Seems like summer

Warm weather brought on a wave of spring fever Friday as students spent their afternoon outdoors in half-hearted attempts at studying or in simply enjoying little things such as Monica Moffet, 18, a freshman from East Alton, is demonstrating. (Photos by John Lopinot)

Simeone disagrees with election charges

By Darrell Aberin
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

William E. Simeone, president of the Provisional University Senate, Friday said he did not agree that members of the U-Senate had decided electives prior to the first meeting.

Simeone was responding to comments made by Ralph Bedwell, Carbondale faculty representative to the U-Senate.

Bedwell has charged U-Senate members with forming "coalitions" and creating "mutual distrust" by meeting in caucuses and deciding who would be elected as presiding officers.

Simeone said he was aware of meetings with the U-Senate representatives prior to the organizational meeting last Monday, but he said he did not attend any such meeting.

He said he was told that he would be nominated for president and he assumed other candidates would be nominated. Simeone said he did not know which representatives would actually nominate him.

"There are a number of different views among the membership of the Senate and I expect each member will air his views in Senate meetings," Simeone said.

"I am pleased that Mr. Bedwell will work to make the Senate effective and I'm sure every member will join in this effort," he added.

Simeone said he had no idea if the U-Senate would discuss Bedwell's charges. "That will depend on what he and other representatives will do," Simeone said.

"I feel that the Senate is a completely open forum that will listen to all views available," Simeone said. "I am confident that any decisions made by the Senate will be for the welfare of the University," he added.

Murray Mann, an undergraduate representative to the U-Senate, said that he attended a meeting with other student representatives for several reasons.

Mann said the representatives wanted to meet each other and find out what they felt on agenda matters, including possible candidates for U-Senate offices.

Mann said that such meetings are a part of the democracy in which the U-Senate works. "We're trying to promote democracy in the Senate, not hinder it," Mann said.

"The purpose of the meetings are not to get block votes," Mann said. "but rather we want to help each other and find out how we feel on certain issues."

"We are all individuals and we don't intend to always vote in a block," Mann said.

"The undergraduates don't want any factionalism in the Senate. We want to be fair and make this Senate work," Mann said.

He added that other constituencies also held meetings before the first U-Senate meeting probably for similar purposes.

Chancellor Robert G. Loyer said he had "no comment" on Bedwell's charges.

IBHE informed

Phase III hearings to draw 30 witnesses

By Pat Silha
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

More than 30 names, ranging from SIU students to state legislators, are on a list of those scheduled to testify Tuesday at the public hearing in Carbondale on the initial draft of Master Plan Phase III, a development plan for higher education in Illinois developed by the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE).

The list was sent by SIU Chancellor Robert G. Loyer to the Chicago IBHE office Friday. Only two other persons, who are not included on the list, have requested permission to testify, according to Dick Collister, administrative assistant to James B. Holderman, executive director of the IBHE.

Some of those scheduled to testify include Loyer, State Senator John G. Gilbert, State Representative Gale Williams, Arden Pratt, dean-elect of VTI, John Olmsted, dean of the SIU graduate school, six academic chairmen from both the Carbondale and VTI campuses, representatives of undergraduate and graduate student organizations and community and industrial representatives.

Loyer said that SIU would not take an institutional position on the document Tuesday, but would use the hearing as input for a future statement along with tape recordings of the seven earlier hearings that have been held throughout the state.

The University Administrative Council will consider all of the hearings, testimony and and prepare an institutional statement which will probably be presented at the April meeting of the Board of Trustees for endorsement and forwarding to the IBHE, Loyer said.

Loyer cited the proposed transfer of VTI to John A. Logan College as being "probably the main topic" of the testimony. Master Plan III proposes the transfer, which is to be made by fall of 1972, in order to eliminate overlap of courses and to conform with the state master plan of offering vocational educational programs at community colleges.

Services in Nigeria

Young memorial Saturday

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—Black and white friends of Whitney M. Young, African and American, will speak at a memorial service here Saturday.

