Non-lethal aid passed for Contras

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress overwhelmingly approved Thursday a deal with President Bush that provides nearly $50 million in non-lethal aid to the Contra guerrillas and pressures Nicaragua to deliver on promised democratic reforms.

The votes, coming three days after the bill was introduced, meant the formal end of former President Ronald Reagan's efforts to overthrow the Soviet-supported Nicaraguan government by force — the most divisive foreign policy issue before Congress since the Vietnam War.

"What suckers we are," Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., told the Senate. "Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev sends billions to his side and we quibble over peanuts."

The House, once the core of opposition to Reagan's policy, voted 309-110 in favor of the measure, which was endorsed by the entire congressional leadership on the basis of the president's pledge that he will use diplomacy and not arms to seek a settlement with Nicaragua. Bush said he had no chance of getting military aid for the guerrillas.

The Senate later voted its approval 69-9 and sent the bill to Bush for his signature.

Bush and Secretary of State

James Baker acknowledged on March 24 that Reagan's policy of military pressure on Nicaragua to end its alleged communist subversion of Central America had failed largely because of political opposition in Congress, where the Contras were condemned as human rights abusers lacking any real support inside their country.

The new administration instead forged an agreement with Capitol Hill leaders that challenges President Daniel Ortega of Nicaragua to uphold recent commitments to his Central American neighbors to allow free and fair elections by Feb. 25, 1990.

The bipartisan agreement provides $49.7 million in food, clothing, medicine and similar supplies — but no arms — for the Contras through February

Shawnee may alter for birds

By Doug Toole
Staff Writer

The Cave Valley area of Jackson County in the Shawnee National Forest could be partially converted into a management area to preserve the habitat of several species of birds.

The U.S. Forest Service is compiling a map of bird habitats in the Cedar and Cave Valley areas to create a non-game bird area to protect the birds from wildlife and timber management in the future.

Mike Spanel, forest wildlife biologist for the U.S. Forest Service, said there is a temporary injunction on timber sales in the Cave Valley area because woods within the possible non-game bird area were being cut. He said the forest service stopped the work in the area to study the possible habitats.

"We stopped the timber sale in order to study the area more objectively," Spanel said.

Spanel said he is forming a comprehensive map of where the species of birds to be protected live. He said there are currently about six different maps detailing areas thought to need protection, which need to be unified.

"Everyone involved needs to have the same area in mind," Spanel said.

Spanel said his primary goal is to protect bottomland hardwood and riparian area-sensitive species, such as Swainson's Warblers, Louisiana Waterthrushes and Pileated Woodpeckers.

Parking division could be relocated

By Lisa Miller
Staff Writer

Because of the installation of new parking spaces, the University's Board of Trustees is contemplating moving the Parking Division's office from its present location in Washington Square to an area on campus not yet decided.

The board approved the plan to expand the parking lot north and adjacent to the Student Recreation Center by 200 new spaces at the board's meeting Thursday in Springfield.

SIU-C President John C. Guyon said the parking offices are too crowded and an additional office is needed. Funding is available for the project, but the source of the income has yet to be determined.

The estimated cost of the parking lot addition is $275,000, which will come from the Traffic and Parking Revenue Fund. Money in the fund comes from parking tickets and other parking fines.

Guyon explained that extra parking spaces were needed to compensate for the new users of the Rec Center's Fitness Addition after construction is completed. The extra spaces also will help control the parking problem on campus.

Voluntary fee plan
disputed by IPIRG

The Rec Center addition, scheduled to be completed in September or October, is a $5.4 million project that will include a six-lane 200-meter track, two squash courts, four multipurpose courts and six racquetball courts. An addition to the Sports Medicine Office, a weightroom and a three-lane elevated track will also be added.

No land will have to be purchased to add the parking lot because the University already owns the land, Guyon said.

Comptroller lectures about 'real world'

By Daniel Wallenberg
Staff Writer

Illinois Comptroller Roland W. Burris spoke to a government class of seniors Thursday at Carbondale Community High School on his role in state government and their role in society.

Burris also said he was unofficially putting the pieces together for an attempt to run as the Democratic candidate for governor in 1990.

Should he decide to run for governor, Burris said his No. 1 priority would be education followed by economic development.

He said it was essential that politicians stick to what they say while campaigning in regards to education funding and not forget about their plans once elected.

Burris was in Carbondale to speak with area school superintendents on the subject of education funding and as part of his duty as a public servant, he said.

The 51-year-old comptroller said he tries to give students a role model and aid teachers in explaining the workings of government.

Al Manning, director of communications for comptroller's office, said during the school year, Burris tries to speak at a school once a week.

Burris, a native of Centralia and a 1959 graduate of the University in pre-law, said he tries to speak to students and relay some of what they will encounter in the real world.

He said he tries to use the element of shock when speaking to students.

Burris said after he received his law degree, he had trouble finding a job but after a few months he got a job at a Chicago bank.

After a year of service to the bank, Burris said a new white law student was put into a training program to move up in the bank while he was stapling tax forms together.

Burris said he went to the bank's vice president to ask why this had occurred since he had already obtained a law degree and should be in the program as well.

The vice president said he had not created racism in society and that he as an individual could not change it. He also told Burris that in order to be successful with the bank, he would have to be 10 times better than his white counterparts, Burris said.

House speaker promises to battle House charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An embattled but battling House Speaker Jim Wright, in an emotional point-by-point rebuttal, vowed Thursday to fight charges the House ethics committee is expected to bring against him because of questions about his financial dealings. "I am confident that in the 34 years I've served in the Congress I have not violated any of those basic (House) rules nor any commonly accepted standard of ethical conduct," Wright told a nationally televised press conference.

13th body retrieved at cult ranch in Mexico

MATAMOROS, Mexico (UPI) — A 13th body was recovered at a border ranch where drug smugglers sought to protect themselves by sacrificing human beings in cult rituals, and 14th body also may be buried there, officials said Thursday. U.S. and Mexican authorities, meanwhile, intensified the search for the couple said to be the key members of the marijuana-smuggling ring, which is now believed to be much larger than originally suspected. The U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration also joined the investigation.

Posters in senator's office attract protests

WASHINGTON (SPNS) — Sen. William Armstrong, R-Colo., became the target of angry protests this week when his press secretary placed anti-abortion posters, including one of an aborted fetus, in the windows of his Senate office. Within hours after the posters went up Monday, the Senate Rules Committee was inundated with phone calls from offended workers in other offices and abortion-rights lobbyists demanding the posters be removed.

Lawyers rest defense in Iran-Contra case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A drained Oliver North ended his personal confrontation with his accusers Thursday, and his lawyers rested their defense against 12 felony charges arising from the worst scandal of Ronald Reagan's presidency. Defense lawyer Brendan Sullivan finished an eight-day presentation without again questioning his star witness — North, the former staff member of the National Security Council at the center of the foreign policy affair.

Fighting continues on 14th war anniversary

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Ruthless artillery duels and fighting between rival forces engulfed much of Lebanon on the 14th anniversary of its civil war Thursday, killing 23 people and wounding 40, police sources said. Moslem objections prevented much-needed French aid from reaching the country despite assurances of impartiality by a French envoy sent to Beirut in a bid to resolve a controversy over the distribution of food, medical supplies and fuel.

Soldiers strikes in bloodiest uprising incident

BETHLEHEM, Israeli-occupied West Bank (UPI) — Israeli soldiers raided a West Bank village Thursday, killing at least four Arabs and wounding 20 others in one of the bloodiest incidents of the Palestinian uprising, hospital officials said. Palestinian sources said up to more Palestinian were killed and up to 63 wounded in the village of Nahalin, but the reports could not be independently confirmed.

Commandant arrives to supervise oil cleanup

VALDEZ, Alaska (UPI) — Coast Guard Commandant Paul Yost flew to the port city of Valdez Thursday to fulfill President Bush's mandate to get things moving in the cleanup of the nation's worst oil spill. Yost was named by Bush last week to oversee the cleanup of more than 11 million gallons of Alaska crude oil that spilled into Prince William Sound since March 24 and oozed across ecologically sensitive waterways to beaches and shorelines as far as 250 miles away.

Analyst shows doubt with Eastern's strategy

MIAMI (UPI) — An airline analyst and the leader of the machinists union at Eastern Airlines cast doubt Thursday on plans by Texas Air Corp. to rebuild Eastern as a smaller, profitable carrier. "That is a pipe dream," said Charles Bryan, president of District 100 of the International Association of Machinists, which struck Eastern on March 4, triggering the current corporate crisis.

Hall runs for student trustee, cites experience

By Miguel Alba
Staff Writer

With several years of student government experience, Bill Hall is promising to continue representing student needs as he runs for the student trustee position.

Hall said he became involved in student government in the fall of 1984 as a member of the landlord-tenant union and has worked his way up the chain of command since then.

HALL, A senior in university studies, produced a list concerning his student government experience: 17 campus committees on which he served, four student government positions and five positions within the Illinois Board of Higher Education Student Advisory Committee.

Citing one of his accomplishments in student government, Hall said he was able to gain financial aid for students enrolling in the "second chance" policy at the University.

The second chance policy allows past SIU-C students who have earned less than 60 hours, with a cumulative grade point average of less than 2.0, to be readmitted to the University calculating a new GPA for courses taken from then on.

Bill Hall

"WHEN WE, in the Non-Traditional Student Services Advisory Committee, were working this out in rough draft form, the administrator from admissions and records, who was primarily responsible for the proposal, had excluded financial aid from the rules of eligibility," Hall said.

Hall said the people who would benefit most from the second chance program were non-traditional, many of whom had problems with financial aid when they first attended the University.

Hall said he asked the committee to include in the proposal that students enrolled under the second chance policy would be allowed to apply for financial aid.

"The committee chair, the committee membership and even the director of financial aid ..... said it can't be done," Hall said.

HALL SAID those people believed financial aid could not legally be given to students who had an overall GPA of less than 2.0, even if they were admitted through a second chance program.

"I knew from my legal research it could be done," Hall said. "I was the only one on the committee that voted against the proposal in its entirety because they wouldn't include financial aid on it."

As a result of a meeting with the Student Work and Financial Assistance Director Joseph Camille, this position was revised, Hall said.

Hall said a new vote was taken with the financial aid provision included in the second chance policy. The proposal was later approved by the University administration.

"PREVIOUS TO this policy, a student who came to SIU from another school was given a lot more advantages on this campus than a student who returned to SIU," Hall said, adding that transfer students still have some advantages over regular students when transferring to the University.

Hall, a self described non-traditional student, said his position as the student member of the Illinois Board of Higher Education will allow him to represent and lobby on behalf of all students in Illinois. His term in this office will end in June, but Hall said he will try to regain the seat.

Hall said the IBHE is the highest administrative level beneath the governor and General Assembly.

"STUDENTS WANT, on the Board of Trustees, a student who is prepared to lead the Board of Trustees and turn it around completely, if necessary, to accomplish what students need at SIU," Hall said.

Hall, running under the Progress party ticket, promised not to vote for a tuition increase and praised the current student trustee, Darrell Johnson, for his efforts to gain state funds for the University.

Hall will include fighting tuition hikes in his agenda, as well as supporting a degree granting Black American Studies program, promoting the mass transit system at the University and encouraging the Board of Trustees to develop and establish an affirmative action policy.

Groups pull together to clean up Carbondale

By Marc Blumer
Staff Writer

Giving one's home a good spring cleaning is considered by many to be an annual tradition, but about 500 people are expected this Saturday to extend the practice to the streets of Carbondale.

