are killing America and terrorizing it," exhorted the nation in a prime-time living room-to-living room TV address Sunday to join an all-out war on drug abuse. "We Americans have never been morally neutral against any form of tyranny," Reagan said in remarks prepared for the 8 p.m. EDT nationally televised speech.

'Minor but critical problems' cancel test flight

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — The final test flight of the experimental plane Voyager, whose pilots hope to set a new global distance record, was canceled Sunday because of "minor but critical problems," a spokesman said. The Voyager, piloted by Dick Rutan and Jeana Yeager, had been scheduled to leave Edwards Air Force Base on a two-day test flight as a prelude to a record-setting 12-day flight around the world without refueling. Instead, the craft was returned to the Mojave Civilian Test Flight Center for problems encountered during its seven-hour flight to Edwards Saturday, said Dan Card, a spokesman for the project.

Parents spend little time with kids, survey says

NEW YORK (UPI) — Baby boomer parents, the breed dominant in America today, do not spend enough time with their children but claim being a parent now is more demanding than when they were young, a survey published Sunday revealed. About 75 percent of the random sampling of 30,000 respondents to the "Better Homes and Gardens" poll agreed with the survey statement: "Parents don't spend enough time with their children." Nineteen percent disagreed. Four percent had no opinion.

Residents say Jackson's promises unfulfilled

BELLE GLADE, Fla. (UPI) — Residents of this poor, AIDS-stricken community said Sunday they think the Rev. Jesse Jackson was using them for publicity when he promised them help last year. The former presidential candidate came through Belle Glade on a South Florida tour and denounced the tragedies of the farm community. He promised interracial aid and cross-economic efforts to rid the town of its brand as the AIDS capital of the United States.

Cheerleader faces trial in shooting of father

RIVERHEAD, N.Y. (UPI) — A judge Monday was scheduled to hear arguments on whether confessions can be used in the murder trial of a 17-year-old cheerleader and a classmate she allegedly hired to kill her father. Cheryl Pierson, 17, is charged with second-degree murder in the Feb. 5 shooting death of her father, James, a man she said sexually abused her from the time she was 11 years old.

Grizzy didn't mind having her picture taken, but her owner declined for fear of being harassed by the cat-nappers.

'I want my gym bag back,' says cat-nap gang member

By Carolyn Schmidt
Staff Writer

An anonymous accomplice in a catnapping career last week has charged that the published account of the incident was inaccurate, but the victims insist their version of the story is true.

The travails of one cat, three women students and a mysterious gang that allegedly held the cat for $50 ransom were reported Thursday. On Friday a man claiming to be one of the catnappers telephoned the Daily Egyptian, saying the story was "total B.S." The victims had blown the incident far out of proportion, he said.

The caller, who refused to give his name, said that he and a "few friends" found Grizzy, the cat, in a field. They found the owner's name and phone number were engraved on an identification tag on Grizzy's collar and called the cat's owner, Elizabeth Cannon, requesting a $50 "reward" for Grizzy's safe return.

The caller told the newspaper that he was not the man who confronted the victims while carrying the cat in a gym bag near M&E Smith Hall Tuesday night and who was chased through the Brush Towers area and subsequently caught up by the victim and her roommate before dropping the bag.

He said he was a member of "an innocent group of guys" who had found the cat in a field, called the owner and offered to return it to them, providing they paid $50.

The caller disputed the woman's version of the scuffle that followed the chase, saying the "bag man" was not beat up on, but had only had his hair pulled.

The caller complained that the gym bag belonged to him and that the two girls who had rescued the cat in the bag had not returned it.

Cannon and her roommates Kristin Skol and Jeanine Klingl said that whether it was a case of kidnapping or extortion, the men involved had no right to demand money for Grizzy's return.

"Those guys have to be real idiots to call the paper up and say that's not the true story,"

Reallocation 'chance operation,' NEA rep says

By Paula Buckner
Staff Writer

Calling the University's 2 percent reallocation plan a "chance operation that needs structure," a representative of the Illinois Education Association-NEA has some suggestions for increasing faculty salaries.

"If they are going to get rid of it, then we applaud them," says Don Keck, an NEA organizer. "And if they aren't, then faculty should get with an effective group that is going to fight for faculty salaries."

The 2 percent plan — implemented last year by John Guyon, vice president for academic affairs and research, and set to run a five-year course — is aimed at bolstering faculty salaries by redistributing 2 percent of the money each college or department budgets for faculty paychecks.

The money is supposed to come from salaries for positions left open when faculty members retire or move to other areas and from salaries of positions cut from the budget.

IEA-NEA is one of two groups vying to represent SIU faculty and professional staff members through collective bargaining.

Keck made the comments in response to President Albert Somit's address on the budget Tuesday to the Faculty Senate. Somit asked the senate, "How long can we continue to make salaries our first priority? How long can we afford to sacrifice programs?"

Somit said that because faculty salaries were the University's first priority for the fiscal year 1987 budget, cuts were made in other areas, including new programs.

Keck said that while the University should continue to improve faculty salaries, which are about 13 percent below salaries paid to faculty at peer institutions, it should not sacrifice programs.

"We can't afford to sacrifice programs," Keck said. "But will salaries be a priority next year? And if they aren't, does that imply an end to the 2 percent plan?"

Somit and Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit have said that salaries will continue to be the first priority for future budgets sent to the Illinois Board of Higher Education and the Legislature.

Somit, in a recent interview, clarified his statement made at the senate meeting. Salaries are and will continue to be a budget request priority, he said. "But once it gets into the Legislature, can we afford to protect salaries after that?"

Salary increases for the fiscal 1987 budget were set at about 6 percent for University employees, with faculty receiving an extra 1.5 percent increase through the reallocation plan.

In the fiscal 1986 budget requests, approved at the Board of Trustees meeting Thursday, the University has requested 12 percent salary increases for administrators, professional staff and SIU-C and SIU-E civil service employees, 16 percent for School of Medicine civil service employees and 13 percent for faculty.

IEA-NEA has been against the reallocation plan from its onset, saying that the 2 percent is coming from indiscriminate cuts that do not take into consideration their effect on programs or faculty positions.

Faculty salary increases, Keck contends, can be maintained through collective bargaining, "not though the University's system of reallocation."

"The 2 percent plan is having devastating effects on departments," Keck said.

Can ban isn't the practical solution

'TIS THE SEASON TO BE thinking about Halloween. And with that comes the cry: "Let's ban beer cans from the Strip!"

