Carbondale bus service might be cut

Staff Writer

Bus service of the Gulf Transport Co. could be eliminated in Southern Illinois within a year if the Illinois State Commerce Commission gives the company permission to abandon three local routes.

The city of Carbondale, in the meantime, is looking into what actions can be taken to prevent the abandonments

The Gulf Transport Company filed a notice of intent with the ICC late last month asking that the ICC give approval to the abandonment, according to ICC spokeswoman Beth Bosch.

The lines the company intends to abandon are routes from East St. Louis to Car-bondale, Springfield to Car-bondale and East St. Louis to Cairo, Bosch said.

Edward A. Collier, president of the Mobile, Ala-based company, said that the decision is "just a matter of economics."
"The routes are just not

The routes are just not patronized to where they're profitable anymore," Collier said Thursday said Thursday.

Collier said that it's not uncommon for other bus services to be cutting back on passenger service in recent years, because the business years, because the business has experienced a steady decline in ridership since World War II.

The elimination of routes in Southern Illinois are "just part of a long-range reorganization" of his company, Collier said.

To give an example of the problems the Gulf Transport

Co. is experiencing in Southern Illinois, Collier said that the Carbondale to East St. Louis had attracted riderable ridership' during its first few months of operation, but afterwards ridership decreased considerably.

Collier also noted that the possible elimination of AM-TRAK in the fall would have little effect on ridership for the "AMTRAK doesn't have that great of a ridership" to translate into more passengers for the Gulf Transport Co.

As for how long his company will have to wait before it receives ICC approval, Collier said "we're talking about six, seven, eight months."

Bosch said that the bus company will have to submit a formal petition to the ICC by June 25, and the ICC will then have 90 days to act. If the ICC does not approve the Gulf Transport Co.'s request, the company can appeal to the federal ICC.

Bosch said that the state ICC began to inform cities along the routes of the company's request recently and that the ICC "can offer villages staff expertise to help them get another bus line," if the routes

Bill Dixon, Carbondale city manager, said he can un-derstand from talking with the local Gulf Transport Co. ticket office personnel why the company wishes to cut off area service, although the route eliminations are "certainly something we don't want to

city may get low-i ncome housing loan money

By Thomas Mangan

Loan funds for rehabilitating Carbondale rental property may soon be made available to landlords owning property in designated low-income areas designated tow-moome areas of the city. The city has been approved for an $80.000 Rental Rehabilitation Program grant from the Illinois Department of Commerce and community Affairs, according to a report from Jane Hughes, director of the city division of renewal and housing. An ordinance outlining the program's operation will be discussed by the City Council on Monday.

The city will loan between $600 and $5,000 for each rental unit requiring renovation at 3 percent interest to be repaid in maximum of five years, a draft of the ordinance says.

Landlords will be required to match the amount of the city loan with an equal amount of private funding, but will not be required to repay the city loan until all private loans have been repaid.

Loan funds will pay for the cost of bringing substandard rental units into compliance with the Carbondale Housing Code, the ordinance says. Repair costs for improving energy conservation and making improved units making improved units available to the handicapped will also be eligible, Rental Rehabilitation funds will be loaned based upon the extent to which the proposed property is occupied by and will be affordable for lowerincome families, the financial feasibility of the rehabilitation project and the commitment to continued ownership of the property displayed by the landlord, the ordinance says.

City staff will solicit and review loan applications, inspect proposed rental units and prepare, solicit and award bids to contractors for the repairs, the ordinance says with him.

Jones believes lingering problems with the city's railroad relocation project and downtown redevelopment may have contributed to his defeat.

"The railroad relocation has dragged on for many years. People just decided they (council members) were dragging their feet," he said.

Jones said he regrets the city's "quick take" land acquisition policy for downtown redevelopment.
"I didn't like the idea, but I went along with it," he said. "I don't blame anybody." He said he looks forward to the day both projects will be completed.

At 84 years old, Jones said he did not feel that he was too old serve on the council, he said voters have a tendency to perceive all people in their 80s as senile.

Tighter admissions a symbolic gesture

THE FACULTY SENATE RECENTLY VOTED to tighten admission standards at SIU-C beginning in 1990. But with an eye on the University's tradition of equal access, left quite a few "backdoors" unlocked, so that most of the people who want to take courses at SIU-C still can.

