Carbondale bus service might be cut

By John Krukowski
Staff Writer

Bus service of the Gulf Transport Co. could be eliminated in Southern Illinois if the Illinois Commerce Commission approves the abandonment of routes in the Carbondale area. The Commission gives the permission to abandon three routes.

The city of Carbondale, in the meantime, is looking into what actions can be taken to prevent the abandonment.

The Gulf Transport Co. filed a notice of intent with the ICC last month asking that the ICC give approval to the abandonment, according to the company spokeswoman Beth Bosch.

At the lines the company intends to abandon are routes from East St. Louis to Carbondale, Springfield to Carbondale and East St. Louis to Cairo, Bosch said.

Edward A. Collier, president of the company, said that the decision is "just a matter of economics."

"Routes are just not patronized to where they're profitable anymore," Collier said Thursday.

Collier said that it's not uncommon for other bus services to be cutting back on passenger service in recent years, because the business has experienced a steady decline in ridership since World War II.

The elimination of routes in Southern Illinois will reduce a "long-range reorganization" of his company, Collier said.

To give an example of the problems the Gulf Transport Co. is experiencing in Southern Illinois, Collier said that the company to Carbondale to East St. Louis route had attracted "considerable ridership" during its first few months of operation, but afterwards ridership decreased considerably.

Collier also noted that the possible elimination of AM-TRAK in the fall would have little effect on ridership for the bus company, because he feels "many citizens of a great a ridership" to translate into more passengers for the Gulf Transport Co.

As for how long his company will have to wait before it receives ICC approval, Collier said "we're talking about six, seven, eight months."

Bosch said that the bus company will have to submit a formal petition to the ICC by June 25, and the ICC will then have 90 days to act. If the ICC does not approve the Gulf Transport Co.'s request, the company can appeal to the federal ICC.

Bosch said that the state ICC began to inform cities along the routes of the company's request recently and that the ICC "can offer villages staff expertise to help them get their petition before the ICC if the routes are abandoned."

Bill Dixon, Carbondale city manager, said he can understand talking with the local Gulf Transport Co. ticket office personnel why the company wishes to cut off area routes. Dixon said that the route eliminations are "certainly something we don't want to see."

City may get low-income housing loan money

By Thomas Mangan
Staff Writer

Loan funds for rehabilitating Carbondale rental property may soon be made available to landlords owning property in designated low-income areas of the city.

The city has been approved for an $80,000 Rental Rehabilitation Program grant from the Illinois Department of Commerce and community development, according to a report from Jane Hughe, director of the city division of renewal and housing. An ordinance outlining the program's operation will be discussed by the City Council on Monday.

The city will loan between $500 and $5,000 for each rental unit requiring renovation at 3 percent interest to be repaid in a maximum of five years, a draft of the ordinance says.

Landlords will be required to match the amount of the city loan with an equal amount of private funding, but will not be required to repay the city loan until all private loans have been repaid.

Loan funds will pay for the cost of bringing substandard rental units into compliance with the Carbondale Housing Code, the ordinance says. Repair costs for improving energy conservation and making improved units available to the handicapped will be eligible.

Rental Rehabilitation funds will be loaned based upon the extent to which the proposed property is occupied and will be available for low-income families, the financial feasibility of the rehabilitation project and the commitment to continued ownership of the property displayed by the landlord, the ordinance says.

City staff will solicit and review loan applications and inspect proposed rental units and may submit bids to contractors for the repairs, the ordinance says.

Jones' council term ends after 16 years of service

By Bob Flia
Staff Writer

Carbondale City Council member Archie Jones will answer to the council roll call for the last time Monday. After 16 years, Jones is being replaced by John Yow, who defeated him in the April 2 election.

"I'm going to feel like I lost something worthwhile. I'll miss Monday nights," Jones said forward to going the meetings, although they're not always pleasurable.

Jones received 1,073 votes compared to 1,200 votes for Yow and 1,170 for incumbent Keith Tuxhorn, who won the other council seat up for election. He said he is not bitter about the election and called Yow "a good friend and a fine man."

Jones attributes his defeat to several factors, including not carrying out an idea he had in the past.

"I didn't feel that I needed to walk all over town," he said. Jones said he thought Carbondale voters were familiar with him.

Jones believes lingering problems with the city's railroad relocation project and downtown redevelopment may have contributed to his loss.

"The railroad relocation has dragged on for many years. People just don't understand what the council members are doing," he said.

