Increased housing costs approved

By Carolyn Schmidt
Staff Writer

The Board of Trustees Thursday approved a $28 per semester increase for double-occupancy rooms in residence halls and a $7 to $10 per month increase for University-operated apartment rentals.

The increases go into effect summer semester and July 1, respectively.

Ivan Elliott Jr., finance committee chair, said the 2.18 percent increase for residence halls and the 2.59 to 3.33 percent rental increase were approved because of "normal inflationary pressures" to maintain salaries and utility costs, and for repair and improvement projects.

Double-occupancy rooms at Brush Towers, Thompson

Point and University Park, and individual contracts for Greek Row residents will increase from $773 to $790 summer semester and from $1,284 to $1,312 fall semester.

Rent for efficiency apartments at Southern Hills will increase from $232 to $239 per month; one bedroom furnished and modified, from $252 to $259 per month; two bedroom unfurnished from $262 to $269; and two bedroom furnished and modified from $270 to $277.

Two-bedroom apartments at Evergreen Terrace will increase from $292 to $300 per month and three bedroom apartments will increase from $316 to $325 per month. The rate increase is subject to approval of the SIU Foundation and the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Elizabeth Apartments rent will increase from $270 to $279 per month and University Courts, from $323 to $333.

An operating loss of $385,000 is projected for fiscal year 1988, which starts July 1. The Board chooses site for SIU's $6 million business incubator

By Carolyn Schmidt
Staff Writer

A small business incubator at SIU-C will be located at the northeast corner of U.S. Route 51 and Pleasant Hill Road.

The 10-acre site was approved by the Board of Trustees Thursday after acting President John Guyon recommended the location to Chancellor Lawrence Pettit.

The $6 million incubator to help start small businesses is funded through Gov. James Thompson's "Build Illinois" program. The University will provide $1.5 million in matching funds for maintenance, building operations and salaries of SIU-C employees, said Rhonda Vinson, director of economic development.

Before making his recommendation to Pettit, Guyon had received reports from four-month evaluations of the proposed sites from a 22-member advisory committee of regional business people, an external consultant from the National Business Incubation Association, an SIU-C evaluation team and project architects from Ferry and Walton in Springfield.

"The entire selection process was interesting in that all of the data pointed to one site," Pettit said during the architecture and design committee meeting. "The commanding consensus was that this was the best site."

The location had been narrowed in January to five from 18 proposed sites. The other sites were the southeast corner of the Giant City Road and Illinois 13, the Williamson County Airport Industrial Park on Illinois 13, Carbondale's Bicentennial Industrial Park on north U.S. 51, and the northwest corner of the Pleasant Hill Road and U.S. 51.

Both Pleasant Hill locations are owned by the University.

Nearness to the University and the availability of adjacent land for expansion were two factors that led to the site's selection.

Vinson said the target date for completion of the 30,000-square-foot building is between June and August 1989.

New businesses started at the incubator will create new jobs in the region, stimulate opportunities for students and retain SIU-C graduates, she said.

Trustees sanction McAndrew renovations

By Carolyn Schmidt
Staff Writer

A proposed $1.18 million for track, artificial turf, and lighting renovations at McAndrew Stadium was approved by the Board of Trustees Thursday.

The cost of the turf will be about $410,000, the cost to renovate the track will be about $420,000 and the cost to replace the lighting will be about $350,000.

A $650,000 revenue bond issue and $200,000 from a

Student Affairs fund for recreation, repair, replacement and modernization will help finance the track and turf work. The bonds will be repaid with student fees, Academic Affairs user fees and earned interest, the board said.

The track and turf are expected to be replaced in time for the 1987 season opening football game against Delta State University Sept. 5.

Senators say 'yes' to fee increases

By William Brady
Staff Writer

The Undergraduate Student Organization student senate voted 24-1 to increase the student activity fee.

Increases total $1.45: $1.20 to support Rainbow's End Day Care Center and 25 cents to boost the Student Organization Activity Fund.

Money allocated for the day care center will be divided into two separate funds: $1 of increase will be used to help pay the center's rent and 20 cents will go into a reserve fund.

The fee increase could add as much as $9,000 to SOAF account, which is used to support activities of registered student organizations.

Philip Lyons, USO president, said the increase is needed to meet the rising costs of programs among the registered student organizations.

According to Lyons, groups have requested about $450,000 this year, while the funding available was only $250,000.

Joe Rossi, city affairs commissioner, sparked a senate debate about Carbondale's "selective" enforcement of the R-1 zoning ordinance.

Rossi said Donald Monty, community development director, assured him that when enforcement of the ordinance would cause hardships, residents would be given time to resolve the matter if they are "cooperative."

Rossi told the senate "cooperative" meant not

Valentine packages may be late

By John Baldwin

Broken promises can mean broken hearts. And a promise that Valentine's Day cookiegrams would be delivered to SIU-C students on time might be broken.

Sigma Phi Epsilon, 506 S. Poplar, which Student Care Services Inc. is supposed to be paying to deliver the packages, has not received any cookies.

The fraternity, which also delivered care packages for the company during exam week of fall semester, has not received payment for those deliveries.

Jim Ballantyne, president of Sigma Phi Epsilon, which is not directly affiliated with Student Care Services, said that he plans to return to the sender the cookiegram orders sent to the fraternity, along with a letter explaining why the order won't be filled.

"If it's anything like the care package, they're not going to get their money's worth," he said.

But parents could have ordered cookiegrams directly through Student Care Services at the beginning of the year

Gunmen kidnap adviser, physician in west Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Gunmen kidnapped an adviser to President Amin Gemayel and a Christian physician Thursday in Moslem west Beirut, where at least 28 foreigners are missing and feared held by Moslem extremists, police sources said. The sources identified west Beirut's latest kidnap victims as presidential adviser Jean Obeid and Dr. Alfred Al Qareh — both Christians. Obeid, the sources said, had "just left a meeting" with Lebanese House Speaker Hussein Husseini at a waterfront hotel and was heading to Christian east Beirut in a chauffeur-driven car when nine gunmen intercepted the vehicle.

Military tries to drive rebels from strongholds

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — The U.S.-backed military has launched major counterinsurgency operations aimed at driving rebels from their strongholds in five of El Salvador's 14 provinces, military officials and civilians said Thursday. The military press office also said a train carrying cement was blown up early Thursday by insurgents in the western Santa Ana province, near Metapan, 50 miles northwest of San Salvador. No one was hurt in the attack, but damage was estimated at several thousand dollars.

S. Africa group: 25,000 held without charge

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — More than 13,000 people, some of them children as young as 11, have been detained without charge under emergency rules imposed last June, according to government figures released Thursday. But an independent monitoring group in South Africa put the figure at more than 25,000 and said 10,000 people still are under detention.

Farmers protest low prices, high interest

BRASILIA, Brazil (UPI) — Tens of thousands of farmers blocked highways and city streets Thursday with tractors and trucks to protest high interest rates and low prices for their products. About 20,000 of the farmers met to draft an open letter, which they promised to deliver to President Jose Sarney. "Farmers need guaranteed minimum prices which cover the cost of producing each item," said Roberto Rodrigues, president of the National Association of Farm Cooperatives.

Study: Superpowers adhering to arms treaty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Reagan administration has exaggerated in alleging Soviet violations of arms control treaties and has implemented some questionable activities of its own, a major policy study concluded Thursday. The detailed, 18-month study by a Stanford University Working Group on Compliance in collaboration with the Global Outlook research and consultant firm said neither side is guilty of serious violations or cheating.

Reagan, Regan hold rebel supporter briefings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan and chief of staff Donald Regan were hosts at White House briefings for private citizens who donated millions of dollars that were used to buy weapons for the Nicaraguan rebels, ABC News reported Thursday. The money was raised for the Contras through an organization run by conservative lobbyist Carl Channell, the network reported, and Lt. Col. Oliver North — a National Security Council aide fired for his role in the Iran arms-Contra aid affair — worked closely with Channell on the project.

Secret media pool activated by Pentagon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon secretly activated its media pool Wednesday and dispatched it to accompany paratroopers on an exercise in Honduras in the fifth test launch of print and broadcast journalists on a military action, the Pentagon announced Thursday. Pentagon spokesman Robert Sims applauded the media for keeping the operation secret, describing it as "a graduation exercise" because the transport of 12 members of the pool was accomplished without leaks to other representatives of the media. "This one appears to have worked very well," Sims said.

Official seeks halt of proposed FmHA changes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., charging revisions proposed by the Reagan administration would transform the Farmers Home Administration into a commercial bank, asked the administration Thursday to delay the changes. The Agriculture Department agency, which historically has loaned money to farmers who cannot get credit from commercial sources, proposed revising its regulations a month ago and set a Feb. 17 deadline for the public to comment.

Governor blasted for not supporting new 4-lane road

By David Sheets
Staff Writer

U.S. Rep. Ken Gray blasted Gov. James Thompson's disregard for a four-lane highway between Carbondale and St. Louis, calling it "his greatest false advancement."

Gray, who has long championed the building of such a road, also decried Thompson's road improvement revenue generating plan as being unfair to Southern Illinois. Proposed gas tax and license plate fee increases would fund the road plan.

"He has crumbs allocated for this area," Gray said in a telephone interview from his West Frankfort home, referring to the $60 million in road improvements Thompson has allocated to Southern Illinois highway improvements through the increases.

Gray also said the Carbondale-to-St. Louis freeway was a must because drivers "have to go way out of their way" to travel between the two cities.

Gray is sponsoring an amendment to the 1987 Surface Transportation Act, now before Congress, that calls for 95 percent federal funding for the projected $300 million highway.

During a press conference Wednesday in Carbondale, Thompson said the highway was not needed because current traffic flow on Illinois Route 13 between the two cities is too sparse.

"He knows his statements don't hold water," Gray said. He added that a traffic study conducted near Marion indicates "more people go east and west on Route 13 than do north and south on Route 57."

He said a direct highway between Carbondale and St. Louis would facilitate traffic between the southeastern United States and St. Louis.

"Don't you think people from the South and from Paducah would love to make a left on Route 13 to go directly to St. Louis and save themselves 40 miles?"

Gray also dismissed Thompson's planned regional highway improvements funding from a proposed 9.5 cent gas tax increase and $17 license plate fee increase as "wholly inadequate."

"I'd be embarrassed to allocate only $60 million out of a $6.25 billion highway program to Southern Illinois," he said.

The $60 million road improvement allotment would consist of two projects. At least $30 million would go for improvements to Illinois Route 3 and some widening of Illinois Route 13 between Murphysboro and Illinois Route 4.

The other $30 million would go primarily toward a 9-mile widening of Illinois Route 13 between Marion and the Saline County line.

