Ten die in plane disaster

Flight voice recorders were recovered Wednesday from the widely-scattered wreckage of an Air Illinois twin-engine plane that crashed during a rain storm Tuesday night, killing all 10 people aboard.

Among those killed when the British-made Hawker Siddalley crashed into a muddy field were two SIU-C administrators, Jerome Lorenz, 39, director of the Rehabilitation Institute, and Richard Baker, 47, coordinator of the institute's Rehabilitation Administrators Program.

The members of flight crew were all area residents. The 44-passenger propjet was under the command of Capt. Lester Smith, 32, of Route 5 Carbondale. He had been with employed by Air Illinois since 1978. Smith was a 1975 graduate of SIU-C's flight training program.

First officer Frank Tudor, 28, of Tuscumbia had been employed by Air Illinois since February of 1983. Barbara Huffman, a 29-year-old flight attendant, had been employed by the airline since March of 1976.

Others killed in the crash include Mrs. Judy Chantos, 36, of Springfield, and her 2-year-old son, Jonathon. They boarded the flight in Springfield and were en route to see her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lennigton of Jackson, Mo., when the plane came down 25 miles north of its destination of Carbondale.

Also on board were Jerome Brown, 52, of the Chicago suburb, assistant supervisor with the Illinois Department of Labor; Regina Polk, 33, of Chicago, a retraining coordinator for the Teamsters Local 2000.

TOKYO (AP) — Former Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka, one of Japan's most powerful politicians, was sentenced to a four-year prison term Wednesday for taking bribes from Lockheed Corp. But he defiantly rejected demands he resign from Parliament.

The Tokyo District Court said Tanaka, during his 1972-74 tenure as prime minister, accepted $392,000 worth of bribes from Lockheed to promote the sales of the U.S. firm's passenger planes in Japan.

The court found him guilty of bribery and foreign exchange violations and fined him the equivalent of the bribe, worth $2.1 million at current exchange rates.

Guyon expresses sense of loss at deaths of 2 administrators

By Dave Saeltens

The plane crash that took the lives of 16 people, including two SIU-C administrators, was "a terrible tragedy," John Guyon, acting president for academic affairs, said Wednesday.

The victims included Jerome Lorenz, 39, director of the Rehabilitation Institute, and Professor Richard J. Baker, 47, coordinator of the institute's rehabilitation administrators program.

"It is a great personal loss to the University," Guyon, who is acting president in the absence of President Albert Goldman, said.

Professor Brockman Schumacher said he was acting director of the institute by Dean Samuel Goldman of the College of Human Resources at a meeting of the institute's faculty.

"It is a terrible loss. They were two of the finest human beings and professionals you could ever know," Goldman said. "They were totally dedicated to efforts of helping people and SIU."

The faculty resolved to "continue the works and efforts of both men," Schumacher said.

The Wednesday class schedule of both academy.

Paula, 16, and Dawn, 13, received a doctorate and had taught. Her husband, Cindy, 32, and daughter Kimberly, 21, were also killed. Baker was recently elected to the Attucks Community Service Board, whose chairperson, Martha Farris, described him as "deeply concerned with the plight of the poor people." Farris said he was highly respected by board members and staff.

"We pray for confident peace for his wife and other family members," she said.

Kissinger tour

FORMER SECRETARY of State Henry Kissinger and his 12-member commission are making a whirlwind tour of that troubled region.

The tour sounds more like a bargain-rate vacation than a fact-finding mission. The six days, room and board included.

During six days, Kissinger and his commission are visiting Panama, Costa Rica, Honduras, El Salvador, Guatemala and Nicaragua. So far, the message from these countries has been the same: "Sorry." And the Kissinger commission was expected to echo that message to the Reagan Administration and Congress. As reported Jan. 10, 1984.

KISSINGER SUMMED up the commission's thinking on Central American affairs in the statement, "It is an area in which a very small influx of U.S. funds was just about the same thing as a whirlwind tour of that troubled region."

IT IS THIS TYPE of inhumane act by the government forces in El Salvador that casts a shadow over Central America. According to a recent National Student Association report that was sent to The Daily Egyptian, by the Student Baptist Center.

This will be a clarification for those people that were implying his safety and security. From ourselves of the compulsion to caring..."

