Sex bias charged in athletic funding

The Illinois House higher education subcommittee heard testimony charging discrimination from 17 witnesses representing women's athletic departments of both SIU campuses Thursday.

The subcommittee held a day-long hearing in the Student Center. It has been investigating charges of discrimination in women's athletic departments on other Illinois campuses, including Illinois State University and the University of Illinois.

Rep. Eugenia Chapman (D-Arlington Heights), acting chairman of the subcommittee, said the problems of discrimination revealed at the SIU campuses were similar to problems on other campuses in the state.

Charlotte West, director of intercollegiate athletics at SIU-C, said budgeting was the worst form of discrimination in the department, but personnel shortages and lack of decent facilities were also severe problems.

Ms. West said she can't find where decisions on the budget are made. Both Keith Leasure, vice president for academic affairs, and T. Richard Mager, vice president for developmental services, deny having made the decision on the budget for women's athletic program, said Ms. West, adding: "We don't know who to turn to."

The women's intercollegiate athletic program got $34,000 for the 1973-74 fiscal year compared to $570,000 in athletic fees allocated to the men's program, Ms. West said.

The women's intercollegiate program operates solely on athletic fees, but the men's program receives funding from other sources.

Total budget this year for the men's intercollegiate program was $1,229,280, men's athletic director Doug Weaver testified. Extra monies come from state funds, donations, ticket receipts and program sales, he said.

Another difficulty is in shortage of personnel. Women, with 12 varsity teams, have the equivalent of two full-time coaches, while the men's program has the equivalent of 14.8 full-time coaches with 10 varsity teams, Ms. West said.

Ms. West also charged discrimination against women physical education instructors who must carry full-time teaching loads in addition to coaching. Ideally, women coaches, like their male counterparts, would only teach about three activity courses instead of a full-time load of six during their sport's season, she said.

"As it is now, our coaches are overworked and don't have nearly enough time for the teams," Ms. West said.

The women's program also lacks civil service workers, business personnel and trainers assigned to the men's program, she said.

Lack of facilities also drew complaints.

Joanne Thorpe, chairman of the Women's Physical Education Department said the women's gym badly needs renovation.

"Nothing has been done to the gym since the men moved out ten years ago. The plumbing is poor and more

City will get credit union

By Debby Ratemann
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Carbondale Credit Union has become a reality. Student Body President Mike Carr announced Thursday. The union's charter has been approved by federal examiners and is required by law to be put into operation within 90 days.

Student Government members have been working on the credit union for nearly two years, since summer quarter 1972. The charter was rejected once last fall before being accepted as of April 15.

Carr said the credit union venture "is one of the first times Student Government has worked with townspeople." The Carbondale Credit Union will be the first in the country organized and directed by both students and townspeople.

John Hardt explained that the credit union is formed of members who pay a small membership fee to join, and buy shares. Money collected from investments is loaned out at a small interest rate, probably less than 5 per cent, "to people who normally can't get credit."

"This will really help students, who normally can't get loans," John Sheridan said. "One benefit for students is that a loan can smooth out the big cash outlay for books and tuition at the beginning of the semester. It smooths out the peaks and valleys of spending."

Sheridan said the credit union will handle small loans the banks won't handle. "A bank can't afford to give out a $10 loan, because it costs them more than that for the secretary to do the

Rich rapped by trustee opponent

By Debby Ratemann
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Student trustee candidate Steve Nuckles charged Thursday night that one of his opponents, Matthew Rich, was using his "epilepsy as a rubber crutch."

But Nuckles, during a press conference for trustee candidates, denied that he had spread rumors of Rich's epileptic condition.

"Matthew is using his epilepsy as a rubber crutch," Nuckles said. "He told me when we were on radio station WIDB that flashing lights and a screeching microphone could cause an attack. I wonder if he were sitting at the Board of Trustees table and someone took his picture, if he would have an attack."

Nuckles' statement met with jeers from the audience. Rich said, "It's of no concern to anyone."

The four candidates—Nuckles, Rich, Ron Adams and Kathy Jones—each spoke for five minutes before the floor was opened to questions. About twelve students and the campus press attended the conference in the Student Center Ballrooms.

Rich, who won the trustee position in the Dec. 5 election which was later invalidated, said he is running again for three reasons. "I am concerned about the next President and don't want the same mistake made. I also think students need a bigger voice in fund allocations. And thirdly, I feel qualified for the job," he said.

Rich said he had discussed voting power for the student trustee with legislators in Springfield. "Several legislators have told me that if the student proves responsible, the vote may come this fall," Rich said. "We need more student trustees with voting power," Rich said. "We also need a voting faculty member. But I think one student trustee is a step in the right direction."

Adams said his main concern if elected would be "establishment of a student board of affairs, composed of representatives from living areas, academic units, undergraduates and graduate students."

"It's very necessary to have input or the vote doesn't mean a darn thing," Adams said. "The board also needs someone who can develop good public relations, and that's my major."

Nuckles said his platform "is not huge or complicated because SIU is not huge or complicated." He said an advisory board would be "no better than the Student Senate" and said he would form a triad of "Friends of the Student Trustee" is elected.

"These friends would help me. Of course, I'll also have secretaries and a public relations man," Nuckles said.

Ms. Jones, a graduate student in higher education, said she studies university problems "every day in my classes. We need someone on the board with a knowledge of educational trends who'll know what a decision could mean five or ten years from now."

Nixon subpoenaed by impeachment panel

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon was subpoenaed by the House Judiciary Committee Thursday to turn over all tapes and other materials sought for its impeachment inquiry but the White House declined to say it would fully comply.

After the subpoena was issued by a 33-3 committee vote, White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler promised only that Nixon would supply the committee within two weeks with unspecified materials that would be "comprehensive and conclusive in regard to the President's actions."

Ziegler said the White House had been pledging since Tuesday to make some of the requested materials available when Congress returns from its Easter recess on April 22. He said the White House review of these materials would continue.

The White House spokesman declined to say that Nixon would fully comply with the subpoena, declaring only that he would turn over materials "consistent with his constitutional responsibilities."

Ziegler argued that the materials which he said would reach the committee between April 22 and April 25 would bear out Nixon's past explanations of his Watergate role and "will receive the support of the House."

The subpoena, directs the President to respond by 10 a.m. on April 25, four days from its Easter recess.

The committee's order came despite an offer from James D. St. Clair, the President's Watergate lawyer, to deliver some of the material requested within a few days. But St. Clair had refused to make an immediate decision on all of the material the committee had requested in a letter delivered to the White House last Feb. 25.

The committee is demanding tapes of a total of 36 conversations in April 1973 and six that took place in February and March of that year.

The tapes St. Clair offered to turn over cover conversations the President had with H.R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman and John W. Dean III between Feb. 20 and March 30, 1973. In each case, in its letter of Feb. 25, 1974, the committee staff was able to request a specific conversation believed to have concerned Watergate.

Rep. Robert McClory (R-Ill.) who had supported many White House requests at committee sessions, called Clair's offer "entirely too equivocal."

He voted in favor of the subpoena. Edward Hutchinson of Michigan, ranking Republican on the committee, voted against the subpoena. Later he said he opposed it because it is not enforceable and because the White House had indicated it would turn over all or most of the material the committee is demanding.

"It doesn't seem to me as though it necessary to issue a subpoena today," Hutchinson said.

Three Arabs slay 18 Israelis during early morning raid

QIRYAT SHMONAH, Israel (AP)—Three Arab terrorists raided an Israeli border town as its inhabitants were rising from their beds Thursday and killed 18 men, women and children with bursts of submachine-gun fire and rocket grenades. Another 15 persons were reported wounded.

Officials said most of the dead were children. The Arabs died in an explosion inside a four-story apartment building they had seized.

"They were throwing children from the top floor of the building," a local police officer said.

Palestinian commando organization in Lebanon said Arabs were on a suicide mission to enforce demands for the release of Arab guerrillas held by Israel. Israeli officials said they had received no such demand from the guerrillas.

Premier Golda Meir, speaking in the parliament in Jerusalem, termed the attack "murder for the sake of murder," and said Israel would hold Lebanon responsible because Palestinian guerrillas are based there.

Others against the subpoena were Republicans Charles E. Wiggins of California and Trent Lott of Mississippi.

If the White House should defy the subpoena, the Judiciary Committee would have several alternatives. One would be to prosecute its subpoena in the court as the Senate Watergate committee is doing with its subpoena for tapes. A committee lawyer said the committee could ask the House to cite the President for contempt or simply determine defiance of the subpoena to be an impeachable offense.

The raiders slipped across the border of Lebanon, about a mile away, with three other Arabs who burst into a school, but found it empty because of the Jewish holy season of Passover. Officials said these three escaped back across the mountainous border.

Israeli officials described the attack as the worst of its kind in the war that Arab guerrillas have been carrying out against Israel throughout its 26-year history. It was the worst terrorist strike inside Israel since the attack on Tel Aviv's Lod airport two years ago.

Police here said the three Arabs blew themselves up with explosives they were carrying as Israeli security forces moved in on them in the apartment building. But the Israeli military command in Tel Aviv said gunfire from security forces set off the explosives.

In Jerusalem, Mrs. Meir, who is stepping down as premier, announced the casualties as 33 dead or wounded. She added that eight of the dead were children, five were women and the remainder were men.

State officials discuss West Main alternatives

Officials from the Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) met with the thoroughfare committee of the planning commission Thursday night to explain three alternatives in improving traffic on West Main Street in Carbondale.

The work is being planned in conjunction with completion of the east-west couple, a system by which Route 13 in Carbondale will be divided into two one-way streets starting at Oakland Street. The couple is completed except for a connecting street between Main Street and Walnut Street.

Ted Jennings, from IDOT, presented slides and drawings of the proposed improvements. The area covers Main Street from Old West Main Street east to Oakland Street.

The first alternative would provide "maximum service of through traffic," Jennings said. The plan includes three lanes of traffic for both directions plus the addition of frontage roads on both sides of Main Street.

Access to Main Street would be only from local roads which would lead to the frontage roads. The frontage roads would then lead to the businesses in the area.

The second alternative would also feature six lanes of traffic but would not include the frontage roads. Left turns would be allowed on West Main whereas they wouldn't with the first alternative.

Golda Meir says Israel will keep vows, seek peace

By Marcus Eliaison
Associated Press Writer

JERUSALEM (AP)—Premier Golda Meir said Thursday that Israel would continue to seek peace and honor its international commitments despite current political uncertainty in the Jewish state.

Formally announcing her resignation before a packed parliament, she also warned that Israel's army is deployed "as always and stands ready to fulfill its task."

Mrs. Meir told her supporters Wednesday that she would resign.

It was the second time in just over a month that Mrs. Meir had announced her resignation.

On March 3 she announced she would resign after she failed to win approval for a minority Cabinet. Two days later, after having received an overwhelming vote of confidence from the Labor party, she agreed to reverse her decision.

The third alternative has six lanes and no frontage roads. The median separating the directions of traffic would be a lane for left turns. This alternative would "interfere with the through traffic greatly," Jennings said.

The thoroughfare committee is studying the traffic problem in Carbondale and has been directed by the planning commission to the city's thoroughfare system.

Senate okays curbs on campaigns

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Thursday passed a far-reaching campaign reform bill with the avowed aim of eliminating big-money influence in politics.

It provides for the use of tax funds in financing general and primary campaigns for federal offices.

Also for the first time it puts a ceiling on campaign contributions and limits the total expenditures of presidential and congressional candidates.

Another key section establishes a bipartisan Federal Elections Commission empowered to bring civil and criminal prosecutions, independently of the Justice Department, for violations of campaign financing.

Passage of the bill, 53 to 32, after a debate that began March 26, climaxed a battle in which the Senate's filibuster rule was invoked by a one-vote margin.

The controversy centered around the provisions for public financing of campaigns, but all moves to remove this part of the bill were rejected.

Much of the impetus for passage of the bill, which now goes to the House, came from the Watergate affair and related scandals of the 1972 election.

However, the legislation is expected to have rough going in the House where opposition to public financing of congressional races and primary campaigns is regarded as stronger than in the Senate.

The weather:

Cloudy, warm and windy

Friday: Cloudy, warm and wind with the high temperature in the upper 60s to lower 70s. There will be a 60 per cent chance for showers and thunderstorms. The wind will be from the W at 8-17 mph with gusts to 24 mph. Barometric pressure will continue to decrease until passage of the storm system.

Friday night: Partly cloudy and cool with the low temperature in the upper 40s to lower 50s. Precipitation probabilities will be decreasing to 30 per cent tonight and tomorrow.

Saturday: Partly sunny and continued warm with the high about 69 degrees. Thursday's high on campus 68, 2 p.m., low 42, 5 a.m. (Information supplied by SIU Geology Department weather station.)

Even if the bill should be accepted by the House, it is threatened with a presidential veto.

President Nixon has opposed using federal tax revenues to finance election campaigns, arguing this would be a raid on the treasury and siphon off funds from pressing national needs.

Similar arguments were made against public financing by Senate opponents, led by Sen. James B. Allen, (D-Ala.) who said taxpayers should not be forced to help pay for the campaigns of candidates they oppose.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, (D-Mass.), a chief advocate of public financing, said that "at a single stroke we can drive the money lenders out of the temple of politics."

Under the bill major party candidates would be entitled to full government funding of their general election campaigns up to set spending limits.

Minor party or independent candidates would be entitled to payments in proportion to their popular vote, either on the basis of their showing in the last election or through reimbursement after an election.