The 2nd annual Spring CleanUp Day, sponsored by Carbondale Clean and Green, will start at 9 a.m. at Turley Park and end at about 5 p.m.

Jeanie Foster, coordinator of the event, said: "The program started years ago by the Undergraduate Student Government, but they discontinued it for some reason. When the Clean and Green office opened in 1987, we decided that since the event had not been held in awhile, we would incorporate it into the Clean and Green umbrella."

Foster said the event is community oriented, with several Brownie and Cub Scout troops, high school organizations and University organizations scheduled to participate.

Individuals can check in at the park, where they will be given an assigned area and trash bags. The National Guard will provide transportation to and from the sites if necessary.

Participants will return to Turley Park for a weigh-in, and prizes will be awarded to the individual and group collecting the most trash.

"Last year, we collected over a ton, some 2,200 pounds, of trash," Foster said. In addition, the department will be placing barrels to be used for recycling throughout the park. This is in conjunction with Carbondale Clean and Green's Recycling Awareness Day.

Participants in the pick-up will be given separate bags to collect recyclable items.

"We collected these items in 55 gallon drums last year, and we filled two of these with glass products and one-half of one with aluminum," Foster said.

SIU should establish a policy for disasters

IN LIGHT OF the confusion following the April 1 fire which claimed the life of one student and left five other people homeless, the University should adopt a policy to help students deal with disasters of this sort.

A University administrator was at the scene of the fire to offer support and housing to four of the victims who are students. But later in the week the students were told they would have to sign a housing contract or leave the residence hall.

Later, University officials could not even give the students the amount they would have to pay for housing until after checking with other officials.

THE UNIVERSITY should have a policy stating terms regarding temporary housing for victims of fires or other disasters. Such a policy could have saved these students a lot of worry and stress.

What the students ended up receiving was limited help from the University. They were loaned books and given a free dormitory room for about two weeks. The University's offer to let the four students share a room designed for six students for month at a cost of $968 was turned down by the students.

University Housing Director Ed Jones said that it wouldn't be fair to let these students stay for free when others are being evicted for not paying their bills. The difference in this case is, of course, that the people who are being evicted from University Housing signed a contract and are not fulfilling its terms. Most importantly, they haven't lost all their belongings and lodgings in a fire.

SO THIS is the help they have received from the University, but only after fighting the red tape-laden bureaucracy.

According to Darren McKillip, one of the students who lived in the burned out house Red Cross has given them about $1,000 worth of vouchers each for personal items and J C Penney donated a total $500 worth of clothes for the men.

If the community and local businesses can go out of their way to help these students, then the University can at least implement a policy to provide help for future victims of tragedy.

Opinions from elsewhere

Scritte Howard News Service

In the uproar over the Alaskan oil spill, some who may share the blame have been overlooked: Congress, the psychology profession, and lobbyists for the handicapped.

Most media accounts have mentioned that the captain of the Exxon Valdez was a known problem drinker; he is accused of being intoxicated in his stateroom when the ship ran aground. But few have made the connection between this event and the changes in personnel policies forced on corporations in recent decades.

Psychologists have increasingly accepted the view that "alcoholism is a disease," and that therefore it is cruel for employers to hold alcoholics responsible for their behavior. In the 1970s Congress enacted legislation putting reformed alcoholics and drug addicts in the same category as handicapped employees — and forbidding private companies to "discriminate" against them. More than ever before, managers must now give the benefit of the doubt to employees with records of alcoholism — or be accused of lacking "compassion."

In the 19th century individuals were ruthlessly held accountable for their actions — be they workers, students, vagrants, criminals or whatever. Our own age has swung to the opposite extreme, allowing almost any miscreant to blame his failings on his "environment." We need to find a sensible middle ground.

Editorial Policies

Signed articles, including letters, viewpoints and other commentaries, reflect the opinions of their authors only. Unsigned editorials represent a consensus of the Daily Egyptian Editorial Board, whose members are the student editor-in-chief, the editorial page editor, the associate editorial page editor, a news staff member, the faculty managing editor and a School of Journalism faculty member.

Letters to the editor may be submitted by mail or directly to the editorial page editor, Room 1247, Communications Building. Letters should be typewritten and double spaced. All letters are subject to editing and will be limited to 500 words. Letters of fewer than 250 words will be given preference for publication. Students must identify themselves by class and major, faculty members by rank and department, non-academic staff by position and department.

Letters submitted by mail should include the author's address and telephone number. Letters for which verification of authorship cannot be made will not be published.

You know, in order to get a handle on, and I think I've gotten into that mode so that a handle isn't all that hard to get a good grip on it to any real extent, this thing becomes an actual cherished vision of mine to be able to look up and say to caring brothers and sisters, which, let me add, includes, and I want to stress this, both male and female, that, heck, we're all equal in the sense of, you know,itty bitty. What was the question?

Parking lots waste of money, transit offers greater benefits

After reading the Progress Party's platform in the April 11 DE, I began to see a conflict of interest in some of their issues.

"Establishing a mass transit system by fall of 1990," is very realistic. I know. I've been researching the implementation of a campus and city-wide transit system for USG since fall 1987.

"Getting new parking lots," conflicts with some of the benefits of having a transit system.

One, a transit system can help alleviate congested parking lots on campus. Many students will use it to avoid parking their cars on campus for many reasons: To avoid playing "parking vulture"; running the risk of being late for class; parking in the wrong area; risking a ticket or being towed; saving money by not paying for meters or purchasing a sticker, especially those who cannot afford the required insurance in order to obtain one.

Two, there is a recommendation in a rough draft proposal to implement a park and ride system from the Arena parking lot once the transit system is established. Look at the Arena parking lot now. Do you see an ocean of cars?

About $300,000 in valuable land and property will be saved instead of converting it to parking lots. For instance, a bus barn and operations office could be built on University property increasing its property value. The construction would be paid for by the transit service provider.

"Establishing a University, on-campus towing service," also conflicts with some of the benefits of having a transit system. This may generate an additional revenue for the traffic and parking division but it also puts a dent in the students' wallet.

One of the main reasons why cars get towed is because of congested parking. And sooner or later someone finds themselves in some type of parking violation. A mass transit system, as I stated previously, can help reduce congested parking on campus.

In a mass transit telephone survey conducted last April by the USG Mass Transit Committee. Seventy-one percent of students surveyed owned a car. Of the 71 percent: 42 percent were undergraduates; 45 percent said they would utilize a park and ride system; and 64 percent felt that there was a parking problem on campus.

The Progress Party fails to see the impact a campus and city-wide transit system can have on campus parking. I believe they should reconsider their stance on "getting new parking lots" and "establishing a University, on-campus towing service."

Why waste the students' and University's money on additional parking lots and a towing service when a transit system can exceed in benefits. — Drayton Roose, USG Mass Transit Committee.

Sean Connolly, are you off your rocker? How can you compare photojournalism depicting a poor soul's dead body with that of "deterent-of-death" photography?

Your point about using dead body photographs to teach lessons about the actions that caused the deaths is well taken. But to compare the DE photo of Steve Schaefer's body — the result of a practically unpreventable death — with that of John Doe, who died at the hands of a drug dealer, for example, is thoroughly irrational.

To suggest that I would learn a moral or ethical lesson from a photo of a drug-related murder victim is correct. I won't do drugs; I won't associate with people who do.

But to suggest that I will gain some great insight if I see a photo of a fire victim is ludicrous. Will such a picture deter me from smoking; going to bed without checking all the flammable corners of my home; having parties; or saving others' lives? No. No lesson to be learned there.

Obviously, I support many others in saying that the DE photo is not about that, but rather about your pinhead view that you can compare an unpreventable accident with a preventable one and that similar lessons can be learned from each. — Joannette Amy-Samantha Huntley, senior, theatre.

Entertainment writers should enjoy or get out

As a faithful reader of your newspaper, I feel that it's about time that a problem be brought into the light. Let's face it guys, your entertainment writers have got to go!

It may be true that they haven't had one good thing to say about anything the whole year, but the recent Bon Jovi concert really topped the cake.

In the April 10 concert review your writer compares Bon Jovi to Richard Simmons, and calls opening act Skid Row

"mouthy" and "obnoxious."

If some of the groups such as Bon Jovi and Poison are as bad as you make them out to be, why do they somehow manage to fill up the Arena?

Another popular mistake your writers make is saying that the people that attend these shows are youngsters. Funny thing, I happened to see an audience of all ages enjoying the shows.

Get real! Do you actually think that groups such as these are busting down the doors at the SIU Arena to play there? Sorry to say it's more like the other way around.

It's not surprising to me why more good groups such as these won't come to SIU. What we have here is a classic case of DE writers wishing they were out on the strip for another lame weekend rather than covering the news and having a good time while they're at it. — Dave Synlewski, sophomore, radio-television.

The firing line

Area police trained to identify 'shoot and no shoot' situations

By Richard Nunez
Staff Writer

Early morning on Nov. 12, 1970, two University Security police officers were approaching a Volkswagen van parked near Grand and Illinois avenues when a man jumped out of a passing car and shot the two officers.

One of the officers had attempted several times to pull his revolver from the holster, but repeatedly failed. The officer was shot in the hip and was found with his gun belt pulled about halfway up his chest.

During the confusion of the shooting, the officer had forgotten that his holster strap was on and had prevented him from drawing.

The officer was one of four

Although accuracy with a gun can help save the officers' lives, their firing abilities are useless if they are not well prepared for a real-life shooting situation.

University Security police officers and six Carbondale civilians shot in what has been called the Blank Panther shootings.

Chuck Doan, Carbondale Police training officer, said the officer did not fail in his duty, but was merely a victim of mental conditioning.

Doan then speculated as to why the officer had forgotten his holster strap was secured:

Throughout his training in target shooting, the officer would approach the firing line with his gun unstrapped, Doan said. When the training officer would give him the signal, the officer would draw — without the holster strap inhibiting him — and fire at the target's.

When a police officer is on duty, police regulations require the officer to secure the holster strap. Doan said. When the officer was confronted by the armed man that day, he probably was acting on instincts he learned during training.

One time, while testing a senior officer for the Carbondale Police Department, Doan told the officer to approach the firing line. Doan noticed the officer unbuckle his holster strap as he stood at the firing line.

Doan told the officer to secure his strap, which provoked a look of disrespect from the senior officer.

Doan said he then "chatted" with the officer for a few minutes, attempting to make the officer forget he had strapped his gun. When he told the officer to fire, the officer pulled at his gun a few times before he realized the holster strap was secured.

Doan said he wasn't trying to trick the officer. He said he was trying to teach him a lesson that might later save his life.

Although accuracy with a gun can help save the officers' lives, their firing abilities are useless if they are not well prepared for a real-life shooting situation, Doan said. Not knowing that the holster is secured is one such example.

Doan offered another example of mental condition during training that has taken the life of several officers.

During training, officers are forced to dump used shells from their gun and reload. In past training, before the entire procedure was over, officers would pick up the dumped shells from the ground, Doan said. The reason: empty shells can be reloaded at a cheaper cost than buying new bullets.

In real-life situations, after a hootout, officers would pick up empty rounds when they believed the area was safe. Doan said many officers were found dead with empty shells in their hands or in their pockets.

Police officers are trained in two basic procedures: shooting accuracy, which involves shooting at targets from various distances, and decision making, in which an officer must quickly decide on whether to shoot at dummies of armed and unarmed individuals.

Police officers must qualify four times a year, Doan said. Qualifying is a testing of what they learned in academy training.