"The violence in Central America is getting easier and could erupt in Panama without further U.S. aid," he said. "If Panama's social problems are not promptly solved, they will change into social unrest and the loss of peace we value so highly."

This was told that the Code officers are continuing to work for solar energy, recycling, and the Third World. They should be educated or re-educated in the normal ways of society. This moral opportunity is denied to them when they are labeled and accused, ad hominem, and unenlightened.

"There is no better way to socialize an adult than by example. If we set the example by denying them simple rights, their simple mistakes will surely escalate into moral crimes. On the other hand, if we set an example of compassion by showing them a modern, self-aware city and government, then these people will respond in a healthy manner.

I know that compassion exists in Carbondale. We collectively work for solar energy, recycling of garbage and waste, anti-nuclear campaigns, etc. I can think of no better place to see a minimum security prison than the Student Baptist Center.

The Student Baptist Center is a place where people can become a part of the community. A place where people can take part in the Student Baptist Center.

I am constantly appalled by humanity's lack of compassion. Unfortunately, the most people are just to their death. They are not willing to see the good in others unless they have been told how to see it.

Weather observation prior to takeoff from Springfield’s Capital Airport recorded a broken cloud ceiling at 2,800 feet with a visibility of six miles. There was a light rain.

Street said Flight 710 last made radio contact at 8:35 p.m., a standard contact with the Air Traffic Control in Fammag City. The plane left the Springfield airport at 8:10 p.m. Tuesday, he said, some 45 minutes behind schedule because of a crew delay earlier in the day.

The next report on the plane came at 8:56 and 9:06 p.m. when John Fisher called the Perry County Sheriff’s Office to report a crash on his property — which the Sheriff said was weather related — which was located near the five miles northeast of Pinckneyville.

Fisher, 78, and his wife, Arilla, 75, were watching television when they heard the plane come down. Mrs. Fisher went to the rear of the house and saw the plane crash, her husband said.

“We heard it circle the house three times,” the Sheriff said. “Then it hit and it just made a big boom.”

Jimmie Hill, a neighboring farmer, said he heard the plane circling and noted that its engine “sounded like it was coming out.”

State Police Lt. John Richter said the wreckage was spread over nearly three-quarters of a mile, with part of the plane resting in a large pond. The plane broke off top of trees on a ridge before bouncing off. It skipped I think a couple of times like a stone on water,” he said.

State Police Sgt. William Brooks said that the impact of the plane left “splattered debris to be scattered everywhere.”

Air Illinois officials speculated that the plane may have tried to make a forced landing in a field, but ran up a ridge and became airborne again, when it lost a wing. The wingless fuselage landed in a pond.

Air Illinois President Roger Street said that the plane was famous for its “high degree of reliability.” He also described the crew as being “extremely competent.”

The three member crew had been flying the Chicago-Memphis to Carbondale route together regularly, Street said. The flight is scheduled for each weekday.

743; and Dalvir Singh, a computer software sales representative from the Chicago area, according to airline officials.

The bodies of all 10 victims were taken at noon Wednesday to the UIUC basic science laboratories in the School of Technical Careers Building.

The accident was the first since Air Illinois began operation 14 years ago. The airline is based at Southern Illinois Airport at Carbondale and serves a six state area that includes: Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, and Missouri.

Air Illinois officials Wednesday sent the two “black boxes” — the voice and flight data recorders — to Washington, D.C.

The details of the black boxes will not be available for two to three days. Air Illinois President Roger Street said.

The investigation of the accident scene has been turned over to the National Transportation Safety Board, he said.

NTSB Chief Investigator Ron Schleeve said that his group of five investigators were in the process of beginning a detailed investigation: “It could take anywhere from a week to two weeks before we know what happened,” he said.

“There is no indication at all of any mechanical problems. At this point we can only surmise that it was weather related,” Street said.

Later, saying that he “had absolutely no idea” of what caused the crash, Street said “there is no information to indicate weather was a factor or was it lightning.”

A thunderstorm began in the area of the crash at 8:40 p.m., according to a spokesman for the Southern Illinois Airport weather room. At 8:45 p.m., the sky was reported to have been overcast and visibility was limited to one mile. Winds were clocked at 9 mph.

Gang of Four enraptures small crowd

By Joe Waller

They had the beat and the sincerity that are only incorporated in the most memorable shows. Unfortunately, they did not have a sellout crowd.

