In a highly unusual move, the Faculty Council recessed its Tuesday meeting until next Tuesday without completing its scheduled agenda.

Chairman Thomas Pace asked for the recess shortly before 4 p.m., with the next meeting scheduled for Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. Pace cited a list of agenda items which had not been completed and were not likely to be completed as reasons for the recess. Scheduled for next Tuesday is a report on implementing the recommendation made by a blue ribbon panel on the Center for Vietnamese Studies, a resolution on the Canut-Amoros case and a letter from James Benziger, professor of English, asking for a change in the length of summer quarter.

The implementation committee’s report makes only two suggestions. One concerns the formation of a policy committee. The committee recommends that a provisional committee be instituted at once to write an operating paper. This committee would consist of faculty members from departments with an academic interest in Indo-Chinese studies. The student members would be persons with an interest or personal acquaintance with Indochina.

The faculty members would be selected by their departments, while student members would be chosen by the president from a list submitted by the director of the center. There would be four faculty members for each student, with the director serving as a non-voting member.

The second recommendation deals with a review of the center. The review would be conducted early in fall, 1972. The committee to carry out the review would have six members, with the report expected by December. A minority recommendation was written concerning the review. This recommendation asks for the review to begin immediately and to be completed by spring.

Concerning the Canut-Amoros case, a motion asking that negotiation on the part of the administration and Canut-Amoros to begin immediately will be introduced. In September, the council passed a resolution asking that negotiations resume. The motion will be introduced because the only response so far has been a letter from the administration saying that the right thing was done and the case was not going to be reopened.

The Benziger letter deals with splitting summer quarter into two six-week terms, or one eight and one four-week term.

According to the letter, such a plan would mean that they do not have now—to attend school for only half the summer. The faculty members would be selected by their departments, with the director serving as a non-voting member.

Derge getting acquainted before assuming presidential duties

By Sue Ball
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU's new president, David Derge, arrived in Carbondale Tuesday to familiarize himself with the people, places and issues on campus before officially assuming the presidency Feb. 1. After getting settled into his temporary residence at 88 S. Elizabeth St., Derge toured several buildings and offices on campus and met with President Robert G. Laver and Chief of Board Staff James Brown. Derge said no particular issues were stressed. "I just wanted to find out what's going on," he said. He added that he was happy to be in Carbondale and expected to be on campus tomorrow "unless one of those unexpected, out-of-town meetings are called."

A temporary office has been provided for him on the second floor of Anthony Hall.

Council grants pay hikes to city union employees

By Barry Cleveland Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Carbondale City Council Tuesday granted retractive wage increases to city employees who are union members, but sidestepped until Feb. 1, the issue of increases to non-employees.

The council voted to grant 5% per cent wage increases retroactive to May 1, 1971, to members of the Teamsters Union and also to Plumbers and Pipelines Union.

An increase of 5% per cent was also granted to members of the Firefighters Union, but the council made that increase retroactive to Nov. 1.

Both actions were in accordance with decisions by arbitrator Charles Hendra.

Acting City Manager Bill Schwegman told the council that the city might possibly have to award retractive pay increases for the period during the recent wage-and-price freeze (Aug. 14-Nov. 13).

The issue has been submitted to the Pay Board for a decision, Schwegman said.

Money is available from the Utility from pumping for the increase to plumbers and pipeliner, Hendra said.

However, he said a new source of funds will have to be tapped to pay the increases to non-employees and firefighters.

The city is already about $40,000 in the red, without granting the wage increases, Schwegman said.

"Somebody has to come up with some new money," he said.

Understanding "Performance"

By Marshall McLuhan

"Performance" is figured against the pop-culture background of "The Beatles," "Pink Floyd," "The Rolling Stones." "Performance" is a key term in American management and organization. Business, politics, private and corporate, are the themes of the picture.

Figured against the East-West inner-outer backgrounds, "Performance" is as much an epic as the background of the very world of 1973.

Figured against the British background of society juxted by the new surplus of larger powers. "Performance" is a satirical spoof on the screen and fiction violence of the days of Bogart, Al Capone, Studs Lonigan and Hemingway—the tough guy as a subject.

Figured against the new background of America "The inefficient," America deprived of outer points and inner connection, America confronted by the Orient within, "Performance" is as satirical as The Beatles or The Rolling Stones.

"Performance" project a cosmic vision of the establishment, we see an all too latest means for their own opolation.

"Performance" is a "garbage apocalypse"—notice of cancellation of a world.

Strike abortion laws from books

To the Daily Egyptian:

May I say that I respect Rev. Genesio's right to his opinion no matter what it might be. I respect Rev. Genesio as a person and there are many of his opinions on which I wholeheartedly agree. I also must say that I have not the slightest respect for his opinion regarding the right of women to decide what they shall do with their bodies and especially I do not agree with his forced pregnancy ideology. A woman who carried a fetus against her will for any length of time is a victim of forced pregnancy.

I am not advocating, as Rev. Genesio contends, that my opinions be written into law. Quite the contrary is my intention. I am advocating that all laws which relate to the subject of abortion be stricken from the books. I could not support laws which would force abortion or even sterilization as welfare mothers are forced to undergo in order to obtain welfare in some states or to carry unwanted fetuses.