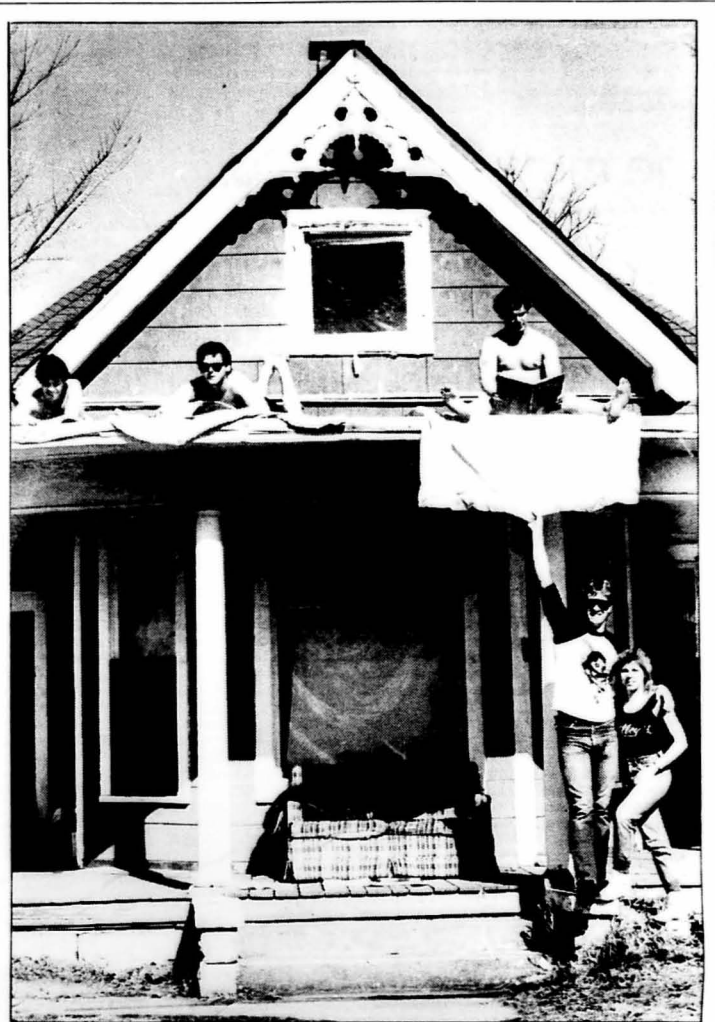

Thompson pushing project

SPRINGFIELD (UPI)—Gov. James R. Thompson says he's got a big sales job ahead of him as he tries to convince lawmakers to approve his tax-increase-driven $10 billion package to improve the state's highways, mass transit systems and wastewater treatment efforts.

"At my stops across Illinois I were not exactly overwhelmed by the presence of legislators standing at my side," Thompson quipped Wednesday.

"Far fewer supporters were there than attended the ribbon cuttings and road openings. But that's all right. It's February; it's a new proposal and they need time to digest it."

The midwife debate

IN 1985, FORMER CARBONDALE midwife Maggie Jihan was charged with violating an Illinois state statute forbidding the practice of midwifery without a license. On Wednesday, the Illinois Appellate Court freed Jihan of her bond, which means she can now come and go whenever she likes.

But what Jihan would really like to do is help women deliver babies, and unless she is found innocent of the charges against her, she will be forbidden to practice this ancient and controversial profession of her choice.

The 50 states are practically split down the middle between those that allow midwifery and those that forbid it. Medical authorities have waged a battle of statistics over whether it is safer to deliver a baby in a hospital or in a woman's own bedroom. An article from the May 2, 1980 Journal of the American Medical Association sums up the debate by stating that "A review of the literature shows that present data are limited and do not conclusively support either opinion."

MORE THAN 80 PERCENT of all births are delivered by obstetricians, and there are many advantages in staging such a momentous event in a hospital. Immediate access to plasma, oxygen and surgery that can save both the mother and the child's life is available only in a hospital.

Moreover, the quality of hospital maternity care has improved tremendously since the days when a nurse would hold a mother's legs together to stall delivery until the doctor arrived. General anesthesia, the use of forceps, and the exclusion of the father from the delivery room has grown increasingly uncommon. Many hospitals, including the Memorial Hospital of Carbondale, now offer the option of cheerful "birthing rooms" where a mother can deliver her child and then spend the night there with both baby and family.

BUT NO MATTER HOW much they dress it up with curtains and clown mobiles, home birth proponents argue that a hospital can never be home and that home is the proper place for birth. But the main argument in favor of home birth is that, rather than being safer, hospital delivery exposes mother and child to needless and dangerous medical invasions.

One of these invasions is cesarian surgery, the incidents of which have risen from 8 to 25 percent of all births in the last 20 years. A 1981 National Institute of Health report refuted the notion that once a cesarian, always a cesarian and advised practitioners to stick to natural labor. Yet obstetricians still perform excessive numbers of cesarians despite research showing that these surgeries have not decreased infant mortality and pose great risk to pregnant women.

In the delivery room, a woman may be hooked to an intravenous needle and an electronic fetal monitor which restrict her movement when she wants to move most. Artificial labor-inducers like oxytocin and episiotomies that can tear a broad gash in the vaginal opening are also criticized by home birth advocates.

The bottom-line argument against hospital birth is cost. A three-day maternity stay at Carbondale Memorial costs $2,500, while a 24-hour stay in a birthing room costs $800 plus an average of $604 for the doctor's service. A midwife charges between $400 and $600, and this includes the cost of delivery and prenatal care.

WITH SUCH CONVINCING ARGUMENTS on both sides, the only logical conclusion on the home vs. hospital birth debate is that parents should decide for themselves how they want their babies delivered. By refusing to license lay midwives like Jihan and even highly-trained nurse-midwives, Illinois is allowing the medical profession a monopoly on maternity.

American doctors seem to labor under the notion that pregnancy, like a heart attack or brain hemorrhage, is a disease that must be treated with the highest technology available. Pregnancy is not a disease, but a normal function that was performed countless years before the invention of anesthesia. Proper treatment does not always mean accelerating or otherwise interfering with a natural process.

We are grateful for modern medicine and for the choice of hospital birth. But it is unfair to force women to deliver their children under all the steel and chemical safeguards of high-priced high technology when they would rather deliver at home. To prohibit midwifery is to prohibit free consumer choice and is an exploitation of both a woman's body and her child's.

The lessons of Forsyth County

The headline "Civil rights marchers find a new fight in the '80s" (DE 1-30-87) set a very ambiguous tone. What is happening in Forsyth County and the subsequent march is not a new fight, but a continuation of Martin Luther King's quest in the struggle for brotherhood.

King sought to plant seeds of hope that we can continue to nourish into strong and healthy trees of life. It is our duty to nourish these seeds with love, respect and justice for all. When 25,000 people descended on Cumming, Ga., it was not as individuals, whites and black, but as brothers. There were citizens from all over the country who collectively bonded to non-violently combat a parasite of society and human souls: racism.

This march was not staged in memory of Dr. King, but it served as notice to all who contently sit back and let racism fester. The struggle still goes on.

The march also should have caught the attention of our federal government. Terrorism (an outward expression of racism) exists within the borders of the United States. It should be fought with the same vigor and rhetoric that we combat terrorism with in Third World nations.

It is frightening that the ills of the world are being set upon the backs of our children. Youth of the Third World grow up in an atmosphere of war, death and famine, while our nation's children grow up with subliminal messages of hatred, misguided aggression and cultural ignorance. The cycle seems everlasting.

The realities of Forsyth County and other places like it should serve notice to us all. The struggle for civil peace and harmony continues—until the hatred found in the eyes of the children of Forsyth County no longer exists. That was the purpose of the march and the message of the "dream."
—Travis Davidson, chairman, People Living the Dream.

You have to think before you take a drink

Alcohol is legal and accepted in families, social, business and religion but getting drunk is illegal.

Facts show that seven out of 10 adults drink and nine out of 10 high schoolers have drunk more than once.

Alcohol not only hurts the body, it mainly hurts the brain.

When you get drunk, first you're happy, then excited, then confusion occurs and then you're incapable of standing or walking.

Other problems are that your behavior changes, your physical fitness changes, and you miss out in school and finally you get arrested. Those are minor problems.

You might drink and drive—you might drink and use other drugs. Those are two major problems.

So what ever you do, think before you drink!—Adrian Hendricks, age 11, Carbondale

Clean water bill veto a Reagan wash-out

St. Louis Post-Dispatch

When Congress overrode the president's veto of a $2.6-billion clean water bill, it gave itself a measure of power that will strengthen it in future budget battles with the White House. That's not all. Americans are for renewal of the Clean Water Act and the spending on pollution control projects in the bill, even if there is favoritism in those projects, as President Reagan argued when he sent his veto message to Capitol Hill.

Why would the president choose to make a stand he was sure to lose so early in a Congress that is determined to increase its independence from the executive branch? Mr. Reagan's objections to the clean water bill were boiler-plate stuff: too expensive with too many pork barrel projects.

But pork is in the eye of the beholder. What some would call pork is what, in another area of public spending, Mr. Reagan would call increasing national security.

Mr. Reagan offered a less costly bill of his own, but it was too late. Given the budget fights ahead, it seems the White House made a significant tactical error in vetoing the clean water bill.

Black studies is part of the solution

This refers to a DE editorial on 2-3-87. Mr. Editor, the start of your editorial was good. You made some interesting points on the W.A.S.P.-slant of history and the fact that removal of black studies from general education will discourage people from taking black history courses.

However, this is where my agreement ends.

You state that using black studies to balance the study of history is the wrong solution to a tough problem. The tough solution I think you refer to is a well-grounded factual history (which the Europeans utterly failed to give). I hardly think anyone refers to black American history classes as the complete solution, but it is a major part. Without it, history contains a lot of unchallenged lies that many would hold as truth without the shadow of a doubt.

You also stated a fault in the black studies solution is that most of the students are black. I have never noticed anyone standing in the registration line telling non-black students not to register for Black American Studies courses.

As far as segregation of black from white history, this is purely a European invention. The black story was segregated by omission. BAS is merely attempting to replace what has been taken out (or never put in). If you are unaware of the existence of a black and white America, I am here to tell you it exists. Welcome to the real world.

The deficiency of black coverage in other classes was created by the men who wrote the books. And yes, black studies courses do fill that deficiency. They are not special classes just for blacks, they are for anyone.

The fact that you assume black studies only covers one of the neglected groups is proof of how many black studies classes you have had. In my classes I have covered the struggle of the American Indian, the women's movement, and the plight of the Third World countries (this is quite a range).

Before you start dismissing black studies as a bad solution, you should do more research and not take titles at face value.

The topsided table of history can't begin to stand straight without the Book of Black History!—Michael Pryor, senior, computer information processing.

Black studies can alleviate pain of racism

"End segregation of black history." This title gave me the impression that the author was aware of the problem. After reading the article I realized that the author is part of the problem. The writer thinks that one fault of Black American Studies courses is a majority African American enrollment. Seems like the editor is saying that black enrollment in B.A.S. courses is keeping others out.

The blame for lack of whites and others in black studies should be placed upon those who choose to remain ignorant of black history.

The editor showed his/her own ignorance by stating that black studies address only one of the neglected groups in history. Others may have been neglected but none has been dragged in chains from its homeland and sold like cattle. One shouldn't talk about something one knows nothing about. If the editor had taken a B.A.S. course he or she would know that there are various groups discussed. We realize that B.A.S. courses won't cure the cancer of racism, but it is a treatment that alleviates some of the pain. Black American Studies leads to acknowledgement by the social sciences and society.—Herman Braggs, senior, electrical engineering.

University is ignoring parking problem

SIU-C has a serious lack of parking space available to its students, and, as a student, I believe the time has come for officials to address the problem. Students pay an enormous sum of money to attend this institution of higher learning, and they are rewarded with parking tickets and towing fees.