The performance by British band Gang of Four before an audience of about 400 in the 700-seat Shroyer Auditorium Tuesday night was an energetic one.

After an especially worthwhile, danceable, polyrhythmic performance by the opening act The Wave Moves, Gang of Four roared into two of their most well known tunes, "To Live Is to Dream Alone" and "Love a Man in Uniform," and kept the energy at a constant from that point on.

Lead singer Jon King's fiery and at times quirky stage presence was contrasted by the cool seriousness of bassist Lee and guitarist Andrew Gill. The partially filled auditorium reverberated with Gang of Four's earlier favorites such as "Cheesburger," or "I Found That Essence Rare," and at times, the thematic and humanistic political ideas, including the original drummer Hugo Burnham, used to meet at a Madrigal Dinner.

"Hard" was an attempt at compromise, Gill said no. "It involved a different approach, musically," he said. "We've never tried to be incoherent. We weren't about to do something that no one would listen to."

The themes of Gang of Four songs clearly communicate their humanistic political ideas, according to Gill, who said, "It's the nature of our game."

"I'm a sincere interest in pleasing the audience of about 400 in the Center Auditorium" Gang of Four guitarist Gill plays at Shroyer Auditorium reverberated with Gang of Four's earlier favorites such as "Cheesamburger." or "I Found That Essence Rare." were played.

Backstage, guitarist Gill, the Gang's composer, and King, the lyricist, talked about the group's inception. Impressions of America, and french fries in mayonnaise. When asked about whether he thought the band's latest album was an attempt at compromise, Gill said no.

Kinks. It was when the band started in the summer of 1977, he didn’t think it would go too far. He said that he had worked in a factory during the summer of that year and found that Burnham had booked quite a few gigs throughout London. “We were an unsigned band getting 2,000 gigs.” King said. When the band’s first EP, “Damaged Goods,” was released, King said he quit. “I didn’t want to be in a band that was successful,” King said.

But King said that the other band members auditioned other singers and lyricists and came back to him and successfully lured him back. When Gang of Four first toured the United States before their first domestic release “Entertainment” in 1979. King said, “There was six of us in a bus: four band members, a road manager and a technician.”

King said his impressions of America are about the same as they were when he first visited here in 1974 and hitchhiked through the countryside. “I loved it,” he said. But he admitted that there is a resentment among Europeans toward this country. “All Europeans resent America,” King said. “It’s much freer here than in England.” However, he added, “You don’t have a neat culture. People don’t value the past here.”

Gill said that differences he noticed was that phone service is better in America, but the power service is better in England. Gill added that in Europe, people like to eat their French fries with mayonnaise.

Some desk jobs are more exciting than others.

As a Navy pilot or officer, your desk can be a sophisticated combination of supersonic jet aircraft and advanced electronic equipment. But you can handle it. Because Navy flight training gives you the navigation, aerodynamics and other technical know-how you need.

In return, Navy aviation demands something of you as an officer: Leadership.

Your path to leadership starts with officer training that's among the most demanding in the military. It's intensive, leadership and professional schooling combined with rigorous Navy flight training. And if you want to prepare you and other college graduates for the unique challenge of Navy aviation. The program is tough but rewarding.

One important reward for Navy officers is decision-making authority. In the air, and on the ground, you have management responsibility from the beginning. And your responsibility grows as you gain experience.

No company can give you this kind of leadership responsibility this fast. And nothing beats the sheer excitement of Navy flying.

The salary is exciting, too. Right away, you'll earn about $18,300 a year. That's better than the average corporation will pay you just out of college. And with regular Navy promotions and other pay increases, your annual salary will soar to $31,100 after four years. That's on top of a full package of benefits and privileges.

Before you settle down to an earth-bound desk job, reach for the sky. Reach for the coupon. Find out what it takes to be part of the Naval Aviation Team. You could have a desk that flies at twice the speed of sound.

Proprietors of six Makanda businesses will sponsor a two-day "In the Forest Art Festival" Saturday and Sunday in an effort to dispel the popular belief that the hamlet is a "hippie haven" and to establish it as a "craft community."

A local business owner and craftsman, Julie Stratham-Becker, said many people believe that "anybody who lives down here is a hippie," but that's not true.

