Soviets invited to seek peace

WASHINGTON WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's spokesman called Monday on the new Soviet leader, Konstantin U. Chernenko, to work with the United States toward greater mutual understanding and constructive cooperation.

Hours after Chernenko was chosen to succeed Yuri Andropov as head of the Soviet Communist Party, White House spokesman Larry Speakes said any meeting between the new Soviet leader and Reagan would have to be well prepared and would depend on a reasonable promise for success in results, the criteria that had been ap-plied in the past to such a Monday morning, "We invite the new leaders of the Soviet Union to work with us in establishing a basis for greater mutual understanding and

Herd of dark horses lightens up campaign

WHILE FRNEST Hollings and Reubin Askew may complain that they have name-recognition problems in their presidential campaigns, they are doing better than many candidates. About 130 people have registered their candidacy for the U.S. presidency with the Fededral Election Commission. These obscure presidential hopefuls range from porn king Larry Flynt to the Rev. Willie G. Duke, who says God has given him a plan to end welfare and unemployment. Some candidates, such as Duke, rre serious in their bids. Others, however, view their quixotic quests in more light-hearted manner.

ONE SUCH candid candidate is Richard Grayson, a 32-year-old unemployeed college English teacher from Florida, who has seemingly ignored the constitutional requirement that a U.S. president must be 35 years old. In an interview with Common Cause Magazine, Grayson said he is running because "the presidency is a good job, 2 nd I'm unemployed. And the White House is a mice house, even if the neighborhood's not great."

His tongue-in-cheek campaign is run under the auspices of the "Committee for Immediate Nuclear War." He says a nuclear holocaust would "solve poverty, racism, transportation problems, and, of course, the threat of nuclear war."

Not all the dark horses, however, agree. A few years ago, a group of outdoorsmen in northern Minnesota organized the "Fisherman's Party." whose presidential candidate ran on a peace platform because, so they said, a nuclear war would be noisy and keep the fish from biting.

fish from biting

THESE FOURTH, fifth and sixth party candidates should not be completely laughed off. They have battled the red-tape and bureaucratic forms and have proven that anyone can run for president in the United States. And come election day they, like John Anderson in 1990, will show that not just anyone can win. Although their defeat is assured, these obscure candidates are nonetheless to be cheered. During the long and often tedious presidential campaign, they add some much-needed diversion from the grim realities of a ballooning deficit, the plight of the nation's poor and the explosive dangers of the nuclear world in which we live.

Films showed borrible tragedy of Central American struggle

Three cheers for the organizers of the Big Muddy Film Festival for bringing us organizers of the Big Muddy Film Festival for bringing us two excellent documentary films on war and revolution in Central America. The films, "Nicaragua: Report From the Front." and "When the Mountains Tremble," together with a talk by co-producer Pamela Yates, provided a rare view of social upheaval in Nicaragua and Guatemala. Most of our exposure to the conflicts in Central America is through the rhetoric of politicians and government officials. Here at last we see the struggles of the peasants themselves, who have suffered immeasurably for decades under horridly oppressive regimes, and are now willing to fight and die for the hope of a democracy.

Some will attempt to nullify the message of these films by labelling them as "political propaganda." However, it is just and fitting that Americans see the films. After all, we have already been saturated by the propaganda of the Reagan administration, whose media campaigns are funded by our taxes. It is also very important for Americans to understand the direct relationship between U.S. military aid to oppressive

Central American governments such as Guatemala, and the suffering and bloodshed of the oppressed. Yate's films show real people weeping at the funerals of their loved ones, who were slain with American high-tech weaponry and the aid of our tax dollars. "When the Mountains Tremble" shows that the treatment of the largely Indian peasant population ir Indian peasant population in Guatemala is so cruel, discriminatory and inhumane, that the peasants' only hope for a humane existence lies in a humane existence lies in overthrowing their dictatoria' rulers. The only way to quell the rebellion would be to kill all the peasants — but the there would be no one to work in Americanowned banana and coffee plantations and textile mills. Current U.S. policy is effectively supporting the systematic murder of "trouble-makers" among the peasants.