Although the problem has long existed, University officials continue to ignore students' complaints. Perhaps the reason officials disregard the problem is because they have never searched endlessly for an available space only to lose it to someone else. I would like to see the expression on an official's face when he returned to the parking lot to find his car missing. Likewise, I would like to see his reaction to the $35 towing fee.—Neal Rudolf, sophomore, engineering.

Airline postpones decision on commuter flights

By David Sheets
Staff Writer

Green Hills Airlines' officers have delayed an announcement on whether the firm will start-up air service at Southern Illinois Airport.

Jodi Storey, a Green Hills spokeswoman in Mount Vernon, said the airline, which was expected to make its announcement this weekend, still was in negotiations over service start-up with the airport.

She said the next scheduled meeting between both sides would be sometime next week.

Irvin Jones, Green Hills' president, said late last month that he would announce whether the commuter airline would begin round-trip flights from Carbondale to St. Louis and Carbondale to Chicago no later than Sunday.

Storey said she couldn't elaborate on the status of the negotiations, but if service does begin at SI Airport, "You probably shouldn't be looking for us to be there before April."

Gary Shafer, SI Airport manager, said Green Hills was one of three air carriers negotiating with the airport for rights to establish round-trip commuter connections to St. Louis and Chicago. He declined to identify the other two carriers.

Jones said in January that he had hoped to have negotiations completed before this Sunday because it would take about two weeks to get flights started at the airport. Jones mentioned March 1 as a tentative start-up date if negotiations were favorable.

Jones could not be reached Thursday for comment.

Green Hills, based in Kirksville, Mo., began regular air service Jan. 16 out of Mount Vernon Outland Airport. It is the only commuter airline in Southern Illinois with direct flights to St. Louis and Chicago.

SI Airport hasn't served as a commuter base for St. Louis and Chicago flights since December 1985 when Resor-Tair, a commuter subsidiary of Trans World Airlines, discontinued operations because of a lack of service.

Northwest AirlinK, a commuter extension of the Memphis-based Northwest Airlines, provides commuter flights out of SI Airport to Memphis, with stopovers in Cape Girardeau and Paducah.

Using the pill limits cancer, doctors say

CHICAGO (UPI)—In good news for women taking the birth control pill, government doctors reported Thursday that women who take the pill for at least a year gain lasting protection against uterine cancer, the fourth most common cancer in U.S. women.

The conclusion by researchers for the federal Centers for Disease Control complements earlier reports that oral contraceptives provide protection against ovarian cancer and do not cause breast cancer, contrary to popular fears.

"It's not only no a fear; it's good news," said Dr. Juliette Kendrick, a CDC epidemiologist involved in a recently completed government study on the relationship between cancer and hormones.

However, Kendrick said the findings do not constitute a blanket endorsement of birth control pills.

"Sometimes I sort of feel pushed to say that every woman should go out and take the pill, but that's just not true," she said in a telephone interview. "It's a decision that has to be made individually."

Cancer of the uterine lining—endometrium—is diagnosed in 36,000 U.S. women every year and 2,900 die from it, according to American Cancer Society figures. Only breast, lung and colon cancer are more common in American women.

To determine what relationship, if any, exists between oral contraceptive use and uterine cancer, Kendrick and her colleagues compared the medical histories of 433 women with confirmed endometrial cancer to 3,191 similar women aged 20 to 54.

The researchers, reporting in the Journal of the American Medical Association, found that women who took oral contraceptives for more than a year but less than two years were only 70 percent as likely to develop endometrial cancer as women who had never used the pill.

GPSC approves $1 day care fee increase

By Tracy Bartoni
Staff Writer

A resolution supporting a $1 per semester fee increase to help finance Rainbow's End Day Care Center has been approved by the Graduate and Professional Student Council.

The measure, with an amendment that the increase be only from the summer 1987 through spring 1988 semesters, was approved by the council at its meeting Wednesday night.

One opposing and 25 supporting votes were cast. Eight council members abstained.

Marilyn Miller, doctoral candidate in physical education, proposed the amendment, which provides a temporary means of keeping Rainbow's End in operation.

Rent for the day care facility, which is used by SIU-C students and faculty, will increase from $10,000 to $25,000 in May. University administrators are trying to find a way to fund a permanent facility.

Opponents of the resolution previously argued that a fee increase for Rainbow's End could lead to other fee increases. Students without children should not have to subsidize those who do have them, they said. Other council members disagreed.

"I think one dollar is a small investment in youth," said Charlotte Bowens, doctoral student in rehabilitation administration. She said the increase, which would be added to the $8.55 student activity fee, is nominal compared to the $32-a-semester Recreation Center fee.

"Here we're talking about investing money in humanity, and we're having a problem with that," she said. "Is this a collective community where we work together and get things done?"

Bowens said the day care facility could make a difference on whether students attend school.

In other matters, John Corker, director of the Student Center, addressed the council about contracting with an outside firm to operate the University Bookstore.

Large amounts of paperwork are required to operate the bookstore's computerized inventory system, which Corker called a "lame-duck system that doesn't work."

But the University can't get rid of it, either, he said. Installing a new computer system would cost the University $260,000 to $300,000 and textbooks would have to be delivered to SIU-C's Central Storage facility instead of directly to the bookstore.

Contracting with an outside firm would allow the University to get a better computer system without a direct cost, he said. It also would give the University up to an 8 percent financial return—as much as $90,000 a year.

The council also discussed proposing a $10 application fee for potential SIU-C graduate students. Eric Landrum, doctoral student in experimental psychology, said the application fee would reduce the number and speed up the processing of applications.

He said, however, that the fee would hinder applications from foreign students who find it difficult to obtain American currency.

The council tabled both measures until its meeting Feb. 25.

"If anyone is dissatisfied, they should send in a copy of their

On delivery of the cookiegrams, Tubis said: "As far as I know, they've all been shipped out." But he said that was not handled by him or his office.

"We try to make people happy ... If we were trying to rip people off, we wouldn't be in business year after year," he said.

The ordinance makes it illegal for more than two unrelated people to occupy an R-1 zoned house.

West Side Sen. Thea Rubin said, "It may be good for the students who aren't being forced to move, but not those who are. I think we should let students know about it."

In a telephone interview, Monty said he would dispute the term "selective enforcement." All violators will have to move, he said, it is just a matter of time.

Replacement of the field lights is delayed "pending the identification of funding sources," according to the board.

The artificial turf was replaced in 1976 and the track was resurfaced in 1981. Weather and frequent use caused deterioration to the point where concerns were expressed about athletes' safety, the board said.

The project must be submitted for approval by the Illinois Board of Higher Education as a project financed by revenue bonds and student fees.

Other projects approved by the board include the replacement of water pipes at Boomer and Wright Halls.

rate increases would generate $280,500, with the remainder of the costs coming from operating surpluses in previous years, according to the board rationale.

The University Housing Liaison Committee voted unanimously on Oct. 24 to support the proposed rate increases, stating that the increase was justified.

Performance covers plot in Cooper's 'Nightmare'

By Ellen Cook
Entertainment Editor

A small group of protesters stood in front of the SIU-C Arena Wednesday night, warning concert-goers about the questionable content of Alice Cooper's stage show.

Yes, the content was questionable. And yes, it wasn't a show that you'd take your grandmother to. But Cooper's performance was so good that it barely mattered that the plot of his stage show was so bad.

Cooper's show resembled a gothic stage play more than a rock concert. Unlike most concerts, where the performers interact with audience members, Cooper chose to play straight through the macabre program, acknowledging the presence of the small crowd only at the end of his performance.

COOPER OPENED with "Welcome to my Nightmare," which served as a theme for the show. Every song that followed seemed to fit within the dream world of Cooper's murderous madman.

Because he is such a high camp performer, nothing that Cooper does on stage can be taken seriously. His set, strewn with body parts and garbage served as a playground for Cooper's violent antics, which included skewing dolls with a saber during "Billion Dollar Babies," sitting his wrist with an epee and impaling a "photographer" with his microphone stand.

Although most of the violence had a comedic edge, Cooper's violent actions against women was disturbing.

DURING ONE song, Cooper pulled a life-sized doll out of a battered refrigerator, flung it around the stage and slapped its face. He followed the song with the ballad "Only Women Bleed," in which he seemed to apologize for his previous acts, only to resume hitting the doll again. The song ended when the doll became a real woman who took revenge on Cooper by choking him.

Later in the show, Cooper was placed in a straight jacket by a voluptuous female nurse. Predictably, Cooper freed himself and "killed" the nurse.

The violent behavior didn't go un punished. An executioner appeared on stage with a guillotine, beheaded Cooper and paraded around the stage holding Cooper's "head" high in the air.

ALICE COOPER'S nightmare seemed to end with his timely death, but Cooper was resurrected to give the audience one last song, "School's Out," which was peppered with solo performances by his fellow musicians. Although the band returned for an encore, "School's Out" was the climax of the program.

The members of Megadeth, who opened for Cooper, had opportunities to showcase their individual talents as well, but it didn't quite work as well as it should have. Although it was evident that each musician had talent, the quartet didn't work together as a group.

FRED'S could present The Elmer Fudd Marching Band and with the atmosphere of the Barn and 3 beers you would think you were listening to Alabama. But every so often we do have something special. Last season it was Ken Carlyle and the Cadillac Cowboys. When we told you Ken was the best Country "Showman" in the Midwest, 790 of you know we didn't lie. This season we bring you Nite Life. In our view this band is the best "musical" country band in the Midwest.

Two years ago Cedar Creek and Country Luvin broke up. Last fall members of both groups reformed into a seven piece group called Nite Life. They excel in the four-part harmonies of the Oakridge Boys and the Statler Brothers. They have a female singer that can knock your socks off (knowing that when you come to Fred's, make sure your feet are clean), and a sax player that gives them a sound dimension unheard of outside a Nashville studio.

If you come to Fred's only one time this season, this is the party you shouldn't miss.

Harmony flows smoothly through duo's 1st release

By Debra Keen-Cooper
Staff Writer

Brady & Hollye, a duet which has gained considerable popularity in Carbondale, released their debut album, "Borderline," in late 1986.

Basically a country release, the album features six songs, ranging from pure country to blues to obscure rock 'n' roll.

The Brady-written opener, "Memphis In The Morning," shows off the duo's tight harmonies and features flowing acoustic guitar accompaniment while telling the story of a man driving home to his "girl with eyes of green."

The only problem with the cut is a slight nasal tone, which is typical of country music.

The second cut, "Cry," was written by Johnny Cash's daughter, Carlene Carter. Written from a mother's point of view, "Cry" tells about her offer to help mend her son's broken heart.

The song insists: "Heartache's a scratch but love is an itch. She must've scratched to make you hurt like this." The song features an up-tempo sound and focuses on a fresh topic.

Carbondale resident and guitarist Robbie Stokes is featured on the tune, as well as two other cuts: "Borderline," which opens the second side of the album, and "Wait," an obscure Lennon-McCartney Beatles tune.

"Borderline," performed as a solo and written by Brady, shows off his soft mellow vocals and is backed by a country rock sound. The song is about a love that is "all borderline."

