Beer battles

Tap owner foils Cole's plan to expand, add beer garden

By Catherine Edman

When the owner Alexander Cole's asked for the city's approval to build a beer garden at his bar, he didn't expect a competitor to sweep plans from under his feet

Mike Cole, co-owner of the 519 S. Illinois bar, had planned to build an "outdoor en-tertainment" center complete with volleyball net and hor-seshoe toss on the property where the vacant Das Fass stands. But an offer to pur-chase the land was made before he could do it.

John Budslick, part-owner of The American Tap, which is across from both Cole's and Das Fass, offered to purchase the property the day after Cole submitted his plans to the city. The owner of Das Fass, James Cleland, said he had been planning to rent the land to Cole because his 90-day realty contract was running out and it had not been sold.

out and it had not been sold. Cleland said he accepted the offer because his contract bound him into selling the property and he wanted to get rid of the "derelict building." The transaction is awaiting the final paperwork, Cleland said. Coldwell Banker Havens-Budslick Inc. Realtors - of which Budslick is a stockholder - listed the property.

Speed limit to rise to 65 mph in two weeks

By David Sheets

Speed limits on interstates in Illinois will accelerate to 65 mph in two weeks, and no

During a press conference in Springfield Monday, Gregory Baise, State Department of Transportation secretary, said about 1,000 speed limit signs would be replaced or altered between April 27 and 29 along roughly 1,400 miles of Illinois' interstate highways.

In Southern Illinois, this means U.S. Interstates 24, 57 and 64 will get 65 mph signs, said Richard Adorjan, IDOT spokesman. Because the speed increase is part of a federal law, it applies to only the rural and semi-urban interstates.

Support Attard for president of USO

STUDENTS WILL CAST their ballots Wednesday in the Undergraduate Student Organization presidential race. The list of contenders is small this year. Only two candidates are vying for the position — John Attard of the Phoenix Party and Vince Kelly the position — John Attard of the Phoenix Party and Vince Kelly of the Access Party.

The candidates differ in style as well as substance. Kelly, a native of Carbondale, is a non-traditional student with a degree in mathematics. Attard is a finance major and member of Delta Chi and Phi Sigma Epsilon fraternities.

While the candidates are concerned with the same issues, they depart on how to deal with those issues. In examining both candidates' stances in some detail, the Daily Egyptian has found Mr. Attard has a clearer understanding of the issues and proposes more feasible solutions to the problems facing the student body.

AS THE CURRENT USO vice president, Attard has considerable knowledge of the inner workings of the USO. This probably is his biggest advantage over Kelly.

Attard also has sound proposals on how to handle continuing problems with the status of the Student Programming Council and the proposed Illinois Public Interest Research Group forwing to account the status of the Student Programming Council and the proposed Illinois Public Interest Research Group forwing to account the status of the Student Proposed Illinois Public Interest Research Group forwing the status of the Student Proposed Illinois Public Interest Research Group forwing the status of the Student Public Interest Research Group forwing the status of the Student Public Interest Research Group forwing th ming on campus. He approaches both problems with caution, as well he should.

On the subject of SPC budget cuts, Attard stands by the USO's decision to reduce SPC's budget for next year. He notes that the USO has experienced a 33 percent increase in monetary requests, while at the same time seeing its budget cut by $10,000. He sees the cut in SPC funding as one of many such cuts, rather than a direct attack on SPC. Attard also noted the USO's reluctance to devote large sums of student money to SPC until it cleans unit finances.

While he supports the establishment of a PIRG at SIU-C, tard is reluctant to endorse a proposal to institute a "refusable" $3 fee to support the group. Too much still is unknown about what the group would do and how it would operate, he says. We also find this to be the case.

OUR ENDORSEMENT OF Attard, however, should not be construed as a blanket approval of all his policies and preferences. Both candidates come up somewhat short when it comes to proposing feasible solutions to the campus parking problem and the lack of adequate day care facilities on campus. But students have a duty to vote for those who would represent them best. John Attard is one such person.

BAS prof insults African students

This is in response to a letter which appeared in your (4-7-87) issue on racism at SIU-C.

