Mavericks complain about Sting write-ins

By Chris Felker
Associate Editor
and Lyndall Caldwell
Staff Writer

Amidst what Undergraduate Student Organization Election Commissioner Dave Williams called a "huge turnout" in the USO elections Wednesday, charges of electioneering and multiple voting were made.

Also, a formal complaint was filed by Maverick Party campaign manager Brian Netols about write-in votes for Sting Party candidates.

According to Williams, Netols' complaint said that the Maverick Party wanted the commissioner to comply with USO bylaws on write-in votes. The bylaws state that the election commissioner must comply with state and federal election laws, which require that write-in candidates' names must be spelled correctly.

"After the complaint was filed, I said that I would comply with the bylaws," Williams said.

Williams had said earlier that he intended to be liberal with the write-in ballots — which, according to Netols, meant Williams would accept up to four spellings of the Sting candidates' names.

Netols said his complaint, which was filed "at least five days ago," was made "when I heard that they (Sting Party) were going to print up stickers that people could put on the ballots." Those stickers, he said, would bear the names of the Sting write-in candidates.

"I simply wanted this election to be legal according to established tradition and election law in the United States — that people who write in candidates do so in their own handwriting," Netols said.

Sting vice-presidential candidate Don Burk said he was in agreement with Williams' reply to the complaint. "The stickers were just an idea. I asked if our idea could be approved, and it was not, so we agreed to abide by the decision," he said.

Williams said that if the number of invalid ballots resulting from misspelled names is significant enough to

Secretaries to keep union as agent

By Rod Furlow
Staff Writer

The student government election wasn't the only one going on Wednesday — SIUC secretaries represented by the Civil Service Bargaining Organization voted to keep the union as their bargaining agent.

About 370 secretaries represented by CSBO were eligible to vote, and the votes of the eligible secretaries in two categories — stenographic and transcribing — were counted separately. Each class decided for itself whether it would retain CSBO representation.

Transcribing secretaries voted 80-28 to stay in CSBO, and the stenographic secretaries' vote came out 63-47 in favor of the union. Three ballots cast by transcribing secretaries were spoiled.

CSBO President Lee Hester was pleased with the election's turnout. So were two secretaries who had led the push to eliminate CSBO representation, Ruth Perk and JoAnn Marks.

All three were in Student Center Ballroom C at 4 p.m., when Illinois Department of Labor representatives Dwayne Linton and Flora Reilly began counting the votes.

"I was pleasantly surprised by the turnout," Marks said. "But, of course, I'm very disappointed with the results."

Hester liked the results — "It feels good to win," he said. "This is a mandate for CSBO."

Linton, a conciliator for the Labor Department's regional office in Marion, said that the election means CSBO will be recognized by the department for another year as the certified bargainer for secretaries it represents. Another election to attempt to decertify CSBO can't be held for a year, he said.

Marks said she wasn't planning another drive to get the secretaries out of CSBO.

"No way. I had one purpose in mind — to get the people to come out and vote, and to express their views," Marks said. "I accomplished that purpose."

Perk said she was relieved the battle over CSBO was over, saying, "Now I can get back to my regular life."

Hester said he was also glad the election was over because the campaign preceding it took too much time away from his CSBO duties.

"We should be halfway through our negotiations for next year's salaries," he said. "This thing has slowed us down."

Hester said he asked Marks, right after the votes had been counted, to get involved in the union so that her views could be heard. "I'm not mad at her, but she might be mad at me," he said.

Marks didn't seem too eager to get involved in the union.

"I'll have to think about that one," she said. "I disapprove so violently of the union's activities that I don't know if I could ever get involved in it."

Besides the secretaries, another classification of employees voted in the election.

Three senior aircraft mechanics voted "no," meaning CSBO will no longer be recognized as their bargaining agent by the Department of Labor, Linton said.

Gus says now that the CSBO voting is over and done with, more than one secretary may hear "let's get out some letters to somebody besides the editor."

Observer to print in May; WIDB issue unresolved

By Ken Perkins
Staff Writer

The Black Observer newspaper will print a May issue. The paper's staff received the news Wednesday after Pat McNeil, Black Affairs Council advisor, met with administrators to decide whether or not to continue the monthly publication.

According to Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs, the Black Observer staff will be allowed to print the May issue at the Daily Egyptian, saving the black-oriented newspaper about $500. He added that he is in the process of setting up meetings with other vice presidents to determine if the paper be printed again next year.

The news wasn't as good for the soul staff of WIDB, however. Three proposals were presented at the station's board of directors' meeting Wednesday on the proposed cut of the weekend soul show "Soul Entertainers," but neither the soul staff's nor WIDB General Manager Lisa Dartt's were approved. But the third proposal, submitted by Nancy Hunter Harris, WIDB fiscal advisor, asking that a task force be formed to study the problem, was approved unanimously and takes effect immediately.

The task force will review the station's financial situation and will decide if the soul staff be eliminated. Harris, director of the Office of Student Development, will chair the task force. The decision, she said, could be known "by the end of the semester."

Dartt wanted all other programs other than rock-oriented programs eliminated because of the station's financial deficit of $8,400. The format change, she said, would bring in more advertising revenue on the weekend, where soul music is played 39 hours. The new format would be 24-hour, seven-day-a-week album rock.

Congress looks at arms freeze

Reagan asks for more nukes

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a quiet move shadowed by the growing movement for a nuclear arms freeze, President Reagan has asked Congress for an additional $400 million to accelerate production through 1983.

Reagan's request for more money to build atomic bombs went to Congress at the very time Senate and House members were focusing on resolutions calling for either a gradual arms reduction or an immediate freeze by the United States and the Soviet Union.

The president's March 29 request drew virtually no notice at the time. In recent days, however, administration officials pointed to the proposed spending increase as one of the factors driving the budget deficit higher than the administration had estimated in February.

Reagan is seeking $97.4 million more for bomb production in fiscal 1982, which ends in September; an additional $310.9 million for 1983, and another $1 billion for 1983-87.

Reagan's latest request comes on top of a $1 billion budget increase for nuclear warhead production already approved by Congress for 1982 and a further $800 million increase Reagan is seeking for 1983. Under Reagan's proposal, total spending would climb from $3.65 billion in 1981 to $5.8 billion next year.

It was not known how much — if any — of the money would be for production and stockpiling of the neutron warhead.

Mavericks, Irvin lead early

BULLETIN

According to unofficial results from Wednesday's Undergraduate Student Organization election and the vote for SIUC student trustee, this is how the tallies were shaping up as of 9 p.m. Wednesday.

In the student trustee race,

Stan Irvin, the incumbent, was ahead of Jeff Neigel by about a five-to-one ratio.

In the race for president: MAVERICK: 183
BIG O: 32
STING: 10

There also were 23 invalid Sting votes, making the unofficial Sting support about the same as the Big O.

Reagan warns Soviets to stop interfering with Falkland Isles

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan told the Soviet Union on Wednesday to "butt out" of the Falkland Islands crisis as Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. prepared to carry a revised peace proposal to Argentina.

Haig, who met with Reagan at the White House after returning from Britain, announced he has some "new ideas" which can avert war but require flexibility from London and Buenos Aires. Meanwhile, he said, the situation remains "exceptionally difficult and dangerous."

In Buenos Aires, the Argentine coast guard said two of its gunboats had broken the British blockade of the Falklands and were patrolling the shores of the archipelago.

In London, British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher said at the start of an emergency debate in Parliament that "withdrawal of the (Argentine) invaders' troops" must precede any negotiations over the future of the islands taken over by Argentina on April 2.

"Our diplomacy is backed by strength," she asserted. "And we have the resolve to use that strength if necessary."

The president told reporters that the Soviet Union evidently is providing military intelligence to Argentina, based on "what I've heard and read." And "I'd like to see them butt out," he declared.

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said later the president based his comments on press reports and stated "I'm not going into what we know or don't know."

Earlier Wednesday, Argentina's ambassador here, Esteban Takacs, denied his nation was receiving intelligence from the Soviet Union.

Haig, who planned to depart for Buenos Aires on Thursday morning, said he had received assurances from British and Argentine leaders that they are ready to continue to work with him.