I think that we can both agree that contraceptive measures are preferable to abortion except that contraceptive measures have failed to prevent conception in millions of cases. I am equally interested in those who cannot afford and who cannot obtain appointments with doctors in order to have prescribed really effective contraceptives. Contraceptive measures which are dependent upon precumens taken solely by the male are completely unreliable.

As far as the theological question goes, I feel that it is ridiculous to argue the point since Rev. Genesio argues from a theistic bias and I argue from a humanistic one. It can just as well be argued that a fetus is a person at conception or that the egg and the sperm are also potential persons and, therefore, it is the duty of every person to cohabit as often as possible so that every potential person shall have its right to live. I cannot make any distinction between the two points of view. Neither can I say that because fertilized seeds are potential plants that the seeds of the plants and trees are the same thing as the plants and trees or that all the seeds should have a right to grow. My personal criterion, which I would not expect anyone else to accept as his, would be that every person has a right to a life when it has the capacity to sustain itself outside the woman's uterus.

I do not think that any person has the right to depend on another's body in order to live. If a person of his own free will should offer his body or his time or his life in order that another might live, we are dealing with one question: if, on the other hand, we say that my life depended on having all my life processes connected to those of Rev. Genesio's, for he was the only person on earth who could sustain my life, in such manner that all his life's activities would revolve around his supplying me with life or else I would die, would I have a right to this service from him? If he chose to give up his life in such a devotion I might consider it a worthy decision; however, if he were forced to do so against his will I would also be quite interested in what the scientists would have to say about the effect that his unwillingness to perform this service would have upon my life. His resentment and hatred and anger for being forced into this role might so distort my life from there on that his services would not be considered conducive to my future health and well-being. The scientists might consider the quality of life as being as important as life itself.

One of the abortion counsellors has estimated that of the approximately 15 abortion referrals who leave Carbondale each week for the purpose of having their pregnancies terminated legally in other states, about half have either tried unsuccessfully to get doctor's appointments in order to obtain prescriptions for effective contraceptives or the devices they used failed.

Nazi film a milestone

To the Daily Egyptian:

The concern Mr. Steve Loska expressed in his letter in your Jan. 14 edition is not unjustified. Undoubtedly many will question the taste of showing Leni Riefenstahl's two-hour documentary on the 1934 Nazi Party rally at Nuremberg, "Triumph of the Will," with its cinematographical apothecaries of Adolf Hitler. Were it not being brought here by Hillel, in fact, one might legitimately expect a vigorous demonstration against its anti-Semitism, and had I not seen it picketed by a brownshirted delegation from the national headquarters of the American Nazi Party when I last saw it this past June at the National Archives in Washington, D.C., I might suspect sinister Nazi-Zionist machinations on our already sorely-plagued campus.

The explanation for Hillel showing it, as well as for our latter-day brownsnirts' sensitivity, is suggested, unless I am mistaken, by something Mr. Loska overlooked in his letter. He wrote of Miss Riefenstahl's film being "responsible for sweeping millions of people into the Nazi cause." If alone no more did

Help save wildlife

To the Daily Egyptian:

This year there are bills in Springfield and Washington that will help the world's wildlife.

The bill in Washington is S. 2383. This bill will outlaw the interstate shipment of two deadly poisons used by sheep ranchers to kill wildlife. In Springfield, there is a bill titled "The Endangered Species Law" that is especially good. This bill will prohibit the importation into Illinois of skins derived from endangered species. Some of these endangered species are tigers, leopards, jaguars, and cheetahs.

If you are really interested in helping save the world's wildlife, I suggest that you write your U.S. congressman about S. 2383 and write your Illinois state senator about the Illinois bill. If the public does not support these bills, they won't pass. The reason is that powerful interests such as sheep ranchers, fur houses and such will be opposing these bills vigorously.

A matter of academic freedom...

To the Daily Egyptian:

The Egyptian policy on letters to the editor states that "Letter writers should make their points in terms of issues rather than personalities." In the past week I’ve noticed letters concerning the Allen case which have not dealt with the issue of the basis for denial of tenure to Mr. Allen, but rather with Allen himself.

Mr. Allen is not the issue. Had he not criticized the Viennese Studies Center, he would have been granted tenure upon the recommendation of his department, or denied tenure had his department not recommended tenure. There would have been no controversy in either case—no letters to the editor praising or damning him.

In November 1976, the Board of Trustees attempted to refuse to give Allen his contract. The only reason given was, “Mr. Allen has criticized the university and the public knows it. The Board felt it urge to accept to refuse to

to Dr. Douglas Allen.

The letter signed by some 30 faculty members and entitled "Support for Professor Allen" states, "If you are in disagreement with the board action on this case, we urge you to join each of us in outlining his own reasons in a letter to the Board of Trustees." If we do not protest the basis of the board’s decision, and instead retry Mr. Allen’s worth in the terms of issues rather than personalities, we may differ in how much we value Mr. Allen—but the value of academic freedom should be important to us all. Let’s not forget that is the issue.