Doan said he has studied films and reports of actual cases to determine what actions an officer can take to save, not just the officer's own life, but also the life of a suspect or a civilian.

When training an officer, Doan is looking for any weaknesses in the way the officer shoots. These weaknesses include improper stance, grip, trigger control or sight alignment.

Doan said some officers would pull on the trigger too hard, thereby moving the gun and throwing it off-target. The proper way to pull the trigger is to squeeze, not jerk it, Doan said.

Some officers, anticipating the kickback from the gun, will react the instant before the kickback and move their bodies forward, Doan said. By moving their bodies forward, the shot again is off-target.

Even if the gun drops just a quarter of an inch, the shot can be far off target, especially involving long distances, Doan said.

Officers also are trained in recognizing certain aspects of a shooting situation, such as the type of call, the environment, the body movements of a suspect, whether or not the officer's life is at stake and if the officer is alone.

"The training prepares them as best as possible," Neal Jacobson, public information officer for the Carbondale Police, said "But, of course, it's nothing like the real thing."

Jackson County Sheriff William Kilquist said in a real-life situation, the suspect has the advantage because the suspect knows if there will be a shootout and, in many cases, the suspect doesn't care if he kills someone.

"Most of us are taught from birth that you don't shoot at someone. There's that conscience telling you you don't do that sort of thing," Kilquist said. "You don't have time to plan, whereas the bad guy does. He doesn't care. He just wants to get away."

Kilquist and Jacobson said if an officer is involved in a shooting, the officer is offered any type of counseling necessary. In some cases, the officer automatically is suspended with pay until investigation into the shooting is complete.

FBI Statistics: One in four women will be raped

By Tracy Sargeant
Staff Writer

Statistics from the Federal Bureau of Investigation show that one in four women will be raped in their lifetime. Many rape crisis centers say this figure is one in three, Susan Powell, coordinator for the Program for Rape Education and Prevention, said.

The definition of rape has changed in the past several years. Technically, sexual criminal assault is any act of sexual penetration that's committed by threat or use of force, Powell said.

She said the first part of the definition, sexual penetration, refers to any contact between the sex organs of one person and sex organs, mouth or anus of another person.

"Basically that means oral sex and anal sex can also be defined as criminal sexual assault," she said. The second part of the definition is the threat or use of force, she said.

Sexual assault definition changed in past several years

"A lot of people might think that the person has a gun or knife and that's considered force; not necessarily. The threat of force means if the assailant threatens to use force or violence on the person or on anybody the victim knows," she said.

"In other words, if a man would pin a woman down and she couldn't move and then force her to have sex, that would be considered criminal sexual assault," she said.

Powell said 65 to 90 percent of all rapes are committed by someone the woman knows.

Date rape is much different than stranger rape. Date rape or acquaintance rape occurs when a woman is raped by someone she knows like a friend, date, neighbor or care person, she said.

"It causes several problems—both physical and emotional—for the person. She feels she can trust this person in some sorts. She doesn't have any reason to believe this person would emotionally and physically harm her," she said.

Powell said 65 to 90 percent of all rapes are committed by someone the woman knows.

"What happens with someone who is date raped, their psychological reactions are different than someone that's raped by a stranger. Someone who's been raped by a date might find it harder to tell friends about what happened," she said.

"Their friends might not believe them, blame them for the rape or ask them what they did to provoke it," she said.

Date rape victims fear that their friend might not be sympathetic, she said.

"And often times they might not be," Powell said.

"Also someone who's been date raped often times afterwards finds it hard to trust their own ability to judge people. They think to themselves here's someone I thought as a safe person, I thought I could trust them," she said.

Powell said the person has problems being able to trust themselves, others and their ability to judge someone's character.

"The effects of rape are long lasting. They are not something you can get over in two days or two weeks or whenever," she said.

Powell said reactions to rape vary from person to person.

"Not only is the person that is raped affected, families are affected by it, friends, lovers, partners, everyone in that person's social system is affected too," she said.

For more details about the effects of rape and rape prevention, PREP is sponsoring a half-day workshop from noon to 4:30 p.m., April 19, in the Student Center Mississippi Room. For information contact PREP, 453-3655.

Hartigan vows to help victims of drunk drivers

By Daniel Wallenberg
Staff Writer

Victims of drunk driving cannot be considered victims of an unfortunate accident but as victims of crime, Neil F. Hartigan, Illinois attorney general said.

"Anyone who has suffered a loss or injury because of the careless and reckless actions of a drunk driver is not merely a victim of an accident," Hartigan said. "That person is a crime victim in every sense of the term."

Hartigan addressed a statewide rally in Springfield of Mothers Against Drunk

Hartigan said he would seek additional money to be put into the Crime Victims' Compensation Fund, which is overseen by the Attorney General's Office.

Driving Monday and vowed to continue to push for additional financial assistance for victims of drunk driving.

Jim Leach, a spokesman for Hartigan, said Hartigan's speech also coincided with National Crime Victims Week. This week was named a few years ago and was set up by various groups concerned with better care for the victims.

Hartigan said he would seek additional money to be put into the Crime Victims' Compensation Fund, which is overseen by the Attorney General's office.

Leach said this fund offers direct assistance to the victims of crime.

Leach said there are other funds available which victims receive indirectly through various social service agencies. Money is raised through fines paid by criminals, he said.

Leach said the Attorney General's office views drunk driving as a crime and feel the victims of drunk driving deserve whatever help the state can provide.

"These people are the victims of crimes and should be appropriately compensated for their losses," Hartigan said. "It is time that we provide even more resources so that we can assist those who are seriously, often permanently, injured because of drunk drivers."

Leach said victims don't ask to be involved in a drunk driving incident and should not be considered victims of an "accident." People lose their lives or become injured and this affects their families for the rest of their lives, he said.

Hartigan also vowed to keep Illinois' DUI laws among the toughest in the nation.

In the past Hartigan has successfully defended laws related to the blood-alcohol limits, license suspension and revocation, and field testing.

Last day to donate blood; SIU 872 pints short of goal

By Wayne Wallace
Entertainment Editor

It's not too late to join 1,628 other donors in giving the gift of life, as the University's spring blood drive enters its final day of collections.

Vivian Ugent, blood drive coordinator, is urging all students, faculty and staff who haven't already done so to drop by Student Center Ballroom D, 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. today, to donate 30 minutes of their time in giving blood.

"We're counting on a lot of walk-ins," Ugent said. "We've grown more and more each day and we're expecting Friday to be our biggest turnout."

With 1,628 pints of blood secure in the bank, the "SIU-C Gives" blood drive still remains 872 donors short of reaching its 2,500-pint goal.

Thursday's totals, according to Ugent: 462 pints, 58 first-time donors, and an additional 44 volunteers who went through the screening process, but were deferred for health reasons.

"We had a whole group of people, seven or eight, come in, but they couldn't give because they had all just gotten tattoos," Ugent said. "There's a six-month wait for tattoos," she added.

Since Sunday, a total of 199 first-time donors have given blood, Ugent said.

Stephanie Crist, a junior in psychology who gave blood Wednesday, said she views donating as "part of our duty as human beings."

"I look forward to giving. It makes you feel good, like you're doing something for someone," Crist, a frequent donor, said.

A prize of $100 will be awarded to the RSO that brings in the most blood donors during Carbondale's Volunteer Blood Donor Week, according to a resolution recently passed into legislation by the Undergraduate Student Government.

Mayor Neil Dillard announced the city's proclamation making April 9 to 14 Volunteer Blood Donor Week at the drive's opening ceremonies on Monday.

Dillard is urging all Carbondale citizens to donate at the Student Center and help the University reach its goal because "the need for blood is increasing," he said.

"Carbondale is indebted to the University," Dillard said, expressing the city's gratitude toward SIU-C for regularly sponsoring blood drives.

As extra incentive for students to meet the 2,500-pint mark, a challenge from the University of Missouri has been issued, vowing to match and surpass the number of SIU-C donations at an upcoming drive on its Columbia, Mo., campus.

SIU-C was crowned the nation's No. 1 school for peacetime donations by the American Association of Blood Banks in 1986 after collecting 3,706 pints, a record which still stands unbroken, Ugent said.

Chuck Warwick, collection supervisor for the Red Cross, said SIU-C blood drives are always "very well-organized" with "very good student participation."

Warwick estimated that myths about getting AIDS from giving blood aren't as bad as they once were and that hospitals in a city the size of Carbondale keep an average of 200 to 300 pints in stock for usage every day.

Itchy Jones, Saluki baseball coach, was the drive's first "official" donor at Monday's opening ceremonies.

Vernon Kleen, avian ecologist for the Natural Heritage Division of the Illinois Department of Conservation, said the habitat of these birds in this area is a concern of his, particularly the Swainson's Warbler. He said he has been trying to establish a special management area for the Warbler since 1973.

Kleen said the U.S. Forest Service hopes to harvest some timber in the Cave Valley area and is trying to determine how to do the least damage to the birds' habitat. "We have no idea how a harvest will affect the Warbler, but we know it will affect them in a negative way," Kleen said.

Kleen said the birds' habitat can be affected by reducing the size of the forest, which converts an area from closed forest to "edge." Edge is the area from the actual edge of the forest to about 300 meters inside the woods.

Cowbirds, parasite birds that lay their eggs in other birds' nests and throw out the mother's eggs, live in edge areas. If an excess of cowbirds are introduced into the Cave Valley area, endangered species of birds can end up raising only cowbirds.

Kleen said he has been trying to get Shawnee Forest officials to manage the Cave Valley area for years, but has not had much success.

"The Department of Conservation can only give input; whether or not that input is accepted is debatable," Kleen said. Joe Glisson, spokesman of the Regional Association of Concerned Environmentalists (RACE), said he was very pleased the Department of Conservation is opposed to the cutting of woods in Cave Valley. He said he is cautiously optimistic toward the outcome of the forest service's study into the area.

"RACE is not going to allow Cave Valley to be cut," Glisson said.

Spanel said he is trying to revise the forest plan to accommodate a new non-game bird area, but most of the maps he has detailing the area that should be protected are "straight-line maps", without readily-identifiable features on the ground such as ridges or roads.

"We don't want to base (the non-game bird area) on ground topography and end up compromising the intent of the study; to protect the birds," Spanel said.

for the project will be presented to the board for approval at its next meeting on May 11.

The Parking Division was unavailable for comment at the time. In other business, the board approved naming the new baseball clubhouse at Abe Martin Field after Richard "Itchy" Jones, Saluki baseball coach, and naming the office suite of the dean of College and Technical Careers after Ernest J. Simon, a former dean of the college. These approvals stemmed from recommendations by the President's Advisory Committee on naming University facilities.

Jones, a former major league baseball player, led the campaign to see the clubhouse built. Jones learned about the action Monday.

"It's very, very nice," Jones said. "Before, we didn't have a place of our own."

Burris said he was upset when he went home but returned the next day and gave himself five years with the bank to improve his position.

He said that four years and nine months later he was put into the training program and eventually became a vice-president.

Burris said life was not always fair, but by not giving up, students could obtain their goals.

On his duties as the state's comptroller, Burris explained that he was the chief fiscal officer for the state and that he was responsible for telling the people of the state where their money was being spent.

The comptroller's office distributes paychecks to about 120,000 state employees and spends about $85 million a day, Burris said.

Burris said he had a staff of about 500 people and the office writes about 15 million checks a year spending some $22 billion.

Burris said students should not get "turned off" by politics and that voting controls every aspect of a person's life.

Burris said the amount of money the state can spend is determined by the governor's proposed budget which must be given to the General Assembly to be passed. Once passed, the governor signs the budget and it becomes law and it is Burris' job to make sure the state does not spend more money than the budget allows.

