Almost Forgotten,

Drakeford Says

Selfish love is so elevated today, that companion and Christian love are almost forgotten, says John W. Drakeford.

A professor of psychology and counselling at Southern Illinois University, Drakeford delivered the third annual series of W. P. Throgmorton lectures being held by the SIU Baptist Foundation.

Drakeford used the Greek words Eros, meaning selfish, Philia, meaning companionate, and Agape, meaning altruistic in his Tuesday night lecture describing the categories of love.

"A man has lived in many time periods which have been called everything from the Age of Reason to the Age of Romance, he said. "But, while love is the term of these periods, it is a description of the emotion that is elusive."

As a definition of love, Drakeford combines all three Greek forms. He says, love is an experience with selfish, companionate and altruistic love being exhibited.

In connection with love, the term, "They fell in love," is it is especially erect. In speaking about the elevation of selfishness, Drakeford introduced a new term, schizophilia, meaning split love.

This is a strange new disease that has come about by an excess of attention being placed on one part of the ideally combined form of love, thus splitting the balance, he said.

University Housing Residents

Will Vote on Constitution

Residents of University housing will be voting on a proposed constitution for the Residence Halls Council this week.

The voting will be conducted by the various living areas one day this week.

The proposed constitution is the draft of months of work by both the council and a special constitutional revisions committee.

It is especially designed to correct many of the weaknesses hampering the council and to provide more efficient operation, James H. Behrman, president of the council, said.

The major change provided for is the change in the method of election of the president and vice president.

Under the proposed constitution these positions would be filled in an at-large election to be held at the time of the campus elections in May.

If the proposed constitution is approved by a majority of residents voting, petitions for the two offices will be available at the end of April.

Oddly enough, though, most SIU faculty members agreed that thus far the balmy weather hasn't affected student attention so much as one would expect.

One professor commented, "You always get the sleepers and chatter-bugs no matter what time of year. There are students who could sleep through a circus act."

When asked in which classes students prefer to teach, our more industrious professors picking winter because then they devoted more to their studies and research.

The space preferred spring and fall for fishing and hunting.

The heat drains so much of your energy that no matter how much you start the day with it's consumed before you reach your first class."

The poet says that "in the spring the young man's fancy turns to thoughts of love."

Another phase of the informal survey showed that the young men on campus also turn their thoughts to other things.

"I'm going to get for having an illegal car," one student said, wishing to remain anonymous for obvious reasons.

Another said, "I've got to make grades this quarter or I'll wind up at the front in Viet Nam."

Ritual Dinner for Passover
Planned for Jewish Students

Jewish students attending SIU have been invited to participate in the opening of Passover services Friday. Passover begins Friday evening and commemorates the Exodus from Egypt, according to Eugene Schoenfeld, spiritual leader and faculty advisor to the Jewish Students Association.

Plans for the services will be discussed at a meeting of the association at 8 p.m. today in Room 8 of the University Center, Schoenfeld said. Reservations for the service at Temple Beth Jacob may be made at the meeting, he added.

This ritual dinner is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Friday. It is accompanied by the story of the Exodus, Schoenfeld said.

Those who have been invited to participate in the Passover Seder include students, faculty, staff, and members of the Sisters of St. Joseph, Schoenfeld explained.

Persons unable to attend the association meeting Wednesday are invited to make their Seder reservations with Schoenfeld at his office, 2-2569, or at his home, 9-1976. Tickets for the Seder dinner are priced at $2.50.

Schoenfeld explained that leavened bread necessitated by the haste of the Exodus. Instead of the traditional unleavened matzoh, leavened bakery products and, instead, eat unleavened matzoh, Schoenfeld said. Reservations for the Seder dinner must be made by 5 p.m. Thursday.

Persons unable to attend the meeting, he added. This ritual dinner is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. Friday. It is accompanied by the story of the Exodus, Schoenfeld said. The ritual also includes the opportunity of liberty, as opposed to slavery.

For eight days, Jewish people refrain from eating leavened products and, instead, eat unleavened matzoh, Schoenfeld said. This commemorates the unleavened bread necessitated by the haste of the Exodus, Schoenfeld explained.

At University Center

Peace Corps Director From Turkey at SIU; Available to Meet With Interested Students

Students interested in working with the Peace Corps are invited to talk to Ross Pritchard, director of the Peace Corps in Turkey.

Pritchard is presently on campus with the Peace Corps information and testing booth being operated in the University Center.

According to Pritchard, Turkey is one of the largest Peace Corps countries, with about 350 volunteers at the present and 450 more expected by September.

There are about 200 liberal arts and sciences graduates who are teaching English at every level of the Turkish school system, he said. Besides the English teachers, there are about 30 volunteers who are working in village or slum community work.