Gordon R. Haist
Graduate Student, Philosophy

To the Daily Egyptian:

The Board of Trustees’ recent denial of tenure for Dr. Douglas Allen was an act of political repression. The only grounds offered for this denial was that, in the opinion of some board members, Dr. Allen has been "divisive" and "controversial." Against this single, vague accusation, President Laver offered evidence of Dr. Allen’s competence as a teacher (e.g., he finished in the top 10 in student voting for the Outstanding Teacher Award) and as a researcher (here President Laver cited the testimony of the philosophy department chairman). Clearly, the weight of the evidence indicates that tenure ought to have been granted. That it was not implies that the members of the Board have given a higher priority to their own perception of Dr. Allen’s politics than to the relevant evidence.

Insofar as the decisions made by the Board of Trustees are binding on a community of some 25,000 people, the board members have the responsibility of rationally justifying their decisions to the community. In the case of tenure for Dr. Allen, the board has simply not lived up to this responsibility.

As members of the University community, we urge you, fellow members, to join in a concerted effort to bring about the reversal of the decision of the Board of Trustees to deny tenure to Dr. Douglas Allen. We regard any appropriate action taken to realize this effort, such as letter-writing and the signing of petitions, as a commitment to correcting the unfortunate situation wherein a body which has power fails to accept the responsibility which must accompany that power.

Keep dogs away

To the Daily Egyptian:

I congratulate Mr. Meenahan on his research into the field of parasitology and in explaining that lice, flies and ticks are external parasites. However, he neglects to mention the fact that dogs are usually infested with these vermin more so than humans. Also, an animal lacking its paws is not what I consider to be concepts of personal cleanliness. Besides, if I had to choose between being infested with the lice of a child or that of a dog, I would gladly submit to the former. The same reason would apply in the matter of kissing, despite what you or some major Sunday newspaper says in its Sunday supplement about the human mouth being more infectious than a dog’s.

You’re right, Mr. Meenahan. I wouldn’t let other people use my toothbrush, because it’s unsanitary. However, I had gathered from your argument that in the case of a dog, there would be less danger.

Regardless of your argument, Mr. Meenahan, dogs should be banned from all University facilities where students gather.

University library acquires

Despite a 24 per cent cut in its book budget from 1970-71 to 1971-72, the Moravian Library has "been able to hold the line in most areas and show some progress in a few," according to Ralph E. McConnon of libraries.

Among recent gifts are:

The personal papers of the late General Ulysses S. Grant III, grandnephew of President Grant, the gift of the Grant family, 18 unbound letter pages from President Grant purchased with the financial assistance of James S. Heflin of New York City, who also presented the library with a complete set of the "War of the Rebellion Records," and an extra-illustrated set of "Battles and Leaders of the Civil War.

The personal papers of SIU President Emeritus Delyte W. Morris, the first complete presiden tial file in the University Archives; papers of many retiring faculty members, the personal papers of the late Hugh Dunagan, professor of English and sociology; the 1,200-volume professional library of the late Ted D. Ragland, professor of education; large collections of books from the personal libraries of more than a half dozen family members.

A group of rare theater posters of Ira Aldridge, noted American Negro tragedian of the early 19th century; papers of the late Lionel Brittan, English novelist; death masks of Russian writers Vladimir Mayakov sky and Tana Shevchenko; and the archives of London's Unity Theater-all gifts of Prof. Herbert Marshall.

Gifts for the University Archives collections on institutions, families and business enterprises in Southern Illinois; G. Niles Huffman, Carbondale funeral director, has given a number of volumes relating to family businesses in the area. Mrs. Robert L. Rader of Cobden has gifts of Prof. Herbert Britton.

William M. Daggett reported the theft of his bicycle from the stairwell of his residence at 111 Small Group Residence Hall. The theft apparently occurred between 2 a.m. and 10 a.m.

A bicycle belonging to Dennis K. Krans, P.O. 1199 Willow Ave., was stolen this weekend from the front of the Home Economics Building.

Organizations for Indians considered

The United Native Americans, an Indian self-development organization, is attempting to start a branch facility at SIU.

Guiding the effort is Marvin Sowers, an SIU freshman who is a Dakota Sioux.

Sowers said that the UNA's purpose is to get scholarships for Indian youths, and to bring any and all possible to the reservations.

How closely aligned the proposed organization will be to the parent organization depends entirely upon the wishes of the members, he said.

"We will be a member of the parent organization if that is what our members want," he said.

So far no definite meetings have been held, although about 10 potential members have responded to the sign which Sowers has placed at different points around campus.

Bicycle thefts continue

Bicycle thefts continue to plague the SIU campus with three more reported Tuesday by the Security Office.

A bike belonging to James P. Clark, 308 E. Park Avenue, was stolen from the breezeway of the Agriculture Building. Clark, 21, told police the bike was taken around 10 a.m. last Thursday.

A group of rare theater posters of Ira Aldridge, noted American Negro tragedian of the early 19th century; papers of the late Lionel Brittan, English novelist; death masks of Russian writers Vladimir Mayakovsky and Taras Shevchenko; and the archives of London's Unity Theater-all gifts of Prof. Herbert Marshall.

U-Senate executives to discuss athletic committee appointments

By Richard Lemus
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Appointments to the Committee on Men's Intercollegiate Athletics will be discussed at a meeting of the Executive Committee of the University Senate at 3 p.m. Wednesday.