A candidate could rely entirely on private contributions or he could finance his campaign with a mixture of private and public funds.

A presidential candidate would have to raise $250,000 in contributions of $250 or less, including $5,000 from each of 20 states, in order to be eligible for federal matching grants to finance his quest for the nomination.

The bill would limit presidential candidates to overall expenditures of about $17 million in their general campaigns.

The compares to about $55 million spent on President Nixon's re-election campaign in 1972 and upwards of $25 million spent by Sen. George McGovern, his Democratic opponent.

14 vie for title of Kappa queen

Candidates for Kappa Karnival queen have been announced by Alvin White, Karnival Kourt chairman of Kappa Alpha Psi fraternity.

The queen, to be crowned during the Karnival Weekend, April 18-21, is selected on the basis of amount of ad sales for the Karnival patrons' book and rapport with fraternity brothers.

Candidates are Alesia Anderson, a senior majoring in Spanish from Carbondale; Angela Alexander, a freshman nursing major from Chicago; Marsha Barber, a freshman from Rock Island majoring in court reporting; and Roxanne Brown, a Chicago freshman majoring in interior design.

Also Linda Hancock, a freshman radio-TV major from East St. Louis; Michele Hardon, a freshman majoring in business; Teresa Hodge, a sophomore from Paducah, Ky., majoring in secretary and office specialties; Gwen Lewis, a junior math major from Chicago; Joan Menzies, a freshman in pre-med from Chicago; and Kathy Reed, a sophomore in social welfare from Kansas City, Kan.

Also Vicki Palmer, a sophomore in special education from Carbondale; Jeanette Samuels, a freshman in journalism from Chicago; Caffie Shepherd, a freshman in retailing from Silex Mo.; and Toni Mitchell, a freshman majoring in administration of justice, from St. Louis.

Guests expected for this year's Karnival include Mayors Tom Bradley of Los Angeles and Richard Hatcher of Gary, Ind., and basketball stars Wilt Chamberlain and Oscar Robertson.

A highlight of the Karnival, which is in its 23rd year, will be a concert featuring Eddie Kendricks and Al Wilson April 19 in the Arena.

S-Senate delays action on fee allocation

By Brenda Penland
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Student Senate failed to act on the controversial recommendations of the Joint Fee Allocation Board (JFAB) at Wednesday night's Senate meeting. The recommendations are for funding campus organizations during 1974-75.

Members of the Black Affairs council (BAC) objected to the recommended $10,000 BAC allocation at last week's meeting when the JFAB report was introduced.

Continued opposition was expected Wednesday but the senate voted to table the report to allow a breakdown of funds to be tabulated by the finance committee. The breakdown of funds should be completed by the next senate meeting.

The JFAB report must be acted upon by the senate before it can be sent to Student Body President Mike Carr, Dean of Students Bruce Swinburne, Acting President Hiram Lesar and the Board of Trustees.

In other business, the senate passed a bill increasing the size of the Campus Judicial Board from a minimum of nine members to a maximum of 21.

Mary Hartzell, a member of the J-Board, said it's difficult to obtain a quorum of seven with only nine members. She said it will be to the students benefit to have more members.

The senate also passed recommendations of the finance committee for special funding of four organizations.

The recommendations and funding are:

Free School, $225 for a state conference dealing with corrections; Feminist Action Coalition, $125 for printing four newsletters; Gay Liberation, $181.19 for transportation of a guest speaker and Southern Players, $128 for lodging the cast of "Living in State" for a night in Washington, D.C.

A recommendation requesting $126 for the Pan-Hellenic council for participation in the National Pan-Hellenic Council Convention was tabled.

A bill denying recognition of the Daily Egyptian as a student newspaper and calling for the withholding of student funds was given first reading at the meeting.

The bill declares that, not being a student newspaper, the Daily Egyptian does not deserve student funding until such a time as Howard Long, editor and fiscal officer of the Daily Egyptian, appears before the senate.

The senate censured Long winter quarter for failing to meet with its Academic Affairs Committee, which investigated the editorial policy of the Daily Egyptian.

A bill suggesting that a portion of the University House and the grounds be converted into a golf course was also introduced. The proposed golf course would be available to the University family, the SIU staff and students.

Three groups were recognized as official campus organizations. The groups are the Japanese Student Association, The Sisters of Thompson Poin and the Special Olympics.

dressing room space is needed, she said.

Outdoor fields are a disaster, she said. There aren't enough of them and they are located in places too far away from the girl's gym, said Ms. Thorpe. The girls have to dress for class at the gym, then walk all the way over to Wham for most outdoor field sports. In a two-hour class, only about 55 minutes is left for class time, Ms. Thorpe said.

The other outdoor field at Wall and Park Street is not kept up for use, she said.

Ms. West said she often has problems getting maintenance for the fields even though she puts in requests early. Many times girls have been forced to mow the lawn and even build equipment for field hockey games, she said.

Girls have consistently been denied use of the football stadium, the practice football field and the baseball field, Ms. West said.

Ms. West said she would like to see an equalization in athletic stipends available to students. The men's program pays the room, board and books for 220 men athletes. The women's program has only 30 tuition waivers.

Six coed athletes also testified at the hearing.

Phyllis Swoboda of the gymnastics team said two years ago the team won all its matches but could not attend the state meet due to lack of money.

Barbara Smisko, a member of the field hockey team, said the team often had to spend many unnecessary hours on the road because it lacked the money to pay for overnight lodging.

Jeannene Jenkins said two field hockey players were injured recently by a ball deflected by a rough playing surface.

Several of the girls talked about the need for more and better uniforms and travel facilities.

Subcommittee members present were Reps. Chapman, Robert Day, (R-Peoria), and Rose S. Vieth, legislative aide to Ralph Dunn, (R-Du Quoin). State Sen. Kenneth Buzbee, (D-Carbondale) was a visitor on the panel.

About 45 persons attended the hearing.

paperwork," he said. "We'll be willing to do it because we have a volunteer staff."

Hardt said the credit union could eventually approve unsecured loans, meaning those with no collateral or co-signers, for as much as $700.

"Co-signed or collateral-backed loans can legally go as high as $5,000," Hardt said.

"But it is up to the credit union's board of directors to determine loan ceilings and interest rates," he added.

The board of directors includes six students—Carr, Kania, Hardt, Sheridan, Jeff Lohrmann and Joel Blake—and seven townspeople—Bill Hitchcock, Alton Woodruff, Phil Cerutti, Van Anderson, Joseph Wilson, Ed Rosen and Chuck Neblett.

Carr said the board will meet with a federal examiner soon to discuss interest rates, loan ceilings and operational procedures. No location for the credit union has been chosen yet, Carr said.

Volunteers—students and townspeople—are needed to help with organization and the upcoming membership drive, Carr said. Anyone interested can contact Student Government, 536-3393.

It appears to me that one of the good things, possibly the most salient, in this university is its idealism. This is one of our great strengths and the main factor that has sustained us in all the troubles we have undergone in the past three or four years.

My observation is that people are very tired and worn out by the terrible things that have happened, weary of fighting for causes that are at their core idealistic.

So many good and dedicated faculty have gone to the barricades time and time again, only to be defeated by administrations that are business-management, crisis-management types. Seldom do we ever get to the true purpose of a university, which is, simply said, the education of the young.

Many, many things have been written and said about all the bad things that go on, but very few tell of the good, and there is a lot of real good. Otherwise, why would so many very distinguished people of goodwill devote their life's efforts to building this university? The cynical will say, money. This is the obvious answer, but I do not and cannot believe that is all there is.

There is more, but most people I talk with seem embarrassed to speak of that which is in their deepest hearts. There is a shyness, an understandable reluctance to be thought of as foolish to speak simply of their aims and, if you will, purpose in life. It is just not fashionable to be idealistic. Most all of my friends have been on this campus for 15-20 years. They have devoted their lives to the university and to the town. The question I continually ask is "why?" In most cases, they have had job opportunities and could have left almost any time, especially when the academic job market was quite open. However, they chose to stay. I think the prime reasons were the ever-present sense of movement and the excitement generated at Southern Illinois University-Carbondale. There was a reason for getting up in the morning—it was always exciting to get up in the morning to go on the job.

Almost every other school, it appeared, had reached a stage of equilibrium. Most of the prestige schools were at a "status quo" and the lesser schools were in a state of stagnation.

The endless frustrations, anxieties and fears of the past three or four years have destroyed that feeling. It is time to start moving again. The good purposes of this university must be reaffirmed, and the talent utilized to make this place remain in the forefront of teaching students and to get back to our true purposes of education.

There is, at present, a Carbondale syndrome wherein the brightest and most able people feel they are obligated to complain. For not to complain about the trilogy of bad administration, lack of budgets, and the horrors of the political scene is, in fact, to lose their status as intellectuals. Along with this is a tendency intellectually to shoot from the hip. This negativism has gone on for far too long. It is time for people of sense and reason to examine the good that has existed in this university and begin to build realistically, to strive for the kind of spirit and dedication to daily participation that once existed. Whether or not this can be done I do not know. But it seems to me a most worthwhile goal to begin to pursue.

I have mentioned before the embarrassment that so many of our faculty members seem to have about basic ideals about SIU, their careers and their lives. It is the fact that the faculty cares greatly about what happens. Its fault lies in being altogether too human, too frustrated and too deeply hurt for too many years.

I believe we would all be agreed upon grand principles. I have no specific plans as such. We can all recount a great many rude facts and it is altogether too easy to come to melancholy conclusions. But, there are many very good basic concepts in this university that have been hidden or obscured by dramatic, newsworthy events.

So, I ask, what is the appropriate thing to do right now? I believe it is to examine our real strengths, which are: 1) basic idealism; 2) dedication to the job of teaching the young; and 3) the great fermentation of ideas for today and tomorrow. We have had to put these purposes aside because we have been overwhelmed by the exigencies of the moment. We have forgotten our true purposes in education and have been beguiled by the attractiveness of the public forum.

In the best spirit of self-examination, we must re-establish our purposes and our priorities, based upon the very real strengths of the university.

Academia

A coalition of the American Association of University Professors and the National Education Association came within 52 votes of dislodging the American Federation of Teachers (AFL-CIO) as the collective bargaining agent for faculty members at the University of Hawaii. Because the coalition failed to win a clear majority there will be a run-off election later this later this spring.

Campus teaching institutes that would coordinate a wide variety of activities to give teachers an equal place with research and publication in higher education are among the proposals in a report of the Groups for Human Development in Higher Education. Another suggestion would have students graded by persons other than their teachers. The Group also would change Ph.D. programs to include practical experience in the classroom. Copies of the report, financed by four foundations, are available for $2.95 (cash with order) each from the Change Book Department, NBW Tower, New Rochelle, N.Y. 10801.

The United States Armed Forces Institute, based at the University of Wisconsin, which has administered correspondence courses and high school and college equivalency tests to service men for more than 30 years, is to be disbanded.

An unmarried couple at Evergreen State College, in Washington state, has sought a court order to permit the sharing of a dormitory room.

The suit is based upon an act of the state legislature prohibiting discrimination in housing on the basis of sex or marital status.

Meanwhile by a vote of 7 to 2 the Supreme Court of the United States ruled that local communities can adopt zoning laws that bar certain kinds of communal living. The court said a village on Long Island had not acted unconstitutionally when it barred six unrelated students of the State University of New York at Stony Brook from sharing a rented one-family home.

According to the Institute of International Education, 146,097 foreign students were enrolled in American institutions of higher education during the 1972-73 school year. Of this number more than one third were from the Far East. Nearly 11 per cent were of European origin, eight per cent African, 13 per cent were from the Near and Middle East and 19 per cent were Latin Americans.

The average annual cost of educating a physician, reports the Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences, is $12,650.

Can Gromyko Offset Kissinger?

During his recent visit to Egypt and Syria, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko met twice with Yassir Arafat, terrorist leader of the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) and El Fatah.

Gromyko's visit was accompanied in the Soviet media with expressions of strong support for the Arabs and even stronger pronouncements in favor of the "legitimate interests" or "rights" of the Palestine people. Arab sources, and Arafat himself, emphasized the significance of the meetings with Gromyko. Egypt's foreign minister said on March 5 that the USSR now considers the PLO the only legitimate representative of the Palestine people.

The Lebanese press went further. Between March 5-7 it reported that Gromyko had promised Arafat that Moscow will support the establishment of a Palestinian state, will oppose the return of the West Bank to Jordan, will not permit resumption of the Geneva talks unless a Palestinian delegation is seated at the conference and, finally, that the USSR would in the future lend tangible support to the PLO's struggle for its goals.

In Moscow's eyes, the PLO has acquired a new status. This change in the Soviet attitude was expressed in one of Gromyko's speeches in Damascus: While enumerating the conditions for a settlement of the Arab-Israeli conflict, he emphasized that one of the central conditions was to secure the lawful "national rights" of the Palestinian people.

What has brought about this change in the Soviet attitude? Only the naive will believe that the USSR had concluded that the PLO and its supporters have matured into nationhood and national responsibility and are therefore worthy of formal Soviet support. Soviet actions should be assessed only in the context of Soviet goals and policies in the Middle East.

In the political stage that followed the October war, the Soviets had reason to believe that they would play a major role in the negotiations toward a settlement. After all, it was Soviet missiles that had taken such a heavy toll of Israeli tanks and planes and given the Arabs a new sense of achievement.

