City proposes bigger budget

By Teri Lynn Carlock
City Writer

Carbondale officials are proposing a $5.7 million increase in the city's budget this year to offset the costs of two major construction projects.

The proposed city budget is $30.4 million as the result of two major construction projects slated for the upcoming year—a new water treatment plant and the Mill Street underpass.

The new water treatment plant will be built next to the city reservoir at a $9.7 million cost.

The Mill Street underpass project, which will cost $2.1 million, will direct traffic flow under the Illinois Central railroad tracks.

The new budget also consists of a proposed sales tax increase, a continuation of a gas tax and an increase in the hotel/motel tax.

City staff members have proposed a 0.75-percent sales tax increase that could bring an estimated $1.3 million in revenue to the city. If the sales tax increases from 6.25 to 7 percent, the city will have an increase in yearly revenue from $3.1 to $4.4 million.

But because the tax cannot go into effect until Sept. 1, the city would not see the results until December. The Chamber of Commerce has expressed objection to the sales tax increase in the past, while the Carbondale Business Development Co. is in favor of the increase.

Donna Foy, executive director of CBDC, said CBDC became interested in the city's sales tax in November while looking at the city's innovation team reports, an in-depth analysis of alternatives for city revenue enhancement.

"In our opinion, we could not see

Gus says after this tax goes into effect, we could tax that tax to pay for a new tax proposal for a tax on more taxes, if that's not too taxing.

List reveals names of 44 passengers in air crash

NEW YORK (UPI) — USAir Monday released the names of the four crew members and a partial list of the passengers on board Flight 405, the doomed commuter jet that crashed on takeoff Sunday during a snowstorm at LaGuardia Airport.

Twenty-six people were killed and 22 miraculously survived the Fokker F-28's flaming crash as the Cleveland-bound jet never made it off the runway.

Five passengers who got on in Jacksonville, Fla., remained on board in New York for the flight to Cleveland, while 42 others boarded at LaGuardia, USAir officials said.

The plane's pilot, Capt. Wallace Murr, of Marietta, Ga., and flight attendant Janice King, of Gilbert, S.C., were killed.

Co-pilot John Rachuba, of Charlotte, N.C., and flight attendant Debra Taylor, of Virginia Beach, Va., survived and were hospitalized with serious injuries.

USAir released the names of 23 passengers who died and 21 who survived the crash.

The list of the deceased included the following Ohio residents: Nan and William Beckwith, of Hudson; Dean Gray, of Wakeman; Syres

Coal burning improved by development

By Annette Holder
General Assignment Writer

SIUC coal researchers are developing a system that will remove minerals harmful to coal burning systems and the environment, a process both environmentalists and coal industry experts support.

The removed minerals can be used for other products, said Edwin Hippo, SIUC mechanical engineering and energy professor.

"We're looking at coal as an entirely different resource," Hippo said. "Instead of looking at coal as something to be burned, coal can be used for many different purposes."

The coal refining process, called intrinsic bubble formation, separates minerals in coal not removed during washing.

Hippo has been developing the process for about three years with doctoral students Deetak Tandon from India and Michael Blankenship of

Low campaign funds cost rivals race

By Todd Welvaert
Politics Writer

Two campaign finance underdogs were victorious March 17, as the presidential race ended with business as usual in the Illinois primary.

Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton received two primary wins in Illinois and Michigan and President George Bush defeated Republican rival Patrick Buchanan.

The Clinton wins delivered the knockout punch to chief rival Paul Tsongas. Tsongas folded up his campaign one day after the Illinois primary.

But the Illinois primary left two big campaign spenders defeated and one big upset in the U.S. Senate race.

Carol Moseley Braun, Cook County recorder of deeds, unseated two-term incumbent U.S. Senator Alan Dixon and defeated Chicago attorney Albert Hofeld for the Democratic Party nomination.

Braun's Republican candidate will be Chicago Lawyer Richard Williamson, who served as senior aide to former president Ronald Reagan from 1981 to 1983.

U.S. Rep. Glenn Poshard, D-Marion, defeated Rep. Terry Bruce, D-Oleyn, for the Democratic Party nomination for the 19th Congressional district.

"I am grateful to every citizen of Illinois for the opportunity—the gift that has been given to me—the chance to contest for a seat in the United States Senate," Braun said in a press release. "And to that small handful of people who believed from the very beginning that you can still dream the American dream."

Hofeld saturated the air waves with anti-Dixon advertising, and Dixon spent an estimated $2 million combating Hofeld, while Braun slowly crept up in the polls. She spent an estimated $350,000 campaigning.

Salukis stopped

Boston College holds off Dawgs in NIT opener

By Tony Mancuso
Sports Editor

The Saluki men's basketball team ended its 1992 season just as it has for four years: with a loss in the National Invitational Tournament.

After finishing the Missouri Valley Tournament with a 22-7 record, the Dawgs were awarded with their fourth straight NIT bid.

But coach Rich Herrin's club drew Boston College as its first round opponent. The Eagles, who improved to 17-13, flew out to a big first-half lead and were never headed by the Salukis, who fell short on a comeback attempt and ended 1992 with a 22-8 mark.

For one of the few times this season, SIUC lost the battle on the boards 37-30, and the Eagles' 25-13 advantage in the first half led to a 36-19 halftime cushion.

After opening up a 19-12 lead, Boston College ran off 12 straight points to go up by 19, its largest lead of the game.

But the Dawgs came back early in the second half, cutting the margin to 5 on a jumper by sophomore forward Mirko Pavlovic with 11:19 to play.

The teams traded buckets for the next several minutes until junior guard Tyrone Bell brought the Salukis within 4 points with a 3-pointer. Bell, who finished with 11 points, made the score 73-69 with 1:49 left.

After that, BC guard Malcolm Huckaby, who tallied 17 points and eight assists, put the game away. He scored a bucket and later stole a Saluki pass and assisted a teammate on the ensuing fast break.

Women eliminated in NCAA Round 2 by 28-2 Mississippi

By Norma Wilke
Sports Writer

The SIUC women's basketball team finished its season as one of the top 32 teams in the nation.

The Salukis, who finished with a 23-8 overall record, lost to Southwest Missouri State 86-69 in the Gateway Conference Tournament March 14, but the team got an at-large bid from the NCAA selection committee to compete at the 48-team championship.

It was the fourth trip for the Salukis to the NAAs and the first time SIUC received an at-large bid. The team also made it in 1986, '87 and '90 when it won the Gateway tourney.

In the first round of the NAAs March 18, SIUC beat Colorado 84-80 in overtime. Colorado was ranked 24th in the nation. In the second round Saturday, SIUC lost to fifth-ranked Mississippi 72-56 in Oxford.

Coach Cindy Scott said the team was happy to get the opportunity to play at the NCAA tournament.

"It was a great win for us at Colorado," Scott said. "We played hard. The win validated our selection to the tournament."

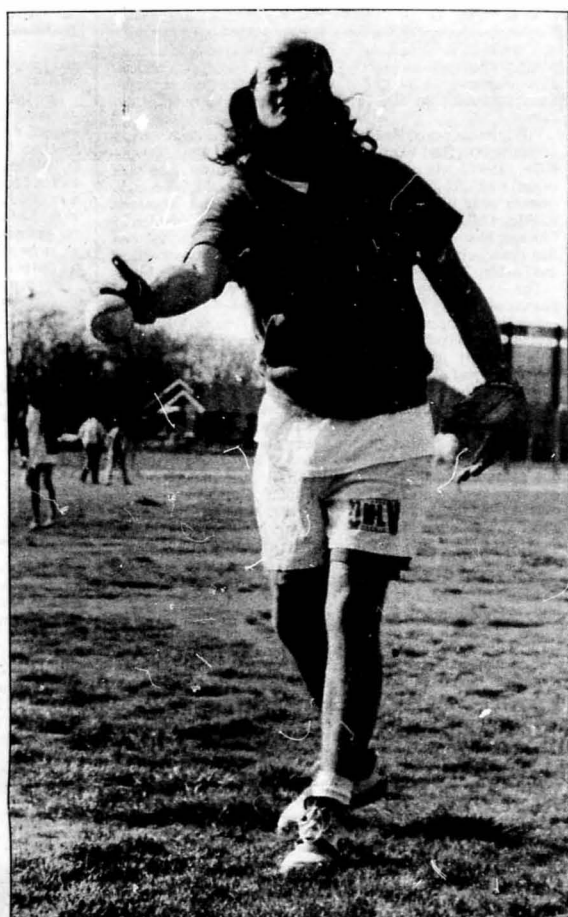

The Salukis snapped a 14-game winning streak for Colorado, 22-8. SIUC overcame a 5-point deficit with 1:59 to play in regulation time and forced the game into overtime on a 3-point basket from senior guard Karrie Redeker with 13 seconds left to play.

