Class Nets $10 in 'Unknown Cause'

A freshman design class project, intended to get people to donate to a cause without knowing what the cause was, netted $10.17. The money will be donated to the Kennedy Memorial Library Fund.

Paul Bahan's box brought in $1.14, which made him the top money-maker in the project. Bahan used a hexagonal "donation box" which said merely "give, give, give" on its sides. Signs such as "look" and "stop" were intended to draw attention to the box.

"This design problem was an exercise in thinking relative to problem solving," said Herbert Roan, lecturer in design, whose freshman classes were involved in the exercise. "The problem was a success in relationship to design activities," Roan added.

According to Elizabeth Mullins, coordinator of student activities, only two persons expressed concern that money was being solicited without stating the cause. One of these persons, Miss Mullins said, was merely asking what was going on.

The projects were placed on campus last Wednesday for a three-hour period from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. They ranged from a picture of Alfred E. Newman dressed as a Santa and saying, "Give in the Christmas Spirit," to a toilet bowl saying simply, "Make a Wish."

Graduate Faculty to Meet Here Today

★ Registration Date Correction Made

New students, and those who are presently in school but not registered for winter quarter, will be able to register during the central registration Jan. 4-6 in the SIU Arena.

New students will be advised and registered from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Jan. 4.

On Jan. 5, the same process will continue from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The last time for registration and advisement of all students presently in school will be from 8 a.m. to noon Jan. 6. A $3 late fee will be due at this time.

No program changes will be made at any time during these three days of registration and advisement.

GS Program Considered By Council

The Student Council, in its final meeting of the term, referred to a subcommittee a bill which would establish a committee to examine the General Studies program.

The bill said that the committee, if organized, would study the criticisms of the three-year-old system. Then, if the committee felt it warranted such action, it would make recommendations for revisions to President Delyte W. Morris and the executive officer of General Studies.

The committee would consist of the two student senators from General Studies and three other student senators appointed by the student body president and the Council.

The Council referred the bill to the Academic Affairs Committee to be studied and taken up at the second meeting of next year.

Elections, Talk by Morris, Annual Report on Agenda

The annual graduate faculty meeting for members of both SIU campuses will be held at 10 a.m. today in Furr Auditorium of University School.

David T. Kenney, acting dean of the Graduate School, said the agenda for the meeting would be as follows:

An election will be held to fill vacancies on the Graduate Council. Three positions from

Board Members To Meet Today

The SIU Board of Trustees meet today in the conference room of the President's Office to study the biennial capital improvements budget.

The budget must be approved by the Board before it can be considered by the State Board of Higher Education and the State Legislature.

Board members will gather for a luncheon, after which they will hold the business session.

In the evening they will attend a Christmas carol dinner.

the Carbondale campus and two from the Edwardsville campus will be filled.

Carbondale at-large representative nominees are Paris Roy Brammell, David Ehrenfreund, and Herman M. Haag.

Nominees for representative from the agriculture, technology, and home economics sector at Carbondale are John W. Andresen, Scott W. Hinners, G. Robert Hoke, and Eileen E. Quigley.

Nominated for representative from the education sector, Carbondale, are Paris Roy Brammell, Elmer J. Clark, Oliver P. Kolstoe, and J. Murray Lee.

Nominated for representative from the business sector at Edwardsville are Walter L. Blackledge, Leo Cohen, John I. Glynn, Ken E. Martin, and John V. Meador.

Nominated for representative from the humanities and fine arts sector, Edwardsville, are Lloyd G. Blakely, Paul F. Guehrer, Nicholas T. Joost, and A.G. Pellegrino.

President Delyte W. Morris will talk to the Graduate Faculty after the voting.

President Morris will be followed on the program by Robert W. MacVicar, vice president of academic affairs, and William J. McKeefery, dean of academic affairs.

The next item of business at the meeting will be the presentation of the written annual report of the Graduate Council to the faculty by Harold M. Kaplan, chairman of the Department of Physiology and chairman of the Graduate Council and the graduate faculty.

Kenney said the annual meeting will conclude with the announcement of the election results for the vacancies on the Graduate Council.

Gone Are the Days of All-Night Sessions

To Cram for Final Exam at 7:30 a.m.

By Margie Watson
Gone are the good old days when....

"Ya going to make a night of it?"

"Yea."

"Got lots to learn?"

"Not really, but how else am I going to make it to my 7:30 final?"

When you could not find a seat in a lounge at Woody at 3 in the morning. There were as many girls running around as if it were afternoon.

Coffee pots perking; water heaters heating. Cookies, candies, crackers of every kind.

And then morning came. . . for some too soon and tor others after a thousand years.