But Sadat soon realized that he could make progress on the political level only through a close relationship with the United States. Direct Soviet involvement in the negotiations could only serve as an obstacle. The Kremlin feared that Syria would follow Egypt's example and employ the good offices of the United States at the expense of Soviet influence and prestige.

Gromyko's mission was to offset Kissinger's success in mediation and to retrench Soviet positions in the Arab world. In this context, the Palestinian organizations had an important role to play.

The Arab world being divided—as it has always been—between those who agreed to interim solutions with Israel and those who wanted all or nothing, made the choices open to the Soviets obvious.

Those who were ready for negotiations with Israel needed the American mediating role. The opposite camp was spearheaded by the Palestinian organizations which feared that interim agreements would become permanent and that their own demands upon Israel would be neglected. Syria, itself, was torn between its ideological support of the Palestinians and the more pressing and practical need to secure Israel's withdrawal from Syrian territory.

The only way Gromyko could rehabilitate the Soviet position was to reiterate Soviet military and political support of Syria and Egypt, while strengthening Soviet leverage by boosting the political status of the PLO.

For this purpose, the Palestinian organizations could serve Soviet interests in two parallel ways.

To those who would welcome growing American involvement, Arafat could serve as a formidable reminder and potential critic who would whip them back in line.

To the more extreme Arab nationalists, such as Iraq and Libya, the Soviets could pose, through their formal support and recognition of the PLO, as the champion of the standard-bearers of the Arab camp.

No one could accuse the Russians of failing to support Arab causes, and the result would be a heavy tilt in favor of the Soviet Union and stronger pressure against the United States throughout the Arab world.

But major questions are unanswered. Do the Palestinians who live in Jordan and on the West Bank really want the PLO to be their spokesmen? Is this self-determination? Or is it subversion?

The Justice Said

By M. R. Williams

The year is 1970. A state law says that any accused whose defense is that of an alibi must tell the prosecutor, before trial, where he was and give him the names of his witnesses. Is this law in accord with the requirements of the Constitution? Yes, holds the U.S. Supreme Court. In disagreement, Mr. Justice Black said:

"Compelling a defendant in a criminal case to be a witness against himself in any way was unknown in English law, except for the unaltered proceedings in the Star Chamber courts—the type of proceedings the Fifth Amendment was designed to prevent.

"For practically the first 150 years of this Nation's history no State considered adopting such procedures compelling a criminal defendant to help convict himself, although history does not indicate that our ancestors were any less intelligent or solicitous of having a fair and efficient system of criminal justice than we are." (Williams v. Florida, 26 L.Ed.2d 446).

Title III

Carbondale elementary schools may have to scrap their Talents Unlimited program because of lack of state funding. A proposal for funding under Title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act was recently rejected by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Michael J. Bakalis.

In a speech delivered at SIU last Friday, Bakalis said the major goal of Illinois schools is to develop the basic skills of all students. This is the purpose of the Talents Unlimited program. Working on the principle that every child is talented in some area, the program tried to help students develop their basic skills in science, art, music, leadership and other areas.

To continue the program elementary schools needed to obtain Title III funds. Fifty-two regular and 26 mini-Title III grants were approved by Bakalis this year. Only two of this total of 76 grants were awarded to schools in the 24th Congressional District, made up of the 22 southernmost counties in Illinois. These were awarded to schools in Cairo and Brookport, both at the extreme southern tip of the state.

The 24th district is one of the largest in area in the nation. It has a population of nearly one-half million persons. Yet, except for these two school systems on the edge of the district, Southern Illinois is not represented in the Title III program for this year.

Title III funds are supposed to be awarded solely on the quality of the proposal submitted to the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction (OSPI). The proposals are reviewed by an advisory council of the OSPI, and recommendations are made to Bakalis, who has the final say on which proposals are accepted.

Does this mean that Carbondale and other Southern Illinois school systems are unable to turn out proposals that are of the same quality as those submitted by districts in the northern part of the state? Not likely.

Carbondale was the only public school system in the state recognized by the OSPI advisory council for programs of the quality of Talents Unlimited.

The proposal was drawn up not only by members of the elementary school district but also by experienced project writers from SIU. It seems only natural that persons familiar with the writing of proposals designed to obtain federal as well as state funding would be able to produce a high quality proposal for Title III, one of equal merit with any other in the state.

But the Carbondale proposal, and the proposals of other Southern Illinois school districts, were rejected for Title III funding. Could it be that the cultural elitists of Northern Illinois have once again pulled a little green influence out of their wallets to rob Southern Illinois of its share of this state's educational wealth?

Picture not guilty

To the Daily Egyptian:

I would like to respond to Ms. Raggi's opinion of the photograph in Tuesday's Sports Section. I feel that her criticism was totally uncalled for and unreasonable. After reading her letter I examined the picture again and I still found nothing objectionable with the photograph of the gymnast doing one of her routines.

Pia Raggi also jumps to the conclusion that the photographer was a male. In my opinion, this is very narrow-minded. Even if it was, in fact, a male who shot this photograph, how can she be so sure that it was taken with the intent to embarrass this woman or the women of the world?

I feel I am a person who is critical of those who portray women in a demeaning manner, however, in my mind, this picture is not guilty of this offense.

Denim leaves the farm

The report that classes are being held to teach how a pair of worn-out blue jeans can be made into a skirt would seem like a case of beating plowshares back into swords.

Among many males it will be good news that women are considering wearing skirts again. That it is now fashionable to cut up worn-out pants and make them into hats and skirts and even pocketbooks for girls is a mystery better left to those who study behavioral mysteries.

Young people going to Europe are still packing worn jeans for sale abroad at prices at least triple what the jeans cost new on the West Coast. Even the Russians are wearing worn American jeans.

Meanwhile, Americans are wearing French denims, even though they are made of more flimsy materials and don't last long. The fashionable trend for denim, run up into outfits that cost more than $100, has made this cotton material in short supply.

This trend must worry the makers of blue jeans. Once a subculture fashion is taken on by the arbiters of high fashion and starts appearing in the expensive shops, it soon loses its appeal to the masses who discovered it.

The Oregonian, Portland

Crime and universities

Does the University of Chicago have a uniquely severe crime problem? The question is discussed by a university vice president, Walter L. Walker, in a recently published annual report entitled "Crime in University Communities."

His answer is "no." True, there is a crime problem in Hyde Park-Kenwood (between 47th and 61st Streets and east of Cottage Grove). Figures for 1972 showed 385 robberies, 742 burglaries, 33 rapes, and 9 homicides. That is a lot of crime. But is it unique for a university neighborhood?

The South East Chicago Commission has compiled comparable data on crime in the 21st Police District of Chicago (embracing 100,000 people and the campuses of both the University of Chicago and Illinois Tech) and in a number of university cities. The number of "index crimes" (the seven crimes the FBI tabulates) per 100,000 is a little higher in New Haven, Conn., than in the 21st district. It is more than 10 per cent higher in Madison, Wis., and Berkeley, Cal. It is more than 30 per cent higher in Cambridge, Mass. It is two and a half times as great in Ann Arbor, Mich. (On the other hand it is only half as high in Evanston.)

Mr. Walker's report recognizes that "many people fail to report crime," and that if all members of the University of Chicago community reported "all crime that they have personal knowledge of, the statistics of the 21st district will certainly show an increase." But he urges full reporting, as unreported crimes almost always represent clean getaways for the criminals.

A community's objective is to reduce crime, not crime statistics, which are universally recognized as less than accurate. Even so, the high incidence of reported crime near the campuses of Yale, Wisconsin, California, Harvard, and Michigan should help keep Chicagoans on the South Side from feeling that their crime problem is unparalleled in smaller cities.

Crime is not just a Chicago problem. It is a national—indeed, an international—problem. It is a problem in towns better known for their ivied walls than for their crime rates.

Boyle convicted of UMW slayings

MEDIA, Pa. (AP) — Former United Mine Workers president W.A. "Tony" Boyle was convicted Thursday night of three counts of murder in the slaying more than four years ago of union rival Joseph "Jock" Yablonski, his wife and daughter.

The verdict was returned by a jury of nine men and three women after 4½ hours of deliberation.

The conviction carries a mandatory sentence of life imprisonment.

The 72-year-old Boyle, who already is serving a three-year federal prison sentence for misuse of union funds, exhibited no emotion as the verdict was read by jury foreman Clyde M. Parris.

Boyle, however, did have a pained expression on his face as he turned to wave goodbye to his wife and daughter on his way out of the courtroom.

Boyle was the ninth person to be charged in the murder of Yablonski, a union insurgent whose dissident movement shook Boyle's leadership in 1969 and later toppled him from the UMW's top post.

Kenneth Yablonski, son of the slain man, stood with tears in his eyes next to special prosecutor Richard A. Sprague and remarked: "You don't know how happy I am. There's no words that I can express."

Sprague said the verdict "is proper and shows that effective law enforcement can get to the people at the top."

"Unfortunately," he said, "too often only people at the bottom are caught and convicted. We get only the puppets and not the puppeteers."

Sprague had based his case almost solely on the testimony of William Turnblazer, 52, the only witness to link Boyle directly with the killing.

Turnblazer, a lawyer and former president of UMW District 19 in Tennessee and Kentucky, had testified that Boyle told him and Albert Pass, another former District 19 officer, that Yablonski had to be killed.

Turnblazer said the order was given June 23, 1969 at UMW headquarters in Washington, D.C. as the three men stood outside an elevator for a minute or two.

Boyle, who testified in his own defense, denied the charge and said such a meeting never took place.

Turnblazer has pleaded guilty to federal charges of conspiring to kill Yablonski.

Seven others, including Pass, have been convicted of murder or have pleaded guilty to the murders, described in confessions and testimony as a complex plot that was nearly given away by poor planning and, in its final moments was nearly bungled.

Security tight for Mona Lisa on exhibition tour in Japan

By Michael Goldsmith
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP)—The world's most famous smile will be packed into an air-conditioned steel alloy container next week and flown to Japan under unprecedented security precautions.

Officials of the Louvre museum and the French Ministry of Cultural Affairs are guarding details of the Mona Lisa's departure arrangements like a state secret. Armed guards will accompany Leonardo da Vinci's unique portrait every inch of the way to the National Museum in Tokyo, where it is to be exhibited from April 19 to June 10.

It will be only the third time the picture has left France since King Francois I bought it for his Fontainebleau Palace early in the 16th century.

Leonardo painted the portrait of Mona Lisa del Giocondo, the wife of an Italian nobleman, in his native Florence in about 1503. Almost nothing is known of his beautiful model.

The picture, painted on a single 21-by-30-inch slab of wood, was in Leonardo's luggage when the artist came to France in 1516 to join the king's court. Francois liked Mona Lisa's sensuous face immediately and bought the painting for 4,000

Lecture planned on Vietnamese music tradition

Tran Van Khe, noted musicologist, will give a lecture-demonstration on Vietnamese music at 7 p.m. Friday in the Home Economics Auditorium.

Professor Tran Van Khe is the director of research at the National Center for Scientific Research in Paris, France. He also teaches at the Sorbonne, where he directs several theses on Asian music each year.

Musicologist Tran Van Khe comes from a distinguished family of musicians from the My Tho Province of South Vietnam. He studied medicine in Hanoi and political science and music in Paris. He received his Ph.D. from the Institute of Musicology in Paris in 1958.

Friday Tran Van Khe will lecture on Vietnamese folk music, chamber music and demonstrate the use of several traditional instruments.

Picnic scheduled

The picnic is open to the public and food and drink will be provided.

pieces of gold. For years it hung in the royal bathroom.

Napoleon kept the Mona Lisa in his bedroom briefly, but in 1804 it was part of the royal treasure he gave to the museum he founded in the former royal palace at the Louvre.

In 1911, an Italian named Perugia stole the Mona Lisa and took it to Italy where the kept it hidden for two years. He was quickly arrested when he tried to sell the picture, and the Mona Lisa returned to home at the Louvre.

In 1962, she went by ship to the United States for her first foreign exhibition. The 352-pound container specially built for the journey will be used again to take her to Japan, but there will be an additional outer steel crate to avoid any variations of pressure during the flight.

Throughout the journey and during the exhibition in Japan, the Mona Lisa will be kept at the same temperature, pressure and humidity as in the Louvre, to avoid the slightest risk of subtle changes which could harm the fragile wood.

An international consortium is insuring the picture during its absence from the Louvre, but officials refused to indicate the value placed on it. "There is no such thing as a value for the Mona Lisa," one official said. "She has no price."

The double container is stuffed with ultralightweight insulating material to make it unsinkable and it would float to the surface even if the plane carrying it plunged into the sea. A weight of half a ton would be needed to drag the container under the water.

Despite all the precautions, the Mona Lisa's guardians are a little nervous. "Sending her to Japan is a really exceptional gesture of friendship," one official said. "We will all breathe easier when she is safely back home."

Walker, House speaker urge energy policy based on coal

By William C. Wertz
Associated Press Writer

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Gov. Daniel Walker and House Speaker W. Robert Blair, (R-Park Forest), said Thursday Illinois should try to become self-sufficient in energy production by using its vast coal deposits.

"Illinois is one of the few states in this nation with the ability to become self-sufficient in the production of energy to warm our homes, run our transportation system and power our industries," Blair said at a joint news conference with the governor.

Blair and Walker proposed formation of a 20-member Energy Resources Commission composed of government and industry leaders and natural resources experts to decide what the state should do to achieve the goal of self-sufficiency.