I don't see it as being a question of racism as an attitude problem with some Americans. Among my closest friends are local students and teach each other about our countries and countries have visited. But on the dark side, take for example what happened following International Week.

As you may recall, the African Students Association presented a "warrior" dance common in the southern part of Africa. At the next Association meeting, a (black American) professor in Black American Studies scorned the Association about the dance Association about the dance, describing it as "rubbish, Tarzanistic, savage and indicative of Africa still being uncivilized!" He called the costume primitive, which makes me wonder since the makes me wonder since the same costume (strips of cloth made into a skirt, arm and leg cuffs, plus beads around the neck for men) is popular on "Star Search" and on other

As for music, it is basically what you find on Paul Simon's

Graceland album. The music and the dance go far back into the history of that part of Africa and current governments, in an effort to preserve ments, in an effort to preserve the dance, actually teach it in some schools. The dance is often performed to foreign dignitaries because it is ac-tually a royal dance for the descendants of the Great Chaka the Zulu. Needless to say, the remarks were in-sulting to African Students. Thanks to him we can't get any more to participarte in the more to participarte in the cultural program with local schools and churches. Godfrey Mitti, graduate student, plant and soil science.

Abortion negates country's founding ideals

I have read many letters on the subject of abortion in this paper. While the circulation of different views and opinions is obviously beneficial, the sad truth is that the vast majority of the letters were little more than displays of emotion or norance. The question is not whether abortion is murder. Abortion is murder by definition, it is just legal. You might say that it is legal. You might say that it is not because the "fetus" is not a human being. That is like saying that a black man is not a human being, which was said in this country at one time. Of course a fetus is a human being, what else is it? It may be just a mass of tissue, but then so are you, you are just a then so are you, you are just a bigger mas

The roots of this debate go back to the founding of this country, back to the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution and other such documents. It was said that people had "inalienable rights", one of which was life. Where did the founding fathers get this idea? Where did these rights come from? Not from the state, because the state could take them away and then they would not be inalienable. The obvious answer is that they believe God gave these rights.

As society has become more and more based on atheistic humanism rather than Christianity, the idea of inalienable rights has gradually been thrown out. For an example, look at communist Russia. This can be seen in the United States in the Roe vs. Wade decision and in others. I am sure most people are not aware of how far this has been carried out in our country. Is a baby a human our country. Is a baby a human being protected by law once it being protected by law once it is born? Several years ago, in Indiana, a judge ordered that a baby be killed by starvation in spite of massive protest and many offers of adoption, simply because the baby was less than perfect and the parents did not want it. "Baby Doe" was considered to be not human because of birth defects. Look around campus at all the people in wheel chairs. According to the judge in Indiana they do not have full rights as human beings. This step was totally logical based on the same assumption as abortion—that society has the right to do away with un-wanted individuals. There is wanted individuals. There is no reason to stop at unborns. The only real difference between an unborn and a born are location and the umbilical

As the United States moves closer and closer to atheistic humanism, more scenes such as these will begin to appear—it is inevitable. If you do not believe it, wake up and look around you. Look at the Soviet Union. Look at Cuba. Look at Central America. Atheistic As the United States mo Union Look at Cuba. Look at Central America. Atheistic governments invariably tend toward totalitarianism. The issue is still very relevant, because it is an area of life affects all other areas of life.—Phil Hopper, senior, forestry.

Legislation would clear air on smoking in public areas

By Julie Gazda Student Writer

Jay Neposchlan is leaning against a wall in Faner Hall before his class, puffing on a Marlboro Light cigarette. None of the passersby in the hall seem to notice. No one asks him to put it out.

But he may not be able to puff in public much longer. On Dec. 1, 1986, 33 representatives introduced a bill in the Illinois House of Represen-tatives that would ban smoking in public areas.

THE ILLINOIS Clean Indoor Air Act proposes that designated areas be created in public buildings for the use of State government units of smokers. State agencies, uni agencies, units of local governments and indoor areas, including educational facilities, are defined in the bill

Helen Saunders of the Southern Illinois region of the American Lung Association acknowledges the dangers of "second-hand smoke," and brings up another point.