SIUC scored the first 6 points in the extra period, and two free throws from junior point guard Anita Scott with 39 seconds left to play put it away for the Salukis.

Junior forward Angie Rougeau had career-high and team season-high 26 points for SIUC, and junior forward Tiffany Bolden had 22 points and 12 rebounds. Anita Scott had 16 points and Redeker had 11.

SIUC outrebounded the Lady Buffs 46-34.

Baseball team finds some answers in Florida

By Scott Wuerz
Sports Writer

The SIUC baseball team went to Miami for a nine-game trip during spring break, and the Dawgs worked on more than their tans.

Saluki head coach Sam Riggelman said his major concern for the trip was finding permanent replacements for injured sophomore outfielders Dan Espin and Jason Smith.

Espin suffered a lacerated kidney and Smith dislocated his shoulder and broke his left arm when they collided while attempting to catch a fly ball March 7 against the University of Iowa. Both players will be out for the remainder of the season.

"Obviously our biggest issue lately has been the rebuilding of our outfield," Riggelman said. "I was confident we have the type of players on our team that could step in and pick up the slack, but obviously we've had some major adjustments to make."

The Salukis were able to tally victories in five of the nine games they played in Miami, largely because of contributions from the outfield replacements.

Freshman Pete Schlosser has contributed a .296 batting average, and Ed Janke and Scott Foster have teamed up to produce 2 home runs and 9 RBI. The trio is splitting time three ways in left and right field.

Freshman outfielder Leland Macon moved from right to center field, and has terrorized opposing base runners by racking up four assists. Macon has struggled at the plate with a .128 average, but has stolen six bases in seven attempts.

Smother's taken over leadoff duties in the absence of Smith. He has twice the runs scored as the nearest Saluki with 14, while posting a .278 average. Brian Heather leads active Saluki batters with a .347 average, including seven runs, a homer and eight RBI.

The Salukis suffered all four defeats at the hands of the University of Illinois and Miami.

The Illini, led by longtime SIUC skipper Itchy Jones, defeated the Dawgs 8-4 and 5-0, while No. 2 ranked Miami handed SIUC 9-1 and 5-1 defeats.

Riggelman said he is encouraged by the achievements of his team to date.

"Any time you go on the road for an extended trip like this and win more than you lose its a positive thing," Riggelman said. "But the thing that impresses me the most is the way we were able to find ways to win when the pressure was on."

The Salukis were able to put together a five-game winning streak during the trip, including a

Women golfers open with 10th place finish

By Norma Wilke
Sports Writer

The SIUC women's golf team has a bright outlook on the season after a promising start during spring break, coach Diane Daugherty said.

The Salukis opened against Tulane March 17, winning 328-381. SIUC also finished 10th out of 16 teams in the Louisiana State University-Fairwood Invitational this weekend.

SIUC faced some of the top teams in the country at LSU, Daugherty said.

"The Tulane win helped us prepare for LSU," Daugherty said. "We were the only Northern school in the tournament. We finished 10th out of 16, but more importantly, we broke 320 two out of three times at LSU."

Men netters ready for conference with toughening road trip to South

By Thomas Gibson
Sports Writer

The SIUC men's tennis team succeeded in carrying coach Dick Lefevre's plan: to come home a better team.

During spring break the netters played matches against Memphis State, Northeast Louisiana, South Alabama, Tulane and Auburn. They finished 2-3 in the road trip and brought their overall record to 4-7.

The Salukis defeated the Memphis State Tigers 9-0 on March 15. No. 1 man Tim Derouin won over Len Cannell 6-3, 6-3 to lead the way. Altif Merchant outlasted Peter Stromberg 6-1, 3-6, 7-6 in Flight 2.

The next day the netters' fortune was reversed, as they were blown away 8-0 at Northeast Louisiana.

In singles play the netters did not pose much of a threat. No. 3 man Jay Merchant, who fared the best, was beaten 3-6, 6-0, 6-4.

Uwe Classen, No. 4 singles man, lost to Christian Paul 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

On March 18, the Salukis beat Tulane 5-4 behind new team member freshman Andre Goransson. He beat Jason Lichterman 0-6, 6-4, 6-4 in his first SIUC match.

Goransson is from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil and fills the No. 6 singles slot. He became eligible to play March 13, Lefevre said.

"In the first matches of the trip we used Goransson in exhibition," Lefevre said. "I didn't want to just throw him into competition."

GUERRILLAS ATTACK IN TURKEY — Kurdish separatist guerrillas launched a heavy all-night attack on security forces in Simak, in southeastern Turkey, and fighting continued for several hours after dawn, Interior Minister Ismet Sezgin said Monday. Early Monday, more troops and armored vehicles were dispatched to the area in a bid to seal off escape routes around Simak, the minister said. An Interior Ministry source said fighting also occurred Monday in Cizre.

ALBANIA COMMUNIST RULE ENDS — Preliminary results in parliamentary elections Monday saw the opposition Democratic Party winning more than 72 percent of the vote, marking an end to a half-century of communist rule in Albania. The governing Socialist Party, renamed from the former ruling Communist Party, captured less than 22 percent in Sunday's election. "Let's celebrate the day of freedom," Democratic Party leader Sali Berisha told an enthusiastic rally.

EAST GERMANS PRIVATIZE FIRMS — More than half of the 11,500 former East German state-owned firms have been sold since German unification, the head of the Treuhander privatization agency said Monday. "We privatized 6,000 of our 11,500 companies through the end of February," said Birgit Breuel. Breuel said 120 billion German marks ($72 billion) in private investment for eastern Germany has been raised through sales contracts for the 6,000 privatized companies.

LIBYA TO SURRENDER BOMBING SUSPECTS — Libya will surrender the two main suspects in the bombings of Pan American Flight 103 and a French jetliner to the interim custody of the Arab League, ending a long-running dispute, the Libyan ambassador said Monday. The move was suggested by Secretary-General Boutros Ghali as a compromise between Libyan leader Col. Muammar Gadhafi and the governments of the United States, Britain and France.

FORMER ART HEAD ATTACKS BUSH — John Frohnmeyer, the former head of the National Endowment for the Arts, said Monday President Bush fired him last month to garner support from the right-wing, which had found a stronger voice in GOP presidential contender Patrick Buchanan. "I think that there was a degree of panic in relation to Patrick Buchanan," he said, "and of all the people to whom attention should be paid in my view he is the least of them."

SHUTTLE LIFTOFF POSTPONED — The shuttle Atlantis's liftoff on an atmospheric research flight was delayed 24 hours until Tuesday because of flooding fuel leaks blamed on supercold rocket fuel and the contraction of critical seals and fittings. Pending the outcome of a detailed analysis to confirm the short-lived leaks posed no danger to the shuttle and its seven-member crew, NASA managers are expected to clear Atlantis for a second launch try at 8 a. m. today.

APPEAL COURT FUNDS DWINDLE — The state budget crisis that has affected nearly every agency has spread to more than 100 men awaiting execution in Illinois prisons. The Appellate Defenders Office said Monday it soon will run out of funds to handle court appeals for indigent prisoners, including death row inmates. But Appellate Defender Ted Gottfried said the funding shortfall will create no legal disadvantage for condemned prisoners.

