Student attorney board sets hiring criteria

By Peggy Sagona
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Students' Attorney Program will probably not be in operation until mid-semester, Student President Doug Diggle said Wednesday.

Members of the program's board of directors met Wednesday to discuss the criteria to be used in selecting the attorney.

Mandatory criteria used in defining the position require the attorney to belong to the Illinois Bar Association and be licensed to practice law in Illinois, Diggle said.

Suggested criteria, which is not binding, include that the attorney have one to three years trial experience with an orientation toward higher education or social science law.

"We don't want the person to come in cold with 21,000 clients," Diggle explained.

Taylor Mattis of the SIU Law School said the majority of the cases the attorney will handle will be associated with consumer problems, landlord-tenant relationships and family problems.

Diggle said, "We don't expect the attorney to handle ordinance violations or misdemeanors unless it is damaging to a segment of the student population."

Diggle plans to have an advertisement for the position designed and mailed to various people within a week.

"I will also supply the Jackson County Bar Association and the School of Law with the information," he said.

Response to the advertisement is not expected for at least a month, he said.

Other issues discussed at the meeting included operational costs, salaries and guidelines for the program.

Student fees, totaling $18,600, will provide the salaries of the student attorney, secretaries and researchers and books. The University will provide office space and furnishings.

"We have overextended ourselves by collecting the fee, although we did not have a whole lot to do with that," Diggle said suggesting that the decision was made only by administrators.

Court fees will be the only additional costs students will have to pay through their $1 per semester fees.

At present, "Getting the individual is the most important thing," Diggle said.

At the end of the meeting, Diggle asked that suggestions be made concerning internal policy, since that will be the next issue discussed.

Those who attended the meeting besides Mattis and Diggle were Carliss Dykes, junior in political science; Gary Duncan, law student; and Bob LeChoein, law student and member of the Graduate Student Council.

Lightle fights for fee reallocation

By Mike Springston
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Student Trustee Forest (Rusty) Lightle says he wants the interest money accrued by the Student Activity Fee account to be channeled back into that account.

The interest money is currently placed into an account that is used at the discretion of President Warren W. Brandt for general educational purposes.

"This is student money being put into the mechanical distribution processes of the University," Lightle said. "In the meantime it is earning interest, but the students don't get back that earning."

James M. Brown, general secretary of the SIU system, in a letter to Lightle, said the student activity balances are considered a part of the University's total general operating funds, and all of the interest earned from the investment of these funds is credited to one account. Brown said the president has on occasion allocated amounts from this fund to the student activity fund.

Lightle said the money should be handled similar to the procedure adopted by SIU-E last July.

At the Edwardsville campus, earnings on invested Student Activity Fee balances are being returned to that account.

"I'm worried about policy, and why, if they're doing it on one campus, they're not doing it on the other," Lightle said.

C. Richard Gruny, Board of Trustees legal counsel, said the student activity fund would not earn as much if the money was invested into a separate account.

"It wouldn't be smart to take separate accounts and invest them separately. You get more interest when they're pooled together," Gruny said.

Gruny said the student activity account would be limited to the money collected from fees and interest if funds were allocated back proportionately.

Gruny said the student activity fund could receive more than its share of interest under the present system.

Student President Doug Diggle also said he thinks the interest money should be returned to the student activity fund.

"The stadium (McAndrew) was completed with interest money, and the Co-Rec Building can use accrued interest, too. Why can't they accrue interest to student activity fees?" Diggle asked.

The Graduate Student Council passed unanimously a resolution Wednesday night requesting that the interest from student fees be retained by the students for student uses only.

President Brandt said that a problem he foresees in moving the fund would be to get some institutional operation to give it up.

"When you move, you decide to cut off one thing in favor of something else," Brandt said.

Lightle said George Mace, vice president for University relations, still had to look into the cost of rechanneling the money, but Lightle felt the change would be worthwhile for the student activity account.

"I doubt that the (administration) would argue that they need the money that bad. It just doesn't amount to that much. It does amount to a lot in terms of the student activity fee account though," Lightle said.

Police bias complaints go to FEPC

A complaint by six black SIU Security Officers charging racial discrimination within the SIU Security Police has been forwarded to the Fair Employment Practice Commission (FEPC), a spokesperson for the Illinois Department of Labor said Thursday.

The complaint, originally filed with the Illinois State Employment Service, was sent from there to the monitor advocate of Manpower in Chicago who determined that the complaint falls under the jurisdiction of the FEPC.

The complaint was sent to the fair employment commission and not to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission because the complaint had been filed through a governmental agency.

The equal employment commission handles only cases brought directly to that department by individuals, said a labor department source.

Nel Jordan, executive director of the FEPC, said Thursday that the complaint has not yet been brought to his attention.

Jordan said that according to fair employment commission procedure, his department would "look to see if we have jurisdiction over the alleged charges, and if it is determined that we do, we would notify the parties involved within ten days."

The officers had initially brought their grievances to the attention of the SIU Affirmative Action Office but were not satisfied with Affirmative Action's response to their complaints.

A spokesman for the officers said earlier this week that "we are not willing at this point to deal with the University on this matter."

Jordan said the FEPC would not in any case refer the complaint back within University jurisdiction.

"Our job is to objectively investigate the alleged charges. Our position is not to play the role of advocate for the complainants or respondents," Jordan said.

SIU Legal Counsel John Huffman, who said last week that he hoped the problem would be returned to and solved within University channels, was out of town Thursday and unavailable for comment.

The Security Officers who filed the complaint are: Sgt. Jerry Brown, Officers Lawrence Greer, Clarence Harrington, Ernest Morris, Andrew Smith and Raymond Wise, all of Carbondale.

S-Senate requests red decals in garage

By Mike Springston
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Student Senate approved a resolution Wednesday to designate the 351-car parking garage now under construction as a red-blue sticker lot open to faculty members, administrators, staff personnel and students.

The resolution states that the Parking and Traffic Committee would decide whether the facility would have open parking or be set up on a proportionate system. Included in the resolution is a restriction not to increase the price of the parking decals.

As an alternative, the senate also passed a resolution that would make the parking garage a blue sticker lot but would change Parking Lot 10 east of Anthony Hall from a blue to a red sticker lot.

In other action at the meeting which drew perfect attendance, the senate passed a bill requesting the Student Center Cafeteria and Snack Bar areas be partitioned into separate smoking and non-smoking sections.

A copy of the bill will be sent to C. Thomas Busch, acting director of the Student Center.

The senate unanimously passed a bill requesting the Carbondale City Council to allow a Farmer's Market to be set up on one of the parking lots near the Illinois Central Gulf train station.

The market, which will only sell homemade products and fresh produce, is being organized by the SIU Community Development Department.

Two bills were also approved denouncing rate increases by the Central Illinois Public Service Co. (CIPS) and General Telephone Company of Illinois (GTE).

Letters will be sent to the Illinois Commerce Commission asking them to suspend GTE's rate increase request and to hold a public hearing on the CIPS rate increase.

The senate sent a bill to its Finance Committee to establish open hearings before the Fee Allocation Board for students and student organizations requesting funds from Student Activity Fees.

A bill to recognize the Students to Elect Jimmy Carter President as a campus organization was postponed indefinitely.

Cheryl Coe, public relations assistant to the student president, asked the senators to volunteer their time to a phone canvas aimed at increasing student voter registration.

GSC seeks inclusion in faculty bargaining talks

By Mike Springston
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Graduate Student Council (GSC) unanimously passed a resolution Wednesday night asking to be included in any referendum or negotiations on faculty collective bargaining.

A similar motion was passed by the GSC fall semester. Most GSC representatives saw participation as a valuable aid for student workers if and when they decide to seek collective bargaining.

In other business, the GSC will ask the Traffic and Parking Committee to divide the 351-car parking garage north of McAndrew Stadium into a half red half blue sticker lot.

An alternative plan to make the parking garage a blue sticker lot while turning Parking Lot 10, east of Anthony Hall into a red sticker lot was defeated when it was learned that Parking Lot 10 would be closed next year for repairs.

The GSC also passed a resolution recommending that interest accrued from funds in the Student Activity Fees account be channeled back into the account. The money now is placed into an account used by President Warren W. Brandt for general educational purposes.

In GSC appointments, Sharon Vansickle, a graduate in higher education, was appointed to the Student Work and Financial Aid Advisory Committee. C. Michael Gibbons, also in higher education, was named to the President's and ad hoc committee on tuition waivers and Paul Cornell, a law student, was named to the Campus Judicial Board.

Swinburne requests Health Service review

Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs, has requested the American College Health Association (ACHA) to send a three-person team of experts to examine the quality of services at the SIU Health Service.

"We are particularly interested in a review of the quality of medicine being practiced in our program and in obtaining assistance in setting up a medical review system," Swinburne said.

The system would examine certain types of cases and how they are treated to determine if they are being handled in the best possible manner, he said.

