IBHE to consider allocation of budget

Tuition could increase about 60 percent

By Vicki Oldskey

Staff Writer

Gov. James R. Thompson's fiscal year 1984 higher-education budget would require a 4 percent increase in tuition and tuition increases of about 56 percent, the Illinois Board of Higher Education announced Monday.

A tentative allocation plan, prepared by IBHE staff and based on Thompson's "doomsday" budget, was scheduled for consideration by the board at its next meeting April 5 in Springfield.

The proposed $1.2 billion higher education budget, which is $107.4 million below the fiscal year 1983 budget and $237.4 million below the Illinois Board of Higher Education budget would result in a 4 percent increase in tuition, Thompson said. Thompson's $1.2 billion higher education budget would draw $900 million from the general revenue fund, while the remainder would come mostly from tuition and federal aid.

A personal service reduction of $6.4 million, or 4 percent, would be required for public universities, resulting in the elimination of more than 1,000 faculty and staff positions. This, combined with the 3.6 percent reduction that has occurred during the last fiscal year, "would require enrollment limitations and in some cases cuts in academic programs," according to the IBHE staff report.

Allocation of the governor's budget could also require tuition increases of $500 a year for undergraduate students, $700 for graduate students, and $1,000 for professional students. In addition to the 10 percent increase recommended by the IBHE last January.

Tuition increases at SIU of about 10 percent, which will be fair," he said. "We have much work to do." If the governor's allocation is approved, tuition for next year at SIU could be about $1,204, an increase of $82.3 percent.

"Some public university governing boards may choose to increase tuition at higher or lower rates than the governor," the report said. "But, "low tuition increases will require further reductions in staffing and educational programs.

Part of the $70 million or 56 percent tuition increases that would otherwise be required in Illinois State Scholarship Commission Monetary Award Program funding.

Funding for that program would be increased by $2.5 million.

Ruckelshaus nominated to head EPA

WASHINGTON (AP) — William D. Ruckelshaus, fired from the Environmental Protection Agency in 1973, became his old boss last week when President Nixon from the tangle of Watergate, was chosen by byeside, appointed Ruckelshaus to help unravel the political mess at the Environmental Protection Agency.

President Reagan announced Ruckelshaus' nomination as EPA administrator at an impromptu White House conference where he defended his administration's record on the environment, "just as the, "and added, "If we have any problems, let's solve them." Ruckelshaus said he had been named a "free rider" and was trying to solve the worst crisis in the history of the agency that had, he said, been going on for 12 years.

His first priority, Ruckelshaus, said, will be to "get on with this enormously complicated job of air and water and protecting our citizens against toxic substances." Ruckelshaus said he had been named a "free rider" and was trying to solve the worst crisis in the history of the agency that had, he said, been going on for 12 years.

His first priority, Ruckelshaus, said, will be to "get on with this enormously complicated job of air and water and protecting our citizens against toxic substances." Ruckelshaus said he had been named a "free rider" and was trying to solve the worst crisis in the history of the agency that had, he said, been going on for 12 years.

Ruckelshaus denied that he had anything to do with the EPA's, "free rider" status. "It is not our job to solve these problems," he said, "we are simply there to help." After the dust settles and the EPA emerges, "I will have to work with the people in the agency to bring this crisis under control," he said.

Reagan said he had been chosen for the job because of his experience in environmental issues. "He is the man for the job," Reagan said.

Majority Leader Howard H. Baker, Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd said Ruckelshaus was "likely to be confirmed."

"He is a man of integrity," Baker said.

Ruckelshaus said Reagan had asked him to take the job last week. He said he did not accept until he had discussed the offer "at some length with my wife" and until he discussed with Reagan and his top aides "their commitment to the environment."
SIU-C to host four candidates for computing affairs director

The search for a director of computing affairs has been narrowed to four candidates, all of whom are scheduled to visit campus in the next few weeks. James J. Lennon, director of planning and information systems at the Community College of Baltimore, has been scheduled to visit SIU-C from Wednesday to Friday.

Robert L. Jones, associate director for technical computing at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, is scheduled to visit next Sunday through Tuesday.

Leo Y. Min, director of computing facilities at the University of Michigan-Flint, is scheduled to visit March 30 to April 1.

E. Leon Daniel, director of data processing and the computing center at SIU-Evansville, is scheduled to visit April 3 to April 5.

Harold Richard has been acting director of computing affairs since Arthur S. Glater resigned last fall. Glater's resignation came after he was sentenced to a year in prison and five years of probation.

The candidates will meet with Richard and other computing personnel, President Albert Somit and other members of the Academic Computing Search Committee. Each candidate will also attend an open session to meet with faculty and staff. The session is scheduled for 1:30 to 3 p.m. Thursday in the Missoula Room of the Student Center. Jones is scheduled to meet with faculty and staff from 1:30 to 3 p.m. April 4 in Morris Library Auditorium.

Lennon, who has been at Baltimore City since 1980, has also been director of data processing at Michigan State University for 2½ years. He holds a master's degree in computer science from George Washington University.

Jones, who holds a master's degree from Virginia Tech since 1980, has also been a data center director for the state universities family.

Min, who holds a Ph.D. from Stanford University, has been director of computing facilities at Michigan-Flint since 1980. He has also served as director of institutional research at Gallaudet College.

Daniel, who holds a master's degree from Texas A & M University, has been at SIU-Evansville since 1979. He has also served as executive director of the Pullman Kellogg Corp. in Houston.

above fiscal year 1983 appropriations, but would still be $44.4 million below the IHBE recommendation. More than 27,000 students would be denied aid.

The SSC would have to consider increasing contributions required from students and their families or stop processing applications early in the academic year, the IHBE report said.

"The short-fall in student assistance will deny access completely to some students and deny others the opportunity to select the program or institution that best meets their needs," IHBE Executive Director Richard Wagner said in a prepared statement.

No funding for salary or general cost increases is included in the governor's ten-year staffing and faculty increases approved after fiscal year 1983 is included. The IHBE recommendation includes salary increases of 8 percent.

The allocation does not include funding for high priority academic programs such as engineering, computer science and technology programs.

The IHBE recommended budget includes funding of about $2.5 million for such projects.