HEALTH COUNCIL FACES ELIMINATION — The end may be near for the Governor's Council on Health and Physical Fitness, an agency accused of mismanagement and possible abuse of funds in a pair of state audits released Monday. Gov. Jim Edgar, reacting to the audits, said his April 7 budget message will eliminate the council, which puts on the annual Prairie State Games. Even without the audit findings, Edgar said the council is a luxury the state no longer can afford.

SIUC Police make several arrests for DUI violations during weekend

By John McCadd
Police Writer

SIUC Police arrested four Southern Illinois residents in separate incidents last weekend in connection with driving under the influence and other moving violations.

Police arrested James E. Barr of Makanda and Brian A. Runion of Carbondale at 1:36 a.m. Saturday on S. Illinois Ave.

Barr, 31, the driver of the car, was arrested in connection with allegedly driving under the influence of alcohol, driving with a suspended license and operating an uninsured motor vehicle. Runion, 32, was arrested in connection with illegal transportation of alcohol.

Police stopped SIUC student Danny V. Little, 24, of Centralia Sunday in the 700 block of E. Grand for improper lane usage before arresting him in connection with driving under the influence of alcohol charges.

Little later was released on a recognizance bond, police said.

Police also stopped SIUC student Paul R. Duffie, 21, of Barrington at 12:57 a.m. Sunday at the intersection of W. College and S. Poplar for allegedly improperly displaying registration.

He later was arrested for driving with a revoked license, operating an uninsured motor vehicle, possession of cannabis and two warrants for failing to appear in traffic court, police reports said.

If convicted, Duffie faces 30 days to six months in jail for the possession of cannabis charge.

The penalty for DUI is 6 months to 364 days in jail and a $1,000 fine.

SIUE begins building center for physical fitness activities

By Brandi Tipps
Administration Writer

SIUE has started construction on its first permanent structure for recreational and physical fitness activities that will cost the university $5 million.

The center will provide about 50,000 square feet of indoor recreational space, including four multi-purpose courts, a 200-meter elevated jogging track, a weight training center, an aerobics room and a student lounge.

The fitness center also will provide space to house the University Wellness program, rooms for equipment issues and storage and space for childcare services for students and faculty who use the facilities.

Constance Rockingham, SIUE vice president for student affairs, said the fitness center "will improve campus life, strengthen campus recreation programming and enhance the total campus environment."

In May 1990, SIUE students approved a student fitness center fee to pay for the facility about 15 months after a snow and ice storm destroyed the second of two temporary bubble gyms.

The first bubble gym, an inflated fabric structure, was erected in the spring of 1973. It was blown down by high winds in July 1981.

Students pay $15 a quarter, but the fee will be increased to about $30 a quarter when the facility opens in 1993-94.

SIUE President Earl Lazerson said the new facility will be "a lasting legacy to the vision of the students whose support and fees are making it a reality."

The fitness center also will provide about 50,000 square feet of indoor recreational space, including four multi-purpose courts, and a 200-meter elevated jogging track.

The original SIUC recreation center cost students about $11 million and the new addition cost students another $6 million.

The addition to the SIUC recreation center included six racquetball courts, two squash courts, four multi-purpose courts, an aerobics room, a second weight-lifting room, a 220 meter track and a suspended track above it.

The original building was funded after students paid a fee for 10 years without an existing building, said Lawrence Juhlin, SIUC vice president for student affairs.

The University sold bonds to pay for the addition to the recreation center and now $15 of student recreation fees are used to pay for the bonds, Juhlin said.

The SIUC recreation center is 238,923 square feet.

SIUE Undergraduate Student President Carolyn Moore said the Edwardsville center will provide students with a way to develop a healthy lifestyle and help them maintain personal fitness as well as "ensure excellence in our educational process."

Council appointment ignores public input

National and state politics have suffered the denial cast upon them by apathetic voters, and Carbondale may be next to fall if the City Council continues to distance itself from citizens.

CARBONDALE CITY MANAGER STEVE Hoffner will vacate his position April 19, at which time the city's Deputy City Manager Jeff Doherty will take over the responsibilities full-time.

The decision to replace Hoffner with Doherty was made by the City Council alone. There was no public input about necessary qualifications and public concerns.

This practice begins the political process of the elected few deciding what is best for the many.

As Carbondale's governing board, the City Council is elected to represent the general public. It has the responsibility to appoint the city manager, who will have great impact on the public through implementing policies.

THE POSITION OF CITY MANAGER IS NOT an elected office, but public concerns should be a major factor. City council members have said they chose Doherty because he was the best qualified for the job.

Hoffner was chosen after a panel of community and business representatives developed questions for interviewing candidates and then was consulted for further input. Doherty, however, was deemed the best candidate by his fellow council members, with limited public input.

Council members have stated that in some instances decisions do not need to include the Carbondale community. This "council-knows-best" attitude begins the breakdown of relations between leaders and the public.

IF COUNCIL MEMBERS TRULY BELIEVE Doherty is the best qualified for the position, why would they shy away from a national search? The costs leading up to the hiring of Hoffner totaled more than $10,000—relatively cheap considering they are looking for the city's chief administrator who will oversee millions of dollars in program funding.

A SEARCH WOULD ONLY OPEN UP the possibility for better candidates to throw their hats into the ring. The nomination of Doherty should not be criticized. He has served as interim manager and has experience with the responsibilities, but his immediate and sequestered appointment to the office should be questioned.

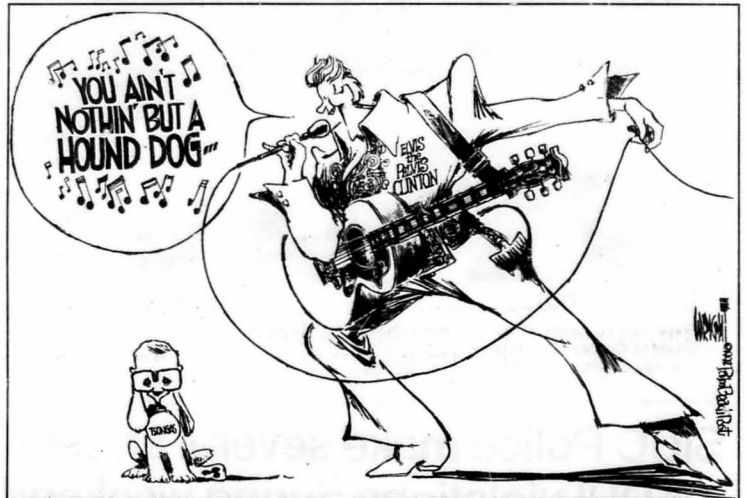

City Council members need to remember they are elected to represent the concerns of the community. Something they cannot do on their own. A government should not function without its citizens.

LEADERS PUTTING THEMSELVES AND THEIR political practices on a pedestal only separates the community from its government. If City Council members are going to represent the people of Carbondale, they should begin consulting them.

Porn contributes to sex crimes

The March 12th issue of the Daily Egyptian reported yet another rape on this campus.

Last semester the Nov. 14th issue of the Daily Egyptian contained the headline: "University needs to help improve environment for women—Guyon." One of the remedies mentioned in this story was "clearing out the underbrush in the woods" to help discourage rapes in Thompson Woods.

How ironic! Why don't you begin by clearing out the pornographic magazines from the bookstore? That is what the Penn State University bookstore did a few weeks ago.

There is a growing body of evidence indicating that pornography (including so-called "soft porn") is positively correlated with rapes. For example, a 24-year study by the Michigan State Police of 38,000 reported sexual assault cases found that, in 41 percent of those cases, pornography was used "just prior to or during" the crimes.

President Guyon: To me, it is hypocritical for you to claim to be concerned about the problems of rape and sexual harassment on this campus and at the same time to sanction the sale of pornographic magazines in our bookstore. Those who have a "need" for pornography can buy it at many other sources in Carbondale. Why should SIUC be a willing participant in the porn industry?