"Coal is not a dirty word and keeping air clean is not a barrier to the use of coal," Walker said.

"Through the conversion of coal to gas and liquid fuel we can make use of Illinois' vast coal resources while we maintain clean air standards."

Blair said the commission would begin its work as soon as necessary legislation was approved by the General Assembly.

Under the proposal, the governor would head the commission and Blair, other legislative leaders, other lawmakers and private citizens would serve as members.

The House speaker said the commission would have a budget of about $100,000 and that commission members would serve without pay. Blair and Walker said the commission would consult with state and federal agencies, colleges and universities research institutes and private industry in seeking to solve the state's energy-related problems.

LI. Gov. Neil Hartigan, who has been urging the formation of such a commission since last year, said he was "delighted to see forward progress being made in this area."

Hartigan had proposed creation of a 15- to 10-member Energy Policy Council composed of state officials, energy producers and consumers. Asked at the news conference whether he was following Hartigan's suggestion in proposing the commission, Walker said, "there have been several proposals in this area." The governor said State Rep. Daniel Pierce, (D-Highland Park), also had proposed establishment of such a group.

Three youths apprehended after theft of Junction Stop

Three youths were arrested Wednesday night in connection with a burglary at the Junction Stop, 701 S. Illinois Ave., Carbondale police said Thursday.

Charged with theft under $150 were Mark T. Scott, 17, River Forest, Thomas F. McGee, 18, River Forest and Kurt G. Niles, 17, Oak Park.

Police said they observed the three fleeing from the Junction Stop shortly after 11 p.m. Police added that the youths were dropping merchandise allegedly taken from the store while attempting to elude them.

Merchandise taken was valued at $100, police said. Some of the things included glass waterpipes, cigarette papers and clothes.

Through a combined effort, police were able to run down two of the youths shortly after the incident, they said. The third youth evaded police until one of the two apprehended led police to his whereabouts at Boomer Hall.

The three are being held at Jackson County Jail. Bond has been set at $150 each.

'Slapstick Spring' chosen as theme for festival plans

"Southern's Silly Slapstick Spring," will be the theme of the Spring Festival, to be held May 1-4.

During these four days, all activities will be free, including two dances to be held May 1, featuring the "Rockets," and May 3, "HeadEast" will play. Other activities will include a costume party, free munchies and special prizes.

There will be a meeting at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday in activity Rooms C and D of the Student Center for any organization interested in participating with the Spring Festival.

Union to vote on contract; Gale strike enters fifth week

GALESBURG (AP) — More than 1,800 striking machinists at the Gale Products plant will vote Monday on a revised contract offer, a union official said Thursday.

The machinists walked off the job March 9 in a dispute over a new contract. Key issues included vacation pay, health insurance and pension provisions.

Richard Norval, president of Local 1659 of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, said the company's latest offer came during a negotiating session Wednesday.

Union and company officials refused to disclose details of the offer.

A company spokesman said a meeting was scheduled today with representatives of Local 221 of the Office and Professional Employees Union, whose 148 members at the Gale plant are also on strike.

Gale Products is a division of Outboard Marine, Inc. and makes parts for outboard motors.

Meanwhile, operations were reported back to normal Thursday at the H.O. Canfield Co., where about 100 workers walked off the job over the weekend in a union jurisdictional dispute.

An employee said striking office workers had returned to work after the walkout failed to gain company recognition of Local 221 of the office and Professional Employees Union as bargaining agent for 11 office employees.

About 100 members of Local 432 of the United Textile Workers of America had honored the office workers' picket lines, but returned to work when the international union said it would not support the walkout.

The firm makes plastic products.

New student leaders to hold three meetings

Recruitment meetings will be held next week for students interested in becoming new student orientation leaders for next fall.

Meetings will be held Tuesday at Lentz Hall, dining room 5 at 7 p.m.; Wednesday at the Grinnell Hall Oak Room, at 7 p.m.; Thursday at the Student Center, student activities room C and D at 4 p.m.; and April 23 at the Grinnell Hall Oak Room, at 7 p.m.

A general meeting for all leaders will be held April 30 at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Center Illinois Room.

New student leaders will lead all orientation activities including working as orientation helpers, leading tours, answering questions for students and parents, and helping with textbook rental forms.

Those students who cannot attend any of the recruitment meetings, may pick up applications at the Activities office, third floor Student Center. All applications must be in by April 24 at 5 p.m.

Choir's 'Passion' entertains but fails to project message

By Dave Stearns
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

When J.S. Bach wrote the St. John Passion, he told the story of Christ in a way that mere words do not. The text is the mere tip of the iceberg in this work—the descriptive but strictly Baroque-style music intensifying and crystallizing the implications given by the language.

Only Bach, a musical genius and devout Christian, could have given us such a St. John Passion, whose program and counterpoint complement each other so completely. Naturally, a performance of this work is indeed an event, as was the rendition given by the University Choir Wednesday night in the St. Francis Xavier Church. Also featured in the performance were can't see the tip of the iceberg, we will probably miss it altogether. And no matter how well the piece is performed, its full meaning is lost without an understanding of the text.

Musically, there were some ill-rehearsed moments, but there were also some extremely well-executed passages. With the progression of arias, recitatives and chorales (totaling at 67), the concert's cohesiveness can be attributed to faculty tenor Burt Kageff, who sang the role of the narrator, or evangelist. Calling for a great deal of free-flowing, descriptive recitative, Kageff sang the role as a story-telling minstrel might. Above all, his intonation and characterization were consistently confident throughout the two-hour performance.

There were other fine solo moments, such as "In My Heart's Innermost Kernel" sung by the choir with only a scant organ accompaniment. Here, the counterpoint was beautifully defined, and the sound was lush.

Also, Marajaan Marvin's supple tone and fine phrasing were enough to recapture the restless audience near the end of the performance in her aria, "Release, O My Spirit." Catherine Mabus' distinctively natural contralto voice is always a pleasure to hear, and she was in especially fine form in "It Is Fulfilled."

Both of these vocalists were given solid accompaniment by George

Hussey on English horn and Jervis Underwood on flute.

Superb music, fine musicians, a reasonably good performance—but little communication and a restless audience. So much was missed by so little.

some of the best faculty musicians in the School of Music, conducted by Robert Kingsbury. Hearing these fine musicians is always worthwhile. However, the performance did not have the finesse, power and confidence usually found in University choral concerts.

There were no major problems. They generally did justice to the piece, especially when you consider that this is a college-level undertaking. But when it was all over, there was a feeling of accomplishment—almost relief—not communication. A subjective comment, perhaps.

But the biggest fault lay in the program notes—or lack of. Although the St. John Passion was sung in well-enunciated English, a majority of the text was lost in the church's acoustics. Since the purpose of this massive work is to tell the story of Christ, and since in this television generation we are not used to sitting through two-hour performances, the programs should have supplied the complete text of the passion. Knowing what is being sung is integral to the appreciation of the St. John Passion and is the key to understanding why the music is the way it is. In other words, if we

Honor society invites all eligible students to join

Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society is currently extending invitations of membership to all eligible juniors, seniors and graduate students.

Juniors who have accumulated a total of 90 hours and seniors having a minimum of 138 hours, must have maintained a 4.75 grade average in order to be eligible for membership. Eligible graduate students are those who have completed 48 hours of 5.00 grade average.

Any student who has not received an invitation and who believes himself to be eligible should contact Phi Kappa Phi vice president Mary Helen Gasser at the Student Services Department, in Washington Square, building A.

An initiation ceremony will take place on May 16, which will be followed by a reception for the new initiates.

House OK's disaster aid bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House unanimously passed a substitute to the Senate's disaster relief bill Thursday, killing any chance for final passage before a 10-day Easter recess.

The substitute was introduced by Rep. John Blatnik, (D-Minn.), who said the House was unprepared to act on a measure that passed the Senate only a day earlier.

Before adjourning for the recess, The House appointed conferees to work out differences between the bills with the Senate.

The Senate unanimously passed the bill on Wednesday and sent it to the House in hopes it would be passed and signed into law by the weekend.

Backers sought quick passage because of the tornadoes that devastated parts of the South and Midwest last week.

The House action, however, delayed final passage at least until April 22 when Congress reconvenes.

The House bill differs from the Senate measure in two areas. It adds mudslides to the list of disasters whose victims are qualified for federal aid.

And the measure makes a technical change in the administration of a $5,000 grant program included in the Senate bill.

In both bills a victim could receive up to $5,000 in additional aid after exhausting all other forms of relief.

But the House bill would allow the President to lend the states the 25 per cent they must contribute to the program.

The Senate bill does not include such a provision.

Fair will offer gum, comics

Free comic books and Bazooka bubble gum will be given out at the door during the annual Spring Activities Fair Monday night, co-chairwoman Becky Burris said Thursday.

The "Comic Book Capers," this year's fair theme, will run from 7:30 p.m. to midnight Monday in the Student Center Ballrooms.

"Forty-seven organizations have applied to set up booths and displays," Ms. Burris said. "The Sailing Club is going to display a sailboat, and the Saluki Saddle Club is going to display a real horse."

"We're also going to have an arts and crafts sale in the Student Center River Rooms during the Comic Book Capers," Ms. Burris said. "And there will be free cartoons in the Roman Rooms. There's also going to be a cotton-candy concession."

Ms. Burris said she's "hoping for a big turnout." The fair is open to everyone at no admission price.

Trucker schools face charge of misrepresentation by FTC

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission moved against a string of Midwestern truck driver schools Thursday, alleging they have taken up to $895 apiece from men who thought they were applying for on-the-job training.

The proposed complaints and orders would require the schools to stop representing that they are offering employment and would require them to give back any money they have gained through deception.

The move represents an expansion of an FTC effort which has already led to complaints against three computer and data processing school operations. An $80,000 educational campaign initiated in August intended to steer people away from worthless vocational courses.

Deputy says child's body found by dog

MOUNT VERNON (AP)—Hospital officials were examining partially decomposed remains believed to be those of a small child. The remains were found Thursday in a wooded area near Mount Vernon.

Jefferson County Sheriff's deputies searched the area where Dr. D.R. Lia Braaten, a chiropractor, found his German Shepherd with some of the remains. Chief Deputy Bill Hill said the remains are human. "Since neither the sheriff's office nor the Mount Vernon Police have a report of a missing child we are assuming there has been a lot of foul play, he said."

Hill was not sure of the sex of the child but said the dog had what appeared to be a scrap from a girl's dress. He estimated the child's age as three.

Law enforcement officers and the county coroner were at the scene helping with the search.

A spokesman at the morgue of Good Samaritan Hospital said Dr. James Miller of St. Louis, a pathologist, would examine the remains to verify they are human.

Peoria policeman loses raise over 'devilish' error

PEORIA (AP)—A policeman who sprayed the lobby of a downtown theater with riot control gas during a showing of "The Exorcist" will lose his next merit raise for the action.

On Feb. 28, Sgt. William Carr grabbed what he thought was a fire extinguisher and raced into the theater to put out a fire in the popcorn machine. Instead he had grabbed a container of riot control gas.

In a letter of reprimand, authorities said Carr's action cost the city more than $1,400 in cleaning expenses and the theater more than $7,500 in lost revenue when it was forced to close for two days.

Officials said the merit raise would have amounted to about $800 a year.

school accreditation official who has been battling schools listed in the commission complaints, said, "The Federal Trade Commission is, as usual, too late."

Clark said World Wide Systems, Inc., and other schools operated out of Indianapolis by Steven L. Bradshaw have closed. Clark estimated the operation covered 43 states and took in $2 million while it lasted.

Bradshaw, his brother John, and one other associate were in the fourth day of trial on federal mail fraud charges in Indianapolis. Nine people have pleaded guilty.

In addition to citing the Bradshaw operations, the four separate FTC complaints also named Nationwide Heavy Equipment Training Service, Inc., of Strunk, Ky.; Tri-State Driver Training, Inc., of Middletown, Ohio; and Diesel Truck Drivers Training School, Inc., of Sun Prairie, Wis.

The complaints were virtual carbon copies, citing advertisements run in "Help Wanted" columns with such inducements as "Diesel Semi-Drivers, 75 men wanted" and "Semi-Drivers Needed. On the Job Type Training."

In the Indianapolis mail fraud case, the Bradshaws are accused of sending men who answered the ads what looked like a job application and asking for $195 to cover bonding and other items. After sending in the $195, according to the charges, the men were sent an enrollment agreement and asked to pay another $700.

They were then referred to the Strunk, Ky., and Middletown, Ohio, schools, which were sometimes hundreds of miles from the applicants' homes, the charges said. The Kentucky and Ohio schools also recruited students on their own, the FTC complained.

William Thompson, who is prosecuting the case for the U.S. attorney's office in Indianapolis, said 2,258 persons paid the $195 and 236 of those men paid the full $895, for a grand total of $605,510 in the first seven months last year. Only one man out of that group found a job, Thompson said.

Nine hurt as elevated train derails in downtown Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Nine persons were injured Thursday when an elevated train derailed 25 feet above a downtown intersection, leaving one car precariously hanging over the edge of the tracks.

Chicago Transit Authority officials said nine of the estimated 50 persons aboard the two-car train were admitted to hospitals. Fire department rescue teams led other passengers two blocks to safety along the rails.

A spokesman for two hospitals where crash victims were admitted said most of the patients were able to walk into the hospitals.

Fire officials said four of the injured were evacuated on stretchers.