The governor's budget also would require a $100 million from the Universities Income Fund to be allocated to the Department of Labor to help finance unemployment benefits.

SIU would lose $280,000 from its universities income fund of $51.7 million for fiscal year 1984.

Spring storms blamed for 3 deaths

By the Associated Press

Spring opened its act Monday with a heavyweight Midwestern snowstorm, freak floods that drove hundreds of people from their homes, and a shower of hailing rains and dancing tornadoes.

At least three people were killed and several were injured in the violent weather, including a Purdue University student who died in an accident involving two snowmobiles and a sled in West Lafayette, Ind.

Report shows economic recovery

WASHINGTON (AP) -- The economy likely will notch 4 percent growth in the first quarter, but a second wave of two years and compelling evidence recovery is well under way, a government report showed Monday.

President Reagan cited the news as a promise of a "long and strong" rebound from the worst recession since World War II.

Other administration officials were equally optimistic.

But private economists were far more cautious about the prospects for a robust and durable upturn that would put millions Americans back to work.

State to sue waste-disposal firms

CHICAGO (AP) -- The world's largest hazardous waste-disposal company, in an effort to protect a $4 million contract, schemed to conceal the illegal dumping of 460,000 gallons of waste laden with a deadly chemical in Illinois, the state's attorney general said Monday.

The corporation, Waste Management Inc., of suburban Oak Brook, "knew they did not have a permit to bring in PCBs (dichlorobenzidine), but to please a customer with whom they had a supply contract, they transported the PCBs with disposed of them in Illinois," said Neil F. Hartigan in announcing a state suit against four firms allegedly involved in the activity.

Ralph Wayman, 68, died in the fire from smoke inhalation. Suffering from arthritis in his feet, Wayman was unable to flee his apartment above Murph's Place, where flames were first sighted.

Although Ellis has not been charged with murder, Jackson County State's Attorney John Clements indicated that, pending further investigation, additional charges could be added.

According to court records, Ellis had been charged with arson in the fire before, both times for fires in Murphsboro business and apartment complex Jan. 17.

The indictment, handed down by a federal grand jury in East St. Louis, included charges of maliciously damaging and destroying "the building by means of fire," citing Murph's Place, 12 N. 11th St., as the origin of the fire.

GPSC office nominations to be taken

By Phillip Floret Staff Writer

Nominations for the offices of president and vice president of the Graduate and Professional Student Council will be taken at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Mississippi Room of the Student Center.

The election is scheduled for April 6 at the regular meeting of the GPSC. President Ann Greeley and Vice President Dan Venturi said Monday that each will seek another term.

Greeley said anyone interested in running for office can pick up a copy of the election bylaws in the GPSC office on the third floor of the Student Center. The Election Commission will post a list of eligible voters March 30, seven days prior to the election, as required by the bylaws.

The GPSC will also consider a resolution authorizing its president to investigate the recent cancellations of a University bus approved the third draft of a transportation policy for University-sponsored events.

In other business, the commission approved a resolution which brings up several concerns regarding the proposed University sexual harassment policy. The Faculty Senate approved the third draft of a proposed policy at its March meeting.

The GPSC resolution says, "The policy must further clarify the following:"

- Is filing an informal complaint prerequisite to filing a formal complaint?
- Do parties have the right of appeal or are appeals discretionary? How will the appeal process function?

The resolution also says, "The policy should cover a broad range of relationships and should not be limited to student-teacher relationships.

The policy should cover complaints involving off-campus as well as on-campus harassment, the resolution states.

Greeley said many of the major changes included in the resolution seemed to be consistent with the changes made by the Faculty Senate and the Administrative and Professional Council.

The GPSC will also discuss a resolution requesting that the Graduate Council reverse its rejection on a requirement that doctoral candidates for the Dissertation Research Award, be admitted to candidacy before the award begins.

The Graduate Council at its meeting in March passed a resolution to implement this requirement by a vote of 13 to 10 with two abstentions.

In other business, a resolution will be considered that would proclaim the first week in October as Illinois Education For All Week.

The resolution says the purpose of this week is to inform state legislators. Gov. James Thompson, U.S. representatives and senators and President Ronald Reagan that the GPSC wishes education to be the top priority in budgetary allocations.
Life and death in this insane asylum

THE QUESTION of a nuclear freeze is much like the questions "Do you want to be rich?" or "Do you want an A in this course?" Of course, the same individual on the face of the planet wants a nuclear freeze, before yet another nuclear holocaust.

But the question goes beyond sanity. The estimated 14,000 strategic nuclear weapons owned by the Soviet Union and the United States and thousands more in Europe is a monument to the insanity that makes up this asylum called Earth. And while we are trapped in this place of madness, we must work within the system to end it all.

THOSE WHO FAVOR the proposed nuclear freeze which is currently being shufled by politicians and saddled with unrelated riders through the House are not irrational radicals living in a dream world. They come from our concerned neighbors and friends. They represent grassroots politics at its best. Nine of ten states have supported nuclear freeze proposals. Three of the four American presidents have lacked it. The freeze has been supported by some 100 national and international organizations and one recent poll showed that 71 percent of those surveyed favored a nuclear freeze. This is admirable indeed. It shows that Americans are not the fanatics that they are sometimes portrayed as. They do care, realistic and dogged in their pursuit of life and liberty for generations to come.

But those who are against the proposed nuclear freeze are not necessarily warmongers but hell-bent on destruction as they have been so often depicted. They are the ones who have become convinced that the wording of the proposed freeze as it is written - "immediate, mutual and verifiable." of the Carter administration and Carter's former national security advisor, Zbigniew Brzezinski.

And while some charge that the anti-freeze position is essentially a cause for the Communists, who, according to some, have used this freeze to express the people of Eastern Europe and Bradford has lashed it. Who'd give El Salvador funds?

It seems the current government of El Salvador deserves little credit for bringing the war to a close. It is not surprising then who in the U.S. government sees fit to give El Salvador millions of dollars in military aid.

Thomas Enders is a name that often appears in connection with the State Department and Cambodia. Enders also played a role in the secret Cambodian bombings of the Vietnam era. In 1973, chief of missions at the U.S. embassy in Phnom Penh, Enders became head of a confidential panel directing B-52 bombings of Cambodia's Plain of Jars. According to Air Force reports these saturation-type missions had little effect on Khmer Rouge troops but inflicted heavy casualties in the villages built on the Plain.