You eat a nice well-balanced breakfast . . . not bothering to count the times your stomach turns over, drink that last cup of coffee and smoke that last cigarette, or smoke that last cup of coffee and drink that last cigarette.

Off you go to Shryock. Ha, ha, ha! There should be a sign over the door reading "LAST CHANCE!" What do you find when you go in? No dancing, no singing, no "con-vo," only lots of pink and white and yellow and blue tests.

"This is it, kiddies--what we have been trying to tell you all quarter. I know we didn't get past the first chapter, but I gave you an idea, during the last class session, of what was in the other twelve.

"I hear the department decided the first chapter wasn't important...decided to leave it out. But I wouldn't worry too much if I were you....(Just get up and run! That "W" before the grade means "better luck next time.")

Salukis' Balanced Attack Shoots Down Eagles 72-53

The Salukis continued their mastery over the home court Friday night as they whipped Tennessee Tech 72-53.

The victory was the third in as many games for Southern in the Arena, and snapped a two-game losing streak for coach Jack Hartman's five.

Southern jumped out to a narrow lead early in the game and trailed only three times throughout the whole contest. With the Salukis in the lead 10-8, the Eagles tied it up on a 20-footer by forward Ron Filipek and followed with a free throw by Ron Hobson to take over the lead 11-10. Tech took the lead for the last time two minutes later when guard Harry McKinney put his team ahead 18-17. But from then on it was Southern's game as the Salukis slowly padded their score.

Walt Frazier was the big gun on offense for Southern in the first half as he pumped in 15 points to pace the Salukis to a 37-24 halftime lead. Another sophomore, 6-7 center Ralph Johnson was a big help to the Salukis as he pulled down several rebounds in his finest performance this season.

Frazier continued to lead the Salukis in the second half, pouring in the first six points as Southern built up a 43-28 lead with only four minutes gone.

At this point, however, the Eagles closed the gap, and midway through the last half they trailed only 50-42. But the Salukis once again widened the margin as Frazier, Johnson and George McNeill led the way to a 60-45 lead.

McNeill, who has led the team in scoring all season, was the spark in the second half as he put through 13 points and wound up with 19 for the game.

Frazier was the leading scorer in the game with 23 points. McNeill was second in Saluki scoring with 19 points. Johnson also wound up in double figures with 10 points for the night. Frazier also led in rebounds with eight. Johnson had seven.

Harry McKinney was the game's second highest scorer as he paced Tech with 21 points. He was followed by fellow backcourt man Steve Hays with 10.

Southern hit .420 from the field by connecting on 27 of 67 attempts and added 18 more from the foul line in 27 tries. The Eagles made 22 of 54 field goal attempts for a .407 percentage and they made nine of 12 free throws.

The Salukis return to action tonight when they play host to State College of Iowa at 8 o'clock in the Arena.

U. High Chorus, Orchestra, Madrigals To Give 'Carols at Christmas' Concert

As its closing concert of the fall season, the Department of Music will present the University High School Chorus, Madrigals and a chamber orchestra in a program of "Carols at Christmas" at 4 p.m. Sunday in Shryock Auditorium.

The orchestra, newly organized this fall and composed mostly of University High students, is conducted by Peter L. Spurbeck. It will open the program with Corelli's "Concerto Grosso (Christmas Concerto), Op. 6, No. 8," and will accompany the vocal groups, directed by Charles C. Taylor, associate professor of music.

Lucy Stephenson, harpist, will accompany the girls' chorus in Benjamin Britten's "There Is No Rose" and the choir's recessional, Britten's "Hodie Christus Natus Est," both numbers from the composer's "Ceremony of Carols."

Selected readings from the scriptures will be interspersed with the musical portions of the program. Kandy Graper, University High School student, will read the passages.

The Madrigal Singers will sing three numbers, "Masters in This Hall," arranged by Shaw, "Companions All, Sing Loudly," arranged by Kirk, and "A Christmas Madrigal" by Lothar Klein.

Chorus selections include "O Come, O Come Emmanuel" as a processional; Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring"; "Sleep, Little Jesu, Sleep," arranged by Halloran; "Sanctus" from "Lord Nelson Mass" by Joseph Haydn; "March of the Wise Men" from "The Babe of Bethlehem" by Harvey Gaul; "Thou Must Leave Thy Lowly Dwelling" from "L'Enfance du Christ" by Hector Berlioz; and Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus" from "The Messiah."

English Professor to Attend D. H. Lawrence Conference

Harry T. Moore, research professor of English, will participate in a D.H. Lawrence conference at the University of New Mexico, Albuquerque, Wednesday through Friday.