"Something To You" features the Howlelujah Chorus: Brady, Hollye and sister Tina Howle. The tune is a slow paced, flowing love song that features extremely tight three-part harmonies, accentuated by Brady's smooth vocal solos.

"Have To Say," also written by Brady, is probably the best cut on the album. It is a blues piece, which shows off Hollye's deep strong vocals and provides a laid-back switch from other cuts on the album.

The brother-and-sister team from Western Kentucky now make their homes in Memphis, Tenn.

Separate career paths joined by music for Brady & Hollye

What do you get when you put a dancer on stage with a biology teacher?

It isn't a dancing microscope or a sprained microbe, but a talented brother-and-sister duet called Brady & Hollye.

Brady & Hollye will be at Gatsby's, 608 S. Illinois, on Sunday and Monday.

Raised in Western Kentucky, Brady H. Howle and Hollye Howle Mattox come from what she describes as a musically inclined family.

"I REMEMBER sitting on our front porch, playing and singing music together when we were kids," Hollye said in a phone interview Tuesday. "Dad showed Brady his first guitar chords and Mom would join in on the piano."

Hollye said she and her brother first sang together in a church choir in their hometown, Wickliffe, Ky. Each had different aspirations for their life's work before they started performing together.

University in Cape Girardeau and taught high school biology and coached basketball in Carlisle, Ky.

Jack Benny celebrates '39 Again'

WAUKEGAN (UPI)—Waukegan honors one of the city's more famous residents Friday with a 39 Again Birthday Celebration, a tribute to comedian Jack Benny.

Benny, who often gave his age as 39, will be honored with a gala reception featuring his sister Joan Benny on Saturday, but the celebration runs for the whole weekend.

On Friday, Joan Benny will participate in a news conference and opening of the Benny Memorabilia Exhibit at the Waukegan Public Library.

The library is sponsoring the eve, along with the Jack Benny Tribute Association. Benny was born Benjamin Kubelsky Feb. 14, 1894, in Chicago, but was reared in Waukegan. He left Waukegan at 17 to pursue a career in vaudeville. He died in 1974.

A service for Benny is set for Friday night. The Benny film "To Be or Not to Be" will open the Saturday festivities, with a vintage fashion show and a Benny Blue Eyes Contest scheduled along with other events.

Saturday evening is the reception for Joan Benny with entertainment provided by the Benny String Ensemble and the Waukegan Chamber Singers. The Benny Boosters and Benny Angels will also be present.

The Benny String Ensemble will present a special arrangement of the Kreutzer Etude, frequently played by Benny. Musicians studying at the Benny Center will also perform.

Performances are paid for by the Benny Center for Arts, which sponsors the annual Jack Benny Commemorative Concert.

"Charlie's Aunt," another Benny film, will be shown on Sunday and the "Benny Blue Eyes" photo contest will be judged.

Lynn Breger, a San Francisco publicist who has been in Waukegan visiting her father and promoting the events, said the celebration is important to Waukegan.

"Waukegan needs this," she said.

Hollye, who attended Paducah Community College and taught in her sister's dance studio, said her original plans were to be a "gypsy dancer on Broadway."

About four years ago, Hollye was singing with the country rock band Overtime and the rock band Sandridge, both based in Paducah. Brady was performing with a band called Splitwater Creek. The two decided to put an act together to pull in some extra money in their free time.

HOLLYE SAID THEY

started making more money as a duet and decided to pursue it.

So they moved to Memphis, Tenn. "We could stay more in one place and, of course, there's a great recording industry there," she said.

Brady & Hollye play a mixture of country, folk and light rock 'n' roll. They combine Brady's original compositions with country classics and even some Beatles tunes.

THE DUET'S DEBUT album, "Borderline," features four originals by Brady, including their crowd pleaser "Memphis In the Morning." The album, released early this year, also features a song by Carlene Carter, who is a daughter of Johnny Cash.

"WE PLAY A LOT of college towns. I think they're the best because people accept what we do a lot easier," she said. "I guess it's because there's such a large number of different people with such a wide range of tastes."

Black Widow—(Varsity, R) Debra Winger ("An Officer and a Gentleman") searches for a master of disguise (Theresa Russell) who has murdered three husbands.

Children of a Lesser God—(Varsity, R) William Hurt stars as a teacher who tries to communicate with an exceptionally bright, yet stubborn, deaf student played by hearing-impaired actress Marlee Matlin.

The Color Purple—(Student Center Auditorium, 7 and 9:45 p.m., Friday and Saturday) Steven Spielberg's adaptation of the Alice Walker novel has been praised for its depiction of strong black women and criticized for its depiction of brutal black men. The film features good performances, notably by Whoopi Goldberg, in a decidedly non-comedic role.

Critical Condition—(University 4, R) Richard Pryor plays a criminal who attempts to avoid prison by feigning insanity. No, it's not "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest II." The plot thickens as Pryor is mistaken as a doctor instead of a patient.

Crocodile Dundee—(Fox Eastgate, PG-13) Paul Hogan stars as an Australian adventurer who is brought to New York City by a female reporter. One of the biggest hits—and knives—of the Christmas season.

From the Hip—(Varsity, PG) Judd Nelson ("The Breakfast Club") and Elizabeth Perkins ("About Last Night") co-star in this courtroom comedy with a serious edge.

Heartbreak Ridge—(Liberty, R) Clint Eastwood stars as Tom Highway, a hard-hearted Marine gunnery sergeant who experiences problems with his unwilling trainees and with his estranged wife, played by Marsha Mason.

Krush Groove—(Student Center Video Lounge, 11:30 p.m., Friday and Saturday) Good music and appearances by Run-DMC and Sheila E., among others, make up for this film's hackneyed premise—talented guy makes it big in the music industry with a lot of hard work and a little help from his friends.

Lady and the Tramp—(University 4, G) This animated Walt Disney classic is worth another look if only for the childhood memories that it evokes: the pedigree and the mongrel eating spaghetti in the moonlight, the evil Siamese cats, and Scamp, the lovable cross-breed produced by our hero and heroine.

Light of Day—(Saluki, PG-13) Joan Jett and Michael J. Fox co-star as a brother and sister who try to use their music to get out of Cleveland. Bruce Springsteen wrote the title song, and the Fabulous Thunderbirds perform in a bar scene.

Mannequin—(University 4, PG) Andrew McCarthy ("St. Elmo's Fire") stars as a modern-day Pygmalion whose female mannequin comes to life.

The Mission—(University 4, R) Jeremy Irons and Robert

DeNiro star as missionaries working together to free a tribe of 18th century South American Indians from injustice and prejudice. Directed by Roland Joffe ("The Killing Fields.")

Outrageous Fortune—(Saluki, R) Bette Midler starred in the film comedies "Ruthless People" and "Down and Out in Beverly Hills," and Shelley Long stars in the television sitcom "Cheers." Together they'll try to make audiences laugh as actresses who become friends despite their personality differences.

Over the Top—(Fox Eastgate, PG) Sylvester Stallone trades in boxing and warmongering to try his hand at professional arm wrestling. Sly's "fighting for his son's love," which means he may have to utter more than a few grunts in this film.

Peggy Sue Got Married—(Fox Eastgate, PG-13) What happens when "Back to the Future" meets "The Wizard of Oz"?

Platoon—(University 4, R) Vietnam veteran Oliver Stone wrote and directed this controversial film, which may be the best depiction of the Vietnam War to date. Actors Charlie Sheen, Willem Dafoe and Tom Berenger went through pseudo-combat training to prepare for the film.

Prizzi's Honor—(Student Center Video Lounge, 6:30 and 9 p.m., Friday and Saturday) John Huston directs his daughter Angelica, Jack Nicholson and Kathleen Turner in this romantic comedy about two hired killers who fall in love.

Richie's singles creeping toward Beatles' 'record'

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Bon Jovi ruled both single and album charts for a second week in Billboard magazine, but it was Lionel Richie taking the spotlight this week with his singles slowly creeping toward a Beatles benchmark.

Excluding B sides and EPs, the Beatles cracked the top 10 with 20 consecutive singles. Richie's "Ballerina Girl," by breaking into the top 10 last week, has given the performer his 13th consecutive top 10 single.

It's the longest succession of top 10 hits that any other artist can claim this decade. And while Richie has a way to go to catch the awesome foursome from Liverpool, he needn't worry about the gap widening. Richie's newest distinction flows past another milestone. Just last month, when "Deep River Woman" broke the country chart's top 10, Richie became one of the few artists to have ever entered the top 10 on the pop, black country, dance and adult contemporary charts.

January was also the month Bon Jovi's "Slippery When Wet" topped 5 million units in U.S. sales, just five months after its release. That's the fastest any album has reached the 5-million-sales mark since the Recording Industry Association of America introduced multiplatinum awards in December 1984.

'Fishfinger': a weird return for 007

By Mary Caudle
Staff Writer

James Bond is back, but he's definitely fallen on weird times.

Driving around Southern Illinois in a 3-year-old Toyota with a leading lady who couldn't care less about him, Bond's mission is to save the world from a fish-crazy villain out to set off the New Madras Fault.

And that's not all. A supporting cast that includes the Three Stooges and Captain Kangaroo add to the eerie feeling that Bond has wandered onto the wrong set.

IT'S HARD TO decide, though, if it's the set of Saturday Night Live or a Looney Tunes cartoon.

"Fishfinger," a locally produced movie that spoofs the original James Bond movies, will be airing at 6:30 p.m. Friday and 11 a.m. Saturday on Carbondale Cablevision, Channel 33. The movie also will be aired on a slightly reduced schedule the following weeks.

The 97-minute movie, produced by Cablevision employees Steve Latshaw and Patrick Moran, was meant mainly as a showcase for local talent, Latshaw said.

FILMED IN SOUTHERN Illinois and at LaCledre's

Landing in St. Louis, "Fishfinger" has a cast and crew of SIUC graduates and faculty members, as well as members of the Jackson County Stage Company.

With Latshaw and Moran in the roles of 007 and his archrival Karl Fishfinger, the movie utilizes the talents of local residents, including Kevin Cox, Brad Moore, Gene Dvobig, Janet Hamilton and Keith Tuxhorn.

LATSHAW AND MORAN produced short comedy pieces for a few years that served as "testing grounds" for their production skills before they decided to make a feature-length film last year. "We wanted to see if we could do it," Moran said.

"But even more than that, we wanted to show people in the community what can be done, and that culture can be found in Carbondale, too," Latshaw added.

With $200 of their own money and Cablevision studios equipment, Latshaw and Moran began the project last March. It took almost a year to complete because the bulk of the filming had to be done on evenings and weekends, Latshaw said.

IT WILL BE their last project for a while because both want to take a break from 80-hour work weeks. Their main concern right now is distributing the movie.

The movie can't be marketed because Bond is a copyrighted character. But Moran said, "We would like to have the movie seen." So the movie is airing as much as possible, Latshaw said.

Carbondale Cablevision soon will be offering it to other cable systems in the area, such as East St. Louis and Cape Girardeau.

LATSHAW SAID HE hopes the movie will promote local interest in the station, which he describes as "very student oriented." It offers such alternative viewing choices as classic movies and local comedian showcases, as well as the University-produced video show "New Frontier."