Burris told the seniors they were going out into the real world after graduation and would have to take on many responsibilities.

One of the responsibilities Burris stressed was the obligation to vote.

Burris asked the students to take all their money from their pockets and place it on the table near the front of the class. He then said he would decide what to do with the money.

Although no student participated in the exercise Burris made his point by saying this is what the students were doing when they work and paid taxes without voting.

They were letting other people decide what should be done with their money without any say in what was happening, Burris said.

Burris said students should not get "turned off by politics" and that voting controls every aspect of a person's life.

The future of the country was up to the students, Burris said.

He said the students should realize that they live in the greatest country in the world and that it was their duty to protect it. Otherwise, their future generations would not be able to enjoy the country. "Keep this country strong," he said.

2nd annual team relay race gives runners tour of region

By Marc Blumer
Staff Writer

When most people think of long distance runners, the prevailing image is of a lone man or woman pounding the pavement in the early morning hours.

However, SIU-C professor Gordon Pitz has designed a race that attempts to give a team element to a sport typically thought of as individual, while giving many athletes around the country a chance to see Southern Illinois.

Some 120 teams are expected to participate in the 2nd annual River to River Relay this Saturday, traveling through 80 miles of Southern Illinois.

In the format of the race, each team, consisting of eight members, will start at Fine Mills Bluff next to the Mississippi River. Each team member will run three, three mile legs of the race, until the final runner reaches the finish in Gioconda at the bank of the Ohio River.

Relay members will be transported between points by their support teams.

"The idea came as a coincidence," Pitz, a professor in psychology, said. "I heard about a relay race in Oregon, and I thought it would be fun to race across the state."

Pitz said the Southern Illinois Tourism Council heard he was looking into holding the race, and the council was looking to sponsor a race in the Shawnee National Forest.

"The race is a very large event for our area. There are 1,000 runners scheduled to compete, plus their families and support groups," Larry Bowman, director for the Williamson County Tourism Board, said. "Around 75 percent of these runners are from outside the Southern Illinois area. Therefore, the race is a large source of income for the area, because the athletes stay in local hotels and eat at local restaurants."

"The race also gives our region a great deal of exposure, with teams coming from all over the United States and Canada," Bowman said.

Bowman said the council is serving as an administrative body for the race by helping runners find lodging and acting as a support group for Pitz.

"The event is unique, because it is the only true team sport in running," Pitz said. "The race, therefore, has become a very social kind of affair."

Gary Holda, a runner on a local team entered, said: "The race will be very challenging because we haven't done this before. Our team director has spent a great deal of time working out race strategy, putting us in an order that he feels will be competitive."

1990, keeping them together as a potential fighting force in their camps in Honduras, while Ortega is judged on his commitments to elections.

However, the money can go to the voluntary relocation of the Contras in Nicaragua or elsewhere in Central America — administration officials rule out the United States as a haven — as democratic and social reforms develop. The administration is encouraging the Contras to return home to challenge Ortega in the electoral process.

Despite the White House and the congressional leadership supporting the plan, there was opposition from critics who said the Contras deserve no aid whatsoever, and others who condemned the agreement as a sell-out of Reagan's "freedom fighters."

Sen. William Armstrong, R-Colo., said the United States has followed a "wavering, weak, pusillanmous policy of which this is just the latest, sorriest, saddest example. We've sold them down the river."

Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., long an opponent of the Contras, said the action means "the end of the war. Hopefully, it means also a new chapter in relations with Central America."

Congress does have a "safety valve" to cut off the money after Nov. 30 if four key committees find that the Contras or the administration are violating the agreement by pursuing military actions against Nicaragua. The House voted in February 1988 to end military aid to the guerrillas, and Bush said he had no prospects of getting it restored.

Mobilization of Volunteer Effort

SBA: No point in working with GPSC

By Marc Blumer
Staff Writer

The Student Bar Association, which has been involved in a battle to separate itself from the Graduate Professional Student Council, has decided to halt its participation in the organization and may seek aid from another source.

At Wednesday night's GPSC meeting, SBA president Bill Keene had organized a group of 16 law students to speak at the meeting, advocating that SBA be allowed to pull out of GPSC.

Trudy Hale, GPSC president, called the meeting to a close after a quorum count revealed that there were not enough representatives present to vote on new business. Therefore, the law students were not given a chance to speak.

"It was way out of line for (Hale) to close the meeting. We are supposed to follow Roger's Rules of Order, and they clearly state that new business can be discussed, it just can't be voted on," Keene said.

"Obviously, Hale is using procedural rules to keep SBA from discussing the issues," Keene added.

"What that was (closing the meeting) is called parliamentary procedure," Hale said. "If someone calls for quorum and enough representatives are not present, I have to close the meeting."

Earlier this semester, SBA members voted on a referendum that would have given their consent to the representatives from the law school to try to separate from GPSC. The students voted 212 to 23 in favor of pulling out.

"We have come to the conclusion that GPSC will not resolve this issue. Three times we have gone to GPSC to resolve this, and they have failed to respond. There is obviously no point in continuing to work with GPSC," Keene said.

"Therefore, we are not planning on attending the next meeting, and we refused to vote at the meeting on the future representatives and on any bill concerning funding because these issues will have nothing to do with us once we pull out," Keene said.

"There has been no formal motion on splitting the two organizations. (Splitting up) doesn't make sense to us because of our common interests. We are not going to willingly split up GPSC," Hale added.

"I oppose the splitting of the two organizations because I feel it would weaken the government," Hale said. "Power comes from students working together."

"We recognize that there are differences between our constituents, but we also have so many issues in common, such as tuition increases and the Recreation Center."

Keene said SBA operates as a "completely separate and self-governing entity from the Graduate School and Medical School. Because of the internally controlled structure of the Law School, GPSC has virtually no influence over Law School policies and procedures. Likewise, the SBA feels it is not qualified to address issues of policy and procedure within the Graduate School and Medical School through its participation in GPSC."

Although SBA has experienced difficulties, Keene said: "We would still like to work out this issue with GPSC, and we would have liked to do this without stirring up all of the controversy that has been caused."

"There is a strong sentiment in the GPSC to stick together," Hale said. "SBA has been very well represented in GPSC, and they have had more presidents and vice presidents in the last 10 years than any other school."

Volunteers awarded for their efforts

By Tracy Sargeant
Staff Writer

The Office of Student Development and The Mobilization of Volunteer Effort have developed a new awards program as part of National Volunteer Week.

This year's recipients include three SIU-C students: Erik Herman, undergraduate in pre-medicine; Peter Frederick, graduate student in botany; and Cindy Harvey, undergraduate in public relations. Two Southern Illinois residents also were honored: Kathy Williams from Harrisburg and Lucille Queen, from Marion.

"The Volunteer of the Year Awards are modeled after the national program and are in combination with National Volunteer Week." Mary Jo Hall, graduate assistant for Student Development and coordinator of project STEP (Success Through Experienced Peers), said.

The awards recognize outstanding volunteers who have demonstrated exceptional performance of volunteer service for a community, organization or agency, she said.

The winners were chosen by a selection committee from a list of criteria, that include individual leadership, demonstration of a strong sense of social responsibility and participation of volunteers in diverse activities, Hall said.

"It (the selection) was very fair and precise. It shows a good representation of the community and student volunteers," Jim Stoh, treasure and chairperson of MOVE, said.

"I think it is important for people to know that a lot of community work is done by volunteers," Hall commented.

Senate votes to hike minimum wage to $4.55

By Jackie Spinner
Staff Writer

A battle between the U.S. Congress and President Bush over increasing the federal minimum wage standard was fueled late Wednesday night as the Senate voted 62-37 to raise the minimum wage from $3.35 to $4.55 an hour by October 1991.

Bush has said he would veto legislation which puts the minimum wage above $4.25 an hour, but the Senate and the House both have passed legislation setting the minimum wage 30 cents above the Bush proposal.

"The minimum wage has been frozen in place year after year and that is not fair to the working families of Illinois," U.S. Sen. Paul Simon, D-Makanda, said.

He added, "We now have an administration that is more sensitive to this factor, so I'm hopeful we won't have a showdown over this."

U.S. Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Belleville, said he has little doubt that a compromise can be reached.

"When you consider that the minimum wage earner has lost 36 cents a week since 1981, it is easy to see why so many are discouraged about joining the work force," Dixon said.

The senate bill would raise the minimum wage to $3.85 an hour on Oct. 1, 1989 to $4.25 an hour on Oct. 1, 1990 and $4.55 the following year.

Moot court writes best brief

By Alicia Hill
Staff Writer

Members of the University's law moot court team proved to be the world's best brief writers in this year's international competition.

The five-student law team won two memorial awards for their briefs in the 1989 Philip C. Jessup International Law Moot Court Competition, which was held April 1 to 8 this year in Chicago.

The competition hosted 48 teams from 34 countries. The United States qualified 25 percent of those teams.

SIU-C's team qualified in March when it defeated the University of Minnesota, taking first place in the regional contest for the fourth time.

The international competition promotes a better understanding of international law and international relations, Mark Metzger, team captain and third-year law student, said.

"Facts from a hypothetical dispute between two hypothetical countries are presented to the teams which must then prepare arguments for competition," Maria Frankowska, law professor and team coach, said.

This year's issue concerned diplomatic immunity, specifically a diplomat involved with drug trafficking.

The team splits in half and argues against each other.

As the case is argued, each side prepares a written memorial, or brief, that presents their arguments. The briefs are scored together and judged against those of other teams, Frankowska said.

the best from both the United States and the world.

According to Frankowska, the team has won the best brief award at regional competition for the last five years.

Also at the international competition, Metzger was chosen as the 5th best oralist.

"Considering this competition includes students from all over the world, this is quite an achievement," Frankowska said.

Metzger has been chosen as the best oralist in regional competition for the last two years.

The team, which placed in the top 20 teams overall, defeated teams from Germany and Hong Kong, but was defeated by the Netherlands and Vanderbilt University from the United States.

"I am very, very proud of their performance. The students felt very secure about their knowledge of international law and their ability to compete," Frankowska said.

The team is already holding tryouts for next year's members.

"We place tremendous weight on a student's ability to work as a team member. Good oralists are usually individualistic and competitive, but a few have the ability to work with a team. These are the students we look for," Frankowska said.

Next year's international competition will be held in Washington, D. C., the traditional location.

Illinois Lotto jackpot grows, could break all-time records

CHICAGO (UPI) — The record Illinois lottery jackpot jumped another $5 million Thursday to $55 million, approaching California's record U.S. lottery prize of $61.98 million with two full days left before Saturday's drawing.

The Illinois jackpot has risen $27 million since Saturday, when for the third straight week no one correctly matched the six winning numbers of a field of 54. The payoff for last week's drawing would have been $28 million.

"Our current Lotto jackpot is only surpassed by a $55.1 million Florida jackpot on Sept. 3, 1988, and a $61.98 million California jackpot on Oct. 29, 1988," said Lottery Director Sharon Sharp. "Lotto sales have broken records for four straight days, enabling us to boost the jackpot ... and we hope to see more of the same as Friday and Saturday are traditionally our strongest days."

Sharp said lottery agents Thursday were handling more than 717,000 transactions an hour.

The record-shattering Lotto jackpot will award 20 annual payments of $2.7 million to one winner. Prior to the $55 million grand prize, the largest Illinois Lotto payoff jackpot was a $40 million prize won by Mike Witkowski Sept. 1, 1984.