Considered a foremost international authority on the controversial novelist, Moore will join Lawrence scholars from the University of California, the University of Texas and host E.D. Tedlock Jr. of New Mexico in a series of lectures and panel discussions.

Also to take part are David Garnett, noted British author and personal friend of Lawrence who spent November as a visiting lecturer at SIU, and J.D. Chambers, British scholar who also knew Lawrence and who was a guest lecturer at SIU in October.

The final day of the conference will be spent at the Lawrence ranch near Taos, N.M.

Moore, a former Guggenheim fellow, is the author of "A D.H. Lawrence Miscellany," published by the Uni-

A Match

The lowly match, a mite of technology, has come a long way. First devised in 1827, it was produced in small numbers. Today, however, through the wonders of mass production and matchbook-cover advertising, this warmth-making minuscule miracle can be brought to us by the millions.

But alas, in spite of all this, there is little warmth on campus, for often there is no great abundance of matches around.

The problem may be of little importance to all except arsonists and smokers, but the latter compose a sizable segment of the student body. Vending machine servicemen admit that they do not put as many packs of matches in their silver-levered merchants as they do packs of cigarettes. After all, lots of people do have lighters. So intermittently there is a shortage of matches.

The cry goes up: "A match, a match, my kingdom for a match!" The pain of a nicotine fit is felt in one's chest.

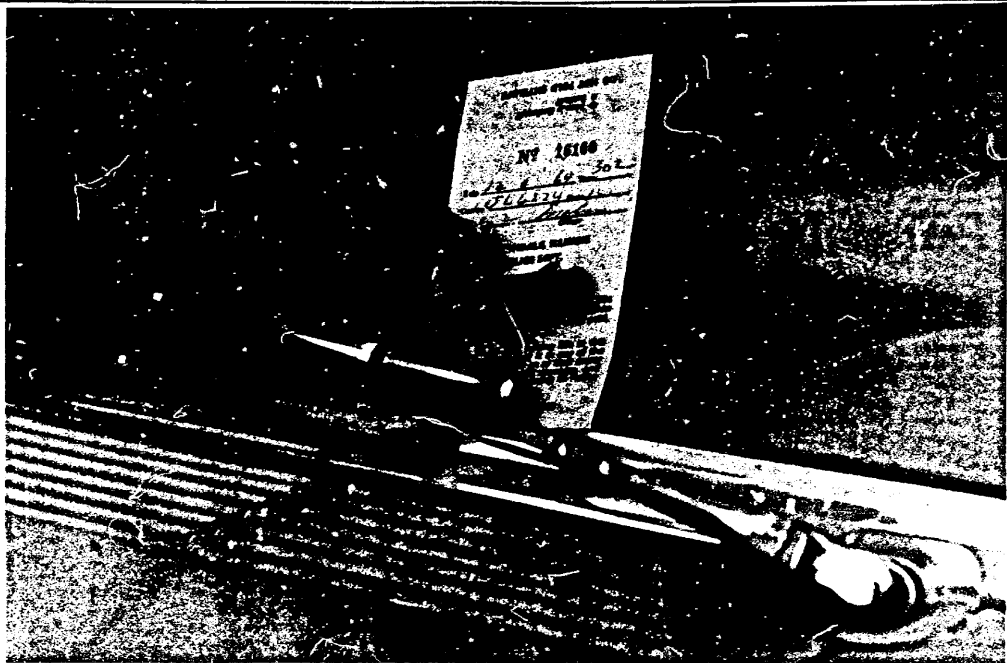

Yet there are courses of action open to the matchless smoker. If he is bold, he may dare risk the peril of a beauty's wrath by requesting a pack of matches at the University Center information desk. Or, he may buy his cigarettes from a human merchant who will supply him with a means to ignite them.

This latter method, however, is out of line with University thinking, for we, as students, should demonstrate our loyalty to SIU by purchasing as many items as possible from campus vending machines. The University gets a cut of the profits. This amounts to more than $50,000 a year, and most of this goes into the student welfare fund.

The third course of action is to buy a lighter. Maybe they could be sold in vending machines. Then, too, why not quit smoking?

Problems, problems--big ones and little. Why not more matches?

HAVE YOURSELF A MERRY LITTLE CHRISTMAS. WW

Beatles' Mop-Top Mayhem Subverting Kids

By Arthur Hoppe
San Francisco Chronicle

"Stamp out Beatles!" It was my good friend, Miss Amanda, national commander of "I", the superpatriotic stamping-out society. And she looked right pert in her black bombazine and matching tennis shoes.

Beetles? "No, Beatles!" cried Miss Amanda. "You know, those long-haired aliens who are part and parcel of a Commie plot to destroy the little minds of our little children! And I have documentary evidence to prove it!"