"We're all young and, yes, some of us are laid back, but we have an image that we don't deserve. We are artists and craftsmen who want to practice our art and try to make a living at it," Stratham-Becker said. She and the 13 other craftsmen who inhabit the village would like to establish a "craft community" for artists and craftsmen to live and practice their trade.

"We would like to have the reputation of a 'craft community' that has the goal of reviving crafts," she said. "We need to get established. The market is out there for the products, but people just don't know where to find us."

Set in a quaint, Appalachian-like village atmosphere, the arts and crafts festival will feature the Southern Sisters, who use hand-operated looms to demonstrate how to weave. The group includes Anita Davis, Judy Hafeman, Rita Linzi and Chandra Cole.

In all, Stratham-Becker said, there should be 25 craft booths.

On both days, there will be demonstrations of how to operate old-fashioned crafting equipment. Some of the demonstrations will include blacksmithing at her forge, jewelry making and pottery demonstrations, she said.

Pleasant entertainment has been lined up, she said. On Saturday the Arabian Nights Belly Dancers will perform at 4 and 5 p.m.

From 11 a.m. until 3 p.m. on Saturday, the local duet of Kathy and Kathleen will perform a variety of music. Other musical entertainment is also planned, she said.

Stratham-Becker also noted that pony rides will be offered for 50 cents from 1 to 4 p.m. both days.

Hollywood types meet politicians at gala debut for 'Right Stuff'

WASHINGTON (AP) -- "Superman" turned senator turned astronaut. The movie will premiere Sunday, an Atlanta premiere Monday and a Chicago premiere Wednesday.

The Washington kickoff is the big one. AFI; 1,412 seats in Kennedy Center have been sold, with ticket prices ranging from $100 to $220. There have been a dozen $10,000 contributions.

"The Right Stuff" tells the story of America's entry into the space age, from the sound barrier-breaking flights of Chuck Yeager through the six flights of the Mercury astronauts -- including Glenn's historic three orbits. Glenn comes off on the big screen as an All-American hero, a bit moralistic, but a family man concerned about the astronauts' image.

In one of the most effective scenes, Glenn's wife Annie, a stutterer, wants to keep Vice President Lyndon Johnson out of her house while Glenn is on his history-making flight. Johnson, fuming outside the house, applies pressure through NASA; Glenn backs up Annie.

Actor Ed Harris plays Glenn as a God-fearing, spineless patriot given to saying things like, "I just thank God I live in a country where the best and finest in a man can be brought out." He knows he's a gung-ho type and once asks Annie, "You think I'm a Dudley Do-right?"

Mrs. Glenn nods her head, yes.

In the large cast, only Yeager comes off looking better than Glenn.

Yeager, who plays a barfly in the movie, and four of the Mercury astronauts will be guests -- along with their actor doubles -- at a dinner Saturday for the companies that contributed $10,000 or more to AFI.

That $10,000 buys, for 10 people, dinner, a seat at the movie in the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, and entrance to a gala to be held in a hangar at National Airport, where the Air Force band will play and there will be a buffet featuring the veal. For $5,000, contributors will get six theater tickets, six to the gala and a brunch in the plush executive offices of USA Today across the Poto mac River from Washington.
Decision pending on work camp site

By Phillip Florini

There is still a chance that Touch of Nature Environmental Center may be used as a work camp for minimum security prison inmates, Clarence Dougherty, vice president for campus services, said Tuesday. The Illinois Department of Corrections has shown interest in leasing the University environmental center's Campsite B for a work camp, but Dougherty said he hasn't heard from the DOC since last week. "The issue is not moot," Dougherty said. "We know there's interest out there, but there hasn't been any negotiating with the DOC.

DOC representatives came to SU-C and were given a walking tour of the Touch of Nature campsite on Sept. 30. Last Thursday, DOC officials again met with Dougherty, who said that nothing that occurred then could be considered negotiations.

Michael Lane, DOC director, has proposed to locate a 106- to 125-prisoner work-release camp at the site. He has said 70 jobs could be created should the DOC locate at the University facility.

Norman Dahl, executive director of the Lions of Illinois Foundation, has said that establishing a work camp for prisoners would greatly affect the Touch of Nature facility. It is located on land owned by the University.

Health department to give flu shots

Flu shots will be given at the Jackson County Health Department on regular clinic days from 1 to 3:30 p.m. beginning Monday at 604 E. College St. in Carbondale and from 9 a.m. to noon beginning Wednesday at 342-A North St. in Murphysboro. The shots will also be available from 9 a.m. to noon beginning Saturday, Oct. 22 at the Murphysboro office. There will be a $3 charge for the vaccine.