Then the body of the civil rights leader will be flown to the United States Sunday in a plane dispatched by President Nixon.

Young, the 49-year-old executive director of the National Urban League, died while swimming at an ocean beach here Thursday afternoon, apparently after suffering a heart attack.

An autopsy was performed Friday but the results were not made public.

An Air Force plane is scheduled to arrive Saturday carrying Young's sister Mrs. Arnetta Boswell; Charles Hamilton and Sterling Tucker of the Urban League; Beverly Carter, under secretary of state for African affairs; Robert Brown, special assistant to President Nixon; and Brig. Gen. Daniel James, the highest ranking black in the Air Force.

Young was here with a number of prominent Americans attending a series of African-American dialogues under the auspices of the New York-based African-American Institute.

Bayard Rustin, executive director of the A. Philip Randolph Institute and a close friend of Young, told a news conference "that all people of their religious affiliation or nationality" were invited to attend the memorial ceremony in the Christ Church Anglican Cathedral.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson, an associate of the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., will deliver the main eulogy.

Rustin said that Young had described Jackson as "my spiritual leader" shortly before his death.

Addressing reporters, Jackson said Young was "the sole interpreter of the little man to the business community, fully realizing that every problem has an economic root."

Jackson praised Young for "his capacity to keep his ears open to people he disagreed with."

Review Panel on Viet Center does not agree with critics

Douglas M. Allen, SIU instructor of philosophy, Friday said that the Review Panel which investigated the Center for Vietnamese Studies, has failed to "empathize" with the major criticisms of the center.

"I am willing to assume that the men on the Review Panel did approach their task in a sincere, honest and serious manner when making the report," he said. "This makes the situation all the more tragic, because center critics when reading the panel's report, have not felt that such sincere and serious men were able to empathize with any of the major criticisms of the Vietnamese Studies Center."

Allen presented a statement of his position on the panel at a Carbondale Faculty Council meeting this week.

Allen asked the council to try to appoint "at least a few people to the panel who could empathize with criticisms in any controversial issue."

This is the only way, he said, "to decrease the sense of mistrust, polarization and unrest and deal with the center's issues in a creative and constructive manner."

Blaser says agency did more under him

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — William L. Blaser, whose confirmation to lead the Environmental Protection Agency was blocked this week, said Friday the body has done more against polluters in his two months as acting director than in eight under his predecessor.

Blaser, 47, was rejected when Republicans sought to bring his nomination to the Senate floor for confirmation.

The appointment is stalled in the executive committee.

In a talk with newsmen, Blaser conceded it was a tactical error to tell the committee he had "zero experience" in the field of environmental protection.

He said it was an offhand remark that failed to reflect a three-month study he made of the organization of the Environmental Protection Agency.

Blaser passed out a chart showing six antipollution actions proposed by the agency before the pollution control board in his two months as acting director.

In the eight-month tenure of Clarence W. Klassen, his predecessor.

Glee Club to start tour

By University News Services

The opening performance of the 1971 tour by SIU's Male Glee Club will be at Centralia March 21, followed by appearances in eight other Southern Illinois communities, according to Robert Kingsberry, conductor.

The Centralia concert will be given on Sunday evening in the First Christian Church.

Other performances include March 22—Nashville High School.

the chart showed four pollution actions that were settled in favor of the agency.

Blaser said it was not necessary for the director of the agency to be a lawyer to get more favorable settlements. A good manager can get lawyers free to pursue more cases, he said.

Viet Center AID grant is rewritten

Ralph W. Ruffner, systems vice president, said Friday that the Agency for International Development (AID) grant which funds the Center for Vietnamese Studies is being rewritten to reflect the objectives stated in the grant restatement.

AID officials approved the restatement, which emphasizes the center's academic character and separates the center from technical assistance during AID-SIU negotiations this week in Washington, D.C.

Ruffner said the rewritten grant would be completed in about a week.