Enders now is assistant secretary of state for Latin American affairs. This isn't working because the parallelisms between Vietnam and the current situation in Central America have been illustrated in many ways. Considering that El Salvador isn't becoming, attention given to Enders and his department's action in that country's civil war should increase.

Last week President Reagan proposed sending an additional 6,000 American military advisers to El Salvador. Already over $200 million has been pumped into El Salvador's armed forces since 1979. These forces are responsible for the political murders of more than 37,000 civilians during the last three years. U.S. tax dollars are supporting murderous tactics. This aid must end and negotiations between the revolutionary forces and the government are in the beginning stage. We of the Carbondale Latin America Solidarity Committee believesimak's letter to Enders will serve as an open appeal to voters. Let your representatives know you do not support aid. In this week's Newsweek cover story points out letters written to Washington are having an effect. - Eric Bahn, Junior, English, and signed by 11 others.

Religious not only group being persecuted in Iran

In response to the article in the Daily Egyptian, May 31, covering the Iranian protest, we feel it was necessary to explain and correct the reporter's assumptions.

First, the protesters were calling for a firm policy of not only national and religious minorities, but also the entire population groups in the society including women, workers, intellectuals and the student body. The persecution goes beyond religious or political background. Second, the war was not brought about by the government, but between two revolutionary regimes, as stated in the DE. It is also not the case that the regime in power is reactionary. The new Iranian regime is popular and both are using the war to serve their own political interests. As a result, people on both sides are paying the price.

No line system will be fair to all, so take what tickets you can get

"Peter Novicki (DE March 8) wants to talk about unfair. Just consider the whole system. If you have line card number 3 out of 100, you can get the line card holder is allowed to tickets and most times he isn't, windows selling tickets. So even if you have line card number 2 up to 100 tickets could already be sold. Is that fair? People have classes as 9 a.m. in the morning and want to more important than running in line to buy a line card ticket? Mr. Novicki seems selfish in the thought that tickets will be a ticket. Regulate a flow of people and curb. It seems to be reasonable to me, income be limited to a time period. camping out for what ever seats are left. The new system also allows more students to participate.

Novicki wants fair there should be one line and a ticket limit of two. Most fans are not lucky and they get the tickets they want at the last minute. Novicki is so die-hard he'll find a way to get good seats or at least get better seats. He'll have his favorite band from any seat. A die-hard would be.

Temporary tax increase is fine

This is in response to the letter by Mary Finley, entitled "Proud Americans Aren't Blinded," in the March 8 DE.

I lived for two years in Great Britain and have traveled extensively in Europe. During my years abroad I became acutely aware of the freedom of thought and expression that are not in existence in the United States. Americans have got their basic freedom to express their opinions, to organize black organizations get their budgets axed faster and deeper. Nothing is stopping blacks from running for the USO, but with white students outnumbering black students at SIU-C about 20 to 1, a black candidate needs all the organizational help he can get. Do you want the Black Affairs Council and Black Students Council? Change to Affairs Council and Black Students Council. They don't purposely make an issue a black-white issue, but because the administration doesn't want to begin with the word "black" as soon as they open their books. If you don't make blacks at SIU-C come together and work to better their own positions? - Philip E. Thompson, Junior, Political Science.

She has no apologies for those with insults

In answer to Mr. David Simak's letter (DE March 8), I would like to set the issues straight. I would like to say that I did not say that this University is racist. But if Mr. Simak and his group of "fairweather fans" in Communism are not interested in learning about the hidden monster in American society called "racist," I have no apologies to make.

Like in the real world where blacks are the first fired and last hired - unemployment statistics back this fact - black organizations get their budgets axed faster and deeper. Nothing is stopping blacks from running for the USO, but with white students outnumbering black students at SIU-C about 20 to 1, a black candidate needs all the organizational help he can get.

I think most taxpayers in Illinois would not strenuously object to getting the state out of a bad situation if there was a DUNSTAN system in any new, additional taxes. The time limit would depend on the type of tax and what the expenditure would be for.

One thing that comes to mind is existing roads and bridges need repairs better. If they are not given a chance to be put in the program, think of the costs and benefits before you act.

For general government, I'm sure most taxpayers and the governor have gotten the word that it's time to improve services but they don't want an ever-expanding government. In my view, the user of some types of services should at least help pay for specific services for equity's sake. I imagine the most equitable way of taxation for general government would be an increase in the income tax for a while only and not more than 1.25 percent, which is 80 percent of the existing 1.25 percent flat rate.

The state needs to get out of the current economic corner it is in by repairing some things, because it is the right thing to do and some economic activity and property and a half needs the putting in the program. The law doesn't need much, which is 80 percent of the existing 1.25 percent flat rate.

It is my firm belief that once taxes go beyond a certain percentage of income, the law of diminishing returns is automatically triggered. Don't kill the goose that is laying the eggs. Leave some incentive for producers.

Library aims to help, not hassle

Responding to a March 8 letter to the editor, "Morris Library Hassles him," hassling is not the intent of librarians. When a student has raised the issue of privacy, a student's right to privacy, it must be handled in a respectful manner. A student member; provided a letter granting permission is furnished. This letter must be signed by both student and faculty member.

It is not the library's purpose to hoard the materials, but rather to maintain an accurate record of who has what materials. It is for this reason that materials are checked out, not brought to the library for renewal.

Marion prison chaplain finds satisfaction in work

By Patrick Williams
Staff Writer

Deward Rahm, redbeaded, with an easy smile and a gentle demeanor, doesn't exactly look like Johnny Cash, but the two men have one thing in common—they both play music inside prison walls.

Twice a month, Rahm, a graduate student in music at SUU, plays the organ during Catholic worship services at the U.S. Penitentiary at Marion.

Rahm has been assisting the Rev. Wesley Lamb, Catholic chaplain at the penitentiary, for about a year.

"The first time I went in was strange," Rahm said. He said he was passed through "like six pairs of gates."

The penitentiary is divided into a prison camp for lesser offenders and a maximum security prison. The maximum security facility replaced Alcatraz in San Francisco as the toughest prison in the federal system.