Swinburne said the examination by the agency because "there are certain things we can evaluate on a day to day basis, but we are not capable of looking at the quality of some areas."

Swinburne is specifically asking a review of the outpatient and inpatient services, supporting services, the health education program, program planning and development, mental health services, environmental health and safety services and the physical plant and athletic medicine program.

"Improving services does not necessarily mean that there will be additional expenses," he said. "It may just be a matter of realignment."

Beg your pardon

Jackson County Sheriff Don White said a confidential source rather than "an observant neighbor" provided information Tuesday to law enforcement officials about possible drugs at the home of Mark Chapman McPherson, as was reported in Thursday's Daily Egyptian. McPherson and Donald Coleman were arrested Tuesday at McPherson's home near the Jackson County Country Club and charged on four counts of drug violations. White said he erred in calling the source a neighbor of McPherson's.

News Roundup

Morocco claims capture of Spanish Sahara

RABAT, Morocco (AP)—Morocco claimed Thursday to have captured the Spanish Sahara desert area where it battled with Algeria for three days, taking 101 Algerian prisoners in all. Algeria announced its forces "have withdrawn in good order."

There was no independent verification of the claims. An official statement in Rabat said the region of Amghala, 175 miles southwest of the Algerian border, had been "cleansed of all rebel elements," a reference to guerrillas of the Algerian-backed Polisario Front which favors independence for the Spanish Sahara. Spain is turning over the 105,000-square-mile mineral-rich territory which it has held since 1884 to Morocco and Mauritania on Feb. 28. The two countries say they have historical claims to the land which Algeria opposes.

Kissinger outlines anti-Soviet foreign policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger Thursday outlined an intensified hard line anti-Soviet foreign policy, saying the United States must be prepared to react against any massive Russian adventure. He told a Senate subcommittee studying Angola that "I am not saying we will police every area of the world... but wherever the Soviet Union moves hostilely, we must commit ourselves."

"I believe we must discourage the view that the Soviet Union can move anywhere it wants without serious risk," Kissinger said.

He also said, "The administration is now seriously considering overt financial aid for Angola and we will soon be consulting with the Congress on this possibility."

Rabin holds third round of talks with Ford

WASHINGTON (AP)—Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin held a third round of talks Thursday with President Ford, and a White House spokesman said afterward the administration was continuing efforts to promote a Middle East peace.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford told Rabin there should be "no stagnation nor stalemate." Responding to a question, Nessen said, "The United States has not offered a plan of its own" to promote continued negotiations.

House blocks release of intelligence secrets

WASHINGTON (AP)—In a precedent setting victory for President Ford, the House blocked its intelligence committee Thursday night from publicly disclosing secrets without the President's approval.

The directive was approved 246 to 124 over objections of the committee majority that it would give the President and the intelligence agencies the power to censor the committee's final report to the House. The directive was technically an amendment to a procedural resolution setting times for filing the report with the full House. The resolution later was approved by voice vote.

AT&T files for additional rate increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—American Telephone & Telegraph Co. filed with the Federal Communications Commission Thursday new rates that would increase charges for about two-thirds of out-of-state long distance calls. Rates for other interstate calls would either remain the same or decrease Feb. 12, if approved by the FCC, AT&T said.

It estimated the changes will increase an average resident customer's bill by about 10 cents a month, while the average business customer's bill will go up about $2 a month. The exact amount of the increase or decrease would, of course, depend upon the number and type of interstate calls made, their distance and duration and the time of day placed. The biggest increases, as in recent years, would be for most operated assisted calls such as person to person, credit card, coin and collect to reflect sharply increased labor costs, AT&T said.

Subcommittee reworks public drinking bill

CHICAGO (AP)—An Illinois House subcommittee recommended Thursday steps to make workable recently passed legislation to provide care and treatment instead of arrest for persons drunk in public.

Recommended changes in the law were announced at a news conference by Rep. Robert Downs, D-Oak Park, chairman of the subcommittee named to revise the law adopted in the 75th General Assembly. He said implementation of the law was delayed because, as adopted, the roles of hospitals, detoxification facilities and police departments are unclear. The law, which becomes effective July 1, would provide care and treatment instead of arrest for persons intoxicated in public.

Hearst trial continues in secret session

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—With Patricia Hearst's trial in secret session, her chief attorney warned Thursday that potential jurors and reporters could be held in contempt if they revealed details of the closed jury interrogations. Two more tentative jurors, including the first male, were seated Thursday morning as the selection process fell far behind schedule. That left 30 more persons to be selected for the required pool of 36 subject to preemptory challenge later on.

The 21-year-old newspaper heiress, who faces a possible 35-year jail sentence if convicted of armed bank robbery, was hidden from press and public, but attorneys said she was present at Thursday's session.

Heroin dealer sentenced

A former Carbondale man was sentenced Thursday in Jackson County Circuit Court on charges that on three separate incidents he sold heroin to an undercover agent.

Randy Garrett, now of Bremen, Ind., entered an open guilty plea Dec. 3, on charges that he sold heroin to a Metropolitan Enforcement Group (MEG) agent on Feb. 19, 1975, March 19, 1975 and March 25, 1975.

Judge Richard Richman sentenced

Garrett to two years probation, 30 days in jail and given a $500 fine plus court costs for the first case. He was sentenced to five years probation, six months in jail and given a $1,000 fine plus costs on the second case and was sentenced to serve not less than 15 months but not more than four years in a penitentiary and given $1,000 fine plus costs on the final case.

All three sentences are to run concurrently.

Block grant public hearings scheduled

By Tom Chesser
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Two public hearings will be held before the Carbondale City Council considers whether to approve the $2.7 million Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) passed this week by the Citizens Community Development Steering Committee.

The CDBG application must be approved by the city council and subsequently the Greater Egyptian Regional Planning Commission before it can be sent to the U.S. Department on Housing and Urban Development for final approval.

If approved the CDBG will go into the city's community development programs. These programs include capital improvements, housing rehabilitation and social programs designed to serve the elderly, handicapped and low to moderate income residents of Carbondale.

On Feb. 9 and 16 hearings will be held to give citizens an opportunity to examine and comment on the community development projects proposed in the application, said Don Monty of the city's community development staff.

Congress has authorized the CDBG program to span a three year period. Monty said the city must apply for the grant money for each of the three years.

He said that a three-year community development plan must be submitted as part of the application. "All this does is force each city applying for the grant to plan ahead in the areas of community development," Monty said.

Carbondale has been allotted $8.1 million to be applied over the three-year span of the grant. In the first year of the program, city fiscal year 1975-76, Carbondale received $2.9 million in federal community development grants.

Now the city is applying for $2.7 million for the 1976-77 fiscal year which begins in July. This will leave $2.5 million available to the city for the following year.

As part of the application, a Housing Assistance Plan will be submitted to the council for review. Gene Niewoehner, Carbondale housing expediter, said the plan was developed with the input of all the divisions of the city staff and coordinated through the division of renewal and housing.

The basic objectives in the housing plan include:

- the establishment of housing rehabilitation grants to be offered to persons in low and moderate incomes for home improvement,
- grants to help the poor insulate their homes,
- increased units of specialized housing for the elderly and the handicapped,
- elimination of abandoned and dilapidated housing through housing code enforcement,
- support and utilization of minority contractors for home improvements.

Niewoehner said the plan, "reflects the combined assessments and negotiated objectives of the city staff, citizen's steering committee and city council."

A complete budget breakdown of the proposed community development projects to be financed by CDBG is not yet available.

City unemployment figures reach new high

By Terri Bradford
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

An unstable national economy and inclement weather have plummeted Jackson County employment figures to a new low.

"The present job market is very tight," said Richard Morris, director of the State Employment Office in Carbondale. "We are now experiencing a much higher unemployment rate than in the past, mainly because of inflationary economic conditions."

The unemployment rate in Jackson County jumped from 3.4 per cent in October, 1974 to 9.1 per cent in October, 1975, according to Dave Koch, research analyst for the Illinois Bureau of Employment Security.

Unemployment figures show that Illinois with 8.7 per cent is above the national average of 7.8 per cent.

Jobs currently available in Jackson County are those of the clerical, maintenance, planning specialist or technicians variety. Licensed practical nurses or registered nurses are always in demand, Morris said.

He said persons applying at the employment bureau generally request office positions, factory work, or construction.

A recent Illinois State Employment Service survey revealed that, females account for an average 47 per cent of an area's applicants, while 18 per cent are veterans and 14 per cent are non-caucasian. Most of the 1,100 persons seeking employment every month at the Carbondale office are between the ages of 20 and 35, Morris said.

Predicting a grim future for Carbondale employment opportunities, Morris said one area manufacturing plant, the Brown Shoe Co., in Murphyboro, has already been forced to close. "Normally, large cities are the hardest hit by a recession. But once a financial crunch hits a small town, it is very hard to get back into the groove," he said.