The intercollegiate committee is the newest standing committee of the Senate. When the committee was approved at the December meeting of the Senate, the committee was approved by a two-thirds vote of the committee with at least half of the voting members of the committee being selected from each standing committee.

The composition of the new intercollegiate committee will consist of 13 voting members, four faculty, four student senators, three administrators, and one alumni. Non-voting members of the committee will be the head of intercollegiate athletics, the dean of the College of Education and see alumni.

The old committee consisted of six faculty, four students, three administrators and two alumni. Non-voting members of the committee have been the head of intercollegiate athletics and the dean of the College of Education.

The committee was scheduled to be reconvened before the January Senate meeting. At the December meeting of the executive committee, it was determined that the intercollegiate committee could not be reconstituted in time for the January meeting. The Intercollegiate committee was told it had to make a report on the status of SIU in the Midwestern Conference.

James BeMiller, president of the intercollegiate committee, recommended that SIU withdraw from the conference. The Senate accepted his recommendation and passed a motion stating that SIU should withdraw from the athletic portion of the conference.

The members currently on the intercollegiate committee are BeMiller, professor in chemistry; Willard Hart, campus architect; Willie Malone, executive vice president; Billy Lee Goodman, associate professor in animal industries; Robert E. Mueller, professor in music; William Lewis, professor in sociology; Thomas Pace, professor in speech; William Dommermuth, professor in marketing; Norman Wissman, undergraduate student; Greg Starick, student athlete representative; Albert Edwards, student a representative; Roger Speer, alumni representative; Wilbur Moulton, assistant to the executive vice president, was a member until he went on sabbatical leave.

The non-voting members are Donald Boydston, head of intercollegiate athletics, and Elmer Clark, dean of the College of Education.

Also on the agenda for the executive committee is the report of the investigation of the joint standing committee. David Kenney, chairman of the executive committee, said chairmen for the Campus Management Committee and the Governance Committee would be named.

Currently, the management committee is without a chairman since Robert Nelson, professor in government, resigned. The governance committee had William Lewis serving as its acting chairman.

Kenney said the executive committee also would discuss the question of scheduling reports from joint standing and standing committee chairmen at upcoming senate meetings.

"Four committee chairmen would report at each meeting," Kenney said. "It would be a good report."

The executive committee will decide which chairman would report at the February meeting.

An agenda for the February Senate meeting also will be written.

Actress Julia Meade will lecture at Convocation at 1 p.m. Thursday in the Arena on the subject "Who Needs to Be Liberated?"

Miss Meade was slatted "as the necessary other side to Ellen Peck's lecture," according to Paul Hibbs, assistant coordinator of special programs. However, Ms. Peck was forced to cancel her performance at the last minute because of illness.

Marylynn Howard, assistant coordinator of Special Programs said that while Ms. Peck's replacement held similar views to Julia Meade, the two women approached the subject differently. "We would like to have had a women's liberationist speak, too, but our Convocation schedule is booked solid until the end of spring quarter," Mrs. Howard said.

Miss Meade is quoted as saying, "All my life as an actress, businesswoman, singer and comedienne I thought that I was liberated. And now the women's liberation movement tells me that I'm not." In her lecture Miss Meade tries to show that she is, and has been, a liberated woman.

She started her acting career in 1952 doing commercials on the Ed Sullivan Show. From there, she went to summer stock work and eventually to several Broadway productions including "The Tender Trap," "Roman Candle," "Double In Hollywood," "Wait Until Dark," "Send Me No Flowers," "Once More with Feeling," "Pajama Game," "The Front Page" among others.

To date, she has appeared in three made-for-television pictures: "Pillow Talk," "Tammy, Tell Me True" and "Zoe." After an appearance as "Mary, Mary," Miss Meade won the coveted Sarah Siddons Award as Chicago's "Actress of the Year."

For the most part, Miss Meade's television career has consisted of commercials and game shows. She has appeared on shows like "Pass and Catch," "Match Game," and "Tell the Truth."

She has also appeared in several New York and Las Vegas night clubs.

Seven governors request action to end dock strike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Seven Western governors joined the Nixon administration Tuesday in pushing for quick congressional action to halt the renewed West Coast dock strike.

Gov. Tom McCall of Oregon, who flew to Washington, said the Western governors agreed he would act as their spokesman in White House consultations on developing legislative plans.

The economic hurt of last year's 188-day Pacific port shutdown, halted by injunction last Oct. 6, still lingers in the affected states.

In Washington Ronald L. Ziegler, White House press secretary, said discussions and review of the situation were underway.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., pledged that priority would be given any legislation President Nixon sends to Congress.

Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, the Republican leader, said Congress obviously must act if the strike continues.

Both Mansfield and Scott said they did not know when a bill will be introduced in the House to halt the strike and allow further negotiations.

President Harry Bridges of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union ordered pickets back on the docks Monday morning.

The strike resumed after marathon talks with the Pacific Maritime Association broke off at the 8 a.m. deadline-hour Monday. Bridges said the PMA refused a request by J. Curtis Counts, chief federal mediator, to stop the clocks and continue bargaining.