Women students, faculty and staff: You have the most to lose and the most to gain. But unless you start speaking up for your own safety our president will either do nothing to stop the sale of pornography or will appoint a committee to "study the matter" for a few months and then do nothing. In the meantime the rapes will continue.—Dennis T. Lowry, professor of Journalism.

Blume article corrupts children

I'm writing to tell you how disappointed I was when I read your article on Judy Blume's book in the March 12th DE.

Why didn't you just print on the front of your newspaper, "HEY KIDS—NO NEED TO CHECK OUT THE BOOK. ALL THE SEXUALLY EXPLICIT SCENES ARE PRINTED IN THE D.E." This showed a blatant disregard for your responsibility to all children, and a blatant disrespect for parents who would prefer to make their own decision as to when their children are ready to be exposed to such sexual material. It's not the DE's job to expose young children to an explicit description of what it's like to have sex.

Since your paper is free and left all over the city, your printing that article was no different than if you stood out on the playground and showed an R or X-rated movie containing an explicit scene of two people having sexual intercourse. It's not just older teenagers and adults who read your paper.—Andrew Miller, Carbondale.

McCarthy needs dose of reality

All Hail Colman McCarthy! I was so overly compelled to read both stories in the DE that by the time I finished I was teary-eyed.

Yes, yes the doom and gloom stories revolve around how funding for education is becoming sparse, so let's create the College of Peaceful Studies. We can call it COPS! We can disband the political science department because Oliver Stone has shown us the government is bad and corrupt.

Maybe Stone can do film about McCarthy. Hey there's a story! Maybe throw in Abby Hoffman, John Lennon, and Joan Baez. They could be a flight from Israel when suddenly Hussein, Khomeini, Arafat, and Khadafi threaten to blow up the plane unless they are taken to Beirut.

But the day is saved when Hoffman awakes as their peaceful spirits. McCarthy teaches them peace and of his father's work on Ellis Island. Lennon and Baez lead all the passengers in a sing along. Everyone is saved—yeah! Sorry if I slapped you with some reality.—Mike Hoffman, sophomore, photography.

Satan tribute, harassment rile listener

On the evening of March 4, as I was eating in Lentz Hall, I heard the announcer of WIDB say, "...in our tribute to Satan."

I thought I misunderstood, but after listening more carefully I heard it again. I was shocked that a school-operated radio station would have a tribute to Satan and play satanic songs.

I know that the U.S.A. has drifted from the Judeo-Christian principles upon which it was founded, but I did not realize how far. As a born-again Christian, I must protest to being subjected to a tribute to Satan.

Another complaint I have concerning WIDB is their method of getting people to sign their petitions. One night last month as I was entering Lentz Hall to have dinner, representatives from WIDB were standing at the entrance asking people to sign their petition.

I walked by without any problem, but another student was asked to sign and refused. The representatives from WIDB started pleading with the student using an amplifier, and when the student refused, they called him a jerk.

I think this is harassment. Between the harassment and the tribute to Satan, I am glad I did not sign the petition. I hope before WIDB gets access to the airwaves, they change their programming.

Does this school-operated station have advisers? Are they reviewing and condoning what is being broadcast? Does the Lentz Area Office have the right to subject the students who eat there to satanic tributes?—Christopher J. Bozek, graduate student, linguistics.

PRIMARY,

Bruce, who accepts political action committee money, outspent 10shard for the primary, which Poshard won by 22,261 votes for the nomination.

Poshard said it was grassroots campaigning that won the election for him.

Poshard refused to take money from PACs and the Democratic party for campaign funding. Poshard said he refused money from the party because some of it would be from PACs. Poshard quit taking PAC money in 1989.

The win was considered do-or-die for Poshard, who lost his 22nd Congressional district in a remapping fight last year.

Poshard now will face Republican nominee Douglas Lee, a Decatur lawyer, for the general election in November.

Braun defeated Dixon by the narrow margin of 42,101 votes. Braun garnered 538,455 to Dixon's 495,354 and Hofeld's 389,551.

If Braun is elected in the general election in November she will become the first African-American woman in the U.S. Senate.

In the local races, Kenneth Buzbee, D-Makanda, defeated Murphysboro attorney Patrick McCann for Democratic nomination for the 58th State Senate race.

Buzbee defeated McCann by 6,575 votes. Buzbee, a 12-year veteran of the Illinois General Assembly will face Republican incumbent Ralph Dunn, R-Du Quoin, in the November general election.

The 115th State House race will pit Democratic primary winner Jerry Hawkins, D-Du Quoin, and Republican primary winner Mike Bost, R-Murphysboro, in the general election.

Bost won his party's nomination in a close race against Carbondale Mayor Neil Dillard. Bost defeated Dillard by 428 votes for the GOP nomination. Bost also defeated Chuck Daugherty and Jean Ibenhardt.

"I thought that I would win a little bigger than I did," Bost said. "We didn't realize Ibenhardt would hurt us like she did."

Hawkins closest opponent for the Democratic nomination was Don Stricklin, who he defeated by 2,759 votes.

Stricklin was regional superintendent of schools in Jackson and Perry counties before he sought the house seat.

COAL, from page 1—

Carbondale.

Minerals such as pyrite and anode coke then can be used for other projects. Pyrite can be sold as ore, which is used to make steel. Anode coke is used to make aluminum cans in both the recycling process and in the original production.

The project is funded by the Illinois Department of Commerce and Commercialization and is exclusive to SIUC. It will take about 20 years from design to commercialization to complete, Hippo said.

"Coal companies will be able to obtain money for selling this material," Hippo said. "They can use the money they saved to pay for environmental controls such as scrubbers."

David Vancil, assistant mine engineer at Consolidation Coal Co., said less expensive processes to remove sulphur from Southern Illinois coal would help to improve the economy.

About 3,000 miners have lost their jobs in five years, Vancil said. One reason for the job loss is reduced demand for coal with high sulphur content such as Southern Illinois coal, he said.

After washing the coal, which removes the clay and rock attached to the outside of the coal, about 10 percent in impurities remains, said Harold Foster, assistant director at the Coal Research Center.

"The process would have a lower cost than current methods," Foster said. "But sulphur dioxide has been shown to do little harm to the environment."

A government study conducted a few years ago demonstrates acid rain contributes little harm to the environment, Foster said. For this reason, the issue has become more political than environmental, he said.

Dave Ketzner, Illinois Native Plant member, said a reduction of sulphur dioxide in coal would benefit the environment.

"Anytime you can reduce sulphur dioxide emissions, you would be reducing the harmful effects of acid rain," Ketzner said. "Especially hard hit by the effects of acid rain are the northeast states and Canada."

Ed Cook, Sierra Club conservation chair, said the reduction of sulphur dioxide in coal would benefit the economy of Southern Illinois but not decrease the burning of fossil fuels.

"We have to get away from using fossil fuels to create energy," Cook said. "But the removal of sulphur dioxide would be a positive step."

The burning of fossil fuels adds to carbon dioxide emissions in the atmosphere, which contributes to global warming, Cook said.

Current processes cannot remove pyrite effectively from the coal, Hippo said. To remove pyrite, coal now has to be ground up too finely to be able to use. Pyrite contains sulphur dioxide that is bounded chemically.

"That's the problem with Southern Illinois coal," Hippo said. "The pyrite is so fine. It's a grain so small you can hardly see it."

The intrinsic bubble flotation would be used to separate the pyrite and other minerals by forming bubbles inside coal particles.

The coal would then be pressurized in gas, usually air. After depressurization, the coal forms bubbles at capillary openings. The coal floats and the minerals sink.

Also killed were three Germans, Roland Mayer, Rolf Herzinger, and Eckard Saefelt; A. Davison, of Buenos Aires, Argentina; and Thomas Mikuta, Cos Cob, Conn.

how the city could cut services or staff," Foy said. "Sales tax is the most equitable tax besides income tax."

The city is budgeting $20,000 for an advertising campaign to help businesses deal with negative reactions to the sales tax, said Paul Sorgen, city finance director.