While cold weather has definitely affected the seasonal job situation, more serious implications are faced by large companies which must pay for expensive machinery, and meet electrical and other operational costs.

"We're not hiring workers and have temporarily laid off about 10 of our 75 employees," remarked Zen Laskarias, manager of Koppers Co. Inc. Forest Products which manufactures railroad ties in Carbondale. "We usually work during all kinds of weather, even though it may take a couple of days to clear ice and snow from the working area." The problem is the shaky state of business in general, he added.

Joe Clary, manager of Clary Realty Builders and Insurance, Carbondale, attributed the decline in business to the nation's weak economic condition.

"Work has been bad since June, 1975. As a house builder, there is just not a big market right now," he said.

Clary also said SIU is usually Carbondale's main drawing power in attracting people to the area. "But if SIU isn't hiring, not many people are moving here, adding to an already faltering housing market," he said.

"Every year when the weather gets bad, construction business decreases," noted J.W. Williams of J.W. Williams and Son Contractors of Carbondale. "I retain five or six carpenters during the year, although I have to lay them off during winter months, as it is not too often we can work outdoors."

Leo Robinson of J & L Robinson Development and Construction Co. of Carbondale said he is using a skeleton crew" in his projects. He related muddy or frozen ground and a decline in work loads as contributing factors to the unemployment situation.

"Right now we are building a parking structure at SIU. Our progress has been hindered by weather conditions which naturally cause a shift in hiring personnel," he said.

Work has been temporarily halted at the Wayne Frost Construction Co. of Carbondale. Frost said he hires about eight to 10 men while working on a project.

The future job outlook may not be as bleak as it sounds, research analyst Koch said. The number of nonagricultural jobs in Jackson County should rise by 1.7 per cent by February, with an additional 1.1 per cent increase estimated by April.

Koch predicted the opening of new industries and firms and expansion of medical facilities should create new jobs, contributing towards an improved local economy.

Valentine dismissal hearing continues

By Scott G. Bandle
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The hearing on the dismissal of Arthur Valentine from the Carbondale Police Department was continued until Tuesday by the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners.

The board met in a closed session Wednesday to hear testimony concerning the dismissal.

Valentine was fired Dec. 19 by City Manager Carroll Fry after a rape charge was filed against him in Jackson County Circuit Court.

Although the charges were dropped because of a lack of medical evidence, Fry did not rehire Valentine. The city manager said at the time that Valentine's record showed past warnings and suspensions.

Valentine appealed the decision to the board. If the board rules in favor of Valentine, the city could appeal the decision to the courts.

Robert Radtke, commission member and associate professor of psychology, said the testimony heard Wednesday was presented for the city by city attorney John Womick. Womick will conclude his presentation at the Tuesday hearing, and David Watt, defense attorney for Valentine, will make his presentation.

The Rev. William Longust, chairman of the board, said a decision on another appeal by Valentine, will hopefully be presented Tuesday.

Valentine is also appealing his 30-day suspension from the police force in June, 1974, which resulted from an incident at Merlin's Bar, when he allegedly pulled a gun on a patron.

"He had appealed the decision to the Jackson County Circuit Court. It was reversed and remanded on Oct. 23 back to the commissioner's board for further action. All of the evidence was apparently not presented to the court.

In a Jan. 20 meeting, the board, consisting of all different members since the appeal, accepted additional transcripts from the hearing held in 1974, and ruled that all of the evidence was in. Longust said a decision on the appeal could possibly be announced before Tuesday.

Fiscal candidate revisits

Robert E. Gentry, a candidate for the position of vice president for fiscal affairs, met with SIU President Warren W. Brandt Monday. The meeting was the second visit Gentry has made to SIU in less than a week.

Brandt refused to say whether Gentry, presently the associate vice president for fiscal affairs and finance at the University of Wisconsin, had been offered the job. "When there is something to announce we'll make an announcement," Brandt said.

Brandt declined to comment on whether additional candidates would be invited to campus.

Several SIU administrators said they were very impressed with Gentry when he visited Carbondale for three days last week.

George R. Mace has been acting vice president for fiscal affairs since he was named vice president for University relations last June.

UFO port boosts the Bicentennial

By John Bronson
Associated Press Writer

On July 4, the northwestern Pennsylvania town of Lake City will throw the switch on what is probably one of the nation's most unusual Bicentennial projects, a landing site for flying saucers.

"This is no joke," insists project director Jim Meeder. The 2,300 residents of this community near the shore of Lake Erie apparently are taking the idea seriously. Since no tax dollars are involved, they'll be footing the estimated $6,000 bill to build the "UFO port" through contributions and money-raising activities.

Why a UFO site? "Because we wanted to do something different," Meeder says. "Everyone else is looking back 200 years and restoring buildings and writing books. We wanted to look in the other direction—the future."

The UFO idea wasn't just pulled out of the sky, so to speak. There have been several reported UFO sightings over Lake City, a suburb of the city of Erie, and some folks here figure the area has something that attracts them.

"Nobody knows for sure what was out there. But we thought if they actually were UFO, we might as well give them a place to land."

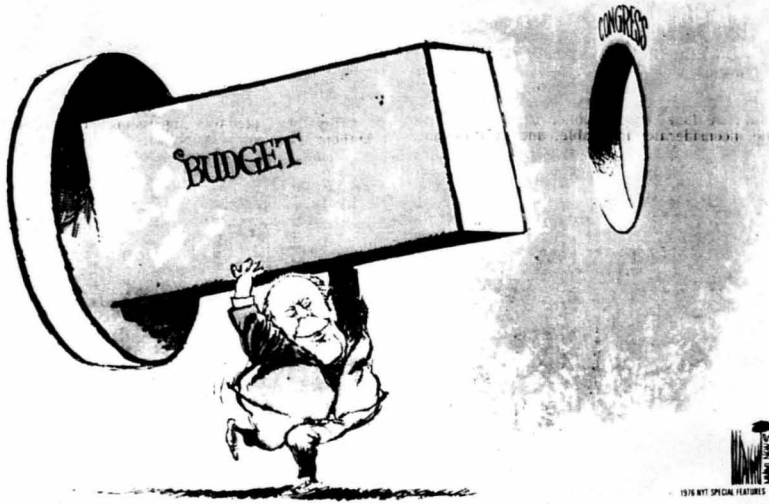

Not having the exact dimensions of alien flying machines, Meeder and his crew are guessing at how to build the landing facilities. Plans call for a 100-foot diameter pad to be built on a secluded, one-acre site near Lake Erie, which Meeder donated. The pad will be surrounded by three rings of lights in red, white and blue.

An existing building will be outfitted with a radio antenna and secondhand radar scope for use as a control center.

The UFO port is fast becoming the community's symbol, even though groundbreaking won't be held until April. Plans are under way to produce license plates, T-shirts, decals and patches with a UFO motif.

Even if a UFO doesn't touch down here, everything at the site will be used by the town later in what will probably be called "UFO Park."

"This thing is bringing the whole town together," Meeder said. "And isn't that what the Bicentennial is all about?"

Merlin's 'no same sex' dance policy denies gay origins of disco craze

By H. B. Koplowitz

A couple of the same sex was bumped off the dance floor last Friday night at Merlins disco. It must have been an absurd moment for them. Kind of like telling the Colonel he can't eat at a fried chicken franchise or the Creoles they can't play jazz on Bourbon Street.

The injured parties can take solace in knowing they are not the first group forced into such a ridiculous position. Take the Sunset Strip, for example. Sunset Boulevard in Hollywood was just another run down neighborhood lost in the suburban sprawl of Los Angeles. But then, young people, later known as hippies, began clustering on the sidewalks and in the bars, and Sunset Boulevard was rechristened the Strip.

The shop owners realized quickly that hippy coin was as good as anybody's. Since there was no one else around they began catering to the flower children. Thus the Go Go scene was born.

Then the wad, the masses, grew infatuated with the hippy mystique, and the Strip was crowded with all kinds of hippies. Many of them rich hippies. Rich hippies who brought dates and bought mixed drinks and paid cover charges to mingle with the "real" hippies, who were mostly outside hawking the Free Press anyway.

The derelicts on the Strip were pleased with the notoriety, at first. But they soon resented the thousands of phoney who invaded their turf just to ogle. They also began feeding off the intruders by pushing dope, asking for spare change, or hustling ass.

The new clientele, the week-end hippy and the full-time plastic, found it easier to mingle with each other than with the hard core that had turned them onto the scene in the first place.

The drug addicts, frustrated artists, and lost souls, the original hanger-outers whose nickels and dimes and whose culture had created the economic base for the neighborhood, became a nuisance after they had served their purpose.

The store owners realized that the derelicts might in time scare the new patrons away and decided to act. They pressed the city council to pass loitering and curfew ordinances. The police began enforcement of the ordinances. A series of riots followed. By the time the smoke cleared, the hippies were gone.