The two-car train jumped the tracks as it was making a right turn above the intersection of Lake and Wells streets. The first car of the train was hanging over the north side of the tracks.

One passenger, Ms. Sylvia Coleman of Chicago, said she was on her way home from work. "I saw an employee, I guess it was a conductor, run forward. He grabbed the controls and said something like, 'We're going too fast.'"

Electrical power on the elevated tracks was cut off moments after the crash and most of the passengers were led by firemen down the tracks to a nearby platform.

Mrs. Coleman said the passengers were thrown from their seats but there was no panic aboard the train.

The accident occurred shortly before the start of the commuting rush hour when thousands of persons crowd aboard the trains.

The overhanging car was balanced on the edge of the tracks above a parking garage where an attendant described the crash.

"I heard a squeaking noise...all of a sudden I looked up and I saw the train coming over. I got scared and just ran," said David Malizzio, 30, a parking attendant.

The derailed train was part of the CTA's Ravenswood route which carries commuters to and from the city's Northwest Side. The site of the derailment was at a major switching point where trains which run to the North, South and West sides of Chicago criss-cross for their routes through and around the Loop.

Noted author will lecture on authority

Samuel Huntington, professor of government at Harvard University, will deliver a lecture entitled "What Happened to Authority in America?" Thursday in Lawson 151.

Huntington, associate director of the Center of International Studies at Harvard and editor of the quarterly journal, "Foreign Policy," will come to SIU as part of the Distinguished Lecturer series which is sponsored by the Government department.

A former member of the Presidential Task Force on International Development and consultant to the Defense Department, Huntington received his B.A. from Yale in 1946 and M.A. from the University of Chicago in 1949.

Huntington, a Harvard Ph.D. recipient in 1951, is the author of many books on political and military authority including "Authoritarian Politics in Modern Society" (1967), "Political Power in Changing Societies" (1968), and "The Common Defense: Strategic Programs in National Politics" (1961).

The address is open to all members of the university faculty, staff, student body and all interested citizens.

White House got tax data

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House obtained sensitive tax data on its friends and enemies from a highly placed Internal Revenue Service official, according to secret and sworn testimony by a former law enforcement adviser to President Nixon.

In his March 23 testimony, John Caulfield identified Vernon D. Acree, now U.S. Commissioner of Customs and formerly with the IRS, as his principal contact for obtaining tax information on screen star John Wayne, evangelist Billy Graham and others.

Acree, in two interviews, said he had only the most casual and "pro forma" official contacts with Caulfield and denied some of his allegations as being "the most grossly distorted and outlandish things I've ever heard in 37 years as a career civil servant."

Illinois will get disaster aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Illinois was added Thursday to a list of seven other states designated as disaster areas due to last week's tornadoes.

The Federal Disaster Assistance Administration announced that President Nixon declared four Illinois counties as disaster areas, making residents whose homes were damaged by twisters eligible for low-interest loans and special unemployment benefits.

The four counties are Macon, Champaign, Vermilion and McLean.

The Decatur area suffered the most extensive damage as a twister April 3 damaged more than 150 homes, killed one man and injured a score of persons. State officials estimated that damage statewide is about $5 million.

Gov. Daniel Walker toured the tornado site in Decatur last week and requested that the state be declared a disaster area. Hugh Fowler of the FDAA said headquarters will be opened Saturday at the Boiling Springs Church of God in Decatur and that a mobile unit will be available next week in the other three counties.

Other states classified as disaster areas are Alabama, Georgia, Indiana, West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio and Tennessee.

Strike puts Japan on its feet

TOKYO (AP) — Japan was hit Thursday by its worst transportation strike ever, forcing many Japanese to walk to work or sleep near their desks and giving others a day off to play golf and enjoy the cherry blossoms.

About two-thirds of Japan's 110 million residents were effected in one way or another. Many managed to trudge to their jobs and get to sporting events. An estimated 3,000 persons attended a professional tennis tournament and some 7,000 watched a world championship boxing match Thursday night.

The strike was the climax to Japan's annual "spring labor offensive" for wage hikes to overcome the 24 per cent increase in the cost of living over the last year.

The massive work stoppage shut down national and private railways, subways, bus services, airlines, commercial shipping and some taxis. Friday was expected to be about the same, although taxi drivers airline workers and some subway workers were to go back to work.

Advisement set for engineering

The School of Engineering and Technology will conduct group advisement from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Monday, April 15 through Wednesday, April 17 in the student lounge. Technology Building.

Students majoring in engineering are scheduled for advisement on Monday; engineering technology majors for Tuesday; industrial technology majors for Wednesday. Students may register for summer quarter and fall semester.

Logan board candidates consider Phase II plan

By David Ambrose
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

If there are any major issues in the John A. Logan Junior College District Board of Trustees election Saturday, they are in the areas of securing the Phase II building program and expanding the vocational - technological curriculum.

The five candidates running for the board, three of them incumbent, seem satisfied with the junior college near Cartersville as it is.

One incumbent said the major goal of the board should be to "maintain the smooth running college that we have."

Three seats for terms of three years each are open in this election.

Jerome Alongi, 49, seeks to retain his position on the board. Current board chairman, Alongi is co-owner of Alongi's Restaurant in DuQuoin and a scout for the New York Mets.

Alongi was graduated from Sacred Heart Catholic Grade School in DuQuoin and DuQuoin High School. He is a member of the Businessmen's Association, DuQuoin Elks, charter member of St. Louis Professional Scouting Association, Association of Professional Baseball Players of America, and the Pitch and Hit Club of Chicago.

Alongi is married and has one son who attends Logan Junior College.

Alongi sees the instigation of Phase II as being of primary importance to the college for the next three years.

"We haven't even applied for it yet," he said. "It's one of the things we hope to do in the next three years."

Expanding the vocational program in particular as well as the academic and athletic programs are also high on his list.

"I think academics and athletics complement each other," he said.

He explained that with the addition of the Trico School at Ava, the institution of an agriculture vocational program is essential. Trico students will be eligible to attend Logan College this fall.

Vice-chairman Richard Hunter of Carbondale also does not see major issues arising in this election.

"As a matter of fact," he said, "this is a very low key election. There are five of us running for three seats, three of us are incumbents."

Hunter, 45, is a partner in Hunter Sales Corp. in Carbondale, president of the Carbondale Industrial Corporation, past president of the Carbondale Lion's Club and past board member on the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce.

Hunter is a graduate of SIU-C and served four years in the Navy from 1950 to 1954. He is married and has four children.

"I'm not an educator," Hunter said. "I'm just a layman who got interested."

He said the board should try to "maintain the smooth-running college that we have. We have a good president, good administration and good faculty."

The third incumbent seeking re-election is Clifford Batteau, 67, of rural Elkhart. He is married and has 13 children, including a son living at home who attends Logan College. Batteau is a retired coal miner and is a member of the Carbondale Eagles, Murphysboro Moose and the Desoto Masonic Lodge.

"Of course we have Phase II (expansion program) coming up in '75," Batteau said in reference to Saturday's election. "I'd like to see that start and finish."

Batteau said he would like to see expansion in Logan College's vocational-technical program. He thinks a two-year agriculture program is especially important "since Trico High School has been accepted" into the college district.

For funding the program expansions Batteau said "we'll get whatever the state will let us have."

Twenty-five-year-old Bruce Fine will seek to move from his position as student trustee on the board to one of the voting positions in Saturday's election.

Fine said his involvement with the board has been "like on-the-job training to me."

"I've had six months' experience," he said. "It would take a new board member at least a year to break himself in."

Fine said he would like to see more representation from the faculty and students.

"My desire in running is to try, as best I can, to bring the faculty and administration a little closer together," he said. "I would like to see the average student have a say in what is policy and what is not policy. You have to get out and ask them to get their opinions."

"I'd like to see policy making made more forward and quicker," Fine said.

He said that recently the question of whether or not Logan College should have a graduation ceremony came up. Fine said he surveyed classes and discovered an overwhelming majority of students did not want the ceremony. The board asked the student senate to vote on the matter and accepted the senate's vote of 17-1 in favor of graduation.

"The poor student representative needs some sort of vote," Fine said.

He said he would also like to see a voting faculty member on the board.

"I think there is everything to gain," he said, "from having a student or someone who is closely associated with students on the board."

Representation on the junior college board of trustees, Fine noted, is centered in a quadrant between Carbondale, Murphysboro, DuQuoin and Elkhart.

"There is very little representation from the eastern part of the college district," Fine said. Fine resides with his parents in Cartersville.

Fine is a member of the Veterans Club at John A. Logan, served from 1967 to 1971 with the Navy in Puerto Rico, and plans to transfer to SIU-C to study communications. He is now completing his last quarter of study at Logan College.

Another non-incumbent candidate for the board is James Fiorino, 53, a DuQuoin resident. Fiorino operates a radio-TV repair shop in DuQuoin. He served in the Army in World War Two and was graduated from Sacred Heart Catholic Grade School and DuQuoin Township High School. Three years ago he was appointed to the welfare committee of the Perry County Board.

"I'm new to the college," Fiorino said, "so I can't make any statements about what needs changing and what needs to be left as it is until I get some more information."

Fiorino said he felt he could get the information he needed after he was on the board.

"I know I can do a good job from my own business experience," Fiorino said. "I've always enjoyed working with people."

The maverick candidate expressed that he was in the difficult position of being an "outsider" seeking a board seat.

"I'm the only one of the candidates who is a complete outsider," he said.

"Wherever you can vote in your school board election you can vote for the junior college district board," Jerome Alongi, board chairman, said.

He said the number of balloting places had been expanded from 12 precincts to 32 to give "taxpayers a better chance to vote."

In Marion junior college district, votes cannot be cast with the school board election. A special precinct polling place has been arranged for the college district election there.

The polling places in Jackson County are: Bowen Gym, Carbondale High School; Carbondale Vocational Center; Parrish Elementary School, Carbondale; Desoto Grade School; Glendale Grade School; Unity Point Grade School; Giant City Grade School; Murphysboro High School; Jones Ridge Township Hall; Jacob Town Hall; Gorham High School; Vergennes Elementary School; Elkville Elementary School and Dowell American Legion Hall.

'State' accused of laughing at traditional American life

By Dave Stearns
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"Lying in State," SIU's controversial homosexual-oriented play, has been accused of (A) mocking the American housewife, (B) knocking monogamy, (C) making straight people look stupid.

(A) One of the more intruding characters in the play is a pregnant housewife—sort of an Auntie Mame's Agnes Gooch—named Jean. "I've known too many people like Jean to make her a condescending character," said Christine Coyle, who plays Jean in "Lying in State." "Jean loves her kids and baking for the PTA—I want people to feel they know her, that they've lived next door to her. She doesn't care about women's lib or gay lib, just in making her family happy."

"And that's fine for Jean, and people who want that," Ms. Coyle concluded.

(B) Monogamy or not? "Lying in State" author Lane Bateman says he has received many letters from gay persons protesting the play's theme that non-gay practices, such as monogamy, do not work for gay people.

"It's been my experience that all the couples I've met who insist on only-you-and-me always end up in disaster," Bateman told the Advocate newspaper. "If you can find somebody who can say, 'Right now just you and me,' then go. But if you say to that person, 'Don't you ever, then you're going to be in trouble.'"

(C) Most of the straights in the play are presented as one-dimensional characters. Perhaps they are not stupid, but they clearly do not have the depth and pathos of the gay characters.

Says director Phyllis Wagner, "It's a reaction. In early black plays, for example, the white man always played the evil stereotype. "Which is not necessarily justifiable, but understandable," she said.

"Lying in State," re-written and re-staged, will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday in the University Theater.

Admission is $1.

Play to be set in Old Main Mall

The Old Main Mall will be the setting for "As You Like It," to be presented at 5 p.m. Friday by the San Francisco New Shakespeare Company.

If it rains, the performance will be at 8 p.m. in Shryock Auditorium.

Directed by Margrit Roma, "As You Like It" is a comic tale about the daughter of a duke who is forced to disguise herself as a boy when her father is exiled.

Of the New Shakespeare Company's performance in West Chester, Pa., a newspaper wrote, "With a young and highly talented cast of amiable people and brilliantly timed direction, 'As You Like It' glows with rich humor and a warm affection. It was impossible to sit there and not laugh."

Sponsored by Student Government Activities Council and University Convocations, "As You Like It" is open and free to the public.

Wife enters innocent plea in murder plot

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Marlene Swimley pleaded innocent Thursday to charges of trying to arrange for the murder of her wealthy husband.

Mrs. Swimley, 32, of suburban Schaumburg, entered the plea before Judge Joseph A. Power of Circuit Court, who released her on $15,000 cash bond and set a trial date of May 14.

Mrs. Swimley was indicted March 28 on a charge of soliciting for the murder of her husband, Air Force Maj. Duane Swimley, who was stationed in Germany at the time. The indictment said Mrs. Swimley made a $100 down payment to a state's attorney's investigator posing as a killer for hire.

The investigator, Joseph Saladino, testified at a preliminary hearing in February that Mrs. Swimley told him she wanted her husband killed.

He said she paid him $100 at a meeting in a department store parking lot and promised him $400 more the following day and $4,500 more after her husband was dead.

Mrs. Swimley's son by a previous marriage, Joseph Enderle, 14, originally was charged with conspiracy in the alleged solicitation, but the charge later was dismissed.

Officials to talk with deputies on pay protest

BELLEVILLE (AP)—County officials and representatives of St. Clair County sheriff's deputies met today to try to end informational picketing at county buildings.