Mrs. Thatcher told the House of Commons that some progress had been achieved during Haig's talks, but Argentina was still demanding "some things which we could not consider because they flouted our basic principles."

Bill to ban gun control laws rejected

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Illinois House lawmakers rejected an attempt to overturn tough handgun laws passed by cities, towns and other local governments.

Legislators voted 94-70 in favor of the measure, but that was 13 votes short of the 107 needed to pass the bill.

The vote Wednesday came after 90 minutes of debate before a House gallery packed with Illinois and National Rifle Association members.

Seven inmates die in prison fire

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Seven trapped prisoners died "huddled in a corner" early Wednesday when fire swept through their eighth-floor holding cell at the overcrowded Hudson County Jail.

Two inmates told a lawyer they heard guards shouting "Where's the key? Where's the key?" after the fire erupted at about 5 a.m.

Some witnesses said the blaze was started by an inmate who deliberately set fire to a highly flammable foam mattress.

Mrs. Thompson quits judgeship quest

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Saying that further pursuit of a federal judgeship might hurt her husband's political future, Jayne Carr Thompson — wife of Gov. James R. Thompson — Wednesday withdrew her name as a possible candidate for the post.

"I have come to the conclusion that to further pursue appointment to the federal bench at this time risks political danger to my husband and, possibly, to Sen. (Charles H.) Percy as well," Mrs. Thompson said.

Aide: Governor uses trauma copter

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A state-owned helicopter whose priority is to carry the critically ill has been used for political, personal and state business trips by Gov. James R. Thompson, an aide confirmed Wednesday.

The governor's use of the jet-engine helicopter for the trips, which included flights to his Wisconsin vacation home, "were nothing out of the ordinary," said aide Jim Prescott.

Prescott said the helicopter, based in Springfield, is for use by the governor and other state department officials when not needed for a medical emergency.

"The governor has given the crews specific instructions that if there is a medical emergency, he is to be dropped at the first available site," Prescott said in a telephone interview.

He said Thompson's campaign committee reimbursed the state for the political flights, as required by regulations.

The flights included ones from the governor's vacation retreat near Neshkoro, Wis., to a pair of Republican golf outings in Chicago suburbs; a trip from Neshkoro to Kankakee for the wedding of Republican House Speaker George Ryan's daughter; and two trips to the University of Illinois in Champaign-Urbana.

Thompson defended the trips, saying his use of the helicopter has not been "inordinate."

"The helicopter was bought with the understanding that it was not exclusively for trauma use," he said Tuesday.

change the outcome of the election, the Sting Party could appeal the outcome to the Campus Judicial Board for Governance.

The names of the Sting Party's presidential and vice presidential candidates were removed from the ballot after a dispute over the filing of nominating petitions.

Martha Simak, chairperson of Housing Tuition and Fees Commission, said, "I'm very tired of the mud-slinging in this election. I can't believe how childish the candidates have been. If they can't get their way with the administration, will they call them names?"

Simak also said that a person wearing a Maverick T shirt stood at the table where she voted in Trueblood Hall. Although it is allowed to wear campaign materials while voting, Martha said this person was just standing and looking around.

A student, who preferred to remain unidentified, said he did not vote, but that he did get irritated when T-shirt-wearing Maverick campaigners approached him near a residence hall area voting table several times to ask whether he had voted. He said that after being asked this several times, he finally said yes. He said he was then asked whether he had voted for the Maverick Party.

Unofficial reports from other voters said the same thing was occurring at other voting tables on campus.

Meanwhile, one executive candidate alleged that the USO's plan to prevent multiple voting — stamping the hands of voters with indelible ink — may have been ineffective.

To make the point, Sen. Marilyn Melvin, Big O Party vice presidential candidate, washed the ink stamps off her hand with soap, water, and baby oil. "If I did it, anybody could do it," she said. "Who's to say that this won't turn out to be another athletics fee referendum, where maybe 1,000 students voted seven times each? It's not right."

Williams said early Wednesday evening that he thought the election turnout "set records." He said that reports from election judges at Grinnell, Trueblood and Lentz halls indicated the turnouts there may have been record-setting.

The Daily Egyptian will have complete election results in Friday's newspaper.

Former Daily Egyptian staffer is among Pulitzer winners

By Christopher Kade Staff Writer

Deborah Singer, an SIU-C journalism graduate and former Daily Egyptian staff member, was one of four reporters from the Kansas City Star whose coverage of the Hyatt Regency Hotel disaster won the Pulitzer Prize for general local reporting.

The staffs of the jointly-owned Kansas City Star and Kansas City Times shared the award, which was announced by Pulitzer Prize officials Monday. Singer, who has been writing for the Star for the past 14 months, was one of four reporters assigned to cover the aftermath and investigate the causes of the walkway collapse that killed 113 persons last July 17.

Singer, who graduated in May 1975, was a Daily Egyptian staff member during her final two semesters at SIU-C. She is married to Mark Peterson, SIU-C journalism graduate who was Daily Egyptian editor-in-chief in 1979, but she uses her maiden name in her byline. Peterson is a reporter for the Associated Press bureau in Kansas City. Both are graduates of the public affairs reporting program at Sangamon State, Springfield, where they met.

The stories were investigated and written in a "team effort," Peterson said, and the reporters shared bylines.

Singer said that rumors that the Star might win the Pulitzer Prize "were floating around the newsroom for a couple of weeks and our editor felt we had a good stab at it."

When the staff received word Monday that it had won, the Star management "threw us a big bash and we drank ourselves silly," Singer said.

Singer said she is very appreciative of the congratulations for her accomplishment, "but I hope you remember to note that a lot of people participated."

Singer, originally from Chicago, covered general news and wrote music, drama and film reviews for the Daily Egyptian.

7-year-old critical after abuse, fire

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) — A frail 7-year-old, who apparently spent his life locked in a basement, was in critical condition Wednesday after being rescued from his empty, burning home.

Neighbors told firemen the house was empty because the parents were gone, there were no lights, and they didn't know there was a child on the premises.

But firefighters kicked in a basement door and found Dejan

Esker, unconscious and barely breathing, at the foot of basement stairs.

"I wondered what they were carrying out," said Maureen Brunkhorst, a neighbor. "When I saw it was a child, I was sick. I didn't sleep all night. It gave me cold chills."

The boy was reported in a coma Wednesday at Southeast Missouri Hospital.

Fire Chief Charles Mills said Dejan apparently slept in the basement on a sofa, beside which firefighters found a plate with three cookies and a banana snack cake. There was a cupboard by the sofa with the child's clothing in it, but no toys.

Reporters toured the house Wednesday, but found no evidence upstairs of the child, his toys, clothing or bed.

Cecil Pletcher said he rented the one-story home in late December to Akbar Esker, who had moved from Peoria, Ill., to attend Southeastern Missouri State University.

Students losing friends in Brown and Rogers

STUDENTS, AS A GROUP, don't have many friends outside their own ranks. Sure, administrators sometimes seem friendly, but more often they seem distant from student concerns and interested in students only as a source of revenue. Legislators seem indifferent to student needs and requests. And, as all students know, your best friend on the faculty can turn nasty near the end of the semester.

Given this dearth of people who'll stand up for students, it's all the more appropriate for SIU-C students to take note when two of their good friends depart. Debbie Brown, the president of the Graduate Student Council for the past two years, and Todd Rogers, Undergraduate Student Organization president, are two friends whom SIU-C students will miss at the end of the spring semester. At that time, they will step down from their positions to make way for newly elected replacements.

Brown, who is working toward a doctorate in English, has consistently tried to bring the views of the entire student body, not just graduate students, to the University administration and the Board of Trustees. She has, for two years, patiently worked to arouse a lethargic student body to defend its own interests.

Brown has helped organize student letter writing campaigns and other challenges to fee hikes that administrators made less-than-convincing cases for. She has, through her unwavering efforts on behalf of students, earned respect — and maybe a little fear — from University administrators.

ROGERS, A SENIOR in political science and psychology, has carried on the work of making the undergraduate student body a force to be reckoned with at SIU-C. Through his efforts to organize activities like Carbondale Clean-Up Day and the student book co-op, he has presided over a rebirth of vitality in, and respect for, student government that began with his predecessor, Paul Matalonis.

