German teacher named ombudsman

By Bill Layne
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Ingrid Gadway, terminated instructor of foreign languages at SIU, has been selected as the new university ombudsman.

"The appointment has been made, and I anticipate approval by the board (Board of Trustees) at the July meeting," Dean of Students Bruce Swinburne said Thursday.

The ombudsman position has been vacant since April 1 when Kristina Haedrich resigned to take a position in California. Quarter-time graduate assistants have been handling the duties of the office since April.

Gadway said she received a letter from Swinburne Thursday informing her of the appointment.

"I'm very happy and pleased that I was selected, and I'll do my best in the job," Gadway said.

Gadway, 31, and a native of Germany, came to the U.S. in 1964 as a Fulbright exchange student. Before coming to SIU in 1970, she studied and taught at Memphis State University and Tulane University.

Gadway is one of six former defendants in the class-action suit brought by SIU to determine financial exigency as a basis for the terminations of 104 faculty members. The suit was recently dropped by the university.

Gadway previously had been selected by the University Senate Ombuds-Advisory Panel to fill the spot as interim ombudsman until July. The panel later decided no interim ombudsman would be hired because the post's proper job classification was undetermined, according to Arnold Barton, chairman of the panel.

In August 1973, Gadway filed a salary discrimination complaint with the Illinois Fair Employment Practices Commission. Gadway said a conciliation conference is scheduled Wednesday.

The decision was made recently to classify the position of ombudsman as an administrative assistant. The position was formerly a civil service appointment.

Swinburne said the salary of Gadway will be comparable to the salary of the previous ombudsman.

Gadway was chosen from a list of the three top persons recommended by the Ombuds Advisory Panel. The top three were selected from a field of 43 applicants.

Gadway's appointment begins July 1, and she plans to go through the files the first week or so and then she said she wants to "get in there and see what I can do."

Governor, House hold hike keys

By Jeff Jouett
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Raises for SIU student workers and employes are provided in a Senate-passed appropriation bill for the University, but it faces two more hurdles in Springfield before it could become law.

Assessing the situation Thursday, Chief of Board Staff James Brown said the more serious of the two hurdles would come in the governor's office, once the House approves the appropriation amount.

The Senate voted Wednesday to authorize $106 million for SIU, $2,176,500 more than did the House. The Senate bill now must go back to the House for its action.

"I don't really anticipate the House making any changes," Brown said Thursday.

"But I have a strong sense that the governor may well veto the additional money if he finds it unworkable."

State Rep. Ralph Dunn (R-Du Quoin) and Rep. James Holloway (D-Sparta) agreed the increased appropriation would meet little opposition in the House and predicted action on the increase "tomorrow (Friday) or Monday."

The House originally passed $103.3 million for SIU in 1974-75 by a 142-5 margin. This appropriation provided for a five per cent salary increase and was $3.6 million more than Gov. Dan Walker had recommended.

"We were not entirely satisfied with that," explained Dale Knight, SIU vice president for administration and campus treasurer.

"The Senate responded with an additional three per cent for salary increases," he continued.

National news media follow crowds of women to see male go-go dancers

By Mary Tupper
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Peppermint Lounge in Carbondale is the only bar in the country to boast male go-go dancers, and Thursday night several members of national television crews were on hand to record the happening.

CBS, TVN (Television News Incorporated), Carbondale Cable 7, the SIU Design Department and members of UPI were all in attendance.

Bob Weiss, director of advertising for the lounge, said the go-go guys were hired after several girls demanded equal time to balance the performance of go-go girls.

"A lot of girls kiddingly said to us why don't you have go-go guys, so we decided to try it for one night and offer it for ladies only and it was a super-success," Weiss said. "We knew we really had something."

"The women in attendance Thursday night seemed to be enjoying themselves. Weiss said, "The chicks that come down here know that it's like a big pajama party. They know they can just let it all hang out and be themselves. They don't have to worry about fending off the men or worry about their appearance, they can just has a good time."

Bonnie Watts, a senior in special education, said of the go-go guys, "It's really a lot of fun, they are super funny. It's nice just to be here with the girls for a while, but it's nice at 10 when they let the guys back in for the night."

The lounge devotes the hours of 8 to 10 p.m. on Thursdays to the male dancers and admits no men as patrons during that time.

The audience was not made up solely of college students. One middle-aged woman said, "Listen, my youngest child is 23 and I love it down here. Never in my life have I had a place I could go to and leave my husband at home trusting me. I hope they continue this."

The lounge has had problems in barring men during the two hour period. Wayne Lee, a junior majoring in zoology came Thursday night because he felt it wasn't fair to bar men. He said the door attendants tried to stop his entry but they had to let him in because of the lounge's Class A liquor license. The Class A license is for public bars and since the lounge is a public bar everyone of age must be admitted.

Another man donned women's apparel and a wig and a bra and hammed it up. Said he, "They can have these go-go guys dancing and only girls can see them, girls can get in with no problem when the go-go girls are dancing. It's not fair."