The irony of the Sunset Strip story is that after the hippies left, the phonies began to feel that only phoney go to the Sunset Strip, and they stayed away, and the territory was overtaken by, you guessed it, the gay community.

Just a couple of years ago, before the New York City gays and blacks turned the disco scene into the latest rage, discotheques were nothing but crummy nightclubs too cheap to hire a band. Nobody dreamed of paying a cover charge to listen to records or dressing up in the outrageous disco glitter and platforms were it not for those two repressed cultures that paved the way.

The New York disco scene from 1971 to 1974 was underground. The blacks and gays had long known that the only way for them to get loose was behind closed doors and in private clubs, away from the straights.

Inside those abandoned factory lofts and private clubs, the disco scene took shape—the omnipotent deejay, the mind-blowing sound systems and non-stop music, and the emphasis on dancing dancing dancing.

It was inevitable that big time promoters would step in when they saw that the discos were beginning to effect the record industry. When they saw how many people were getting into the bizarre world of unisex and glitter, whether they were gay or not, that's when the disco went above-ground and began its present economic boom.

I'm not suggesting that the gay community has provided the economic base for Merlins. Hardly. But Merlins has spent tens of thousands of dollars to refurbish their club to look like a disco. And just who the hell does the management of Merlins think created the disco scene?

It's like telling a hippy he can't play with his strobe light. Not only should Merlins let the unisexers do their thing, but they ought to be paying half the fairies in Greenwich Village a share of their profits.

Advice ignored

By Kathleen Takemoto
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

After ingesting over 220 witnesses' testimony on the Illinois Board of Higher Education's (IBHE) Master Plan Phase Four (MP-4), the IBHE staff has come up with an overwhelming total of four recommendations, none of which deals directly with the tuition hike proposal.

The recently released staff report acknowledges that the main issues of concern at all six hearings were the recommendations in MP-4 to increase tuition and place limitations on the awarding of tuition waivers.

The report also acknowledges the fact that 172 of the witnesses' presented views on the tuition hike issue. Of the 172, only eight persons favored the IBHE's current recommendation.

It is incredible to think that the IBHE panel expended considerable time and (taxpayer's) money to conduct six public hearings on MP-4 throughout the state, and then ignored the vast bulk of testimony in its recommendations to the board.

Viewpoint

The only concession that the staff made to the testimony against the tuition increases was to recommend that the proposed 2 per cent tuition waiver not be applicable to graduate students and university Civil Service employees.

The only persons who have scored points with the IBHE staff during the hearings are those from public community colleges. The staff decided to recommend the IBHE approve construction of new facilities for public community college campuses on the basis of projected enrollments, rather than enrollments at the time the request is made.

The IBHE supposedly scheduled the public hearings to "seek the public's advice," according to a press release from Donald M. Prince, chairman of the IBHE.

The IBHE should be made to realize that public involvement does not constitute merely going through the motions of a democratic process.

A sad conclusion reached after issuance of the IBHE staff's report is that working through channels within the system produces very little result, as far as the IBHE is concerned.

Letters

Evergreen Terrace residents have parking rights

To the Daily Egyptian:

I read with some interest the letter by Mr. Larry Doyle. He complains about the SIU Security Police, calling them "inconsiderate, incapable, and incompetent," (sic) referring to the recent towing of a number of cars out of Evergreen Terrace. The public should know that the parking situation at Evergreen Terrace is so arranged that each resident has one place to park his car, and each building has two or three visitor slots. The place to park the car goes with the apartment and is included in the rent that the residents pay. On the night to which Mr. Doyle refers there were at least three building parking lots filled up with non-resident cars, and numerous residents came home to find that there was no place to park. After the first complaint, the area manager made an effort to find out where the car owners were, but to no avail. Now, the situation was this: first, there were several residents who wanted to park their cars in their own slots; second, there is restricted parking here and a sign at the Terrace entrance clearly states that illegally parked cars will be towed; third, there were no clues as to where the owners of the non-resident cars were. Security police was called when a request for towing was made by a resident. The simple fact is that the people who live in Evergreen Terrace are the ones who have the right to park in their own slots, and not anyone else. What would Mr. Doyle do if he came home only to find ten strange cars parked in his driveway, all belonging to persons at a large meeting somewhere in his neighborhood? Of course, the visitors should have been told in advance that there are certain visitor spaces and overflow lots available. This would have prevented any problem. As for the demeanor of the SIU police, I have carefully read the report made by an impartial investigating officer and the fact is that the incidents described by Mr. Doyle did not happen. The report does point out that Mr. Doyle's wife had her car towed and was the primary complainant in the situation. This explains why Mr. Doyle wrote his letter, but if he thinks that the police are fine examples of the inconsiderate, incapable, and incompetent, perhaps he should read his own letter after he cools off.

Anthem not overused

To the Daily Egyptian:

I read with a bit of concern Scott Burnside's article, "National Anthem Overused at Sports Events" which appeared on Jan. 22, in the Daily Egyptian. I take exception to Mr. Burnside's view. I have attended sporting events throughout the United States and have found that when the anthem is played spectators not only stand attentively, but many sing along. The national anthem does mean a great deal to many sports fans! At a recent St. Louis Blues hockey game, played in St. Louis, hundreds of the spectators sang as the national anthem was played. The issue which Mr. Burnside has raised is certainly not new or unique to him - perhaps a national poll is in order as a means of substantiation of Burnside's view. Officially adopted by Congress in 1931, our national anthem is too young to retire. I would suggest that playing or singing the national anthem is not "abusement"—failure to do so would be 'the abusement.

Peace starts within

To the Daily Egyptian:

I would like to comment on Marty Matin's letter printed Jan. 21 in the Daily Egyptian. I am also what you referred to as an "old timer." Matin, do you remember what it was like back in the late 60's and early 70's at SIU? How could one forget the tear gas, the senseless beatings, destruction to both students' and University property? I remember those times well and when I read your letter, I came to one conclusion. Your idea had little thought behind it. The people are getting smarter while you are not. Your politician talk may have convinced some people, but the majority would rather reason things out a little better. You said, "The six years between 1966 and 1972 were the most explosive years the United States ever had to face. Not since the Civil War had this country been so divided on its approach to the future." Well, in my opinion, if there is any answer to world peace, one would find it if our country was united. You are speaking of a time in history when it was not. You also said that "the University was the primary location to express dissent, outrage, and dismay at the foreign policies of the U. S. government." Well brother, to me a university is an institution of learning and no one, even people like you will ever stop it again as it was stopped in your glorious period of time. In summary, your ideals are good but tell me Mr. Matin, did you vote? Did you in anyway individually support the candidate of your choice? Mr. Matin, lay down your flowers and love beads and just think of these next few lines. Peace starts within, protest is fine but don't hand me the rap how united the years of '66 to '72 were because they were not.

Pigeon nests on Faner aren't harming anyone

To the Daily Egyptian:

The History Department offices have been located in the Faner Building, section B, since April, 1975. Since that time many of us have enjoyed watching the nesting behavior and other antics of the pigeons who reside on the ledges around the building. One does not need to be a bird lover to realize the esthetic value of being able to watch birds on their nests and in the process of raising their young. It has recently been brought to our attention that janitors in this building have been sweeping the nests off the ledges. A concrete building, such as Faner, is naturally a convenient nesting place for the pigeons on campus. When the nests we had been observing were swept off the building (onto who knows whose head down below) we called the Physical Plant office. The man in charge had no idea who had given the order to destroy these nests and said "We at the Physical Plant have had a problem with mites and fleas from pigeons getting into the buildings." If the workmen do not open the windows to get to the ledges to sweep off the nests and droppings (which eventually are sufficiently removed by the rain), there is no way for mites and fleas to enter the building, except perhaps on dogs. It seems to us that Physical Plant employees have more important things to do than to waste their time removing these nests; every time the nests are swept off the pigeons will rebuild them. These birds are doing no one any harm and we request this inhumane practice to immediately halted.

Another instance of media's reportage of women

To the Daily Egyptian:

The Jan. 27 article by Bob Springer describing the Monday campus visit by Joanne Alter, a candidate for lieutenant governor in the Democratic primary, contains a gross and inexcusable factual error supporting another instance of token sensationalism in the media's reportage of women. Springer states that "(Alter) won her first election in 1972 as a commissioner of the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Chicago-making her the first Democratic woman elected to a countywide office in Cook County."

Alter did win her first election in 1972, but this by no means makes her the first woman elected to a countywide office in Cook County. To my knowledge, at least four regular Democratic women have served on the Cook County Board of Commissioners prior to 1972. Elizabeth Conkey was first elected in 1933 with the support of the Kelly-Nash machine and served in the position for 30 years. Ruby Ryan and Josephine Sneed both received their seats on the Board in 1961 through the "widow's accession;" Ryan was later re-elected in her own right. Lillian Piotrowski was elected to the Board after serving in the Illinois State Legislature for 14 years, and has since (1970) become the 22nd ward committeeman.