Jones said he regrets the city's "quick take" land acquisition policy for downtown redevelopment.

"I didn't like the idea, but I went along with it," he said. "I don't blame anybody." He said he looks forward to the day when both projects will be completed.

For 16 years, Jones said he did not feel that he was too old to serve on the council, he said, voters have a tendency to perceive all people in their 70s as senior.

Jones said he had considered retiring from the council, but chose to run because he could contribute to city government. "I've never been a quitter. I wouldn't have been satisfied if I had not run. I'm glad people decided instead of me," he said.

Jones was the only black member of the council. During the campaign, he was criticized by council challenger Norvell "C.J."

Haynes for not providing adequate representation to Carbondale blacks living on the city's northeast side.

Jones said he tried to represent the entire community, but that he hadn't neglected the black community. During his tenure, the Erurma C. Hayes Center was constructed on the northeast side to provide social services to low income residents.

Jones is vice president of Erurma C. Hayes Center Board.

"I have always worked hard for the center. I don't think the council has ever been stingy with money for the Hayes Center," he said.

Street, sewer and water improvements have also been made on the northeast side while Jones was a member of the council, he said.

He said he is proud to have been a council member when the University Mall was built. "I think we (Carbondale) have become a regional trade center," he said.

His worth has always been in helping people," he said. Jones spent 35 years as a teacher and principal in Carbondale and Carbondale. He has served on several city committees and boards. Jones said he will continue as a jury member of the county, "I have a feeling Adams won't go to the meeting with high hopes.

"We're sort of up in the air until we see what Wayne Adams has to say," Holm said. "We'd really like to go to Little Grassy, but I have a feeling Adams won't allow that."

Cyanide death trial starts Monday

By Jeff Curtail Staff Writer

The last two weeks have not been smooth sailing for Peter Hofstede and the Southern Illinois Collegiate Sailing Club. Hofstede, the club's commodore placed SISC's 16-foot boat in his backyard of Oakland Street after the club was asked by a private concessioner to leave Crab Orchard Lake. The move made the club consider the site from a non-profit, club said SISC would be too much competition for his rental sailboats.

Hofstede said a neighbor complained in the city about the boats. The result was a notice to Hofstede that the boats were violating a city ordinance dealing with the storage of recreational equipment in residential areas and that the boats have to be out of the yard by April 22.

That news came after Wayne Adams, project manager of Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge, said the club could not relocate at Little Grassy Lake.

Hofstede said that, Peter Carroll of the Physical Education department, faculty advisor Roland Howland and a representative from the Recreation Center will meet with Adams Tuesday to further discuss the possibility of relocation. But he said he won't go to the meeting with high hopes.

"We're sort of up in the air until we see what Wayne Adams has to say," Holm said. "We'd really like to go to Little Grassy, but I have a feeling Adams won't allow that."

MANDELL (UP) Opening statements are to begin Monday in Cook County Circuit Court in the trial of four corporate executives accused of murder in the first promotion of an employer for an employee's death caused by his work environment.

The four executives were charged in the Feb. 1983 death of Stefan Gol. A 44-year-old Polish immigrant who was poisoned by inhaling cyanide gas at the showroom of "Film Recovery Systems Inc."

"This is the first case in which a corporate executive is being charged with murder where the worker died during the course of the manufacturing process," said lawyer Elliot Samuel, "Such cases have been cases of employer-employee confrontations that have led to manslaughter charges — an employer may have come in and shot someone — and in this case the worker died as a result of his work environment and as a result of the manufacturing process," he said.
THE FACULTY SENATE RECENTLY VOTED to tighten admissions at SIU-C beginning in 1990. But with an eye on the University's tradition of equal access, left quite a few "haves" undisclosed, so that most of the people who want to take courses at SIU-C still can.

The resolution approved by the senate Tuesday asks the University to adopt some sensible course requirements for new students, as suggested by the Illinois Board of Higher Education. For students to enter one program, these requirements would include four years of English, three years of math, science and social studies and two years of electives in foreign language, art, music or vocational studies in high school.

Students seeking to associate degree programs would need to have taken three years of English, two years of math and science and one year of social studies in high school. Also, applicants for either of these programs would have to meet current requirements in regard to class rank and entrance exam scores.

The FACULTY SENATE HARDLY SUGGESTED, however, that the new requirements be absolute. Under the senate's resolution, students who do not meet all the class requirements may be admitted to Undergraduate Academic Services until they have taken the required courses.