"The guy dancers do much better than the girl dancers and have a much better crowd. I like it, I just wish they would let guys in."

The male dancers dance for 20 minutes and then rest. During one of Mike Mintun's rest periods, he said, "I was one of the first dancers the lounge ever had. I would have never done it if they hadn't promised that only girls would be here."

Mintun said, "I was real nervous tonight because of all those film people. In fact, this is probably the most nervous I have ever been dancing."

Steve Micheff, another dancer said he was also nervous because of the publicity. He said, "Last spring I parachuted for the first time and I wasn't as nervous then as I was tonight."

The film crews didn't seem to bother the ladies who gave up a night of fresh breezes to attend the affair. The temperature in the lounge must have been at least 100 degrees and at one point the dancers were barraged with nickels, dimes and quarters thrown by the appreciative ladies.

One of the girls present said she felt that the film crews were inhibiting the audience. She said, "Everybody is acting like a lady tonight, I can't believe it."

Student workers' raises face two hurdles

Brown said he had requested Sens. Sam Vadalabene (D-Edwardsville) and Kenneth Buzbee (D-Carbondale) to sponsor the increase bill in the senate. The senate approved the appropriation 56-0, Brown said.

The Senate earmarked $500,000 of the proposed increase for student workers whose salaries were raised when new minimum wage laws went into effect May 1, Brown said. The money, if approved, would also help cover further minimum wage increases scheduled for Jan. 1, 1975, he added.

"The appropriation would clearly give us the additional capacity to withstand minimum wage impact," Knight confirmed. "More significant will be the adjustment of other salaries in response to the increased minimum wage."

The addition by the Senate would provide for a total eight percent hike in the amount available for salaries at SIU in 1974-75. Knight said the increase would have to be spent for salaries, but could include new hirings as well as raises.

When the minimum wage was raised, Knight said, salaries of higher paid SIU employees were "relatively compressed." "You have to consider if you're being fair to these others," Knight explained.

"There is no question about the need here," Knight said. "The question is the feasibility of the increase within the state."

Rep. Holloway said Thursday "It is my understanding that the amounts and percentages of increases have been worked out with the governor."

"I believe the governor does support and will sign the bill," he said.

Dunn said, "The governor may cut the increase back off, but I don't think so."

The increased appropriation may have been intended as a test for Walker," Dunn said.

Brown explained that Walker can "item veto," or reduce item appropriations within a bill, without vetoing the entire appropriation.

"The governor is pretty much in control. He has to release the money even after it's been appropriated," Brown continued.

Rate hikes announced by CIPS

Central Illinois Public Service Co. raised its rates five per cent on electric service and 4.8 per cent on natural gas Thursday.

The Illinois Commerce Commission approved the interim increase of $6.3 million in electric and $1.7 million in natural gas rates annually, Wednesday.

CIPS has requested the commission to approve a permanent increase of about 9.4 per cent in electric rates and 8 per cent in natural gas. If approved, the new rates would increase SIU's yearly bill by an estimated $120,000, John Huffman, SIU legal counsel, said.

For individual homes, the interim increase will add about $1 to a $20 monthly bill for electric service and about 96 cents to a $20 natural gas bill, according to Samuel Poe, CIPS information director.

The SIU legal counsel intervened in the commission hearings to try to prevent the increase. He argued that CIPS did not show sufficient evidence that it was in an emergency situation demanding an interim rate increase.

The counsel took the position that the last rate increase should be enough to hold them for awhile, Huffman said.

CIPS raised its electric rate almost 12 per cent and its gas rate almost 10 per cent last March.

CIPS requested the latest increase to help finance a bond sale needed to pay for construction costs, Poe said. The utility plans to spend $500 million on construction in the next four years.

About 75 per cent of Carbondale is served by CIPS.

Gasser promoted to associate dean

By Bill Layne
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Helen Gasser, assistant to the dean of student services, has been named associate dean and Director of Special Programs.

"We're upgrading her position. She will have new duties and new assignments," Dean of Student Services Terence Buck said Thursday. Buck added that she will have overall responsibility for development, evaluation and management of the specialized student services programs and additional responsibilities for women's programs. Gasser is scheduled to assume her new duties July 1. Dean of Students Bruce Swinburne said he anticipated the approval of her appointment at the July Board of Trustees meeting.

Buck said Gasser's appointment results from a restructuring of the existing organization in student services, and the office is not adding any new staff members as a result of Gasser's appointment. Buck said there will be a reassignment of duties to existing staff in the student services office.

Gasser has been in student services at SIU since 1969, and is currently working on her doctoral degree in higher education administration.

Gasser said she is looking forward to working with the good staff over in specialized student services.

Nixon looking ahead

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon dove into preparations for his Moscow summit meeting after assuring congressional leaders Thursday he made no secret deals in the Middle East.

At a two-hour meeting in his first full day back in Washington since the 10-day trip, the President also sought to quell any congressional uneasiness about the U.S. promise to provide Egypt with a nuclear power plant.