This is not to diminish the achievements of Joanne Alter. She was asked to run in December, 1971, for the office of trustee, when, as spokeswoman for the Illinois Democratic Women's Caucus, she suggested that the Daley slatemakers give consideration to women seeking endorsement as trustees for the Metropolitan Sanitary District. (Alter was also backed by the Independent Voters of Illinois and the Independent Precinct Organization.)

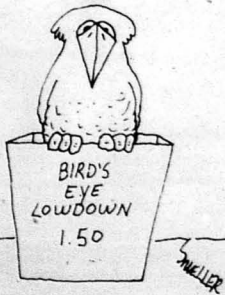

I am unaware of the source of Springer's assertion, but regardless of its accuracy or inaccuracy, the gratuitous mention of another female "first" does little to establish Alter's credentials or to justify her candidacy. Indeed, in my opinion, such reporting only highlights the "token woman" and accentuates the deviancy of women politicians, rather than fostering the legitimacy of women's full political participation. The statement also does a grave disservice to those women who have run as independents for political office in Cook County despite the hegemony of the Daley organization. The small numbers of women with political clout in the Daley machine says less about the numbers of women who seek political office in Cook County or the unique ability of the few who do attain an elected position than it does about the sexist attitudes and practices of the Daley organization.

Correction

In a letter to the editor written by Charles Stalon which appeared on Jan. 28, Stalon said if the parking garage was a mistake we should not build another. Due to an error, the word not was accidentally dropped.

Editor's note: The Daily Egyptian received the biographical information for that story from Joanne Alter's campaign headquarters. The three-page biography was authored by two Alter campaign staffers, Ms. Sydney Weisman and Tom Sommers. Denise Baer said her information came from a chapter in the book "Women in Politics," edited by James S. Jaquette, and published in 1974 by John Wiley and Sons, New York. Alter campaign headquarters' staffers said they were unaware of the factual discrepancy in the biography when contacted Thursday evening by phone.

Tickets for King still available

Tickets for an "Evening with Carole King" scheduled for 8 p.m. Thursday at the SIU Arena, are still available in all price ranges.

Joel Preston, Arena publicity promotion specialist, said about one-third of the tickets have been sold but "there are still good seats for all prices."

Preston said several factors are affecting the ticket sales. "The first day of the sales were right at the beginning of school," he said. He also said student paychecks were not distributed until Jan. 23 and civil service paychecks will not be distributed until Feb. 1.

"We aren't worried about the ticket sales," he said. "The people out there just haven't gotten around to buying their tickets yet."

Four Carole King tickets can be bought by showing one spring fee statement, he said, but each student ticket holder must have a spring fee statement to be seated at the concert.

"If the student ticket holder doesn't have a current fee statement the night of the concert, he will have to go back to the box office and pay the extra 50 cents for a general public ticket," Preston said.

This concert is one of twelve dates in the first leg of King's tour of Midwestern colleges. King has not toured for four years although she has made guest appearances.

Touring with King will be Russ Kunkle on drums, Danny "Kootch" Korchmar and Waddy Wauchtel on guitars, Clarence McDonald on the Fender piano, Leland Sklar on bass and Ms. Bobbye Hall on percussion.

Bolivian technology graduate studies rural electric co-op

By Peggy Sagona
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Gloria Rivera, a former SIU student and a native of La Paz, Bolivia, is developing a computer system to analyze rural electric power systems in Southern Illinois.

Rivera works two days a week at the Southeastern Illinois Electrical Cooperative (SEIEC) in Eldorado performing research for her SIU master's thesis. She is conducting the research in cooperation with the SIU Department of Electrical Science and Systems Engineering.

Vernold K. Feiste, associate professor in electrical sciences and systems engineering, who is Rivera's advisor, said Rivera is "getting first hand experience in viewing the cooperative as a model."

The electrical cooperatives, such as the one in Eldorado, were established in 1930 when the Rural Electrification Administration (REA) Act was passed because the United States decided to electrify rural areas.

The act was designed to provide low interest loans to electric cooperatives to build transmission lines in rural areas. As a result electricity is being supplied to 98 percent of the rural areas.

The REA requests periodic reports of what is being done at the various co-ops. This information must be summarized and sent to Washington, D.C., in the form of a work order.

Rivera's job is to simplify the manual operation of the analysis, calculations and information that Washington asks for, using computer techniques.

Ways to simplify the modeling and analysis of rural electric power systems using computer techniques is the topic of Rivera's master thesis.

Rivera plans to return to her native country after she has completed her research and thesis and when her husband completes the requirements for a ph.d. in mathematics. She will be the first Bolivian woman to be an electrical engineer.

"I would hope to work for the government when I get back," she said. "Being acquainted with the United States REA co-op works will be an experience of great value to me," she added.

Rivera is a member of the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers (IEEE) and the Bolivian Council of Engineering. She has several years work experience in Bolivia and Mexico.

"There are not very many students who have the background in rural electrification that Gloria has," Feiste said.

Working on the project in Eldorado was the result of a request made by cooperative manager Roger C. Lentz to hire a graduate student in electrical engineering for part-time work, in affiliation with a university program.

The SEIEC is the largest rural electrical co-op in the state of Illinois. One of its areas of development is the handling of information concerning the ever increasing large number of engineering tasks it is responsible for.

Gloria Rivera

"The project is challenging. No other cooperative in the U.S. has yet computerized the REA work order procedure using IBM System-3 model 10 discs in the language RBG2," Rivera said.

Rivera is writing a paper on the topic, "A Digital Computer Approach to the REA Work Order Procedure" to be presented at the IEEE 1976 Rural Electric Power Conference to be held on April 27.

Symphony bassist to perform Monday night in Shryock

Barry Green, principal bassist with the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra and associate professor of double bass at the University of Cincinnati College Conservatory of Music will perform at 8 p.m. Monday in Shryock Auditorium.

Green will be accompanied by James Cook, professor of music at Willamette University in Salem, Oregon. Cook is a professional accompanist for the Community Concert Series and has been a soloist with orchestras in the Pacific Northwest.

The program will include two sonatas, romantic music by Bruch and Schumann, 20th century music and two pieces for amplified bass with special effects, piano, and pre-recorded tape by composers Paul Martin Palombo and Frank Proto.

Green's performance is part of a current tour covering Carbondale, Bloomington, Ind., Cincinnati, and Miami. His concert at Shryock is being sponsored through the SIU School of Music.

Green received a bachelor's and master's degree in double bass from University of Cincinnati. He has appeared twice as soloist on the Orchestra subscription series of Frank Proto's concertos.

In addition to Green's concert performances, he has written two books on the double bass and has recorded three solo albums of baroque, romantic and contemporary music for the double bass on Paper Records.

The performance is free and open to the public.

Auto dealer reports truck stolen from lot

The management of Vogler Motor Co., 301 N. Illinois Ave., reported Wednesday that a truck was taken from the new car lot, Carbondale police said.

The theft reportedly took place sometime after Jan. 22. Missing is a red and white, 1976 Ford pick up truck. There is no license.

Joseph M. Czuba, 24, of Chicago was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct on a complaint by the manager of Southern Barbecue, 220 S. Illinois Ave. Czuba allegedly entered the restaurant without shoes and, when ordered to leave, reportedly caused a disturbance.

He was released on notice to appear in city court at a later date.

Kathleen A. Herron of Carbondale reported Wednesday to police that the battery was taken from her car while it was parked at the New Haven Center, 500 Lewis Lane. The item was valued at $45.

Yale offers summer jobs in research

Summer jobs for juniors in physics, chemistry and engineering are being offered by the Department of Engineering and Applied Science of Yale University. The jobs involve participation in advanced research.

Research areas include: aerosols and other colloidal phenomena, biological catalysts, geoeengineering, heat and mass transfer, mechanical properties of materials, modeling and computer simulation, physical and chemical separations and thermodynamics.

Students involved in the research should be available from June 1 through August 13. Wages are about $10 per week.

Applications are due Feb. 16. For further details and application forms, see Inge Radar, Career Planning and Placement Center, Woody Hall Wing A.

Did You Know

GEORGE TALLEY

In all of football history, which game had the biggest surprise ending? A national news service surveyed thousands of results and says nothing can top the Harvard-Yale game of 1948 when Yale led 29-13 with 42 seconds left. You'd figure that with a 29-13 lead and only 42 seconds remaining, there would be no way for Yale not to win...but they didn't win. With 40 seconds to go, Harvard threw a touchdown pass and ran for a 2-point conversion. That made it 29-21. Then Harvard recovered an on-side kickoff and with only 3 seconds left threw a TD pass. That made it 29-27, and for the conversion, they completed another pass for a 2-point and the game wound up 29-29. Thus Harvard had overcome a 29-13 lead in the last 42 seconds for an amazing finish.