The Illinois Film Office has shown interest in the movie, and a copy will be sent to them for possible filming locations in Southern Illinois, Latshaw said. A copy also will go to a Latshaw relative at Disney Studios in Los Angeles, in the hope of promoting local actors who appear in the movie.

LATSHAW AND MORAN said they chose to do a Bond spoof because they were familiar with his films and because of the films' suspense, comedy, and romance: elements that gave them plenty of room to poke fun.

And poke they do. Bond plays "straight man for a collection of very bizarre characters," Latshaw said. In the process, he does save the world from certain destruction.

But will he ever win over his leading lady Sherri Madeira?

Judges offer 99-cent weddings

HOUSTON (UPI)—Two judges who apparently are romantic but not superstitious are offering to perform 99-cent weddings on Friday the 13th.

"I would marry my wife again on Friday the 13th or any other day, regardless of ill omens, superstitions or any other forebodings," Harris County Justice of the Peace Larry Wayne said Wednesday. Wayne and fellow Justice of the Peace Kenneth Pacetti are offering to perform the cut-rate weddings only on Friday, because Valentine's Day falls this year on Saturday when county offices are closed and couples cannot obtain marriage licenses.

The offer follows one made earlier this month by R. George Molino, justice of the peace, in Fort Bend County. Molino will keep his office open Saturday and perform weddings for $1 instead of his normal fee of $35 on weekdays and $50 on weekends. Senior citizens can wed for free on Valentine's Day.

But couples who want to be married by Molino on Valentine's Day must obtain their marriage licenses from the Fort Bend County courthouse by Friday.

Actor's 'Hart' surrounded by women, women, women

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—No man in Hollywood appreciates women more than Robert Wagner, who is virtually surrounded by females 24 hours a day—and loves it.

At home he finds himself in the company of his three daughters, Kate, Natasha and Courtney. His mother, sister and girlfriend live nearby and visit frequently.

Even Wagner's pets and animals on his mini-ranch in Pacific Palisades—including five dogs, five cats, a flock of chickens and a stable of horses—are all female.

APART FROM the fact that he is rich, handsome, athletic and a charmer, there is some magic connection between Wagner and the fair sex that has made the actor a favorite of women moviegoers and TV viewers.

His motion picture roles over the years and his TV series have cast him as a smooth, gentlemanly lover, invariably playing opposite some of Hollywood's most beautiful actresses.

Wagner says he has hit the jackpot with his most recent leading lady, Audrey Hepburn, in the TV film "Love Among Thieves" (ABC, Feb. 23).

"Working with Audrey is one of the great personal and professional experiences of my life," Wagner said, strolling past his swimming pool and the stables located on his tree-shaded acreage not far from Sunset Boulevard.

"WORKING WITH terrific leading ladies has helped my career more than I can say. I have the greatest respect for them. The nice thing is that I've kept my friendships with the actresses I've worked with over the years."

The current and long-time important lady in his life is Jill St. John, his co-star in two movies from years past, "Banning" and "How I Spent My Summer Vacation."

Wagner has romanced some of his other co-stars during his bachelor days, among them Debbie Reynolds, Jean Peters and Marilyn Monroe, who appeared with Wagner in her first screen test at 20th Century Fox.

HE ALSO co-starred with his late wife, Natalie Wood, and dated Stefanie Powers, with whom he shared billing for six years in the TV series "Hart to Hart."

"I spent more time with Stefanie during those six years than I ever did with my mother when I was a kid," Wagner said. "We're still good friends."

"There haven't been many actors as lucky as I've been with co-stars. I worked with Natalie in 'All the Fine Young Cannibals,' Joanne Woodward in 'Kiss Before Dying' and 'Winning,' Susan Hayward in 'With a Song in My Heart,' Sophia Loren in 'The Condemned of Altona' and Elizabeth Taylor in 'There Must Be a Pony.'

"God, I can't remember them all. Let's see, there was Terry Moore, Hope Lange, Angie Dickinson, Mary Tyler Moore, Julie Harris and Debra Paget, Capucine and Claudia Cardinale. The list goes on and on.

"IT'S AN absolute fact that women have played a vitally important part in my career and my life. I've literally worked with hundreds of them.

Their reaction to me has been caring, and that is a great compliment to me.

"Women have so many fine qualities that working with them is a pleasure and a new experience all the time. Actresses usually are more interested in life than other people. I find them more stimulating than men because they live in so many different areas. The influence of my mother and sister (Mary) helped me develop an appreciation of female qualities."

WAGNER SAID he has fond memories of each one of his female costars. "Every actress I've worked with was different, interesting and talented. Actresses are very special people, sensitive and vulnerable. They put themselves on the line every time they make a movie.

"I don't want to overstate my feelings for women. But if a woman wants a man to succeed it gives him more energy and motivation.

"I guess you could say I'm a real ladies' man in the best sense. But I've made some all-male movies, too, you know. One of the best was with Spencer Tracy in 'The Mountain.'"

Rebels are attacking clinics, U.S. doctors, nurses charge

CHICAGO (UPI) — U.S.-backed Contra rebels are attacking Nicaraguan health clinics in direct violation of the Geneva Conventions and as part of an organized campaign of terror, a group of American doctors and nurses charged Thursday.

The group, organized by the National Central American Health Rights Network, said they independently confirmed the attacks in three unsupervised trips to Nicaragua since 1984, visiting the sites of six rural clinics allegedly bombed or burned by the Nicaraguan Democratic Front (FDN), the U.S.-backed force seeking to overthrow the Sandinista government.

Eyewitness accounts and physical evidence tend to support Nicaraguan government claims of Contra terrorism and discredit Reagan administration arguments that the attacks either did not happen or were coordinated by the Sandinistas as part of a propaganda campaign.

"The pattern was so clear and so often repeated that I have no reason to believe that these weren't real stories about real Contras doing these things," said Dr. Michael Gray, medical director of Benson Health Services and chairman of occupational medicine at Keno Community Hospital in Tucson, Ariz.

A detailed report on the visits appears in Friday's edition of American Medical News, a publication of the American Medical Association. The report was written by Sandy Smith, a Washington-based freelance journalist who accompanied the health workers during trips in November 1985 and 1986. In both cases, four doctors, a nurse and a development worker also made the trip.

Smith said the health care workers were organized into a task force in 1984.

Richard Garfield, of the Columbia University Medical School, published a monograph detailing the Nicaraguan charges in 1984, but it was dismissed by the Reagan administration as propaganda.

Push for Contra aid unaffected by scandal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Administration officials said Thursday the controversy over the Iran-Contra scandal will not delay a request to Congress for $105 million in new assistance for the Nicaraguan rebels.

"Today's controversy over the Iran arms deal must be dealt with as a matter of purely domestic concern," Secretary of State George Shultz told the American Bar Association in New Orleans. "It is irrelevant to the strategic and moral realities we face in this hemisphere."

State Department and White House officials denied a New York Times report the administration had decided to postpone its formal request for more Contra aid until September.

Elliott Abrams, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, has said previously the formal request would not come until August or September.

State Department spokeswoman Phyllis Oakley said the request would be made so new money can be made available to the rebels when the current $100 million aid package expires Sept. 30, the end of the fiscal year.

"We're not delaying anything. It's simply that we have not made up our minds about when we're going to do it," Oakley said.

Support hinges on success, official says of Contra effort

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's top military officer said Thursday the American public will withdraw its commitment to the Nicaraguan rebels unless the Contras change their methods of operation and score successes against the Sandinistas.

"It's imperative to be successful," said Adm. William Crowe, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. "You've got to have some kind of success or you're not going to get a continuing commitment."

"I don't think there's any question about that," he said. "And I don't know of anybody that would ask the American public to go on and on indefinitely without progress."

Crowe's remarks over breakfast with reporters were among the toughest criticisms against the rebel movement by a senior U.S. military leader.

His comments on the Contras' tactics and their inability to unify their separate movements came at a time when the rebels appear to be divided and the administration has asked Congress for $105 million in aid for them.

'Doctor Zhivago' to be printed in Soviet Union

MOSCOW (UPI)—"Doctor Zhivago," the novel that earned author Boris Pasternak fame abroad and condemnation at home, will be published in the Soviet Union for the first time next year, the Tass news agency said Thursday.

The novel of post-revolutionary Russia, which brought Pasternak the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1958, will appear in three or four installments in the literary magazine Novy Mir during 1988.

The Tass announcement came in the form of a report on the official commission that had been set up last year to study the works of Pasternak—a move marking his official rehabilitation.

"Sergei Zalygin, editor-in-chief of the Moscow-based Novy Mir (New World) monthly literary review, briefed the commission on plans connected with the publication of Pasternak's works," Tass said.

The agency quoted Zalygin saying that "my monthly intends to publish Pasternak's novel 'Doctor Zhivago' in three or four issues next year."

Other works by Pasternak, who died in 1960, have been published over the years but "Doctor Zhivago," with its tale of suffering in the turmoil following the 1917 revolution, was labeled anti-Soviet.

Pasternak, knowing that the novel would not be published in the Soviet Union, had it printed first in Italy. The worldwide acclaim for the book brought him the Nobel Prize, but he was forced by Soviet authorities to decline it.

"The meeting paid much attention to the issue of perpetuating Pasternak's memory," Tass said. "It is planned to hang memorial plaques on the building where he was born and on his country house outside Moscow."

The country house in the writer's village of Peredelkino, not far from his grave in a hillside cemetery, was the subject of a battle earlier this decade when authorities asked his descendants to move out. The contents were taken away.

Pasternak, who was born in 1890, had busied himself largely with translations of Shakespeare during the worst of the Stalinist repression.

But quietly he worked on "Doctor Zhivago" and in the spring of 1956—the period of destalinization—it was circulated among editors in Moscow. Although Premier Nikita Krushchev later said the move was a mistake, its publication was banned in the Soviet Union.

Dean of Jewish group says 74 Nazis may be living in U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Simon Wiesenthal Center said Thursday that 74 Nazis could be living in the United States, including four dozen who "personally participated in mass murder" of Jews during World War II.

Rabbi Marvin Hier, dean of the center, said he gave the names and alleged whereabouts of the 74 individuals to Neal Sher, head of the Justice Department's Office of Special Investigations, for further action.

"They do not know" they have been spotted, Hier said at a news conference. "But perhaps they will recognize themselves."

Hier, claiming to have access to key immigration information, declined to name those the center has identified as living in the United States. But he said their ages range from 64 to 85 and each is believed to still be in the country because there are no records they ever left.

He conceded, however, that the center had not actually traced all of the suspects, and, "We have no idea on how many are still alive." Another 62 suspects were eliminated from the list when the center determined they had died.

"Forty-seven are alleged to have personally participated in mass murder, another 17 were members of murder squads or police battalions that partook in the liquidation of Jews in Lithuania and Latvia," he said. "And the rest, are collaborators that aided and abetted the Nazi cause."

Among each suspect's brief description is their intended destination in this country—most arriving more than 40 years ago—with many destined for the Northeast, others for Detroit, Chicago, Pittsburgh and Cleveland and some for cities in Oregon, California and Washington state.

Sher said the OSI—the Justice Department's Nazi-tracking unit—would use the information as a "starting point" for investigations.

"We receive many allegations that Nazis are living in this country. And we will check them out. Some might be good leads," he said.