The size of the Illinois payoff is tied by law to the volume of ticket sales. The more tickets sold, the bigger the prize.

Mike Fisher, 29, of Chicago, said he came up with a special way of selecting his numbers for the weekend drawing. "I developed a computer program on my personal computer which has given me four sets of six numbers out of 54," Fisher said. "I believe this is my lucky week."

Chicago lottery agent Tom Lesfakes said the scene has been "crazy" around his business. "Ticket sales has been big but there has been a drop in other business," Lesfakes said. "People are putting more money into the lottery but less into other items in the store. We've taken in more money in two days this week than we normally take in in a week."

On Monday, Sharp announced a $6 million increase from Sunday's $35 million jackpot, breaking the Illinois record of $40 million.

The Lotto prize, which began at $5 million March 18, has never rolled over four straight times.

Police say suspected arsonist should have been in Peoria jail

PEORIA (UPI) — A 34-year-old vagrant who has been charged with setting a fire that left nine people dead and three others injured should have been in jail at the time of the blaze, police said Thursday.

Joe Pickens was charged Wednesday with nine counts of murder and two counts of aggravated arson for setting the early-morning fire Tuesday. He was held Thursday on a $2 million bond.

The nine victims, including seven children, were asleep on the second floor of a two-story wood-frame apartment building at the time of the fire.

Police Chief Allen Andrews said Pickens told investigators he accidentally set the fire in a rollaway bed in a vacant first-floor apartment. Andrews said Pickens later admitted starting the fire on purpose.

Police Capt. Mary Ann Dunlavey said Pickens never reported to the Peoria County jail on March 31 to serve a 30-day sentence for resisting arrest but a warrant had not yet been issued.

"He failed to keep an appearance," she explained. "A warrant should have been issued and would have been issued. But issuing a warrant on a relatively minor thing like that can take a little while because there are so many."

Andrews said Pickens was visiting people in the second-floor apartment at about 11:30 p.m. Monday, but was asked to leave when he became drunk and disorderly. Pickens returned to the house at about 2:20 a.m. Tuesday and started the fire, Andrews said.

"He was forced out of the house some time earlier and told not to come back ... by the people who lived there," said police Lt. Donald Davis.

Court rules for Cincinnati Post in libel case

CINCINNATI (SHNS)—An appeals court has ruled that The Cincinnati Post did not libel a local ambulance company because of published stories that the company was ill-equipped to handle injuries at a 1979 concert where 11 people were killed.

The First Ohio Court of Appeals upheld a summary judgment granted last year by Hamilton County Common Pleas Judge Thomas C. Nurre that there was no basis for libel because the published stories were true.

National Medic Services Corp. and its owner, Victor Guy Ninio, filed the suit in June 1980, naming among the defendants William Burleigh, then Post editor and now senior vice president of Scripps Howard, the parent company of the newspaper.

The Post had reported that the private ambulance company on duty at the rock concert at Riverfront Coliseum was not equipped to supply oxygen to injured concertgoers.

Eleven people were killed Dec. 3, 1979, during a stampede of patrons attempting to enter the coliseum to see the rock group The Who.

Ninio, an ambulance driver that night, claimed that statements in The Post were libelous and led to the demise of his ambulance business. The appeals court on Wednesday ruled that the ambulance company and Ninio failed to show the statements made in the newspaper were false.

'Major League' is a whiff at humor

Uecker brightest point of tired cliché

By Wayne Wallace
Entertainment Editor

Bob Uecker is the funniest thing in "Major League." Now, if that isn't a good reason to avoid this film, I don't know what is.

Despite its cast of all-stars, this minor league effort, as a whole work of "art," is never as good as the one-liners written for TV's "Mr. Baseball," who plays a Cleveland Indians stadium announcer.

If you stay home and watch NBC's "Game of the Week," interspersed with Uecker commercials, you'll get practically the same effect as watching "his movie.

David Ward, writer-director, in his attempts to pay homage to Cleveland's long-suffering baseball fans by giving the Indians a pennant, offers instead a lame rehash of a dozen other sports movies, which all have been done with much more hustle.

When did it first become obvious that Ward needed to be relieved from the game? Long about the second-inning stretch. That's how obviously amateur "Major League" is.

You know the routine. One team member is an upstart rookie. His mentor is an aging veteran trying to rekindle an old flame, with the realization that there's more to life than baseball.

And the rest of the batting order? Just more stereotypes right out of "Police Academy, Part 10." Tom Berenger and Charlie Sheen sleepwalk their way through what seems like 20 innings.

But who can blame them? Their characters aren't very funny, or bright, or interesting, or anything else. They're just boring.

The most engaging scenes in the film are, predictably, its game scenes, and some of those don't even measure up to Marv Albert's famous highlight tapes.

These on-the-field action sequences — sort of a "Bad News Bears," only with adults — owe more to Abner Doubleday than to Ward's tired direction.

Beef thief is arrested after 5 years of hiding

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — A former Kansas City truck driver accused of stealing a tractor-trailer rig of frozen beef in 1984 was arrested after five years of eluding authorities, the FBI said Thursday.

Paul Ralph Hoover, 46, formerly of Kansas City and Roeland Park, Kan., was arrested Wednesday afternoon by FBI agents at a house in the 11200 block of Cleveland, where one of his relatives lives. He was scheduled to appear before a U.S. magistrate in Kansas City, Kan., Thursday afternoon.

Hoover had been a fugitive since May 15, 1984, when he and six other men were indicted by a federal grand jury in Kansas City, Kan., on charges of stealing an interstate shipment. The other six men pleaded guilty in the case and have already served prison terms for their roles in the theft and sale of the stolen beef, according to the FBI.

On Feb. 19, 1984, Hoover told the sheriff's office in Clayton, Ind., that the tractor-trailer he was driving for Ellex Transportation of Tulsa, Okla., had been stolen. The rig, loaded with 593 boxes of frozen beef being shipped from Iowa Beef Processors in Emporia, Kan., to Perth Amboy, N.J., was valued at $115,000.

But three days later, undercover agents purchased 80 boxes of the stolen beef in the Kansas City area for $5,000 and recovered the remainder of the loaded trailer in Kansas City, Kan.

Autopsy on Yippie leader performed

DOYLESTOWN, Pa. (UPI) — An autopsy was scheduled to be performed Thursday on Abbie Hoffman, founder of the 1960s anti-war Yippie movement. Chicago Seven defendant and one-time fugitive found dead in his apartment of apparently natural causes.

Hoffman, 52, was discovered late Wednesday in the bedroom of his apartment in Solebury Township, about 25 miles north of Philadelphia. The body was taken to nearby Doylestown for an autopsy, which was to be made public Friday.

"There was no evidence whatsoever of drugs or drug activity," Alan Rubenstein, Bucks County district attorney, said. "We do not know the cause of death, and we ordered an autopsy."

Rubenstein said there did not appear to be any evidence of foul play or suicide.

Rubenstein said Hoffman's common-law wife, Johanna Lawrence of New York, became concerned and notified a landlord when she was unable to reach Hoffman by telephone. The landlord discovered Hoffman's body at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday.

An unidentified 25-year-old neighbor was the last person to see Hoffman alive, Rubenstein said.

"She had seen him very briefly at about 1 p.m. (Tuesday), and he said very briefly that he was canceling a trip he had planned," Rubenstein said. "She said that he seemed depressed."

The bearded and graying Hoffman moved to Bucks County in 1967 to oppose the controversial Point Pleasant pumping station. The project is designed to divert water from the Delaware River to two water authorities and the Limerick nuclear power plant.

He was arrested at a 1967 protest of reservoir construction after he handcuffed himself to a gate.

Hoffman first made the news headlines in 1967 when he threw money on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange in what he conceived as a symbolic clearing of moony leaders from the temple.

But Hoffman was not taken seriously until he, Jerry Rubin and Paul Krassner founded the Youth International Party, a protest group better known as the Yippies.

He gained notoriety as a member of the Chicago Seven, a group of anti-Vietnam War activists convicted of organizing the violent demonstrations at the Democratic National Convention in 1968. The convictions were overturned on appeal.

The shaggy Hoffman was remembered Thursday as a skilled combination of political clown and character actor in a real-life drama that cast him for several years as a fugitive from justice.

Hoffman was born in Worcester, Mass., on Nov. 30, 1936, and attended Brandeis University in Boston and the University of California at Berkeley, studying under radical political scientist Herbert Marcuse.

Michael Rossman, a leader in the Free Speech Movement at the University of California in the 1960s, saluted Hoffman as "a clown in the best sense (who used) his skills to teach us about ourselves."

William Kuntzler, the radical lawyer who represented the Chicago Seven, said, "He was the paragon of political satirists and creator of political theater. He used it most effectively most of his life. Whether he was levitating the Pentagon or throwing dollar bills at the stock exchange, it was good theater, and he did it very well."

Hoffman's brother, Jack, of Framingham, Mass., said he remembered Abbie as a family member rather than as a radical.

"Sitting down watching a ballgame together, you know, being at the beach, those kinds of things," Hoffman said. "I considered him my best friend. He was my adviser, counselor. What can I say? He was a true patriot."

Students interested in government jobs get tips

Speakers discuss ways to prepare for employment

By Alicia Hhi
Staff Writer

City, state and federal employees spoke to students Wednesday about job opportunities in government employment at a workshop sponsored by the Public Affairs Student Organization.

At the workshop, "How to get a job at federal, state or local levels of government," speakers from the three levels of government explained what employment opportunities are available, who is qualified and how students can prepare themselves.

"We had a really nice turnout. We only expected about 30 students, and I counted 65," Patricia Rasset, director of placement, said.

Jeff Doherty, Carbondale deputy city manager, spoke about the opportunities in city government.

There are a lot of opportunities in city management and public administration, but an employee should be willing to relocate to move up in the profession, Doherty said.

"Most of Illinois' opportunities in city government are in the Chicago area," Doherty said. Farther downstate, the number of city managers with professional staffs decreases, he said.

Doherty stressed that students should prepare themselves by joining professional organizations.

"Experience is the number one thing employers look for; it's definitely worth volunteering your time," Doherty said. For students interested in entry level city management and public administration jobs, Doherty suggested membership in the International City Managers Association.

Most organizations like this publish newsletters that inform members about job opportunities and current issues, Doherty said.

He also suggested working for the city during the summer. "You might get some hands-on experience in a profession you eventually want to be in charge of," Doherty said.

Doherty ended by saying that if he were a recent graduate, he would take a trip north, stopping in cities to talk with administrative and personnel officers.

"The officer might be able to give you information about available positions, or he might give you a job," Doherty said.

Richard Morris, director of the Illinois Department of Job

Security, discussed employment at the state level.

According to Morris, his agency provides a free service to job hunters with a wide range of opportunities across the United States, Puerto Rico, Guam and the Virgin Islands.

"It takes about five minutes to fill out an application, and then we conduct a search. There are about 45,000 jobs in our system," Morris said.

Kevin Jackson, a recruiter from the Office of Personnel Management in Chicago, spoke about opportunities at the federal level.

"The federal government employs about 8 million people. We receive about 50 times that many applications," Jackson said.

Student fire plan disputed

By Jeannette Bickler
 Staff Writer

The Board of Trustees is going to look for alternatives to the negative check-off system for collecting voluntary student fees.

In an appeal to the board Trudy Hale, member of the Illinois Public Interest Research Group, asked for two things: to give students a public interest group that can be funded with a negative check-off, and to give President John C. Guyon the authority to work with IPIRG on the funding for this project.

IPIRG is a statewide organization that is involved in lobbying for educational, environmental, and consumer issues.