The resolution approved by the senate Tuesday asks the University to adopt some sensible course requirements for new University to adopt some sensible course requirements for new students, as suggested by the Illinois Board of Higher Education. For students to enter baccalaureate programs, these requirements would include four years of English, three years of math, science and social studies and two years of electives in foreign language, art, music or vocational studies in high school. Students seeking to enter associate degree programs would need to have taken three years of English, two years of math and science and one year of social studies in high school. Also, applicants for either of these programs would have to meet current requirements in regard to class rank and entrance exam scores. THE FACULTY SENATE HARDLY SUGGESTED, however, that the new requirements be absolute. Under the senate's resolution, students who do not meet all the class requirements may be admitted to Undergraduate Academic Services until they have take, the required courses.

he admitted to Undergraduate Academic Services until they have take, the required courses.

Students who score in the top quarter on entrance tests and rank in the upper half of their graduating class, or score in the top half on entrance tests and rark in the upper quarter of their class, will be exempt from the requirements. Even students who meet none of these requirements may still be admitted to SIU-C at the discretion of University officials "if they demonstrate retential for peedemic pure st."

potential for academic success." Adults, veterans and students who attended high schools which did not offer the required courses will not be subject to the new requirements, although they will be expected to take the courses requirements, although they will be expected to take the courses once they enter.

BY SUPPORTING THESE STIFFER REQUIREMENTS, the Faculty Senate has not taken a bold step, by any means. It has, however, made an attempt, albeit symbolic, to see that students entering SIU-C are perhaps better prepared for the rigors of university coursework than in the past.

In reality, the resolution changes little of the University's admissions policy, because it includes so many exceptions. Nonetheless, stricter entry requirements on the college level can only serve to positively affect boards of education and the curricula they choose.

This would benefit not only college-bound students, but the entire higher education system by helping to ensure that new students already possess the skills needed to function at the college level.

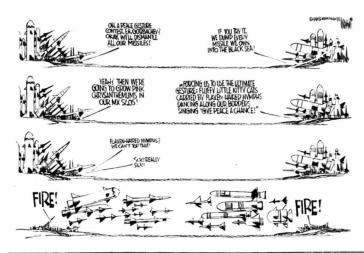

I applaud the efforts being made on the SIU-C campus by Mobilization of Volunteer Effort (MOVE) and the Arnold Air Society in cooperation with the American Red Cross.

Help to further tradition by donating blood

Once again two student groups, Mobilization of Volunteer Effort (MOVE) and the Arnold Air Society, at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale are volunteering their time and effort by sponsoring a major regional blood drive, in conjunction with the American Red Cross. Past olood drives on the campus have been extremely successful. The University Community of SIU-C is a national leader in donating blood. Last year their efforts resulted in 2,007 pints of blood. They conducted the second largest blood drive in the nation. Their goal is to surpass that record this year.

Hopefully, everyone will respond to their call on April 15 through April 19 frem 10:30 to 4:30 daily at the Student Center. — Ralph Dunn, State Senator 58th District.

Second runner-up Jay Clark started off the proceedings by complimenting one of the female judges on her "Summer's Eve" fragrance. Another crowd favorite was winner Brian Nocnan, who recited the familiar maternal concern that if one wears dirty concern that if one wears dirty underwear on the street and is involved in an accident, the family name will be tarnished when the doctor sees it. Noonan, yet another radio and television senior, won more favorable audience reaction with his recitation of his experiences with the townspeople of Benton as a deejay at the radio station WORL. A performance that elicited roars from the audience was that of first runner-up Michael that of first runner-up Michael Wagner, who told a number of "cat torture" and "Isn't It Weird" jokes. Wagner's observation that "Isn't it weird how people look at the toilet paper after they wipe?" was a favorite of the crowd.

Law students compete in moot court

By Lisa Eisenhaue Staff Writer

The convicted man was The convicted man was a poor Nicaraguan farmer. He had been kidnapped, tortured and subjected to mock executions under the authority of a CIA agent. He was then brought to the United States and forced to stand trial for the slaying of ongressman.