Aide wants deportation halted

WASHINGTON (UPI)—White House aide Pat Buchanan asked Attorney General Edwin Meese recently to block the deportation of an accused Nazi war criminal to the Soviet Union where he faces certain death, sources said Thursday.

Revelation of Buchanan's appeal to Meese, in a Jan. 29 letter on White House stationery, came as Jewish groups stepped up pressure on Meese to quickly deport Karl Linnas.

Linnas, accused of participating in mass murder while head of the notorious Tartu concentration camp during World War II, has been ordered deported by U.S. courts and exhausted all avenues of appeal when the Supreme Court decided Dec. 1 the final decision to deport him now lies with Meese.

Buchanan has defended the rights of accused Nazis before, mostly recently in a Washington Post column in which he described the accused guard of the Treblinka death camp, John Demjanjuk, as "a church-going family man from Cleveland" and "a victim himself of a miscarriage of justice."

Baby-face adults belie guilt, not negligence, expert says

BOSTON (UPI)—A psychologist has found that adults with baby faces are perceived as less likely to commit premeditated crimes, but people find it easier to believe those with childish facial features could be criminally negligent.

"Baby-faced people are seen to be more honest and more naive than mature-faced people," said Leslie Zebrowitz McArthur, a professor of psychology at Brandeis University in Waltham, Mass.

McArthur asked 128 college students to look at pictures of people described as defendants in criminal cases, read descriptions of their alleged crimes and decide whether they would vote to acquit or convict them.

While people with mature faces would have been convicted of premeditated crimes 63 percent of the time, the study subjects recommended guilty verdicts for baby-faced suspects charged with such crimes only 50 percent of the time.

In addition, only about half of the mature looking people would have been convicted of negligent crimes, while about 81 percent of baby-faced suspects were recommended for conviction on that type of offense.

"The fact that the baby-faced are seen as more honest would seem that they are less likely to commit a premeditated crime, but more likely to commit a negligent crime," said McArthur in an interview. "Naive connotes not wise enough to avoid the error."

Baby-face features include a high forehead, a small and rounded chin and large eyes, she said.

McArthur also found that baby-faced suspects who supposedly confessed to negligent crimes would receive lighter sentences than those who confessed to premeditated offenses.

Although the findings were not statistically significant, McArthur also found that baby-faced people received lighter sentences than mature-faced people who confessed to crimes of negligence and the baby-faced got heavier sentences than mature faced people who confessed to premeditated crimes.

"I would hesitate to argue that facial babyishness has a real impact in real decisions," said McArthur, whose study is expected to be published later this year in the Personality and Social Psychology Bulletin. "But in all other things being held equal, there could be some impact."

City OK of topless servers sought by business owner

CHelsea, Mass. (UPI)—The owner of a doughnut shop, seeking to boost his flagging business, has asked the city for permission to hire topless singing waitresses.

John Paone, of Wakefield, inspired by a similar shop in Florida, said Wednesday he needs bare-breasted help to save his business, Tip's Doughnuts.

He would like to have six topless waitresses, three on each shift, serve coffee and doughnuts to customers and sing songs on request from 6 a.m. to 3 p.m.

But the Chelsea Board of Aldermen fears nudity would tarnish the image of the city. All nine members voted to urge the city's Excise Board to deny Paone's petition.

Board President John Zimini called Paone's proposal "a sleazebag type of operation."

"They may have a legal right to come before us with the plan, but they don't have a moral right to do so as far as I'm concerned," said Alderman Dominic Pegnato.

The Excise Board will make a decision by Feb. 23, said board Chairman Thomas Rosa.

Rosa said those who were at a public hearing Monday were

"100 percent in opposition" to Paone's plan.

Paone is blunt about why he wants doughnut waitresses to sing partially in the nude.

"Increased profits," he said.

He said he doesn't think a topless doughnut shop would cause problems in the community. "It's in an industrial area," he said. "It's all wholesalers and that sort of thing."

A topless doughnut shop in West Palm Beach, Fla., closed in January after nine months of operation. Owner Jerry Gallagher turned off his coffee pot and pulled out because of legal challenges.

DiMaggio released after heart operations

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Former New York Yankees great Joe DiMaggio was discharged from Mount Sinai Medical Center today after undergoing heart surgery twice last week.

DiMaggio was released about 10:15 a.m. and told well-wishers he felt fine.

Mount Sinai's chief of cardiology, Dr. Philip Samet, said the 72-year-old Hall of Famer entered the hospital Feb. 3, suffering from fatigue. He was diagnosed as suffering from arrhythmia, a slow heart rate. Samet recommended DiMaggio receive a pacemaker.

A temporary device was implanted Feb. 3, and two days later a permanent pacemaker was implanted.

"He's in excellent condition," Samet said. "I hope I'm in as good condition as he is at 72."

Samet said DiMaggio can resume normal activities—"whatever he wants."

DiMaggio was the symbol of the Yankees' power and class both on and off the field during a career that lasted from 1936 to 1951. The right-handed hitting center fielder was named the American League's Most Valuable Player three times and won two AL batting titles. In 1941, he hit safely in a major-league record 56 consecutive games.

DiMaggio, one-time husband of Marilyn Monroe, also held numerous World Series records. He played on 10 championship Yankees teams and was voted baseball's greatest living player in 1969.

DiMaggio had a .325 lifetime batting average and hit 361 homers.

The son of a San Francisco fisherman and one of three brothers to star in the major leagues, DiMaggio joined the Yankees in 1936. As a rookie, he hit .323 with 29 homers and 125 RBI. He followed with .346 and .324 averages in 1937 and 1938, respectively.

Buffalo likes to chug-a-lug beer, but knows his limit

ALVIN, Texas (UPI) — Buster III, the boozing buffalo, likes his beer. He also knows when he's had enough.

He shuffles to the fence behind the Country Store and takes the bottle, chug-a-lugging its contents in seconds and has been known to drink a case of beer at one standing, said owner Lee Roy Miller, 61, who runs an old-fashioned country store and bar in north Alvin on Texas 35.

Buster III, a 900-pound, 18-month-old buffalo, does not commit the buffalo equivalent of drinking and driving.

"When he gets enough, he just lies down and rests. He won't drink another beer no matter what you do," Miller said.

Buster III only drinks longnecks bought in Miller's bar by customers who refuse to believe a buffalo can drink like a fish.

"The only rule I have is that you can't buy any cheap beer for him," Miller said. "You have to buy it here. If it's not worth $1 to see him drink, then hit the road."

Buster III also has learned not to rely on regular customers for a drink.

"My customers already know him. They're not going to feed him good beer they can drink themselves," Miller said.

Miller has owned the store and bar for 18 years. He took over the business from his father-in-law, J.B. Choate, who introduced the community to a drinking buffalo, also named Buster, in the early 1960s.

Buster III might never fill the hooves of the original Buster, who drank many a customer under the table.

"We once had a beer-drinking contest, but decided to let the man win," Miller said. The first Buster died at age 16.

ABC newsmen Bergman dies

NEW YORK (UPI)—ABC News Science Editor Jules Bergman, known to millions of Americans through his coverage of every U.S. manned spaceflight, was found dead in his Manhattan apartment Thursday, police said. He was 57.

Bergman, who joined ABC in 1953, was found in the bathtub of his apartment at noon by a maid, police spokesman Louis Llanes said. He described the death as "natural, but still under investigation."

Bergman recently underwent surgery for a brain tumor and had cut back on his broadcasting duties, Carol Olwert, a spokeswoman for ABC News said.

Born in New York March 21, 1929, Bergman gained fame for his coverage of the NASA space program for three decades.

Starting in 1961 with the Mercury flight of Alan Shepard, Bergman covered every U.S. manned spaceflight, including the Challenger disaster last year, Olwert said.

He was named science editor in 1961, becoming the first full-time network science editor in the nation, she said. He won respect for his detailed coverage and the use of scale models to explain technicalities in terms viewers could understand.

"Jules was probably the most knowledgeable broadcaster when it came to the space program," said Robert Siegenthaler, who produced the network's coverage of most space flights through the 1960s and 1970s.

"Former CBS News anchorman Walter Cronkite got most of the ink, but Bergman did it all," he said.

As part of his coverage of the space program, Bergman underwent the same training as astronauts and visited Star City, the training center for Soviet cosmonauts outside of Moscow, Siegenthaler said.

In addition to the Challenger disaster, Bergman reported the deaths of three astronauts in 1967 and covered the explosion in 1970 as Apollo 13 headed for the moon.

Bergman also covered medical breakthroughs such as heart transplants, cancer treatment and the search for the cause of Legionnaire's disease, she said.

His last network broadcast was Jan. 22 when he covered a symposium on the future of space, Olwert said.

'Nashville Stomper' sought in foot-mashing incidents

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Police said Thursday they suspect a habitual stomper of women's feet from Tennessee now is trampling toes in the French Quarter and may have inspired a copycat who wears combat boots.

George Mitchell, nicknamed the "Nashville Stomper" after more than 60 arrests for grinding his heel into women's feet since 1968 in Nashville and Atlanta, was seen in New Orleans last month, Tennessee authorities said.

Davidson County, Tenn., sheriff's Chief Deputy Billy Lynch said Wednesday one of his former officers spotted Mitchell, 37, during the Sugar Bowl on New Year's Day. That was less than two months after a rash of foot stompings started along Canal Street, which separates the French Quarter from the central business district in New Orleans, police said.

The feet of 11 women were trampled before Andrew Inge, 38, of New Orleans, was arrested Wednesday on a misdemeanor assault charge by an undercover officer who saw him kick and push a woman on Canal Street, then try to stomp her foot with his combat boots, police spokesman David Adams said.

Police spokeswoman Ruth Asher said authorities believe Inge could be a copycat stomper or he and Mitchell could be the same person.

"He (Inge) may have just seen the story in a newspaper and started doing it himself," she said.

New Orleans police are awaiting pictures of Mitchell from Nashville, Adams said. When the photos arrive, some of the victims will try to identify Mitchell from a photographic lineup. Authorities were not sure when the photos would arrive.

Mitchell, who once described his urge to stomp women's feet as "uncontrollable" and asked a judge to lock him up to keep him from "stomping again," was released from jail in June after serving an 18-month sentence for his most recent stomping conviction in Nashville.

The New Orleans' victims range in age from 23 to 41. Each reported a tall, slender man approached them as they strolled on Canal Street and suddenly stomped on their feet. The stompings occurred between Nov. 13 and Feb. 6.

The most recent victim in New Orleans was Mary Sandlin, 35, who said her left foot was stomped last week.

When it comes to Fixed Rate Mortgages, we have no bad points.

Right now, we're offering fixed rate mortgage loans with no points whatsoever.

ANOTHER GOOD POINT

The benefit to you is that you don't pay points at closing which gives you more to use as a down payment, thus lowering the amount you need to borrow.

LET'S GET TO THE POINT

This offer ends March 31, 1987, so don't waste any time. Come in and get a fixed rate mortgage loan.

Reagan asks Congress to expand Medicare

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan proposed a catastrophic health care plan Thursday that he said would offer 30 million elderly Americans "that last full measure of security" against the grim choice of bankruptcy or death.