City officials have seemed to think that not allowing cans on the Strip would reduce the number of injuries and the rowdiness of the crowd. One proposal — now apparently abandoned — was to have beer booths sell beer in plastic cups.

That would not have been effective. What happens when people get tired of waiting in an hour-long line for a beer that will be half-foam, half-filled and lukewarm?

TEMPERS WOULD FLARE AND partiers probably would get more than a little rowdy when they finally got to the front of a line and were told, "Sorry, we're out of beer."

At least when partiers have coolers in their hands, when they want a beer, they can have a beer. No waiting in line. No being asked to pull a driver's license out of a back pocket. No risk of losing a wad of money in the process of showing identification.

A can ban just isn't a reasonable solution to the problems that the Halloween celebration poses.

CITY OFFICIALS HAVE JUST cause to be worried about people throwing beer cans. So why not promptly arrest people caught hurling beer cans? If others see a police officer put handcuffs on someone who just threw a beer can and escort him away, they will stop and think before they started tossing cans around.

Promoting sensible behavior is what is needed.

GRANTED, CONTROLLING THE thousands of Halloween revelers is no easy task. Perhaps some applied psychology would help — like having plenty of uniformed officers always in sight, as state officials did at the Du Quoin State Fair.

Or the city could borrow a ploy from the 1984 World's Fair in New Orleans. Every 45 minutes or so, an ambulance, with emergency lights flashing, would slowly drive through the crowd. It made people stop and wonder if someone had been seriously injured. Consequently, they stopped and thought about what they were going to do next.

IF IT WORKED THERE, GIVE it a shot here.

The main thing, however, is for the celebrants to remember that the Halloween party is a privilege, not a right. Guard the privilege; don't throw it away like a beer can.

While we're at it...

CITY OFFICIALS ARE OUT of bounds in asking SIU-C officials to reschedule the All-Ghost Rugby Tournament, which is to be held Halloween weekend.

City Manager William Dixon suspects the rugby players in the throwing of beer cans that took place last Halloween on the Strip. Even if they are guilty, rugby players weren't the only ones who tossed beer cans into the crowd.

FRATERNITY MEMBERS, visitors from other schools and places, and SIU-C students who don't play rugby engaged in that comb — and criminal — stunt.

Rugby players may be a little unconventional in their behavior and sport-of-choice. But they don't deserve to be singled out for condemnation. Indicting them as a group for the misbehavior of individuals is wrong.

Letters

Creative littering is crucial to those visiting Giant City

When you find yourself at Giant City State Park, please remember: how childish and ugly littering is. Now I will admit some of the littering is done by a few area jerks, but being a long-time local, I can assure you that the park grounds and rocks stay pretty clean over the summer only to be infested, come fall and spring, by the amoeba-brain students who litter.

Having been an eyewitness on several occasions, I wish to share with the public some of the more "creative" ways of littering at Giant City, particularly at the Shelter One area.

— Have a kegger under the pavilion and when done, leave all empty cups on picnic tables or just throw them in the parking lot.

— When opening bottles, make sure the caps go on the ground teeth up. That way barefoot people really know when they step on them.

— Find a small shelf in the rocks for empty cans.

— Find a branch an empty cup or can will balance on upside-down. It may take a day or even a week until the wind blows it away.

— Throw bottles off the cliffs. Griefful delight is apparently experienced upon hearing the glass shatter.

— Get on top of the pavilion and pick the tiles off the roof. Then wing 'em all directions.

Once the amoeba-brain masters these abilities, he will be ready to slither down to the next stage — terrifying and endangering climbers! Ways include:

— Do any regular or creative littering off cliff tops when climbers are below.

— Also throw rocks off the top, or for that matter, throw anything!

— Attempt to climb up the diagonal crack on the right side of Shelter One bluff. Freak out near the top and violently shake. If you fall and end up in a heap like Beetle Bailey, the park will be one step closer to outlawing the bluffs to the legitimate climbers.

— Have little or no experience with safe rappelling and go anyway. Then drop an eight-ring or carabiner 75 feet so it will have killing capacity. ("Oh, there are people below?" Don't expect to get it back.)

— Bring the golf clubs to the bluff. Tee-off 10 yards in front of the cliff face. Smack balls against it, especially when climbers are present.

— Take a puppy with you to the top of the cliff. Rappel off leaving the puppy unattended. This way it will follow you over the edge.

I might also add that drunkenness during these activities seems to intensify the "fun." Yes folks, these are true happenings, but don't get me wrong. Whether you're picnicking, hiking, sightseeing, camping, horseback riding or climbing, Giant City really is a beautiful place — usually. — Eric Ulner. Carbonate.

E-Night: In the groove

Hippies meet the yuppies but fest pleases all ages

Groove-E-Night, the Student Center's 25th anniversary celebration, was a rousing success as the 1960s met the 1980s in a fun-filled evening that drew nearly 6,000 people.

Billed as a "psychedelic event," Groove-E-Night was in full swing from 7 p.m. Friday to 1 a.m. Saturday, providing nostalgic and new entertainment. Where else could one step out of a rapping contest or a modern casino and walk right into a 1960s fashion show and trivia contest?

Competition was fierce all evening as entrants tried to outdo each other in such activities as resembling Jackie Onassis, dancing like "The King" in the Elvis Pelvis contest and rolling cigarettes in record time.

Bo Didier, a junior in aviation, won the Holey Jeans contest, receiving a telephone and an SIU Polo Club T-shirt for his most-tattered jeans. Other contests involved hula-hoops, the biggest bell-bottom jeans and a search for a Max Headroom look-alike.

The winner and sole contestant of the "Come As You: Favorite Musician — Dead or Alive" contest was Dale Sadler, a junior in Anthropology. Dressed as the late John Lennon in a Sergeant Pepper jacket and "granny glasses," Sadler commented on his victory:

"All you need is love," he said. "I've been writing some new songs, and I thought Paul, George and Ringo would come back, but Paul, his ego couldn't handle it."

In the crowded Roman Room, students clapped along with the rapping contest. Darryl "Jam Master D" Rolark, a freshman in computer science and a contestant, defined rapping as "saying words to the rhythm of the beat. It's like a poem, but it has a hip-hop sound. Having this rap contest here on Groove-E-Night makes it special. I enjoyed all of the events."

The 60s fashion show was another popular attraction. Audience members were handed flowers and given a blessing of peace by ushers at the door. Strobe lights flashed and a large-screen television displayed wild colors and shapes for a kaleidoscope effect. Music from the 60s played as the models strutted down the stage.

