Library asbestos test questioned

By Carolyn Schmidt
Staff Writer

Preliminary findings of asbestos air monitoring tests taken at Morris Library March 23 were "much higher than expected," and probably are inaccurate, says John Meister, Pollution Control director. Meister said Tuesday he will recommend that additional testing be done by John A. Jurgiel and Associates, the company compiling a campus-wide asbestos survey.

Meister said he has not received a formal report on the tests, but that Jurgiel told him a high level of fibers accumulated on the filters, which had been placed in seven locations in the library.

"The lab is of the opinion that they're not asbestos, just cellulose fibers," Meister said.

A "TEM test" will identify specifically what the fiber content is. The air monitors tested only for fibers accumulated on the filters, he said. Meister said the TEM tests will cost about $1,000. The decision has not been made to have the TEM tests done, but Meister said he would "strongly recommend it."

The test levels were about twice the level that normally showed up on tests taken in 1984 and 1986, Meister said. Reports from Jurgiel indicated levels of .002 to .018 fibers per cubic centimeter in 1984 and .001 to .009 fibers per cubic centimeters in 1986.

The Environmental Protection Agency recommends an action level for asbestos at .1 fibers per cubic centimeter and the Occupational Health and Safety Administration level is .2 fibers per cubic centimeter.

It's April 15: Do you know where your tax form is?

By David Sheets
Staff Writer

Your income taxes are due today, and if your tax return isn't in the mail by midnight, you could wind up paying more than just tax.

Non-filers and late filers are subject to a penalty on the tax they owe of 5 percent each full month and part of each month their tax return is late, said Kris Zini, an Internal Revenue Service spokeswoman in Springfield.

"For example, if you wait and file your return on May 20, the late-filing penalty will be an additional 10 percent based on what you already owe, she explained.

"This penalty is based on the tax that's not paid by April 15," she said. The IRS determines what most people owe based on W-2 wage earning reports from employers and 1099 business investment interest and dividend reports.

"We get copies of W-2 and 1099 records, so we know if you're required to file," she said.

But some people aren't, particularly those single individuals under 65 years of age who earn a gross annual income of $3,560, the taxing category that describes most college students, Zini said.

There's a catch, however. If students make less than $3,560 but stipulate specific withholdings on their W-2

Reagan among taxpayers filing near deadline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Millions of Americans, including President Reagan, waited until near the end to finish their 1986 income tax returns.

Reagan and his wife, Nancy, vacationing in California, were among the late finishers.

White House aides said the couple signed their joint return at their ranch Monday.

Johnell Hunter, a spokeswoman for the Internal Revenue Service, estimated about 25 million Americans — close to one-quarter of taxpayers — filed income tax returns for 1986 in the last week.

Those due a refund, she said, will have to wait six to eight weeks.

forms they must file a return to get their withholdings back, she said.

Besides the 5 percent per month non-filing penalty, there's a 0.5 percent per month failure-to-pay penalty, also effective after 12:01 a.m. April 15.

"If you owe and don't file you can get both penalties," Zini said.

Even if you do owe the IRS but don't have the money to pay right away, file anyway, she added. That way, you'll be subject to the lesser of two penalties.

Gorbachev: No reason for U.S. trip

MOSCOW (UPI) — Secretary of State George Shultz met with Mikhail Gorbachev Tuesday and gave him an invitation from President Reagan to visit the United States, but the Soviet leader said he would not come "without reason." Shultz and Gorbachev, joined by advisers, met at the Kremlin for four and a half hours, two and a half hours longer than scheduled, on the by Shultz to Moscow centering on arms control.

Shultz, scheduled to leave the Soviet capital today, met Tuesday night with Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze.

There was no immediate assessment from either side in Moscow about the outcome of the meeting between Gorbachev and Shultz, who arrived Monday in an effort to prepare the way for a treaty missiles.

In California, White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said that vacationing Reagan received a three-page cable from Shultz that characterized his talks Monday with Soviet officials as "frank and detailed" and covering "a wide range of issues."

Fitzwater, hinting at areas of disagreement, said "Both sides firmly explained their positions" and told reporters to a good beginning."

At the start of his meeting with Shultz, Gorbachev, asked by reporters whether he would be coming to Washington, replied through an interpreter, "This is precisely what we are going to discuss."