Students who score in the top quarter on entrance tests and rank in the upper half of their graduating class, or score in the top half on entrance tests and rank in the upper quarter of their class, will be exempt from the requirements. Even students who meet none of these requirements may still be admitted to SIU-C at the discretion of University officials "if they demonstrate potential for academic success."

Adults, veterans and students who attended high schools which did not offer the required courses will not be subject to the new requirements, although they will be expected to take the courses once they enter SIU-C.

HELPING THESE STRONG REQUIREMENTS, the Faculty Senate has not taken a bold step, by any means. It has, however, made it clear that the students entering SIU-C are perhaps better prepared for the rigors of university coursework than in the past.

In reality, the changes little of the University's admissions policy, because it includes so many exceptions. Nonetheless, to enter, students must complete programs, these classes only serve to positively affect boards of education and the curricula they choose.

The "haves" are not only college-bound students, but the entire higher education system by helping to ensure that new students already possess the skills needed to function at the college level.

I applaud the efforts being made on the SIU-C campus by Mobilization of Volunteer Effort (MOVE) and the Arnold Air Society in cooperation with the American Red Cross.

Throughout their stay in this community, SIU-C students have received help in sharing the precious gift of blood again and again at various blood drives.

Plan now to be a donor on April 13-19 from 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Ballroom B of the Student Center, - Helva Westberg, Mayor of Bondville.

The University has done it again, given a new meaning to the word "coops." It seems awfully suspicious that one year later Roy S. White stopped his $900 a month payment to Kenny Perry that he should decide to step forward to explain his actions, and just when the University is trying to get rid of coach Van Winkle.

Coach didn't resign when the first scandal erupted so the administrators had to find another one quickly. Kenny Perry was the only one who was paid off, right? Sure. Whatever happened to calling in a person privately and discussing the problem, and later if it doesn't work out then firing him?

Why immerse the entire University in NCAA investigations because of one lousy basketball program? Why doesn't the University keep the promises it makes to programs? The whole basketball program should be dropped. The Saluki Shootout, the only money-maker during the basketball season, was lost due to the incredibly relevant research done by SIU-C professor concerning the number of SIU-C students who are alcoholics.

Haneuser-Bush the sponsor, naturally wants nothing to do with sponsoring SIU-C athletic events anymore. When the basketball program is dropped, why not kick out the football program also? Some of the scholarships used for those programs could then be applied to the sports and clubs who really enjoy winning seasons.

The rest of the remaining money could then be applied to the student debt. the one who Morris Library and the Recreation Center, the ones who don't care for the gradual reduction of hours per semester because of the University's "lack of money."

Gray proposes economic topics

By John Kruczkowski
Staff Writer

Congressman Ken Gray assigned various topics for consideration to members of his Economic Development Committee at a meeting Friday at the Marion holiday Inn, according to a Gray press release.

About 50 members of the committee, including several SIU-C administrators, attended the meeting.

"I was very impressed with the quality of leadership there," said Rex Karness, director of Area Services at SIUC and a member of the full committee.

Karness said that Gray, from West Frankfort, handed out suggestions to his committee members and discussed some of the problems that are unique to Southern Illinois.

"I think if these people put their minds to it, something good should happen for Southern Illinois," Karness said.

Gray press aide Jim Kirkpatrick said that Gray assigned 76 matters for consideration to those in attendance, which cover areas ranging from tourism development to local bridge repairs.

Kirkpatrick said the committee members are under no great pressure, as they have "several weeks to a few months" to work with their assigned topics, and "should feel free to develop their own ideas, hold regular meetings and make specific recommendations for job-producing efforts in both the public and private sector."

EDGAR: Local Republicans cautioned

Illinois has a challenge like it never has before," he said. Edgar continued with Hale's theme once he took the podium, saying that "before we Republicans become too complacent or smug we have to look at the figures."

The figures, Edgar said, show that in the last election the GOP in Illinois lost a state Senate seat and federal House and Senate seats, all of which means for Republicans that "it's important for ourselves not to put ourselves on the back too much."

Edgar said the fact that 64 percent of new voters voted for Reagan "is very encouraging for the Republican Party," but added that the party will have to take on some of the popular appeal of Abraham Lincoln in order to retain the interest of those new voters.

In a press conference held before the dinner, Edgar said he has no intentions of challenging the seat of Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Belleville, in 1986.

Edgar said that there are "some reservations" in the state legislature about Rep. Jim Ren's idea of raising moving traffic fines to raise money for emergency equipment for rural communities.