With that she pulled from her reticule a speech entitled "Communism, Hypnotism and the Beatles," currently being given on the superpatriotic circuit by the Rev. David Noebel of the Christian Crusade.

In it, the good preacher says the Communists have now infiltrated our great American record industry and are producing hit songs with 82 beats per minute, ominously "the same as the pulse rate" of the average child. Moreover, he says, these Beatle riots condition our youngsters for political activism. And the whole thing, he tells us, "is a program to nerve jam your kids."

"Whoa-boy!" crowed Miss Amanda, happily rubbing her hands. "It's the grandest plot we've exposed in just ages! Ringo is obviously the ring-leader! They hope to subvert our wonderful, red-blooded, weak-headed American youth! They..."

Nonsense, I said. "Nonsense?" she snapped, hefting her furled umbrella. "I knew it! You're a ComSymp, a Beatle - apologist, a fellow crawler!"

No, I said, it's even worse than the Rev. Noebel suspects. "Worse?" said Miss Amanda hopefully.

Far worse, I said. The Reverend obviously has no teenage daughters in the house addicted to Beatle records night and day. And thus he's never observed the horrible effects at first hand. "Do they spit on the flag?" cried Miss Amanda gleefully. "Do they go sex mad? Tell me, tell me!"

I said I'd do even better than that. I'd play an actual Beatle record for her--17 times. "Hot zani!" said Miss Amanda. "You're right! It's like smut. You've got to study the real thing! Over and over!"

She leaned forward as I put the record on, a fine look of suspicious anticipation on her vigilant features. By the third playing, this had become an expression of grim dedication. By the seventh, the glint had gone from her eyes. Midway through the 13th, she went rigid.

"See?" I said, when at last I turned the thing off. "This plot to drive people mad isn't aimed at our tough-minded, callous - brained teen-agers.

As any parent can tell you, it's aimed at us grown-ups. And when you realize that our President has two teen-aged daughters himself, who... Miss Amanda?" Miss Amanda?"

It took two glasses of elderberry wine to revive her. And when I urged her to march off on a desperately needed anti-Beatle crusade, she merely muttered, "Yeah, yeah, yeah." And tottered dazedly out the door.

Oh, I fear our superpatriots in their unending battle against borers from within. This time, I think, they've bitten off more than anyone can swallow.

European Schools Lift Entrance Barriers

By Robert M. Hutchins

A global view discloses that in the advanced industrial countries the barriers to universal secondary and higher education are falling.

In England, Sweden, Denmark, Italy and France restrictions on entrance to secondary schools and universities are being lifted and courses of study are being revised to give all students the chance to stay longer and go further than they ever have before. These institutions are taking a new shape, and the new shape seems likely to be American.

In England, for example, the "sudden-death" examination, given at about the age of 11, determining a child's opportunities thereafter and exercising a decisive influence on his whole career, is now being abandoned.

The British secondary school of the future seems certain to be the "comprehensive" school, to which pupils of all backgrounds and abilities are admitted and in which they may select from a variety of programs. This is the idea of the American high school.

The Swedes have gone so far as to forbid by law the practice known as "streaming," which divides students on the basis of ability.

In Denmark the secondary schools have been deprived of the right of deciding who their pupils shall be. These schools must now accept all students recommended by the primary schools.

In France the sacred requirements of the lycee, which have been thought to be the principal bulwark of French culture, are being relaxed.

In Italy, where there are only 20,000 university graduates a year, the pressure has become so strong that the whole educational system is certain to be revised to permit a far larger number to reach the university and complete its work.

In all these countries there is a good deal of talk about the necessity of producing more scientists and engineers. But the collapse of ancient barriers cannot be explained on this ground alone. The conviction appears to be spreading that education is a right, that every citizen must be given the opportunity to develop his mind to the limit of his capacity. The realization is growing that this opportunity cannot be restricted to those who can afford to pay for it or who, because they come from "good homes," are predisposed to learning.

This conviction is surely correct, and its acceptance is long overdue. The problem that Europe now faces is the one America has failed to solve; how to educate everybody and at the same time maintain any defensible educational ideals and standards.

It has been said that in some parts of the Middle West the high school is the place where the band practices.

The Road to Health

Prognosis: Hopeful

(Last of a Series)

By Judith M. Roales

Like a council of Greek gods on Mount Olympus, the state fathers will meet. They will weigh the arguments for and against establishing the medical school on the Carbondale campus.

Presumably, the itylic character of the Greek gods always won out and the final decisions in the mythological were for the best interests of the people. Unfortunately, the Legislature is not above political considerations on issues. But surely, in the case of a medical school, they cannot deny the need of so many Southern Illinoisans.