Under Rogers, the USO has earned the respect and cooperation of city officials. He has brought student concerns to the board. He has, like Brown, struggled to awaken the student body to the slow strangulation that Reaganomics is imposing on higher education.

The best thing these two leaders have given to students, however, is the new spirit of cooperation and unity which pervades both the GSC and the USO. Brown and Rogers have successfully brought home to their respective organizations the need to do something about the vulnerable position students find themselves in. This new awareness of the power of organization has resulted in cooperative efforts between the USO and the GSC at events like "Education for Everyone" rallies and protests at board meetings.

In a world where students too often find themselves alone, friends like these will be sorely missed. SIU-C students can only hope their successors will be as committed to student welfare and as effective in advancing it.

Letters

Story on women gymnasts was nothing but a gossip column

The members of the women's varsity gymnastics team would like to address this letter to Steve Metsch, Daily Egyptian sports editor, in response to his story, which was printed in the Daily Egyptian on April 5, about the gymnastics team's performance at nationals.

Mr. Metsch, you have been "covering" our performances this season, or should we say repeating, the frustration released by our coach Herb Vogel after each meet. Have you no class? Have you such low self-esteem that you have to print such trivial, unsubstantiated garbage in your article?

You have the title of sports editor so do your job. Report the facts and edit the unnecessary trash.

Who really wrote your story? Was it you or Vogel? It seems that all you printed was Vogel's quotes. Didn't you feel the least bit stupid acting as a go-between for our coach to embarrass us and punish us for his own feelings of unaccomplishment? That's what you were doing.

Your story was a quick and easy way for our coach to release his frustrations on his team. Now really, Mr. Metsch, is that what you went into journalism for?

As members of a varsity athletics team that represents SIU-C, we felt defeated and embarrassed after reading your story and finding that our 12th-place national ranking was overlooked and diminished by the way we practiced the week before, our attitudes or any other excuses used to explain our failure to place higher than that. At least we made it to nationals.

We may not perform up to our potential all the time, but we do work out from the first day of classes in the fall to the last day in the spring without a Thanksgiving, spring or fall Christmas break. Don't you feel this amount of dedication deserved more than sheer embarrassment caused by your story?

We do! We simply cannot appreciate some meager sports writer taking words out of the mouth of our vengeful coach and ignorantly using them to embarrass us.

Mr. Metsch, we are extremely disappointed in the lack of professionalism you have exhibited. As far as we are concerned, you are no more than a gossip columnist. Your story served as a conversation piece for our fellow students, but it did so at the expense of our pride as athletes.

In closing, we would just like to rephrase some of the comments quoted in the story April 5. As for us taking advantage of the lack of depth on the team and giving our coach "crap" for it — what Vogel tried to say was that he failed to do any substantial recruiting this year. The "crap" that he felt was bestowed upon him was the expressions of frustration and feelings of defeat we felt from not having the depth in gymnasts to live up to his and our own expectations.

As for jealousy — the only jealousy we have felt was toward the teams we have competed against, not each other. Seeing other teams with friendly and respectable coaches and supportive school media made us a bit envious.

Thanks again for allowing us to end our season in such an undignified manner. Our seniors will graduate with overwhelming amounts of pride for the way they were regarded by the student body and faculty after reading your story. — Lisa Peden, Lori Erickson, Val Pinkston, Mary Ranch, Pamela Turner and Joanne Oppenheim, Members of the Women's Varsity Gymnastics Team.

Student Center ignores students

Bravo! I heartily congratulate the Daily Egyptian editorial page editor for the well-written, justified editorial in the April 3 issue. I was beginning to wonder if all SIU-C students were mentally stranded in Daytona Beach, oblivious to the real problems at the University.

I, too, had the gross misconception that the Student Center should accommodate the needs of students. After all, what does the title of the building suggest?

The book co-op held in the ballrooms in January was long overdue, and it was good to see that it was, at least, a mild success. Students have been taken advantage of long enough by exorbitantly high book prices, and it was encouraging to be afforded the chance to fight back.

However, the decision by the Student Center administration to charge rent to the operators of the co-op reeks of open contempt and, as the editorial so aptly put it, "callous disregard" for the needs of students. They are merely worried about losing their obscene margin of profit generated through the University Bookstore.

If the Student Center is indeed dedicated to serving the needs of SIU-C students, then the administration should welcome the opportunity to aid in reducing educational costs for students.

Why doesn't the Student Center administration simply ask for donations each semester instead of conveniently taking the money from students in the form of ever-increasing Student Center fees? I would gladly donate money if the center would guarantee a contribution to the needs of the student and faculty populations.

By the way, Mick Barnes, I agree with you — I could care less about the "new WTOAO" and their format changes. We're fighting the same battle against apathy — people are more concerned about the fact that they play "Don't go draggin' my heart around" continuously on WTOAO than they are about issues that directly affect them and their financial situations. Instead of griping about budget cuts and increasing costs and the "National Enquirer" qualities of the Daily Egyptian when all they read is the bar and liquor store ads, they should get off it and make some noise about how they're being affected. Then maybe something would be done to rectify the situation. — Mary Kosco, Graduate Student, Music.

Saluki cheerleaders lack talent

I'm writing in response to the April 7 Daily Egyptian story entitled "Cheerleading is more than just cheering." I agree strongly with the writer Ken Perkins.

The problem came with the SIU-C 1981-82 squad. I've seen high school squads that had far more talent and ability than the SIU-C cheerleaders. High school squads use a greater variety of cheers also.

Maybe if the spirit-raisers attend camps like the high school cheerleaders they could improve.

It's amazing how all the cheerleaders could make the Saluki football games, but were scarce at events such as women's basketball games. I realize cheerleaders are students too, and they have to study, but a force of three just can't excite a crowd of fans.

My advice to next year's squad is to throw out all the old cheers, learn some new ones, stay dedicated, keep on bouncing, and don't stop smiling. — Jim Laetke, Freshman, Physics.

Activist warns U.S. to wake up on dangers of 'nuclear terror'

By Christopher Kade
Staff Writer

Americans are victims of a "psychic numbing" similar to that experienced by the survivors of Hiroshima — a "numbing of the spirit" which allows people to "act as though the bomb does not exist."

That was the message delivered by Jesuit priest and anti-nuclear activist Daniel Berrigan to an audience of more than 400 in Student Center Ballroom B Tuesday evening. The speech was sponsored by the Coalition for Change and the Student Programming Council. "We are acting as though our children were not hostages to nuclear terror," Berrigan said. "We are acting as though a faceless enemy were not real people."

"How is it that that which was barely bearable in 1945 is now bearable?" he asked. "How is it that we can now foresee the very probable destruction of the human race and not raise a moral outcry?"

It is time to "break through our psychic numbing," and Americans must be "willing to take the risks of tax refusal and civil disobedience" to stop the defense buildup and arrest the nuclear arms race, Berrigan said.

As an example of civil disobedience, Berrigan devoted a major portion of his speech to discussing the protest which he led against a General Electric plant — "General Electric of Genocide," as he called it — in Pennsylvania in September 1980.

In what has become known as the trial of the "Plowshares Eight," Berrigan, his brother, Philip, and six others were found guilty on charges of burglary, criminal mischief and criminal conspiracy in February 1981. The charges were brought against the defendants after they entered the General Electric plant, hammered on two nuclear re-entry vehicle cones and poured blood on documents and tools, causing $28,172 worth of damage.

In his speech, Berrigan called the incident "the first act of nuclear disarmament in 38 years."

"But Berrigan said the weapon was referred to with almost religious reverence by those who made it."

"Helpless were we to ask these people if they could have lived in the shadows of the smokestacks of Auschwitz and Buchenwald and not have intervened," he said, "for this creation of theirs was property."

Berrigan reminded his audience, as he said he had reminded the Norristown, Pa. jury, that the original meaning of the word "property" is "that which is proper to human beings."

"I asked the jury, 'Can we point to the Mark XIII missile and call it proper to human beings?'" he said.

The defendants, who acted as their own counsel, were allowed to cross-examine the GE employees and, Berrigan said, "every one of them lied under oath."