Would-be comics compete for laughs, opening act spot

By Belinda Edmondson
Staff Writer

Everything was fair game at the Life Beer Comedy Connection Friday, when nine SIUC students and one Carbondale resident tried with each other to win a spot as opening act for Russian comedian Yakoff Smirnoff. Smirnoff will perform at the Student Center this week.

Performing before a hot and sweaty crowd that extended to the entrance of the Old Main lobby, the comedians — many of them nervously fidgeting cue cards — told jokes piquantly of the toilets-and-sex variety, liberally sprinkling a few pet, family names will be tarnished for it.

Beirut by Belinda Edmondson

Making sure another dog's hind end — comedians sweated crowd that extended to the entrance of the Old Main lobby, the comedians — many of them nervously fidgeting cue cards — told jokes piquantly of the toilets-and-sex variety, liberally sprinkling a few pet, family names will be tarnished for it.
The three judges — Harlington Wood Jr. of the U.S. Court of Appeals in Chicago, James L. Foreman of the U.S. District Court in Benton and Michael R. Weber of the Jasper County Circuit Court — sat with sober and at times doubtful expressions on their faces through each of the students' 15-minute presentations. At times they stopped the students to challenge the line of reasoning being used or to command the students to be more specific in their references to previous decisions.

In the case of the Nicaraguan farmer, Linda Austin and Ed Dwyer argued that the man was denied the due process rights guaranteed to all suspects brought before a court in the United States.

Patrick Duffy and Delaney Hilen, representing the U.S. government, said that there was nothing unusual about the Nicaraguan's trial and that the lower court had followed a "clear example" in ruling as it had. "It's clear by precedent that the matter by which the defendant is brought before the court does not defeat the jurisdiction of the court," Duffy said. Hilen added that the defendant's lawyers had been given ample opportunity to discredit the hypnotically induced testimony of the witness at the trial in the lower court.

When the students were finished, the judges retired to their chambers to consider the cases presented by each side. Returning shortly, they announced that they would uphold the conviction of the Nicaraguan farmer.

Law students compete in moot court

By Lisa Eisenhauer
Staff Writer

The convicted man was a poor Nicaraguan farmer. He had been kidnapped, tortured and subjected to mock executions under the authority of a CIA agent. He was then brought to the United States and forced to stand trial for the slaying of a U.S. Congresswoman.

In his trial, the guilty verdict and life imprisonment sentence were based on the testimony of a witness who identified a picture of the farmer while under hypnosis. The witness had seen the murder while imprisoned in a cell next to the one where the Congressman had been incarcerated and killed. However, when the murder took place it was nearly dark and the witness had only seen the slayer in profile.

Was the imaginary man in the imaginary case given a fair trial? Yes. At least in the opinion of the three judges who presided over a mock trial at the StL-U Law School Friday.

The trial was one of three that took place Friday afternoon. Twelve first-year law students who had reached the finals in the annual Moot Court Competition got their first chance to test their skills at legal argumentation before actual judges.

The facts of each case were drawn up by members of the law school faculty.

USO election board warns Phoenix Party

By Cynthia Weiss
Staff Writer

Three campaign violation complaints against the Phoenix Party have been filed with the Undergraduate Student Organization election commission, according to Lamont Brantley, election commissioner.

The three complaints alleged that Phoenix Party members used the USO copier on two separate occasions to print campaign materials, which is against election commission guidelines, Brantley said. After reviewing the violation complaints Thursday, the election commission, made up of seven voting members and Brantley, issued two warnings to the Phoenix Party.

"She did not know not to use the copier," Appleman said. "She's not a senator and hasn't attended all our meetings." Appleman said that the girl was "very upset" when she realized that she had done something potentially damaging to the Phoenix Party. He also said that she "paid the USO 16 cents for the two copies she had made." Appleman could not be reached for comment on the other two copier complaints, which were filed at a later date. The complaints were filed by two different people who said they viewed the same incident.

Another complaint, filed against no party or person in particular, asked that the election commission investigate the alleged disappearance of over 50 Independents Party campaign posters which party members said they had placed around campus in late March. Because the complaint did not allege guilt and because of lack of sufficient evidence, the election commission threw the complaint out, Brantley said.

Although the filed complaint did not accuse anyone, Independent Party presidential candidate Dan DeFose said he believes that members of the Phoenix Party were responsible.

"I can't imagine it being anyone else," DeFose said. "Every other party's posters are coming down. The Phoenix Party's are untouched." DeFose denied any involvement in the missing posters on the part of his party, however.