Many of the outfits had the Jacqueline Kennedy look, with pillbox hats and white or black gloves reaching nearly to the elbows. Other outfits included such items as those oh-so short dresses, high boots and horn-rimmed glasses for that "Mrs. McFeely" look.

Out in the hall a group of people dressed as 1960s "hippies" with long hair, bandanas, peace buttons and beads, kept watch on the passersby.

Music was a main attraction at Groove-E-Night. The band Easy Street was in ballrooms A and B and later The Bears featuring Adrian Belew played with their special guest, Ultraviolet.

Many students gathered to see Marcella Ruble-Harris speak about palmistry and astrology. After being warned that, "Palmistry is not fatalistic, but it shows the opportunities that are available to you,"

By whatever name, Judy is funny lady

A Review

How do you classify a woman who calls herself "The Petite Flower, Giver Goddess, Fashion-Plate saint, Earth Mother, Hostess, Geisha Girl, Buffer of Foreheads, Healer of Hermaphrodites, Blessor of Bunions and Queen of Candy Pants?"

You can call her schizophrenic or you can call her insane, but you have to call her Judy in a high-pitched sing-songy voice to get her on stage.

Judy Tenuta, comedienne-accompanist and self-proclaimed Love Goddess, blessed an audience of about 200 Thursday at the first Club Carioe event of the school year.

Floating through the crowd in a polyester-satin formal draped with a sheer pink negligee, and wearing a dilapidated flower in her unkempt hair, Tenuta buttered foreheads, roiled her big-brown eyes and lovingly clutched her accordion to her chest during her entrance to the Club Caribe Stage.

An incessant stream of gibberish leads Tenuta into a lot of stories without endings. She claims to keep her act as impromptu as possible.

"Playing with the audience is the best way to get people involved," Tenuta said. "They really love the interaction because they know it's not planned."

Tenuta said she plans to commit herself to the Betty Ford Clinic, even though she doesn't drink. "I thought I'd do it now, early in my career, when I really need it," she said.

Auditions slated for medieval players

Lords, ladies, knights, and damsels are needed for a medieval tale of myth and magic to be performed at John A. Logan College in December.

Auditions for "Sir Gawain and the Green Knight," a story set in Arthurian England, will be from 2 to 4 p.m. and from 6 to 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday in the Humanities Center Theater on the John A. Logan College campus in Carterville.

Scripted and directed by Logan faculty member, Steve Falcone, the play revolves around Sir Gawain and his acceptance of a challenge from an uninvited guest at King Arthur's court.

Auditions involve selected readings from the script.

The play will be presented December 5, 6, 12 and 13.

WALT DISNEY WORLD COLLEGE PROGRAM

Quatro's DEEP PAN PIZZA

Personality is ideal subject for artwork, sculptor says

By Mary Wisniewski
Entertainment Editor

For Carbondale sculptress Fredda Brilliant, whose work includes the bronze statue of Delyte Morris in Morris library, personality is the ideal subject for art.

"Faces from imagination can have only one expression," the Polish-born artist said. "Real people have thousands of expressions, and I layer one on top of another."

Brilliant is a bit of a personality herself. A petite woman with large brown eyes and a smile that contains as much challenge as greeting. Brilliant has written three books, including a novel and collection of short fiction, painted, sung her own compositions, and played opposite such greats as Michael Redgrave on the British stage.

SINCE BEGINNING her career in sculpture in 1933, Brilliant has created statues of some of the most famous personalities in the world. Her book "Biographies in Bronze," published by Steimatzky and Shapolsky in New York, contains essays about many of these personalities and of the artist's own struggle to capture their true selves.

Brilliant will appear with her husband, SIU professor emeritus Herbert Marshall, to promote her book Oct. 10 at the University Book Store.

Speaking in an accent thick with the touch of a dozen languages, Brilliant said she made her first sculpture at the age of five. "I was sitting in a courtyard in Poland," Brilliant said, "when I saw a girl my own age carrying her baby brother."

"I guess it was very professional," she added.

Brilliant said that though she began developing as an artist at an early age, she received little formal art training. "When I was 20, the man who was supposed to teach me asked me to see what I could do on my own. So I made a self-portrait, and after that he said he couldn't teach me anything."

BRILLIANT HAS done most of her work in India, where she and her husband lived between 1950 and 1959. During her stay in that country, she was commissioned for sculptures of Mahatma Gandhi, first Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, and Indira Gandhi.

While Brilliant usually sculpts from live sittings, the statue of Mohandas Gandhi, which stands in London's Tavistock Square, was begun a year after Gandhi's death. "I read three huge volumes by Tendulkar about Gandhi's life. Then I asked everybody who had known him what he was like," Brilliant said.

Brilliant said she used a live Indian model for the sculpture. But though she said the model looked very much like Gandhi, he refused to act like him.

"I TOLD HIM 'Speak to the people' and he said 'I don't know what to say,'" Brilliant said. "So he began to pray and I told him 'pray harder.' Then his muscles began to move like Gandhi's."

In "Biographies in Bronze," Brilliant says that many of her models try to conceal their real personalities in a sitting and present what they consider to be their best self. In order to overcome this problem, Brilliant says that she talks with her sitter constantly while she works.

"I ask them questions on different topics," said Brilliant, "but I never hear what they're saying. I see what they're saying."

THOUGH BRILLIANT and her husband have lived in Carbondale for 20 years, she said she has had little contact with the SIU Art Department and has never felt the urge to teach.

"Teaching is a swindle," Brilliant said. "What they can tell you in three hours they stretch out over a year."

"Everybody does things according to his own way of seeing," Brilliant said. "It takes no time to teach the technical side."

Of the art today, Brilliant says, "All I see is pipes and things. They don't say anything to me. That's why I always sculpt people — because they say so much."

Divine musical combines symbolism, dance

Theater Review

By Mary Wisniewski
Entertainment Editor

Staging a Biblical story like the birth of Christ or David and Goliath can be a pretty straightforward job for a dramatist. But staging something as ambiguous as the Book of Revelation requires the touch of a poet and a whole lot of faith.

The Divine Idea, a Chicago-based theater company which presented Erik Kevin Robinson's "The Revelation" at the University City Complex last weekend, used song, dance and exotic symbolism to capture the last book of John. Robinson, who wrote, directed and starred in the production, enlightened the difficult book with both his own dramatic savvy and a strong, unambiguous interpretation.