In our democracy, the legislators cannot be left, as the gods were, to hand down decisions without probing and study. Many organizations in our area have made formal studies and have conducted extensive research to supply information in this field. Much of the data in these editorials is based on Community Development Institute reports of the problem in small communities, and on a report on physicians and surgeons soon to be published by area services.

But the legislators will also be heavily influenced by the opinions of their constituents...the people...you. You are aware of the need for a medical school with a teaching hospital. You know what Southern Illinois lacks and what the school could do for the future of the area.

The people must present a united front in favor of the project, a solid bloc of enthusiasm and backing. You can help by keeping informed on the progress of the issue, by talking about it among your friends and associates, by reading the studies and surveys...and, yes, by writing your representative to the state legislature.

NATO Progressing Toward Joint Nuclear Force

Johnson, Wilson Discuss Compromise on MLF

By Jack Harrison

The Atlantic Alliance is edging closer to establishment of a joint nuclear defense force.

But the road is long and the way is hard.

This week British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, in talks with President Lyndon B. Johnson in Washington, indicated that the British government favors expansion and diversification of the multilateral nuclear force (MLF) as proposed by the U.S.

Wilson and Johnson discussed inclusion of Polaris submarines, nuclear bombers and land-based missiles in the joint nuclear force.

They made it plain, however, that these ideas are only proposals, to be discussed thoroughly with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) allies before any action is taken.

The MLF proposal has been kicked around — maliciously by some parties — for four years. President Johnson has become quite insistent that something be done about it soon.

President Charles de Gaulle of France has announced that he intends to have no part of the MLF.

The new Labor government and the old Tory government of Britain both have been critical of MLF, but the Anglo-American differences apparently can be overcome by compromise.

Nearly all members of the Atlantic Alliance, with the exception of France, agree that a start should be made in the direction of a collective nuclear force.

Italy, Belgium and the Netherlands won't join MLF unless the British do.

West Germany is the key to the problem. The U.S. wants to give the Germans a voice and a part in the nuclear defense system. But many other nations, on both sides of the Iron Curtain, are fearful of "A German finger on the nuclear trigger."

De Gaulle argues that Communist nations of Europe will become more rigid toward the West if Germany is included in a nuclear defense scheme.

West Germany would like to see the MLF problem settled by April. This would give the German Parliament time to ratify the treaty before the fall elections. All three major political parties in West Germany favor the MLF idea.

The U.S., although seemingly generous in wanting to share control of nuclear weapons with our allies, nevertheless is planning to retain a veto over use of those weapons.

France would favor a European-only nuclear force, with France having a veto. MLF is competition for De Gaulle's own plans.

The British need to remain on good terms with the U.S., because of Britain's monetary crisis and other problems.

Britain has offered to contribute most or all of its nuclear deterrent into a Western defense system. This action would fulfill a Labor Party promise to end Britain's role as an independent nuclear force and would be a unique and crucial step.

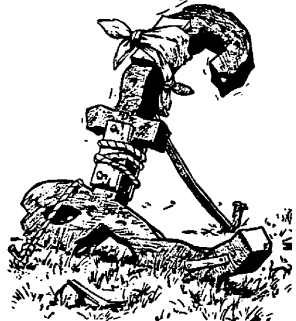

Prime Minister Wilson told President Johnson that he would like to see a reduction in the proposed number of surface ships in the MLF. The U.S. wants 25 surface ships, but probably would settle for fewer. Johnson says it is essential, however, that the ships have multinational crews and that it be impossible for any participating nation to withdraw after the force is set up.

Many more conferences between the governments involved will be necessary before an agreement can be reached.

Wilson and Johnson have been particularly careful to point out that everyone will be consulted before any decisions are made.

They are most anxious to avoid a situation like that of two years ago, when President Kennedy and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan met at Nassau, in the Bahamas, and arranged Western defense plans which affected other nations in the Atlantic Alliance. Some of these other nations were quite unhappy about it, and not long thereafter De Gaulle voted to exclude Britain from the Common Market.

Several meetings already planned will provide opportunity for discussion of MLF. A German delegation is in London this weekend. NATO ministers will meet next week. President Johnson may go to France to meet with De Gaulle in March and he is likely to see Wilson again before then.

It will be a long process. And the MLF question is considered by some observers to be of less importance than other problems facing the NATO nations.

C. L. Sulzberger, of The New York Times, wrote this week that MLF is an artificially intruded issue that prevents the Atlantic Alliance from devoting adequate attention to its four essential problems — "German reunification, what to do about nuclear and recalcitrant China, how to end the Vietnamese war and whether it is possible to save the British pound."