Appleman said he questioned whether the posters ever existed.

Medical ethics expert advocates legislation for organ donations

By Jeff Cari
Staff Writer

New laws requiring people to either agree or refuse to donate their body organs after death would be morally acceptable and are needed to increase the nation's pool of organs used for transplantation, an expert on medical ethics said.

James Childress, professor of religious studies and medical education at the University of Virginia at Charlottesville, spoke on "The Gift of Life: Ethical Problems in Organ Transplantation" at the 11th annual Wayne Leys Memorial philosophy lecture Thursday in Lawson Hall.

The topic of organ transplantation was widely discussed in the 1960's during the first kidney and heart transplants, Childress said, but the topic seemed to die down around 1975.

But moral questions which have surfaced concerning body donation, the baby who received a baboon's heart, and mechanical heart replacements, organ transplantation is once again the subject of discussion.

That's good to hear, Childress said, because it might require people of the need to donate their organs. Thousands of people die each year while waiting for kidney and heart transplants, he said, and some of those deaths might not have happened if there were more efficient ways to get and disseminate transplants.

There is a number of ways to increase the number of organs available to people without crossing ethical or legal boundaries, Childress said. The simplest way would be to start public education campaigns asking people to donate organs. "His could be like the media messages against drunk driving," Childress said.

Two other ideas are more ethically questionable, but Childress said he gives his support for them. They are forcing people by law to agree or refuse to donate organs upon their death and allowing the election commission to investigate the alleged disappearance of over 50 Independents Party campaign posters which party members said they had placed around campus in late March. Because the complaint did not allege guilt and because of lack of sufficient evidence, the election commission threw the complaint out, Brantley said.

Although the filed complaint did not accuse anyone, Independent Party presidential candidate Dan DeFose said he believes that members of the Phoenix Party were responsible.

"I can't imagine it being anyone else," DeFose said. "Every other party's posters are coming down. The Phoenix Party's are untouched." DeFose denied any involvement in the missing posters on the part of his party, however.

Appleman said he questioned whether the posters ever existed.

Blood drive goal to break peace-time record

By Sarah Bohrs Staff Writer

The Mobilization of Volunteer Effort and the Army Air Society will once again combine efforts with the American Red Cross in an attempt to break their own records in a blood drive this week.

"We're getting so much more involvement and support in this blood drive than in previous ones," said Tom Van Zeyl, director of the student-run blood drive and sophomore in Radio and Television.

People can give blood Monday through Friday in Student Center Ballroom D from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. each day. The goal is to collect 2,020 pints of blood, breaking last fall's record of 2,007, the second largest total collected by an American university and the largest ever in peace time, Van Zeyl said.

The blood will be analyzed by the Red Cross and then be used by 140 hospitals in an 80-county region that includes Southern Illinois.

Blood donors must be at least 17 years old and weigh 105 pounds. Red Cross nurses will also question people on their eligibility to give blood. Donors should also eat something, get plenty of rest and not drink any alcohol before giving blood, Van Zeyl said.

One pint of blood can be used for four people, according to information from the Red Cross.

In past campus blood drives, the donors were mostly students or faculty members, Van Zeyl said. But in this one, all Carbondale residents are encouraged to give blood, he said.

Anyone giving blood will be given a ticket to the Saluki football scrimmage game, Van Zeyl said, and there will be drawings for two main floor tickets to the Foreigner concert and other prizes.

Committee will draft statement to establish goals of University

By Lisa Eisenhauer Staff Writer

A framework of ideals to guide all the divisions of SIU-C in setting specific goals is being drafted by a committee made up of six faculty members and one administrator.

The committee undertook the task of spelling out the goals of SIU-C last fall at the request of the Faculty Senate and the Graduate Council.

Lawrence Den, Faculty Senate president, said the group felt that SIU-C needed a mission statement after some differences of opinion about the goals of the University arose during discussions on establishing a merit pay system for faculty.

John Guyon, vice president for academic affairs and committee member, said the University has never had a document outlining the goals of SIU-C that was approved by all its different divisions. A document was approved by the Board of Trustees in 1974, Guyon said, but it was never reviewed by other groups such as the faculty and administration.

Guyon said the major difference between the tentative document the committee has drafted and the one approved by the board more than 10 years ago is that the older one is more specific. The new document is "a more generic statement," Guyon said.