At his trial, the guilty verdict At his trial, the guilty verdict and life imprisonment sentence were based on the testimony of a witness who identified a picture of the farmer while under hypnosis. The witness had seen the murder while imprisoned in a cell next to the one where the Congressman had been incarcerated and killed. However, when the murder took place it was nearly dark and the witness had only secathes layer in profile.

the slayer in profile. Was the imaginary man in the imaginary case given a fair trial? Yes. At least in the opinion of the three judges who presided over a mock trial at the SIU-C Law School Friday.

The trial was one of three that took place Friday afternoon. Twelve first-year law students who had reached the students who had reached the finals in the annual Moot Court Competition got their first chance to test their skills at legal argumentation before actual judges.

The facts of each case were drawn up by members of the law school faculty.

The three judges — Harlington Wood Jr. of the U.S. Court of Appeals in Chicago, James L. Foreman of the U.S. Distict Court in Benton and Michael R. Weber of the Jasper County Circuit Court—sat with sober and at times doubtful expressions on-their faces through each of the students' 15-minute presen-tations. At times they stopped the students to challenge the line of reasoning being used or to command the students to be more specific in their references to previous decisions.

In the case of the Nicaraguan farmer, Linda Austin and Ed Dwyer argued that the man was denied the due process rights guaranteed to all suspects brought before a court in the United States.

Patrick Duffy and Delney Hilen, representing the U.S. government, said that there was nothing unusual about the Nicaraguan's trial and that the lower court had followed a "clear example" in ruling as it

"It's clear by precedent that e matter by which the defendant is brought before the court does not defeat the jurisdiction of the court," Duffy said. Hilen added that the defendant's lawyers had been given ample opportunity to discredit the hypnotically induced testimony of the witness at the trial in the lower

When the students finished, the judges retired to their chambers to consider the cases presented by each side.
Returning shortly, they announced that they would uphold the conviction of the

USO election board warns Phoenix Party

By Cynthia Weiss Staff Writer

Three campaign violation complaints against the Phoenix Party have been filed with the Undergraduate Student Organization election commission, according to Lamont Brantley, election commissioner.

The three complaints alleged that Phoenix Party members used the USO copier complaints on two separate occasions to print campaign materials, which is against election which is against election commission guidelines Brantley said election commission, made up of seven voting members and Brantley, issued two warnings to the Phoenix Party. Brantley said a third war-ning could result in the removal of Phoenix Party members' names from the ballot

Tony Appleman, Phoenix Party presidential candidate for USO, responded to one of the copier complaints which was filed April 4.

Appleman said that one of his campaign workers did use the copier for campaign purposes, but stopped when she was informed that what she was doing was against election rules

She did not know not to use the copier," Appleman said.
"She's not a senator and hasn't attended all our meetings."

Appleman said that the girl was "very upset" when she realized that she had done something potentially damaging to the Phoenix Party. He also said that she Appleman could not be reached for comment on the reached for comment on the other two copier complaints, which were filed at a later date. The complaints were filed by two different people who said they viewed the same incident.

complaint, filed Another against no party or person in particular, asked that the election commission inelection commission investigate the alleged disappearance of over 50 Independent Party campaign posters which party members said they had placed around campus in late March.

Because the complaint did not allege guilt and because of lack of sufficient evidence, the election commission threw the complaint out, Brantley said.

Although the filed complaint did not accuse anyone, Independent Party presidential candidate Dan DeFosse said he believes that members of the Phoenix Party were responsible.

"I can't imagine it being anyone else," DeFesse said.
"Every other party's posters are coming down. The Phoenix Party's are untouched."

"It's dirty politics,"

DeFosse said.

Appleman denied any involvement in the missing posters on the part of his party, however.

said Appleman questioned whether the posters ever existed.

Medical ethics expert advocates legislation for organ donations

New laws requiring people to either agree or refuse to donate their body organs after death would be morally ac-ceptable and are needed to increase the nation's flow of organs used for tran-splantation, an expert on medical ethics said.

James Childress, professor of religious studies and medical education at the University of Virginia at Charlottesville, spoke on "The Memorial philosophy lecture Thursday in Lawson Hall." The topic of organ tran-splantation was widely discussed in the 1960's during the first kidney and heart transplants, Childress said, but the topic seemed to die down around 1975.