The shots are available for adults age 21 to 49 who have a chronic illness and anyone over 60. Influenza, or flu, as it is commonly known, is not a serious threat for most healthy people, according to health department officials. However, the chronically ill or the elderly may have symptoms that are more severe or last longer. These individuals are advised to get a flu shot each year to reduce the risk of developing severe complications from influenza, officials said.

Friends and family gather for McFarlin memorial service

By John Schrag
Staff Writer

Harold McFarlin's sister, Marguerite Buntrok, said her brother would have liked the memorial service which was held on him Wednesday afternoon.

The informal service was a celebration of McFarlin's life, not a lamentation of his death. And, even more important, Buntrok said those attending the service represented the entire Southern Illinois community that pulled together to give her brother a new — though short — life.

About 100 people gathered in the Student Center, an auditorium to pay tribute to McFarlin, who died last Tuesday after his body was exhumed and transplanted to Stanford.

The audience contained students, fellow faculty members, University administrators, city officials and several residents of Carbondale.

Residents of Carbondale Towers were actively involved in the fundraising effort, which enabled the 45-year-old history professor to travel to Stanford Medical Center in Palo Alto, Calif., where, after a three-month wait, a suitable donor heart was found and implanted on Aug. 11.

Joe Baker, human services director at the apartments complex, spoke at the memorial service. He said residents of Carbondale Towers "found common purpose" in their united effort to help McFarlin, and because of them, he is now better able to deal with their own mortality.

"Today I don't want to say my goodbye," Baker said. "I'd rather say my thank-you."

Bob Hallissey, a colleague of McFarlin's, said that the fundraising effort was "the result of the efforts of people of all ages, from senior citizens to first graders."

SIU-C students were also actively involved in the fundraising effort which eventually raised more than $60,000 for McFarlin's life-saving operation.

Dan Nadler, past president of SIU-C's interfraternal council, said the $4,000 group raised for McFarlin was not wasted.

"Under no circumstances do I feel that we lost the battle," he said at the service. "I feel we won."

History Professor John Simon said McFarlin also served as a good example for other teachers. He described his colleague as a "passionate advocate of education."

"He had a sense of mission and a need to teach," Simon said. "He was successful as a teacher because he never ceased to be a student himself."

History Professor Robert Gold, a close friend of McFarlin's who spearheaded the fundraising effort, also spoke at the service. Gold said he admired McFarlin's courage and determination. McFarlin displayed "incredible courage" in facing the prospect of death and the possibility of a difficult operation.

Gold said that all McFarlin asked for was the chance to live. And if he had the opportunity, Gold said, McFarlin would tell people that "I wanted my chance and I got it."

Professor McFarlin's brother, Clyde, attended the service along with his mother, Josephine, and Mrs. Buntrok.

The three planned to return to Stanford yesterday after those brief weeks after the transplant, his brother saw his dream come true.

"He was filled with hope, he was filled with the promise of the future... and he had life," Clyde McFarlin said. "The end was sudden and the end was tragic, but the life was full.

"He said that he and the rest of his family could not think Southern Illinois received enough for their generosity."

"You gave him life, and that's the greatest gift I could ever ask for," said McFarlin. "I was under no circumstances do I feel that we lost the battle," he said at the service. "I feel we won."

History Professor John Simon said McFarlin also served as a good example for other teachers. He described his colleague as a "passionate advocate of education."

The Southern Counties Action Movement is looking for new members and hoping to expand its area of involvement.

MaryAnn Dalzell, chairperson of SCAM's board of directors, said the group will hold a general membership meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Ballroom of John A. Logan College.

Although the consumer advocacy group is best known for its involvement with utility issues, Dalzell said SCAM hopes to embark on new projects of consumer interest. Because a large part of SCAM's operating budget comes from membership fees, Dalzell said the group needs to expand its membership and then respond to the issues that concern its members.

Debate team wins first in competition

The Debate team was awarded first place in a competition against 21 teams at Middle Tennessee State University. Members Tammy Prange, junior in math, and Lyndon Sommer, sophomore in accounting, competed in the tournament against teams from Illinois, Kansas, Georgia, Alabama, Indiana, Tennessee, Texas and Florida.