The city's 1-percent gas tax, scheduled to expire in June, also will be continued. The gas tax is 1 cent a gallon and brings in $127,000 a year for the city.

"The money will be used for public street and storm sewer improvements," he said, "capital projects."

The 4 percent hotel/motel tax will be increased to 5 percent, and will raise $158,000 for the city. The money will be used to help pay the $137,000 budget for the Carbondale Convention & Tourism Bureau, which the City Council approved last month.

But Pete Patel, owner of Best Way Inn at 801 E. Main in Carbondale, said an increase will hurt his business.

"If just Carbondale increases the hotel tax, then people won't stay here; they'll go to Marion," he said. "People are looking for places where they're going to go cheap."

Patel said since his business is individually owned, he feels the effects of the economy a lot more.

But with the proposed budget, the city's operation costs most likely will be lower next year, Sorgen said.

"We've cut costs and have done reorganization," he said. "A lot of it has to do with holding back on salary increases and equipment."

With the proposed tax increases, the city should not need to increase its property tax levy for the next five years, Sorgen said.

Non-union employees below department and division heads also will receive a 3-percent raise in pay.

Management officials will be eligible for merit bonuses of up to 3 percent.

Councilman John Yow said he is not in favor of the bonuses.

"It's an increase no matter what form it is in," he said. "I don't agree with the bonuses at this time with the deficit we're in."

The budget is on display in the Carbondale Public Library at 405 W. Main Street.

In accordance with state law, the City Council will conduct a public hearing on the budget at its next regular meeting at 7 p.m. March 31.

The council will review the budget for adoption April 7.

COBA Hall of Fame to induct alumni

University News Service

Ten SIUC graduates of the College of Business Administration will return to campus for induction Friday into the college's Alumni Hall of Fame.

Established in 1986, the Hall of Fame recognizes alumni who have climbed the corporate ladder to top jobs and attained other notable career goals.

To be eligible, alumni must have earned their SIUC degrees at least 10 years ago.

Contributions to an individual's community and the University are also considered by the nominations committee.

Inductee Robert E. Arroyo, partner at the Keck, Mahin and Cate law firm of Chicago, earned his marketing degree in 1970.

Arroyo, of Kenilworth, has worked as a data analyst for U.S. Gypsum Co. and earned a law degree from John Marshall Law School.

He serves on the board of directors of the Legal Assistance Foundation of Chicago and the Kenilworth United fund. He grew up in Elmwood Park.

Another inductee, Raymond S. Caruso of German Village, Ohio, is the executive vice-president and general manager of Backer Spielvogel Bates Inc., of Dublin, Ohio.

The company is an advertising agency responsible for the award-winning marketing campaign of Wendy's International restaurants.

Caruso's advertising career began in Chicago, where he directed accounts for United Airlines, Green Giant and Kentucky Fried Chicken.

He went on to direct marketing efforts for Pizza Hut Inc., Red Lobster and McDonald's.

Caruso earned a bachelor's degree in business commerce in 1961 and a master's degree in marketing in 1962, both from SIUC.

James L. Clairmont, chairman and chief executive officer of The Nissan Co., an Iowa-based manufacturing and marketing firm for specialty meats, will also be inducted into COBA's hall of fame.

Clairmont, of Mounds View, Minn., serves on the board of the National Meat Association.

A native of Escanaba, Mich., he earned his bachelor's degree in business management at SIUC in 1971.

SIUC alumnus and inductee George H. Cook Jr. of Lisle earned his bachelor's degree in finance and accounting at SIUC in 1973.

Cook is the senior vice-president and chief executive officer of Boulevard Bancorp Inc., a bank holding company in Chicago.

He completed an M.B.A. at Northern Illinois University and was hired as an auditor at McGraw-Hill where he spent 12 years and reached the position of chief financial officer.

Inductee Robert A. Disbrow of Decatur is the owner and partner at Disbrow, Morrison, Tarro and Lane, an accounting firm.

Disbrow obtained a bachelor's degree in accounting at SIUC in 1967 and stayed on to earn an M.B.A. in 1971. He formerly worked at Peat Marwick.

Paul E. Miner, an inductee from Colleyville, Texas, is the vice-president in charge of customer and network operations for GTE Telephone, where he has worked since 1966.

Miner, who grew up in Johnston City, earned his bachelor's degree in business administration at SIUC in 1966. He completed his M.B.A. in finance in 1977 at Northern Illinois University.

COBA also will induct David L. Peel, marketing manager for Coors Brewing Co. in Sacramento, Calif.

Peel, of Folsom, Calif., earned a bachelor's degree in marketing at SIUC in 1971. A year later he completed an M.B.A. in marketing at Michigan State University.

Peel specializes in launching beverage products and marketing campaigns. He has worked for The Coca-Cola Co., The Seven-Up Co. and S&D Coffee Co.

Inductee Allan T. Tichy of Germantown, Tenn., is the senior vice-president for Vining-Sparks IBG of Memphis, a bond and securities sales firm.

Previously, Tichy served as a consultant on investments, merger and acquisitions, and portfolio analysis for Union Planters

Investment Bankers Group Inc.

He earned a bachelor's degree in accounting at SIUC in 1972 and is vice-chairman of the board of advisers to the school of accounting.

Don L. Tomala of Orland Park will also return for induction into COBA's hall of fame. Tomala, from Orland Park, is owner and president of The FIGA Group, a marketing and advertising firm based in Itasca.

In 1969, he earned a bachelor's degree in management from SIUC, where he completed an M.B.A. in marketing a year later.

Tomala has served as the manager of international finance for the Quaker Oats Co., a vice-president at Sara Lee and vice-president of marketing and sales for the Nestle Co. He is a native of Evergreen Park.

The last inductee, David Waggoner of Benton, is senior vice-president and chief lending officer at Firstbank of Illinois Co., a bank holding company.

He also is the president of the Benton branch of the United Illinois Bank of Southern Illinois.

Waggoner earned a bachelor's degree in business management at SIUC in 1970. The following year, he signed on as a teller at Benton Community Bank and in 1983 rose to the rank of president at the firm, now United Illinois Bank of Southern Illinois. Last year, he was promoted to a senior-level position with the bank holding company.

Secretarial group plans motivational workshop

By Jeremy Finley
General Assignment Writer

SIUC employee Fern Schappell says she has chosen a profession without which the University cannot function.

She has been a secretary for the theater department for three years.

"Without secretaries, where would we be?" Schappell said. "I think secretaries are many times taken for granted."

"I type; I file; I direct people to where they are supposed to go," she said. "People always come to secretaries for help."

The Southern Lakes Chapter of Professional Secretaries International will sponsor a seminar from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesday in Ballroom D at the Student Center focusing on supporting office support personnel titled "A Past With a Future: Be All You Can Be."

"Secretaries are in the forefront in a changing world in the '90s," said Sylvia Shaw, president of PSI.

In many offices, secretaries are underappreciated and are loaded down with problems and work, Shaw said. Though many times secretaries are very much supported in their office place.

Joyce Cottonaro, secretary for the SIUC controller, said the seminar is a good way to help secretaries.

"Secretaries are depended on a lot," Cottonaro said. "The seminar is a great idea; it is always helpful to have seminars like this."

Topics during the seminar will include holding on to self-esteem in difficult times, letting go of fears, unlocking potential and eliminating barriers that block creative development and career strategies.

"Office support personnel need to say to themselves, 'Hey, I can do this, it's not something I can't handle,'" she said. "If they want to move up in a company, you have to do some things that you are afraid of."

Cindy Miller, administration aide for PSI Foundation, has attended past PSI seminars.

The seminars keep secretaries informed about the secretarial field for office support staff, Miller said.

"It's a motivation-type thing," she said.

Shaw said the seminar is an effort to try and do something for Secretary Week, which starts April 20.

The registration and refund deadline is March 27. The fee is $20, not including lunch, for Collegiate Secretaries International members, $35 for PSI members and $40 not including lunch for non-members. The fee includes a workbook, assessment materials and handouts.