But moral questions which have surfaced concerning Baby Fae, the baby who received a baboon's heart, and mechanical heart recipients, organ transplantation is once again the subject of discussion.

That's good to hear, Childress said, because it might remind people of the need to donate their organs. Thousands of people die each year while waiting for kidney and heart transplants, he said, and some of those deaths might not have happened if there were more effective, efficient ways to get and dessiminate transplants. There are a number of ways dessiminate transplants.

There are a number of ways to increase the number of organs available to people without crossing ethical or legal boundaries, Childress said. The simplest way would be to start public education campaigns asking people to donate organs. This could be like the media messages against drunk criving, Childress said.

Two other ideas are more ethically questionab'e, but Childress said he gives his support for them. They are forcing people by law to agree or refuse to donate organs upon their death and allowing hospitals to implement a policy stating that if a person dies in that hospital their organs will be used for transplantation. These laws would keep people from "forgetting" to sign their donor caras, be Childress said he "would not rule out exclusively" the idea of using some mentally retarded children as live kidney donors. The decision would have to be up to the child's family, he said.

Blood drive goal to break peace-time record

By Sarah Rohrs Staff Writer

The Mobilization of Volunteer Effort and the Arnold Air Society will once again combine efforts with the American Red Cross in an attempt to break their own records in a blood drive this week.

last fall's record of 2,007, the second largest total collected by an American university and the largest ever in peace time, Van Zeyl said.

The blood will be analyzed by the Red Cross and then be used by 140 hospitals in an 80county region that includes Southern Illinois.

Blood donors must be at least 17 years old and weigh 105 pounds. Red Cross nurses will also question people on their eligibility to give blood. Donors should also eat something, get plenty of rest and not drink any alcohol before giving blood, Van Zeyl said.

One pint of blood can be used for four people, according to information from the Red

In past campus blood drives, the donors were mostly students or faculty members, Van Zeyl said. But in this one, all Carbondale residents are encouraged to give blood, he said

Anyone giving blood will be given a ticket to the Saluki football scrimmage game, Van Zeyl said, and there will be drawings for two main floor tickets to the Foreigner concert and other prizes.

Committee will draft statement to establish goals of University

By Lisa Eisenhauer Staff Writer

A framework of ideals to guide all the divisions of SIU-C in setting specific goals is being drafted by a committee made up of six faculty members and one administrator.

The committee undertook the task of spelling out the goals of SIU-C last fall at the request of the Faculty Senate and the Graduate Council.

Lawrence Den is, Faculty Senate president, said the group felt that SIU-C needed a mission statement after some differences of opinion about the goals of the University arose during discussions on establishing a merit pay system for faculty.

John Guyon, vice president or academic affairs and committee member, said the University has never had a document outlining the goals of SIU-C that was approved by all its different divisions. A document was approved by the Board of Trustees in 1974, Guyon said, but it was never reviewed by other groups such as the faculty and administration.

He said the major difference between the tentative document the committee has drafted and the one approved by the board more than 10 years ago is that the older one is more specific. The new document is "a more generic statement." Guyon said.

When the document is revised by the committee and a final version is drafted, Guyon said the next step will be to submit it to the Faculty Senate and the Graduate Council for approval. He said that ideally he would like to see the statement adopted by SIU-Cas a general "directive."

the statement adopted by SIU-Cas a general "directive."
Divisions of the University, such as academic units, would then draft more specific statements about their own goals. "A group of six or seven people can't write a mission statement for the entire University," he said.

Since the committee was formed, members have been soliciting comments about what the statement should cover and reviewing the mission statements of other Universities to develop ideas. They also held an open hearing at the Student Center Tuesday for comments on the tentative document, which has already been redrafted eight times.

Men's tennis team snaps three-match losing streak

By Mike Frey Sports Edito

The SIU-C men's tennis team ended a three-match losing streak Saturday by defeating St. Louis and Southwest Missouri State in a pair of matches at the Arena tennis courts.
The Salukis were scheduled to end the quadrangular meet with a match against Louisville Sunday, but the match was cancelled because of rain. SIU-C is now 10-12 on

The Salukis had little difficulty with St. Louis, as they defeated the Billikens 9-0. Per Wadmark, Gabriel Coch, Chris Visconti, Rollie Oliquino, Scott Krueger and Lars Nillson all won singles matches for SIU-C.