"THE REVELATION" opens with the sounds of a mournful rhythm guitar as Eve, played by Yetunde Adeyinka, awakens in the Garden of Eden. In a beautiful solo ballet, Adeyinka mimes plucking the forbidden fruit from a wood and plaster three-headed beast with the numbers "666" written on its crown.

Other fragments from both Old and New Testaments

Yetunde Adeyinka performed her part in The Revelation on Thursday night.

following, with the beast, representing one of the strongest images from the Book of Revelation, employed as the Tower of Babel, the devil's throne, and the cross of crucifixion. The use of this central stage prop is an example of how the production links these Biblical fragments into a cohesive whole.

MANY OTHER elements in "The Revelation" help to unify its wild dances, drum solos, and heavy symbolism for both a strong message and story. One of the most outstanding elements was the music, written and performed by Chicago-native Mark Allen Miller. A one-man orchestra on drums, acoustic guitar, and organ, Miller did not so much accompany as perform with the actors, matching his volume and intensity to the play's changing moods.

The four-member cast of "The Revelation" was also very strong. Robinson, Adeyinka, and dancers Pamela Peoples and Mary Howard were not only talented performers individually, but did so well in ensemble it was clear that as a director, Robinson had communicated his ideas for the production with great skill.

ANOTHER INTERESTING aspect of "The Revelation" was its use of African culture in its costumes, music, and scenery. Using an all-black cast, Robinson combines the idea of unbelievers in bondage with that of blacks in bondage by putting chains of bells on the dancer's feet and African words of lamentation into the songs.

One disturbing aspect of the production was that most of the evil characters — Satan, the builder of the tower of Babel, and other Biblical heavies — were played by a woman.

The talented cast, the music, the use of African culture, and the solid message of salvation made "The Revelation" a truly great piece of spiritual drama.

Survey says Denmark is most livable

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — In Hamlet, William Shakespeare wrote that something is rotten in the state of Denmark. But a University of Pennsylvania survey reveals he was far off the mark.

Denmark ranked as the best place in the world to live in a survey by Penn Professor Richard Estes. The African nation of Angola was the worst place.

The United States finished 27th of the world's 124 nations, a relatively poor showing due primarily to a high level of military spending and racial inequalities, Estes said.

The study measured nations' ability to provide for their citizens, analyzed social and political conditions and economic development, a more traditional measure of quality of life.

All of the top 10 nations were European. Estes said European nations progressed socially because they were "under the United States' nuclear umbrella."

"Relative to the United States, the northern Europeans spend very, very little on defense," Estes said. "Through our military agreements with European and Asian nations, the United States really subsidizes their social progress."

Nine of the worst 10 nations to live in are Africa, he said.

Off and running

Nearly 200 runners hit the streets of Murphysboro in the Applefest 10-Kilometer run Saturday. Russ Hambleman of Tamaroa said Skol. "That ticks me off because they had no right to say that."

Cannon said she normally lets Grizzly outside during the day. The cat wears a collar with the tag in case she gets lost but in the past had always come back. The cat had been gone six hours when the phone calls began, she said.

The man on the phone was meowing, which led them to think the calls were a joke at first, said Klingl. It was the man's idea that they meet him in a spot near Brush Towers rather than returning the cat to their house or telling them his address where they could pick the cat up, she said.

"And we never said anything about a reward," Skol said.

Cannon said the incident might have started out as "a bunch of bored guys with warped minds just having some fun, and then it turned serious. I don't know why they took it that far," she said.

Cannon and Skol said they did not knock the man to the ground contrary to the reported story but disagreed with the rest of the caller's claim that the man was not beat up on.

Skol said she pulled the man's hair and punched him in a few times while Cannon kicked him in the shins.

"The intent of pulling the hair was not to hurt the guy or get revenge, because I didn't want to get hurt myself," said Skol. "I was just hoping he'd drop the bag by doing it."

After they arrived home, Cannon said, the man called again and threatened them. She quoted him as saying, "That was real dumb. We could have killed your cat. We don't kid about stuff like that. You're messing with the big boys."

Cannon said the man told them to put $50 in the gym bag and drop it off in the field in 10 minutes. Cannon reported the incident to Carbondale Police after the threats were made.

The reaction of the officer who came to their house was one of amusement at first, said Cannon.

"There was a big understanding that this was very silly but we had to report it," Cannon said.

Throughout the ordeal of trying to retrieve Grizzly, Cannon said she was most concerned about the cat's well-being.

"I hear about people that cannot stand cats and they'll kill them," she said.

Cannon said Grizzly was not harmed, but was very tired and had gone to sleep after they returned home. Cannon described her as "antsy and hyper" because she is not let out anymore.

Cannon said her mother is worried both for her daughter's and the cat's safety.

students were invited to have their fortunes told. By knowing the students' birthdates and reading the lines of their palms, Ruble-Harris predicted the futures of those daring enough to peek into the future.

Even the late Elvis Presley made an appearance. Returning from the grave in the form of an actual human skull with one fake, bulging eye and a smart mouth, "Elvis" appeared on the Beatvision TV screen. Insulting and arguing with students, "Elvis" took pleasure in belittling "Shut up!" and "Get a haircut!"

Dave Landis, a senior in radio and television and creator and voice of "Elvis," explained the king's rotten temperament.

"The ghost of Elvis decided to come back from the grave. He decided he was still the king and that he was a holy one. He came back to earth to verbally punish his disciples. He's been appearing in the Enquirer for years and he's really upset about the Elvis shampoo."

Throughout the evening 1960s cartoons were continuously shown in the auditorium. Free bowling, billiards and video games were offered and the movies "The Hustler" and

"Tommy" hit the silver screen.

Between events, many people had caricatures of themselves drawn or tried samples of the submarine sandwiches, Coney Island hot dogs and other available foods.

The Silver Nugget Casino in the Old Main Room was another favorite. The long line to get into the casino consisted of people anxious to try their luck at roulette, poker and blackjack, among others. Prizes, including a first-prize trip to Las Vegas, were awarded to those who had won the most chips by the end of the night.

Steve Smith, Student Programming Council promotions chairman, said SPC wanted the 1986 E-Night to be special.

"We wanted to come up with a theme for it because before it was just basically E-Night. This year it's Groov-E-Night, a psychedelic event."

Brian Elmore, SPC chairman, also considered this year's event unique.

"We didn't bill it as an open house," Elmore said. "We wanted it as an event, not a concept. We wanted to appeal to some older people and keep them entertained and participating."

spection program would soon be directed toward R-1 districts. That could mean an upswing in citations for violation of the ordinance. McDaniel said the city would probably begin inspecting residences in R-1 districts in late September.