International grocery stores offer students taste of home

Chong Lim, junior in electrical engineering from Malaysia, shops for food at Oriental Foods West in Murdale Shopping Center Monday afternoon. International grocery stores offer food items not available in many local stores. Customers from Asia, Malaysia, Korea, Thailand, Japan and India commonly frequent international grocery stores, said one owner. The stores offer packaged and fresh foods, and take orders for foods. When a festival occurs, the stores stock up on special foods eaten during the celebration.

By Fatima Janvekar
General Assignment Writer

Grace Yang sometimes gets a craving for Chinese tofu, a delicacy she cannot find in most U.S. grocery stores.

Yang, senior in food and nutrition from R.O.C. Taiwan, said she buys most of her groceries from Asian food stores and international groceries because she cooks Chinese food using recipes that require spices and food bases commonly used in East Asia.

International grocery stores offer SIUC students food items that may not be available in many local stores. For many international students, these stores offer a taste of home.

Rosl: Habibullah, owner of International Groceries at 1400 W. Main St., said his family operates a similar grocery store in Cape Girardeau, where they live.

"Opening the (Carbondale) store in August 1988, was my sister-in-law's idea, and it took off from there," Habibullah said.

"There is a very big international market here, because lots of students come up to study at SIUC and feel homesick for their food from their country," he said.

"We offer students a variety of packaged and fresh foods, and also take special orders for anything students want us to get for them from other places," he said.

Most of the customers came from Asia, mainly China, Habibullah said.

Malaysian, Korean, Thai, Japanese and Indian customers also regularly buy their groceries at the store, he said.

Stan Smith, senior in Asian history, said he shops at international grocery stores because he enjoys international cuisine.

"I can buy food here that is not sold at any other grocery, such as Chinese egg noodles, coconut paste and bamboo shoots, to make curry," Smith said.

Habibullah said the store continually replenishes the food it has in stock with new ones to allow customers to select from a larger variety.

The store sells 15 different qualities of rice, from China, Pakistan, India and Japan, and varieties of noodles, wheat, canned sweets, pickles, spices and sauces.

Just Back From Spring Break?

Make The Rest Of The Semester Really Count!

Dear Dr. Buzz:

What can you say to a good friend who you care about who may be experiencing problems with alcohol or drugs? I do not want to jeopardize our relationship.

"Reticent"

Dear Reticent,

It is really tough talking to anyone about personal issues and you risk the chance of losing a friend or alienating a relative. However, by not risking that possibility you continue to perpetuate the myth that everything is OKAY. Remember that ignoring the problem can also be risky. How will you feel if they get injured or killed as a result of their problem? Your intervention might have helped! It is not easy to ignore a problem and it is impossible to solve it for someone else. If you need help figuring out what to say, call the folks at the Wellness Center at 536-4441. They will be able to help. Good luck!

Award-winning author to discuss nonfiction writing at Morris Library

By William Ragan
Entertainment Writer

Ron Chernow once considered the subject of finance "positively distasteful."

But after working within the economic system for several years, Chernow developed an interest in the infrastructure of an influential banking empire that crystallized into an award-winning book, "The House of Morgan," published by Simon and Schuster.

Chernow won the 1990 National Book Award for nonfiction. He will speak at 11:30 a.m. today in the Morris Library Auditorium.

Chernow's address is titled, "Stubborn Facts, Fickle Realities: The Art of Nonfiction Writing." He will discuss the fine art of nonfiction writing, a talent he harvested to abundant critical success with his book, "The House of Morgan: An American Banking Dynasty and the Rise of Modern Finance."

Chernow's interest in finance and economics, sparked by a stint as head of financial policy studies for an economic think tank, the Twentieth Century Fund, spurred him to write "The House of Morgan."

The book tracks the 150-year history of the Morgan banking empire, a powerful dynasty that built railroads, urged politicians into war and backed political figures from Mussolini to Hitler.

The Morgans headed one of the most influential banks in U.S. history and remained a leading family in U.S. society.

In the book, Chernow tells the early history of the Morgan banking empire: its formation by George Peabody in England in 1838, his partnership with Junius Morgan in the United States and the addition of a Paris branch that made the business an international conglomerate.

Chernow reveals the eccentricities through which the Morgan clan achieved fame, such as the time when guests at one of their dinner parties each received an oyster for an appetizer with a genuine pearl imbedded within the flesh.

Chernow was born in Brooklyn, New York, in 1949.

He received his bachelor's degree from Yale and his master's from Cambridge University. Both degrees were in English and literature.

Leaving behind both academic life and an unfinished doctoral dissertation, Chernow trekked to New York, where his career as a freelance writer skyrocketed after an article he wrote about Chinatown was accepted as a cover story in New York Magazine.

Chernow went on to publish more than 60 articles on topics ranging from environmental issues to financial matters.

Local artist displays portraits at Newman Center exhibit

By Ronn Byrd
Entertainment Writer

A local artist who calls her work a study in contemplative prayer will display a collection of spiritual portrait drawings rendered in charcoal and pastels this spring at the Newman Catholic Student Center.

The exhibit by artist Mary Hoinacki is called "Epiphanies and Transfixations."

Hoinacki said her works gives form to the interior of things. She is a member of the Secular Order of Discalced Carmelites and a member of the Newman community.

Sister Kate Reid, director of the Newman Center, said she has a personal interest in Hoinacki's art because of her spiritual background.

"She comes out of a Christian contemplative upbringing," Reid said. "I can relate to the revelation of the divine in her pictures."

Viewers will see something different in each work, but a central theme is prevalent, Reid said.

"In her work, each person is unique and mysterious," Reid said.

"I think that is part of the beauty of her art. I love what she does with eyes and I like the way she's integrated the geometric designs with portraiture," she said.

Hoinacki is exhibiting 21 works of which all but one are portraits.

The Rev. Steve Edfors, campus minister at the Newman Center, said he was struck by Hoinacki's unusual style.

"I think her personal style is her works' great strengths," Edfors said. "It comes from deep within, almost like soul searching."

"Her work captures deep emotions. You can see a lot of pain in the faces, but it is beyond pain or pure raw emotion. There's something mystical in her portraits," he said.

The Hoinacki show will run until June 1 in the Celine Chu Memorial Gallery and can be viewed 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sunday.

Wellness Center offers some tips to relieve stress of term's last half

To Your Health

Rob Seplich
Wellness Center

While Spring Break '92 is but a fading memory, the last seven weeks of the semester may be painfully vivid when one focuses on catching up in classes.

The fury to catch up may come at the expense of physical and mental health.

The November 1991 Men's Health Newsletter notes that up to 90 percent of all physician visits are because of stress-related disorders.

We all react to stress differently, said Paul Rosch, M.D., president of the American Institute of Stress.

"Often, it's not the event itself that causes anxiety, but how you perceive it," he said.

By recognizing that much of the stress people experience comes from their perceptions rather than external "facts," people can adjust their views in order to reduce their stress levels.

Perceiving the rest of the semester as a "challenge to meet" rather than an "impossible situation" might help one engage in productive behaviors designed to take the upper hand over stress.

To help improve the chances of staying healthy in the final stretch of the semester, try to practice the following health tips:

- Set realistic goals for the rest of the semester
- Eat as healthfully as possible
- Exercise regularly
- Seek support from friends or professionals
- Avoid or reduce use of alcohol, nicotine and caffeine
- Reward yourself for your academic efforts

And for more information or confidential assistance, contact the Student Health Program Wellness Center 536-4441.

requested by our customers," he said.

When a special festival is coming up, a friend or customer tells Habibullah about it, and the store stock foods prepared and served especially at the time of the festival, he said.

James Prowell, president of the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce, said residents have a great deal of interest in international cuisine, primarily as a result of the large international student body on campus.

"Many of us have traveled to different countries and developed a taste for international cuisine, and for foods that are not just good for you, but are tasty as well," Prowell said.

"If these international grocery stores were not operating in Carbondale, there would be a void and a need for somebody to fill that void," he said.