No new talks were scheduled.

Recruitment of volunteers goal of service organization

By Daryl Stephenson Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Mobilization of Volunteer Effort (MOVE) is preparing a "campaign" to recruit new volunteers for winter quarter, according to MOVE Director Patrick Vinovich.

To kick off the campaign drive, said Patrick, an open meeting of all volunteers will be held at 7:00 p.m. Thursday in the Student Center, Student Activity Room.

All those interested in becoming MOVE volunteers are invited to attend. Patrick hopes to have at least 200 volunteers for this quarter.

MOVE is described in its booklet as "a student directed organization serving as a clearing house to coordinate volunteer efforts with service organizations in campus, Carbondale and in surrounding communities."

Last quarter, Patrick said, 150 student volunteers donated their time to the program. Patrick said he hopes to have at least 200 volunteers for this quarter.

Also last quarter, Patrick said, MOVE concentrated its efforts in seven major areas.

These were: 1) tutoring, in which volunteers provided special tutoring for elementary and high school children from families on public aid; 2) mental health, in which volunteers went to Anna State Hospital in Anna and provided personal assistance to residents there; 3) legal aid, in which volunteers worked with the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), the Legal Assistance Foundation, the Student Tenant Union; 4) senior citizens activities room A.

Patrick hopes to have at least 40 volunteers for this quarter.

Last quarter, Patrick said that generally last quarter, the arts and crafts program for area citizens and a Southern Illinois Folk Festival.

The head of Service Organization said Patrick, the Office of Student Relations is working with MOVE to implement the credit program.

"They have recognized," he said, "that the things students do for MOVE have much practical value and are closely related to much of the students' academic work."

Patrick said that the arts and crafts program and the Folk Festival probably will be started next fall. He said that the idea came from some of the volunteers last quarter, who had identified many elderly citizens who had arts and crafts skills that they had not practiced for years.

"The program would involve encouraging these people to take these skills up again," said Patrick, "and the Folk Festival would provide them with an opportunity to display or demonstrate them."

Patrick also said that several fund-raising activities are planned for winter quarter, among them is a dance to be held in February.

Correction

In Saturday's Daily Egyptian, a headline on page 16 said "Rejection of convict self-help project disappoints Vinovich." This is incorrect.

The project has not been rejected. The idea that was attempted to be expressed in the story was that Vinovich felt that the public should support the proposal last because it has to do with ex-convicts. Vinovich feels that people should look at the proposal and know its details before they reject or accept the proposal.

To Our Customers and Friends

Since coming to Carbondale, it has been our goal to present the lowest possible tape total to our customers. We have now been here for our first full year, and we have not wavered from this policy.

When the President announced his wage and price controls we were in control one hundred percent. We will continue to support Phase II if the wage and price controls by complying with all the regulations willingly. We feel that this is a necessary action to curb the high rate of inflation. The only time a retail price change will occur, is when the manufacturers cost us is increased. Our profit structure will remain the same.

By complying with these controls, we will continue to maintain our policy of the "lowest possible Tape Total." It has been our personal pleasure to serve our customers and friends in this growing area during our first full year of operation. We wish to thank you for your support, and we will continue to serve you to the best of our ability.

Center's Big Muddy Room may have 24-hour schedule

By John Roberts
Student Writer

The Big Muddy Room in the Student Center, has had hours that coincide with the Center’s hours, but possibly may be switching to a 24-hour day schedule.

According to Jim Sheppard, assistant director of the center, there are still some construction and security problems to be worked out, but they are generally minor in nature.

"It's designed to be a 24-hour a day facility," Sheppard said.

He said that there was a possibility that the room could be used for more than just a snack bar.

"I don't classify it as just a snack bar, I think it's a little more than that. We are thinking of possibly having live entertainment in that area for coffee hours and such." the lighting set-up and center stage make it conducive to this," Sheppard said.

The Big Muddy Room, which opened on Jan. 3, has had a patronage problem. Students simply are not using it to its full potential, Sheppard said.

Code committee to discuss law procedures at meeting

By Richard Lawes
Daily Staff Writer

Internal hearing procedures and appellate procedures were chosen to be discussed at the Conduct Code Committee meeting at 2 p.m. Wednesday.

In dealing with internal hearing procedures, the committee has received a copy of a chairman’s agenda for student conduct cases from Richard Mager, legal counsel.

The agenda outlines the procedure which is used in a case. According to Mager’s agenda, the hearing consists of four sections: the opening statements by both parties, the presentation of University evidence, the presentation of the student’s evidence and the rebuttal of the evidence. If the student wishes, he could wait until the University has presented its evidence before he would make his opening statement.

Cross-examination of witnesses and the chance for rebuttal would be offered to both the University and the student.

Following the hearing, the panel hearing the case would go into executive session. Out of this session would come the finding of facts and any discipline.

Concerning appellate procedures, the committee has a list of around 12 recommendations made by Edward Hammond, assistant to the president, for student relations. Hammond’s recommendations include the procedure for an appeal; the amount of time the review board will have before it must decide on it; the procedure it will accept; the procedure for handling an appeal; the procedure on how an appeal hearing will be handled.