The inspection program is voluntary and allows city code enforcers to issue certificates of compliance to rental properties that meet city codes.

Two other residential zoning designations are used by the city — R-2, medium density residential; and R-3, high-density residential. The R-2 and R-3 classifications do not specifically limit occupation to single families, but have occupancy limits based on the dwelling's floor space.

30 cars derail at Grand Tower

A train derailed north of Grand Tower at about 3:30 a.m. Sunday on a Union Pacific line at Howardton Crossing, according to a Jackson County police report.

About 30 to 35 cars derailed into a wooded, unpopulated area. The train crew was not injured. None of the cars contained hazardous material and imposed no danger to the public, the report said.

WILL IEA/NEA BE THERE WHEN YOU NEED THEM?

You bet we will.

We are here now, when you need us. There have been five full-time IEA/NEA staff assigned exclusively to SIU to work with faculty and professional staff for the past two years. During this time, we have been getting to know many of you personally.

Not only have we been on campus meeting with you, we have been working to resolve the problems you have identified for us.

Which organization at SIU came out strongly in support of the Cinema and Photography Department when it was threatened with dissolution, and provided continuous advice and assistance to the Department in its struggle to maintain its integrity? IEA/NEA. Ask Gary Kolb.

Which organization at SIU took a firm stand in favor of Affirmative Action when the University ignored its own policies last year? IEA/NEA. Ask Nancy Bandy.

Which organization at SIU has taken a clear and unambiguous stand against the 2% tax on instructional budgets and has led the fight to abolish the 2% scheme? IEA/NEA. Ask Paul Yambert.

Which organization has taken a firm position on and provided the leadership fighting for separate bargaining units for faculty and professional staff on each campus and for inclusion of department chairs in the bargaining unit? Only IEA/NEA.

What other organization has been as clear in its positions or as firm in its support for faculty and professional staff on the issues that directly affect their interests, rights and welfare at SIU?

Why is IEA/NEA concentrating its resources at SIU? Because we have come to the conclusion that the faculty and professional staff at SIU need and want collective bargaining. IEA/NEA puts the resources where they are wanted and needed.

We are right here on the SIU campus. We have established an office at 805 South University Avenue, next door to the Air Force ROTC building. If you need our assistance, if you want to participate, don't hesitate to call us at 457-2141.

Reps offer insight at Career Day

By Nola J. Cowser
Staff Writer

Students will have the opportunity to meet and talk with representatives from more than 50 companies Tuesday at Career Day 1986.

Representatives from business and industrial firms, public and private agencies and other sectors of the business world will be in the Student Center ballrooms from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Valerie Brew-Parrish, of the Career Planning and Placement Center, said Career Day, traditionally kicks off the recruitment season on campus.

Brew-Parrish said students with degrees in engineering, business and computer science will be in demand this year, but students studying in other fields will also find prospective employers to talk to. Students close to graduation should attend Career Day, she said.

"Career Day is not only important for seniors but also is good for students just beginning their college careers," Brew-Parrish said. These new students can talk to the employers about fields they might be interested in, job trends or opportunities to help them decide what kind of job might be most suited for them, she said.

Companies such as K-Mart, Sears, Arthur Anderson and Co. Accounting Firm, the Bureau of Prisons and U.S. Penitentiaries, State Farm Insurance and the Illinois Department of Revenue will have tables, displays and booths set up during the day in the Student Center ballrooms, Brew-Parrish said.

About 4,000 students are expected to attend Career Day, Brew-Parrish said. Appointments are not required. The event is sponsored by the Career Planning and Placement Center.

Trade meeting making progress

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay (UPI) — Delegates to this week's international trade conference appeared to inch closer Sunday to resolving contentious issues involving agriculture and services, diplomatic sources said.

The subtle shift in positions in two of the most troublesome issues of the conference occurred as trade ministers from 92 nations descended on the small seaside resort to try to revise the rules governing international trade.

The world trade picture has changed dramatically in the seven years since the last international trade talks ended. A series of economic recessions, the world debt crisis, depressed agricultural prices and emerging high technology and service industries have created a need for updated trade rules.

Throughout the day, small groups of delegates to the meeting of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade met in private sessions to solidify their negotiating positions before the meeting officially opens Monday.

The meeting, billed as one of the most significant in the GATT's nearly 40-year history, is to set an agenda and timetable for a new round of trade talks that could last four or five years.

One of the major issues will be whether agriculture subsidies should be reduced and eventually eliminated.

A group of 14 major agricultural exporters, among them Australia, Canada and Argentina, worked on their "fair trade" strategy that opposes all agricultural subsidies.

Following a preliminary meeting in Cairns, Australia, last month, the group warned in a statement they would not participate in new trade talks unless there was agreement to pursue significant changes in world agricultural policies.

"Our group reaffirmed the decision we made at Cairns," Australian Trade Minister John Dawkins told reporters after a Sunday meeting of the "fair traders."

The European Community has opposed any hasty repeal of agricultural subsidies, the heart of its Central Agricultural Policy. But there appeared to be a breakthrough Sunday as EC officials expressed confidence that France, the most vehement supporter of agricultural subsidies, would soften its position.

Daniloff describes jailing as 'mental torture'

MOSCOW (UPI) — U.S. reporter Nicholas Daniloff Sunday described his 14 days in a Moscow jail on espionage charges as "mental torture" but said he hoped he would not be swapped for a Soviet U.N. employee accused of spying in New York.

"Frankly, I feel like a sneaker that's been through a wringer," Daniloff, appearing thinner than before his detention, told Western reporters at a news conference at the U.S. Embassy, his first since his release Friday.

Daniloff, a reporter for U.S. News & World Report magazine, said his two weeks in Moscow's Lefortovo prison left him with "benevolent disdain" for his KGB captors.

"Frankly, I hope there would not be a trial and I will be able to leave here with some measure of my integrity intact," said Daniloff, who was arrested on Aug. 30 after being handed documents marked "top secret."

The Soviet Union presented

Defector insists: I love U.S.A.

MOSCOW (UPI) — Edward Lee Howard, the former CIA officer accused of destroying the U.S. intelligence operation in Moscow, appeared on television Sunday and described why he defected but insisted, "I love my country."

Howard, who has grown a mustache, answered questions posed by host Genrikh Borovik on the interview program.

It was the first public appearance in the Soviet Union of Howard, who evaded an international manhunt for nearly a year and then surfaced in Moscow Aug. 8, when the Soviet Union announced he had been granted political asylum.