The real struggle in Central America is not communist versus capitalist, but rich versus poor. The Central American argument in the United States is between the compassionate and those who only see the protection of their financial investments.—Chris Best, Graduate Student, Best, Graduate Department of Botany Others saw it as a sign of the "return of the '50s." but, then, some professors probably think that in the '50s America was fascist. One professor called the necktie idea "medieval." Fortunately, he is not a professor of medieval history. He is a professor of journalism.

YOU MAY BE thinking: A dress code is to be expected from a school in Virginia named in part, for Robert E. Lee, who went through West Point without a demerit and who, although he was a crackerjack soldier, was not.

let's face it, a lot of laughs. True, Washington and Lee may not be a fair sample on which to base a continental conclusior. But if people start insisting on fair samples, what will happen to punditry? Besides, I herewith report a second instance of cultural renaissance. A friend of mine, whose politics place him somewhere between Walter Mondale and Che Walter Mondale and Che Guevara, notes with distress that young ladies on cam-puses are again using makeup. My friend is demented, but not dishonest, so I believe him. I am eager to do so because in 1970, when I fled in horror from academic life, young ladies seemed to take as their model a singer, Janis Joplin, whose hair looked as though she had just stepped on a high-voltage cable. She was not a bit like Charlie.

THE RESTORATION of the ancien regime — neckties, the ruclear family and all that — was under way and an inate — was under way by Christmas, 1982, when Charlie, the thoroughly modern woman who is the protagonist in Revion commercials, seriously commercials, seriously considered marriage. She did not take the plunge, but probably will if Reagan is reelected and "traditional values" get another four-year dose of his attention. (Remember when President Carter told bureaucrats to quit living in sin and get married? They, like the Russians in Afghanistan, paid no attention to him.) In the current issue of Public Opinion magazine, Daniel Yankelovich sorts alt this out. He explains that commercials such as Charlie's (and the Coke commercials, which are almost oppressively full of jolly groups) are part of "the struggle with narcissism." When did narcissism creep in, bringing hedonism with it? In the '60s and '70s, when there was a rebellion against "the 1950's pattern of obligations, rigid roles, and duties."

IN THE '60s, the man in the IN THE '60s, the man in the gray flannel suit slipped his leash and slipped into a T-shirt bearing a rude comment about foreign policy. Shuttle called 'cleanest yet,' expected to go again April 4

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Space shuttle Challenger came back to Earth Challenger came back to Earth in such good shape that there should be no trouble sending it back into orbit in a record 53 days, despite a failed blake, 31 damaged tiles, hazy windows and scraped tires, NASA says. The space plane completed its eight day Florida-to-Florida mission Saturday with the first lanzing at its launch site, and the space agency said it returned as the cleanest shuttle yet.

"The orbiter is very clean, in better shape than any of the others," Ken Coffey, shuttle mechanical systems officer, told reporters.
All major systems are in fine

All major systems are in time condition, he added. The ship's next launch date is April 4, the 11th shuttle flight and fifth for Challenger. That means it would be back in space sooner than any previous shuttle turnaround time.

Landing the shuttle in Florida

Landing the shuttle in Florida cut six-to-eight days off the launch preparation time, eliminating the need to ferry the space plane across country on the back of a Boeing 747 jetliner as would have been the case after touchdown at Edwards Air Fonce Base in California

Force Base in California.

Most shuttle flights in the future will land in Florida, future will land in Florida, except for special cases, such as the first flight of the third shuttle, Discovery, in June and tests of the orbiter's automatic landing systems. NASA wants the added safety margin of the wide open dry lakes at Edwards for these flights.

Author says racism rife in Africa

By Carys Edwards Student Writer

Picture the racism of slavery in the United States in the 19th century, and multiply it 100 times. That's what apartheid is, said Margaret Goss-Burroughs, an authorillustrator of children's books and a member of the National Commission on Black History.

and a member of the National Commission on Black History and Culture, led a discussion and lecture Thursday on "What Shall I Tell My Children About Apartheid and African Liberation?" The presentation was part of the Black History Month program.

By reciting her "teaching poems," Goss-Burroughs gave a vivid portrayal of her views of injustice and racism in South Africa and life as a black American.

American.