"BREATHING IS A right. Smoking is a privilege," she says. This privilege, she says, requires the responsibility not harming others.

"A main reason why I started smoking was because a lot of other people around me did. It became sort of a social thing, where you could go to someone and break the ice by asking for a light," he said.

NEPOSCHLAN FALLS in the 24 percent of 18- to 24-year-olds who smoke, according to a report by the National In-stitute on Drug Abuse. Of all college students, 14 percent smoked cigarettes daily, and college women are twice as likely to smoke as males, the

If the legislation is passed, smoking polices on campus will have to be changed, both in buildings and offices. Susan Rehwaldt, assistant to the president, said SIU-C's smoking policy evolved about in the air — the time is right."

He is a member of a newly formed task force on a University smoking policy. The task force has neither met nor set goals, but the president's office has formed it to look at the issue of smoking, Rehwaldt said.

SINCE THE BILL has been introduced in the House, no legislative action has been taken. But if the bill passes, a smoker would be required to use a designated area for smoking. The area must have a proper ventilation system to keep smoke from polluting the air in public areas.

Bruce Swinburne, president for student affairs, says he sees no problem in changing the smoking policies.

Sen. Ralph Dunn, R-Du Quoin, says if the bill is introduced to the Senate, he would consider the concept.

"I haven't formed an opinion yet, but I will certainly look at it," he said.

DUNN ALSO SAYS this type of legislation has been in-troduced several times before, and "will probably pass soon.

Hart latest to enter presidential race

DENVER (UPI) — Gary Hart, already well established as the Democratic Party's front-runner, Monday launched his second bid for the presidency on a blustery day with the snow-covered Rocky Mountains as a backdrop.

Just months after completing 12 years in the U.S. Senate, Hart stood in a park near his mountain cabin home as an antiestablishment westerner ready to gun down a crowded field of less well-known Democrats in an election he called "nothing less than a referendum on our nation's future.

In declaring his candidacy at the Red Rocks Amphitheater in the foothills 18 miles southwest of Denver, Hart said: "I do so for one simple reason and that is because I leve my country. America is not an abstraction. It is 250 million human beings united by a common geography and a free heritage."

Hart, who was tripped up several times in 1984 by mistakes, said he could "almost guarantee" that he would make more again this year. But he promised to wage a campaign of the "highest" standards and challenged the other candidates to do

"I intend to run a campaign of ideas.

"I intend to run a campaign of ideas," Hart said and listed various areas such as military reform and trade areas where he would make his stand.
"Ideas have power," Hart said. "Ideas is what governing is all about."
The 50-year-old westerner said that as the United States prepares to move into the 21st century, it was time to abandon 'traditional politics' and added: "We are not going to select the future.
"I can help lead America to its future

Under mostly cloudy skies with the temperatures in the low 30s, Hart, in a blue suit and no coat, stood on a boulder in a snow-and-slush filled parking lot to launch his second presidential campaign.

He was accompanied by his wife Lee.

Bomb found for 2nd time in two days

BELLEVILLE (UPI) — The second bomb found within two days in separate houses under construction in a new sub-division was dismantled without incident Monday afternoon, authorities said

The homemade device was similar to one removed Sunday from a house in the Huntley Place subdivision between Belleville and Fairview Heights, said Ken Harris, chief of the Northwest Fire Protection District in St. Clair County

About six people were evacuated Monday from their homes in the subdivisiom while authorities checked all of the houses in the neighborhood for bombs, Harris said. He said the people would be allowed to return home as soon as authorities determined that there were no more bombs in the area

Workers at a nearly com-pleted house discovered the first bomb about 10:45 a.m. Sunday, but the device failed to detonate, authorities said. It was removed with help from the state Bomb and Arson Squad and agents from the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms in St. Louis.

"It failed to detonate because of a bad connection, but it was a well-made device," Harris said. "The device," Harris said. "The state and federal people said whoever made it knew what they were doing." Harris said the device, which was found on the second floor consisted of a timer and