Howard was wearing a light summer suit for the interview, an indication it might have been taped several weeks ago.

During the interview, Howard said he became disillusioned with what he described as the militaristic attitude of the CIA and the Reagan administration.

"I love my country and my people," he said. "I have never done anything that would harm Americans or put the security of my country at risk."

Howard joined the CIA in 1981 and he and his wife trained for two years to handle U.S. agents in Moscow. The training included briefings on some of their names and identities.

Before he was to leave for Moscow, however, a polygraph test indicated deception and he was pulled from the assignment. Subsequent investigations revealed drug use and drinking problems and the CIA took the unusual step of firing him in 1983.

During the interview, Howard referred to his failure to pass the polygraph tests.

"This was a humiliating procedure," he said. "My dignity was questioned by the computer. I resigned and life seemed easier."

Howard was identified as a Soviet espionage agent last summer and the FBI and CIA had him under surveillance. He slipped the net using techniques taught him by the CIA and he and his disappeared from his home in Santa Fe, N.M., last September.

Goldfarb's son seeks father's release

NEW YORK (UPI) — A professor who claims his father, a Russian scientist, was pressured by Soviets to set up reporter Nicholas Daniloff sent a telegram Sunday to President Reagan asking his help in getting his father out of Russia.

Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennady Gerasimov denied charges by the scientist's son that authorities had once tried to pressure David Goldfarb, a geneticist, to set up the U.S. News and World Reporter,

The New York Times reported Sunday.

Gerasimov said Goldfarb told a reporter for Tass, the official Soviet news agency, that the purported incident never occurred.

But Goldfarb's son, Alex, an assistant professor of microbiology at Columbia University, told United Press International his father said he was visited by a Tass correspondent and confirmed his account of having been pressured to set up Daniloff.

"The Tass correspondent is lying about my father just as Mr. Gerasimov is lying about Mr. Daniloff," said Alex Goldfarb.

Goldfarb called on Soviet authorities to allow foreign journalists to interview his father about the matter.

And he sent a telegram to Reagan asking the president to "use your good offices to get my father out of Russia."

"My father is a little man in a Kafkaesque nightmare who managed to remain honest and decent."

as I know, Zakharov is a KGB line officer and I am not. I am a journalist."

Daniloff gave a calm but moving account of his days in the 8-by-10-foot cell that he shared with a Soviet prisoner. He grew angry, however, when he spoke of his emotional state in captivity.

"I was not cold, hungry or physically abused," said Daniloff. "But the mere fact of being transferred into a prison cell, being isolated from your family, from your friends, not being allowed under the Soviet system to have legal counsel, being interrogated four hours a day for two weeks is a very, very hard burden."

Daniloff told the NBC News program: "Meet the Press" that his arrest could have a chilling effect on the way U.S. reporters cover the Soviet Union. "What happened to me could happen to anybody," he said.

Apple Festival brings home old friends, family for fun

By Bret Yates
Staff Writer

For some people it may have been just a weekend outing, but for others, especially for Murphysboro natives, the Murphysboro Apple Festival is a yearly ritual — a homecoming for friends and relatives who have moved away from the area.

Sherman Reiman, of Murphysboro, said he has attended the Apple Festival since it began 35 years ago. Reiman said the festival is an opportunity for people, to see friends who have left Murphysboro. "I see people here you don't see all the time," Reiman said.

Willie Neil, of Colp, grew up in Murphysboro, and has attended every Apple Festival. "It is kind of like a homecoming, because I know a lot of my relatives have come down from Rockford, and all over who come here — if for no other time of the year — just for the Apple Festival," Neil said.

BARBARA FORD, of Sesser, sold funnel cakes at the festival. Ford said she has attended other festivals throughout the area. She said in comparison the Apple Festival was "good, and maybe a little bit bigger than the rest of them."

Ford said when she was not working at her funnel cake booth, she sampled food from the other booths, looked at some of the crafts sold at the fair and "met a lot of nice people."

Ford said this was her fourth year at the Apple Festival, and that when she is not selling funnel cakes at other festivals, she spends her spare time making cabbage patch dolls, quilting and doing other handcraft work.

RICH HOSKINSON, OWNER

"It is kind of like a homecoming, because I know a lot of my relatives have come down ... — if for no other time of the year — just for the Apple Festival." — Willie Neil, Colp of Weber's Mensware in Murphysboro, said the festival is good because it helps Murphysboro's economy. "Whenever you have an influx of this many people, it's not only good for the vendors and organizations, but for the businesses," Hoskinson said he most liked the people and the parades.

Tawni Hunt, the 1985 Apple Festival queen, attended all of the major events. She said the festival was an enriching experience and that she will always remember the community atmosphere of the festival.

"I think it was a fantastic experience — not only for myself, but for everyone involved," said Hunt.

"I'VE HAD the opportunity to meet a lot of nice people. It's been a lot of fun. It will always be a part of me."

The Apple Festival began Wednesday and ended Saturday evening with the crowning of Stacy Rice as the 1986 Apple Festival queen. The highlight of the festival, however, was the parade Saturday morning. Walnut Street was packed along both sides with people watching the parade.

It was warm and clear Saturday morning and the parade had all the essential ingredients: politicians, campaigners, clowns, balloons, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, lodge members, Lion's Club members and vendors.

THE THEME was "Television: America's Pastime." Among the 199 entries were 33 marching bands, some coming from as far away as St. Louis and Paducah, Ky. There were also antique fire trucks, a unicyclist who balanced a ball on a stick, tumblers, baton twirlers, and floats. Many of the floats were based on television programs ranging from "The Little Rascals" and "Sesame Street Live" to the "700 Club."

The "Sesame Street Live" float, on which the children were dressed as Sesame Street characters, won first place for the best float for clubs and organizations, the "Overall Best Float." "The Most Amusing Float" and for "The Float Most Depicting the Theme of the 1986 Parade."

THE JUNIOR class of Murphysboro High School won first place in the youth category for its "Little Rascals Float."

Another event of the festival was the "Drums at Appletime" competitor at Murphysboro High School. Ten high school bands competed. There were trophies for three classes of bands: Class A, 60 musicians or fewer; Class AA, 60 to 100 musicians; and Class AAA, over 100 musicians.)

Massac County High School won first place in the Class A competition. Normandy High School, of St. Louis, won the Class AA competition, and O'Fallon won the Class AAA competition.

O'Fallon was also chosen as "Grand Champion of Drums at Appletime," and "Champion Overall Band." Heath High School, of West Paducah, Ky., was chosen as the "Reserve Champion Overall Band."