Rahm plays organ in the two services at both divisions. Relations with the prisoners and prison staff "have been very cordial," Rahm said.

Rahm said he had been playing in services at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Marion when Lamb, who is an associate there, got him interested in working at the prison.

"If I wanted to be a priest; he's the kind I'd want to be," Rahm said.

Rahm and Lamb said they both believe the only difference between the men in the penitentiary and those outside is locale.

"When I go into the prison, those guys are the same as I am," Rahm said. He said the only difference is that he can walk out again.

Lamb, a 41-year-old Minnesotan and former elementary school teacher, became involved in prison ministry as a novelist in Maryland. He was ordained in July 1981 and assigned to the penitentiary in August of that year by the church.

Lamb is employed as a chaplain for the Department of Justice's Bureau of Prisons. He began working with prisoners by visiting jails in Baltimore.

"I've been very fortunate," he said. He said he's found a "general acceptance and satisfaction" in his work.

Rahm said it is difficult for him to see how much arms from getting discouraged sometimes, since some prisoners seem to use church as a means to break the monotony of staying in their cells.

But Lamb said, "When you work with people, there's always the possibility of getting discouraged."

Lamb is circumstantial when speaking about what goes on inside the prison. He said he doesn't discuss what goes on inside the penitentiary.

Lamb said he sees no difference between the prisoners in both sections of the penitentiary.

One concern Lamb said he has is his relative inability to counsel prisoners after they leave the penitentiary, since most return to homes in other parts of the nation.

Lamb said he has no qualms about the tight security at the penitentiary, since it has not interfered with his ministry.

Rahn said he felt a bit strange getting fingerprinted three times to get FBI clearance.

Along with Rahn, Lamb is also assisted by two lay members of St. Joseph’s and a nun from Herrin.

Five other groups that also hold worship services at the penitentiary include two Muslim groups, and Jewish, Protestant and American Indian groups.

Civil rights leader to leave hospital

BALTIMORE, AP - Civil rights leader Ralph Abernathy will be released from Johns Hopkins Hospital Thursday, two months after suffering a stroke.

Abernathy, 76, was listed in good condition Monday. He is recovering from surgery that bypassed a blocked heart artery in hopes of avoiding another stroke.

Abermanthy, who led the Montgomery bus boycott and was a confidant of Martin Luther King Jr., had a heart attack in December. He also missed a scheduled interview with a Baltimore newspaper.

The death of 20-year-old Michael Brown in Ferguson, Mo., raised questions about police treatment of black people.

Abermanthy, who was a close friend of Martin Luther King Jr. and led the Montgomery bus boycott, is expected to return home to Atlanta.

Abermanthy, a former U.S. congressman from Alabama, served as director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference until the late 1970s.

Sex ed is the lesson in 'My Tutor'

By James Decker
Staff Writer

I walked into "My Tutor" expecting to dislike it. I wasn't disappointed.

The film, however, is better than most films of this type — at least this one had a plot.

The story centers around Full Crystal (Matt Lattanzi), a typical California teen who flunks a French final in high school. His dad, a confirmed Yale snob, has his heart set on sending his son to Yale, and hires a tutor, Terri Green, to help him with his French.

The tutor, played by Caren Kaye, helps Billy with just about everything but French by the time the movie is over.

The movie also has a sub-plot involving Billy and two of his friends trying to lose their virginity in any way they can. The ways they choose are relatively amusing, but the film resorts to gratuitous sex scenes instead of humor at this point.

Most of the situations in this film appear to have been chosen by the size of Mr.'s mammary glands rather than their acting ability.

The high point of the film involves a chase scene between a Vespa scooter and a Porsche Turbo. In true cheapo-movie form, the Vespa scooter (with the two people on it) outruns the Porsche.

"My Tutor" reminded me of what would happen if a group of 16-year-olds, in the middle of puberty, were given a million bucks to make a film.

The film also steals bits from several movies, including "Porky's" and "The Graduate."

For a cheap film, "My Tutor" wasn't really that horrible, if you ignore seeing boom milks and reflections of the crew in shiny cars.

The dialogue, however, needed work. Billy sported such ground lines as "oh, wow!"

"My Tutor" is more fun than "French" a few too many times to be believable.

All in all, "My Tutor" was little better than other mindless trash around, but the movies goer would be wise to avoid this film and spend the bucks on some of the better movies in town.

Streep is superb as 'Sophie'

By Phillip Villano
Student Writer

Life may end for some, but the world goes on.

This is the main message of "Sophie's Choice." told in a poignant manner.

Set in post-World War II New York, the story centers around a young Polish writer, Sophie, who meets up with Sophie, a Polish immigrant, and Nathan, her lover.

Based on the novel by William Styron, "Sophie's Choice" tells in a simple, yet disturbing way of the grasping guilt felt by Sophie for making the choice she had to make to survive Auschwitz and extermination during the war.

Meryl Streep turns in a superb performance, capturing Sophie's feelings of utter despair and desperation. And Sophie is desperate. Desperate to rid herself of her nightmarish past, of screaming prisoners, of her dead parents, husband and children. The emotions here are powerful and poignant manner.

Sophie is slowly dying inside. Her choice is one which she knows she could not escape forever.

Writer of the screenplay and director, Alan J. Pakula has used the camera well. Scenes of the concentration camp are particularly vivid. Colors there are subdued and a nightmarish effect rushes over the audience from the screen. Yet, just as all the life from Sophie is gone in these scenes, her vitality comes across during the scenes in New York.

Sophie's true being cannot be evoked in the situation she is in at the concentration camp, and the look of the scenes there seems to amplify that message.

"Sophie's Choice" accomplishes clearly what it set out to do. Although we may not be better for all the death and horror experienced in life, we must strive to learn something from these experiences, however painful the message may be.

Late commencement fee able to assure graduation march

By Sheila Washington
Staff Writer

Seniors who have not paid a commencement fee may still participate in the May ceremony with special permission from their academic deans.

Roland Keim, associate director of admissions and records, said seniors who did not pay the fee may still participate in commencement. But he said there is no guarantee that their names will appear on the roster of graduating seniors and said they may receive their diplomas late.