The committee has already approved the formation of a Community Conduct Review Board (CCRB) to serve as the appellate body. The members of the CCRB will be appointed by the University Senate with the advice and consent of their constituency council.

A chairman of the CCRB will be elected from the membership of the CCRB and serve for a year. A second hearing an appeal to the CCRB would consist of two undergraduate students, one graduate student, two general faculty, one graduate faculty, one administrator, one university police employee and one professional staff.

Unirex phone system success to residents

By Mike Murphy
Student Writer

Thompson Point resident Sam Glick summed up the Unirex II telephone system by saying, "I'm sure变态 having to wait downstairs to use a payphone to call home."

Unirex II is the name for the special system that enables students living in university dormitories to make long-distance telephone calls directly from the phone in their rooms.

The system began this September at Thompson Point and now is being offered to residents of Brush Towers. According to Jim Hargrave, senior communications consultant for General Telephone, 45 percent of the students living at Thompson Point are taking part in the system. There are more than 500 applications for the service at Brush Towers.

The project appears to be a success, Hargrave said. "As a result, General Telephone hopes to expand into University Park and Greek Row. Eventually, we hope to offer full-service to all University living areas by September, 1973, if not sooner," he said.

The project, according to Hargrave, was done in stages so the phone company could expand with the system. These are some of the changes that were added and technical changes were made in the equipment, he said. If the service had been offered to all University housing last September, the lack of additional expense would have subjected the students to long delays while waiting for their calls to go through. "And Bill Hargrave, "would have defeated the whole purpose."

The procedure to make a long-distance call is quite simple. The student dials the number he wants, tells the operator his special credit card number, and then is connected with his party. Students under 21 who use the system must have the signature of a parent or guardian on file with the phone company. This assures the phone company of payment of bills, Hargrave explained, and it also allows the student to waive a security deposit.

Glick, a sophomore majoring in education, said he used the Unirex II system whenever he calls his parents in the Chicago suburb of Wilmette. Glick thinks the company initiated the system in an attempt to stop students from "ripping-off" General Telephone with phony credit card numbers. But, the Unirex II system is so quick and convenient that there is little temptation to cheat anymore.

Hargrave commented that the Unirex II system is working quite well. "There have been very few cases of students trying to take advantage of the system," he said.

"General Telephone is very pleased with the students of SHU; so far there have been only a few minor problems."
Adolf Hitler

Film slated for weekend

"Triumph of the Will," a Nazi propaganda film produced at the order of Nazi dictator Adolf Hitler, will be presented Saturday and Sunday and will be shown rarely shown in the United States.

The film, which is considered a propaganda film, is shown at 7:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday at Grimal Hall, Brush Tower.

Tickets are $3.50 and $5 and are available at the box office of the SIU Hilander Foundation Admission will be $5 cents.

Hitler commissioned Leni Riefenstahl to direct this film of the 1934 Nuremberg Rally after being impressed with her earlier direction of 1933 film the first Nazi Party Rally in Nuremberg with a free hand in the production of "Triumph of the Will." and neither Hitler nor his propaganda chief, Joseph Goebbels, saw the film until its completion. The film will be shown in German with English subtitles.

"Viewing this very compelling piece of propaganda, knowing the cast was real and knowing the heroes that followed is a terrifying experience," commented Frank Paine, SIU director of film produc- tion. "Yet it should be experienced so we will not forget.

Key control plan approved by security task force

By Richard Lorenz

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The possibility of a reduction in the number of keys which can open classroom buildings came a step closer Monday when the Building Security Task Force approved its recommendations concerning key control.

Rino Bianchi, chairman of the task force, said the task force had decided not to release any specific information on the recommendations until the recommendations had been reviewed by the administration. Bianchi did indicate that there would be a reduction in the number of building keys that would be issued if the recommendations are approved.

"Deans and chairmen would receive these keys," Bianchi said. "By reducing the number of people who have these keys, we will in crease security."

The task force which made the recommendations was formed last September by Gene Peebles, assistant to the president, for the purpose of security. Serving on the task are Bianchi, assistant to the president for space, capital budgets and MIT on property; A.W. Blais, head of the Physical Plant, William Grobe, space administrator; Willard Hart, campus architect; Thomas Loffler, security officer; Charles Marvin, supervisor of key control; Lee Peterson, assistant to the design committee; Mel Siener, assistant to the director of the School of Music; and Tom Watson, assistant to Peebles.

The task force was charged with forming a key control policy which would provide the necessary safeguards and security to protect the total university budget. The objectives of the policy would be to provide greater security in the management of space, the protection of equipment and the prevention of unauthorized entry. Bianchi said that more than $100,000 worth of equipment had been lost over the past year. He said that the equipment probably would not be replaced because of the tight economical situation. In order to reduce this loss, the tighter security of keys was proposed.

"This would not a faculty member or a teaching assistant from having a key to his own office," Bianchi said. "It would prevent them from having a building key. Even then, certain ex ceptions could be made for those people who are doing research or experiments."

Bianchi outlined the task force's basic philosophy concerning the use of building keys. He said it was felt that 99 per cent of people could get their work done without keys. Bianchi said the recommendations would be sent to William Adolph Hitler, president for public relations. "I feel this is a very compelling experience," commented Frank Paine, SIU director of film production. "Yet it should be experienced so we will not forget.