Hispanic expert to speak

The president of California State College in Bakersfield will speak Tuesday as part of SIU's Hispanic Awareness Week.

Tomas Arciniega will lecture on Hispanics and higher education in the United States at 11 a.m. in Morris Library Auditorium.

President of California State College since 1983, Arciniega has also held academic administrative posts at California State University and San Diego State University. In 1978 he was named by Change magazine as one of the top 100 academic leaders in American higher education.

Among Arciniega's writings are the books "Public Education's Response to the Mexican American Student" and "Preparing Teachers of Mexican Americans: A Sociocultural and Political Issue."

Co-sponsors of Hispanic Awareness Week are the President's Office, the Hispanic Professional Association and the Hispanic American Student Unity League.

Fielders lose to Boilermakers in home opener for second loss

By M.J. Starshak
Staff Writer

Purdue's Karen Andrews scored two goals in Sunday's field hockey home opener, and that was all it took to hard the Salukis their second defeat.

The loss to the Boilermakers topped off a bad start for the Salukis' season. Julie Illner's team lost 3-0 Friday in their season-opener against the Billikens of St. Louis University.

"She played a very good game. We didn't do a good job on her, obviously," said Illner of the Saluki defensive tactics toward Andrews in Sunday's game.

The Boilermakers have seven returning starters and showed themselves to be very competent stickhandlers.

Illner commented that Purdue played together better than the Salukis.

"They were in position and they use little, short passes all the time," said Illner. "We have got to use little passes to each other to open up the game. You can't just hit and blast."

Impressive play was shown by Saluki seniors Mindy Thorne and Lynn Beltran. Thorne had two defensive saves against Purdue to bring her total to three in two games.

"She made two defensive saves today that stopped goals," said Illner. "I've come to expect it of Mindy. She's consistently good. Lynn played well today at link. She ran out of steam a little bit and we had to substitute a little with Julie (Mayor)," said Illner.

Other Saluki standouts were wings Laurie Kingman and Naomi Tavares. Illner commented that both seniors had a very good first half but wore out in the second half. As a result, they couldn't get the ball to scorers Kathy Crowley and Nadine Simpson.

"Neither of them had a very good game," said Illner of Crowley and Simpson. Both key offensive players have been shut down in their attempts so far this season.

Mary Mazz guarded the goal for the Salukis in Sunday's game after having been scored upon three times in Friday's loss to St. Louis. Sophomore Christine James has shared cage time with Mazz, but did not appear in Sunday's game.

used yet another fine performance from Sean Payton (19 of 41 for 232 yards and two touchdowns) to down Northern Michigan, 24-21. Payton, who also ran for another score, hit Calvin Pierce with seven minutes remaining.

Northern Iowa (0-0, 1-0-1) rebounded from last week's tie with Mankato State to shut out Kansas State, 17-0. UNI rolled up 445 yards of total offense while limiting KSU to just 154 total yards. Junior quarterback Mike Smith passed for 296 yards in downing the I-A Wildcats, members of the prestigious Big Eight Conference.

Western Illinois (0-0, 1-1) used touchdowns set up by a blocked punt and an 89-yard kickoff return to down Mankato State, 17-13.

Next weekend, two Gateway matchups highlight the schedule. SIU-C, 2-1 overall after defeating Murray State in a 31-0 shutout this weekend, will travel to Eastern Illinois while Western Illinois travels to Southwest Missouri.

In nonconference action, Wayne State will travel to Illinois State and Iowa State hosts Indiana State.

once again out-dued Lori Vogel in a 1-0 victory. Shortstop Smugala and right fielder Gibbs accounted for the only run as Smugala walked, moved to second on a wild pitch and scored on Gibbs' RBI single.

The Salukis beat SEMO in the final game of the tournament 8-5. Freshman Julie Johansen gave up three runs in the first inning. The Salukis committed two errors in the inning.

Peterson came on with two on and nobody out in the first inning and struck out two and got a pop up to second base to end the inning. The Salukis came back with two runs as Smugala walked, moved to second on a wild pitch and scored on Gibbs' RBI single.

Gibbs scored on an RBI triple to right-center by Kim Hulseley. In the third the Salukis took the lead 5-3 with three runs. Gibbs and Patty Barker each had an RBI, with the third run coming when Barker's single went past the SEMO center fielder. The Salukis added to the score in the bottom of the fifth, with SEMO scoring twice in the top of the seventh to end the scoring. Peterson went all seven innings to get her third victory in only two days.

Brechtelsbauer was pleased with her team's performance. "The team did an outstanding job," Brechtelsbauer said. "Smugala and Gibbs had some clutch hits, but it was a team effort."

freshman Shannon Ferbrache and fumbled the ball towards the Saluki goal line, where linebacker Rick Spielman recovered and set up the next Saluki score. Three plays later, King hit Nate McGhee with a perfect pass to the corner of the end zone for another score and a 24-0 lead.

SIU ENDED the scoring on their first possession of the fourth quarter when King hit Sebron Spivey with a 40-yard touchdown pass to cap a 95-yard scoring drive.

"I told you all along that I thought we had one of the best quarterback tandems in the conference," Dorr said. "I told you I had complete confidence in Pat's ability. He made a few mistakes, but I think that'll work to our advantage because he can use those mistakes to learn."

Women golfers beat Aces, almost set a school record

By Anita J. Stoner
Staff Writer

The Saluki A team and B team disposed Evansville handily in a women's golf home match played at Jackson Country Club Saturday — but that's not the most amazing highlight of the 18-hole event.

The medalist actually whiffed, but the Saluki sophomore, Peggy Ellsworth, recovered to fire a score of 75 on the par-71 course.

Ellsworth, the B-team leader, just started playing the sport two years ago, so her tale of the sixth hole sounds right on the mark.

She said, after her all-air, low ball shot, that she duffed the next one. Then she chunked a pitching wedge. But her sand wedge shot rolled four feet from the pin to save a double-bogie.

"It was an eventful hole," Ellsworth said as she shook her head. "Everybody saw it, I think."

Peggy Ellsworth celebrates after dropping a putt on the fifth hole against Evansville.

Ellsworth's shaky start also included a three-putt on the first green, but she never gave up, hitting 11 greens and carding a one-over par on the more difficult back nine on the way to her all-time career low.

Saluki coach Diane Daugherty said, "Peggy's the type of golfer who won't go home until dark every night. All that hard work obviously paid off."