She denounced an "evil racist system," and "fascist white minority" and said that blacks are ireated as animals in South

Many of Goss-Burroughs' Many of Goss-Burroughs' poems reflect auger toward white people in Africa. She said that until the black Africans are liberated, racial problems will remain in the United States. "The core of the apartheid cancer lies in South Africa," she said. "If the cancer there can be eradicated, then things will be more harmonious, in Car-harmonious (in Car-

She said that the question of racism will never be solved under a capitalist system. Goss-Burroughs stressed the importance of Afro-Americans visiting their native Africa She has visited the continent 14 times, she said, and "when you return (to the United States), you don't look down anymore."

She said she is proud of her native continent, and her poems speak of Africa's beauty, its abundant natural resources, fertile valleys and fresh air. She said it's easy to see why white people never wanted to leave and why they overstayed 'heir welcome.

But she said that Africa, the "sleeping giant," is awakening and blacks are speaking out. "Africa for the Africans, and ill its riches," she said.
Goss-Burroughs said that blacks should not give up hope for African liberation.

for Arrican liberation.

American slavery once seemed impossible to abolish, she said. Goss-Burroughs ended her presentation with a poem giving hope for liberation: "We will destroy the ulcers of colonial suppression. . . Victory is certain for our compatriots. We will win."

Geep your copier repairmen in his place, not yours.

Being a Marine Corps Officer can open the door to opportunities you may have thought were beyond your reach. It helped Marine Officer Charles Bolden become a NASA astronaut. And if you're willing to make the commitment, it could help you also. You can get started while you're in college with our undergraduate officer commissis rung program. You could take advantage of getting:

■ $100 a month while in school ■ Freshmen and Sophomores train during two six-week summer sessions

each paying more than $1100

Juniors train in one ten-week summer session and earn more than $1900

■ Free civilian flying lessons

■ A starting salary of more than $17,000

Immediately upon graduation you could become a Marine Officer. It's your choice. Maybe you're the kind of mar we're looking for.

We want you to go as far as you can.

Maybe you can be one of us.

Arena ticket sales kept orderly by 'unusual' system

By John Krukowski Student Writer

The line of several hundred fans of The Police gathered outside the SIU-C Arena recently seemed unusually quiet and calm for such a large gathering of rock fans.

Conversation among those waiting for line reservation tickets to the Friday, Feb. 17 Police concert seemed limited to comments about the value of standing around in the cold rain just to receive a number and conjecture as to why SIU-C has such an unusual ticket system

Carol Smith, promotions director for the Arena, had an explanation for those people who look back with fondness on the days of simply buying a ticket to a concert and being done with it.

"We used to let people camp out," Smith recalled, "but once when some people camped for a concert tiey set fires to keep warm using oil drums, which buckled and destroyed some of the pavement in the parking lot. They also used saplings planted around the Arena as fuel."

Hoping to avoid further ex-pensive incidents, the Arena staff began experimenting with alternative systems to prevent mobs from descending upon the

"We listed several alternatives in the Daily Egyptian about three years ago and received several hundred received several hundre responses from concert-goers, Smith said.

Smith said.

The idea which received the most positive response was a proposed system of line reservation cards, similar to the current system, with one the current system, with one major difference.

"We had student workers stationed around campus in possession of the reservation cards," Smith said. "It would then be announced where these students were located, and people who wanted to buy tickets would come looking for them."

The plan did help prevent danage to Arena property. Smith said, but in the meantime students were rushing around campus in their cars, causing a hazard to pedestrians, and most of the student workers panicked when they were suddenly when they were mobbed by rock fans suddenly

A revamped system was introduced last spring for an REO Speedwagon concert. Reservation cards listing the place in line the bearer of the card would have when tickets went on sale were handed out at the Arena box office by a lot-ory-type system. Originally, all six ticket windows were open, but Arena workers found that some students were going to all six windows in hopes of getting the lowest possible number for the ticket line Now only one window is kept open, which sometimes results open, which sometimes results in a long line, as happened when the Police reservation cards were handed out. But Smith insists that such a long wait for cards is rare, and has only taken place at one other time when Journey tickets went on sale last year.

Merge OK'd for Texaco, Getty Oil

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission tentatively approved the nation's largest corporate merger ever Monday, voting to allow Texaco to buy Getty Oil

The commission voted 4-1 to allow the $10.1 billion takeover, although it will require Texaco to make some divestitures to satisfy antitrust concerns.