In doubles competition, Wadmark and Oliquino won at wadmark and originio won at the No. 1 spot, Coch and Nillson won at the No. 2 position and Visconti and Krueger gained a victory at No. 3 doubles.

Saluki coach Dick LeFevre expected a tough match against Southwest Missouri State, but SIU-C was able to defeat the Bears 8-1.

'We had some difficulty with some of their players in a tournament last fall," LeFevre said. "But we were able to beat the same guys this

The Salukis again swept the singles competition, with Wadmark, Coch, Visconti, Oliquino, Krueger and Nillson all gaining victories.

Gabriel Coch returned a shot against St. Louis during a match at the Arena tennis courts Saturday. SIU-C won 9-0.

Wadmark and Oliquino lost to Rodney Kowis and John Issacs at No. 1 doubles, but the Salukis were able to win the other two doubles matches. Wadmark, the Salukis' No. 1

Softball Salukis lose three GCAC contests

By Steve Merritt Staff Writer

Returning from a 1-2 road trip, SIU-C softball coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said, "We'll just have to forget this weekend and get ready for the weekend." next game

The Salukis opened the weekend by winning the opening game of a double-header against Wichita State 4-Kelly Powell held the Shockers scoreless on two hits to improve her record to 7-5 on the year while Jenny Shupryt and Nancy McAuley collected two runs batted in apiece

In the nightcap, the Salukis fell two runs short as the Shockers won 4-2. Lisa Peterson got the loss to drop her record to 7-6. The Salukis scored when second baseman Becky Rickenbaugh singled and scored on Rhonda Snow's triple. McAuley sacrificed Snow home.

On Saturday, the game at Southwest Missouri State was delayed for three hours. The Salukis eventually lost 6-1.

Powell took the loss. The Salukis committed six errors in the field while only scoring one run on four hits.

Third baseman Kim Bruno was injured in the second inning but is expected to return to action in Wednesday's game against Eastern Illinois.

The losses drop the Salukis to 4-3 in conference play and 14-11 overall.

"No loss is a good loss, but sometimes you learn from the mistakes you make in a losing game. We'll be ready for Eastern on Wednesday," said Brechteisbauer

After hosting EIU on Wednesday, the Salukis will travel to Cape Girardeau to take on Southeast Missouri State on Thursday in a non-conference game. Earlier in the year, the Salukis swept a doubleheader from SEMO by identical scores of 6-1.

Price keys track women to third place at Murray

Behind a solid all-around performance by senior Connie Price, the SIU-C women's track team finished third Saturday at the nine-team Murray State Invitational.

Price was named the meet's most outstanding field per-former after winning the shot put in 49 feet, 11.5 inches, and adding second-place finishes in the discus (138-7.75) and the triple jump (school record 37-8.25). She came within a half inch of qualifying for the inch of qualifying for the NCAA outdoor championships in the shot put and set personal bests in all three events.

"She's (Price) a class act," Saluki coach Don DeNoon said. "I'm not really surprised with what she does because she was an outstanding athlete when she arrived at SIU-C on a basketball scholarship and she is still an outstanding athlete."

Janella Torrence of Southeast Missouri State was selected as the meet's out-standing track athlete. Other Saluki first-place

Other Saluki first-place performances were turned in performances were turned in by Denise Blackman in the 400-meter dash (school record 54.35 seconds); Karen Cooper in the 400-meter hurdles (1:01.4); and Cynthia Joy in the javelin (140-2).

In the 10,000-meter run, Lisa Hicks finished second in 38:23.2, Bonnie Helmick finished third in 38:54.4 and Chris Hangren placed fourth in 30:97.7

Gary Bockhorn pitched eight innings before Koch relieved him in the ninth inning of the opening contest with the score tied at 2-2. Doug Boehm pitched all nine innings for ISU. His record dropped to 3-3 after Finley's homer ended the game.

Finley's homer followed a controversial decision by the umpires on catcher Clay Brewer's grounder to short-stop to open the inning. Carlucci's throw from short appeared to pull Todd Reeser's foot off first base, but umpire Mike Van Hoogstraat called him out.