Off-duty deputies began picketing Tuesday for higher pay and better working conditions. Specifications of their demands were not announced.

Sheriff Dave O'Neal and Francis Touchette, county board chairman, and other officials began talks after Touchette declined to cross lines at county offices. O'Neal says he is not authorized to negotiate for the deputies and was not optimistic that the dispute can be settled by anyone but the 29 members of the county board.

The pickets had stopped construction on a new county courthouse in Belleville but Wednesday, under a judge's injunction, the lines came down and work resumed.

Clinic needs third physician to meet increased load

By Randy McCarthy
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Carbondale Free Clinic faces a "desperate need" for a third physician to meet the increasing number of patients coming to the clinic, Carroll Child, free clinic administrator, said in a recent interview.

"We're constantly looking for another physician," he said. "The clinic could double its patient load with more physicians."

Most persons coming to the clinic at 104 E. Jackson St., are Carbondale residents who can't afford or who don't want to go to other Carbondale health facilities, Child said.

Although the number of persons seeking treatment is increasing, the clinic can't expand its patient load without a third physician, he said.

The clinic currently has two physicians—Dr. Nilda Durany and Dr. Hildergard Landecker—working Monday and Wednesday nights treating persons coming to the clinic.

Three paramedics and two registered nurses also work without pay at the clinic.

The free clinic also is faced with a probable cutback in funding from the city. Child said the City Council Monday appropriated $25,630 for next year for agencies and organizations, the division which includes the free clinic, Teen Town, Bureau of Employment Security and Senior Citizens Council, but no final breakdown of funding among the agencies has been made.

Last year the clinic received $3,000 from the city, but Child said he expects a cut in funding this year. "There's a good chance we won't be funded, or if we are then it'll be with limited funding.

The overall budget for the clinic last year was $12,000, with money also coming from referrals from the Jackson County Family Planning unit, the United Fund and private and patient donations.

Child called the bill for running the clinic "dirt cheap," because half of the expenses of the clinic are the high cost of medical supplies, especially the medication dispensed free by the clinic.

Child said that since 75 per cent of the persons coming to the clinic are women, much of the clinic's services deal with gynecology, birth control and infections related to birth control.

Surprisingly, Child said, the clinic does little work treating venereal disease even though he called the disease an epidemic in the United States and Carbondale.

Most of the 30 to 40 persons coming to the clinic each night are 18 to 24 years old—many of them: SIU students and many with money to pay for health services, Child said.

"We try to discourage them from using the Free Clinic," he said, but because of its better attention and more relaxing atmosphere, many persons "would rather participate with the Free Clinic than with conventional health care facilities."

Child said the city is considering moving the Free Clinic out its Jackson St. office and into the Eureka C. Hayes Center, 441 E. Willow St. Child said he opposes the plan because it would destroy the atmosphere of the clinic and cut-back on its patient load.

Stock exchange dozes in day marked by very light trading

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market sat virtually still Thursday in the lightest trading in more than seven months.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials finished at 844.81, up 1.10, but most other market indicators registered small declines.

Losers outnumbered gainers 732 to 563 among the 1,725 issues traded on the Big Board.

NYSE volume, at only 9.97 million shares, was the lightest since last Aug. 27.

The session marked the end of a second straight slow and inconclusive week for the market, which will close in observance of Good Friday. Brokers noted that activity is often slow on the day before an extended holiday weekend.

Analysts also noted that high interest rates were keeping investors cautious about economic prospects, and at the same time attracting money into fixed-income investments that might otherwise have been earmarked for stocks.

The dinners consist of either ham or chicken, choice of side dishes and desert and cost $1.50 plus a 75 cent deposit.

Orders for the dinners will be taken Friday between 4 and 6 p.m. at Trueblood and Grinnell Halls, and at the Student Center from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Congress attempted to establish with the total withdrawal of U.S. troops from the Indochina war, Budas said.

He said America is losing many of its future leaders because representatives of this country are still ignoring a very important element of that war. He said amnesty should be granted to those who followed their conscience in a time of moral trial.

The winning poster, Budas said, will be distributed nationally through other peace organizations and the winner will receive a percentage of the donations collected from the posters.

Anyone may enter the contest. The deadline for entries is April 26. For more information, call Budas at 549-7387 or stop by the center at 913 S. Illinois Ave.

Black mayor favors Wallace in Alabama governor's race

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP) — The black mayor of Tuskegee endorsed Gov. George C. Wallace for re-election Thursday and predicted that Wallace, once a symbol of segregationist resistance in the South, will get more black votes in Alabama than ever before.

Mayor Johnny Ford, who has worked closely with Wallace on governmental issues, issued a formal announcement endorsing the governor. He said in an interview after the announcement that Wallace's aid to predominantly black Tuskegee has demonstrated his willingness to "help all the people, particularly those who really need it."

"Our citizens have come to realize that voting for people is one way of assuring that their community will get at least its fair share of resources," Ford said. "That's what it's really all about."

Ford, a Democrat, was elected mayor in early 1972, after working for the federal Model Cities program. He endorsed President Nixon for re-election because, he said, the President had helped Tuskegee get considerable federal aid.

Ford said he believes Wallace will carry Tuskegee, a university town that was the scene of a number of racial demonstrations a decade ago. Ford also predicted Wallace will carry all of Macon County, whose population is 83 per cent black, and will get "substantially more" black votes elsewhere in the state than he has in previous races.

Ford said Wallace has kept every commitment he has made to him, and that Tuskegee got more new industry in the past year than ever before. He said that in that effort, he was "personally assisted by the governor and his staff."

Tuskegee and Macon County were for many years focal points of racial unrest in Alabama. Until a federal court ordered the registration of black voters, many with college degrees had been turned down while illiterate whites were allowed to vote.

The city and county both have black voting majorities. Wallace has never carried either.

Airplanes pose hazard over Ohio tornado site

CHICAGO (AP)—The Federal Aviation Administration said Thursday that air traffic congestion over tornado-stricken Xenia, Ohio, is posing a hazard for pilots involved in emergency cleanup operations. A statement issued from the FAA regional office in Chicago said as many as 30 airplanes at one time have violated air space restrictions the agency imposed over the area after a killer tornado April 3.

A spokesman said, however, a helicopter used to ferry President Nixon on an inspection tour Tuesday was in no danger because of "normal presidential security procedures."

The FAA said most of the violators of the restricted air space appeared to be small aircraft. The spokesman described the violators as "gawkers." Aircraft carrying news media personnel were also involved, she said.

The FAA designated as a restricted corridor an area up to 2,000 feet and within a five-mile radius of Xenia, Ohio, among the hardest hit areas wracked by tornadoes last week.

No charges have been filed against those violating the air space, the FAA said, because identification through registration numbers has been difficult.

"FAA inspectors intend to enforce the restriction rigidly," the statement said. "... Helicopters and other aircraft still are being used to lift debris in a continuing search for the dead and possible survivors."

"The air space violations create a danger for these pilots who are too occupied looking out for obstructions on the ground to look out also for interfering aircraft."

Pizzeria fire spreads over Monmouth block

MONMOUTH (AP)—Seven buildings were destroyed and an eighth damaged in a fire that raged Thursday through a block leading from the city square.

One person was injured and in satisfactory condition in a Monmouth hospital.

One estimate at the scene placed the damage at $1 million, but a city official later said the full extent of the damage had not yet been assessed.

Fire officials said the blaze began in a pizza restaurant shortly before 2:30 a.m. when an employee apparently spilled some grease which caught fire.

The flames quickly spread to adjoining buildings. The employee, Vincent Pizzo, 19, of Monmouth, was in satisfactory condition at a hospital.

Firemen from Galesburg and two other communities were called to help fight the fire, which was initially reported under control between 7 and 8 a.m.

But the flames erupted again in a savings and loan building and it was not until several hours later that officials said they thought the blaze had finally been controlled.

Satellite launch delayed by snag in booster rocket

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The launch of a new communications satellite intended to speed "space mail" and other commercial messages across the United States was delayed today because of problems in a Delta booster rocket.

The delay was announced less than 12 hours before the scheduled lift off. A National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman said the launch had been rescheduled for 7:51 p.m., Saturday.

He said a leaky valve in the Delta was discovered after the fuel had been loaded into the booster rocket during launch preparations.

Western Union's Westar 1 is the first satellite built for relaying commercial traffic within the borders of the United States.

Voters have varied choice in Murphysboro election

By David Ambrose
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Trying to solve the problem of overcrowding in school facilities and efforts to expand the curriculum are high priorities in Murphysboro Unit District 186 Board of Education election scheduled for Saturday.

Five candidates from widely varied backgrounds and goals will vie for three open positions on the board.

The terms of Harry Ray and Benny Rodman expire this year. The district will also fill a one-year term remaining from the term of Bill Riseling who resigned last year.

All voters can vote for three candidates to fill one full term in Murphysboro Township, one full term from outside Murphysboro Township and Riseling's partial term in the township.

Voters from the entire 186 District will ballot at the high school cafeteria, 2125 Spruce St., Murphysboro. Polls will open at noon and remain open until 7 p.m.

Ray is running to succeed himself as a member from within Murphysboro township. His opponent is Raymond Lacy.

Lacy, 41, has two children who attend schools in the 186 district. He is employed as a maintenance worker at SIU and has lived in Murphysboro for 12 years.

"I would do the best I can with the tools I have," Lacy said. He said he didn't think a candidate could make any "bold statements" about what he would do on the board.

"You really don't know what you can do until you get there," he said.

Incumbent Harry Ray feels one of the major problems facing the school is overcrowding. He said the board recently applied for state capital assistance in building a new high school.

Ray said if State Capital Assistance program approves the application, the board has 90 days to call a referendum in the district. If the referendum issue passes, the state will pay 70 per cent for the new building. The remaining 30 per cent will have to be raised through taxes.

"It's going to take a lot of promotion work to get people to vote for this," Ray said.

Ray, a resident of Murphysboro, is 49 years old, has four children, two of which attend Murphysboro district schools. He is a civil engineer in the Department of Highways.

Benny Rodman did not refile for his seat on the board. James Dawson and Ray Nowacki will contend for his three-year term from outside Murphysboro township.

James Dawson, 38, has two children, both attending district 186 schools. He is a plant engineer at the Lustour Corporation which prints roto-gravure labels. He lives in Somerset Township.

Dawson said he came to Murphysboro two years ago.

Murphysboro has a good school board, Dawson said, "and I would like to contribute to it in any way I can."

Dawson's opponent, Ray Nowacki, 50, has six children, five of who are enrolled in district 186 schools. He is an instructor in the SIU School of Engineering and lives in Murphysboro.

"I think we should work to improve the quality of education being offered," Nowacki said.

If elected, Nowacki said he would like to see the board study the use of student teachers.

He said the board should be concerned about taxes "which are currently very high" and feels encouraging citizen involvement in board decisions would be "desirable."

"I think it would be helpful," he said, "to have someone on the board with a background in education—not a teacher from the district."

Charles Meadows, appointed to fill Riseling's seat last year, will run unopposed.

Meadows, 47, has lived in Murphysboro for four years. He and his wife have three children, all of whom attend 186 District schools. Meadows is a service manager with General Telephone in Murphysboro.

Hearings end on conduct, ruling to come

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—A hearing ended Thursday on official misconduct charges leveled at a Circuit Court judge from Southern Illinois. The Illinois Courts Commission said it will rule later on the case.

Judge Randall S. Quindry, 59, of Fairfield, was on trial before the five-judge panel on charges that he illegally engaged in partisan politics, attempted to alter primary election ballots and heard cases in which his nephew was an attorney while on the Wayne County Circuit bench.

Judge Roy O. Gulley, secretary of the courts commission, said it will be a few days before the commission reaches a verdict in the case, which ended after three days of testimony.

The charges against Quindry were brought by the Illinois Judicial Inquiry Board. If the commission finds Quindry guilty he could be removed from the bench, suspended without pay, censured or reprimanded.

Jet helicopter funds received

Funds for a turbine jet helicopter, equipped to transfer critically ill and injured persons, for use in the Southern Illinois area has been approved by Gov. Dan Walker.

Announcement of the release of the funds, totaling $200,000, was made recently by State Sen. Kenneth Buzbee, D-Carbondale.

Buzbee said the helicopter, which is capable of speeds of 120 miles per hour, will be able to move critically ill or injured victims in most areas of Southern Illinois to Trauma Center Hospitals within 45 minutes.

The copter, Buzbee said, will be equipped to transport two stretcher patients along with a medical attendant, and added "the equipment will also include special incubators to move premature and high risk infants."

Buzbee said he expects the helicopter to be in service by the early part of June.

Four candidates seek seats on Unity Point school board

The Unity Point Elementary School District has the only real race among school board elections in districts here in Carbondale. In the other districts, Glendale and Giant City, two persons are running for two board vacancies.

In the Unity Point contest, incumbents Luther Deniston, Daniel McGuire, and John Stearns and challenger Mrs. James McHose are competing for the three three-year term openings.

Deniston, Route 6, Carbondale, is a 20-year veteran of the SIU Security Police force. He is a past president of the Unity Point board, on which he has served three terms. The 49-year-old sergeant has three children, aged 15, 16 and 20.

McGuire, 41, of Route 1, Makanda, is seeking his fourth term. He has two sons, 15 and 1. McGuire is the owner of McGuire's Orchards in Makanda.