The procedure for participation involves the student filling out an application with Admissions and Records and paying the $10 fee upon return of the application. Keim said seniors in this year’s graduating class, the "largest senior class we’ve had in a long time," may still participate in commencement if they have the approval for exception from their academic deans.

Although he is not aware of the number of seniors who have missed the deadline, Keim said seniors should be aware of the fact that commencement does not guarantee graduation.

"Anybody can rent a cap and gown and participate in commencement. Actual graduation is confirmed when the student’s dean has confirmed that he or she has completed the necessary requirements for a diploma," Keim said. The $10 fee was required at the beginning of the school year, as in the past, because enough time must be allotted to clear the students with the University, prepare a class listing and order diplomas, he said.

"We’re fighting a printing deadline for diplomas. There shouldn’t be many problems because this has been the normal procedure for years," Keim said.

Other seniors who mailed their $10 fee have complained because it was not processed at theBurton’s office. "The application for graduation and the fee are two steps in one process. They cannot turn in the money without the application," Keim said.

The fee is processed in the office. It is not guaranteed that the names will appear on the roster of graduating seniors, Keim said.

Georgia J. Mavigliano, associate professor in the SIU C School of Art, will speak on Cadmus’ painting at 4 p.m. Tuesday in the University Museum Auditorium in Fowler Hall.

Cadmus, a painter who participated in the Federal Arts Project, did the painting some 20 years after the Lester Strip Mine disaster of June 13 and 14, 1922. The painting drew widespread criticism for its depiction of violence and the historical inaccuracies it contained.

Mavigliano has been a member of the SIU-C faculty since 1979 and the author or co-author of three books.

The discussion is free and open to the public. The Fine Arts Colloquium is co-sponsored by the School of Art, Museum and Art Galleries Association.

The dangerously low salaries for all faculty and civil service employees of our Illinois Public Universities must be raised, and raised quickly!

Higher education is essential to our state's economic future. Low salaries are a threat to the very survival of our Public Universities, as top faculty leave and other loyal employees facing economic hardship look for jobs elsewhere. As Vice Chancellor Edwin Goldwasser of the University of Illinois said recently, "We're on the brink of falling apart."

Low salaries are a threat to the survival of employees and their families. Thousands of civil service employees make less than $10,000 per year. It's becoming impossible for clerical and service employees to make ends meet.

Studies comparing university civil service salaries and state employee civil service salaries show that university employees' salaries lag 19.6% behind those of their state civil service counterparts doing equivalent work.

Since fiscal year 1972, university salary funds have increased only 86.1 percent, while the Consumer Price Index has risen 141.6 percent. Our Public University faculty and civil service employees have suffered a big loss in their real incomes.

CALL TO ACTION:
The Illinois Universities Fair Salaries Campaign is a joint effort of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) and the Illinois Federation of Teachers (IFT) Universities Council.

Our purpose is to convince the public, the Illinois General Assembly, and the Governor that a special $26 million supplemental appropriation to our Illinois Public Universities, above and beyond the amount already recommended by the Illinois Board of Higher Education, is urgently needed as a first step in our 4-year plan to close the salary gap. This appropriation would provide for a special 5 percent "catch-up" salary increase for faculty and civil service employees. Most university faculty and civil service employees have not yet received any salary increase during the current year.

Glenn Stolar takes his work with SPC, IBHE seriously

By Sheila Washington
Staff Writer

Glenn Stolar, senior in economics at SIC, says budgeting time for schoolwork, the Student Programming Council and the Illinois Board of Higher Education is a "learning experience beyond belief!"

As SIC chairman for the Center Programming Committee, Stolar is responsible for bringing local talent to the Student Center and SIC and providing other activities for student entertainment.

"We have a lot of activities here. For example, we do the College Bowl, which brings SIC students together in a knowledge battle, and we do fireworks shows for Spring Fest. We are preparing to have a picnic eating contest and to have two more entertainers come to SICU-C before the end of the semester."

"We're very diverse in what we do. I do most of the programming but volunteers put a lot of work into many of the programs. I try to get them more involved because it's not just limited to me."

Stolar was elected Saturday to the executive board of the Student Advisors Committee of the Illinois Board of Higher Education. SAC is composed of members from public, private and community universities throughout the state. It serves to inform the colleges about the activities of the IBHE.

"I represent all public universities of the state. We meet once a month and participate in many activities across the state."

Stolar's schedule for the month includes the Illinois Student Council on Wednesday and a meeting Friday with SPC at the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

Stolar maintains a tight schedule between monthly meetings, classes, books acts for professional work and to implement other programs.

"The more you get involved, the more you have to manage your time. It's demanding, but I keep me on my toes," he said.

"Stolar has been with the SPC for about two years, and so far, he said, he has enjoyed it. "I like working with SPC. We have different jobs here, but we all work together. There is so much professionalism here!"

and works to implement other programs.

Solar designer to offer energy tips

Persons desiring to make their homes more energy efficient may be interested in a free service the Shawnee Solar Project will offer Wednesday.

Beginning at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Jeff Graef, an experienced solar designer, will be available at the Project's Energy Center for consultation. Those interested in making their homes more energy efficient are asked to bring their sketches, plans and questions.

The object of the consultation program is to help local residents make cost-effective and technically sound decisions.

"Expensive mistakes are often avoided by first checking with persons experienced with solar construction. The people who take advantage of good technical assistance tend to build better and save more than the long term on their energy costs," Hugh Muldoon said.

Volunteer coordinator at the Solar Project, said.

The Solar Project's Energy Center is located at 800 S. Forest in Carbondale.

Herb Fink, artist and teacher, helps students' self-discovery

By Duane Schombert Staff Writer

In the book, "Herbert L. Fink: Graphic Artist," the author wrote that Fink possesses "a wonderful generosity of spirit, that placing of students' work alongside his own. It was a wonderful thing to find a teacher so uncompetitive with his students.

Fink is a professor of art at SIUC. The late John Gurnere, a friend and SIUC colleague of Fink, wrote the book.

According to Fink, no competition exists between his students and him because he can empathize with a struggling artist.

"When a student tries to do something, I respect that. They sweat and spend an awful lot of time trying to make it go together," he said.