Gorbachev, meeting Shultz for the first time in the American's three-day visit, said he was "hopeful" about the possibility of a third Superpower Summit with

Bolivian protesters bomb U.S. Embassy; 14 injured

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) — A stick of dynamite exploded Tuesday outside the U.S. Embassy, injuring two security officers and at least 12 other people as 10,000 workers marched past in a protest against government austerity plans. In Washington, the State Department said the dynamite was thrown from the crowd of demonstrators and struck the embassy building in La Paz shortly before noon.

Investigators begin probe of cargo jet crash

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Federal investigators inspected charred wreckage Tuesday of a Boeing 707 cargo carrier that crashed and burned in a pasture two miles short of Kansas City International Airport, killing four people. The plane, operated by Buffalo Airways of Waco, Texas, for Burlington Air Express of Irvine, Calif., crashed and caught fire about 10 p.m. Monday.

FAA to investigate reports of 4 near collisions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Federal Aviation Administration official said Tuesday authorities probably could take action against only one of the pilots of the four small planes that were involved in separate near collisions with airlines' planes during a scary 10-hour period Friday. FAA spokesman Fred Farrar said the small planes all were reported to have passed within 500 feet of airliners near Chicago, Newark, N.J., Saginaw, Mich., and Burbank, Calif.

Judge rejects recall of 1.1 million X-Cars

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge rejected the governments' request for a mandatory recall of 1.1 million 1980 X-Cars Tuesday and the maker, General Motors Corp., said the ruling "vindicates a whole generation" of vehicles. Federal officials said they are considering an appeal of the ruling from U.S. District Judge Thomas Jackson. The Justice Department filed suit Aug. 3, 1983, claiming the X-Cars were a "grave danger" because of premature rear wheel lockup — a brake defect — that caused the cars to spin, skid and fishtail.

FCC sparks Contel to end COMSAT merger

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Contel Corp., citing government actions that could mar the financial future of the Communications Satellite Corp., said Tuesday it wants to terminate a planned $2.47 billion merger with COMSAT. An FCC order issued last week sparked Contel to seek an end to the merger. COMSAT said in a statement. The FCC's Common Carrier Bureau, after a review of COMSAT's rate structures, on April 6 tentatively ordered the company to refund $62 million to its customers.

Missing con man still alive, defense says

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — A missing con man who prosecutors say was killed by the leader of the exclusive Billionaire Boys Club arranged his own disappearance because he was facing trial for grand theft and feared going to jail, a defense attorney said Tuesday. Arthur Barens, representing murder defendant Joe Hunt, the leader of the defunct clique, told jurors during closing arguments that self-described flimflam man Ron Levin.

Proposed bill would allow unpaid leave for both sexes

CHICAGO (UPI) — Men and women would be allowed to take up to 18 weeks unpaid leave from work to take care of newborns or other dependents under a bill sponsored by Sen. Dawn Clark Netsch, D-Chicago. The bill also would allow up to 26 weeks of unpaid leave if a worker becomes seriously ill. "Dramatic changes in the composition of the work force have placed a tremendous strain on families," Netsch said Monday.

Parents of slain girl say confessor fed details

NAPERVILLE (UPI) — The parents of Jeanine Nicario, 10, who was killed in 1983, say a man who confessed to the crime may have been fed details of the incident. Thomas Nicario listed discrepancies in the original story told by Brian Dugan to State Police. In hindsight, he and his wife, Patricia, told reporters Monday that it might have been better if they had not cooperated so closely with State Police. Two men are on Death Row for the girl's slaying, while a third man was freed last month after awaiting trial for three years.

Carbondale earns 6th Tree City USA national award

By David Sheets
Staff Writer

Carbondale will add another leaf to its blossoming branch of distinctions today with a sixth consecutive Tree City, U.S.A. award.

The award, to be given for the 11th year, recognizes cities nationwide that have "created a new awareness and appreciation of trees among their residents," said 58th District State Sen. Ralph Dunn, R-Du Quoin, in a news release from the state capitol.

Forty-six Illinois cities will receive similar awards in Springfield during a formal ceremony at the Lincoln Home Visitors' Center, said Mark Gordon, communications director for the State Senate Republican Staff. Illinois Conservation Director Mark Frech will hand out the kudos.

Despite the vague title, the honor has nothing to do with the number or variety of trees in Carbondale, nor is it "simply for having pretty trees," Dunn said. Winning communities must meet four requirements.

"They must have a designated urban forester or tree committee, a street tree ordinance, an active urban forestry program supported by a minimum of $1 per capita," or per individual in the community, "and an Arbor Day Proclamation with a tree planting ceremony," said Gary Thomas, Illinois Department of Conservation spokesman.