Here's an oddity...Only one head coach in football history ever won both the national championship in college football, and the pro championship in the National Football League...Can you guess who's the only man to do it? Answer is Paul Brown who coached Ohio State to the national college championship in 1942, then won several NFL championships when he was coach at Cleveland...You'd think that in all these years some other successful college coaches would have won the NFL title, too, but so far Brown is the only one to do it.

In Living Color, You Might Say.

You can do it, too. So far over 350,000 other people have done it. People who have different jobs, different IQs, different interests, different educations have completed the course. Our graduates are people from all walks of life. These people have all taken a course developed by Evelyn Wood, a prominent educator. Practically all of them at least tripled their reading speed with equal or better comprehension. Most have increased it even more.

Think for a moment what that means. All of them—even the slowest—now read an average novel in less than two hours. They read an entire issue of Time or Newsweek in 35 minutes. They don't skip or skim. They read every word. They use no machines. Instead, they let the material they're reading determine how fast they read.

And mark this well: they actually understand more, remember more, and enjoy more than when they read slowly. That's right! They understand more. They remember more. They enjoy more. You can do the same thing—the place to learn more about it is at a free speed reading lesson.

This is the same course President Kennedy had his Joint Chiefs of Staff take. The same one Senators and Congressmen have taken.

Come to a Mini-Lesson and find out. It is free to you and you will leave with a better understanding of why it works.

Plan to attend a free Mini-Lesson and learn that it is possible to read 3-4-5 times faster, with comparable comprehension.

'Bucks' wins regional

The cast and crew of "Young Bucks," a play by SIU graduate student John Kunik, are preparing for the American College Theater Festival competition in Steven's Point, Wis. "Young Bucks," which played to sell-out audiences in the Laboratory Theatre last November has been selected as the best new play in the Midwest region.

At Steven's Point the play will be judged once again and compared with winners in the other regions throughout the country. If "Young Bucks" fares well in Wisconsin, the production will advance to the National ACTF showcase in Washington, D.C. which will be held in March.

At Steven's Point the Bucks will compete against six other plays for the Best Production award. In five years of ACTF competition the Southern Players have never failed to advance to the regionals and have three times gone to Waington as

Shakespeare auditions set for Monday

The second round of auditions for William Shakespeare's play "Much Ado About Nothing" has been scheduled for 7 p.m. Monday in the Communications Building lounge. The play has been scheduled for the end of February.

The auditions will fill the three major roles of the play. Robb Pocklington, Southern Players spokesman said. No previous preparation is required but familiarity with the play will be an advantage, he said.

Group opens Bicentennial mural contest

Anyone who can design a mural with a Bicentennial theme is invited to submit his or her creation to the Interchurch Council Bicentennial Committee before March 1 and have a chance to see his or her work displayed at the University Mall.

Winning entries will be transferred to walls at Mohr Value, Hurstman's Cleaners and the Thrift Shop.

Entrants should visit one of the locations to note the physical features and dimensions of the wall. Entries should be done on as large a scale as possible, such as one or more 18 by 24 inch sheets of paper.

Designs should correspond to the proportions of the wall and the person's name, age, address and the location he or she desires should be written on the back of the design.

They should be mailed or brought to committee headquarters at the Church of the Good Shepherd, Orchard and Schwartz Streets, Carbondale.

The last new play from Southern Players to take part in the national festival, "Lying in State" by Lane Bateman, is being produced professionally in a New York off-Broadway theatre this spring.

humanities from Wilberforce College in 1972. She is presently an associate professor at Amherst College.

Sanchez is one of the first widely recognized black woman playwrights. Her play, "Sister Samji" brought her international recognition and was performed by the Joseph Papp Shakespeare Theatre in New York.

The Black Affairs Council has scheduled a month-long series of films in observance of Black History month. The films include, "The Green Pasture," Feb. 1, "Kool Breeze," Feb. 8, a documentary film on the life of Dr. Martin Luther King, Feb. 15, and "The Great White Hope," Feb. 22. The films will be shown in the Student Center Auditorium at 2 p.m.

Solo, duet performances to highlight reading hour

Nine students and one faculty member will participate in solo and duet readings at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the Calipre Stage, on the second floor of the Communications Building.

The reading hour is sponsored because other productions in the speech department concentrate on group performances and this spotlights solo performances," said Karen Mitchell, Calipre Stage director. "We want anyone who wants to do a solo performance to have the opportunity."

Works to be read include material from William Shakespeare, John Gardner, D. H. Lawrence, Archibald Marshall and Eurora Welly.

Readers will be Sheila Ryan, Janet Scarpone, Judy Yordon, Susan Conover and Mike Heck, all graduates in the Speech Department. Adrienne Kellam, a junior in speech, Kevin Purcell and Burce Potts, seniors in speech; Anne Bytwerk, a sophomore, and Maurice O'Meara, an assistant professor in foreign languages and literatures, Mitchell said.

Purcell and Yordon are performing two Archibald Marshall works in a duet and Heck and Bytwerk are doing a dramatic interpretation of Shakespeare's "Richard III." The remaining performers are doing solo work, Mitchell said.

There will be an intermission after four works to give the audience a chance to meet the readers, Mitchell said.

The hour is free and open to the public.

Dean announces deadlines for fellowship applications

Graduate students applying for fellowships for fall semester, 1976, must have their applications submitted to their departments by Monday.

Departments making recommendations must have the applications submitted by Feb. 12, said Jack W. Graham, associate dean of the Graduate School.

The graduate fellowships provide $286 per month for master's degree students and $315 per month for doctoral degree students. Those receiving these fellowships are not required to work for their departments.

Special doctoral assistantships are available to students who have been admitted to one of the doctoral programs. This assistantship offers a sum of $345 per month and requires specific duties which will be assigned by the chairperson of the department.

Graduate dean's fellowships are offered annually to students who show promise of success even though their previous academic work has been hindered. Monthly sums are the same as the regular graduate fellowships and there is no service requirement.

Marion to host 'Spoon River,' country music

The Marion Civic Center will present Edgar Lee Masters' "Spoon River Anthology" at 2 p.m. Sunday and the Plumber Family Country Music Show at 8 p.m. Feb. 8.

The New York Theater Company's production of "Spoon River Anthology" will be sponsored by John A. Logan College in conjunction with the civic center. The production will be directed by Sue Lawless with stage adaptation and music by John Franceschina, both with the New York company.

Masters' anthology, set in the graveyard of the town of Spoon River, is a series of monologues written in free verse and spoken by the town's deceased residents. Tickets for the production are $2 and are available at John A. Logan College, Carterville, the Marion Civic Center, 700 Tower Square Plaza, Marion; and at the door the day of the performance.

The Plumber Family Country Music Show will be sponsored by the Civic Center and the Marion Lions Club. The show will feature country and gospel music and comedy.

Tickets for the Feb. 8 show are $2.50 and are available at the Marion Civic Center and from Marion Lions Club members.

Victoria and Dennis Molfese test an infant's visual perception. The test is a part of their study of brain wave responses they are performing at Doctors Memorial Hospital with volunteer infants.

Team studies brain reactions

With the help of more than 300 infants, a "talking" computer and some sophisticated electronic equipment, an SIU scientist is making some dramatic discoveries about the human brain discoveries which could yield revolutionary information.

Contrary to widespread scientific belief, Dennis L. Molfese, assistant professor of psychology at SIU, is finding that the left and right hemispheres of the human brain begin performing their specialized functions called lateralization in even the youngest of infants.

"It has been a scientifically accepted fact for more than a century that the left hemisphere of the brain dominates certain language functions and the right hemisphere certain other functions, such as spatial differentiation," said Molfese.

"But it was previously accepted that these functions developed as the person matured. Our research indicates that the left hemisphere performs these language functions even in the youngest of infants.

Molfese has been working with pediatricians at Carbondale's Doctors Memorial Hospital for more than a year, observing the response of infants as young as two days old to auditory cues provided by a "talking" computer. His techniques, as well as his results, have advanced the state of brain research considerably.

The computer "feeds" several vowel-consonant sounds like "ga-and "ka") to the babies, whose brain responses are then recorded by electrodes attached to their heads.

"Infant auditory testing is still very crude," Molfese said. "It relies upon a conditioned response, which involves a number of difficulties and variables that influence the degree of effectiveness of the testing procedure."

Molfese is also excited by an almost science fiction like breakthrough he feels might be imminent.

"We feel we may be relatively close to deciphering parts of the neurological code," he said.

Should his or anyone else's research lead to a way to break the code, the possibilities are virtually limitless, he said. A big payoff could be in therapy. A key to Molfese's research effort has been the participation of hundreds of infants.

"If we could monitor and analyze what is going on in the brain of an aphasic to person who cannot understand or communicate with spoken language, we could know whether or not the therapy we are using is effective," he said.

"Therapists have a great deal of difficulty with this right now." Participating parents are given interpretive results of research on their children and they're happy to get it.

"It is amazing how much cooperation we have received from parents," Molfese said.