German Chancellor Losing Popularity

Copley News Service

BONN, West Germany — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, who rose to fame as the miracle worker of West Germany's boom, may need another miracle to keep him in office and his floundering Christian Democratic Party in power.

His government party suffered heavy losses or barely held its ground in five state elections this year. The opposition Social Democrats, led by West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt, made considerable gains.

The chancellor is not only blamed for failing to keep a tight grip on the administration as his autocratic predecessor Konrad Adenauer did. He has been greeted with loud protests over several unpopular measures — his refusal to increase war pensions, the abolition of rent ceilings, the closing of unproductive Ruhr coal mines and the stiff hike in telephone toll charges.

Economic Woes Cause New Tensions in Castro Regime

By Henry Goethals
Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — The attempted suicide of Cuban Labor Minister Augusto Martinez Sanchez is indicative of the growing tensions inside the Fidel Castro government, in the opinion of State Department and other observers here.

These tensions, on the rise for several weeks, are thought to center primarily on Castro's increasing economic problems and secondarily on frictions between Castro's revolutionary clique and members of the Communist "Old Guard."

Revelation that Martinez Sanchez, long-time Castro aide and a member of Castro's 82-man Cuban invasion group in late 1956, was on the point of being dismissed from his post for "grave administrative errors" further substantiates this view.

One widely held theory is that the two Castros — Fidel and Raul — are pressuring their subordinates for greater efficiency, increased production and tighter administrative controls.

This is of increasing importance now at the start of the crucial 1964-65 sugar harvest which will largely determine whether Cuba falls deeper into debt to the Soviet bloc or can eventually pull itself up by its bootstraps and pulls its weight inside the bloc.

In recent speeches, Castro has indicated his deep concern about education, labor, production and revolutionary discipline and fervor.

He has accentuated his concern to such a degree that his speeches have been dull, stuffy and moralistic — lacking in the anti-U.S. fireworks to which his audience have long been accustomed.

The surprise nature of Martinez Sanchez' dismissal is believed to have disconcerted the 46-year-old revolutionary and possibly led him to his suicide attempt.

A long-time friend of Raul Castro, his revolutionary image is believed unblemished. There is no evidence of friction with Fidel. The only "strike" against him, as far as can be ascertained, was the failure of Cuban production in which all revolutionary chieftains must share.

Bill McClanahan, Dallas News
WHAT D'YA MEAN, 'WE'?

Martinez Sanchez, however, was the logical scapegoat which every totalitarian regime urgently requires.

In recent months Castro has hinted at growing economic despair by references to coexistence with the United States and renewal of U.S. trade ties.

Since July, when Cuban sugar prices, which hit a high of 13 cents a pound in 1963 settled to a low of four cents per pound, the Cuban economy has been forced into a serious process of retrenchment.

The Martinez Sanchez incident argues for the validity of the U.S. economic blockade which, combined with Castro's own glaring errors, may eventually succeed in toppling him from power.

Mortar Shell Hits Near U.N. While Guevara Harangues U.S.

By Arthur Everett

NEW YORK (AP) — United Nations headquarters was shelled Friday by a single bazooka-launched rocket, which exploded harmlessly but alarmingly in the East River 100 yards short of its target. The weapon, mounted beneath a Cuban flag, was fired half a mile away in Queens. The unprecedented incident came amid a frantic several hours of Cuban refugee disorder outside the United Nations buildings. A would-be woman assassin was intercepted, and two men eluded heavy police contingents and cut down a Soviet flag outside the headquarters. It took eight policemen to overcome one of the men. The Soviet news agency Tass termed the flag desecraters "counter-revolutionaries" and said they acted "with the connivance of New York police." Police said they believed the bazooka rocket—18 inches long—was aimed with intent to hit the U.N. buildings.

Inside at the time, a sealed-off General Assembly Hall, Cuba's Ernesto Guevara was haranguing the United States. The blast from a 38-story international headquarters. But the noise failed to penetrate the chamber and Guevara was not interrupted. Outside, simultaneously with the explosion, wild confusion broke out. Communist Cuban pickets surged against police lines, and a leather-jacketed woman in black, waving a knife and screaming hysterically in Spanish, tried to force an entrance to the building. Police quoted her later as saying she was bent on killing Guevara.

Atlas Rocket Orbits Moonship, Paves Way for Moon Shot

By Howard Benedict

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — An Atlas-Centaur space rocket drilled its second stage and a moonship model into a precise orbit Friday and bolstered U.S. plans to land instruments on the moon late next year.

The success indicated that Atlas-Centaur, onetime problem child of American rocketry, may finally have overcome numerous troubles which have put the program about three years behind schedule.