Proposed zoning ordinance criticized by tenant union

By Charlotte Jones
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The proposed Carbondale zoning ordinance would force many students to live in substandard housing and limit their housing options. Forrest Lightle of the SIU Student Tenant Union said at a public hearing Monday night.

Lightle urged the Carbondale City Council to further investigate the housing situation before approving the ordinance. The proposal would prohibit further cooperatives (where more than two unrelated persons share a dwelling) in a northwest section of Carbondale.

Lightle cited a post office survey showing a 2 per cent vacancy rate in Carbondale. He charged that such a low vacancy rate would favor landlords.

Don Monty, assistant city planner, said the vacancy rate was nearer to 4 per cent.

Dennis Sullivan, student body president, said he thought a major problem was that residents in the northwest section simply didn't want students living there.

"The problem is not that students live in the area but that housing codes are not enforced, Sullivan said.

Councilman Hans Fischer said students living in a predominantly single family neighborhood has a definite impact which the residents there have a right to be protected from.

The ordinance does not prohibit students from living in the area, Fischer said. It merely restricts the number. Fischer said students lead different life styles which often create a disturbance to family communities.

The area in question which the zoning map shows as a single family residential area is located north of Pecan Street between Michaels Street and Oakland Avenue.

The hearing on the zoning map probably will be continued to Tuesday night at 7 p.m. in the University City cafeteria to give everyone who wants a chance to testify, Mayor Neal Eckert said.

CCHS board okays request for reading skills program

The Carbondale Community High School (CCHS) Board of Education approved a request by Superintendent William Holder to develop a basic skills program to help CCHS students with reading problems.

Holder released the results of a national reading test taken by approximately 300 CCHS students. The test showed that about 100 of the students need basic reading instruction, Holder said.

Holder asked the board to authorize that the CCHS administration develop a program to assess the needs of the students, strengthen their deficiencies and give periodic evaluations. The board approved the request unanimously.

The board also approved CCHS participation in the Illinois Title I, II and III programs for the development of basic skills.

Board accepts painting bid

A low bid of $1,970 for painting 12 classrooms, four restrooms and the guidance office of Lincoln Junior High School was accepted by the Carbondale elementary school board at its meeting Thursday night.

The bid by Anchor Sales and Service, Inc., 205 W. Willow, Carbondale, was the lowest of four bids received by the district.

The board also approved specifications for the renovation of boys' and girls' dressing and shower rooms at the junior high.

The specifications call for the repainting and restyling of the facilities, at an estimated cost of $10,500. The board will advertise for bids next week, and the bids are to be opened at the July 18 board meeting.

A total of $6,572.55 was approved to be spent on library and mathematics materials in conjunction with federally funded programs.

Board President Charles Hinderman said there would be a need to hold a regular board meeting the first week in July. The board members agreed to have the next meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday, July 2.

Fairness rather than expediency

To the Daily Egyptian:

It is interesting that a political opponent of the President has stated the issue and remedy most precisely. Senator Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, the Senate Majority Whip, has criticized the President many times, but has also said, “I submit...that in the highly charged atmosphere that now exists throughout the country, nothing is more important to the Nation than the exercise of sober judgment. Nothing is more dangerous than capitulation to mass emotionalism, which takes so little to deteriorate into mass hysteria.

“But, if the President were to resign due to such pressures as are now engulfing the country, and, by so doing, terminate the impeachment inquiry now underway in the House, a significant portion of our citizens would feel that the President had been driven from office by his political enemies. The question of guilt or innocence would remain polarized — more so than it is today. And confidence in government would remain unrestored.

“Future generations would hesitate to use the constitutional mechanism of impeachment if they saw that it had such an impact on us that a wave of public outcry drove a President out of office rather than allowing the mechanism to run its proper course.”

He says, also, that his is a defense of our constitutional system. President Nixon has used the same argument many times. He has spoken at press conferences in defense of himself, but has always asked whether he is constitutionally right or wrong. It is foolish for us to think that our opinions are going to dictate what is to transpire. The officials we have elected are well versed in the constitution and are conducting their business as the constitution has shown. Therefore, let them carry out their job, and let public opinion consider first the issue of fairness rather than expediency.

Can't escape it

The Attorney General for the State of Georgia has ruled that the convicts in the state's prison system must pay sales tax on their purchases at prison stores.

While it is sometimes possible to escape from prison, even the President cannot escape taxes.

It seems to us the Georgia ruling on taxpaying in the pen proves that paying your debt to the state is one field in which double jeopardy is not only constitutional but, occasionally, is required. —Dallas Morning News.

Good grief, we struck oil!

By Arthur Hoppe

All the major oil companies have now reported almost doubling their profits during the first quarter of this year. And now all the major oil companies are busy explaining why.

Actually, the explanation is quite simple: It's all due to the greedy Arabs increasing the price of the crude oil they sold to our oil companies for refining into gasoline.

As everybody knows, when the price of the raw materials you buy skyrockets, your profits are going to soar whether you like it or not.