"They lied about plant security, which was nonexistent," he said. "They said we were violent in our language and our deeds."

And none of the employees "would admit of anything to do with the Mark XIII," he said. "They couched their replies in the language of irresponsibility. It was hardware, it was software, it was a re-entry vehicle. It was a way of pushing moral responsibility away from themselves."

It was, he said, a perfect example of the "psychic numbing of which we have all become victims."

"We are living in a decade in which to be found legal as an American adult is more and more to be found unjust and even criminal in the eyes of the world," Berrigan said. "On the day when some mad general decides to push the button, it will all be legal."

When asked about the possibility of United States-Soviet nuclear arms limitation talks, Berrigan said that "the political leadership in any country will not take you or me or God into account. It is only the people who will save the people. We are doomed if we don't understand that."

The people of the United States, he said, "have a history of turning things around. Good people break unjust laws — that is our history from the Revolution onward."

Berrigan said that he "rejoices in" the call for a nuclear arms freeze, "but it is a very, very small first step."

"We are in need of a lot of funds," she said. "Car washes and bake sales just won't bring in the money. Our sales staff does a great job. It is the current economic situation and the advertising."

Mardel Culey and Dwayne Williams, co-directors of the station's soul staff, said that if their program is eliminated, it would hamper future employment of black radio and television students. They said the soul staff now has 25 members and the new format would cut them out completely.

Culey said the program will continue until the task force reports and both he and Williams were satisfied with the decision of the board.

"We feel pretty positive about it all," said Williams. "I think the people selected for the task force are open-minded, so to speak, and I think because of that, we've got a good chance."

But they added that they do not intend to "let it sit."

"We're treated like some kind of feature program," said Culey. "I've never heard of a feature that was 39 hours."

The directors were met by more than 100 black students on their way through the Student Center Roman Room on their way to the Thebes Room for the meeting. As the meeting got under way, about 70 of them filed into the Thebes Room and lined themselves up along the walls, all silently holding hands. After all three proposals were presented and voted upon, the crowd quietly filed out of the room with a sense of achievement.

In the matter of the Black Observer, Swinburne said the production cost of the May issue will be "picked up," but did not say how. He said, however, that as long as the BAC continues to fund the newspaper, there should be no problem with its production. He added that next year's staff, in order to get more funds, will have to produce a "quality paper" to show that it deserves to survive.

IRS getting usual April 15 rush

WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions of couples and individuals are waiting until the Thursday night deadline to settle their 1981 federal income taxes. But it will be May 5 before the average American earns enough money to pay this year's U.S. state and local taxes.

The Tax Foundation, a Washington-based research organization, calculates that "Tax Freedom Day" will arrive three days earlier this year than it did in 1981, due mainly to individual tax cuts enacted by Congress last year. That reverses a long-time trend in which the date had gradually moved later each year.

Meanwhile, the Internal Revenue Service is waiting to receive the usual last-minute flood of personal tax returns, which must be filed by midnight Thursday.

Larry Batdorf, an IRS spokesman, said Wednesday that in a typical year, 20 million to 22 million personal returns are received on April 13, 14 and 15. Most of those are from couples and individuals who owe taxes; those due a refund generally file earlier.

Most of the $300 billion in personal income taxes the IRS expects to collect on 1981 income is already in hand, thanks to withholding.

IRS received 94 million personal returns last year and expects about 96 million this year. About seven out of every nine taxpayers gets a refund and this year's average check from IRS is $703, compared with $635 last year.

There is a criminal penalty of up to a year in prison and a $10,000 fine for failure to file.

Students prevail in games of mind

By Bob Scott
Student Writer

The College Bowl season has come to a close on a winning note for SIU-C student teams.

Two matches pitting a student team against faculty members and against an SIU-E student team produced victories for the SIU-C students.

College Bowl consists of two teams of four players each. A moderator asks a "toss-up" question. The first team to answer correctly is awarded 10 points and is then asked a bonus question, usually worth 20 to 30 points.

Two seven-minute halves are played with the highest point total determining a winner.

In the first match, SIU-C all-stars vs. the faculty, the students led 75 to 70 at the half. Students easily out-pointed their opponents in the second half to win 290 to 70.

The student all-stars won easily against the SIU-E team, 350 to 130.

College Bowl, a "varsity sport of the mind," was started five years ago at SIU-C. The two end-of-the-year matches have been played the last four years. Students have split four matches against faculty and swept four from the SIU-E squad.

The SIU-C all-star team that played the faculty consisted of John Egan, captain of the student team and a graduate student in linguistics; John Belcher, graduate student in philosophy; Steve Alvin, graduate student in history; and Joshua Notowitz, senior in math and science.

The faculty team consisted of John Guyon, vice president of Academic Affairs; Bill Eeton, vice presidential assistant; Lawrence Dennis, educational leadership; and John Baker, office of the president.

The SIU-C team that played the SIU-E squad consisted of Belcher, captain; Jim Higginbotham, senior in engineering and solar energy; Steve Woodward, senior in history; and Rolando Banda, junior in French.

Francis Ford Coppola's "Apocalypse Now," with Marlon Brando and Martin Sheen depicting the violence of the Vietnam War, will play Friday and Saturday in the Student Center Auditorium.

Women featured in art exhibit

"Images of Women," an art exhibit sponsored by Women's Studies, will open with a public reception from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday at the Jackson County Artworks Gallery, 715 S. University Ave., upstairs on the island.

About 25 entries to the juried exhibit have been received so far, according to Lynn Otterson, graduate assistant in women's studies, who is coordinating the exhibit with Sarah Vogwill, practicum student in women's studies.

Kathryn Paul, faculty member in the Department of Cinema and Photography, and Joan Perlman, Carbondale artist, will jury the show, selecting as many works as the one-room gallery will accommodate.

Best-of-show winner will receive a $25 one-year membership in the Jackson County Artworks Cooperative.

Entrants, both male and female, were invited to submit up to three works dealing with the theme "Images of Women," Otterson said. Although all types of media were acceptable, almost all entries were drawings, photographs or paintings, she added.

The exhibit will run through May 7.

No trouble expected with SIU-C audit

By Eric Larson
Student Writer

SIU-C's Internal Auditing Department expects to complete a review of some of the University's cash handling procedures by the end of April, said Jack E. Simmons, department director.

The review is a result of a recent scandal at the University of Illinois, where an official was accused of misappropriating $608,000 from the University of Illinois Foundation, Simmons said.

However, the Southern Illinois University Foundation itself is not under any review at this time, according to Clyde Maulding, treasurer of the foundation.

No problems with the university's procedures have yet become apparent, said Simmons. "Our procedures seem to be okay as long as everyone adheres to them," he said.

The present review includes about 40 university operations, Simmons said. The auditing department checks for university compliance with such regulations as the Illinois State Purchasing Act and with policies set by the Board of Trustees and the president of the university, he said.

The Southern Illinois University Foundation is a "completely separate" entity, said Simmons, and is not under the control of SIU-C's Internal Auditing Department.

The SIU Foundation is accountable to the state Auditor General's Office, said Maulding. The foundation has been audited by the Auditor General's Office annually for several years, he said.

Part of the U. of I. scandal involved checks which were supposed to be signed by two people but were not.

The foundation formerly used checks requiring two signatures, but the procedure has been discontinued, said Maulding. "It was an inconvenience getting hold of the second person and there is a problem with delayed checks," he said.

To control money going through the foundation, all expenditures are first approved by the executive director of the foundation, and then checks are written and approved by the treasurer, said Maulding. Records are kept of all checks drawn, he added.

The foundation accepts and distributes contributions "for the benefit of the students and the departments on campus," he said.

Institutions of higher learning, including SIU-C, are required by the governor to have an internal audit function, Simmons said. Although certain qualifications and responsibilities are set forth for the university, most of the auditing program is up to the university's discretion, he said.

Free piano recital planned at OBF

SIU-C student Roser Tyler will give a piano recital at 8 p.m. April 26 in the Old Baptist Foundation Chapel.

Tyler, a music education and piano major, will play works by Bach, Beethoven, Liszt, Chopin and Praelorius.

The recital is free and open to the public.