Monday was the deadline for the commission to act to block the merger, if it wanted to do so, under federal antitrust laws. An agreement between the commission staff and Texaco reportedly called for the sale of two of Texaco refineries, one on two or rexaco refineries, one on the East Coast and one in the Midwest, along with the sale of a Getty-owned oil pipeline in California, and for Texaco to ensure continued delivery of crude oil now supplied by Getty crude oil now supplied by Getty to independent marketers in the

The merger would allow Texaco, the nation's third largest oil company, to double its oil reserves. It would still be No. 3, however, behind Exxon Corp. and No. 2 Mobil Corp.

The approval allows Texaco to begin buying stock in Getty, the nation's 14th largest oil company. Texaco has made a tender offer of $123 a share for the 79.1 million shares of Getty outstanding.

There are still possible roadblocks outstanding, however, in the form of suits brought by the Pennzoil Co. and others opposing the merger.

e Saluki men's tennis team

The Saluki men's tennis team umbled to an 0-3 season start after losing to Illinois 8-1 Sunday in Danville.

The only Saluki victory was in No. 2 doubles from Gabriel Coch and Chris Visconti. The pair beat the Illini's John Losito and Mike Meyer 6-4, 2-5, 6-4. This was the second straight week Coch and Visconti have won. Last week they beat Bill Koch and Frank Guengerich of Indiana 7-5, 7-5.

"They're done a good job

The Salukis haven't won a match this season in No. 1, 2, 5 and 6 singles and No. 1 and 3 doubles. The only match victories they've had were by Visconti in No. 4 singles and Coch in No. 3 singles, both against Indiana last week. But, according to LeFevre, the players are still battling. "The players are not discouraged," LeFevre said. "They know they've been up

"I feel the team is improving oespite our record. They know they're shooting for the MVC tournament and that's what counts right now."

The Missouri Valley Conference is beginning to shape up Wichita State's way. The Shockers beat highly ranked SIU-E Friday 5-4.

But, other than No. 2 doubles, the Salukis didn't win a set in the rest of the matches against the 5-3 Illini. In No. 1 singles, John Locito ran into a tough battle but still edged Saluki Per Wadmark 7-6, 6-4. Illini David Goodman, who was beaten by Saluki Rollie Oliquino last season, turned around this year and beat Saluki Lars Nilsson 6-2, 6-0 in No. 2 singles. John Locito ran into a tough

Neil Adams beat Coch 6-3, 6-2 at No. 3 and Mike Meyer edged Visconti 7-5, 6-1 at No. 3.

Saluki Paul Rasch put up a good fight with Scott Greenberg at No. 5 but Greenberg prevailed 7-5, 7-5. Roeland oeKort had his first start of the season and lost to Tom Frei 3-6, 6-7 at No. 6.

In No. 1 doubtes, Wadmark and Nilsson were thumped by Goodman and Adams 3-6, 1-6. And at No. 3 doubles, Rasch and Steve Quanor lost to Scott Bowden and Frei 2-6, 4-6.

The Salukis are still ham-pered with injuries. Wadmark had influenza all last week and was still a little sick on Sunday. Quanor caught the flu and is in bed. Oliquino is still out with a knee problem and Scott Krueger is still out with back problems.

The Salukis' next test will be against Wisconsin and Nebraska Feb. 18-19 at Madison, Wisc.

was fourth in the 200 fly at 1:54.73.

The Salukis also won all three of the relay events during the invitational. SIU-C won the 400 medley relay at 3:25.04, the 400 free relay at 3:06.64 and the 800 free relay at 6:44.80, an SIU-C pool record.

Nigel Stanton was the top Saluki diver in the invitational. Stanton won the three-meter springboard event with 541.75 points, 13 points ahead of Illinois' Wessell Zimmermann. Stanton was second on the one-meter board with 491.60 points. Jim Watson was third on the one-meter with 455.15 points and Tom Wentland was fourth with 454.25

"I was really pleased with all of our divers," diving Coach Dennis Golden said. "We were very consistent and the mistakes were small things, nothing that a little polishing won't fix."