SIU-C Coach Richard "Itchy" Jones ran onto the field to join Saluki first base coach Jim Limperis in arguing Van Hoogstraat's call. Jones then asked home plate umpire Paul Birchfield for his opinion, and Birchfield overruled the call. sending Brewer back to first.

Chuck Verscoore was used as a pinch runner for Brewer, and two outs later scored the winning run on Finley's two-run blast to right field. Finley's fourth homer of the year drove in his 33rd and 34th runs of the year, one less than Jones' team-high 35.

Illinois State is now 19-9 overall and 1-5 in the MVC.

"It's nice to win a game," Herzog added. "It's amazing to start a season like this with so many losses. After a while it gets to be a monkey on your back. I don't think I've ever been with a team that's lost that many games before winning."

Defense dominates grid Salukis' scrimmage

The Saluki football team had its second scrimmage of the spring season Saturday at McAndrew Stadium and the defense received high praise from Coach Ray Dorr

The defense controlled the offense for most of the contest. Dorr said this often occurs because the defense is usually ahead of the offense at this point in the season, but he also said the defense played with the kind of controlled fury he the kind of controlled tury he has been looking for.

"I think the defense has made improvements all week and it showed today," Dorr said. "They accomplished the three 'A'S' we've been striving for — alignment, striving for — alignment, assignment and accountability."

Dorr said he was pleased with a number of individual performers on defense, including noseguard Brad Crouse, inside linebackers Crouse, inside linebackers Mike Carbonaro and Rick Spielman, outside linebackers Greg Givens and Anthony Woods, and cornerback Ron

He was particularly happy He was particularly nappy with Crouse's play because he has assumed the No. 1 noseguard spot because of injuries to Sterling Haywood and Alonzo Bailey. Both players will miss the remainder of spring practice.

"Brad Crouse had an excellent scrimmage," Dorr said. "He's doing the things it takes to be a good football takes to be a good football player."

The highlight of Crouse's performance came when he blocked a field goal attempt by Ron Miller. Linebacker Dan Wetzel recovered the ball and ran for a touchdown.

Haywood and Bailey are not the only Salukis who have been bitten by the injury bug. Defensive tackles Jeff Hurst Detensive tackes Jet Hurst and Desmoni Woods will also miss the rest of spring prac-tice, as will quarterback Joe Graves, who injured a shoulder during the scrim-

Other players who didn't play in the scrimmage were defensive tackle Darren Wietecha and tight ends Rod Landon, Tony Wrenn and Curt Graves' injury leaves two quarterbacks — Pat King and Kevin Brown — battling for the starting position. King, the No. 1 signal caller, played well, but Dorr was particularly impressed with the play of Brown.

Brown led the offense on several sustained drives, and connected with wide receiver

James Stevenson on a 22-yard touchdown pass.

"Kevin Brown kept some drives alive today, and that's what we need from our quarterback," Dorr said. "But I also saw Pat King do some fine things."

Injuries have also hurt the Salukis at tight end. SIU-C's three top tight ends — Landon, Wrenn and Reed — all will probably miss practice next week, leaving fourth-string tight end Robert Johnson to play the position.

"The injuries are starting to take their toll," Dorr said.
"We'll be down to one tight end, and we'll have to use a three-wide receiver concept, something we hadn't planed."

Dorr said he was unhappy with two aspects of the scrimmage - the play of the scrimmage — the play of the running backs and penalties.

"Our backs put the ball on the ground too much," he said. "And the penalties jumped back up. We ran more plays this week, but we had 13 defensive penalties and seven offensive."

However, Dorr is happy with the overall progress of his team

"We're so far ahead of last year," he said. "The attitude of the football team is great. These guys really want to succeed."

The Total Eyecare Team

Weisser eyecare begins with a Weisser optometrist and a 16-step examination of both eye and vision, and a general health profile. A Weisser ophthalmologist joins your vision care team if that examination indicates his special skills in treating the diseases of the eye, or in performing eye surgery, are needed. When the time comes to choose frames and fill the optometrist's or ophthalmologists lens prescription, a Weisser optician supervises your choice and checks to make sure your glasses or contact leases fit. And, finally, every lens prescribed is produced to the exacting standards of the Weisser Eye Labs.