"We're fairly independent and we have access to nearly any and all records," Simmons said. "We try to simply quote the facts and then make recommendations as to solutions."

The recent problem at the University of Illinois was not a fault of its system, Simmons said. "From my understanding, the system was there, but it broke down. Someone didn't do their part."

"It's possible, but highly improbable, that the same thing could happen here," he said. "Certainly not to the same extent." A missing amount of money as great as that involved at U. of I. would become noticeable quickly, he said.

"It can happen anywhere," said Maulding. "It depends on the person involved. Who knows what makes someone do that kind of thing?"

Writings of German dramatist are preserved by student show

"Brecht on Brecht," a collage of the poetry, songs and plays of Bertolt Brecht, will be presented by the Department of Theater at 8 p.m. April 22, 23 and 24, and at 2 p.m. April 25 in the McLeod Theater in the Communications Building.

Tickets, available from the McLeod Theater box office, are $3 for students and senior citizens and $4 for the public.

"Brecht on Brecht" is described as a cabaret classroom, a "Brechtian Bandstand," which demonstrates the views of the 20th-century German dramatist and poet.

The production brings to life Brecht's writings, which range from a moving account of the death of his mother to the irreverent Hitler Chorus, to a wry argument for alcohol's harmlessness.

His poetry challenges the hearer to think clearly and profoundly about the subject at hand and shocks the audience into a critical examination of his characters.

Meanwhile, he keeps the audience off-balance with twists and turns of humor, song, anger, sarcasm and symbols in the belief that the theater should entertain and teach with a sense of humor.

Compiled by George Tabori and arranged for production by director Judith F. Lyons, the play features a cast of eight performing the poems that deal with Brecht's life, political views, artistic theories and years in exile.

On a cabaret stage, accompanied by three musicians, the ensemble performs scenes from Brecht's plays as well as musical numbers from his opera collaborations with composer Kurt Weill, including

"Three Penny Opera" and "The Rise and Fall of the City of Mahagonny."

New honor society added at SIU-C

By Mike Nadelaki
Student Writer

The Golden Key National Honor Society is working with SIU-C faculty and students to establish a local chapter.

Plans for the honor society's SIU-C chapter have been under way since January, according to the faculty adviser, James R. Moore, assistant professor in marketing, but things have really come together in the last three weeks.

An information package about Golden Key was recently mailed to more than 1,100 SIU-C junior and senior "honor students."

Moore said he had a special interest in seeing students recognized for academic achievements.

Moore, who co-advises the organization with Charles H. Hindersman, acting vice president for university relations, said there was currently "no campus-wide organization which honors undergraduate students only."

Golden Key national representative Rebecca Shehee, on campus to help in the chapter's organization, said that membership in the society is offered to juniors and seniors who have at least a 3.3 grade point average and have compiled at least 24 hours of credit at SIU-C.

According to Shehee, 26 chapters have been established nationwide since the society's inception. The University of Illinois and Illinois State University have chapters and other state schools have chapters under consideration.

Over 18,000 lifetime members belong to Golden Key, according to Shehee, and over 530,000 in scholastic scholarships have been given out in the past 4 to 12 years.

"We provide junior and senior honor students with recognition — a pat on the back for their efforts," Shehee said.

In addition, the society offers two scholarships to each chapter annually and holds a reception each semester in the students' honor. A lifetime subscription to the society's magazine, "Concepts," and a certificate of membership are also part of the benefits to joining, according to Shehee.

This semester's reception will be Tuesday, May 4, at 7 p.m. in Student Center Ballroom B.

"Everyone has been very active," said chapter president Sandra Weed, senior in marketing and management. "We've worked well together and I think the society has a lot of potential."

Fee for a lifetime membership in the Golden Key is $35 and should be mailed before the deadline of April 20.

PREVIEW OF COMING ATTRACTIONS

New staff member tabbed for library

Douglas Bedient will assume duties as director of Learning Resources Service in Morris Library on May 17, replacing Donald L. Winsor, who requested a new assignment last November.

Kenneth Peterson, dean of library affairs, announced the decision Tuesday after meeting with faculty and staff members of Learning Resources Service.

According to Peterson, Bedient was chosen based on his broad understanding of the LRS program, strong support from faculty and staff members within LRS and previous experience in the program. Bedient has held appointments in LRS since 1971.

Winsor had helped develop the LRS program since coming to SIU-C in 1965, Peterson said. Following his request for new assignment, Peterson started an internal search for a replacement.

Hospital officials, legislators to discuss Medicaid proposals

By Kathy Kamienski
Staff Writer

Southern Illinois hospital officials will meet with legislators to protest proposed cutbacks in funding for the state's Medicaid program at 7 p.m. Friday in Room 141 Lawson Hall.

Hospital administrators fear the cutbacks would put Medicaid reimbursement at a 70 percent level. The result would be a difficult financial position for area hospitals and higher medical costs for non-Medicaid patients, said George Maroney, administrator of Memorial Hospital of Carbondale and a member of a steering committee established to fight the cutbacks.

Representatives from the 58th and 59th Legislative Districts have been invited to the session. The hospitals' position, Maroney said, is that a 70 percent reimbursement is "grossly inequitable." If the state doesn't have the funds "to properly pay for services that it is buying for its citizens, it should either increase its funds, which is perhaps somewhat unrealistic, or it should curtail the services that it is providing," he said.

Maroney added, "Southern Illinois hospitals, due to the economic makeup of our population, suffer from high Medicaid patient loads. The short- and long-term effect of a budget that pays less than cost to hospitals for the care rendered to state patients will be devastating.

"It will not only begin to erode the quality of care provided in these hospitals, but without any great wizardry can project hospitals into bankruptcy in the not too distant future, he said."

The steering committee consists of Maroney, Bill Palmer, administrator of West Frankfort Hospital and Jerry Hickman, president of Southern Illinois Hospital Services.

CLIP & SAVE 1982 Spring Semester Final Examination Schedule Information

The examination schedule attempts to avoid examination conflict by providing separate examination periods for Tuesday-Thursday lecture classes. Some questions might develop for which answers can be provided at this time.

1. Classes that meet longer than one hour on Tuesday and Thursday, such as four credit hour classes, should use the examination period established for the carrier of the hours. For example, a class meeting from 11:00 to 12:50 on Tuesday and Thursday would hold its examination at 12:50 p.m., Wednesday, May 12. This applies also to non-lecture type courses such as laboratory or seminar type courses. Classes that meet for one of the 75 minute periods on Tuesday-Thursday are assigned a specific examination period. For example, 12:35 to 1:50 Tuesday-Thursday classes have their examination at 3:10 p.m., Thursday, May 13.

2. Classes should plan to hold their final examination in the regularly scheduled classrooms. The space scheduling section of the Office of Admissions and Records will forward to departments information relative to the location for examinations for those classes that cannot hold their examinations in their regularly scheduled rooms because of a space conflict. This will be done sufficiently in advance of the final examination days to provide sufficient notice for all.

The following points are also pertinent to the final examination schedule:

1. Students who find they have more than three examinations on one day may petition, and students who live two examinations scheduled at one time should petition their academic dean for approval to take an examination during the make-up examination period on the last day. Provision for such a make-up examination period does not mean that students may decide to miss the scheduled examination time and expect to make it up during this make-up period. This period is to be used only for students whose petitions have been approved by their dean.

2. Students who must miss a final examination may not take an examination before the time scheduled for the class examination. Information relative to the proper grade to be given students who miss a final examination and are not involved in a situation covered in the preceding paragraph will be found in the micrographed memorandum forwarded to members of the instructional staff at the time they receive the final grade listing for the recording of grades.

Grace Mary Stern answered questions from the Center Ballroom A on her candidacy for media and SIU Democrats Wednesday in Student Lieutenant governor on the Adlai Stevenson ticket.

Lt. governor candidate blasts Thompson's 'lack of foresight'

By Kathy Kamienski
Staff Writer

Although Democrats running for the two top posts in Illinois haven't put the party's complete platform together, education will be among "the highest priorities," Grace Mary Stern said Wednesday.