Negative check-off means that all students are charged the fee on their bursar bill, but may choose to check a box that says they do not wish to contribute to this group.

"IPIRG needs this kind of system. We can collect fees in a fair manner, and those who choose not to participate can opt out," Hale said. The fee will be around $3 to $5 dollars.

"As U.S. Senator Paul Simon told me," Hale said, "it's a win-win situation."

Hale also said the negative check-off system would be effective for IPIRG's accountability factor. If students were not happy with IPIRG from semester to semester, they could choose not to support it by checking the box.

Although Hale and other members of IPIRG specifically asked for their requests to be met at Thursday's meeting, the board declined, choosing instead to take a look at other options besides the negative check-off.

Board members were concerned with IPIRG's system.

"Are we going to create a new series of student organizations outside of the student activities areas?" Ivan A. Elliott, board member, asked.

Darrell Johnson, SIU-C student trustee, said the negative check-off should have the possibility for refund once it was paid.

Guyon said the administrative costs of making the check-off refundable would exceed the price of the $3 fee.

"Why can't the IPIRG be funded through the student activity fee?" Kim Blankenship, SIU-E student trustee, suggested.

Hale explained that IPIRG doesn't want to take funds away from other registered student organizations and would like to be accountable for all the money they receive.

Also, IPIRG money can not come from normal student activity fees since it is a statewide organization.

"We are ready. We have student support. If we don't get a decision today, we may not get IPIRG this year," Hale said.

Despite her appeal, the board is going to examine alternatives to the negative check-off system and discuss them at next month's meeting.

Astros edge Dodgers in marathon 15-inning affair

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Rafael Ramirez singled home Ken Caminiti from second base to trigger a two-run, 15th inning Thursday that gave the Houston Astros a 4-2 victory over the Dodgers, Los Angeles' longest home opener ever.

Ray Searage, 0-1, walked Caminiti to lead off the 15th and the Astros had runners on first and second when first baseman Eddie Murray threw Bob Forsch's bunt past second base for an error.

After Gerald Young struck out, Ramirez grounded a single to left as Caminiti scored easily. Billy Hatcher then greeted Tim Crews, the fifth Los Angeles pitcher, with an RBI double that landed on the left-field foul line.

Forsch, the fifth Houston pitcher, went four innings for his first decision of 1989. The game lasted 4 hours and 16 minutes.

The Dodgers' longest home opener before Thursday was April 12, 1960 at the Los Angeles Coliseum, when they beat Chicago in 11 innings.

Houston, playing its first game outside the Astrodome this season, tied it 2-2 when Glenn Davis connected for a solo homer off starter Tim Lincecum with two out in the eighth.

The Astros had a chance to go ahead in the ninth when Kevin Bass reached second with two out, but Murray — playing his first game at

The Dodgers had a chance to win in the bottom of the inning, but reliever Dave Smith got Willie Randolph to ground out with runners on first and second and two out.

Pittsburgh 4, New York 2
PITTSBURGH (UPI) — John Smiley allowed three hits over 8 2-3 innings and batterymate Mike Lavalliere went 3 for 4 and drove in two eighth inning runs Thursday to lead the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-2 victory over the New York Mets.

Smiley, 1-1, who lost a 3-2 decision to Montreal in his first outing a week ago, walked two and struck out four before being relieved by Jeff Robinson with two out in the ninth. Robinson struck out Howard Johnson with the bases loaded to notch his first save.

Ron Darling, 0-2, was tagged for eight hits and four runs in seven plus innings after the loss.

Smiley gave up a double to Darryl Strawberry in the fourth then retired 13 consecutive batters before pinch hitter Len Dykstra led off the ninth with a double.

After Mookie Wilson walked, Smiley got Gregg Jefferies to hit into a double play, but Tim Teufel lined an RBI single into left field and when Smiley walked Strawberry, Robinson relieved. Robinson was greeted by a single by Kevin McReynolds that loaded the bases and Gary Carter beat out an infield hit to score Teufel before Johnson struck out to end the game.

Bobby Bonilla, who singled in the winning run in an 11-inning triumph over New York in the home opener Tuesday night, singled in Jose Lind with the Pirates' first run with two outs in the first. Lind singled up the middle, took second on Andy Van Slyke's infield out and centered on Bonilla's single to center.

Braves 4, Padres 1
SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Rookie Derek Lilliquist earned a victory in his major-league debut Thursday, allowing three hits over 7 1-3 innings to lead the Atlanta Braves to a 4-1 triumph over the San Diego Padres.

Lilliquist struck out five and walked two before giving way to Joe Boveer after allowing a pinch-hit home run to Luis Salazar with one out in the eighth inning.

Boveer gave up a single to Roberto Alomar and then shut down the Padres the remainder of the game to gain his third save. Walt Terrell fell to 0-2.

The Braves got an unearned run in the first inning on a RBI single by Andres Thomas. Tommy Gregg reached when shortstop Gary Green booted his ground ball for an error. Gregg moved to second on Gerald Perry's infield out and advanced to third on a wild pitch by Terrell just ahead of Thomas' run-scoring single.

Atlanta added a run in the sixth to go ahead 2-0 on successive singles by Dale Murphy, Perry and Thomas.

In the ninth inning, with Dave Leiper on the mound for San Diego, Perry opened with his first home run of the year. With one out, Darrell Evans walked and Jeff Blauser was sent in to run. Dion James singled Blauser to third from where he scored when Jeff Treadway grounded out.

Detroit 3, Minnesota 0
DETROIT (UPI) — Jeff Robinson tossed a four-hitter Thursday and Lou Whitaker hit a solo home run to help the Detroit Tigers end their 12-game losing streak against the Minnesota Twins with a 3-0 victory.

Minnesota had beaten Detroit 12 times in a row dating back to their first meeting last season, May 14, which was also a shutout. The Twins dominance of the Tigers actually started in the 1987 American League playoffs when Minnesota won in five games.

Robinson walked four, two in the first inning, and struck out seven. He did not allow a hit between John Moses' single leading off the third and Wally Backman's leadoff double in the eighth in winning his first decision of the season.

Whitaker belted his second home run of the season off an 0-2 pitch by reliever Juan Berenguer with two out in the seventh to make it 3-0.

Kenny Williams singled off Shane Rawley, 1-1, to start the first, stole second before Torey Lovullo walked and had to stop at third on Lou Whitaker's topped ground single to first.

Oakland 5, California 0
ANAHEIM (UPI) — Mike Moore limited California to three singles over eight innings and Dave Henderson delivered a solo home run in the first inning Thursday to lift the Oakland Athletics to a 5-0 victory of the Angels.

Moore, 1-1, struck out seven, walked one and hit a batter, in his second start since signing as a free agent after seven seasons with Seattle. Dennis Eckersley pitched the ninth inning.

Men to face Valley opposition

By Paul Pabst
Staff Writer

The men's tennis team will get a well-deserved rest from traveling this weekend when it plays host to three teams.

The Salukis will face Evansville at 1 p.m. Friday at the University courts. The men then will battle a pair of conference opponents, Indiana State and Bradley, at 2 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. Sunday, respectively.

Coach Dick LeFevre says that the rare homestand should give the Salukis an advantage.

"When you play at home you know your own court," LeFevre said. "Some courts are fast, some are slow. The opponent has to make the adjustment. This should give us a slight advantage."

The men will have another home match next weekend versus Illinois State and will face Wichita State and Tu'sa the weekend before the May 4th conference championships. LeFevre said that the next few weeks will be important in preparation for the championship meet.

"It's good that we get to see all our competition for the next three weekends," LeFevre said. "We should get to see what they have and what we are going to need to do to beat them."

A slight casualty from last weekends 7-2 trouncing of Louisville is Fabiano Ramos. Ramos pulled a muscle in his stomach that has kept him from practicing serves this week.

"Fabiano took it easy at practice this week," LeFevre said. "He should be fine for the weekend. The team is in good shape physically."

Injuries, illness hamper women

By Paul Pabst
Staff Writer

A slew of off-court injuries and sicknesses have made the 15th-ranked Midwest tennis team less than powerful.

No. 1 singles player Beth Boardman suffered torn foot ligaments in a fall on Monday. Boardman, fourth all-time on the SIU-C singles win list, will be out for this weekend's matches versus conference foes Drake, Wichita State, and Southwest Missouri State. "The injury happened off the court in her room," coach Judy Auld said. "There is no fracture. We are going to rest Beth this weekend and try to get her ready for conference."

Also hurting, but able to play are Lori Edwards and Michele Toye.

Edwards, who has a pulled quadracep muscle, will compete this weekend. She played with the injury last weekend and had to pull out of one of her three matches.

Toye, who won all three of her matches last weekend at No. 5 singles, will be looked at by a doctor this week to see if she has strep throat or just a minor sickness.

The Salukis will face Drake and Wichita Friday and will meet up with Southwest Missouri State Saturday. The meet will take place at the Forest Park Dwight Davis Tennis Center in St. Louis.

Injuries playing havoc with women's track roster

Three lost to injury, two back in action before EIU meet

By Paul Pabst
Staff Writer

The women's track and field team is trying to take the good with the bad during a season that has been hampered by injury.

The good news is that a pair of athletes that haven't competed since spring break are coming back to compete this weekend.

The bad news is that three other athletes are on the injury list.

Distance runner Lisa Judiscak and Dora Kyriacou are both returning to competition after missing the past three meets. Judiscak has been sidelined with a recurring back problem, while Kyriacou has been down with a leg injury.

On the outgoing list are

Angie Nunn, Michelle Sciano, and Christiana Philippou.

Nunn is officially out for the remainder of the season because of a torn hamstring muscle. She has redshirted the outdoor season to regain another season of outdoor eligibility.

Sciano should only miss the weekend meet. She is hampered by shin splints. Philippou is questionable due to a pulled tooth that has her in a considerable amount of pain, according to Coach Don DeNoon.

"It's nice to get Dora and Lisa back in time for them to get back on track for the conference meet," DeNoon said. "Angie is definitely out for the season. Christiana and Michelle are minor setbacks. They should be back by next weekend. Christiana might not even miss this weekend."

The injured athletes will miss this weekend's meet at Eastern Illinois. Included in the teams competing are Purdue, Illinois, and conference opponents Western Illinois, Bradley, Indiana State, Illinois State, and host Eastern.

DeNoon said that even though his team will get a look at much of the conference competition this weekend, they aren't looking past the meet at hand.

"It is good for us to get to see how some of the competition is performing," DeNoon said. "But the girls are taking each meet at a time."

Men's track team ready for Hot Springs Invite

By Paul Pabst
Staff Writer

Members of SIU-C's track team won't be relaxing in the hot springs like the legendary Chicago gangster Al Capone used to, but they will have plenty to do before competing Hot Springs, Ark.

After Saturday morning preliminaries of the Hot Springs Invitational, the team will visit the town's famous hot springs and then its off to the Oak Lawn Horse Track where one feature race will be in honor of the Salukis.

Arkansas coach John McDonnell said that whether the visiting teams win or lose, all teams enjoy their experience during the weekend.

"We want every team to leave here believing this was a class track and field meet," McDonnell said. "Even if the school doesn't compete well, we want them to have fun by going to the race track and seeing the hot springs that Al Capone used to spend his weekends at."

The nine-team field will gather under the lights for the start of the 7 p.m. scored meet. In addition to SIU-C and Arkansas, schools competing will include George Mason, Iowa State, Wisconsin, Oklahoma, Oklahoma State, Mississippi State and Auburn.