International grocery customers can buy exotic food items such as dried seaweed from Malaysia, guava juice drinks with jelly, chili garlic sauces, sweet mango pickles, round wheatballs, ginseng herbal teas and shrimp-flavored crisps.

"American students are learning about the economical benefits of international foods," said John Spaniol, owner of Far Eastern Foods.

"For most foreign students, rice, bread and noodles form a necessary part of their staple diet, which are the basic foods that sell the most at Far Eastern," he said.

"American students are coming in to shop here more often, because cooking your own food is inexpensive and after your own taste. It's cheaper to buy a $7 bag of rice that will last for weeks, than spend that amount on a pizza that will disappear in minutes," he said.

Spaniol, a chemistry teacher at Mount Vernon High School, said operating the grocery store is his part-time hobby.

Supreme Court 1992 Court allows victory for actress' case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Monday let stand a $400,000 jury award for entertainer Bette Midler that could convince advertisers to stop using celebrity sound-alikes in television and radio commercials.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals last year upheld the award for Midler after a lower court found the deliberate imitation of her voice in an automobile commercial violated California law.

Young & Rubicam, an advertising agency, never denied using a singer to imitate Midler's rendition of "Do You Wanna Dance" for a 1986 commercial for Ford Motor Co.

But it claimed imitating Midler's rendition of the oft-recorded song was permitted under the federal Copyright Act of 1976 since it had received permission to use "Do You Wanna Dance" by songwriter Bobby Freeman.

The 9th Circuit, based in San Francisco, agreed that "mere imitation" of a recorded performance would not constitute a copyright infringement. But it said there was a difference here.

Midler's claim was not preempted by federal copyright law because she did not seek damages for the use of "Do You Want to Dance" — she sought damages for the use of part of her "identity" — the 9th Circuit held.

Midler recorded "Do You Wanna Dance" on her 1972 album "Bette Midler: The Divine Miss M."

"Copyright protects 'original works of authorship fixed in any tangible medium of expression,'" wrote the 9th Circuit. "A voice is not copyrightable. The sounds are not 'fixed.' What is put forward as protectible here is more personal than any work of authorship."

Young & Rubicam contends the ruling wrongly gives California law precedence over federal law, and that the standard established is so obscure as to confuse advertisers nationwide.

The American Association of Advertising Agencies, in a friend-of-the-court brief, said the ruling "subsidizes advertising professionals nationwide to the risk of liability for 'misappropriation' despite their having obtained permission to use recorded music in full compliance with the federal copyright law."

"Burdensome litigation commenced by performers who can arguably assert claims within the broad new zone of protection is already having a chilling effect on the advertising profession," the association wrote, noting a number of similar "sound-alike" lawsuits that been filed since Midler won hers.

A district court jury awarded Midler $400,000 in actual damages, but both the district court and 9th Circuit precluded her from suing for punitive damages, which could be much higher.

In a cross-appeal, Midler asked the high court to let her seek those punitive damages. That appeal also was denied Monday.

The controversy began in 1985, when Young & Rubicam began its "Yuppie Campaign" for Ford, using old songs in 19 television commercials to elicit memories of college life among certain consumers.

The original artists agreed to sing in nine of the spots, but in 10 other cases they refused and the agency hired "sound alikes."

Midler's voice was imitated in a commercial for the Mercury Sable. Ula Hedwig, a former backup singer for Midler, sang in the ad and was instructed to sound as much like Midler as possible.

The 9th Circuit said Hedwig succeeded, fooling even some of Midler's friends.

Justices let stand rule that wire law applies to spouse

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Monday let stand a ruling that the 24-year-old law barring secret wiretapping of private telephone conversations applies to spouses.

The court, without comment, refused to review a decision of the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upholding a $215,000 jury award for a woman against her former husband, who secretly taped her conversations over a three-month period prior to filing for divorce.

Tom Heggy, who was director of the Oklahoma State Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, had the wiretap secretly installed in 1987 by an underling after telling him he had been getting death threats. He then used tapes of his wife as leverage to obtain a favorable divorce.

A jury found the wiretapping violated Title III of the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968, awarding Catherine Heggy $75,000 in compensatory damages and $140,000 in punitive damages.

Tom Heggy contends the law was not meant to apply to spouses, an issue the federal and state courts have split over.

But an attorney for Catherine Heggy said this case involved a police official misusing his position to violate the law.

Supreme Court to review when home office costs tax deductible

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Monday agreed to decide when a self-employed person who does a certain amount of work at home can claim a tax deduction for having a home office.

The court next term will decide if the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals erred when it allowed an anesthesiologist to deduct expenses from using a spare bedroom in his McLean, Va., condominium as a home office, even though most of his work time was spent at three area hospitals.

The Bush administration claims that if the 4th Circuit ruling is upheld, thousands of self-employed workers nationwide will begin claiming new deductions for use of a home-office on their federal tax returns.

The case involves Nader Soliman, who in 1983 worked at Suburban Hospital in Bethesda, Md., Shady Grove Hospital in Rockville, Md., and Loudoun Hospital in Leesburg, Va.

He averaged 30 to 35 hours per week at the hospitals, primarily at Suburban, but none provided him with an office.

He thus used a spare bedroom, in his residence as an office, spending an average of 10 hours per week there keeping patient records and handling other paperwork.

On his 1983 income tax return, Soliman claimed deductions of some $2,500 for expenses and depreciation of the home office.

After an audit, the Internal Revenue Service disallowed the deductions because Soliman's home office was not his "principal place of business" as required by law.

Soliman sued and a tax court agreed with him. The 4th Circuit, by a 2-1 decision, sided with him; as well.

The government contends the 4th Circuit ruling conflicts with other federal appeals courts and Congress's Tax Reform Act of 1976.

The government wants the court to rule that only a home office found to be the "focal point" of a person's business can be tax deductible as a "principal place of business."

The "focal point" test has many components, but generally requires a majority or near majority of a person's work be performed there.

"Under the criteria adopted by the court of appeals in this case, if the taxpayer's home office is appropriate and necessary to his trade or business, that office may constitute the taxpayer's 'principal place of business' even though the bulk of the taxpayer's work is performed at some other location or locations," the Justice Department argued. "The word 'principal' has thus been eliminated from the statute."

Bears' tackle Covert retires

CHICAGO (UPI) — Veteran Chicago Bears offensive tackle Jim Covert, who sat out the 1991 season with a back injury, announced his retirement Monday just one day after his 32nd birthday.

Covert succumbed to the back injury he suffered on the second day of training camp last July.

He underwent surgery by Dr. Charles Angelo later that month and spent all of last season on injured reserve.

Covert, known as Jimbo, had been the Bears' starting left tackle since his rookie season in 1983. He started 108 of the 110 Bears games in which he appeared during his career and was voted to the National Football League Team of the '80s by the Football Hall of Fame.

In announcing his retirement, Covert told reporters he feared every injury he suffered could be the one that ended his career. The back problem, he said, turned out to be the worst.

"When I heard all the facts the doctor had given me, it was a pretty simple decision," he said.

convincing 8-4 win over Florida International, and a ninth-inning rally to defeat Rutgers.

The Dawgs trailed Rutgers 13-12 and were down to their last strike when senior first baseman Darin Barton lined a hit off of the pitcher's foot. Janke homered to push the winning runs across the plate.

Riggelman said the Salukis hope to keep their momentum as they return home to begin a four-game series.

The Dawgs play the University of Louisville Tuesday, which features a high-powered offense that led the NCAA last season with 125 home runs. The Cardinals have 37 homers in 22 games in 1992, placing them to a 12-10 record. On Wednesday SIUC begins a three-game set against Northeastern.

"Louisville has an outstanding squad," he said, "And Northeastern has given us a lot of trouble over the last couple of years, so the next four games are going to require a tremendous amount of effort on our part."

"We've been fortunate to have people step in and pick up the slack, so I'd have to say we're extremely pleased with where we stand right now."

Riggelman said the Salukis will start senior George Joseph Tuesday against Louisville.

Joseph is 1-2 on the season with a 4.43 earned run average.