Of course, our oil companies weren't buying any oil from the fiendish Arabs during the first quarter of this year due to The Oil Embargo.

But, as everybody knows, when the price of the raw materials you don't buy skyrockets, your profits are going to soar whether you like it or not.

The reason for this is widows and orphans.

Bird watching?

To the Daily Egyptian:

Recently, Lecturer B.C. (Be Creative) Grosowsky of the Design Dept. gave his students the assignment of listing 100 uses for the Playtex bra.

I am not in his class, but was intrigued when I heard of it from a student worker in my office. My reaction was “what would I put on a list like that?” The first use I thought of was: two small bird's nests.

Then, thinks I to myself, “why did I think “small”?” “Birds are many different sizes!”

For reasons known only to myself, I chose the size, 34B and researched Encyclopedia Britannica for the small bird which would, most likely, feel at home in a size 34B.

After careful study and consideration, I have come to the educated opinion—and I think that you will agree with me—that the small bird which would feel most at home in a size 34B would be none other than the twittering turquoise tufted titmouse! (Right, Bird Watchers! RIGHT!!)

Now, let's see, only 99 more uses to think of.....

B. Mayhew
Civil Service Worker
SIU-Carbondale

You see, the oil companies, faced with this terrible Oil Embargo, were forced to go to the Government for relief.

“We simply can't go on not paying these fantastic prices for the Arab oil we're not buying,” said the oil companies, “and keep our corporate heads above water.”

“Good heavens,” said the Government, “What can we do for you in your hour of need?”

“We want you to let us raise the price of the gasoline we are not refining from this oil we are not buying,” said the oil companies, “in order to meet the increased costs we are not paying.”

“That makes sense,” said the Government. “But won't that increase your profits?”

“We hope not,” said the oil companies. “But if it does, we will put all that money into drilling our own oil wells. What's more, we'll charge ourselves fantastic prices for our own oil. That'll show those blackmailing Arabs a thing or three.”

“Go to it,” said the Government. “And God bless your patriotism.”

So the oil companies regretfully almost doubled their profits. And the first thing they did, of course, was to almost double the dividends they paid their stockholders—like from 90 cents to $1.72 a share.

“Wait a minute,” said the Government. “We thought you were going to put all that money into drilling for oil!”

“You are forgetting,” said the oil companies, “that all our stockholders are widows and orphans. Stockholders are harder to find than oil. In fact, we fear this country may be running out of widows and orphans. Would you deprive a poor widow of a lousy $1.72?”

“We're ashamed of ourselves,” said the Government. “God bless your humanitarianism.”

So as you drive up to the gas station to pay your 60 cents a gallon, think of our patriotic, humanitarian oil companies, which are out there, even now, spending millions of dollars to explore for and develop new widows and orphans.

For the oil companies aren't out of the woods yet. Disaster may hit at any moment. They may strike oil!

If so, they'll have no choice but to place an embargo on selling it to themselves. Otherwise, they couldn't go on not paying fantastic prices for the oil they're not buying.

And then where would our widows and orphans be?

Synthesized sights, sounds show set for Student Center

By Dave Stearns
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer.

An evening of video synthesized entertainment—coupled with its audio sister the moog synthesizer—will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the third floor video lounge of the Student Center.

Presented by the SGAC Video Tape Club and University Galleries, the program will show a different use of video tape—not in the "informational" function utilized on prime time television, but exploring the various ways light and color can be manipulated. "Electronic light theater" is the term Ernest Graubner, assistant curator of the University Galleries, applies to this alternative use of video tape and television.

"A lot of people don't know that this type of television and video tape exists," Graubner explained. "One of the differences between video tape and film is that film is 'cast' light. Video is emitted light. Electronic music composers have scored these tapes which makes them a double experience."

Graubner said the two basic types of images found in this form of video manipulation are organic—images found in everyday life that can be distorted and enhanced by various video distortion techniques; synthetic—new images created by the video synthesizer.

"By using the quantizer, or colorizer, you can intermix basic colors giving any color value you want to any image," he said. "It's magic, it really is. When you process and change color orientation, it's expressionistic—you're able to express yourself with color as much as a painter."

Among the tapes to be presented Friday night are "Processions" with visuals by David Dowe and sound by Jerry Hunt. "This piece uses two dancers, and the general tone is that of 'entrapment,'" Graubner said. "Art can be a service to us in that it creates a generality to which we can apply our specific cases. This is what the tape does."

"Pt. Lobos State Reserve" by William Guin and Warner Jepsen gives a sensory experience via television concerning nature. It doesn't say "this is a tree" but tries to make you feel the tree. And the creators colorized the hell out of it."

Several other tapes will be shown, and the program is free of charge. "Just bring your minds," Graubner said.

Musical rarity set in Shryock-- a concert of duo piano pieces

By Dave Stearns
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A program of modern, seldom heard duo piano music will be presented by assistant professor Mary Jane Grizzell and Esther House at 8 p.m. Friday in Shryock Auditorium.