Fink also feels students get through the mechanics of art. Fink said he helps them discover their potentials in art.

WHEN IT comes to the technical aspect of art, Fink is self-taught.

"I'm very knowledgeable about my business. Because of this, I can view students with an idea of working with art as a daily involvement, can offer guidelines and help them to mentally create a mindset where art can happen," he commented.

"Since I've done art so much, I may be a bit hard as a teacher because I make assumptions about the student's knowledgeability. I may slide over something in a casual fashion because I assume they know that, because it's second nature to me."

Nonetheless, several of Fink's students believe he is a good teacher and artist.

Linda Ashmont, senior with an art major, remarked, "He's a very good artist because he captures the essence of what he is trying to communicate. He knows what he's doing, and it shows in his work.

Fink is encouraged by SIUC students and the work they can accomplish. However, Fink believes people sometimes do not recognize the positive aspects of students.

"On one hand, there are characters with flat black hats and six guns who come in and shoot from their hip belt about what a party school Southern is. People don't see the other part of it, which are some very terrific kids," Fink said.

"They also don't see the number of first rate professors and the good library we have."

UNFORTUNATELY, some people have misascribed themselves in the teaching profession, which is detrimental to students, according to Fink.

"In a peculiar way the disaffected teacher becomes patronizing to the students," he said. "They get so they resent students, and the students become the enemy."

The reasons for this resentment, Fink believes, are the age difference between a student and teacher and a teacher's jealousy over a student with outstanding talent in his discipline.

FINK HAS been making a contribution to SIUC since 1963 when he became the chairman of the Art Department. After that, he was dean of the College of Communications and Fine Arts for a year.

A graduate of the Rhode Island School of Design, Fink received a master's degree in fine arts from Yale University and taught there for four years. He also served in the infantry during World War II and received three purple hearts.

Work, Fink said, has helped him cope with what he calls "a mad world."

"All you have to do is pick up the morning newspaper or listen to the evening news and you think you've lost your mind," he said. "It's madness. You Retreat into a private world of your own making, a fantasy world."

ALTHOUGH HE has worked closely with art since 1940, Fink said he continues to learn.

"As I keep working, I keep discovering things. I'm going through the same self-discovery as the kids do, but it's just on another level," he said.

Fink fears many people misconstrue the notion of being a good artist with being intelligent.

"People make the mistake," he explained, "that just because they're the key artists with his magic pencil is good, but automatically they're good at other things. Not necessarily."

Fink believes he brings recognition to the SIUC Art department by mentioning the university and he exhibits his work. "I want people all over the nation to know that something is happening at Southern," he said. "It's a way of thanking the university and it's an obligation. In a small way, it can help the Art Department."

The strength of SIUC's Art Department is found in the balance of talents the faculty possesses, according to Fink.

"Each professor has a point of view which is special," Fink said. "The Department has a diverse course offering, a student can get many valid point-of-views, which is a constructive sense of togetherness within the department."

According to Fink, with different professors, students can partake of free conceptual notions on an advanced level and put it together on his own terms," he said.

Fink has visited several art departments throughout the U.S. and said, has helped him think you've lost your mind. He has had a multi-faceted career that has been reflected well on the school of art, and the faculty, students, and university."

THE NOVELIST Gardner wrote that he and Fink shared a "common enemy — the usual two-headed enemy in university politics, stupidity and greed."

"Both John and I were much younger," Fink explained, "and we found it was a satisfying and exciting art career that has been reflected in the school of art, and the faculty, students, and university."

Fink, who believes that the library should be the library should be the administration's main concern, said he no longer wants to tilt windmills.

Parent’s newsletter to go out; will seek association members

By Jeanna Hunter

Budget cuts will delay, but not prevent, the distribution of the first newsletter from SIU-C for parents.

Instead of distributing invitations for parents being asked to become members of the proposed SIU-C Parents Association, as originally planned, invitations will be mailed in the summer, said Tom Hadley, graduate student in the Office of Student Development.

The invitations will be sent to parents of students attending SIU-C. Hadley estimated that about 14,000 to 16,000 requests would be mailed asking parents to join the Parents Association for an annual membership fee of $10.

The quarterly newsletter will be supported solely by the membership fees. The quality and size of the newsletter will depend directly upon the number of parents who join the organization, Hadley said.

Donations are being solicited from the community to get the first newsletter distributed. Donors will be acknowledged in the first issue to be sent.

The newsletter will focus on topics in which parents are perceived to be interested in. residence hall life, homework, academics and, because the Greek system is just a few of the topics that will be discussed, he said.

Campus Briefs

THE GAY AND Lesbian People’s Union will sponsor a panel discussion at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Quigley Library. The panel will discuss a covered club at or near Ray 149-471 for further information.

> THE SALUKI Flying Club will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Thibes Room of the Student Center.

> THE FIVE ARTS Colloquium will present George J. Mavigliano, professor of English at Carbondale, at 4 p.m. Tuesday in the University Center. Mavigliano will speak on his forthcoming book, "The Hemin Mannace and the Image of Art."

> MAGA, the Art Students League and the SIU Museum will be the featured groups for the "A TWO-PART program for pregnant women in the fourth to sixth month." This event will be at the Student Center on Wednesday, March 1.

> THE STUDENT Center Board is reviewing student organizational space in the Student Center. Any recognized student organization that wishes to be considered for office space in the Student Center must apply at the administrative office on the second floor of the Student Center. Applications are due by 5 p.m. Tuesday, March 14.

> A "NJUKE" exhibit will be presented from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday, March 22 and 29 at the Jackson County Health Department, 341A West Street in Murphysboro. There is a $2 registration fee and space is limited.

> "A Touch of Grace," a fashion show for the entire family, will be presented at 7 p.m. Tuesday, March 22, at the Four Points, Carbondale. The program will be presented by registered dentists and is free.

> The newsletter is the foundation for the fledgling Parents Association. Hadley said it will be an effort to tell parents what college is about and will interpret college through the students’ eyes.

> "What we’d like to do once we have a Parents Association," he said, "is let the parents have a role in planning the activities of the organization.

> The parents’ organization will attempt to arrange for not only a Parent’s Day during the fall semester, but also for perhaps a parent’s weekend during the spring.