The Peace Corps has instituted a program in which the workers live in the villages or slums where they work. It is up to them to initiate plans of development and to set up programs of community health and sanitation, Pritchard said.

In addition, there are about 40 female volunteers who work in the orphanages and help in teaching nurses in the nursing programs of the country.

The conditions the village workers live in, according to Pritchard, are primitive, and in many cases exist 300 to 400 years old exist. Heating units and running water are virtually unknown.

Pritchard has been in Turkey for almost three years, and in that time he has seen tangible results from the presence of the Peace Corps.

The teachers have changed the whole pattern of teaching English, nurses have changed the school curriculum and the slum and village workers are reaching the cultural level, Pritchard said.

Peace Corps is not bothered by communists, Pritchard said. There really is no base from which agitators can work because of the "built-in-state," he said, and therefore the Peace Corps is not bothered by Communist tactics.

Pritchard, who formerly taught at Tulane College in Massachusetts, and later at Southwestern College in Memphis, Tenn., will be replaced in Turkey at the end of four years with the Corps.

The corps director said he thinks he will stay on with the organization in Washington, D.C., rather than return to teaching.

Successful Streetcar

By William Lingle

To mention Williams’ Streetcar Named Desire is one of the few American plays in the canon of modern drama. It has been a major argument in the history of the American theatre for several decades. The play is notable for its realistic depiction of the lives of the characters and its exploration of the themes of morality and power. The play is set in a small southern town and revolves around the life of a middle-aged woman named Blanche DuBois, who is forced to move in with her brother Stanley to support herself. Blanche's arrival is met with suspicion and resentment by the family, and the play explores the themes of class, power, and identity. The play is known for its powerful denouement, which is considered one of the most famous in American theatre.

U.S., Viet Airstrikes Wreck Bridge, Radar

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A force of U.S. and Vietnamese planes pounded Communist North Viet Nam Tuesday, wrecking a bridge and hitting radar stations with rockets and napalm. A U.S. Spokesman said all planes returned safely. A North Vietnamese dispatch broadcaster said three U.S. planes were shot down by ground fire and many others were damaged. As the raids thundered on within 30 miles of Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital, the U.S. Embassy disclosed that a U.S. aid official was shot and killed by the Communist guerrillas Jan. 12. Joseph W. Grainger, 39, a U.S. economic assistance representative in Phu Yen Province, captured in an ambush Aug. 8, was shot after he escaped from the Viet Cong and for seven days wandered through a swamp.

The raids on North Viet Nam continued unabated. Seven Vietnamese bombers dropped 50 tons of bombs on the bridge at Thanh Van, about 70 miles north of the South Vietnamese border.

Mississippi Watershed Is Warned Of Flooding Above 1952 Level

ST. PAUL, Minn (AP) — A Weather Bureau expert warned the entire upper Mississippi watershed Tuesday to expect flooding above 1952 levels as Minnesota's flood disaster moved into its second week.

The tremendous building on the Mississippi is expected to move past St. Paul at a record level of 27 feet on Friday.

Joseph Strub, in charge of the Weather Bureau, said most of the Minnesota River is on the decline after flooding Manako, Henderson, Chaska, Shakopee, Savage and other communities south and west of Minneapolis-St. Paul.

The Mississippi touched 23.45 feet at St. Paul Tuesday, running the record of 22.48 feet in 1952. A rise of two feet is forecast Wednesday and another 1.5 feet on Thursday.

"We don't have time to mention every stream feeding the Mississippi," Strub said, "but as a general statement for the area above Minneapolis it can be said that all streams will exceed the 1952 rise by two to three feet.

Ice continued to grind loose in the Mississippi above Minneapols-St. Paul. Belatedly jamming against bridges and causing capital fluctuations in the river level.

3 White Men Indicted in Reeb Slaying

SELMA, Ala. (AP) - Three white men accused in the slaying of Rev. James Reeb were indicted by a Selma grand jury March 9 and died April 14, 1965.

The three are Odel Hogg, 30; his brother, William Stansley Hogg, 36; and Elmer Cook, 41. A fourth man, R.B. Kelly, 30, was not indicted.

The Hoggles and Cook posted bond at $10,000 each. Circuit Solicitor Blanchard McLeod said that the trial would be held the week beginning May 10, which is the regular session of Dallas County Criminal Court.

The three and Kelly also have been charged in federal warrants with violation of Reeb's civil rights. The men had been free under city and federal bonds of $12,500 each before they were arrested Tuesday.

Reeb took part in civil rights activities in Selma during March. He was beaten on a Selma street the night of March 5 and died two days later.

Before the indictments were returned, Circuit Court Judge James B. Hare reviewed the evidence and determined it was possible to make the charges.

Hare reviewed Selma's racial troubles and expressed his concern over the charges filed against the four men.