It was the third successful space shot here in four days, climaxing a busy week for Cape Kennedy rocketmen.

Atlas-Centaur launch director Bob Gray of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Goddard Space Flight Center reported the rocket performed flawlessly in achieving its main objective of placing the Centaur stage in a near-circular orbit.

An attempt to restart the hydrogen-powered Centaur engine after 25 minutes in orbit failed when a satellite tumbling motion prevented the fuels from becoming properly positioned. However, Gray said this was only a bonus experiment designed to gather information for future missions which call for a second burn of the engine.

Powell Is Named AL Batting Champ

BOSTON (AP) — John Boog Powell of the Baltimore Orioles beat out New York's Mickey Mantle, a four-time champion, in winning the American League slugging title for 1964, final official averages showed Friday.

Powell compiled 257 total bases in 424 official times at bat for a .606 average. Among the hard-hitting outfielder's 123 hits were 17 doubles and 39 home runs.

Mantle, the leader in 1955, 1956, 1961 and 1962, slugged .591 with 275 total bases in 465 official trips. He had 141 hits, including 25 doubles, 2 triples and 35 homers.

There were no injuries of any consequence and no damage during one of the wild-episode since the United Nations moved into its East River headquarters in 1952. The U.N. area runs from 42nd to 48th streets, between First Avenue and the East River Drive.

Police and security guards had been alerted for trouble by an anonymous bomb threat and by an earlier tip from the FBI.

About two hours later, on the east bank of the river in Queens, a homemade mortar device was found on property of an industrial plant, the Adams Metal Corp. An employee called police.

The artillery piece was triggered with an alarm clock timing device, which apparently set it off after whoever rigged it had disappeared.

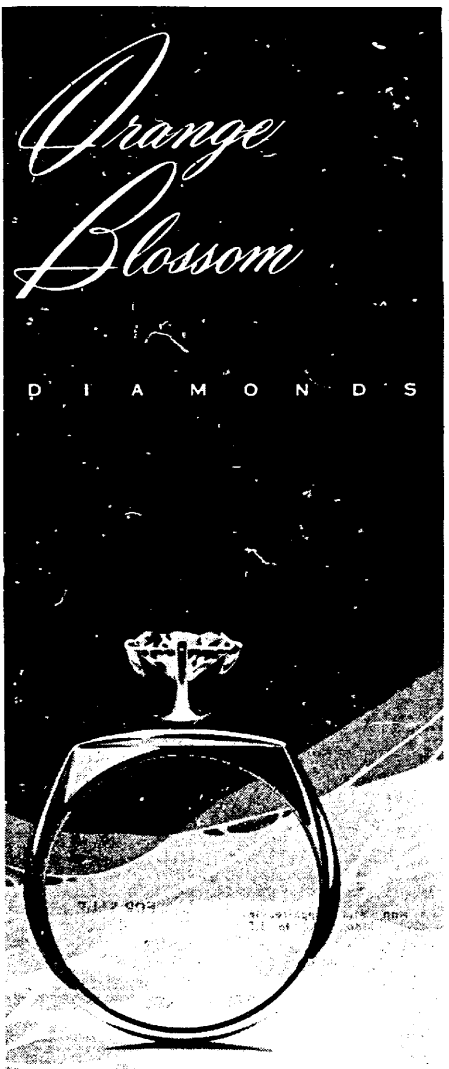

Singer Sam Cooke Is Shot Fatally

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Negro singing star Sam Cooke was shot to death early Friday by a motel manager after he burst into her apartment in pursuit of a Eurasian girl he had met in a bar.

Cooke, 32, whose latest hit record boosted his total sales past 10 million, was clad only in a topcoat.

Lisa Boyer, 22, of English-Chinese background, told police Cooke kidnaped her after she accepted an offer of a ride home from a bar. He forced her to go to the motel, she said, and she grabbed most of his clothes and fled when he went to the bathroom.

The motel manager, Bertha Lee Franklin, 55, a Negro, said Cooke kicked in her door, accused her of harboring Miss Boyer and struck her twice with his fist. She fired three shots. One hit Cooke in the chest. Mrs. Franklin was not held.

SIU Swimmers to See Action Against Evansville Here Today

SIU swimmers will hold their first dual meet of the season today when they meet Evansville College at 1 p.m. at the University School pool. This will be the first meet for Ralph Casey's tankmen since their impressive performances last week in the North-South College swimming meet here.

2 SIU Dropouts

Arrested in Texas

Two former students from the Chicago area, who dropped out of school earlier this quarter, have received two-and-a-half-year suspended sentences for violating the federal marijuana tax act.