Phase III would split campuses, transfer VTI

Master Plan III also designates the SIU campuses at Carbondale and Edwardsville as two of the six University Centers at which the state would concentrate its doctoral level graduate development.

It would also establish enrollment ceilings at both the graduate and undergraduate levels for all state institutions of higher education.

Cellister said Heiderman, IBHE members Merrell Yontz and Mrs. Augusta C. Hershey and other staff members will be present for the hearing. Yontz is from Peoria and Mrs. Hershey is from Alton.

No amendments or changes have been made in Master Plan at this point, Cellister said, although it has been under review by staff members in the light of the hearings' testimony and statements sent to the IBHE.

Cellister said after the Carbondale hearing, the review of the document will continue and Holder-man will make a brief report on the

During May Cellister said, IBHE members and representatives of the educational institutions will review the plan at a two-day meeting. He said it has not yet been decided whether official action would be taken then or at the June meeting. Persons who still want to present testimony should contact the IBHE Chicago office to be given a scheduled time. Cellister said He said testimony from persons who had not been put on the schedule would be taken if time permitted.

One billion asked in ransom for bust

Five conditions—including a billion dollars in ransom—for the safe return of the bust of Horace Mann were listed in a letter to the Daily Egyptian Friday.

The bust was stolen from its perch atop a 5-foot pedestal outside Davis Auditorium last weekend.

The letter demanded that the "kidnappers" be granted immunity from prosecution and that the current market price of bronze, the details of a previous theft of the bust and the letter itself be published. It also asked $1 billion in ransom in unmarked $5, $10 and $20 bills.

The bust was stolen previously on May 15, 1969, and was returned about a month later by an unidentified young man.

The letter warned "No tricks. We do not bluff. We are watching you always."

Zutler won post; declared ineligible

In Wednesday's article Dave Zutler, a candidate for student body president, was referred to as an unsuccessful candidate for vice president of student activities.

Zutler did win the election for that post but was declared ineligible. He was 19 hours short of the academic hours needed to hold the post.

Bob Prince said he prefers to have activity fees lowered and use this amount totally for expanding the University Health Service facilities.

The statement followed the theme of his testimony before the committee that there is "no shortage of engineers but a shortage of men to manage the engineers."

The chart showed 16 enforcement actions filed before the pollution control board by the agency under Klassen and 11 filed under Blaser.

Blaser, a former Republican state executive and fund raiser, set up a representative management consulting firm to do business exclusively with the state a few days after the swearing in of Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

In one of his managerial studies, Blaser was highly critical of Klassen, an engineer who was head of the sanitary water board before it was merged into the Environmental Protection Agency.

Klassen said he was fired by Ogilvie and Blaser got the job. The Democratic-controlled executive committee refused to send the Blaser nomination to the Senate floor by a 13-9 straight party vote.

Nobel Prize winner knocks SST in Senate

Other witnesses before the Senate Appropriations Committee called the super plane a lemon, an economic albatross, and a dangerous pig-in-a-poke.

Nobel economics laureate Dr. Paul A. Samuelson said continuing the SST project will not create more new jobs, may harm rather than improve the balance of payments, and may cost the nation hundreds of millions of dollars if demand for the plane falls below hopes.

"Sober experience shows that when one does not cut one's losses early on what is essentially an uneconomic enterprise, one sinks deeper and deeper into the mire," Samuelson said in urging Congress to withhold further funds for SST development.

Meanwhile, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., predicted anti-SST forces, led by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., still have the votes in the Senate to kill President Nixon's request for further SST development subsidies.

Samuelson, now on the staff of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, contended the Anglo-French SST, the Concorde, is already in serious economic trouble and said aeronautical engineers "universally regard the Concorde as the biggest lemon ever devised."

Another witness, transportation expert Karl M. Rupenthal, suggested that the government sell its interest in the SST project to the highest bidder and let private enterprise take over.