Hare, a slender, quiet-spoken jurist, did not refer specifically to any case. He told the jurors their duty was to bear the evidence and determine if reasonable cause existed for bringing the accused to trial.

"In view of the events that have happened in this community and other communities, I thought it advisable to have a dispassionate review," Hare told the jury.

He compared the current situation to the post-Civil War era. "We see a state of national insanity today," he said. "It is important that we deal with this issue with facts and arguments. It's just a phase of those times we've got to live through."

Kerner's Bills to Up Cigarette, Utility Taxes Given Quick Ok

SPRINGFIELD (AP) - Gov. Otto Kerner's bills to increase cigarette and utility taxes breezed through the Illinois House Revenue Committee Tuesday and moved to the floor.

The measures would produce about $150 million of the $282 million Kerner seeks in higher taxes for the two-year fiscal period beginning July 1.

Kerner's proposal to increase cigarette and race track taxes have not yet been considered by the committee.

The cigarette tax, which would yield $113 million a bimonthly, calls for doubling the present tax of 4 cents a pack. Utility taxes, estimated to bring in $37 million more a bimonthly, would be brought from the current 3 per cent to as much as 4 per cent.

Before endorsing the measures, the committee accepted amendments offered by Rep. Clyde Choute of Anna, Democratic majority leader.

A rebate to cigarette distributors for collecting the tax would be cut in half by Choute's amendment. Instead of being 2½ per cent on the first $700,000, the rebate would be 1½ per cent.

$12-Billion Loan Set For Rend Lake Project

WASHINGTON (AP) - Approval of a $12,383,000 federal loan to finance construction of an interstate water project at Rend Lake near Benton, Ill., was announced today.

Formal papers to carry out the development were signed in a brief ceremony in the office of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey. He called it "a wonderful project."

Involved is a temporary dam on the Big Muddy River and a 125-mile water supply network to feed to two communities and their surrounding areas in Franklin, Hamilton, Jefferson, Perry and Williamson counties.

They have been plagued by a critical water supply problem. Financing is being handled jointly by the Area Redevelopment Administration and the Community Facilities Administration with $8 million under CPA 1 and $4,383,000 under a similar ARA operation.

The total loan will mature in 40 years with interest at 3⅜ per cent annually.

William Bitt, administrator of ARA, and Richard Still, acting commissioner of CPA, signed the official documents during the ceremonies.

The temporary dam will be in Franklin County adjacent to the site of a larger, permanent dam for Rend Lake reservoir which will not be completed by Army engineers before 1970. However, officials said the temporary dam and water treatment and distribution system can go into service in less than two years.

This structure will provide 4 million gallons of water a day to 21 principal communities, numerous satellite towns, rural villages and unincorporated areas plus proposed recreational sites, commercial development and industrial expansion.

Douglas, Gray and Graves said the project will help make Southern Illinois a center of business, industrial and economic expansion.

Death Toll in Tornado Disaster Totals 249 As Clean-Up Begins

By The Associated Press

Volunteers continued digging Tuesday into twisted rubble for additional victims of more than a dozen separate tornadoes that raked a six-state Midwest area Sunday with devastating effect.

The count of dead climbed to 249 as clean-up crews dug into smashed homes, businesses and farm buildings, mainly in Indiana and Ohio, where the twisters took their heaviest tolls.

There were no official figures on the number of persons hurt in the Palm Sunday onslaught.

Southern’s Gridders Begin Spring Practice; Thirteen of Last Year’s Lettermen Return

Spring football began Monday at SIU as Don Shroyer started his second season here.

Thirteen lettermen from last year’s team returned for the opening drills, along with a large group of sophomores, some of whom Shroyer thinks will be in the starting lineup in the fall.

Two standouts from last year’s squad, Tom Massey and sophomore Rudy Phillips, were missing from the first day of drills.

Phillips, the Saluki’s leading pass catcher last year, who grabbed 24 passes for 413 yds, is reportedly planning to transfer to the University of Maryland.

Phillips, the leading scorer with 47 points, flunked out of school at the end of winter quarter.

SIU Golfers Lose to Aces By 1 Stroke

Evansville College has SIU’s number. After defeating the Salukis cagers three times this year, twice by one point, the Aces added another one point victory over the SIU athletic team.

This time it was the golfers that fell to the Aces as they lost a one stroke 9 1/2-8 1/2 decision.

Gene Van Stone Jr. of Evansville was the only one of eighteen golfers to shoot par on the windswept course. He shot a 71.

Leon McAlpin led the Salukis with a one over par 72. Tom Muhsleman shot one of his best rounds of golf all year as he turned in an 18-hole total of 75. Other Saluki scores found Bill Muehleman with a 77, John Phelps with a 78, John Krueger with a 79 and Jerry Kirby with an 83.
A Healthy Cornell Is Needed For Kansas Relays' Friday
By Roy Frank

One big question was running through everyone's mind as to who would run SIU's track squad west through its practice at McAndrew Stadium Tuesday afternoon.