Stern, Lake County Clerk since 1970, is running for lieutenant governor on the ticket with Adlai Stevenson. She answered questions from media and about 20 SIU-C Democrats, turning most answers into a critical commentary on Gov. James R. Thompson's "lack of accomplishment" during his five years in office.

Stern criticized Thompson's cuts to elementary school budgets, saying that when he was elected the state provided 50 percent of public schools' operating budgets, but now the amount has dropped to 40 percent.

"It's a very sad time for all of education. At a time when the federal and state governments are cutting back, we need more education. It's not enough to be able to read and write anymore. With computers and technology we've got to offer more," she said.

But when asked how she would approach education funding, especially when dealing with the state's souring economy, Stern said "a complete revision is needed" of the state's real estate taxes.

"As county clerk I deal with people every day who can't pay their taxes. They're, for the most part, retired people who have lived in their homes a long time. But when the taxes aren't paid, they lose their property in a tax sale.

"Real estate taxes are taking the full load of our expenses. But those taxes are unfair and in need of a complete re-evaluation. We've misplaced our priorities," Stern said.

She criticized Thompson for "failing to have the foresight to see these problems occurring and not doing anything about them."

"When he was elected, Michigan was 50th in the nation for unemployment and Illinois was 18th. Now Michigan is still 50th but Illinois has dropped down to 46th. He's done nothing

Talk planned on reader education

Kenny Goodman, an educator who has stirred some controversy with his ideas on reading, will speak on "What Do We Know About Reading and What Are We Doing About It?" at 1 p.m. Thursday in the Student Center Auditorium.

Goodman, professor of language arts at Arizona State University at Tucson, will keynote a Southern Illinois Reading Council conference. The council is an organization of teachers, education administrators and researchers. Some of Goodman's own research has met with opposition from education leaders and commentators such as Max Rafferty, a syndicated columnist and former head of the California public school system.

Much of the research, as well as articles he has written, concerns methods of teaching children to read.

Goodman is president of the International Reading Association.

As the sun rises, so do camper fees

With rising costs of site maintenance and services, overnight camping fees in the Shawnee National Forest have increased for the 1982 season.

Fees now range from $3 to $5 per night except for multiple family sites at Lake Glendale's Oak Point Campground and at Johnson Creek Campground, which will vary from $3 to $12.

Ken Henderson, forest supervisor of Shawnee, said the price increases were comparable to increases at forests across the nation.

Spring ritual of loose animals has Humane Society on the run

By Joan Lovelace
Student Writer

Spring is the busiest time of year for workers at the Southern Illinois Humane Society.

According to Louis Brad, assistant manager, more people are outside with their pets, which results in more animals running loose. "Another problem is that it is the mating season, and I already have puppies and kittens coming out the walls here," he said.

Animals running loose are a big problem in Carbondale, Brad said, "but it is a big problem everywhere." He said the fault lies with the owners. "People don't stop to think about owning a pet as a responsibility. Instead, they keep a cute little puppy until it gets big and becomes a chore. Then they throw it out into the street. That's when we come in," he said.

The Humane Society collects at least 6,000 animals per year, and almost half of them are found between the months of March and June. "That's a lot of animals for us to take care of," Brad said. "We don't have the money or the space to keep them for long periods of time, so most of them are put to death unless the owners claim them. Sometimes we can find people to take them, but it's not usually very likely."

There is a city ordinance that makes it unlawful for animals to run loose in Carbondale. They must also be licensed and tagged.

"It really isn't a big job to have your pet registered in the city," said Brad. "All a person has to do is call the city clerk's office, and they'll tell you how."

He said that it is a small effort to take, and it could help a pet owner avoid big problems. "If we find an animal that is not registered, it will cost about $70 to reclaim it," he said. License fees are $7 a year and a dollar if the animal is neutered.

This spring is not going to be any different from the rest for the Humane Society, Brad said. He said he can see the problems coming already. "People don't even make the small effort to get an identification tag for their pets. It's like they are trying to make sure they don't get their pets back.

"So we're here. I feel the same way everyday when I think of having to kill these animals. A lot of them are injured or sick, though, because they have been on the loose for so long.

"Spring is kind of ironic for us," he said. "You think of how nice it is for your animal to be outside because the weather is warm, and we're telling you to keep them locked up. It's better for them to be locked up and alive, though, than running around sick and eventually having to be put to death."

KOICHI: つまり、ショートで小さな日本人の体格に合わせたんですよ。

BOOG: Well, now that you mentioned it, I guess you guys are kinda smaller. Does that mean you drink Lite Beer 'cause it's less filling?

KOICHI: いやー、おいしいから飲むんですよ。

BOOG: Tastes great? That's why I drink it, too! I guess we have a lot more in common than I thought.

KOICHI: その通り! どうです、日本の野球チームに入りませんか。

BOOG: Me? I'm too big to play on a Japanese team.

KOICHI: そんなことないですよ、ショートに最適ですよ。

BOOG: Shortstop? Very funny.

to delay this."

She questioned how Thompson could call his budget balanced "when he eliminates funds for the Bowen and Adler Centers and then puts $75,000 into the budget for snowmobile trails. I don't see it," she said.

Also, she claimed that Thompson's budget is balanced because the state is paying its bills late.

"I know a man in Lake County who's in a nursing home. He fears that he'll no longer get batteries for his hearing aid. He thought it had something to do with Reagan and Social Security. But when I checked with the hearing aid repairman, he told me he couldn't afford to carry the state anymore. Public Aid hasn't paid bills it owes him from last September.

"Worse, the governor has put off making payments to the schools until much later. They can't run like that," she said.

feet. "I don't like being called amazing," Valerie admitted. "I don't like it when people say, 'Oh, Valerie, you're so amazing.'"

But that she is. As an associate director of handicapped placement at SIU-C, Valerie has been responsible for establishing the first such program in the United States.

An August 1981 graduate of SIU-C with a masters degree in higher education, Valerie took on the enormous responsibility of coordinating and directing the job placement program for all disabled students at SIU.

Valerie, her husband Rick, and their new baby daughter, Tara, were featured on Chicago's WBBM-TV news on March 30.

According to the WBBM-TV market research department, over 533,000 Chicago area residents viewed the segment, "Someone You Should Know."

The segment focused on Valerie's contracting polio at an early age from the Salk vaccine and how she has managed to earn two degrees, drive a car with her feet, become an expert in placement for handicapped individuals, and deliver a child successfully.

The segment also featured her husband Rick, who is blind and a candidate for a masters in rehabilitation administration. Valerie was shown taking care of the baby and doing household chores with her feet. The segment showed the specially modified car she drives with foot controls.

Harry Porterfield, the program's host, is interested in visiting Carbondale to do a documentary on the Parrish family, to be aired on his Sunday evening show "Two on Two."

In the meantime, Valerie keeps climbing mountains.

But Valerie's most recent accomplishment is the birth of her first bundle of joy, Tara Bernice Parrish, Feb. 17 at Prentice Woman's Hospital in Chicago.

"Doctors in France, Germany, England, Scandinavia and New York City charted our progress," Valerie said. "They were particularly interested in the delivery because of my respiratory problems resulting from childhood polio."

"I ended up in intensive care for three days because of respiratory complications, but Tara was fine," she said.

Valerie says she couldn't have made it without her husband Rick.

"Rick stayed with me 24 hours a day," she said. "He and I are a team. If he had to be hospitalized, I would be there, too."

Rick, who has been blind since birth, is the one person Valerie says she can call "amazing."

The two met when Rick came to her office, feeling certain there were no jobs for him. But with Valerie's help, Rick landed two jobs within two weeks of each other through the Career Planning and Placement Center.

Rick worked as a judicator to her office, Disability Determination Service for the State of Illinois and as coordinator of recreation for special populations at the YMCA in Springfield.

Rick is presently executive director of the radio information service and is a graduate student in rehabilitation administration at SIU-C.

Valerie's ascent has earned her numerous awards and recommendations for her volunteer services to the community.

She was recently nominated for the Leon Sturgis Memorial Service Award for outstanding volunteer service to the community.

She received the WTAO Community Service Award

March 8, also in recognition of her community services.

And she was also given an award for forming the Southern Illinois Media Service, Inc. to provide radio information services for print-handicapped individuals in the area.