When the document is revised by the committee and a final version is drafted, Guyon said the next step will be to submit it to the Faculty Senate and the Graduate Council for approval. He said that ideally he would like to see the statement adopted by SIU-C as a general "directive."

Divisions of the University, such as academic units, would then draft more specific statements about their own goals. "A group of six or seven people can't write a mission statement for the entire University," he said.

Since the committee was formed, members have been soliciting comments about what the statement should cover and reviewing the mission statements of other Universities to develop ideas. They also held an open hearing at the Student Center Tuesday for comments on the tentative document, which has already been revised eight times.

Men's tennis team snaps three-match losing streak

By Mike Frey
Sports Editor

The SIU-C men's tennis team ended a three-match losing streak Saturday by defeating St. Louis and Southwest Missouri State in a pair of matches at the Arena tennis courts.

The Salukis were scheduled to end the quadrangular meet with a match against Louisville Sunday, but the meet was cancelled because of rain. SIU-C is now 10-12 on the season.

The Salukis had little difficulty with St. Louis, as they defeated the Billikens 9-0. Per Wadmark, Gabriel Coch, Chris Visconti, Rolli Olguino, Scott Krueger and Lars Nilsson all won singles matches for SIU-C.

In doubles competition, Wadmark and Olguino won at the No. 1 spot, Coch and Nilsson won at the No. 2 position and Visconti and Krueger gained a victory at No. 3 doubles.

Saluki coach Dick LeFevre expected a tough match against Southwest Missouri State, but SIU-C was able to defeat the Bears 8-1.

"We had some difficulty with some of their players in a tournament just last fall," LeFevre said. "But we were able to beat the same guys this time."

The Salukis again swept the singles competition, with Wadmark, Coch, Visconti, Olguino, Krueger and Nilsson all gaining victories.

Gabriel Coch returned a shot against St. Louis during a match at the Arena tennis courts Saturday. SIU-C won 9-0.

Wadmark and Olguino lost to Rodney Kowis and John Issacs at No. 1 doubles, but the Salukis were able to win the other two doubles matches.

Wadmark, the Salukis' No. 1 singles player, improved his season record to a team-best 12-9 in singles competition with the win.

LeFevre said he was happy to get back into the win column, although he would have liked to have played Louisville as well. "We felt pretty confident about beating Louisville," he said. "We hate losing the match, because it might make the difference in a winning season. We were projecting a 15-14 record, but now we'll have to win a couple of tough matches."

The Salukis return to action on Tuesday when they host Southeast Missouri State at 2 p.m.

Softball Salukis lose three GCAC contests

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

Returning from a 1-2 road trip, SIU-C softball coach Ray Brechtlehsaue said, "We'll just have to forget this weekend and get ready for the next game."

The Salukis opened the weekend by winning the opening game of a double-header against Wichita State 4-0. Kelly Powell held the Shockers scoreless on two hits to improve her record to 8-4. Nancy McAuley took the loss. The Salukis committed six errors in the field while only scoring one run on four hits.

The losses drop the Salukis to 4-3 in conference play and 11-11 overall.

"No loss is a good loss, but sometimes you learn from the mistakes you make in a losing game. We'll be ready for Eastern on Wednesday," said Brechtlehsaue.

Men's track team earns better times at Dogwood

By Mike Frey
Sports Editor

The SIU-C men's track and field team competed in the Dogwood Relays at Knoxville, Tenn., this weekend and Coach Bill Cornell said he was pleased with the team's overall performance.

Nearly 100 teams competed in the unseeded meet, which included relay events and individual field events.

Tom Smith was SIU-C's top performer, as he established a school record in the hammer throw with a loss of 203 feet, three inches. The effort enabled Smith to qualify for the NCAA Outdoor Championships at Austin, Texas. Smith is the first Saluki to qualify for the outdoor season this year.

We knew he was ready to qualify at anytime," Coach Cornell said. "It's his best event."

Cornell was also happy with the improvements, made by several of his relay teams, The 3,200-meter relay team cut its season time by 10 seconds in finishing eighth in the event with a 7:27.42.

Four freshmen - Mike Elliott, David Lamont, Brett Garrett and Richard McDonnell - competed in the event. Cornell was especially impressed by Garrett, a native of Sparta, who had a split time of 1:49.6.

"It was quite a breakthrough for him," Cornell said. "He had a pretty phenomenal performance."

The Salukis also had improved performances from their 800- and 1,600-meter, as well as distance medley relay events.