Coach Bill Cornell said the weekend's meet will be by far the most competitive meet of the outdoor season.

"The level of competition will be by far the toughest we'll of faced this year," Cornell said. "We are keyed up for this meet. I've been impressed with our training and I hope we're going to start reaping benefits from it."

Runner says he took drugs at Clemson

TORONTO (UPI) — A Canadian athlete told a government inquiry Thursday that the anabolic steroids he took in 1978 while on a track scholarship at Clemson University worked so well he could lift as much weight as football players.

Dave McKnight testified that he and three Canadian teammates, including Desai Williams, were given Dianabol tablets by Clemson coach Peter Cross.

"We used to laugh about it, how big we were getting, how strong we were getting," said McKnight, 30.

JAYS, from Page 28

"It's just how you look at it," Creighton coach Jim Hendry says. "I'm an optimistic guy. We're going to put the uniforms on for 60 games thinking we're going to win every one of them."

Giving Creighton a big boost is sophomore lefty Dan Smith (6-2). In 14 innings of work, Smith struck out 17 batters and lowered his earned run average to 1.51.

Smith, the fourth-ranked pitcher in the Valley, leads the conference in strikeouts with 64.

Offensive punch for the Bluejays has come from junior

Pat Mooney, who is second in the conference in home runs at seven. Wichita State's Eric Wedge leads with nine.

Sweet relief

Wichita State's Jim Newlin, who leads the conference with 10 saves, was named conference Pitcher of the Week by preserving a 7-1 victory over Indiana State.

On the week, the righthanded Newlin threw 8 2-3 innings for a victory and two saves. He fanned 12 and walked only one. He has a conference best 0.56 ERA.

Newlin, a junior from Overland Park, Kan has recorded a save in every save situation he has faced this season. He holds Wichita records for saves in a season (10) and career (20).

As was reported earlier, SIU-C's sophomore first baseman Sharrn Lewis was Valley Player of the Week.

Lowering the voltage

When Indiana State beat the Shockers 3-1 and 11-4, it did more than reaffirm the old adage that every game in conference is tough. The Sycamores also snapped a pair of Shockers' winning streaks.

Broken by Indiana State was Wichita State's 32-game home winning streak and the 15-game regular-season string against Valley foes.

Around the horn

Besides Newlin and Smith, three other Valley pitchers have ERAs under 2.00. They are Wichita State's Charlie Giardrone (.63), Illinois State's Cory Tasche (1.07) and Illinois State's Ed Stryker (1.88)...Indiana State's Kurt Olson is 5-0 and Giardrone is 4-0, the best winning percentages to be found.

in the conference for individual batting.

"I'm extremely pleased with two of our freshman," said Brechtelsbauer. "Billie stroked one over the fence last game for a two run homer, and had a total of three RBIs. Cheryl went 5-8 in the last two games and is continuing to swing a good bat."

SMSU is struggling with its record, both overall and in the conference. The Bears have won only six games while losing 18. The Bears are picked to finish eighth by the Gateway Conference preseason coaches poll.

"The last time we played Southwest Missouri they were pretty young," said Brechtelsbauer. "They were making a lot of defensive mistakes, but Western had to work to beat them in a doubleheader this past weekend. So they have tightened up their defense. The Bears dropped its only pair of Gateway Conference games to Western two weeks ago.

The Salukis defeated SMSU over spring break at the Florida State Invitational tournament by a score of 7-0.

"They are a team that is going to keep getting better," said Brechtelsbauer. "I think we are going to have our hands full. We haven't dominated anybody this year except Evansville." The Bears eliminated the Salukis in the Gateway Conference Tournament last year by one run.

"Southwest is always tough. We have a hard time with them," said Brechtelsbauer. "Over the years they always come up and take one or two from us."

"Overall we're where I want us to be. Our bats seem to be coming around and our whole team is stabilizing. We're becoming a better ball club every time out."

Illinois State to announce new coach

NORMAL, ILL. (UPI) — Bob Bender, an assistant at Duke for the past six years, has been chosen the new head coach at Illinois State, UPI has learned.

Bender, 31, will be officially announced at a Friday press conference at the Missouri Valley Conference school. The job is a homecoming for Bender, who was a prep All-America in 1975 at nearby Bloomington High School.

Following high school, Bender signed with Indiana University and as a freshman played for the Hoosiers' 1976 unbeaten national championship team. He then transferred to Duke for his final three college seasons, and played a key role on the 1978 Blue Devils squad that lost to Kentucky in the NCAA title game.

Athletic Union) ball, so no one knew about her. She's quick and petite. She wants to beat you up and down the floor."

The acquisition of Anita Scott seems to indicate a shift in the style of the Salukis' play. In recent seasons, the Salukis have been pounding the ball inside, relying on big centers to do the banging.

But the graduation of four starters — including 6-4 center Cathy Karapwerth — and the addition of 5-10 guard Angie Rougeau of Memphis, 6-2 center Kelly Firth of Springfield and 5-11 forward Tiffany Bolden of Kansas City, Kan. (who all signed in the NCAA Early Signing Period) might mean a little transition game might be in order.

"It's too soon to tell, but all indications point to us having to open up. Maybe we need to find a new way," Coach Scott said.

Scott said her team — which features returning starters Amy Rakers and Colleen Heimstead, along with transfer Alison Smith (who sat out last season) — is raring to push the ball up the floor.

"They'd be so excited if I just loosened the reigns a little bit," Coach Scott said.

THE ARMY RESERVE'S GI BILL CAN MAKE YOU A PART-TIME SOLDIER AND A FULL-TIME STUDENT.

A part-time job in the Army Reserve is a smart way to work your way through college. Because the Army Reserve has its own GI Bill, and if you qualify, you can receive up to $5,040 for college, while you attend college.

But the GI Bill isn't the only valuable thing about being an Army Reservist. You'll also be paid for training in one of over 300 skills.

In addition, you'll earn at least $1,870 a year for serving two days a month (usually on weekends) at your local Army Reserve Center, and attending two weeks of annual training. And if you take out a student loan, you may qualify for a program that can help you repay it.

With the GI Bill to help with tuition, and your monthly Army Reserve salary to help with other expenses, you could earn over $16,000 for college in one enlistment.

The Job Search

ILLUSTRATION BY JOHN RUSH

"Congratulations, Jim—you're hired!"

Finding a good job is a challenge. Jim met the challenge and got a job by using a carefully planned strategy—and so can you.

In his junior year, Jim began keeping a "job-search" notebook. Let's turn back the pages and see if his notes can help you move in the right direction ...straight toward your first paycheck.

SPRING 89/plus 3

Junior Year

Things to do:

- Look for an internship in my field, or find someone to "shadow" on the job for a few days.
- Ask successful people in my field for information interviews. (My career counselor said these will help me learn more about the business and make some important contacts.)
- Buy quality calling cards and stationery and write thank you notes for all interviews.

November: Decided I want to stay in area, if possible. Got together with people in my economics class who live in the area and made a list of parents and family friends—and where they worked. Turned out that Maria's father is a VP for a company I'd love to work for.

January: Spent part of the holidays shadowing Maria's father. Left my card with lots of people; my list of contacts is growing. Remember thank you notes....

March: Signed up for campus workshop on interviewing skills. They taped us and criticized the way we dressed, talked, our lack of eye contact—even how we sat in the chair. Took a good look at what I was doing. I think it helped; I feel more confident now. Went back for some mock interviews the following week.

Senior Year

Plan of action:

- Use a preprinted resumé for corporate recruiter interviews only.
- Keep a data sheet of my skills, experience, and education on the computer to make updates easy.
- Focus on getting interviews, not on sending mass mailings of a resumé. Write "please-interview-me" letters that mention some of my strongest selling points—thoroughly research companies first. (Use data sheet as resource.)
- After interviews, follow up with a "why-I'm-qualified" letter matching my skills to the job.

February: My letters and contacts are paying off: My first interview is tomorrow—with the partner of a man I informa-

Re-thinking the Resumé

A job search without resúmes? Could it work?

In his book After College: The Business of Getting Jobs, columnist Jack Falvey suggests you concentrate on getting interviews first by using your communications skills. First find out who is the best person for you to talk to in the company. Call to arrange an interview. If there is no job opening at the time, ask for an information interview. (Most executives will be happy to talk to you.)

Use some of your interview time, Falvey suggests, to ask for the job title and a formal description of the position. "Ask what the job requires, so that you can match your background to it. Ask for a profile of the ideal candidate."

Then write an after-interview letter showing how your qualifications, skills, and education make you right for this job.

tion-interviewed last year. Things to remember: Let the interviewer do most of the talking. Ask questions, find out more about the company. Get the interviewer interested in helping me—even if he doesn't have a job to offer right now. My goal: To keep being asked back for more interviews, until one of them becomes a job offer.

Great interview! We got along so well, I asked point-blank: "How am I doing? Am I worth a second look?" And Mr. Wagner does want me back for a second interview with a department head who sounds interested.

March: The second interview went well. Ms. Atkins seemed to like the questions I asked, and we had a good, long talk. Later that day, I looked over my notes and wrote her a letter selling myself for the job. And you know, I am right for this job! I really feel good about it.... The call came today—I GOT THE JOB!

Jim's strategy paid off. With the proper preparation and a good plan of action, you too can tackle job interviews with a confidence that will make you stand out from the crowd. □

Job Hunting...for the "Non-Corporate" Type

You're independent and creative. You like to solve problems and get things done. You need a sense of personal achievement, and you just don't think you can get that from a corporation job.

Well, think again. These days, more and more American companies are trying to tap into the spirit of American entrepreneurs—by putting them to work inside the corporation.

They're called intrapreneurs—and you'll find them generating excitement (and profits) at 3M Corporation, TRW, Texas Instruments, Ore-Ida, Apple, Hewlett-Packard, Exxon, DuPont, and dozens of other companies.

Intrapreneurs aren't always inventors. But they know a good idea when they dream it up. And they find a way to make the dream a reality. "Companies like 3M are looking for college graduates who want 'the best of both worlds,'" says Jennifer Weixel, 3M's manager of college relations.

"Students visiting us can see that the way we're organized gives the feeling of working for a small company and the freedom to work on their own ideas—along with the security and resources a large company can provide."

Are you a budding intrapreneur? Combining your great ideas or "can-do" spirit with the resources of an established company could be (as Humphrey Bogart said) the beginning of a beautiful friendship—and a terrific career!

Financing Your Car

Get the perfect car for you and your budget!

You're finally ready to buy your first car. Most likely, it will be the biggest investment you've ever made. You are already thinking about the freedom it will bring, and you're feeling the relief of knowing transportation will no longer be an inconvenience. But before you make any rash decisions, it pays to do some careful research.

So the sleek sports car is out of your price range. And the luxurious, roomy sedan? Well, you'll have to wait on that one too. Before you begin to shop, take a careful look at your budget—your income and your expenses—and decide what you can comfortably afford. Beyond the cost of the car itself, which usually includes a down payment and monthly loan payments, calculate maintenance expenses. Include what you'll need to spend for gas and upkeep, repairs, and insurance.

The annual automobile issue of Consumer Reports lists average repair costs for over 100 car models.

Insurance rates vary dramatically. It's best to call several insurers and get quotes.

Credit time

You should shop for a loan as carefully as you shop for a car. About 75 percent of all new-car buyers and 50 percent of used-car buyers finance their purchase.

Car loans are available from a number of sources. Some lenders have special auto-loan programs for college graduates. Compare rates at financial institutions—banks, savings and loans, credit unions—and through the dealership.