The Debate team also received third and fifth place awards in the University of Alabama Speakeasy Tournament. At this competition, Sommer received a second place individual speaker award.

TV program focuses on Black Panthers

"Dimensions," WSUI-TV's public affairs program, will air a one-hour special, "The Black Panthers: A Violent End" at 8 p.m. Thursday. Produced by Kevin Watson and Grayling Martin, cinema and photography majors, the program will focus on the rise of the Black Panther Party in the middle and late '60s and specifically on their activities in Carbondale.

Another issue that SCAM members are concerned about, Dalzell said, is the possibility of the state establishing a nuclear waste disposal site in Southern Illinois. Other issues that SCAM will be working on, she said, include promoting health care for the elderly and involving jobless residents in an effort to create employment in the Southern Illinois area.

SCAM will also continue to work on tax reform measures and fight for an unconditional ban on utility shutoffs during the winter months. Dalzell said.

Frisbee team advances to regional tournament

Full Tilt SIU-C's men's Ultimate Frisbee team captured second-place last weekend in the Illinois-Indiana Sectional Championship tournament.

The team traveled to Lake Forest, where Windy City, a Chicago-based team, played host for the sectional. Windy City claimed the championship of the tournament.

Saturday Full Tilt easily disposed of the University of Illinois, 15-7, Clinton Valley, 13-4, and Earlham, 15-10. The team faced Purdue Sunday and won 15-11.

The victory over Purdue allowed Full Tilt to advance to the championship game, where Windy City outran the SIU-C club to capture the sectional crown with a 21-13 win.

By virtue of their second-place finish, Full Tilt, along with Windy City and Clinton Valley, which finished third, will advance to the Midwest Regional Championship Tournament.

Full Tilt will play host at the tournament October 22-23. The tournament will consist of play between the top 16 teams from a 14-state Midwest area. The top two finishers will automatically qualify for play in the National Championships in New Orleans during Thanksgiving break.

Eight women's teams will also compete during the regional at SIU-C, in invitational-style competition.

rushing, but passed for just 88.8 yards per game. Southwest has averaged 27.8 points per game, highlighted by three consecutive games in which the Bears scored 35 points or more.

Fullback Johnny Longstreet leads the Bears with 304 yards on 62 carries, while averaging three touchdowns. Halfback Keith Williams has averaged seven yards a carry, gaining 238 yards on 34 rushes.

Williams has also snared nine passes for 134 yards to lead the team.

Defensively, the Bears have been ferocious against the run, yielding only 104.4 yards per game. Against the pass, it is a slightly different story — Southwest has given up more than 200 yards per game.

JOHANNINGMEIER said he does not see that as a real problem. Though, for his secondary has intercepted 13 passes this season. Free safety Mike Armentrout leads the team with four pickoffs, while Terry Gehman and Steve Ache each have two interceptions.

"We're boding quite a bit, but we're not breaking on pass defense," Johanningmeier said. "The yards that our opponents have been getting are the type of yards you'll give up when you're sitting on the lead."

So far this season, Johanningmeier said he has been willing to give up those passing yards. Southwest's average victory has been by almost 25 points.

This season, eight I-AA opponents are on the Southwest schedule. The Salukis are the fourth I-AA team that Southwest will face this season.

Johanningmeier said he is pleased that his squad has already won more games against I-AA teams this year than it did last year, but he would like to see the climb continue against the Salukis.
Big challenge awaiting golfers in tough tourney

By Sherry Chisholm

Sports Editor

The biggest challenge of the fall season awaits the women's golf team in Lexington, Ky., this week when Coach Mary Beth McGirr's club tees off in the toughest tournament of its fall schedule.

The Salukis will have to put together their best outing of the season to even finish in the middle of the pack in the 54-hole Ladies Intercollegiate at Greenhills Country Club, a course underwritten by Sue Olinger. The Salukis have played. McGirr Purdue to tie for fourth overall.

According to McGirr, her team has to put together their best outing of the season. "We've been seriously injured, but we had him put back into the game," McGirr said of Arterburn, who left the game when he twisted his ankle.

Sophomore Greg Arterburn, who left the game when he twisted his ankle, will be one of the team's key players in the tournament. "He has taken control of the team," McGirr said. "He is the type of player who can put us on the map."