Molfese also credited the staff at Doctors Memorial Hospital with "rendering invaluable assistance to the project."

Special ed conference set

The Illinois Office of Education, the SIU Department of Special Education and the Student Council for Exceptional Children have announced the Sixth Annual Good Teaching Practices Conference to be held March 4 and 5. The conference will be held in the Student Center Ballrooms.

Morris Osburn, who has a wide background in the area of serving disadvantaged youth, will speak at 8 p.m. Thursday on the topic, "Education for the Disadvantaged Learner: A Second Look."

At 8:30 a.m. Friday, a wide range of programs will be available for teacher participation. Topics to be covered in the day's activities include services available from agencies, perceptual motor activities for young children, music from the United States and Europe, music for geriatrics, rap session for practicing supervisors, making psychological information relevant to teachers and other programs emphasizing the importance of programming for children.

An all-day program is being designed for administrators. Sessions dealing with children who are deaf, gifted, behaviorally disordered and trainable mentally handicapped will also be presented. A one-hour session for exhibitors to demonstrate their products is also scheduled.

Films

"Casablanca" — See It Again, Friday and Saturday only. Admission by membership only

"The Devil Is a Woman" —Varsity 2. A film starring Glenda Jackson.

"Dog Day Afternoon" —Varsity 1. Sidney Lumet's solid but gradually disengaging film about a bungled bank robbery turned into a siege. Al Pacino is very good as Sonny.

"Farewell My Lovely" —University Four. Not without interest, but this detective piece with Robert Mitchum suffers in comparison to Chandler's original novel.

"Flesh Gordon" —Varsity 1 late show, 11:30 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday only. Parody of the old Flash Gordon serials.

"The Great McGonagall" — Fox East Gate. A film, presumably a comedy, starring Peter Sellers.

"The Groove Tube" —Varsity 1 late show, 11:30 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday only. A series of sketches concerning, but not limited to, television.

"Heat" —Fox East Gate late show, 11 p.m. Sunday only. A film by Paul Morrissey, starring Joe Dallesandro and Sylvia Miles. Rated X.

"Hustle" —University Four. Director Robert Aldrich's look at the sordid humanity and corruption confronting a contemporary metropolitan cop. With Burt Reynolds and Catherine Deneuve.

"It Happened One Night" —See It Again, starting Sunday. Admission is by membership only.

"The Killing of Sister George" —Student Center Auditorium, at 8 and 10 p.m. Sunday only. A film starring Beryl Reid and Susannah York, directed by Robert Aldrich.

"The Last Detail" —Fox East Gate late show, at 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday only. Jack Nicholson in one of his best roles as a first class signalman assigned to deliver a kid to military prison. Directed by Hal Ashby.

"Let's Do It Again" —University Four. Comedy about two men who attempt to con some high-rolling gamblers in an effort to obtain funds.

"Mahogany" —University Four. Diana Ross stars as a model who rises to the top of the fashion world, then throws it all away to help her husband in his political career.

"Sunday, Bloody Sunday" —Student Center Auditorium at 8 and 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday only. Peter Finch as a doctor who is homosexual and Glenda Jackson as an employment counselor, both in love with a young sculptor played by Murray Head. A John Schlesinger film.

"Sardust" —Saluki. A film about a rock star, played by David Essex.

Proficiency tests offer credit hours

Proficiency exams are available to students for almost every course the university offers. The credits received on passing the tests are recorded on the student's transcript as a "pass." "Fails" received are not entered on student's records.

Proficiency tests may be taken either through the Testing Division of the Career Planning and Placement Center, Washington Square C, or the department in which the course is taught. Tests are given free of charge, but can be taken only once for each course.

PLUS

Monday nights are our dance contest nights. Each Monday for six weeks contests will be held. The first place winners of the weekly contests will each win a $25 clothing gift certificate. At the end of the six weeks, the six first place couples will compete for the grand prize.

THE GRAND PRIZE IS:

1st prize—A Cloud Nine Seven-day Seven-night Caribbean Cruise. You will be flown from St. Louis to Miami where you will board your ship. The M.S. Starward (15,500 tons of pleasure) will take you to Port-au-Prince, Haiti; Port Antonio, Jamaica; Montego Bay, Jamaica; and Nassau in the Bahamas.

Along with the vacation Merlins will give you $150.00 each to help you enjoy yourself even more.

2nd prize—An Eight-day, Seven-night Vacation in Hawaii. You will fly non-stop from St. Louis to Hawaii in wide -bodied comfort aboard a DC-10 jet.

You will enjoy the white sand beaches, Hula girls and tropical climate while staying at the Ala Moana Hotel.

Along with this, Merlins will give each contestant $100.00 to make their stay in Hawaii the most pleasant time of their lives.

★Both vacations will take place over spring break.

Who else but Merlins would, or could do something like this!

★Remember there is no admission to the disco on Sun., Mon., Tues., Wed.

Sailing Club ranked 14th

The Southern Illinois Collegiate Sailing Club (SICSC) was ranked 14 of the 31 schools participating in the Midwest Collegiate Sailing Association, in Fall, 1975.

Andrew Karl, Dec. '75 graduate in Biology, was individually ranked as 27 of 57.

For spring the SICSC plans to attend 4 or 5 regattas as well as hosting the Second Annual Spring Intercollegiate Regatta here in early March.

Bill Wright, club commodore, said that along with intercollegiate racing the club holds interclub races, a weekend canoe trip every spring, a carnival and trains newcomers to the sport in the techniques of safe sailing.

The club has land on Crab Orchard Lake where they store the seven 14-foot boats that they own.

"Although we do alot of racing the main function of the club is to provide pleasure sailing and a chance to get away from SIU for awhile," Wright said.

"Club members are all SIU students and faculty and we train members in basic sailing and can provide a lot of help in racing tactics," he said.

Club membership is open to SIU students and faculty with meetings held every Thursday in Lawson 131 at 9 p.m.

Swim meet set

All SIU students interested in entering the intramural swimming and diving meet must have their entry forms turned in by 5 p.m. Friday. The meet is scheduled to be held at 2 p.m., Saturday in Pulliam Pool.

All SIU students may obtain the entry forms in either the Office of Recreation and Intramurals (Arena Room 128) or the Women's Intramural Office (Davies Gym 305).

The men's competition will be team and individual, while the women's competition will be individual and relay teams.

Elite gymnasts home Friday

By Jerry Tucker
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The women's elite gymnastics team will host Southwest Missouri State at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Arena.

Now 4-0 this season, the elite team will attempt to extend its dual meet winning streak to 31 before traveling to Champaign Saturday to face the University of Illinois.

The SWMS gymnasts are led by Cheryl Diamond, an outstanding all-around performer. Diamond has won the individual title the last two times the teams have met in Carbondale, SIU Coach Herb Vogel said.

The Salukis are led by sophomore Denise Didier, but lately their winning formula has been balance.

In their most recent match, the four all-around performers were within two points of each other, ranging from Pat Hanlon's 33.8 total to Didier's winning 35.5.

The other two regulars, Linda Nelson and Dianne Grayson, each won an event against Indiana State, and Grayson won the all-around against the University of Colorado.

Bowlers enter classic

The SIU Bowling Club will compete against as many as 20 teams this Saturday and Sunday, as it travels to Bloomington, Ind. for the Hoosier Classic, sponsored by the University of Indiana.

Eastern Illinois, Illinois State, Purdue, Vincennes, Ball State and the Salukis will be the top competition in the tournament, team member Dave Parker said.

SIU will send two men's teams and one women's team to Bloomington.

Mike Calabrese led the Kegglers with a 659 series, which was good for third place in the overall standings.

The Bowling Club finances itself in competition. No money comes from the University.

SIU has its first home dual meet in the Student Center against Vincennes University at 1 p.m. on Feb. 21.

The Saluki will host a tournament on March 5-7. 22 teams will compete in the event.

One trophy will be awarded to the bowler of the highest game, and one each for highest series and highest double series.

The Salukis hope to do as well as they did in the Panther Classic at Eastern Illinois last weekend, Phil Baratta, club president said.

Cubs note deficit

CHICAGO (A)—Although attendance and income showed some increase in 1975, a constant rise in operational costs created a deficit of $154,783 after taxes, the Chicago Cubs reported Thursday.

The audited results of the Chicago National League ball club were given to stockholders of the corporation in Wilmington, Del., by President Philip K. Wrigley.

The report showed:

Baseball operations direct income—receipts from home and road games, $2,915,529; net income of concession department, $526,918; total direct income, $3,442,447.

Baseball operations direct expense, $5,511,638—less from direct baseball operations, $2,109,191; receipts from other sources, net of related expense and corporate income taxes, $1,954,408.

Operating result deficit—$154,783.

The Cubs also announced these farm system clubs for 1976: Wichita, class AAA; Midland, Tex., AA; Pompano Beach, Fla., A; and Brandon, Fla., rookie.