Gary Kline, Carbondale's city forester and local Tree City administrator, said the third requirement is usually the hardest one for communities to maintain.

"We've had a forestry program for the city since 1978 and its annual budget is around $50,000," Kline said. "That puts us way above the $1 per capita requirement." Carbondale has roughly 27,000 citizens.

He added that the city usually has a tree-planting ceremony in Woodlawn Cemetery each Arbor Day because the cemetery is a designated national historic site. Arbor Day this year is April 24.

"We usually plant a more unique tree there than what we put out elsewhere in the community," he said. "It's turned into a kind of arboretum. We have about 40 different kinds of trees there."

Unlike most awards, the Tree City honor isn't the product of a competition, said Mike Reichenback, Tree City administrator with the state's conservation department. Once a community applies for and wins the award it must reapply each year and still meet the four requirements.

But even with six awards "a lot of people in town don't know we even have a forestry program," Kline said. "They

Rocket builder seeks access to FBI files

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Lawyers for Morton Thiokol Inc. argue the company, fighting off a $4 billion lawsuit over the shuttle Challenger disaster, is entitled to know more about an FBI probe of the company's activities.

U.S. District Judge Harold Greene was expected to rule quickly on Morton Thiokol's motion Monday to release to its lawyers sealed documents discussing the criminal investigation.

The motion was opposed by the government and Morton Thiokol engineer Roger Boisjoly, who has filed a lawsuit seeking more than $4 billion in damages from his former employer.

The civil suit filed by Boisjoly on behalf of himself and the federal government alleges that the deaths of the seven Challenger astronauts on Jan. 28, 1986, were "criminal homicides."

Morton Thiokol manufactured the solid-rocket boosters that caused the explosion of the Challenger. In a financial settlement reached with NASA, no formal blame was assessed for the accident, but Morton Thiokol agreed to a $10 million return of profits.

The FBI investigation was disclosed when documents relating to Boisjoly's lawsuit were accidentally unsealed by the court last week.

The documents were resealed, but not until after the criminal investigation had been reported by the news media.

Justice Department lawyer David Long told the court the investigation could be severely hampered if Morton Thiokol is allowed to learn details about it.

Arena concert poll is a paper fantasy

RESULTS OF the Arena's Student Concert Survey are in, if anyone cares. Judging from the acts that have decorated the Arena stage for the last few years, the Arena should save its time and paper and forget about student surveys. The results are not going to matter that much anyway.

These Student Concert Surveys give the impression that the Arena cares about what the SIU-C student body wants to see in concert. Since the Arena is an academic facility supported by state funds and located in the middle of a huge potential college audience, it should consider student tastes when choosing its concerts.

Yet only about 18 percent of the audience members at the Alice Cooper, REO Speedwagon and other recent Arena concerts were SIU students. In a classic case of in-ranks contradiction, Arena Director Gary Drake saw the percentage of SIU students as unfortunate, while Marketing Research Director Jon Fox saw it as a consistently great turnout.

It seems fairly obvious that the Arena is not addressing student needs. In an interview last semester, Drake deemed the survey results hard to judge. He said groups are booked mainly on the basis of local record sales, radio play and on whether or not the band is willing to swing down to Carbondale. David Lee Roth was booked last semester despite the fact that he ranked a low, low 31 on last semester's survey results.

IT IS DIFFICULT to book acts that will fill a huge, 11,000 seat auditorium, and the Arena cannot depend on sales to students alone. But the Arena has a seating system that allows for smaller capacity crowds. With what is called Focus 4, Focus 9 and Focus 11 seating, the Arena can adjust from crowds of 4,000, 9,000 and 11,000. Certainly, some bands other than heavy-metal or mainstream, white pop acts can attract 4,000 people.

On the subject of white pop, the number of black acts seen at the Arena in recent years can be compared to the number of strawberries that grow in the ocean — none. Fox claims there is no market for black acts here, which is a strange idea considering the large black population both at SIU-C and in the community. His assumption not only makes poor business sense but is an insult to the black community.

Fox says the 18 percent figure shows that the same students are going to all the Arena concerts. If this is true, the figure may also indicate that Arena shows appeal only to a certain section of the student body. The Arena is ignoring potential audiences by featuring only a certain brand of music.