> Hadley said that he’d like to see local chapters of the Parents’ Association develop within a few years. "But that’s down the road," he said.

> If those chapters develop, Hadley said, they will be able to obtain speakers from SIU-C.

> The Parents’ Association will encourage informal participation in campus activities by passing out discount cards for members to, for example, athletic events.

> Frequent visits from parents inhabiting the northern part of the state are often not feasible.

> Hadley estimated that the newsletter will provide a way for people to find out exactly what kinds of events parents want to know and he is trying to assess how the newsletter can help parents become more informed.

> "We have not done a good job of promoting SIU-C to the parents of SIU-C students," Hadley said. The newsletter may change that. "We hope it is permanent. It has great potential."

> If successful, the newsletter could be the beginning of tradition in a school that has not been tradition-based, Hadley said.

Cheerleaders strut stuff at competition

CHICAGO (AP) — It was heaven for those who love pleated skirts and bobby socks, letter sweaters and saddle shoes.

Seventy teams from around the nation showed their stuff over the weekend at the World International Championship Cheerleader-Jr. Pee Competition at the Conrad Hilton Hotel.

Carolyn Palmer, coach of the pep squad at Carlisle High School on Chicago's Far South Side, said the trend is for cheerleaders to see themselves more as athletes. They're graded on precision, unique stunts and their pyramids.

Military restraint supported in poll

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-nine percent of Americans would try to negotiate and 18 percent would favor doing nothing.

These findings, in a survey sponsored by the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, suggest President Reagan and his policy-makers face a long uphill climb if they intend to stake U.S. prestige and manpower on the Salvadoran struggle.

Vietnam may not be an apt comparison, but the sad U.S. experience in Southeast Asia still apparently acts as a restraint on extensions of American power overseas.

And yet, if Western Europe, Japan or Poland were threatened by Soviet invasion, Americans would be far less reluctant to send U.S. troops.
Finish of indoor season a disappointment for men

by Ken Perkins

The men's track and field team couldn't muster a point at the NCAA Indoor Championships last week. It upset coach Lew Hartzog, but it had little to do with his Saluki performances. Mile relay leadoff man Parry Duncan was disqualified for a false start, Mike Franks was tripped in the 400-yard dash and Stephen Wray fell victim to peculiar circumstances. Either way it added up. It smelled bad to Hartzog.

"I'm still upset about it," he said about the Saluki mishaps. Southern Methodist won the team title for the first time with 33 points. They were followed by Villanova, Arkansas, Indiana and Tennessee.

A lot of different NCAA standards have come and gone since last year, and Wray found that out. He was one of nine jumpers tied at 7-3 and aiming for the finals. But they decided to take only eight, and Wray was eliminated because he had more misses.

In the 400, Franks got out and led until about 110 yards to go before he was tripped when a runner tried to cut in. The runner was eliminated and so was Franks. It flipped him onto the infield and he didn't finish.

In the mile relay, Duncan shifted a leg, according to Hartzog, after the starter took a little longer than usual to fire the gun. With only one false start allowed at the nationals, the Salukis were disqualified.

"This was a misfortune," said Hartzog. "I think we would have placed well. Two of the teams, Georgia Tech and Iowa State, were in the finals. We beat them both. We would have been right there."

LonS jumper Kevin Baker leaped 24-3. But there were other stories too. Placing second in the three-team meet in Monroe, the Salukis saw Denese Blackman break the 100-meter dash in 11.97 and 200-meter dash in 23.96. Debra Davis lowered her own outdoor record in the 400 to 58.96. Nina Williams leaped 18-7 for a Saluki record in the long jump and Rhonda McCausland broke a school mark in the discus. The mile relay lowered the school mark to 3:46.18.

At the Spring Relays, McCausland putted the shot 42-0 and the 400-meter relay squad lowered the school mark to 47.24.

Records fall as tracksters open outdoors

The women's track and field team broke eight school records last week at Northeast Louisiana. Six fell in a triangular against Northeast and Grambling on Tuesday and two more were eclipsed at the NLU Spring Relays on Saturday.

Once again it was the sprints that did most of the damage. Placing second in the three-team meet in Monroe, the Salukis saw Denese Blackman break the 100-meter dash in 11.97 and 200-meter dash in 23.96. Debra Davis lowered her own outdoor record in the 400 to 58.96. Nina Williams leaped 18-7 for a Saluki record in the long jump and Rhonda McCausland broke a school mark in the discus. The mile relay lowered the school mark to 3:46.18.

At the Spring Relays, McCausland putted the shot 42-0, and the 400-meter relay squad lowered the school mark to 47.24.

not pitched very well. Between them they're allowing one earned run per inning.

"The problem is going to be with Wysocki and Caulfield," said Jones. "They should be near the top of our staff. Caulfield has had control problems, said Jones, and Wysocki hasn't been aggressive enough to win games.

The Saluki bullpen got lost somewhere between here and Florida. Marc Palmer was knocked around, but Jones wasn't all that worried.

The freshman is still making transition from overhand thrower to underhand. "We still have to keep working with Marc," said Jones.

Jones' search for a few more consistent pitchers will have to continue, but the day to day lineup appears set. Instead of searching for starters, Jones has the luxury of tinkering with a potent lineup. The Salukis are scoring more than seven runs a game.

Six players are batting better than .300, and the team has 32 doubles and nine homeruns. Jim Reboulet has four home runs on this trip than we've scored in a long time against that caliber but I'm optimistic," said Jones.

SIUC is supposed to begin a 10 game homestand this week, but bad weather will probably wipe out some of those games.

might however, and the Saluki hurlers returned to Carbondale with a staff earned run average of 4.26.

The pitching does worry me," admitted Jones. "Right now we've got three consistent pitchers in Jay Bellissimo, Jim Reboulet and (Gary) Rockhorn. All have given strong seven inning performances. Bellissimo is 2.60 with an earned run average of 1.83. Ellis leads the staff in innings, has a 2.1 record and a 4.56 ERA. Rockhorn is 1.2 but has faced the best of a outstanding lot of teams.

But Jones needs more than three consistent starters. It's ironic that his two veteran left-handers, Tom Caulfield and Dick Wysocki, who had been counted on as sure things, have in the top six like we wanted to be. I think we're capable of doing even better, and I'm looking forward to next year already."