Terrier cagers out to crack losing skid in weekend tilts

By Jeff Schwartz
Student Writer

The last time the Carbondale High School basketball team set off to end a losing skid, the results were six consecutive wins, a tournament crown and a state ranking.

If the Terriers, who have dropped their last two games, rebound this weekend, the results will be some revenge and an upset of the South Seven Conference leaders.

"This is a very important weekend for Terrier basketball," first year head Coach Doug Woolard said.

Woolard's hot and cold team takes a 9-7 record (1-5 in conference) against the Mt. Vernon Rams Friday night and Herrin Saturday.

Earlier this season CCHS was paced by Mt. Vernon.

"We hit them on a night where they did one heck of a job," admits Coach Woolard.

The final score found the Rams on top 112-85.

The Herrin Tigers are presently perched atop the South Seven with an unblemished 8-0 record. Coach Jeff Ferguson's club is 11-3 overall, but Herrin lost to West Frankfort in the finals of the Pyramid Tournament Saturday night.

"Herrin is beatable," said Woolard. He pointed out that Carbondale almost triumphed over the Tigers in their only meeting earlier this season. The Tigers squeaked out a 75-70 win in the final 14 seconds of that contest.

Carbondale dropped the next three games after the narrow loss to Herrin. But the Terriers then swept the next four en route to the Carbondale Holiday Tournament title and a state ranking.

"We haven't played well of late and we're hoping to put things back together," Woolard said. "Both games are at home."

weekend's action. But 6-foot-4 Gordie Welch is a probable starter. Welch was leading the conference in scoring averaging over 20 points a game.

Last Tuesday, Carbondale opened the Benton Invitational, with a 65-59 victory over the host Rangers. The Terriers were scorched by Alton 78 to 57 in their next game. The eventual champs shot 75 per cent from the field.

Carbondale continued down the losing trail Saturday night as Benton beat the Terriers 68-57 in the third place class.

Carbondale still has eight conference contests scheduled.

Ski Light...?

LAST RESORT — Suddenly every crowd has a silver lining. Local ski area operators are trembling in their high-back boots over the latest fad in women's skiwear — one thin coat of silver body paint and off to the slopes. It's called "Silverwear."

S. Aluki, silver-tongued spokesperson for Saluki & Company (see advertisement below) claims "It's the ultimate in one-piece suits. Silverwear is this year's sleek, chic streak."

Ken Queasy, 77, puts it another way. "I'd sure like to polish her silverwear."

We call this unique full-color print Piece of Resistance, and you'll call it a conversation piece as our high-shining heroine bares her silver soul to the world. This specialty commissioned print is life size (5 vertical feet by 22 inches wide). And for black-light (trama) conditions, are perfect. This one-of-a-kind collector's item is printed in a limited quantity, so we urge you to order today.

Includes valid one-year guarantee of Piece of Resistance at $4.95 each. Includes free shipping and handling in a special padded tube. My check or money order please. No cash & company line. Bank: [unclear].

Winning at all costs--it's getting out of hand

By Mark Kazlowski

Daily Egyptian Sports Editor

Winning isn't everything—it's the only thing—Vince Lombardi.

A pair of edicts were handed down within the last week aimed at eliminating violence and abuse of officials at basketball games on the local level and statewide.

Locally, the Office of Recreation and Intramurals drew up, and the Intramural Student Board approved unanimously, a policy statement "with respect to abusing behavior and unsportsmanlike conduct." The one-page set of guidelines which is being given to all intramural managers is an amendment to the Intramural Handbook.

On the state level, Illinois High School Association (IHSA) Executive Secretary Harry Fitzhugh addressed pleas to high school principals and to the press.

In the letter to the principals, Fitzhugh wrote, "Please let this letter serve notice that any school, any of whose official representatives, faculty members, students, and/or fans who are found in violation of Association bylaws in the area of ethics of competition, sportsmanship, and/or misbehavior at contests, may be immediately suspended in that activity...and may be severely penalized by the board of directors."

In a similar letter to the press but without the warning, Fitzhugh wrote, "The expanding trend of violence, complete and total lack of respect for authority and the increasing demands to win at all costs is undermining our whole statewide program.

"If it does not come to a halt, and if all of us who work with and have responsibility to our young people do not attempt to re-educate ourselves, our students, their parents and the taxpayers of our state according to the principle of fair play, observance of the rules, and respect for the dignity of others, our programs may be destroyed."

Meanwhile, back in the Office of Recreation and Intramurals, Coordinator Larry Schaake said, "More disciplinary actions were needed than were in the handbook. We felt we needed to beef up the disciplinary actions."

Al Lery, a graduate assistant in the office, said the intramural directive is aimed mainly at cutting "verbal abuse" aimed at intramural officials by the participants because "most fights start with verbal abuse."

The intramural plan does not set a definite amount of time a player can be suspended but rather leaves the initial decision on suspension up to Schaake. Schaake's decision may be appealed to the Assistant Dean of Student Life for Campus Recreation Bill Bleyer or to the Men's Intramural Student Board.

A player removed from an intramural game or reported by an intramural sports official or graduate assistant for unsportsmanlike conduct must petition the office prior to continued participation in a phase of the intramural program.

In addition, any manager or player striking an opponent shall be suspended for at least two intramural games. Any manager or player striking an official shall be suspended from taking part in any phase of the intramural athletic program for a period of one year, up through and including that intramural sports season during which he was suspended.

Both Schaake and Fitzhugh cited an increase in violence as the reason for the mandates.

Schaake said during fall semester three incidents of participants fighting or participants striking an official were reported.

"Prior to last year, there were some spot instances, but we never had three in one year, let alone three in one semester," Schaake said.

Two of the individuals will be tried for assault of an intramural official during a flag football game.

Fitzhugh did not mention any high schools by name, but rather by region.

Incidents in Northern Illinois included a coach taking his team off the floor before halftime and refusing to continue the game because the coach said the play was getting out of hand.

In Southern Illinois, fans from two schools attending the game came out of the stands before its conclusion and became involved in a fracas that forced the game to be called by the referees before its natural conclusion.

In Central Illinois, the father of a player on the losing team entered the referee's dressing room after the game and punched an official in the face.

Fitzhugh admitted in the draft editorial that such incidents of player misconduct and poor sportsmanship by the spectators are not new. But, he adds, "The frequency and intensity of such immature acts appears to be on the rise."

In neither case does it appear that the warnings will have much immediate effect on stopping the abuse.

Already four intramural basketball players have been suspended pending petition to the intramural office.

The IHSA has long had rules holding the home team responsible for crowd control but few teams have been suspended because of violence. Chicago Heights Marion was the last team to be suspended from competition in basketball. That was four years ago.

An official at the IHSA office in Bloomington said Fitzhugh was "drawing attention to the rules to the principals." He said Fitzhugh was "concerned about laxity by school administrators and players."

He added that Fitzhugh was warning the schools that breaking the rules now might result in "more than a slap on the wrist."

When winning at all costs becomes too expensive, then sports administrators will see some results.

Saluki women cagers lose 'foul' one, 77-72

Plagued by late game foul trouble, the SIU women's basketball team lost its third straight contest to Grandview College, 77-72, in Davies Gymnasium Wednesday night.

Four of SIU's leading rebounders, Jan Winkler, Bonnie Foley, Jeri Hoffmann, and Kathy Vondrasek fouled out in the last seven minutes of the second half. The absence of rebounders left the Salukis vulnerable on the boards.

The loss of Winkler's was even more damaging, since she was the leading scorer with 17 points. She left the game with Grandview ahead 74-67 and only two Saluki starters on the floor.

Both teams finished the night with a shooting 43 per cent from the field. SIU had four players in double figures.

Along with Winkler's 17, Foley scored 12, Sue Schaeffer made 14 and Hoffmann had 10. Foley was also SIU's top rebounder with 13 and Winkler was second with 9.

Midway through the first half, Grandview captured an eight point lead at 28-20 in an effort to run off a sizeable margin.

Four baskets later, SIU drew even at 28-28, on the basis of two scoring tallies each by Winkler and guard Pam Berryhill. Winkler had a chance to take a halftime lead for SIU, but missed two free throws.

Winkler's freethrows came on the heels of the most controversial play of the night. Stealing a Grandview pass, Winkler had an open lane for an easy layup. On her way up, a Granview player grabbed Winkler's shirt, spun her around and to the ground.

Before the half ended SIU had three more charity chances to achieve a lead. However Vondrasek missed two tries and Foley couldn't cash in her free throw either.

In the second half Grandview declared the corner area as its own and made several jumpers from that friendly territory to obtain a 44-36 lead.

Excellent floor shooting by Schaeffer and Hoffmann enabled SIU to stay within reach. Twice the Salukis drew within three points, but the victory fell out of reach as the taller SIU rebounders fouled out and were replaced with enthusiastic, but shorter teammates.

This weekend SIU will battle Michigan State and Central Michigan in Mt. Pleasant, Mich.