Arrested, tried and released in Brownsville, Tex., were Timothy William Meranda, 21, Lombard, and Ronald B. Uleck, 22, Chicago Heights.

The pair, who resided at 713 S. Illinois Ave. in Carbondale, reportedly told the Registrar's Office they were withdrawing from school to accept jobs, and they would be back winter quarter.

The men went on a trip to Mexico after they dropped out of SIU. It was on the bus trip returning to the United States that they were arrested by customs agents.

Meranda was found carrying nine marijuana cigarettes, according to Agent B.J. Cochran.

Meranda was a sophomore transfer student from Wilmington College in Ohio, and Uleck was a junior transfer student from Marquette University in Milwaukee, Wis. They enrolled at SIU in the fall quarter of 1963.

In that meet Southern had 11 winners in the 13 swimming events. Only Jim Hartzell of North Central College and Ray Padovan, former SIU swimmer, who is doing graduate work here, kept the SIU swimmers from sweeping the meet.

Thomson J. McAneney, Kimo Miles, Gerald E. Pearson and Don H. Shaffer, who were the double winners in the meet, should lead the tankmen against Evansville.

McAneney will swim the 200 and 500-yard freestyle events, and Miles will swim both the 100 and 200-yard butterfly events.

In the butterfly event Miles, Stody Smith and William N. Lowe will be representing Southern.

The individual medley will include Shaffer and Edward Moy, and the distance event, McAneney and Richard Evertz.

Jerry K. Crites and Ralph M. Hitchens will compete in the diving events.

This is Evansville's second year in varsity swimming competition. Last year James Voorhees' crew had a creditable 6-3 dual meet record and finished 13th out of 41 teams in the College Division Championships at Grove City, Pa.

Southern, which met tougher competition, finished last season with a 6-1 record in dual meet competition.

Salukis Play Iowa College Tonight; Visitors Had Top Team Last Year

The Salukis take the court for the second straight night tonight when they play State College of Iowa.

The Iowans have three regulars back from last year's team, which finished 23-4 and took top honors in the North Central Conference. They also finished fourth in the NCAA small college tourney won by Evansville last March.

Heading the list of returnees for coach Norm Stewart is Ron Jessen. The 6-foot-2-inch forward made more than half his shots from the field last year in pacing his team's scorers.

Other starters back this year are little Jerry McCalley, a 5-foot-10-inch guard, and Craig Knepe, the tallest man on the starting five at 6-5. Stewart's other probable starters are 6-3 Gene Fuelling and 6-4 Phil Johnson.

For the Salukis Coach Jack Hartman will probably go with the same lineup he used Friday against Tennessee Tech. This lineup has Joe Ramsey and Walt Frazier at the for-

The Salukis have gained national rankings in small college polls. Southern is ranked seventh by the United Press International and got two first place votes by its sports-

Salukis Rated Sixth

In First AP Poll

SIU polled 36 points in the first Associated Press small college-basketball poll of the season to place sixth in the nation.

The Evansville Aces, the national collegiate small college basketball champions, were named No. 1 Thursday in the poll. The Aces polled over 115 points.

Grambling College was ranked second with 57 points, Wittenberg third with 53, and Rockhurst, the NAIA champions, was fourth with 48 points.

Rounding out the top ten were Pan American with 45, SIU with 36, Akron with 31, Fresno State with 29, Southwest Missouri with 25, and Winston Salem with 19.

Cows at SIU Rank

4th in Milk Output

The SIU Holstein dairy herd of light registered cows ranked fourth in output among 235 registered herds listed in a recent publication issued by the Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

The cows averaged 18,498 pounds of milk and 640 pounds of butterfat in a 305-day lactation test. Holsteins are one of three breeds of dairy animals maintained in Southern's Dairy Center herd for teaching and research purposes. The others are Guernseys and Jerseys.

Press poll for this week has the Salukis sixth. Heading the pack in both polls is Evansville, which has won its first two games over Big Ten opponents Iowa and Northwestern.

5 Students Fined For Shoplifting

Five students have been put on disciplinary probation following their conviction in Jackson County Circuit Court on theft charges.

The five are Robert R. Miller, 25, a junior from East Moline; David M. Nordstrom, 20, a sophomore from Springfield; Michael R. Lange, 18, a freshman from Wheaton; Dennis W. Slavik, 19, a freshman from St. Louis; and John C. Franzoi, 18 a freshman from Eagarville.

They were convicted on charges of shoplifting from stores in the area and assessed fines ranging from $50 to $5.

A spokesman in the Office of the Dean of Students said, however, that the court and his office exercised leniency because the students were stealing for thrills, to see what they could get away with.