In October 1980, she was selected as an Outstanding Young Woman of America for recognition of her outstanding ability, accomplishments and services to the community.

Rick and Valerie haven't stopped reaching for the mountain top. Valerie says she wants to continue making life better for the handicapped in areas of employment, accessibility and legislation. And Rick is right by her side to do the same.

April flakes--freak mistakes?

By Norman Valentine
Student Writer

If you're one of those people who think that snow in Southern Illinois in April is strange, you're right.

According to records of the National Weather Service at the Southern Illinois Airport, any snow at all here in April is unusual. The records were checked from 1972 to 1981. Records from 1980 were not available.

Snow that fell here last week amounted to little more than what officials of the weather service consider a "trace," but even that was odd for April, according to the records.

During the past 10 years, the only snow recorded in the area during April was on April 9 and 10 back in 1973. Even that was only a trace.

Southern Illinoisans may count themselves lucky. Much heavier snowfalls have battered the northern and eastern parts of the country.

"Maybe we'll have spring weather when summer gets here," said one local resident. Summer is just around the corner....
...Isn't it?

SIU-C 'variety show' set for Old Main Mall

Springfest, an annual festival featuring musical acts and crafts, is scheduled for April 24 in the Old Main Mall.

It will open at 10 a.m. with the Camp Olympia run for the handicapped, that will start at the Recreation Center and end in the Old Main Mall.

Booths will feature body and face painting, t-shirt air brushing, a mural competition, horserides, clowns and mime acts. Mimes will perform throughout the day.

Food specials will be sponsored by the Student Center

Food Service. Katie and the Smokers, the Dr. Bombay Review and James and the Flames will be providing musical entertainment on the steps of Shryock Auditorium.

The Clothing and Textile Department will sponsor fashion shows at 3:30 and 5:30 p.m.

Carol Moran, Student Programming Council chairperson for special events, said Springfest was better organized and would run smoother than last year's event.

Eastman to make spring debut in net match against Kentucky

By JoAnn Marciszewski
Staff Writer

The women's tennis team will attempt to improve its 9-5 spring record against Kentucky and Louisville this weekend.

"Both matches will be good for us," Coach Judy Auld said. The Saluki coach thinks Kentucky will be the stronger of the two opponents after seeing the Wildcats in a tournament earlier this season. The Salukis defeated Louisville during the fall season.

At both Lexington, Ky., on Friday and Louisville on Saturday, the Salukis hope to get strong performances throughout their line-up, including from Heidi Eastman, who will play her first match of the spring season. The freshman from Galesburg is coming back from knee surgery, and will play at either No. 2 or 3 singles, Auld said.

The current No. 2 singles player, Alessandra Molinari, has missed some practices this week because of illness, but will compete this weekend, according to Auld.

"Having only one day of practice will hurt," Auld said of the freshman from Sweden, "but it would be worse to not have her play at all."

With Eastman returning, the singles line-up will be juggled a bit, but Auld expects good performances to continue at the various positions.

Maura Harney holds the best individual record this spring with a 10-4 mark at the No. 5 position. The freshman walk-on has made the transition from high school to college-level competition well, according to Auld.

"She's a consistent player," the Saluki coach said. "There are a few basic things she's learning yet, but she's getting better and better."

Stacy Sherman, with a 9-5 record at No. 4, is much improved since the fall season, the coach added.

Amanda Allen has posted a 7-7 mark at the No. 3 spot and is starting to come along, Auld said. With Eastman returning, Allen will return to the fourth position, where she probably feels more comfortable, the coach said.

Also carrying a 7-7 mark is No. 1 singles player Lisa Warren. Auld feels the junior from Mattou will bounce back from an 0-3 weekend, adding that despite the losses, Warren did play well and was pleased with her game.

IM Bunny Run draws 33

Thirty-three people participated in the intramural Bunny Run, according to Joel Berrey, assistant coordinator of intramural sports.

Winner in the men's division of the bunny run Tuesday was Tom McManara with a time of 16:21 over the three-and-a-half-mile cross country course. Doug Carlson took second in 16:33, only two seconds off his predicted time, which made him the closest-to-predicted-time winner for the men.

Laurie Wenger was only 54 seconds off her predicted time of 25 minutes to win the predicted-time category in the women's division. First place in the women's race went to Adrienne Wesol in 22:13, while Cindy Cozad took second in 25:48.

First-place finishers received a large wicker fruit basket and cross country medallion. Winners in the predicted-time event received medallions.

Berrey said the participants ran with about seven or eight "bunnies," members of the women's track team who had come to the run wearing cotton tails.

"They just came to practice," Berrey said.

Ha tzog. "When Andy Geary go the baton he settled behind a runner because he knew he could beat him down the stretch.

"Now, if he could have went on and ran," he added, "it would have dropped the time. We can't do these things and expect to qualify."

The 1,600-meter relay team's best time so far is 3:07.76, with Parry Duncan leading off, followed by Geary, Tony Adams and Mike Franks. The NCAA qualifying time is 3:07.50.

The Kansas Relays will be the first time this season the Salukis will compete for points. But Hartzog made it clear that points are not on his mind.

"I'm paying no attention to the score," he said, adding that SIU-C will run three relay events in addition to the 1,600.

Mike Keane, Bill Moran, Tom Ross and Karsten Schulz will team up for the four-mile relay, while Duncan, Marvin Hinton, Adams and Franks will combine for the 400-meter relay. Hinton, Geary, Adams and Franks also will compete in the 800-meter relay, and Javell Heggs, Mark Hill, Tom Ross and Schulz will provide the punch in the distance medley relay.

John Sayre will attempt to defend his Relays' title in the decathlon. Sayre, who scored 7,503 points to win the decathlon last year, will join Andy Geiger in pole vault competition this weekend.

Distance ace Mike Keane and Karsten Schulz will run the 5,000; Sam Nwosu and Brent Barth will compete in the 400-intermediate hurdles, and Kevin Baker and Terry Taylor will represent the Salukis in the long jump.

John Smith, who swept the hammer, discus and shot put events last week at Eastern Illinois, will try to do the same this weekend. The junior from Hobart, Ind., hopes to better his season best of 59-7 in the shot.

Cowboys, wind main threats for golfers at Shocker Classic

By Paul Lorenz
Associate Sports Editor

Oklahoma State, winner of the Shocker Classic golf tournament last year, should be a favorite to win it again this year, according to men's golf Coach Jim Reburn.

Tulsa, Oklahoma and Wichita State should contest OSU for the title at the 54-hole tourney, the Saluki coach said. Thirty-six holes are scheduled for Thursday and 18 for Friday.

Reburn thinks the 19-team field is one of the strongest the Salukis play in this season. If they play well, he said, they can finish in the upper half of the field.

SIU-C will field a lineup of Rob Hammond, Mark Young, Craig Dohren, Glen Carpenter and John Schaefer. The lineup is the same as the one scheduled to play at the canceled Illini Invitational last weekend, minus Randy Harris. A team's four low scores will be counted in each round.

Oklahoma State is the perennial golf powerhouse in the Big Eight, winning the conference every year through the 1960s and '70s except 1968. The Cowboys have won the NCAA championship four times, most recently in 1980.

Tulsa and Wichita State, two of five Missouri Valley Conference schools in the tourney, join New Mexico State in being the top teams in the Valley, Reburn said.

"Tulsa has everybody back this year, and finished second in the conference last year," the Saluki coach said.

Wichita State is always strong at home but is "a little bit down" this year, Reburn said. He added that the Shockers can't be ruled out at the Shocker Classic because of their home-course advantage.

The WSU golf course should be one of the easier courses the Salukis play this spring, according to Reburn.

"The wind could be a problem, though," Reburn said. "It has a tendency to blow very hard in Wichita." He said the course is fairly flat and doesn't have many trees, which adds to the wind problem.

The Saluki coach said SIU-C will get a good chance to compare itself to the two other MVC schools in the tourney, Bradley and Illinois State. The MVC Championship is scheduled for April 29-May 1 at Rend Lake.

Hammond currently leads the three Salukis who have played all six rounds this spring with a 78.3 average. Young carries an 80.3 average and Dohren an 80.2.