The distance medley team captured first place in the consolation heat, finishing in 3:24.60. Lamont, Eric Gray, Elliott and McDonnell ran for SIU-C in the event.

The 800-meter relay team of Victor Dubois, Steve Breathett, Mark Hill and Michael Franks finished third in a time of 1:23.82.

The 1,600-meter relay team turned in its best performance of the season. The quartet of Breathett, Elliott, Hill and Franks finished in 3:07.73, good for fourth place. Franks turned in an excellent time of 44.8 in the final leg of the race.

Jim Sullivan also had a good performance in the pole vault. He finished second with an effort of 15 feet, 10 inches.

Elvis Forde, a former Saluki standout who is now an assistant coach for the team, took first place in the invitational 400-meter dash with a 46.21. He defeated Sunder Nix, the former Indiana star who was a member of the 1984 U.S. Olympic Team.

The Salukis will return to action next weekend when they compete in the Arkansas Invitational at Fayetteville, Ark. The host Razorbacks are the defending NCAA indoor champions.
Price keys track women to third place at Murray

By Steve Kudlos
Staff Writer

Behind a solid all-around performance by senior Connie Price, the SIU-C women's track team finished third Saturday at the nine-team Murray State Invitational.

Price was named the meet's most outstanding field performer after winning the shot put in 48 feet, 11.5 inches, and adding second-place finishes in the discus (138-7.75) and the triple jump (school record 6-2.5). She came within a half inch of qualifying for the NCAA outdoor championships in the shot put and set personal bests in all three events.

"She's (Price) a class act," Saluki coach Don DeNoo said. "I'm not really surprised with what she does because she was an outstanding athlete when she arrived at SIU-C on a basketball scholarship and she is still an outstanding athlete."

Janelle Torrence of Southeast Missouri State was selected as the meet's outstanding track athlete.

Other Saluki first-place performances were turned in by Denise Blackman in the 400-meter dash (school record 54.35 seconds); Karen Cooper in the 440-meter hurdles (1:01.4); and Cynthia Joy in the javelin (140-2).

In the 10,000-meter run, Lisa Hicks finished second in 32:23.2, Bonnie Helmick finished third in 33:14.4 and Chris Hangren placed fourth in 33:27.3.

"It was exceptionally hot when the 10,000 was run, and I thought all our 10,000-meter runners ran well," DeNoo said.

The Salukis placed three athletes in the top six in the triple jump. In addition to Price's second-place finish, Sydney Edwards finished third in 37-3.5 and Carmen Robbins was sixth in 36-4.

Laurie Dvorak finished third in the javelin in 123-1.75. In the 5,000-meter run, Sally Zack finished fourth in 18:17.76 and Amy Marker was fifth in 18:30.79.

The 4 x 100-meter relay team of Jennifer Bartley, Cooper, Cathy Davis, and Blackman finished third in 47.35. The 4 x 400-meter relay team of Darcie Stimson, Kathy Raske, Cooper, and Blackman finished fourth in 3:59.24.

Among 43 performances, the Salukis set 19 personal bests overall.

"We had a few credible performances but some people need to work on their intensity," DeNoo said. "But at this stage of the season when you talk about 44 percent of your athletes setting personal bests, the team is coming through."

Illinois State won the meet with 148 points and Western Illinois finished second with 131 points.

The Salukis scored 100 points and finished ahead of Southeast Missouri (83), Murray State (66), Austin Peay (6), and Arkansas State (2). Western Kentucky and Bellarmine College of Louisville, Ky., failed to score.

"I still expect more from our athletes," DeNoo said.

"We didn't score as well as I thought we would in the long jump and we have more strength than we showed in the triple jump. We were beat by Illinois State in both of those events and we turn that around."

The Redbirds' Angie Taylor finished first in the long jump in 18-7.3 and Cookie Lathe won the triple jump in 37-10.75. SIU-C returns to action this weekend at the Eastern Illinois Invitational.

pick up the win in the first game.

Gary Bockhorn pitched eight innings before Koch relieved him in the ninth inning of the opening contest with the score tied at 2-2. Doug Boehm pitched all nine innings for ISU. His record dropped to 3-3 after SIU-C Coach Richard "Itchy" Jones ran onto the field to join Saluki first base coach Jim Limperis in arguing Van Hoogstraat's call. Jones then asked home plate umpire Paul Birchfield for his opinion, and Birchfield overruled the call, sending Brewer back to first.