Adopting a recommendation by his secretary of health and human services, Dr. Otis Bowen, Reagan decided Thursday morning to ask Congress to expand Part B Medicare coverage to cover catastrophic illness at an extra premium cost of $4.92 a month. The plan also would limit to $2,000 the out-of-pocket expenses paid for services now covered by Medicare Parts A and B.

"For too long, many of our senior citizens have been faced with making an intolerable choice — a choice between bankruptcy and death," Reagan said in a statement. "This proposed legislation would go a long way to help solve that dilemma."

"With the protection that this plan will provide, senior citizens will now be safe from the worst fear of old age — having their life savings taken away to pay the cost for an acute care due to a catastrophic illness," he said in a speech to high school students later.

In a blow to conservatives who had promoted a private-sector solution to the problem, Reagan adopted Bowen's plan almost entirely.

"As of 10 o'clock this morning, these are President Reagan's plans," Bowen said. The president said: "I am asking Congress to give Americans that last full measure of security, to provide a health insurance plan that fights the fear of catastrophic illness."

The plan for extending acute coverage to those over 65 was accompanied by less substantive suggestions for improving availability of nursing home care for the elderly and catastrophic illness protection to the general population under 65.

Bowen's plan calls on the Treasury Department to study creation of an Individual Medical Account, similar to the Individual Retirement Account, to give tax advantages to savings by middle-aged people for long-term health care later.

Bowen acknowledged that the idea flies in the face of Reagan's tax reform plan that removed tax advantages from IRAs, but he said the only way to entice enough people to make such contributions is to have "a little carrot dangling out there."

Medicare gap not bridged by insurance plan, foes say

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan's endorsement of the catastrophic health insurance plan proposed by Health and Human Services Secretary Otis Bowen received a mixed reaction on Capitol Hill, with most lawmakers saying it was nice—but not enough.

Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., at 86 the oldest member of Congress and the champion of the elderly, said Reagan's plan is merely a "measly little step" that will do nothing to help those who need long-term nursing home care, long-term home care, many medicines and anything else that does not require a hospital stay.

"It's not the step of a giant; it's the step of a dwarf, a pygmy, to bridge this giant gulf," Pepper told reporters.

Sen. David Durenberger, R-Minn., applauded Reagan, but added: "The most serious criticism that can be offered of this proposal is that it is far too little." He called for passage of more sweeping health insurance plans.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., one of the prime authors of more comprehensive health legislation, said Reagan's decision means "that a plan at least as good as Secretary Bowen's will almost certainly pass the Congress. The challenge now is to explore affordable methods of strengthening the Bowen plan."

The plan also would limit the out-of-pocket expenses paid for services, now covered by Medicare Parts A and B, to $2,000.

Pepper said he has introduced a bill to pay for true comprehensive care. It would require an $800 annual payment by Medicare beneficiaries but would replace the current Medicare premium of $17.90 a month, the new premium of $4.92 proposed by Bowen and the average $600 annual cost of "medigap" private insurance to pay for the things Medicare does not now cover.

"I'm deeply saddened that the president makes this feeble step forward when the cry is for significant progress," said Pepper.

Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Calif., chairman of the House subcommittee on health, called the Bowen-Reagan plan an "important first step."

Bicentennial for U.S. Constitution to be civic lesson

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Retired Chief Justice Warren Burger said Thursday that he is disappointed by how little Americans know about the Constitution but hopes that the document's 200th birthday this year becomes a "civic lesson for everyone."

Burger also said the celebration should not be made trivial by commercialization but should be acknowledged. "We can't stop anybody" from peddling T-shirts emblazoned with the word Constitution.

"Such a sales pitch, of course, would be protected by the First Amendment," said Burger, chairman of the Commission of the Bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution.

Burger, 79, retired from the high court last June after 17 years to head the congressionally mandated commission, which is helping to organize a nationwide salute to the Constitution.

Some events began in January, but the celebration is scheduled to crank up Sept. 17, the 200th anniversary of the signing of the document, when Burger, President Reagan and others attend a gala in Philadelphia, site of the 1787 constitutional convention.

Burger said, "I have been disappointed" by Americans' lack of knowledge about the Constitution.

Record-setting polar flight stalled on 'edge of world'

MOULD BAY, Northwest Territories (UPI)—Two pilots took refuge on a freezing dark arctic island on the "edge of the world" Thursday while they hoped to figure out the strange wing "bangs" that stalled their record-setting global flight.

It was 45 degrees below zero when pilots Richard Norton and Calin Rosetti landed the Arctic Tern on Prince Patrick Island, the desolate site of a Canadian weather station in the Arctic Ocean.

THEY DESCRIBED their detour—420 miles off their course to the North Pole on their way to Oslo, Norway, and return to Paris, where they started their 13-leg adventure Jan. 21—as "cautionary."

There, they hoped to solve what was causing mysterious banging on a wing of their specially outfitted six-seat Piper Malibu, which carries 270 gallons of fuel instead of its usual 120 gallons.

"We heard the noises twice in the flight," Rosetti told a UPI reporter over the only telephone in Mould Bay, population 10, after they made their unscheduled stop Wednesday and were given a warm bunk and hot food.

"IT WAS LIKE a bang. Just two times. One time is good enough, but two is too much."

The island's extreme cold put off any urge to immediately inspect the plane, Rosetti, 56, a West German engineer who works for the European space agency in Paris, said between sips of hot tea.

But they said they intended to find out what was causing the noise and continue their quest for 21 separate world flying records, including being the first to fly a single-engine propeller-driven plane around the world over both South and North poles. They had originally planned to arrive back in Paris Thursday.

"IT'S VERY, VERY cold. It might just be contractions," he speculated.

Norton, 48, lives in Philadelphia but flies com-mercially between New York and Europe.

It was the pilots' first encounter with trouble since they began their world journey three weeks ago at Paris' Le Bourget Airport, the same field where Charles Lindbergh landed in his celebrated transatlantic flight from New York in 1927.

THE ARCTIC TERN, which soared over the South Pole Feb. 1 without incident, was 450 miles from the North Pole on a 17-hour flight from Fairbanks, Alaska, to Oslo when the "bangs" scared the pilots enough to radio the Anchorage Air Route Traffic Control Center for help.

With guidance from U.S. and Canadian air traffic controllers, they steered the plane to the closest airstrip: a frozen gravel runway on the island in the Northwest Territories.

"WE'RE RIGHT ON the edge of the world," Slipec said.

Usually, the only airport activity is when supply planes land once every three weeks.

Men's track in scored meet

Salukis ready to measure up to MVC-rival Indiana State

By Wally Foreman
Staff Writer

The men's track and field team will compete at Charleston, Ill. Saturday in a quadrangular meet, in which scores will be kept.

Coach Bill Cornell explained the scoring for relay events will be 5 points for a first-place finish, 3 points for second and 2 points for third, adding that all other events will be the same except that 1 point will be given for a fourth-place finish too.

Schools competing in the meet will be host Eastern Illinois, Indiana State, Southwest Missouri and the Salukis.

"We're looking for a win this week," Cornell said. "Indiana State is a much-improved team and we need to beat them because they'll be tough at the conference meet (Feb. 27-28)."

The Sycamores defeated the Salukis last year in a triangular meet at Eastern Illinois by four points.

Cornell said he wasn't sure about how talented the Bears are, but noted that the Panthers are good in the 800-meters and weights.

"It should be close between us and Indiana State," Cornell said. "Indiana State has a lot of depth and I hope we have the quality."

Cornell said the team is at 100 percent health-wise and hopes the Salukis will be fired up.

Cornell also noted that the team will be going for points and will not be looking for anyone to qualify for the NCAA meet, because several individuals will be running in more than one event.

"Next week at Champaign we'll have another good opportunity to qualify individuals for nationals," Cornell said.

Women tracksters get Gateway preview

By Scott Freeman
Staff Writer

A Gateway conference showdown between SIU-C and Illinois State could be on tap at the Golden Track Shoe Invitational Saturday in Madison, Wis.

Saluki women's track coach Don DeNoon says the meet "should be highly competitive, with ISU maybe being the team to beat."

The Redbirds will be led by GCAC track athlete-of-the-week Angie Taylor, who qualified for the NCAA meet in the 60-yard hurdles with a time of 7:88 seconds at the Iowa Hawkeye Invitational last weekend. Taylor also took the long jump with a 19-7 effort, good for a school record.

The Salukis will be led into the Wisconsin meet by All-American sprinter Carlon Blackman, who DeNoon said should be "the dominating runner in both the 300 and 400-meter runs."

Last week at the Illinois Orange and Blue Classic, Blackman set a school record in the 880-yard run.

DeNoon expects Sue Anderson to be the "premier athlete" in the pentathlon field. Anderson will also compete in the high jump. Her season high of 3,254 points at Eastern Illinois' Lady Panther Invite ranks No. 1.

Lisa Judisacak, a winner in the 1,500-meter run at Illinois last week, may set a team record in the 1,000-meters this week, DeNoon said. The current Saluki standard is 2:45.33. ISU's Rosalind Cassidy has a GCAC season best of 2:34.00.

Mizzou swimmers to arrive for meet vs. women tankers

By Scott Freeman
Staff Writer

Missouri swimmers stroked into town Friday to face the Gateway champion Saluki women swimmers in a dual meet at 2 p.m. in the Student Recreation Center Pool.

Missouri has what Saluki coach Bailey Weathers calls "a whole team of top-quality swimmers," but SIU-C will counter with a few good ones of their own.

Leading the Dog pack against the Tigers will be NCAA qualifiers Lori Rea and Wendy Irick. Rea has turned the NCAA standard in the 50-yard butterfly (55.80 seconds), while Irick made her NCAA cut in the 200 backstroke (2:04.04).

Also figured to do well is backstroke Lisa Reinke, who made her NCAA cut in the 100 backstroke (59.45) at the Gateway meet last weekend.

The Salukis, currently ranked 16th among Division 1 swim programs, have also qualified their 200-yard medley relay team and the 200 and 400 freestyle relay teams for the NCAA meet in mid-March.

Men cagers control destiny in Valley tournament race

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

Sports information director Fred Huff had his calculator and MVC schedules, figuring how Rich Herrin and his Salukis could land a first-round Missouri Valley Conference tournament game.

Huff's final calculations indicated that SIU-C would need to win three of its last four Valley games to have a realistic shot. A pretty hefty goal for a team that's won just three league games all year long.

But that isn't the way Herrin sees it.

"We absolutely control our own destiny and don't be surprised if it happens," Herrin said. "Probably no one other than the coaches and players think we can do it."

Herrin said a win against Drake would give the Salukis momentum for their next Valley game, against Creighton Feb. 18.

"If we win at Creighton and in our finale against Indiana State, we'll finish with six wins," Herrin said. "I'm not sure any other teams we're contending with for a home-court advantage can win six games."

If the Salukis do pull off a three-of-four spree in the remaining Valley games, consider the ramifications:

—Drake would have to beat Creighton and either Wichita State or Bradley on the road, to get six wins.

—Illinois State would have to win two of four against a slate of Tulsa, Wichita State, Bradley and Creighton to total six wins.

—Creighton would have to win three of five remaining Valley games, with Tulsa and Bradley at home and Drake, Illinois State and Indiana State on the road, to finish the season with six wins.

—Indiana State, to finish with six wins, would have to win three of four against Tulsa, Wichita State, Bradley and Creighton.