SIU group to visit Japan to study judo

Several members of the SIU Judo Club will go to Japan this summer as part of the Asian studies program sponsored by the Department of Government.

The Judo Club members are planning to separate from the other members on the tour to study independently in Japan.

"It is a long-time wish of anyone in judo to go to Japan to study judo," according to Henry Armetta, a past president of the club. Armetta is a junior in urban development from Carbondale.

Although the tour is part of the Government Department summer program, the members of the Judo Club do not plan to concentrate in this area of study, according to Armetta.

The Judo Club members will arrange for various courses of studies in other areas with credit to be arranged later, Armetta said.

The trip will last through the summer quarter.

"Japan is the leading place in the world to study judo," Armetta said. He is a candidate for the rank of black belt in the sport.

First emergency case faced by student nurse

CARLISLE, England (AP)—Student nurse Hazel Craddock found her first big emergency was to give the kiss of life—to four piglets.

For 30 minutes the young nurse fought to save their lives when the baby pigs stopped breathing on a Cumberland farm. Three survived.

Children needing transportation are taken to the "Y" by volunteers from the Newman Center.

"Kids tell us what they'd like to do, and we plan for them," said Kitty Becker, a "Y" staff member.

As many as 60 children have attended a session which includes from four to seven activities each Saturday. Activities include such things as candle making, cooking, kite making and flying, baseball, tumbling, making paper flowers and swimming.

Some of the local merchants donate supplies for the club and people from the Newman Center raised $150. Children from all economic and racial backgrounds attend the sessions providing interesting and valuable experience for the leaders as well as the children, according to a "Y" staff member.

Different groups and organizations come to observe the children and volunteers are invited to participate.

"There is no way you can work with that group and not learn something," said Lou Schick, another "Y" staff member.

"The program speaks for itself," said Schick. "It's their leisure time. It's not like at school. If they didn't like the program, they wouldn't show."

Nashville sectional champ; beats Meridian in 3 overtimes

By Fred Weinberg
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

One could, at 9:15 Friday night, stand outside the SIU Arena, read the names on the yellow school busses going by and determine what had happened several minutes earlier by listening.

And the telltale "We're number one!" chant coming from the Nashville High School busses told the story well.

Nashville is indeed number one, champions of the Carbondale High School sectional basketball tournament by virtue of a hard fought, triple overtime 58-54 win over Meridian.

The win earned the Hornets the dubious honor of meeting number three ranked Benton Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Carbondale super-sectional in the Arena.

It took the winners three extensions of regulation time to make it into the "sweet sixteen" and in doing so, they handled the only team which has been able to beat number one ranked Thornridge all season.

The game didn't look like anything other than a Meridian rout-in-the-making during the first half as Nashville missed ten consecutive shots before Doug Michael put in a long set shot with 3:45 remaining in the first quarter.

But Meridian was unable to capitalize on that kind of ineptitude and when the Hornets did finally get on the scoreboard, they were only down by two points, 4-2.

Meridian ran up what was to be its biggest lead of the half with 43 seconds remaining in the first quarter at 10-4 but the Bobcats never lost complete control of the game although Nashville did take one point leads at several points in the half.

The Bobcats came out of the half on top, 19-18, and people were already talking in the stands of what kind of a game Meridian would give Benton Tuesday.

For a time in the third quarter, the Bobcats seemed to bear out that kind of talk, running up leads as big as nine points at 33-24 with 1:12 left in the period.

But Nashville put on a half-court press and by the 3:17 mark in the third quarter, cut the lead to two on shots by Pat Forsy, Rick Keller and Kenny Kania.

From there, it stopped being a cautious, well played game and turned into a wild, hard fought, well played basketball game with the Hornets' Bob Habbe—one of the prime engineers of Wednesday's upset over Carbondale—sending the game into its first overtime on a 25 foot jumper from the right side with a minute which knotted the count at 40 all.