Amanda Martin claimed All-American honors by placing 10th in the 50 breaststroke, eighth in the 100 and sixth in the 200. Although the Salukis sup posedly have no individual stars, Pam Ratcliffe could possibly create such a category after she nailed down All-American honors in four events. Ratcliffe finished 10th in the 200 individual medley, in which she was seeded 12th, ninth in the 100 breaststroke, in which she was seeded 11th, and fifth in the 50 breast, far above her number 13 seed coming into the meet.

Ratcliffe claimed fourth in the 100 IM, the highest Saluki finish in the meet. The top three finishers in that event, Florida's Tracy and Amy Caulkins and Joan Pennington of Texas, were members of the 1980 Olympic team. Tracy CaulkIn holds the collegiate record.

"I thought I'd do a little better but I'm happy with how I did," Ratcliffe said. "My prelim times were okay, but I wanted to swim faster times for finals. I didn't really expect to place higher, but I expected bigger drops in my times."

Assistant coach Mark Boerner said the Salukis swam better than any team at the meet in terms of potential.

"If you look at potential across the board, we swam closer to ours than anyone else," he said. "We swam very happy with the team effort. We made our presence known, which was reflected in the comments from other swimmers, coaches and meet officials."

I hope the girls understand how well they worked together," Boerner said. "They have a lot of pride in what they've done.
Swimmers psyched for NCAAs

by JoAnn Marchewski
Sports Editor

The diversity of talent which has been the strength of the men's swimming and diving team throughout the season must carry it to the national championships this weekend.

Last year, the Salukis finished 12th with six points. Roger Vossoumante scored 33 points on three events and relay swims, but this season, a wider range of sources should provide a high number of points. Three relay teams and six swimmers in 10 events and one diver will travel to Indianapolis. Each is capable of scoring, according to Coach Bob Steele.

"Going into the meet, we may not have the apparent scoring power as the last two years, but we do have a 12 in each event and a three relay teams which, if turned in, could score as high as we have before," said Steele. "I wouldn't put anyone out of scoring, we just have to have our minds set and be ready to go."

Being ready to go is exactly what the Salukis are, the coach added. "As far as having a good feeling before the meet, there isn't the best," he said. A combination of the excitement of competing in the national championships, swimming in the highest facility in the United States, and the desire to make all-American and final teams is making the team even more psyched than it was the National Independent Championships, where SIUC placed first and team average, the Salukis must have more psyched up.

"Here, during the season, we're a little more psyched as a team is making a good performance, while being a strong contender for the title in the meet under way," said Steele. "Sooner Stleton is the only Saluki diver to make the trip as performances at regional qualifying meet time of up to 2 minutes, according to Coach Denzy Golden.

Although advancing on the one-meter board following a psyched up performance, Salton felt a let-down the next day and missed the cut-off on the three-meter, his stronger event. The freshman made a quick adjustment to focusing on one-meter diving but has list of dives to include a higher degree of difficulty, Golden said.

"During workouts the last four days, he's been getting better each day," he said. "He's the kind of diver who can really get himself up mentally and do anything. He has a good chance of placing in finals."

Men's gymnastics

The men's gymnastics team ended its dual meet season by splitting two at Penn State. The Salukis scored 256.25, behind Penn's 266.15. With a slight boost to the team average, the Salukis went into ninth place while registering the announcement of NAU's coming.

"The leading way for SIUC was the 10 men's in all 10 rounds of high 37.60. The team scored 42.20 in the 11th and dropped the school record to 199.99, recorded by Brendan Price."

Men's tennis

Bad weather spoiled the spring trip for the men's tennis team, and spirits were a little dampened by the 1-2 record brought home, although Coach Dick LeFevre was enthusiastic about individual performances against tough players. The Salukis dropped 9-0 matches to powerhouse Florida and Auburn, but defeated Clemson's number one team.

Per Wadmark became the first Saluki to reach the Intercollegiate Tennis Association Top 100. Wadmark, 7-4 this season, is ranked No. 59 in the nation for singles and No 39 in women's softball, Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer's squad returned from a seven-game spree in Norman, Okla., with a 5-2 record and a 100 earned run average which leads the nation. Running up an early season winning streak with wins over West Texas State (21), watering (10), West Texas State (40) and Baylor (20), the Salukis ran into trouble in the Razorback Invitational, as they sandwiched 1-0 losses to Florida and Oklahoma around a 4-2 win over Baylor. First baseman Nancy McAulay led the offensive for several games being backed by the pitching staff's 8.0O ERA.

Men's golf

The men's golf team finished 9-3-0 in its spring trip, defeating Murray State 6-3, Sam Houston State 9-0, Ouachita Connor College 1-4, Tennessee-Martin 9-0 and Louisiana Tech 7-1.

NIT no consolation for cagers; place 6th after losing NCAA bid

A funny thing happened to the Salukis on the way to college basketball prominence. They got beat.

After pulling off what Coach Cindy Scott called one of the biggest victories in the program’s history against Florida in the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference’s regular-season finale, the Salukis crossed over well on its way to shedding its image as one of the nation’s most consistently bad teams. In the championship, the Salukis accounted for the teams that nailed down the NCAA’s top four seeds, with spirited top efforts from the 32-team NCAA Tournament field - and were whipped by 389.5. Texas Tech was a nemesis that years earlier was a team more than the Salukis could handle.

The Salukis scored a bunch of runs, but yielded them in bunches also, and dropped five of nine games to some of the best college basketball teams in the nation.

The Salukis had high hopes for their season, but were disappointed. The Salukis bowled off a team that had only a skeleton of a roster and was unheard of at the beginning of the year.

Sunday, Scott’s team returned from the nation’s capital after competing in the top 10 teams in the country, placing ninth at the national tournament, and were afterwards, but with Scott’s program’s well on its way to shedding its image as one of the nation’s most consistently bad teams.

Before the meet, Scott said the team’s goal was to place in the national top 10. They bettered the meet, and were placed most with those 31 teams. The Salukis managed to score 300 in the meet, which is the highest score in school history. The Salukis managed to win the meet as one of the nation’s top 10 teams.