"Everything on the program has been copyrighted in the past 40 years," Grizzell explained. "And much of the music is literature I bought in various music stores around Europe. And the main purpose of this concert is so people can become acquainted with this music."

Although there are a few American piano pieces on the program, such as Dello Joio's "Aria and Toccata" and Rorem's "Sclienne," most of the music originated in Copenhagen, Vienna and Sweden and is of a relatively conservative nature.

"I tried to get some music in Czechoslovakia, but there was such a language barrier, I just had to give it up," Grizzell said.

Such a duo piano concert gives the performance-oriented pianist the rare opportunity for ensemble work, since the piano is most often a solo instrument.

"How much chance does a pianist have for concerto or chamber music work?" Grizzell questioned, referring to the usual solo capacity of the piano. "Duo piano performing offers the challenge to fit the interrelated parts of a composition together with another pianist. Everything has to be worked out together—it gives a feeling of cooperation, of enjoying music with somebody else."

Duo piano concerts occur with relative rarity in the professional world, which Grizzell attributes to the fact that such concerts require much rehearsal time. "It's hard for two people to get together long enough to establish a rapport with each other," she said. "Esther and I have been playing together—off and on—for five years or so."

The performance, free of charge and open to the public, consists of Holler's Sonate No. 1, Delius' "Fantastic Dance," and Berkeley's "Nocturne," Bormioli's "Gitana," Jacobsen's "Bellman-Fantasia" and Khachatourian's "Drei Stucke."

Army accepting back pay claims

By Bill Layne
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Payments to former military personnel—including reserve members on active duty during the three-month period in 1972—must be supported by claims which will be paid 30 to 45 days after receipt.

Ex-Army personnel qualifying for the back pay are the only former GIs who have to submit a claim. Personnel from other branches of the service who qualify will be automatically contacted, said a spokesman for the Army Finance Center at Fort Benjamin Harrison in Indiana.

The pay increase had been approved in December, 1972, but President Nixon did not sign the additional funding proposal until June 8, 1974. A federal court ordered the pay raises be made retroactive.

The Army spokesman did not know the exact amount of the raise, but said it was between five and seven per cent.

He added it will be two or three months before qualified claimants get the back pay.

For example, a former service member whose pay grade was E-4 will receive $69.30 per month before taxes, according to the spokesman.

The spokesman said claims should include a copy of DD Form 214 (separation papers), current mailing address, date separated, duty station during October-December, 1972, in addition to a letter indicating the request for the back pay.

All claims should be addressed to U.S. Army, Finance Support Agency, Attn: Dept. 70, Claims Division, Indianapolis, Ind., 46249.

Stevenson blasts oil profit use

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson, D-Ill., said Thursday he is asking the Justice Department and the Federal Trade Commission to investigate Mobil Oil Co.'s plans to acquire a corporation which includes Montgomery Ward Co.

"It raises very serious antitrust questions," Stevenson told a news conference.

He said the only justification for high oil prices would be if the revenue were being used for exploration and development.

"Obviously, the revenues produced by high profits are far in excess of anything the industry can put into exploration and development," Stevenson said.

He noted that Gulf Oil Co. sought to invest $100 million in the Barnum and Bailey Circus and that Mobil is giving all its employees a one-month pay bonus.

Marcor Corp., the company Mobil plans to acquire, includes Wards and Container Corp.

On another matter, Stevenson said he has raised about $400,000 for his reelection campaign and hopes to raise $1 million.

He said he has limited individual contributions to $3,000 and will accept no cash contributions over $25.

Asked if he had received any milk money, Stevenson said he was offered a contribution of $5,000 more than a year ago by American Milk Producers, Inc., and turned it down.

In October, he said a milk-producing organization brought $1,500 worth of tickets to a fund-raising dinner he held.

STC to develop health training project

By Gary Houy
Egyptian Staff Writer

The SIU School of Technical Careers (STC) has been awarded a $106,425 federal contract to develop a national model program for training of rural hospital personnel.

The program is the first of its kind funded by the federal government. If successful, it will serve as a remedy for other rural areas suffering from a lack of "allied health" professionals.

STC administrators were informed of the grant Wednesday afternoon by telegram. The Bureau of Health Resources in Washington D.C. notified them an immediate response was required, and an acceptance was promptly sent.

The basic concept of the program had been kicked around by STC for several years. Last fall, the school solicited the government for funds for a project of this sort, but was turned down. The budget was too tight.

On March 1, the school tried again in a slightly different way. "We simply wrote up a proposal and sent it in," said Terence Brown, assistant to the STC dean. "Around the first of June we gave them some additional information. Then they sent us the telegram. They only cut our original proposal by $5,000."

"Brown said the proposal was a "million-in-one shot." The contract grant was in part a result of his experience in Washington, Brown said. He had received an internship there, and was "more aware" of the spending situation of the federal government, he said.

The federal government was facing the end of the 1974 fiscal year, and there was the usual press to spend funds before they had to be turned back in to the treasury when the new fiscal year begins July 1.

The allied health program will involve "not doctors and nurses, but everything else," Brown said. Basically, the program will train people in the health technology areas.