NETTERS, from page 16

"We needed an extra player on the team just in case someone got hurt," he said.

The Salukis ran into Southeast Conference power Auburn on March 20.

They were beaten 6-0 in singles, and the Tigers optioned not to play doubles matches.

Ten of the 11 teams in the Southeast Conference are ranked nationally, Lefevre said.

He said the Salukis usually play teams of Auburn's caliber to prepare for conference play.

"We had a tough time against all the teams," Lefevre said. "It was a training trip for us."

"Normally when we play tough teams as we did, we fare well in our conference," Lefevre said.

The Salukis will take a two-week break before they open Missouri Valley Conference play on April 3 at University Courts against Southwest Missouri State.

A poor shooting performance from SIUC against Ole Miss, which at 28-2 had received a first-round bye, led to defeat, Cindy Scott said.

Rougeau and Redeker, who are both averaging in double figures, combined to shoot only 4 of 20 from the field, and for only the second time this season, the Salukis were shut out from 3-point land. SIUC was 0 for 10 from the perimeter.

Cindy Scott said Ole Miss was a tough contender.

"Mississippi is a great team and deserved to be No. 5. If we could have shot the ball better, I think we could have won."

SIUC was within 6 with four minutes to play, but Ole Miss outscored the Salukis 12-2 in the last minutes of the game.

Junior center Kelly Firth had her 14th double-double of the season with 17 points and 14 rebounds. Anita Scott had 16 points.

SIUC, which the Salukis lost to three times this season, won in second round action against Iowa, the top seed in the Midwest region, 61-60 in overtime.

The Bears next play UCLA in Boulder, Colorado in the third round of the NCAAAs.

DAWGS, from page 16

BC was led in scoring by center Bill Curley, who finished with 24 points, 19 of which came in the second half as the Eagles held off the Salukis.

Guard Howard Easley had 14 and forward Gerrod Abram 13 for BC.

The Salukis were led by MVC Most Valuable Player Ashraf Amaya, who rang up 15 points and 12 boards.

He finished the season averaging 19 points and 10.5 rebounds a game.

Sophomore point guard Chris Lowery added 14 points and four assists and Pavlovic had 10 points.

World Cup soccer to go indoors in '94

NEW YORK (UPI) — World Cup soccer entered the brave new world of domed stadiums Monday when organizers for the 1994 tournament in the United States announced the nine host cities.

FIFA, international soccer's governing body, and World Cup USA 1994, the national organizing group, said the winners were: Washington; Los Angeles; Dallas; Pontiac, Mich.; Chicago; East Rutherford, N.J.; San Francisco; Orlando, Fla.; and Foxboro, Mass.

The announcement culminated long months of inspections, presentations and negotiations on both sides of the Atlantic, all leading to a tournament that will begin with 140 nations before reaching a field of 24 for the finals in the United States.

The United States (host country) and Germany (defending champion) are the only two countries to have qualified so far. Once the final draw is held after two years of qualifications, the six seeded teams will be placed around the country.

"You can be sure the right team will be in the right city," said Joseph Blatter, FIFA's general secretary.

The Silverdome in Pontiac was one of the two domes among the 19 finalists bidding for a venue. This will mark the first time the World Cup has gone indoors. However, in keeping with World Cup tradition, the games at Pontiac, as well as those at the eight other venues, will be played on a grass field and not a synthetic surface.

"It puts a distinct American stamp on the tournament," Alan Rothenberg, chairman of the organizing committee, said.

Two of the winning cities had offered more than one stadium. The nod in those cases was given to the Rose Bowl outside Los Angeles and Stanford Stadium outside San Francisco.

The venues for the various rounds of the tournament will be named in July, with the front-runners for the opening and closing games being East Rutherford (less than 10 miles outside New York City), Los Angeles and Chicago.

The announcement of Dallas as the international broadcast center will come before then.

Eight to 12 venues were to be selected Monday, and the 10 finalists eliminated were: Atlanta; Columbus, Ohio; Denver, Kansas City, Mo.; Miami; New Haven, Conn.; New Orleans; Philadelphia; Seattle; Tampa, Fla.

If there was a surprising choice among the nine winners, it was suburban Foxboro. Clearly, the cultural and historic appeal of Boston, the concentrated population base along the Eastern corridor and the enthusiasm for soccer in the area figured in FIFA's decision.

"It made an awful lot of sense to go to a great city like Boston," Rothenberg said.

Great expectations dog Harrick, UCLA Bruins

TEMPE, Ariz. (UPI) — As the final buzzer sounded Sunday in No. 3 UCLA's 85-69 NCAA Tournament victory over Louisville, several UCLA students and fans rushed onto the court to celebrate a trip to the Sweet 16.

The UCLA players and coaches were not among them. They quietly excused themselves and made their way back toward the locker rooms.

"We have a different attitude," UCLA Coach Jim Harrick said. "In a lot of ways, we felt we should (be in the Sweet 16) and had to play to our potential to do that. Hopefully, we're on a mission to see how well we can play."

Never mind that this is only the Bruins' second trip to the regional semifinals since 1980. At UCLA, Sweet 16 is only a stepping stone.

Nearly two decades after the end of the John Wooden Era, UCLA's basketball program still finds itself playing under the burden of great expectations.

"We're kind of expected to go this far," forward Don MacLean said. "We set our goals higher than the Sweet 16. We know we've still got a lot of work ahead of us."

With the richest tradition in the college game, UCLA basketball always seems to be trying to live up to comparisons with Wooden.

"It's tough when people around the country keep bringing it up," MacLean said. "We're just playing for ourselves. UCLA has a rich tradition, but it's 1992 now. We're playing for the team of 1992 and not the teams of the 1970s."

But the comparisons remain, even though Wooden set a standard that is impossible to match.

Under his guidance, the Bruins won 10 NCAA titles, including seven in a row from 1967 to 1973.

In each of his last 13 seasons, the Bruins captured the Pacific-8 Conference championship. And his 1974-75 team sent him out a winner, giving him a national title in his final game as coach.

But as each championship banner was hoisted to the rafters, the expectations also raised a little more. Toward the end, UCLA's season could be considered successful only if the Bruins won another national title.

Rockets punish center Hakeem after argument

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Houston Rockets suspended Hakeem Olajuwon for an indefinite period without pay Monday after the All-Star center refused to dress for Saturday night's game against Sacramento although doctors cleared him fit to play.

The Rockets said the suspension came at the direction of owner Charlie Thomas.

"General manager Steve Patterson is acting with my complete support, backing and authority," Thomas said.

Olajuwon underwent an MRI (magnetic resonance imaging) examination on his left hamstring last Friday afternoon. The results were negative, and he was cleared to play. Team physician Dr. Charles Baker, in consultation with radiologist Dr. Stan Handel, found no significant evidence of muscle injury to the hamstring.

San Jose State won by a large margin shooting 888 for all three rounds, Florida State shot 922 to place second and LSU followed with 925. SIUC finished the tournament with 967, 79 points behind San Jose.

In the first round at LSU, SIUC shot 331, in Round 2 the team shot 319 and in Round 3 it shot 317. Daugherty said four players put it together for SIUC.

On Saturday, sophomore Lieschen Eller shot 77, junior Tracey Pace shot 78 and sophomore Leslie Brunk shot 79. Sunday, Pace shot 78 and senior Anne Childress shot 79.

The worst score on Sunday was an 83, and Daugherty said it has been a long time since the Salukis have started so well.

Individually, Tracy Hanson of San Jose finished with a three-round total of 208. Julie Rigazio of LSU finished with a score of 218. Pace had the highest ranking for SIUC tying for 20th with a three-round total of 236.

"We're very excited about the season," she said. "Having four players do so well is extremely encouraging, and we're looking forward to the rest of the season."

Against Tulane, Childress had the team low, shooting 80 on the par 74 course. Pace shot 81, Eller shot 82, Brunk shot 85 and sophomore Laura Stefanich shot 87.

The Salukis next play this weekend at the Western Kentucky Invitational.