Comparing loans

Interest rates vary among lenders. The first number to get and compare is the annual percentage rate (APR), which lenders are required to disclose under federal law. Don't be misled by monthly payment figures. They vary with the length of the loan and the APR. You can keep your monthly payments down with a longer-term loan, but you'll pay more in the long-run than if you took out a shorter-term loan.

For example, if you finance $9,000 at 11 percent interest for three years, your monthly payments will be $294.30, and you'll pay a total of $1,594.80 in interest over the life of the loan. If you finance the same amount at the same rate for five years, you will pay $195.30 a month and a total of $2,718.00 in interest.

The table below will help you determine, at various interest rates, monthly loan payments for three, four, and five-year loans. For example, say you need to borrow $6,000 over five years at 10 percent. Divide the amount of the loan by 1,000 and multiply the result by $21.20. Your monthly payment equals $127.20.

Make your first investment a smart one. Doing your financial homework will put you in the driver's seat. □

Term	Monthly Loan Payments (per $1,000 borrowed)
	Annual Percentage Rate
	9%	10%	11%	12%	13%	14%	15%
3 Years	$31.80	$32.30	$32.70	$33.20	$33.70	$34.20	$34.70
4 Years	$24.90	$25.40	$25.80	$26.30	$26.80	$27.30	$27.80
5 Years	$20.80	$21.20	$21.70	$22.20	$22.80	$23.30	$23.80

GUIDE

The Beach and Beyond

Expanding your horizons

Whether you travel to learn more about other people and places, to study history or nature, or just to get away, you'll find yourself changed by new experiences. That's why it's important to plan ahead for the most rewarding trip.

Hit the books

Before you go, learn as much as you can about the place you'll be visiting. Read up on the history, climate, culture, and attractions. Buy a travel guide to your destination. Mobil, Fodor's, Frommer, Birnbaum, and Let's Go guides are informative and useful.

The American Youth Hostels has several travel books. Contact them at P.O. Box 37613, Washington, DC 20013-7613.

Pick up credit along the way

There are many ways in which you can earn college credit for your travels. The National Audubon Society, for example, offers Wilderness Research Backpack Programs for credit. These programs involve two-week trips to the Wind River or the Absaroka Mountains in Wyoming. The trips are offered in July. The cost is $550. You can write to them at 613 Riversville Road, Greenwich, Connecticut 06830.

A good sourcebook for travel-study programs abroad is Whole World Handbook, available from the Council on International Education Exchange (CIEE), 205 E. 42nd St., New York, New York 10017.

Pursue your special interest

If you're interested in a specific type of vacation—a biking tour, or a week in the wilderness, for example—check with organizations such as the Sierra Club and International Youth Hostels. They, along with many other organizations and clubs, offer trips tailored to specific interests.

For the altruistic, Volunteer Vacations conducts outdoor projects with volunteers of all ages. Write the American Hiking Society/Volunteer Vacations, Box 86, North Scituaae, Massachusetts 02060.

A travel agent can help you find a special-interest vacation in the Specialty Travel Index, a worldwide listing of trips by activity, interest, and location.

Hassle-free travel

Here are some suggestions for an enjoyable trip:

- Apply for your passport and necessary visas at least six weeks in advance. You can apply for your passport at a U.S. passport agency, designated post office, or clerk of court. You'll need to show proof of citizenship and identity. You'll also need two identical 2" x 2" photos that have been taken in the past six months. The fee for an adult passport is $42, and it is valid for 10 years.

Contact a travel agency or the consulates or embassies of the countries you plan to visit to see if you'll need a visa.

- Get an International Student ID Card through CIEE.

- Have a small amount of local currency on hand before arriving at your destination. Once there, shop for the best exchange rates.

- Store travel documents and money in different places. Put some in your wallet or purse, others in pockets or a moneybelt worn around your neck, under your clothing. Make a list of numbers of documents and traveler's checks in case you need replacements.

- Pack light. Bring comfortable shoes and easy-to-care-for clothes.

And, most important, have fun! □

Women's basketball team nets St. Louis recruit

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Women's basketball coach Cindy Scott calls her latest signee, 5-7 point guard Anita Scott of Normandy (Mo.) High School, "My own little Christmas present."

To tell this story correctly we must go back to late December, when Coach Scott was in need of some holiday cheer.

The Salukis had just returned from the Seattle Times-Huskie Classic with two losses and an overall record of 2-5. Coach Scott had even cut a family visit in Tampa to two days so she could return to Carbondale for practice.

Her Dec. 26 flight from Tampa arrived in St. Louis, but instead of driving directly home she decided to make a stop at a local prep tournament.

Coach Scott, who is a graduate of the city's Lindbergh High School, has gone the St. Louis route before. Former Saluki standouts Dana Fitzpatrick, Bridgett Bonds, Petra Jackson, Connie Price and D.D. Plab were all St.

Louis area products.

"As soon as I walked into the gym, I saw this outstanding point guard," Coach Scott said. "Now I feel I have a good handle who the talent is in St. Louis, but I didn't know this player."

"I figured if she was this good, though, somebody else must have recruited her. But I went and talked to her coach and found out that she was not heavily recruited."

On Wednesday, Anita Scott signed a national letter of intent, and Coach Scott finally got to celebrate Christmas.

Coach Scott expects to sign a post player today or Saturday.

Anita Scott, who averaged 18.5 points and 5.8 rebounds, led Normandy to second in the district and 15-11 record during what was a rebuilding season for Coach Kendall McGowan's Lady Vikings. Normandy was 17-7 the previous season.

"SIU has found a diamond in the rough," McGowan said. "Not many people knew about her, but she's a fine player who does so many things well."

As a perimeter shooter, Anita Scott made 47.7 percent of her shots. She also averaged 6.6 assists and 6.5 steals per game.

"She was willing to compromise her individual skills to blend into our team concept," McGowan said. "She's a true point guard who can take charge, but she's also a great person off the court."

Coach Scott was eager to sign her namesake. "Some of the best players we've had have been relative unknowns. Anita didn't attend any camps or play AAU (Amateur

Baseball team heads to Peoria for 4

Bradley star may not play against SIU-C

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

The Bradley Braves could be minus league-leading hitter Jerry Mitchell when they play host to the Saluki baseball team this weekend at Meinen Field.

The twin set of doubleheaders will start at noon on both Saturday and Sunday. Bradley is 21-9 overall and last in the Valley at 1-3. The Salukis are 17-13 and 2-2.

Mitchell, who is hitting .443 and leads the Braves with 24 RBIs, left last Saturday's game against Creighton with a concussion after a collision at home plate. He has not played since.

But Mitchell's injury is slight compared to the other players on the Braves' disabled list:

Starting catcher Tony Ardis is out because of a bad reaction to a measles shot he received as a result of the outbreak on the Bradley campus in Peoria.

Pitchers Tim Trunk and Matt Jones are unavailable for an indefinite period because of a variety of ailments.

after something popped in his left arm.

Shortstop Shaun Sanderson suffered a pulled hamstring in his left leg and missed two games Sunday.

The latter injuries came amid near-freezing temperatures in Omaha, Neb., which Creighton enjoyed to the tune of a 3-1 start in the Valley.

But Bradley coach Dewey

Kalmer said the cold and the rash of injuries were related.

"It was horrible out there," Kalmer said. "I really think the weather could have had something to do with the injuries. Now we're in trouble. I might have to make Sanderson a pitcher — when and if I get him back."

Even with Bradley prepared more for a hospital bed than the diamond, Saluki coach Itchy Jones wants his team ready for close games.

"There aren't many runaways in the Valley," Jones said. "A team that scores three runs is going to have a very good chance of coming out with a win. I expect to see the 3-2 and 2-1 ball games now that we're in the conference season."

Blue Jays lead Missouri Valley after first week

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

After the first week of Missouri Valley baseball action, the team that was supposed to be in first — wasn't. But the team picked to dwell in the cellar, is having the time of its life as the lone team at the top.

Coming out of this topsyturvy, upside down mess was Creighton, which took three of four games from Bradley and set itself up as an apparent pretender for the Valley crown.

Meanwhile, rightful heir Wichita State had to come to grips with its own mortality. For the first time this season the Shockers lost consecutive games — in this case to Indiana State — and adding an insult to their injured egos, on their home turf at Eck Stadium.

Creighton is 24-11 overall, and this weekend will play the main giant killer in this affair, Indiana State (20-10).

One thing is for sure, Creighton doesn't suffer from an inferiority complex.

Softball team to put conference record on line

By Douglas Powell
Staff Writer

With an undefeated Gateway Conference record, the Saluki softball team will be on the road to duel conference foes, Wichita State and Southwest Missouri State today and Saturday.

The Salukis play a doubleheader against Wichita today in Wichita, Kan. at 1 p.m., and a doubleheader against Southwest Missouri Saturday in Springfield, Mo. at noon.

Gateway Conference standings place the Salukis in third, behind Indiana State (13-14) and Western Illinois (12-4-1).

The Salukis, 12-9 overall and 2-0 in Gateway Conference play, go head-to-head with Wichita for the first time this season.

The Shockers, 18-20 overall and 1-1 in the league, split its only two conference games with Bradley last week. The

Centralia pitcher signs intent letter for Salukis

By Douglas Powell
Staff Writer

Saluki softball players seem to come in pairs and next season there will be one more duo in the lineup.

The team already has junior second baseman Shelly Gibbs and freshman pitcher Dede Darnell, from Carbondale, and sophomore pitcher Lisa Robinson and sophomore catcher Michele Davidovich from Bethel Park, Pa.

Next season there will be one more duo to stomp the dust at IAW Fields Freshman outfielder Billie Ramsey, from Centralia, will introduce her old high school teammate Angie Mick to the collegiate ranks.

Mick signed a national letter of intent Thursday at Centralia High School.

Mick, a three-year starting pitcher for CHS, began her senior season with a 44-20 career record, while leading the Orphan Annies to regional titles each year.

The last two years she has been a 17-game winner on the mound, while Centralia captured a conference crown (1987), sectional chamionship (1988), and advanced to the IHSAA State quarterfinals (1988).

Mick holds several school records including most victories (44), lowest ERA (0.94) and strikeouts (541).

"We are extremely pleased and very fortunate to sign Angie," said Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer in a press release. "Angie will be a great addition."

"Angie has good size for a pitcher and has the ability to throw hard. She has all the physical tools to become an outstanding college pitcher."

Salukis downed Bradley in the Saluki Invitational tournament early this season.

Saluki coach Kay Brechtelsbauer will travel to Kansas a little cautious.

"They have a little more experience under their belt this year," said Brechtelsbauer. "Also, they have an outstanding pitcher that is one of their better hitters."

The Shockers are backed up with pitching powerhouse Patty Bautista, who has a 1.32 ERA, 11 wins, an outstanding 96 strikeouts and only 13 walks. In the Shockers' game against Friends two weeks ago, Bautista tied a Wichita State single season shutout record as she racked up her sixth of the year.

Bautista is also impressive at the plate with a .320 batting average. She went 8-14 (.362) at the plate in the Creighton Invitational and collected two wins on the mound to boost her record to 10-9.

The Salukis have two fine pitchers in Carbondale native Dede Darnell (1.37 ERA, 1-2) and Missourian Traci Furlow (1.48 ERA, 4-2).

Cheryl Venorsky, freshman shortstop from Belleville, Ill., is the Saluki powerhouse at the plate. She is hitting team high .365 and has settled into seventh place in the conference for individual batting.

Billie Ramsey, freshman outfielder from Centralia, Ill., is on Venorsky's heels with a .342 batting average and 10th