"It's a different idea," Brown said. "Up to now, the whole area of allied health has been neglected."

Acceptance of the STC proposal by the federal government was aided by a number of people and institutions. Letters of support from these constituencies were included with the proposal sent to the bureau.

"We were named the principal unit, but it's really a downstate effort," Brown said. "Everybody is involved."

Project director will be Arden L. Pratt, dean of the STC. Associate directors will be H.R. Soderstrom, assistant dean, and Eleanor June Bushee, chairman of allied health and public services.

A full-time coordinator for the program will be hired from outside the University. Brown could not release the names other personnel pending approval by the SIU Board of Trustees.

The program will be a valuable service to Southern Illinois because it will train people here rather than forcing them to train in St. Louis or Chicago, Brown said. When students are trained in metropolitan hospitals, they are instructed in more specialized areas. But rural hospitals need people with a broader base of training, he said.

The expanded health program may also make SIU more attractive to prospective students, Brown said. "This definitely paves the way for increased student opportunities," he said. "And any time you expand opportunities, you expand the base of enrollment. It's an attractive thing, to provide students with something not available anywhere else in the country."

Award of the contract to SIU was "worth even more than the money," Brown said. "It shows that the government recognized the legitimacy of the need for this type of program. And we're glad SIU was picked to develop the model for a nationwide program."

'Cha Cha' looking for voter support

CHICAGO (AP)—Jose 'Cha Cha' Jimenez, a militant street gang leader who jumped bond and disappeared for two years after the turbulent radical era of the 1960s, is back in the public eye. He's running for alderman.

"Our position now is that we have to work within the system," said Jimenez, 25, who announced his candidacy for alderman from a low-income ward on the city's North Side.

Jimenez, who during his reign as leader of the Young Lords street gang said, "Revolution is the only alternative," now has changed his thinking.

"Everybody in this country has to work within the system," he said. "On welfare, you're in the system. When you pay a jail bond, you're in the system."

In the late 1960s, Jimenez definitely was not in the system.

He led his Puerto Rican—or "Latino"—gang in a fight against urban renewal, protesting against the destruction of impoverished neighborhoods to make room for middle- and upper-income high-rise apartment buildings.

The Lords lent their name to other city gangs, including a chapter in New York. They wore purple berets, disrupted community meetings, took over a church and joined with other radical groups in marches and protest actions. By August 1970, the gang was splintered by factions and soon disappeared.

Jimenez jumped bond on a one-year misdemeanor conviction stemming from a demonstration and disappeared for 27 months. He surrendered in 1973 to serve eight months in jail.

Jimenez now says the 1969 Lords were "angry and infantile. . . they isolated themselves from the people. . . There was a lot of rhetoric and not any organizing done. . . We were into a basic defeatist attitude—saying things like 'off the pig.' Our object now is to win and survive."

Political observers, however, doubt that Jimenez can upset the regular Democratic organization. The Lords now number about 30 persons and only Jimenez and one other person remain from the old gang.

"We feel change is going to take social education—re-education. And it's going to take a long time," he said. "We hope it doesn't come to revolution. . . Only time will tell."

Did You Know

By Jim Simpson

A major new trend in golf in coming years apparently will be shorter smaller courses. A recent survey of golf course architects predicted that because of shortages of good land and rising costs of land, courses will become shorter and more compact. New courses are placing greater emphasis on accuracy and finesse in shotmaking.

Did you know that a boxer who once held the high heavyweight championship of the world was actually completely blind in one eye? Well he was able to win consistently. He was John Henry Lewis who was a champion in the 1930's. Despite being blind in one eye, Lewis was knocked out only once in his 103 professional bouts.

New theatre offers 'I Do, I Do,' Friday

The Market Street Dinner Theatre in Marion will premiere its latest production, "I Do, I Do" Friday at 8:30 p.m.

"I Do, I Do," is a two-character musical about marriage and will be performed at the theatre each Friday and Saturday evening through July 13.

Starring in "I Do, I Do" will be Cindy Rose and Tom Shepard. Cindy Rose has appeared for five seasons in the SIU Summer Music Theatre, and has been with the Margorie Lawrence Opera Theatre for three years.

Thomas Shepard, an SIU graduate assistant will play opposite Rose. Shepard has also been with the Lawrence Opera Theatre for the past three years and recently appeared in the SIU Calipre Stage production of "Stop the World, I Want to Get Off."

The theatre's $10 ticket price includes a buffet meal, which allows a choice of entrees, nonalcoholic beverage, salad and dessert. Cocktails are also served during the meal and intermission. Dinner call is 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. and curtain is at 8:30.

According to Robert Gottlieb, manager of the theatre, 750 new dinner theatres have opened up around the country in the past year.

Stables director waiting for vet's report on horses

James McVicker a Herrin veterinarian who examined the horses at the Touch of Nature stables last Wednesday, said he will mail a report on the condition of the horses Friday. He refused comment on what the report will contain.