Mrs. McHose, 33, of Route 6, Carbondale, also ran for the board last year. She is a piano teacher and has children in the fourth and first grades at Unity Point School.

Stearns, 32, of Route 1, Carbondale, is a Carbondale fireman. He has two children in the Unity School. He has served on the Unity Point board for the last two terms.

Incumbent Lee Phemister of Route 3, Carbondale, and James Newbanks, also of Route 3, are running for the two vacancies on the Giant City Elementary School Board.

Newbanks, 34, is the assistant chief broadcasting engineer at WSIU-TV and WSIU-FM. He is the father of three children, two of whom are students in the Giant City Elementary School. Newbanks holds a bachelor's degree in occupational education.

Phemister, 36, has been a member of the Giant City board for six years, and has served as its president. He is a mail clerk in the Carbondale Post Office and the father of two children, one in the school.

Incumbents Robert Nack and Dale Usher, both of Route 2, Carbondale, are seeking re-election to three-year terms on the Glendale Elementary School Board.

Nack is president of R.A. Nack and Associates. He has three children, aged 15, 14 and 2. The 41-year-old consulting engineer has served as both president and secretary in the six years he has been a board member.

Usher, 37, has also served six years on the board. He was board vice president last year, and has also been secretary and treasurer of the board. He is the chief engineer for E.T. Simonds Construction Company. A father of three, he has children in Kindergarten and sixth grades at Glendale School, and a daughter who is freshman at Carbondale Community High School.

School board elections will be held for these three districts and other area school boards next Saturday.

Alpha Beta, Pi Sigma Epsilon's local chapter, is rushing three women in their pledge program this quarter. SIU's chapter is sponsored by the Sales and Marketing Executives of St. Louis.

"We are the first professional business fraternity to adopt a coed membership program," James Moore, assistant professor in marketing, said.

"The fraternity is open to anyone interested in the area of sales and marketing; a major in one of the areas is not a requirement," Moore said.

The decision to admit women was approved by delegate vote at Pi Sigma's 18th annual national convention in Memphis, Tenn.

Independent candidates give viewpoints

Presidential candidates

Garry Barker
Pres., Ind.
Jr., Govt.

My name is Garry Barker and I'm an independent candidate for the office of student body president. Having attended SIU since the fall of '71, I am a junior, and my major is pre-law-govt. During my three years at Southern, I have worked with Student Government in several areas, and studied the various aspects in the classroom. I am a former Senator and served on the committee for self-determination of co-ed visitation, the committee for consumption of alcohol on-campus, and the finance committee. I have a sincere interest to accomplish something in a field I plan to make my profession.

Briefly, my platform includes: improvement of quality and quantity of concerts, longer library hours, investigation of the parking situation, establishment of a legal counsel, support of AISG, and emphasis on students to register and vote locally.

I endorse Marc Kamm for vice president. We are both independents. Parties, that have ties to interest groups seeking to tap the $172,000 budget, have always dominated the offices, yet they accomplished little. This is why an independent has never been elected. I have no such ties. To hell with the parties; make this election count by voting for independents.

Matt Chancey
Pres., Ind.
Jr., Govt.

My goal is to make Student Government as credible an organization as possible. I have a real interest in Student Government, and I think that with adequate support we could do a much better job.

The problems that I see confronting Student Government are: lack of student support, lack of support from other campus constituencies, such as GSC, and an inability among some people in Student Government to work together.

The first problem should be corrected by the student body. No matter who is running Student Government, without adequate support nothing can be improved. The other problems are to be dealt with by student representatives and require hard work, some patience and a lot of persuading.

As for my qualifications, I'm a junior in government, I'm carrying a 16-hour load and work 20 hours a week as well as belonging to the pre-law club and serving on the campus facilities and students rights committees in the Student Senate.

Larry C. Curry
Pres., Ind.
Senior, Pre-med

Some of our instructors are being discarded. This will probably cause more schedule conflicts for students during registration periods. This situation was created by our ex-president, Dr. Derge and his assistant, Dr. Orrescann. Both are to begin teaching in the fall and should receive much lower salaries.

There is, of course, the case of student-teacher disputes. There should be a board comprised of students and faculty members which shall have some real power when student-teacher disputes arise.

I have just mentioned some factors of importance to me which I intend to work hard for improvements if elected to the position of student body president in the coming April 17-18 student government elections. I am also contemplating open discussion with students concerning any other areas where I can strive for the betterment of our position. I feel that the students should have some strong influence upon the manner in which the school functions and a voice as to whom the next school president should be.

For more student power vote for Larry C. Curry write in candidate for student body president.

Don Kotz

Jess R. Lopez
Pres., Ind.
Sr., Acctg.

The elections for student body president are coming up again on April 17 and 18. Along with the elections come hopes, from this candidate anyway, that the apathy shown in last elections will be eradicated and that participation and involvement will be instituted. The involvement and participation themes are part of my platform.

We, the students at SIU, can become more closely associated with each other, with faculty and with the community with the help of a mature, responsible government backed by the student body.

This is the end of my third year at SIU. In that time I have been involved with students as a Resident Fellow and this year as a Senior Resident at Schneider Hall. I have never been involved with Student Government at a higher level than house council, but that could be one of my strongest points. Running as an independent candidate for the presidency with no party ties or affiliations will give me and the newly-elected representatives a chance to give SIU government a new and more student oriented look. Your vote is needed on April 17 and 18 to make Student Government responsive to student needs.

Michael Olson
Pres., Ind.
Jr., Govt.

My theme consists of economics in this election. My platform is work and jobs for SIU students. Summer jobs are scarce and I believe Student Government should pay more attention to this problem, particularly this summer, as short as it will be. Student Government should set aside funds for this purpose.

The entire University system suffers when students are forced to drop out due to the financial crunch. The reality is SIU is losing more students each year due to the tense money situation. Helping the student to not worry so much about employment in school and out is my goal if elected.

The new minimum wage increase is some relief, but this summer is short due to the conversion from quarters to semesters, and the savings will be zilch with the inflation pattern continuing. Let's fight this with future planning and avoid its recurrence. The final goal would be a permanent job agency free of charge for SIU students for summer employment throughout the state, compliments of Student Government.

Monroe Smith
Pres., Ind.
Sr., Accounting

If elected student body president, I pledge to put more meaning into the word "Student" in Student Government. I will actively seek student input into programs that will benefit the student body. With this in mind, I will actively work for the following programs: 1) a total reevaluation of the present fee structure and a better distribution of the fees into more tangible areas of student needs; 2) a reevaluation of the financial aid program, with the aim of more grants, scholarships, and loans; 3) gaining more independence for the Ombudsperson by placing this office directly under the president of the University; 4) gaining a vote on the Board of Trustees for the student trustee; 5) an insurance program available to all students at little or no extra cost; 6) a full time legal counsel available to students at no cost; 7) the sale of alcoholic beverages in the Student Center; 8) more recreation facilities available to students; 9) more student control and access to the Student Center; 10) making Student Government the effective and efficient body that it can be.

With your help Student Government can serve all students, not just a select few. I will work to this end with these and other programs designed to help the student population at SIU.

Scott Wallin
Pres., Ind.
Jr., Govt.

Personally, I feel that student body elections are a bunch of chicken feed. However, when I discovered that the president gets a salary I decided to run. I do not feel that the student body president is very important, but I do need the money. I will make no promises or take any stands. Frankly, I don't really care about this school; I just want to get done and get out. And as long as I'm going to be here, I might as well make some money. I don't believe it makes a difference what the president does, so I feel I can handle the job as well as anyone. Now I'm tired of wasting my time with this garbage, so that's all I'm going to say. If you like my attitude, vote for me—I need the money.

Vice-presidential candidates

Marc S. Kamm
V.P., Ind.

I am an independent candidate and the decisions I will make as vice-president will reflect not political views, but the views of the student body. Taking the events of the past two quarters here on campus into view, there are certain changes that can and should be made:

The change to semesters system should not bring a higher tuition. The deferment of fees should be lowered to $40.00. The deferment rate of $50.00 is too high for many students and many cannot register until this roadblock is removed.

We have a student trustee representative on the Board of Trustees—I feel he must be given a vote as well as letting his opinions known.

Now that beer and wine can be drunk in the dorms, I think we should be able to buy beer and wine in the Student Center also.

Barriers and obstacles should be removed to make things easier for handicapped students on campus and in town.

If elected, I would work for all students and not just a select few. If you are tired of "party politics," elect an independent; elect me vice-president.

Rich Riggio
V.P., Ind.
Jr., Govt.

I, Rich Riggio, am running independent (no strings attached) for the vice presidency at SIU. I will not bow to preconceived party notions, leaving me in a position to respond to student input.

I've been involved in Student Government for nine years and I've never lost an election, which speaks for my ability and performance. I've never taken a job that I didn't feel prepared for, and I've never left a position without feeling that I had ably served the needs and wants of the students.

I don't believe student apathy at SIU is incurable, as government can prevent apathy by involving the student. One objective of mine is to do my part to give the student a government that encourages interest and involvement.

My student government experience has been extensive. I was a high school senator for three years and completed high school as student body president. I served my former college as a senator, vice president, and as election commissioner. I served on the east campus executive board, as dorm president and University Park senator, as well as participated in numerous student-leadership programs.

Independent candidates give viewpoints

Harry Yaseen
V.P.-Ind.
Soph., Govt.

Student government needs a breath of fresh air. It needs a person who is willing to push the administration, the system, and do everything in his power to achieve student input and voice in the running of this campus. It doesn't need any more party lackeys. I'm Harry Yaseen, an independent, and I believe I fulfill the qualifications for vice-president of the student body.

My past year in the senate speaks for itself. I sponsored the bill which was sent to Governor Walker, urging no tuition increase for next year. I worked long and hard towards the resignation of Dr. Dege, and I've been a constant supporter of the 104 terminated faculty members.

Here are the issues as I see them: We need the restoration of the University Senate veto. We need proportionate placing of students on committees for the selection and review of all faculty and administration. We need a new recycling system. And we need the D.E. removed from administrative control and placed in the hands of the journalism department.

I need your vote. Vote Harry Yaseen for vice-president, number five on the ballot. Vote the student's voice, not the party's choice.

Trustee candidates

Ron Adams
Trustee
Jr., Public Relations

Student trustee may be the most erroneous title the position could have. A more correct title would be "Board of Trustees Member, Student Representative." The BOT-SR has all the power and responsibility of any person on the Board, except he cannot vote, yet. Working with the Board will be an honorable and beneficial experience which I feel will soon become a voting BOT-SR.

The primary focus of my campaign is on student input. My communications system will provide exactly that. The system will have input from all academic units, all living areas, (off and on campus) and special interest groups (large and small).

Recognizing the individuality of students and student groups is one the priority which the system adheres to. Such problems as needing to allow for advertising for a student radio station is the kind of thing which has to be investigated.

With my experience as a Student Senator, finance chairman, dorm president, dorm treasurer, class assistant to the student body president, and many other obligations in the area of student concerns make hard work and student interest nothing new to me. I feel qualified and capable of serving SIU-C as the Board of Trustees Member, Student Representative. Please vote on election day.

Kathy Jones
Trustee
Grad., Higher Ed.

Two convictions are central to my decision to enter the student trustee race. The first is that SIU as an institution has enormous potential for creative leadership in higher education. Evidence of this comes from a tradition of innovation and tremendous expansion of curriculums to meet the needs of its students.

Secondly, I sincerely believe that students can positively influence the directions and future of SIU. In order to fulfill a diversity of needs, the University must have input from those who receive its education—the students. Through the student trustee, this viewpoint can be supplied.

The trustee must be concerned not only with the immediate consequences of Board actions, but also the long-range implications and what they mean to the student and the institution as a whole. My current degree program is higher education. I feel that I can utilize my training in this field to gain that perspective.

Ron Adams

Steve Nuckles
Trustee
Jr., Govt.

SIU-C is in great need of student leadership in university affairs. The student body president and Student Senate have not provided this leadership.

The only other source of leadership available is that of student trustee. This unique position has unlimited possibilities for the creation of an understanding, thinking, knowing voice for all students of SIU-C.

As a candidate with background not only in the field of politics, but also higher education and human interaction in this society, I hope to provide knowledge and leadership at the post of student trustee.

As trustee I will be looking for ways to create a common pride at SIU. This pride would include our new president, his officials, and all leadership offices on our campus. Here at Southern we have excellent professors, maturing schools and a fine campus. Let's make SIU an outstanding university. Vote for pride—vote for me in the coming election.

Matthew Rich
Trustee

In the Student Trustee Election there are 3 important issues. 1) selection of a new president for SIU,

Steve Nuckles

2) getting the student trustee the vote, and 3) how to spend student fees (your $50 a quarter). The student trustee is a non-voting member but I feel that with hard work the student will earn the vote by next year.

Whether or not I am elected I will do my best to get the student trustee the vote by continuing to lobby in the state legislature. It is most important that students vote in the trustee election to give the lobbyist the power to say, "The students demand a voice in the running of their University."

I also feel students must have more say in selection of the president. The search of committee should have more student members. I have read several chronicles referring to presidential selection and have talked to many students about what they want in a president. The Trustees select the president and I will be able to tell the Board what the students want in a president.

As vice president of the University Senate and member of the Student Conduct Review Board and ACLU, I know how the University runs and how it can screw the student. To help students I need the support of all those who voted for me in the last election. I will be responsible to the student body by being responsible to myself and those I work with. If you have any questions call me at 453-3673. Vote April 18 and 19. Matthew Rich, number one on the ballot.