Chuck Verscore was used as a pinch runner for Brewer, and two outs later scored the winning run on Finley's two-run blast to right field. Finley's fourth homer of the season drove in his 33rd and 34th top of the inning. runs of the year, one less than Carlucci's (hitting for Jones' team-high 35). Carlucci's throw from short appeared to pull Todd Reeser's foot off first base, but umpire Mike Van Hoogstraat called him out.

PITTSBURGH (UPI) -- Jack Clark smashed a three-run ninth-inning homer that enabled the St. Louis Cardinals to hold off the late-rallying Pittsburgh Pirates Sunday and win their first game of the season, 10-4.

The triumph went to Joaquin Andujar, who "altered seven hits and one run over seven innings, went 2-0-4 and capped the Cardinals' three-run eighth inning off reliever Kent Tekulve with a two-run single. Andujar cut his hand on line drive he drove up the middle for two RBI and was replaced by Neil Allen, who was tagged for the Pirates' three ninth-inning runs. "It was sure glad Jack hit that home run," Cardinals' manager Whitey Herzog said of Clark's second homer of the season, also hit off Tekulve. "It's nice to win a game," Herzog added. "It's amazing to start a season like this with so many losses. After a while it gets to be a monkey on your back. I don't think I've ever been with a team that's lost that many games before winning."

Defense dominates grid Salukis' scrimmage

By Mike Frey
Sports Editor

The Saluki football team had its second scrimmage of the spring season Saturday at McAndrew Stadium and the defense received high praise from Coach Ray Dorr.

The defense controlled the offense for most of the contest. Dorr said this often occurs because the defense is usually ahead of the offense at this point in the season, but he also said the defense played with the kind of controlled fury he has been looking for.

"I think the defense has made improvements all week and it showed today," Dorr said. "They accomplished the things we were striving for - alignment, assignment and accountability."

Dorr said he was pleased with a number of individual performers on defense, including noseguard Brad Cranford who made a fumble recovery, Mark Lueckhardt who recovered a fumble, tight end Jeff Wetzel who recovered the ball and ran for a touchdown, and Bill Shumaker who was also in on a recovery.

The defense started strong with defensive tackle Jermaine McCauley, linebacker Dan Wetzel, defensive end Branden Henry and noseguard Jeff Dux, who made improvements all week and it showed today. Dorr said, "Kevin Brown kept some drives alive today, and that's what we need from our quarterback." Dorr said. "But I also saw Pat King do some fine things."

Injuries have also hurt the Salukis at tight end. SIUC's three top tight ends - Landen, Wrenn and Reed - all will probably miss practice next week, leaving fourth-string tight end Robert Johnson to play the position.

The ultra-competitive young Salukis are starting to take their toll," Dorr said. "We'll be down to one tight end andODEF plans on using three-wide receiver concept, we have enough receivers to play." Dorr added.

The defense was particularly happy with the way Dux played because he has missed a lot of time due to injuries and Alonzo Bailey. Both players will miss the remainder of spring practice.

"Rod Dux made an excellent scrimmage," Dorr said. "He's doing the things it takes to be a good football player."

The highlight of Dux's performance came when he blocked a field goal attempt by Ron Miller. Linebacker Dan Wetzel recovered the ball and ran for a touchdown.

Miller retaliated, however, by kicking a 35-yard field goal later in the game.

Haywood and Bailey are not the only Salukis who have been bitten by the injury bug. Defensive tackles Jeff Huskie and Desmoni Woods will also miss the rest of spring practice, as will quarterback Joe Graves, who injured his shoulder during the scrimmage.

Other players who didn't play in the scrimmage were defensive tackle Darren Wietecha and tight ends Rod Landen, Tony Wrenn and Curt Reed.

Graves' injury leaves two quarterbacks - Pat King and Kevin Brown - battling for the starting position. King, the No. 1 signal caller, played well, but Dorr was particularly impressed with the play of Brown.

"Kevin Brown has an excellent arm," Dorr said, "he's doing a lot of things that he didn't do last year."

The Salukis were not satisfied with Brown's progress, however, and are still looking for more in the quarterback position.

"Brown led the offense on several sustained drives, and connected with wide receiver Joe Graves, who injured his shoulder during the scrimmage," Dorr said.

Dorr said he was happy with two aspects of the scrimmage - the play of the running backs and penalties. As will quarterback Joe Graves, who injured his shoulder during the scrimmage, "You can't have penalties in the game."

"We're so far ahead of last year," he said. "The attitude has been excellent. These guys really want to succeed."