Jack Leggett, director at Touch of Nature, refused comment on what McVicker said after examining the horses until he receives an official report from the veterinarian.

Construction of a water line to provide city water for the horses was completed last week. The horses had been drinking pond water.

Auditions planned on children's play

The Southern Players are holding auditions for a new children's play from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday and 3 to 5 p.m. Wednesday in the Laboratory Theater of the Communications Building.

Anyone interested may audition—prepared material and experience is not necessary. The title of the play has not yet been announced, but its performance dates are set for July 16, 17, 23, 24, 30, 31 and Aug. 6 and 7.

Illinois files suit against company

The State of Illinois has filed suit in Cook County Circuit Court to recover $5,125,000 in insurance premium payments from the Northeastern Insurance Co. of New York.

Included in the suit filed June 11, is a section calling for Northeastern to pay the medical bills of Harlan Mendenhall, SIU journalism instructor and other state employees whose bills the company has refused to pay.

The state is seeking the refund from Northeastern because more than $5 million in premium payments were received by the company than it paid out in claims.

Elroy Sandquist, of the Chicago law firm of Peterson, Ross, Reil Barber and Seidel, will represent the state in the suit, according to Tim Reardon, legal counsel for the Illinois Department of Personnel. Illinois Attorney General William Scott has appointed Sandquist as a special assistant while he is working on the case Reardon said.

"During our last production, "LUV," we found that our audiences were diverse; of all age groups and from all areas of Southern Illinois. The audiences in general responded openly, enjoying a dinner and a live theatre experience in a congenial atmosphere," Gottlieb said.

City to provide hauling service for cleanup week

The Carbondale street department will hold a cleanup week next Monday through Friday. Bill Boyd, public works director, said Thursday.

The clean up is a chance for people to get rid of old refrigerators, stoves, furniture and other bulky items, he said. Leaves and grass must be in containers.

Pick up points and dates are: Monday: area north of East Main and east of the railroad tracks; Tuesday: area south of West Main and west of South Oakland; Wednesday: area south of West Main, east of South Oakland and west of the railroad tracks;

Thursday: area north of West Main and west of railroad tracks; Friday: area south of East Main and east of the railroad tracks.

The pickup service is for all Carbondale residents within the city limits.

Spring cleanup week, usually scheduled in March, was postponed this year because of gas allotment shortages, Boyd said.

Hand's twitch halts surgery on 'dead man'

ATLANTA (AP)—A 33-year-old victim of a motorcycle accident clung to life Thursday after he had been pronounced dead and arrangements had been made to remove his kidneys for transplanting.

Edward W. Sanders of the nearby Riverdale community was injured late Sunday when he was thrown from his motorcycle.

Surgeons preparing to remove his kidneys discovered that he was alive when they saw his hand twitch.

A spokesman at Grady Memorial Hospital in Atlanta declined to say who declared the victim dead.

"At the specific request of the family, we can make no further statements," the spokesman said.

A friend of the family who asked not to be named said it was not clear who originated the transplant request.

Grady Hospital maintains a kidney bank, which is coordinated with recipients throughout the nation.

Police said Sanders, riding his motorcycle, jumped a rise on a trail and his vehicle struck a buried gas pipe, and he was flung from the motorcycle.

The family had been notified that he had died and was preparing to make funeral arrangements when it was discovered that he was alive.

Walker reports finances for fourth straight year

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Gov. Daniel Walker reported Thursday he earned $54,555 in 1973 and paid $12,421 in federal, state and local taxes.

It was the fourth straight year Walker has made public his assets, liabilities, net worth, income and taxes. He began the practice when he announced his candidacy for governor in 1970 and continued it after winning election in 1972.

"Complete financial disclosure is a policy that makes public officials accountable to the people. We need a law requiring this kind of complete disclosure. But until we get that law passed, officials at every level should be disclosing voluntarily," Walker said.

"What people care about is whether public officials are lining their own pockets, profiting from the offices they have been elected to," he said.

SIU student to represent U.S. in world meet

SIU Senior Clint VanRoekel is currently the country's number two seeded collegiate land navigator and in a few weeks he'll be taking on the best in the world.

Land navigation, or orienteering as the sport is known to insiders involves going from one point in the wilderness to another, usually miles away, with nothing but a compass and a topographical map for guidance and direction.

The math education major from Cobden is this country's No. 2 land navigator and will be going to Sweden this month to represent the U.S. Orienteering Federation in the First annual World University Orienteering Championships.

Participating in the championships will be collegians from 15 to 20 countries, mostly European, but also including Canada and the U.S. The championship competition will be conducted in Kristianstad, Sweden, June 30-July 6.

VanRoekel, selected by the Federation to represent the U.S., has finished second in national advanced competition twice in recent years.

The world championships will consist of three, five to seven kilometer courses with seven to nine checkpoints along each course. The competitor compiling the lowest total time over the three courses will be the champion.

Following the world competition, VanRoekel will enter the five-day Swedish O-Ringen Orienteering Meet, considered the most prestigious of land navigation events. Last year more than 10,000 entrants from all over the world entered the O-Ringen.