Would Bill Southern, SIU's two-time All-American, be able to run on Friday?

Cornell, the Southpaw with one-handed, was in street clothes and didn't think he could face the sore throat that kept him from being in top shape in Friday's quadrangular meet.

On the shoulders of the seniors of the Chelmsford-mile relay, rests much of the hope.

"It's been a hectic two weeks for me," said Meade. "I've been taking my shots and after the final I had to travel to Washington, D.C., for a two day briefing period."

Meade expects to instruct the South Vietnamese teachers before he starts working on the younger gymnasts.

"I'll be keeping an eye on any gymnast that might help us next year," said Meade. "I'm already planning to look up a couple of Japanese gymnasts who have expressed an interest in coming here, too."

Meade is expected to arrive in Salina on April 22 and will begin his training May 5. He plans to return back to Carlaborde around July 15.

Saluki Athletes Will Top 78,000 Miles This Year

Equal Total Travel Distance Of America's Space Twins

By Mike Schwebel

SIU's varsity athletes will possibly break the record of astronauts Virgil Grissom and John Young by the end of the school year— but it will be done by car, bus, plane and train rather than space capsule.

Like the space twins, Saluki athletes will have traveled the equivalent of three times around the earth—some 78,000 miles by the end of the year.

Admittedly, it isn't quite as spectacular as the space fete, but for teams who 10 years didn't travel beyond the state's borders, it's quite a contrast.

The football squad headed by Don Shroyer utilized University of Nebraska for all four of their road games, running up about 5,000 miles included in the mileage were trips to Bowling Green, Tulsa, Drake and North Carolina.

Carl Sexton's basketball squad, second-place finishers in the NCAA college division tournament, has clocked over 3,000 miles. The squad traveled by car and plane, but no good, a "You can't fly to games unless the distance is enough to warrant it," explained Hartman.

Although weather has presented no flight problems this year, there is always the problem of the first flight. "Some of the boys who are taking their first plane ride get a bit frightened," chuckled Hartman.

The track and cross country teams, both under the direction of Lew Hartog, will travel about 21,000 miles before they hit the last tape. Only about 6,000 miles are traveled by plane, while the rest are covered in university cars. Hartog takes anywhere from four to 22 squad members on the road trips, depending on the size of the meet.

The cross country team usually numbers five or six on the road roster.

With little more than one-fourth of travel by plane, Hartog would like to see more plane trips taken in the future. "It's a lot harder to keep the boys up with their studies in the time in which they are involved," he said. He cited a Texas storm last fall which forced his team a two-day setback.

Probably the most traveled member of the coaching staff is Jim Wilkinson, who has taken over 10,000 miles of his wrestling team nearly 12,000 miles, mostly via University cars. The team has flown twice this season, while Wilkinson has made a traditional two trips to Tokyo and the Olympic games for the great wrestling individual he has developed.

Weather has played a bit of havoc with the distribution this year. "We had a horrible time in Miami, Ohio," Wilkinson related. "We took us about 17 hours to travel 100 miles."

A constant traveler for the last 15 years, Wilkinson wouldn't mind slowing down a bit. "It would be great if you could arrive there, participate, and be back in Carbondale," he said. He is also a firm believer in plane transportation whenever possible.

"The boys miss as little school as possible by plane, for often you can leave and come back the same day," he pointed out. Whenever planes were not available, the team usually consists of ten men, using two autos for transportation.

The swimming team coached by Dave Case covered about 5,000 miles, taking all but two trips by plane. One of the University's small planes serves the squad's purpose well.

Golf Coach Lynn C. Holder is one member of the staff who takes advantage of car transportation. On the road for approximately 6,000 miles every year, the cars are appropriate because the squad plays several matches while on one trip. Holder takes six or seven golfers on road trips, using two cars.

Carl Sexton's tennis team figures to cover about 11,000 miles in travel by the end of the season. With 14 matches scheduled and just one trip by plane, most of the travel is by car. Sexton estimates the players will miss about four days of school. Playing the top teams in the country last season, Sexton regarded his team as "certainly one of the top five in the country."

Although admittedly "a little air shy" himself, Sexton wouldn't mind more plane trips in the future, but he takes the auto trips in stride. Veteran baseball mentor Glenn (Alby) Martin has just returned with his equal with their annual spring trip down South amounting to some 2,000 miles. The team used four University cars for the trip. With about 2,000 miles to go before the season ends, the team will be going by bus eight times, with only one plane trip planned to Columbus, Ohio. Speaking of more extensive travel, via the air, Martin echoed the words of the other coaches, hoping for more air transportation in the future.