No doubt, the Salukis will have to be dealt a favorable hand to land the first-round tournament game. But mathematically, two wins in the final four games could put the Salukis in the necessary fifth place. Three victories would just make it a lot more likely.

In this year's Valley post-season tournament, the No. 1 seed draws a bye, with the No. 2, 3 and 4 seeds hosting first-round games. With Bradley on NCAA and conference probation, the team finishing fifth will be moved up to fourth, as the Braves will not be allowed to participate in postseason play.

'DAWGS, from Page 32

Middleton's 36, five Saluki scorers averaged just 7.8 points each.

Herrin said the Salukis must have a more balanced attack, with stronger play inside, to win against the Bulldogs Saturday.

Tim Richardson will look to rebound from a six-point, four-rebound performance in the first Drake game. The 6-9 center fouled out after 21 minutes of playing time.

Since the Drake game, however, Richardson is averaging 13.8 points and 10 rebounds a game. Twice during that five-game span, "Big Tim" hit 20 points or more, with a 15-rebound, 21-point effort against Creighton.

An ankle injury in the Salukis' last outing sent Richardson to the bench after a shaky two-point, two-rebound game against Wichita State.

Novsek's scoring average has dipped from a midseason peak of 17.8 points per game to 10.8 ppg. With four-of-five three-point shooting in the first Drake game, Novsek could emerge as a factor.

Maybe the biggest factor in the earlier loss to Drake was 28 Saluki personal fouls, which sent the Bulldogs to the line 39 times. With 25 of those attempts canned, the Bulldogs outscored SIU-C 25-8 from the charity stripe.

pound defensive back from Triton Junior College (near Chicago) followed up his verbal commitment to SIU-C by signing late Wednesday afternoon.

With the additional inkings, Dorr raised the number of recruits to 24. Four of those recruits are from the juco ranks, with 19 from the prep ranks. Nineteen of the recruits were from within the state.

Dorr said the possibility of signing one more recruit, linebacker Troy Cook of Kirkwood (Mo.), still exists. Cook, a 6-3, 235-pounder garnered the interest of schools from the Big Eight, Big Ten and Southwestern conferences but may not have the grades to play as a freshman. A late push by several Division II schools, which have less stringent academic guidelines than I-A or I-AA schools, were directed at landing Cook's talents.

Thursday afternoon, an elated Dorr discussed his most recent crop of recruits.

"We're making progress every year," Dorr said. "For the first time, we made the bold statement of wanting to go for linebackers and running backs, and I'm very pleased with our overall success."

Dorr said that although none of the recruits were penciled in yet as starters, he did feel the quality was there to make an impact next fall.

Dorr said the number of injuries to his running backs necessitated the recruitment of so many running backs.

Many of Dorr's recruits turned down offers to visit or accept scholarships from larger, more prestigious schools.

Men tankers to entertain tough field for meet

By M.J. Starshak
Staff Writer

This weekend's 19th Annual Saluki Men's Swimming Invitational will give coach Doug Ingram's tankers a chance to experience the pressures of championship meets as they stretch their limits in the three-day, six-school contest.

Other schools participating in the meet include Iowa State, Western Illinois, Southwest

Missouri and Drury College (of Springfield, Mo.).

The meet, which begins today at 6 p.m. at the Student Recreation Center Pool, will not be the 15th-ranked Sa'lukis' last chance to qualify for NCAA competition, but Ingram said he expects some rough competition from at least one school, Missouri.

"They've got good depth. They've got some good individuals in different events," Ingram said. "They'll provide the stiffest competition."

Drury College, an NAIA District 16 school of 1,000 students, should also give the Salukis a run. The Panthers won the national championship in their division two years ago and placed third last year, Ingram said.

"For their level of swimming, they're good, really good," Ingram said. "They're really looking forward to it because their national championships are in about three weeks."

The Salukis will not participate in the Feb. 26-28 National Independent Championships in South Carolina although the tankers have notched second-place finishes in the NIC in the two years that Ingram has been at the helm.

"It would be foolish to spend $4,000 and miss a week of school to go to South Carolina to swim when our best opportunity to swim fast is in our own pool," said Ingram.

Ingram's tankers will have the luxury of swimming in their own water for the next few weeks as the regional and NCAA qualifying meets will be held at SIU-C.

Women cagers roll

Gumby appeared at Davies Gym Thursday night as Saluki fans used the lop-headed, six-foot balloon to shake up Indiana State women's basketball players at the foul line. ISU rates third in the nation in free throws.

The green figure saw a lot of action as 29 Saluki fouls gave the Sycamores a charity workout in a game that became the Saluki's 32nd straight conference win, 80-67. ISU coach Andrea Myers said Gumby distracted her squad at first but the Sycamores recovered with better than their season average with 76.9 percent.

But 30 of 39 free throws weren't enough to keep the sixth-place Sycamores from dropping to a 5-9, 5-16 record.

The 17th-ranked Salukis improved to 13-0, 20-2 to notch their fifth straight 20-plus-wins season.

Bonds and Ann Kattreh appreciated Gumby's effort.

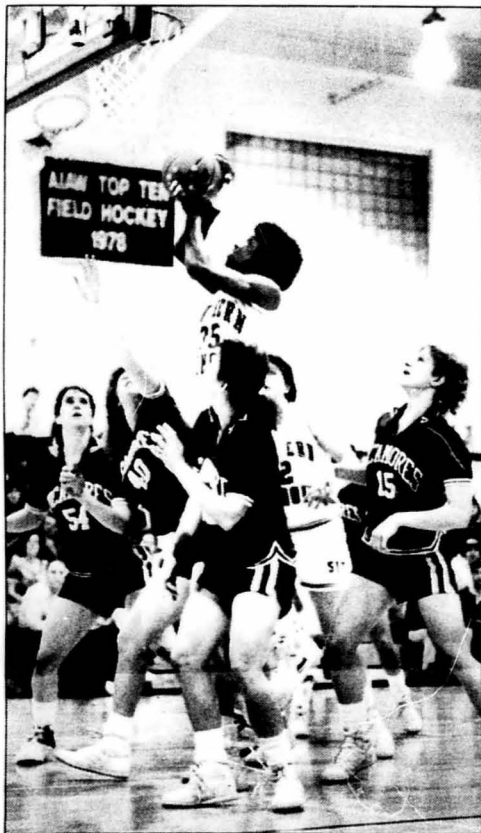

"Gumby's great," both said. "(The Indiana State) fans were obnoxious—our guys (Saluki fans) found out and they were getting our revenge," Kattreh said. Bonds said, "(Gumby) keeps us motivated. Other teams have stuff like that at their homes, now it's equal—but our supporters aren't as nasty."

The Salukis' balanced offensive attack gradually built the margin to 25 points in the second half. Kattreh sparked the Salukis mainly with key shots from the "wings," at an angle from afar.

A trapping Sycamore defense kept Bonds from scoring in the first half. But the All-America candidate came alive after she got her fourth foul and scored 11 points in eight minutes.

But as the Saluki starters took leave with a comfortable lead, the Sycamores overpowered the SIU-C reserves. The margin of ISU defeat—narrowed on a prayer shot from Billie Meyer near halfcourt at the buzzer—tied Southwest Missouri as Gateway teams' closest effort.

Women cagers to face rival Redbirds

By Anita J. Stoner
Staff Writer

One of the stronger rivalries in the Gateway Conference will bounce into action at 2 p.m. Saturday in Davies Gym.

The Illinois State women's basketball Redbirds, second in the conference, will try to avenge a 66-49 loss to the league-leading Salukis.

ISU stands at 9-4 in the Gateway, and was 11-11 overall going into a game Thursday at Eastern Illinois.

Redbird coach Jill Hutchison "gets the most out of her personnel, more than any other coach in the conference," Saluki coach Cindy Scott said.

Dorr success: more gridders ink

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

The number of recruits to sign national letters of intent to play football for SIU-C is now up to 24 players, with the addition of five late signees.

All five of the players earlier had given verbal commitments to Saluki coach Ray Dorr before signing late Wednesday afternoon.

Included on the most recent list of signees are:

—Tom Roth, a 6-7, 218-pounder from Alton Marquette, chose SIU-C because it was close to home. The tight end, who made just 20 catches as a senior in a run-oriented offense, turned down a full scholarship offer from Louisville, as well as trips to Wisconsin and Minnesota. Roth chose SIU-C after visiting Eastern Illinois and Northern Illinois.

—Ian Oliver, a 6-1, 175-pound tailback from Peoria Central led his conference in rushing with 1,372 yards and a 7.0 yard per carry average. The signing of Oliver completes a four-player sweep of running backs Dorr has long eyed as potential Salukis.

—Matt Meier, a 6-2, 190-pound all-state defensive back from Kaneohe, Hawaii, is the brother of Saluki griddier Eric and son of two SIU-C graduates. Meyer chose SIU-C despite offers from Brigham Young, San Diego State and Oregon State.

—Mark Francis, a 6-2, 220-pound linebacker from Wyoming High School (northwest of Peoria), became a Saluki after a trio of Gateway schools showed interest. Francis also started at tight end, and is projected to grow as tall as 6-6.

—Nelson Thurman, a 6-0, 185-

Saluki hoop coach Rich Herrin's team didn't play up to par earlier this season against Drake, and at 7:35 Saturday night, he'll look for a better performance from his squad.

"We really didn't play that bad," Herrin said after the first loss to the Bulldogs. "We just played bad at times."

On Jan. 22 in Des Moines, the Bulldogs won 71-65 despite a six-point lead midway through the first half and a career-high 36-point performance by Steve Middleton.

In contrast to Middleton's offensive outburst, only six Salukis scored in the game, with three of those combining for just 11 points. Doug Novsek and Billy Ross tallied 14 each, but without times."

Two additional spikers sign letters for Salukis

By Wally Foreman
Staff Writer

The Saluki volleyball program completed its task of signing three new volleyball players Thursday.

Besides Margaret Cooney, who's father confirmed that she had signed on Wednesday, the spikers added:

Amy Johnson, a 5-foot-11-inch middle blocker from St. Paul, Minn., who played at Harding High School.

Johnson confirmed in a phone conversation that she had signed a letter of intent to play volleyball at SIU-C. Johnson said she was also recruited by Northern Illinois and South Dakota State.

"SIU was way ahead (the best school to attend)," Johnson said. "I really liked the coaches and players."

Johnson was the leading hitter and tied in blocks during her senior year, according to her high school coach, Dennis Amundson, during a phone conversation. She was selected MVP on her team and was also named all-conference.

Currently Johnson is playing volleyball for the North Country Junior Region team (a Junior Olympic development team). Amundson said.

Lauri Simpson, a 5-foot-10-inch spiker-attacker from Cedar Falls, Iowa, who played at Dike High School.

Simpson's team has won the Iowa High School State Championship the last two years. Dike High School volleyball coach Barb Baker said in a phone conversation.

"Lauri was named to the 1986 first team All-State," Baker said. "Only seven players are selected from both class A and class AA."

Simpson's other accomplishments include: captain of the 1986 all-tourney team, a starter since her freshman year (which included two state titles and two second-place finishes), all-conference for the last three years and a member of the Iowa Junior summer volleyball team, according to Baker.