I M softball, tennis, racquetball dates set

SIU students, faculty and staff are eligible to participate. Completed rosters should be returned at the manager's meeting. Play is scheduled to begin on July 1 and continue throughout the eight-week summer quarter.

SIU students, faculty and staff desiring to participate in the summer intramural tennis and racquetball tournaments may sign up in the Office of Recreation and Intramurals, Room 128 of the SIU Arena, June 24-28.

Each event will have competition in singles, doubles and mixed doubles (male-female partners). The single elimination tournaments will be conducted July 1-12.

Injuries force Reed to end Knick career

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Knicks announced Thursday that injury-plagued center Willis Reed, most valuable player in the 1970 and 1973 National Basketball Association playoff series, will not be with the club next season.

Reed first underwent surgery in 1970 for ligament damage in his left leg. One year later, he was plagued by tendonitis in the right knee and underwent his second operation. Last December he had a third operation to remove torn cartilage on the right knee.

Reed, who will be 32 next Tuesday, has two years remaining on his contract with the Knicks. Holtzman said that Reed and the Knicks have not discussed the contract but that the big pivot man would go over the aspects of it with Larry Fleisher, executive director of the NBA Players Association.

In addition to winning the most valuable player award in the Knicks' two championship years, Reed was the

Kennedy doubts merger near

By Bert Rosenthal
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK—National Basketball Association Commissioner Walter Kennedy said Thursday that a merger with the American Basketball Association is not likely at the present time because of the continuing resistance of the NBA Players Association.

Kennedy said the NBA discussed a proposal that was negotiated between the league and the Players Association that in effect would have eliminated the option clause. The clause would have been replaced by the right of first refusal for a team giving up a player at the time his contract expires.

In other words, if a player completed his option with Team A, he would then become a free agent and have the right to bargain with another team. Team A, however, would still have the right to match the offer of Team B.

However, Kennedy said that the proposal was rejected by the owners. He said that no vote actually was taken on the issue because, "it was apparent...that the agreement was not acceptable to the owners."

Kennedy said the owners had made several other recommendations to Larry Fleisher, executive director of the NBA Players Association, but he did not disclose what they were.

Kennedy said that before an accommodation with the ABA could be made, "the Players Association would have to be satisfied because they are an interested party."

He said that the Players Association had been informed of the action taken at Thursday's Board of Governors meeting regarding the option clause.

He reiterated that it is possible for a merger or accommodation to take place next season but, "from a practical standpoint, it is unlikely. Without the Players Association approval, there is no merger or consolidation."

Fleisher called the action of the owners, "absurd, terrible, shocking."

Floyd's record 65 heads field in American Classic

By Bob Green
AP Golf Writer

AKRON, Ohio—Ray Floyd, flashing the form that once made him the most promising player in the game, fashioned a record-breaking five-under-par 65 and swept into the first round lead Thursday in the $170,000 American Golf Classic.

Floyd, on the comeback after five years of non-productive efforts, broke the course record by two shots when he toured the front nine on the famed 7,180-yard, par 35-35-70 Firestone Country Club course in 29 strokes.

That staked him to a one-shot advantage over little Buddy Alin, who birdied two of his last three holes for a 66 in the hot, muggy weather. The skinny, 133-pound redhead is shooting for a third title this season.

WRA softball action underway

The Women's Recreation Association has started softball play and will be holding practices from 6-7:30 p.m., Tuesday through Thursday on the Wham fields.

The teams are open to all undergraduate and graduate students and will involve competition with teams from the Southern Illinois area. For more information contact Betty Swint at the Women's Gym or by phone at 453-2631.

He said "This was not a proposal. It was a settlement. The agreement had been settled at the direction of a federal court judge Robert Carter of the Southern District of New York.

Meanwhile, the owners tabled until later Thursday their discussion of a possible successor to Kennedy. On Wednesday, they had met for nine hours without choosing between the two candidates for the job of commissioner—Alan Rothenberg and Henry Steinman.

Women's golf finals today

FREEPORT, Ill. (AP)—Four-time champion Shirley Dommers and Cathy Sharpenter, an Evanston gymnastics teacher, advanced Thursday to the final round of the Illinois Women's State Amateur Golf Tournament.

Mrs. Sharpenter, 31, whose best finish in the state championship was a second in 1971, eliminated Judy Tozer, 18, of Flossmoor, a University of Arizona sophomore, by a 5 and 3 score.

Mrs. Dommers, 47, of Belvidere, titlist in 1957, 1961, 1968 and 1969, defeated Sally Wessels, 37, of Mount Morris by a 2 and 1 count.

Mrs. Dommers and Mrs. Sharpenter will meet Friday in a 36-hole championship match over the 6,360-yard layout at the Freeport County Club.

Mrs. Sharpenter, who eliminated defending champion Lois Draflke of LaGrange in Wednesday's quarterfinal action, was three under for the front nine and won five of the first seven holes en route to an easy victory.