Robert C. Vogel, associate professor of economics, will present a paper at a conference at Stanford University Wednesday through Friday. The paper co-authored with Stephen A. Buser, assistant professor of economics, is titled "Inflation, Financial Repression and Capital Formation in Latin America."

Professor Vogel specializes in monetary theory and policy and economic problems of Latin America and has recently published articles on inflation in Latin America in the American Economic Review and the Review of Economics and Statistics.

The conference honors Professor Edward S. Shaw, a well-known monetary economist who is retiring after more than 40 years of teaching at Stanford. Also participating in the conference are such noted economists as Professors Harry Johnson, Charles Kindleberger, Ronald McKinnon and Tibor Scitovsky.

Landing privileges denied to airline by local airport heads

Southern Illinois Airport officials have decided to refuse landing rights to Ozark Airlines. Airport Manager Gene Siebert said Thursday.

Airport officials met Wednesday night to decide whether Ozark should be allowed to land planes at the airport.

Ozark requested the right to land planes at Southern Illinois Airport while the main runway at Williamson County Airport is being widened. Engineers say the runway may be closed for two months.

Siebert said Ozark was refused for several reasons.

Plane owners already based at the Southern Illinois Airport would have to be relocated to handle the Ozark planes, Siebert said. "That is not fair to them."

The only runway equipped to handle the Ozark planes would be "overstressed," Siebert said. Ozark's traffic would mean an additional six landings a day. The Ozark planes are also larger and heavier than the other planes using the runway.

If Ozark planes cause damage to the runway, it becomes the airport's responsibility to fix it, Siebert said. Ozark has no obligations to pay.

Southern Illinois Airport has two runways. The north-south runway is the only one that can handle Ozark's traffic.

Don Morrison, Ozark's director of public relations, said that the airline is not sure what its next move will be. He added that he has not received official word from the airport that Ozark would be denied the right to land their planes at Southern Illinois Airport.

Weather, late deliveries causing renovation delay

By Bill Ginsberg
Student Writer

Weather and late deliveries of materials have caused delays in the renovation of McAndrew Stadium, Jack Moore, project engineer for construction management, said recently.

Moore said that because of further delays, a completion date is not known.

"We would have finished the demolition of the east side grandstand by now, but because of the weather we haven't," he said.

Moore said that the renovation is a month behind because of the weather.

"The delivery of structural steel has been delayed and a firm delivery date has not been established," he said.

The cost of the project is $2,029,506.

Moore said that when the east grandstand is completed it will include about 9,400 aluminum seats. The grandstand used to seat 4,000 persons.

Shower rooms, a locker room and concession stands will be located under the grandstand.

He also said that modernized washrooms, a locker room and an athletic office will be beneath the west grandstand.

"The new seats should allow for better viewing," Moore said.

The stadium will have 17,700 seats, an increase of 5,700 when completed.

Moore said that the press box, which will be higher up than it used to be, will be located on top of the west grandstand. Its first estimated cost was $400,000, but will actually cost $50,000.

The original plans called for the box to be more elaborate and much larger than what it will be.

Because the completion date is unknown, the first two home games have been rescheduled. SIU will now play Indiana State and Dayton away, Bill Brown, assistant athletic director, said.

Brown said that the playing sites have been reversed with Indiana State for the next two years. "We will play there this season and they will play us here next season," Brown said.

Brown said that the game against Dayton is the last on a contract. He also said that, as of now, only four home games will be played, but if delays continue more home games will be played away.

Cycling Club slates rides

The SIU Cycling Club's week of activities continues with a five-to-ten-mile "Midnight Ride" around the campus and Carbondale, Friday night.

Riders are to start assembling at 11 p.m. in front of Shryock Auditorium. A coffee and doughnut break is planned for sometime during the ride. Lights are required for all bikes.

At noon Saturday, a 44-mile trip to Ava, northwest of Murphysboro is planned. Riders will depart from Shryock Auditorium.

The final event will be an all-you-can-eat picnic at Giant City on Sunday. Registration for the picnic will begin at 10:30 a.m. in front of Shryock Auditorium. Riders will leave at 11 a.m.

Admission to the picnic will be $1 for non-club members. Club members will be admitted free. All riders must cycle the 12 miles to Giant City. Groups of no more than six riders will travel together. Each group will be accompanied by an experienced club member for safety.

For more information on the events, contact Bruce Paterson at 453-5693 or 453-5721, ext. 236.

Soccer Club at home

The SIU International Soccer Club will be in action at 3:30 p.m. Saturday against Blackburn College at McAndrew Stadium.

Admission is free and the public is invited to attend.

Women netters to be in action

The SIU women's varsity tennis team will try to forget last weekend's 10-1 loss to Murray State and concentrate on action this weekend.

The women netters will take to the courts at 9 a.m. Saturday for their home opener against the Redbirds.

This weekend will be busy for the women netters. Besides the meet with the Redbirds, Coach Sally Cotton will send six players to Memphis State for a quadrangular meet Friday and Saturday. Meg Putnam, Debbie Harris, Jan Amedeo, Robin Nelson, Trish Kehoe and Peggy Conroy will represent SIU at Memphis State.

Coach Cotton is expecting the meet with the Redbirds to be a good test for her team. "Illinois State is a strong team at the top positions and has good depth," she said.

Ms. Cotton had little information about the quadrangular and said, "We're going into that one blind and just hoping for the best."

Pistons nip Bulls

DETROIT (AP) — Bob Lanier, who scored only four points before intermission, poured in 34 in the second half to lead the Detroit Pistons to a 92-88 victory over the Chicago Bulls Thursday and send the National Basketball Association playoff series to the seven-game limit.

Women's track team to open season Tuesday

With only two weeks of practice, the SIU women's varsity track and field team will don traveling uniforms for Tuesday's opening meet of the season with Murray State.

The meet will give track coach Claudia Blackman a chance to watch her virtually untested team under meet conditions. Only four of the 30 team members returned from last year's team. Several of the newcomers will be competing for the first time.

Ms. Blackman will be counting heavily on returnees Judy Nolan, Launa Morrison, Kris Olson and Connie Doty to anchor the young, inexperienced team.

Ms. Nolan holds the state record in the 220-yard dash with a time of 28.0. She held down the lead-off spot in the 440 and 880 last year and will probably fill that same spot this year. Ms. Morrison competes in the 100- and 400-meter hurdles, as well as the high jump. She is also a middle-distance runner and may fill in there, depending on the team's strength at the middle distance position.

Ms. Olson specializes in the shot put, discus and the javelin. Ms. Doty competes in the 220- and 440-yard dash.

The women tracksters will be in for a rough debut against Murray, which has a strong track and field team.

Due to caliber of the competition, the team's brief practice schedule and the inexperience of her team, Ms. Blackman is not expecting to win the meet. "I'm hoping we can just hold our own and pick up some valuable experience," she said.

SIU sweeps doubleheader from Aurora

By Mark Tupper
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

A 5-4 victory in the opener and a 12-2 thrashing in the second game moved the Saluki baseball team through a doubleheader sweep of the Aurora Spartans Thursday, taking the SIU record to 15-5.

Ray Huelsman and Rod Hodges combined to pitch the Salukis past Aurora in game one limiting the Spartans to four hits and striking out seven. Huelsman was credited with the win, his first of the year, against no defeats.

Trailing 1-0 in the bottom of the second, SIU's Steve Shartzler led off with a single. Claude Crockett was hit by a pitch moving Shartzler to second, and Stan Mann's infield single loaded the bases with no outs.

Catcher Frank Hunsacker drove in Shartzler to tie the game with a ground out to the second baseman. A walk to Jim Reeves reloaded the bases and when SIU's Bert Hoescheidt was also hit by a pitch, Crockett was forced across the plate to give the Salukis a 2-1 lead.

SIU picked up two more runs in the fourth on a single by Mann, Hunsacker's double and Bert Newman's suicide squeeze bunt.

Don Pesavento's bases loaded line single to right sent two Spartan runners across the plate and Crockett's throw from rightfield appeared to have nailed the third runner at the plate. But the ball skipped out of Hunsacker's glove and the tying run was called safe.

A balk and a passed ball by Spartan pitcher Robin Voss allowed SIU's winning run to score in the fifth. On the play John Hoescheidt scored from third on Voss's wild heave. Voss was making his first appearance as a pitcher since moving from shortstop.

Hodges struck out three to seal the win for SIU in the Spartan's final inning.

In the second game Ed Makutchan and Mike Ferrara served up ten walks to the Salukis, as SIU scored in every inning. Makutchan opened the game with 11 straight balls and loaded the bases with no outs before Shartzler rocketed a double to right center scoring two.

Hoescheidt scored from third on a wild pitch and Shartzler scored while Aurora was putting the tag on Mann in a run down between first and second. Shartzler's run gave the Salukis a 4-0 lead in the first inning.

Hoescheidt picked up his second hit of the game in the second inning a line-drive triple between the outfielders in right center, scoring Mike Wilbins.

Two runs in the third, three in the fourth and a single run in the fifth and sixth completed the SIU scoring.

It wasn't until the Aurora seventh that the Spartans were able to get on the scoreboard. Two walks and two singles accounted for the Spartan runs. Dunning got the win for SIU, his first of the season, and Dan Milosevich came in in the sixth to pick up the save.

The Salukis will open a three-game series against Louisville with a single game at 1 p.m. Friday at Abe Martin Field. A noon doubleheader with Louisville on Saturday and a 1 p.m. double dip with McMurray on Sunday also are scheduled. Jim Bokelmann (3-1) is slated to pitch Friday for SIU.

Recreation canceled

The SIU Arena will not be available for free recreation this Sunday because of a previously scheduled event. Free recreation will be resumed next Sunday at its regular hours, 8-11 p.m.

SIU, Illini may race 'to the wire'

By Bruce Shapin
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

If past performances are any indication, the SIU-Illinois dual track meet in Champaign this weekend will be a close one.

Competition will begin with the javelin at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at Memorial Stadium, followed by the field events at 11 a.m. and the running events at 11:30 a.m.

Daily Egyptian Sports

"It will be just like any other SIU-Illini meet—close," said Saluki coach Lew Hartzog.

"Two years ago, Illinois should have beaten us by 20 points, but we won by 15 points. Or last year, we were better and Illinois won. It could come down to the mile relay this year."

Illini coach Bob Wright, who is retiring at the end of the year, said, "injuries could tell the story of the meet." In last year's meet, SIU's Terry Erickson was injured in the 220, keeping him out of the last event, the mile relay. Illinois won last year's meet with a narrow 74-71 triumph.

Since the first meet between these two rivals in 1968, the average score for the series is in the Illini's favor, 77.67-75.67. Each of the schools have won three meets apiece, with all but two being decided by less than 15 points.

The Salukis expect to rule the sprints with Illinois taking the longer races. Mike Monroe, Gerald Smith, Eddie Sutton and Joe Laws will be competing for SIU in the 100 and 220, while Erickson, Wayne Carmody, Ed Wardzala and Sutton will race in the 440.

The mile and three-mile will belong to the Illini's Mike Durkin. Gary Mandehr and Dave Hill could capture second place for the Salukis in the mile, while SIU's Gerry Craig will challenge Durkin in the three-mile.

The relays should be all SIU with Sutton, Laws, Smith and Monroe in the 440, and Erickson, Lonnie Brown, Carmody and Wardzala in the mile. "We'll have to pull a muscle or drop a baton to lose those," said Hartzog.

Hartzog is hoping for a sweep in the relays because the winner gets five points in each race and the loser nothing. Other events are scored 5-3-1 for first, second and third place.

In the hurdles it looks like a very close duel with the Salukis Bill Hancock and the Illini's Jim Hanlon and Al Melton in the 120-high hurdles. The 440 intermediate hurdles will place Brown and Saluki Sayne Angel versus Jim Fasules and Holger Pateau.

Illinois should sweep the weights with Mike Baietto in the discus and shot put.

In other field events, Hancock looks good in the high jump along with Southern's Guy Zajonc in the pole vault.

In the long and triple jumps, Illini Charlton Ehizuelen is the man to beat. Ehizuelen, a freshman from Nigeria, jumped 54-1-3/4 in the triple jump last week to set a new Illinois and Big Ten triple jump record. Hartzog commented on Ehizuelen saying, "He could very well end up being the best triple jumper in the U.S." Ehizuelen will have competition from the Salukis Phil Robins in the triple jump. Robins jumped 51-7 at last weekend's John Jacobs Invitational to take first place honors.

Weather could be a factor in the outcome of the meet, as Champaign has had the worst spring weather in the last four years according to Wright. Wright is expecting a big crowd because immediately following the meet, the Illinois football team will play a spring game.

Hartzog has been trying to figure this meet out and says, "One time I'll figure we'll win by five points, then I'll sit down and figure again and we end up losing by 20. All I can figure is that it's going to be close."

Rugby club eyes game with U of I

The SIU Rugby Club takes to the road this weekend for a Saturday game with the University of Illinois.

The ruggers will be looking to improve on their overall 3-3 record. The A team has a disappointing record of 1-3, while the B team stands at 2-1.

The A team won its first game of the season last Saturday, defeating the Illinois State Redbirds, 16-4. Scoring for the ruggers were Kevin Conway, Ed Whillie, Bob Jenura and Bubba Taylor.

The B team shutout the Redbirds, 4-0 in the second game. Kevin Kramer scored the only goal of the game.