Reburn hopes the weather at Wichita Thursday and Friday will be better than it was last weekend at Champaign. Snow on the ground and forecasts of more to come forced cancellation of the Illini tourney.

"That's the first golf tournament I can ever remember being called off," he said.

wild pitch.

Ken Klump started game two for SIU-C and left after the first inning to take a 5 p.m. exam. He was relieved by junior Jeff Irvin, who pitched until the third, when he walked the bases loaded with no one out.

Eater Koch, who struck out the first man, then gave up a single for Kentucky's only run. He pitched out of the jam and gave up just one more hit.

"Koch is a tough kid who's come in two or three times this year in tough situations. He's a real asset to our team," said Jones.

Koch, 2-1, was relieved by Rob Clark in the seventh. Clark walked two men but escaped unscathed.

Jones said prior to Wednesday that both Clark and Klump would be rested for this weekend's Bradley series and would probably not see any action Wednesday.

"They both had to throw sometime in the bullpen anyway," said Jones about his change in plans.

SIU-C and Bradley will meet in two double-headers at Abe Martin Field Saturday and Sunday. Both twinbills start at 1 p.m. The series opens each team's Missouri Valley season.

"We're ready for Valley play," said Jones. "Now we can go in with a couple of wins. Our pitchers are doing a good job, and we're hitting with more discipline."

Men netters to play St. Louis

After Ma Nature and her cold-weather antics canceled matches with Northwestern and Western Michigan last weekend in Evanston, men's tennis Coach Dick LeFevre began to search for practice opponents to keep his players warm.

LeFevre found his match

Wednesday, as the St. Louis Billikens will play the Saluki netters in a practice match at 3 p.m. Thursday at the University courts. The netters, 9-11, will be at home this weekend for matches against Indiana State and Wichita State.

RYDER, THE BEST TRUCK MONEY CAN RENT

Freshmen hurlers tame Wildcats

By Steve Metsch
Sports Editor

Before freshmen hurlers Tom Johnson, Jay Bellissimo and Rick Koch complete their collegiate careers, Saluki baseball fans can expect to see "three very good pitchers," according to Coach Itchy Jones.

Judging by the action Wednesday at Abe Martin Field, Jones may not be too far off with his prediction. Although Johnson, 2-0, didn't pitch, Saluki fans got a good look at his two fellow rookies, as both Bellissimo and Koch posted victories over Kentucky.

The Salukis stretched their win streak to four as they swept the Wildcats, 5-3 and 7-1 SIU-C improved its record to 17-11 while Kentucky fell to 14-17.

Bellissimo held the Wildcats to five hits while cruising to his first SIU-C victory without a loss.

"I'm really happy; it's just unbelievable," said Bellissimo. "I'm happy to get the ball over the plate. That's been on my mind since my first outing." He walked six men in one inning against New Orleans during SIU-C's spring trip. Only one Wildcat earned a free pass Wednesday.

"This is the first chance Jay has had to start in a while," said Jones. "It's good to see him go out, pitch seven innings and win." Bellissimo was helped out by his teammates in the first inning of game one, as they pushed across four runs to hand him a 4-0 lead.

Second baseman Jim Reboulet led off with a single and promptly stole second. He leads the team with 21 swipes. Center fielder Corey Zawadski followed with a walk.

Right fielder P.J. Schranz was next, and he ripped a double to left-center to drive in two runs. After first baseman Kur: Reid was called out on strikes, designated hitter Scott Bridges blasted an opposite-field double to right to score Schranz. Catcher Joe Richardson added a base hit to drive in Bridges.

Bellissimo had trouble keeping his slider down in the fourth. The Wildcats took advantage of his high offerings by scoring three runs.

With men on first and third, center fielder Mike Botkin slammed a double to center to drive in a run. Another run scored when Zawadski threw the ball into the Saluki dugout, enabling Botkin to take third. He was sacrificed home by the next Wildcat for the third run.

"I put the ball behind my head and wasn't releasing it right," said Bellissimo of his only rough inning. He settled down after the fourth and pitched his first complete game as a Saluki.

SIU-C added an insurance run in the fifth, taking a page out of the "Go-Go" White Sox playbook of the 1950s. Shortstop Mike Mesh singled, went to second on a force out, third on a passed ball, and scored when Zawadski grounded out.

The Salukis scored two to open the nightcap and never looked back. After Zawadski scored on a ground out by Schranz, Reid blasted the first of his two homers over the 365-foot mark in right.

"I was real comfortable at the plate and was seeing the ball well," said Reid, the team leader with seven homers. He was five-for-six in the twinbill, with two homers, a single, double and triple.

Kentucky shortstop Mark Mangione sidesteps Joe Richardson to complete a double play.

The Salukis padded their lead to 5-0 in the second when, with left fielder Mike Blumhorst on second, catcher Steve Boyd hit into a forceout. Richardson ran for Boyd at first after the freshman "pulled something in the back of his leg," according to Jones, who didn't know how serious the injury was.

Third baseman Mike Robertson singled up the middle to put men on first and second for Mesh, who rapped a base hit to right to score Richardson and move Robertson to third.

Mesh stole second, and Robertson scored when second baseman Rick Campbell let the catcher's toss get by him into center. Mesh, meanwhile, moved to third and scored on a

Softballers stay close, but lose 2 to ISU

By Keith Mascitti
Staff Writer

The softball team saw its record fall to 11-17 Wednesday after losing a double-header to Illinois State.

The Salukis, after losing the first game, 4-1, took the Redbirds to eight innings before dropping a 2-1 decision in the nightcap.

In game two, the Salukis trailed 1-0 until the sixth inning, when they tied the score with two outs. Karen Koltnow started the rally with a walk, and Diane Broe sent her to second by slapping the ball through the right side of the Redbird infield.

Sue Waggoner lined a single into left field to drive Koltnow home with the tying run. For the game Waggoner went three for four at the plate and Koltnow had a pair of singles.

But in the Redbird eighth, ISU's Sheily Bauman bopped a triple to left field and came home on teammate Vickie Schaefer's single.

Schaefer, a freshman from Manchester, Mo., is ISU's leading hitter, batting .324 this season. As a team the Birds are hitting .216.

ISU's Tonya Gilles got the win while SIU-C's Meredith Stengel was tagged with the loss. The Salukis outhit the Redbirds seven to six.

Stengel, the victim of numerous one-run losses, isn't worrying about it, according to Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer.

"Meredith knows she's been pitching well, and that's the important thing, so she doesn't let losing bother her," Brechtelsbauer said. "It's when you realize you pitched poorly and lost that it bothers you. When you pitch well and lose, you have to be content with it and wait for a win."

Stengel's one-run loss marks the 10th time this season. SIU-C has lost a one-run contest. Six have been by 1-0 scores.

Game one was close until ISU added two insurance runs in the seventh inning. Redbird hurler Belle Craig retired SIU-C in order in the bottom of the inning to hang on for the win. SIU-C's Donna Dapson was tagged with the loss.

"I was pleased with the way we played today," Brechtelsbauer said. "We were hoping we could have taken one, but they had a little better offense and great pitching. I'm happy to see that we're hitting the ball better. We made some hard outs."

Tracksters looking for peak show

By Ken Perkins
Staff Writer

The men's track and field team, running superbly as of late and dominating top-notch competition this season, has yet to reach its peak.

So what is Coach Lew Hartzog all riled about?

"I want them to run with everything, everytime, and they haven't been doing that," said Hartzog. "We are as good as anybody. We can run with them all."

With the Kansas Relays in Lawrence, Kan., on tap for 20 of the Saluki tracksters Friday and Saturday, SIU-C has yet to qualify more than one trackster for the NCAA Outdoor Championships to be held in June. High jumper Stephen Wray is the lone Saluki to qualify thus far.

Last week at the Dogwood Relays in Knoxville, Tenn., Hartzog said that although the 1,600-meter relay team took first place, they had an excellent opportunity to qualify for the Outdoor Championships, but didn't.

"Don't get me wrong — it's fun to win it, but we would have done a lot better without the little mistakes," said

SIU-C's Gena Valli, despite the protective steel brace on her injured right arm, managed to get in a good rip in game one of the double-header Wednesday.