Campus Briefs

In three different countries and in as many languages, the Japanese, the publication Iju Kenkyu (Emigration Research) will offer "Nihonjin to Parapai (The Japanese and Pregnancy)." In Calif., Colombia, in Spain, the Bulletin de la Academia Historia del Valle de Cuau is called "Los japoneses y Colombia." The winter (February) issue of Inter-American Economic Affairs promises "The Japanese and the Dominican Republic," and the December issue of Inter-American Studies and World Affairs contains "The Japanese and Central America," and Caribbean Studies presents "The Japanese and Cuba," all in English. SIU Research and Projects has extended this research some support as has the federal government via a Fulbright Lectureship at the University of Tokyo.

An Editor's workshop in Personnel Management will be held at 7 p.m. through Sunday, Jan. 28-30, by the Mid-America Press Institute (MPI). W. Marion Rice, MPI executive secretary and associate professor of journalism at SIU, will discuss the School of Journalism on the Sunday morning session. Workshop registration.

The State Student Senate will hold its regular meeting, 7-9 p.m., in the Union. The meeting will include a discussion of student activities, funding and other general questions.

Some business operational problems and changing controls over the flow of agricultural chemicals will be among discussion topics for the fourth annual Southern Illinois Fertilizer and Her bicide Conference at SIU's Horizon Inn, Feb. 29. The conference is a joint program of SIU and area and statewide dealers in agricultural chemicals, according to Herman Schwartz, M. Vernon, conference president. The meeting, including dealer exhibits, will be in the M. Vernon Holiday Inn at the intersection of Illinois Route 140.

The morning session, beginning at 9 a.m., will include business operational suggestions and research reports on nitrogen fertilizer reactions under various conditions. Afternoon sessions will be devoted primarily to regulations in using pesticides.
MANDATORY HEALTH PLAN called for

Dubois said that looking in the comprehensive health service plan, which would include both a family health care delivery system both the Employer and the Southern Illinois community, it would be good to help people understand the two systems separately and together. "Some of the problems unique to students or the Southern Illinois community can best be handled separately," he said.

The question of how best to use the trained medical personnel in the area also came up. One student said that many paramedics and other similar personnel are being stuck doing janitorial work. Dubois said that the proposal was intended to use more effectively qualified medical personnel, "but that we have to work with Illinois law and many things which are more efficient are prohibited by law."

"We can't change the law overnight. This isn't going to be an ideal situation in one fell swoop. Many things will have to be worked out, including changes in the law, recruiting more doctors, staffs, training nurse's aides, continuing graduate programs and other similar problems."

Under the present proposal, the planning stages of the community health service plan would have to be completed by the end of June with the health service delivery system beginning sometime in July.

Dubois said that in an initial look at some of the suggestions and recommendations from the Southern Illinois Health Service already turned in to the council, John Bouroum, member of the board, said that out of the 150 suggestions received so far there were two main areas - staff attendance and the location. A box for suggestions is located in the Student Center's east-west hallway.

At the close of the meeting Dubois asked to have a chance to talk to the council again.

"I don't think that today I sort of talked at you, but in the future I would like to sit down and talk with you about student opinion of the proposal," he said.

Holdeman also said he was concerned about the direction the SAC was taking. Instances such as the letter and actions by the SAC could cause a rift in the relationship between the SAC and the student body as well as SAC and the CCМ.

He encouraged the SAC to take a hard look at the recommendations and proposals that it opposes. However, he also said that there should be a "commitment" in which there is continual adversarial relationship between the SAC and the CCМ.

"This is not the purpose of the SAC," Holdeman said. "It is not going to serve us one damn bit of good."

I2 automobiles lessen emissions; but "drivability" problems remain

DETROIT (AP) — New car owners are paying the price for pollution-control systems on new automobiles - engine-tough starts, stalling and increased repair costs.

"You start and after a minute it dies," said a Detroit resident in Ferndale, a Detroit pharmacist who drives a new $6,000 sedan.

A sampling of people driving 1972 cars indicated that Burkesman was not alone. Most said they felt the cars should be getting better performance.

Top executive of the Big Three car companies was on the spot, too, admitting that emissions from the cars were not all that bad. The price of pollution-control systems, he said, is "not a pleasant one to pay." But it was necessary to meet the new government's 1975 standards.

Agents widen search for alleged bomber

CHICAGO (AP) — The search for Ronald Kaufman, charged in connection with the bombing of a bank in Ferndale, has moved to the international scale with a federal grand jury looking into possible criminal activity by Kaufman.

Tuesday to learn if Kaufman left the country under an assumed name.

Federal agents were checking wire service reports to determine if Kaufman left the country under an assumed name.

One wire service reported that an international police organization has a "hotitem" on Kaufman in the search.

Other reports were made at airports in San Francisco, Miami, New York and Los Angeles, the paper said.

Kaufman was charged last week with setting off bombs at the Fourth of July celebration in a small town in Indiana to destroy buildings. The FBI said that fingerprints lifted from bomb plan-

Racers get even as host lose, 106-82

"They had revenge on their minds," said SIU Freshman Paul Henning Tuesday. "Our team was spanked, 106-82, by Murray State last month."