The best team competition came between Saluki A and B, with A edging for the honors with a total of 316 strokes to B's 319. Evansville, much-improved since the last matchup, shot a respectable 339.

Saluki junior Tina Kozlowski led the A team, tallying a 76 for second place individual honors. Seniors Kelly Mason, of A, and Dana Todaro, of B, tied for third place with scores of 78. Vicki Higginson, a junior A player, knotted with Evansville's Lauri Van Stone for fifth place with scores of 79.

Had the top four Saluki scores come from the same squad, the total — 307 — would have set a school record.

Sinou sets course record at Bradley Open

By M.J. Starshak
Staff Writer

Two course records in two weeks is the pace that Saluki senior cross country runner Vivian Sinou has set for herself. Sinou finished first in the Bradley Open which was held Friday in Peoria. Her time of 17:39 set the course record and was the second-fastest in SIU history.

The meet was scored in double-dual format, which means that each team scored individually against every other team. The Salukis lost to tough opponent Colorado, 22-36 and Illinois State, 22-35, but defeated Bradley, 19-40, Indiana State, 27-29 and Loyola, 21-29.

Saluki coach Don DeNoon said that he expects Sinou to overtake the top spot in the SIU record book sometime this season. The best time belongs to Lisa Riemund (17:30).

"She doesn't know what her limits are," said DeNoon of Sinou. "We'll know what she can do next weekend. She'll see the best in the country then."

Lisa Judiscak and Amy Marker also finished in the top 20 for the Salukis. Judiscak placed 13th with a time of 18:45 and Marker finished in 21st at 19:34.

MURRAY, Ky. — The game started on time and as scheduled Saturday night, but the Murray State Racers got nary a chance to leave the gate.

The Salukis blasted the Racers 31-0 to snap a nine-game road losing streak while dealing Murray State their first shutout in four years.

Junior Pat King sparked for the Salukis in his 1986 starting debut, tossing three touchdown passes and completing 12 of 24 attempts for 182 yards. The SIUC backfield was equally brilliant, grinding out 287 yards against the nation's third-ranked rushing defense, which was beaten into submission by a grueling Saluki ground game.

"For the first time in a while, we played a complete football game," Dorr said. "We played up to our ability, we executed, our defense was great — everything went right."

THE SALUKIS defense was superb, bending but not breaking. MSU's tandem of running backs — Bill Bird and Rodney Payne — didn't get on track either, as MSU's seventh-ranked rushing offense, averaging 267.0 yards per game, was held to 58 net yards.

Bird, 14th in NCAA I-AA rushing stats, was held to 12 yards on six attempts while Payne, ranked 18th in the same category, collected 71 yards on 21 attempts.

A SOLID PASS rush from the Saluki front five confused and lattered the Racer offensive line and harried Mike Woznichak, ranked eighth in I-AA passing efficiency, to a dismal 9 of 21 passing performance punctuated by three interceptions.

"Our defense, even though we missed a few tackles that should've been made, hustled to the ball and completely took their running game away — we took them out of their game,"

Dorr said. "They never really got on track and after a while, I think they really didn't know what they wanted to do."

Three Saluki defensive backs — Ron Kirk, Bobby McNabb and Willie Davis — picked off Woznichak passes.

Dorr said the front five and the linebackers did an "excellent job of flushing Woznichak out of the pocket and pressuring him."

ABOUT 500 Saluki fans cheered and barked "like big dogs" as SIUC's offense racked up 480 total yards in the first Saluki shutout since last season against Illinois State.

SIUC drew first blood in the initial quarter, after each team yunted twice, when Anthony Vaughn broke around the right side of the line and outran the Racer defense for a 76-yard touchdown. The run was the eighth-longest scoring run in Saluki football history.

Vaughn finished the game with 94 yards on eight carries, while Kirksey ran for another 78 yards.

AFTER A KING interception early in the second quarter, freshman Ron Kirk picked off a Woznichak pass in the flats giving King a chance to make amends. And amend he did, with a 61-yard keeper on the first play from scrimmage. After a Mel Kirksey plunge for one yard, King hit tight end Bruce Phibbs with an 11-yard strike that made the score 14-0.

On SIUC's next possession, King hit Wesley Yates with a 37-yard pass that set up a field goal, giving the Salukis a 17-0 lead.

In the third quarter, Woznichak was sacked by redshirt

In this weekend's only Gateway Conference matchup, Indiana State (1-0, 2-0) used a 66-yard scoring pass by freshman quarterback John Sahn to beat Southwest Missouri (1-1, 1-1), 14-0. It was Sahn's first game as a starter in collegiate action.

With the Bears leading 10-7 in the fourth quarter,

Indiana State stormed back and scored on their second play from scrimmage.

The Bears threatened to score after blocking a punt, but a fumble recovery by Indiana State squelched any hopes of a Bears comeback.

In nonconference action, all four Gateway teams that played this weekend emerged victorious.

Saluki softball team wins own tournament, season record at 4-0

The Saluki women's softball team relied on the pitching of Lisa Peterson and the hitting of Theresa Smugala and Shelly Gibbs to win the Saluki Invitational this weekend.

The Salukis' record went to 4-0 as they beat Illinois State and Southeast Missouri twice apiece. Southwest Missouri didn't compete in the tournament because of a mistake in scheduling.

The first game was a pitcher's duel as Peterson outpitched Illinois State's Lori Vogel in a 2-1, 10-inning Saluki victory. The score was tied 1-1 after nine innings, setting the stage for the use of a new tie-breaking rule.

Under this new rule, each team starts the tenth inning with a runner on second base and nobody out.

"It's an international tie-breaking rule," explained Saluki coach Kay Brechtelsbauer. "It's used because softball tends to be low scoring, and you don't want the game to go on forever."

SIU was unable to score in their half of tenth, but the Salukis only needed one batter to score as Karen Wilhelm lined an RBI single to right field to score Cindy Espeiland, who started the inning at second base. Peterson went all 10 innings and was credited with the victory.

The Salukis beat SEMO 5-3 in the second game on Friday. The game was tied 1-1 going into the bottom of the fifth inning before the Salukis scored three runs. Left fielder Becky Rickenbaugh lead off with a single and went to third on shortstop Smugala's one-out single, with Smugala going to second on the throw.

Freshman sensation Shelly Gibbs tripled to right with Rickenbaugh and Smugala scoring. Jan Agnich lined an RBI single to left to give the Salukis the lead for good. Lisa Peterson came in to pitch the final two innings to save the game for starter and winner Beth Schmidt.