Calvin Johnson saved Meridian's chances at the end of the first overtime when, with three seconds on the clock and trailing by two points, he threw up a 30-foot turnaround jumper to tie the score at 46 apiece.

Meridian did the same thing in the second overtime, changing only the faces as Daryl Ward canned a 25 footer with nine seconds left to tie the game for the seventh time and send the contest into its third extension period at 50 all.

Nashville could do little wrong in the third overtime and ran up a 56-50 lead before Meridian could get untracked and on the scoreboard.

Meridian closed to within four at 56-52 on a long jumper by Ward with 27 seconds remaining but Johnson fouled the Hornets' Keller with 18 seconds in an attempt to get the ball back and Keller iced the win by making the first free throw.

Ward came back and hit on another long outside shot with five seconds left to bring the Bobcats within three at 57-54, but he fouled Kania with three seconds to get the ball back and Kania connected on the first of his two free throws to insure the win.

"To tell you the truth," said winning coach Gene Corley, "I wasn't real happy with the way my kids played. They were sluggish out there."

"I don't know if they realized how lucky they were to win the way they played," Corley said.

How does it feel to be in the sweet sixteen?

"Real good. The kids deserved it."

Dealers knock off Rathole, 86-85, in IM cage tourney

By Jim Braun
Student writer

The Death Dealers accomplished something Thursday night in the SIU Arena that has escaped the grasp of most intramural teams.

By defeating the Rathole, 86-85, in the basketball championship, the Death Dealers inflicted only the third loss sustained by Rathole teams in six quarters of competition including football, basketball and softball.

A clutch free throw by guard Larry McCune with seven seconds remaining spelled defeat for the Rathole, as it succumbed to a successful fourth quarter surge by the Dealers.

Both teams were plagued by early foul trouble as Mitch Livingston and Ed Bell had four personal fouls apiece for the Dealers, and the Rathole's John Glasow and Rod Smith had four and three respectively before halftime.

The Dealers led throughout the first half, at times by nine points, before a 12-point Rathole spurt pushed them into a 39-36 intermission lead.

The Rathole maintained its edge in the second half until the Dealers tied it 73-all, with 4:40 remaining.

Hot shooting by Ed Daniels in the late stages gave the Dealers an 85-79 lead with only a minute left. Three quick baskets by the Rathole tied it up, 85-all, and set the stage for McCune's dramatics.

McCune and Daniels paced the winners' attack with 25 and 23 points respectively. Norman Wayman collected 21, Paul Mertz 15 and Glen Oliver had 12 tallies to lead the losers.

Entering the contest, Rathole was seeking its third consecutive intramural championship. It had captured the previous two on first-places in softball and flag football.

The Mob, paced by Jim Bolten's 27 points and Mike Stone's 20, triumphed over the Wright I Heads, 88-75, for third place honors. Steve Reaktenwalt collected 31 points for Wright.

SIU's Huff resigns; joins Hambletonian

SIU's sports information director Fred Huff, has resigned effective April 1, according to an announcement made Friday by Donald Boydston, SIU athletic director.

Huff has accepted a position as Director of Public Relations and Special Events with Hayes Fair Acres, Inc., sponsors of the world-famous Hambletonian harness race, the DuQuoin State Fair and other planned events.

"Fred Huff has done a particularly outstanding job in his 11 years at SIU," Boydston stated, "having won national awards for the excellence of his sports publications and helping tremendously in the job of gaining national recognition for our program. We wish him well in his new position with the Hayes organization."

Court order kills rule restraining pro drafts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A federal judge said Friday he has issued an order in the Spencer Haywood case invalidating the National Basketball Association's rule against signing college athletes before their class graduates.

U.S. District Court Judge Warren J. Ferguson ruled the NBA's four-year rule violated the Sherman Antitrust Act and said he will enjoin the league from enforcing it.

The ruling could have wide-spread repercussions for professional basketball and football.

Ferguson said the order, recorded in the court minutes Wednesday, grants Haywood's motion for a summary judgment against the NBA.