Only last month the two teams met in a contest won by Murray Monday night and the young upstart Salukis upset the Racers by breaking a 27-game Murray State winning streak.

That fine performance was the Salukis' offene that spurred some what on an all-time high.

"Murray State shot well—really well," said Henderson, "and they made 20 turnovers to Murray State's 13.

Racers get even as host lose, 106-82

"They had revenge on their minds," said SIU Freshman Paul Henning Tuesday. "Our team was spanked, 106-82, by Murray State last month."

Only last month the two teams met in a contest won by Murray Monday night and the young upstart Salukis upset the Racers by breaking a 27-game Murray State winning streak.

That fine performance was the Salukis' offensive that spurred some what on an all-time high.

"Murray State shot well—really well," said Henderson, "and they made 20 turnovers to Murray State's 13.

Wooden: Greats weren't ready as freshmen

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Walter Hazard, Gail Goodrich, Mike Warren, Freddie Goss, Keith Erickson—great names in the history of UCLA basketball who were never freshmen. "I was starting as a senior," said Warren.

That's the view of the man who ought to know, Coach John Wooden, whose Bruins basketball team is, for the seventh week in succession this season rated at the top of the Associated Press poll.

Goodrich, now starring for the Los Angeles Dodgers of the National Basketball Association, "just hadn't matured as a player when he was a freshman. In fact, he didn't start regularly as a sophomore." The talk popped up because of the recent NCAA ruling that will permit freshmen to play on varsity football and basketball teams next year. Wooden said he didn't agree—but wouldn't stand in the way.

"We'd be hurting ourselves if we didn't permit them to play," he said.

Of the five starters on Wooden's current team, three are sophomores. Wooden said probably none would have started a year ago if permitted. Center Bill Walton had knee problems, guard Greg Lee was inexperienced and forward Keith Wilkes, at 17, was simply too young.

"I have long believed in abolishing all freshmen basketball programs. Coming out of high school into college is a difficult experience for many youngsters, without having the added pressure of freshmen basketball to worry about," Wooden said.

The UCLA coach admitted two of his current freshmen players, Andre McCarter and Pete Trigovich, would probably play for his varsity, but added, "we have a lot of fine people out there so they wouldn't be playing very much."

Wooden said next year his freshmen basketball program may be replaced by a junior varsity program, "where some younger players can gain experience and do things, however, that you'd permit any juniors or seniors on that team."

Wooden's 1971-72 squad polled all but one of the 41 votes for first place and had 818 points to 722 for runner-up Marquette, which got the other first-place nod.

North Carolina was named third, Long Beach State fourth and South Carolina fifth.

Indians on warpath over Braves mascot

ATLANTA (AP) — The national coordinator of the American Indian Movement says the group may file suit against the Atlanta Braves to keep the team from using an Indian as a mascot and symbol.

"I believe within the next four months some action will be taken against Atlanta," said Russell Means, a Sioux. The symbol of the Braves is a grinning Indian who has a lone feather stuck in his headband.

Means' group has already filed a $9 million suit against the Colorado Indians and their mascot symbol, Chief Wahoo.

Pat Miles' reign as current national 1,000-yard freestyle leader lasted about as long as one John Kinsella swim.

And that isn't very long at all, considering the Hoosier standout is the national record holder in the event. Thus it didn't surprise Saluki coach Ray Essick when Kinsella—1971 winner of the AAU's Sullivan Trophy—swam a 1:47.27 in the 1,000 against Illinois last week to take the national lead.

That's quite a feat. Just a week before Kinsella raced to a 1:49.3 which placed him in seventh nationally.

After Miles went 1:52.3 to give him the national lead, Essick said it would only be a matter of time until other great collegiate distance men "were turned loose" and all times dropped. He was right.

According to times released by Swimming World magazine up through Jan. 10, Miles was sixth with Kinsella trailing in seventh. But since then the Saluki freshman has gone 9:42.5 and Kinsella has gone his 9:37.

SIU's Rob McGinley, owner of last week's second fastest 200-yard freestyle time, dropped a notch to third with a time of 1:44.8. USC's Frank Heckli is second behind Rich Reeder of the University of Pacific. Rob Dickson and Michigan's Byron McDonald are third. Dickson was light for the lead in the 200-yard butterfly. McDonald, from Michigan, has gone 1:54.4 while Dickson's best effort was a 1:55.1.

Dale Horner sixth in the 100-yard individual medley with a 1:00.37 time.

SIU ranks second, include an eleventh in the 400-yard medley relay. Miles fourth in the 500-yard freestyle. Dale Horner sixth in the 200-yard breaststroke. Bill Tingley third at the 200-yard backstroke with Miles also ranked eighth in the event.

While Kinsella was making time against Illinois last week Mark Spitz was getting beaten at one of his specialties, the 50-yard freestyle. The former Olympian was upset by Illini's freshman Scotty White.

"Apparently what happened," said Essick, "was Spitz was leading when White and I was leaving the other when the gun went off."

Unfortunately the "one way" Spitz leading was the wrong one and in swimming that's the difference between first and second. White's winning time was 21.9 to Spitz's 22.2.