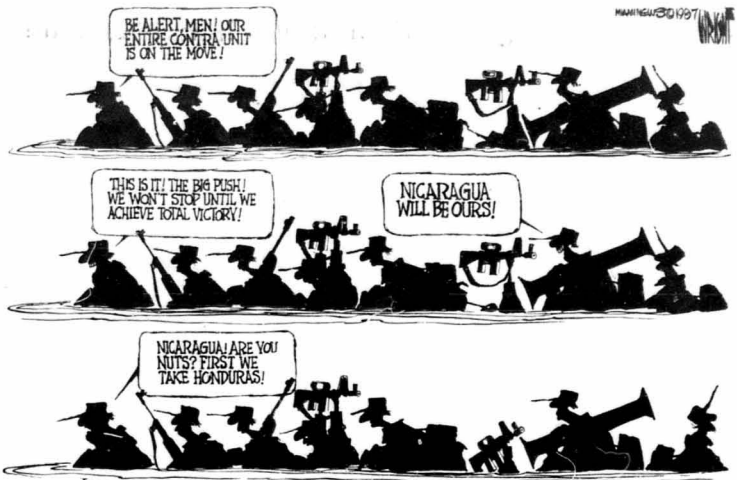

Shyrock and the SPC consorts always formed an alternative to Arena shows, and while Fox claims that these organizations generally lost money on concerts, SPC and Shyrock representatives say otherwise. Now that the SPC has lost so much money from its budget, SIU-C students may lose this concert alternative.

Maybe this is a sign from benevolent deities that 82 percent of SIU-C students should stay home and do their homework instead of going to rock concerts. But while these students toil behind their desks, they should not imagine that filling out a Student Concert Survey will bring them any relief.

Quotable Quotes

"They're going to go very well. I'll be coming out a runaway front-runner." — The Rev. Pat Robertson, Republican contender in the March primary elections.

"As these regulations would apply even to prayer services for detainees, it would seem that they (the government) are now attempting even to tell God what to do. I foresee there will be a good deal of reaction against them and disobedience to them, so much so it is highly unlikely to be enforceable." — Roman Catholic Archbishop Denis Hurley on South African emergency regulations barring acts or words deemed to be subversive.

A plea to fight a school budget cut

We are appalled that the Carbondale Elementary District 95 Board is voting Thursday night to consider $300,000 of cuts such as: cutting the Academic Talented (AT) program again this year after the cuts made last year; and eliminating teachers in art, vocal music, foreign language, physical education and counseling and also increasing class sizes. An editorial by David Bedford indicated District 95 has a break-even budget this year. Thus it may be foolish to rush into severe program cuts unless time reveals they are absolutely necessary. Once programs are cut, it is very difficult to reinstate them. Peggy Melone, chairwoman of the finance committee of District 95, in her "Report to District 95 Board on Ways to Decrease the Deficit" outlines several cost-saving measures that should be considered as options to eliminating our quality programs, such as annexing Glendale Elementary School District. Our AT program has been called exemplary by the state and should remain intact. A strong gifted program is needed in District 95, which is unique in having so many students at a high academic level coupled with many students at a low level.

Classroom teachers have a difficult time (especially with larger class sizes) in handling this wide range of student abilities, often resulting in higher level students not receiving quality attention. Hopefully, District 95 parents who oppose $300,000 worth of cuts to quality programs will make their opinions heard by phone calls, letters, or attendance at the District 95 Board meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday at Brush Administration Center. — Eileen Trout, Margaret Vakil and Sandra Leitner, Executive Committee of the Carbondale Association for Responsive Education (CARE).

Harassment story was misleading

In order to prevent any misconceptions which may arise, I am writing in response to the article on sexual harassment which appeared on the front page of the April 10 edition of the Daily Egyptian. With regard to the example given of a harassing statement ("My, don't you look good today.") it was said to the reporter in the context of a longer explanation of harassing behaviors. There exists the common misconception that sexual harassment includes nothing short of coerced sexual intercourse. In fact, harassment includes a wide range of behaviors, from forced intercourse (rape) to touching, comments and leers. Even the statement "My, don't you look good today" could be considered harassment, given the intent, tone of voice, relationship between the speaker of the comment and the receiver, etc. My second bone of contention lies with the ways in which the sexual harassment experiences of two women here at SIU-C were reported. While the descriptions of the incidents were basically accurate, the essence of their experiences was lost. These women were in situations in which there existed differences in power! Their instructors were responsible for grading and evaluating them. They misused this power to serve their own purposes — to coerce the women into providing sexual favors or to tolerate sexual remarks. Later in the article information appeared that was credited to me. While the paragraph was basically accurate, I did not relay that particular information to the reporter when I was interviewed. — Barbara K. Burian, women's services campus safety representative.

Cartoon called an insult to Marine Corps

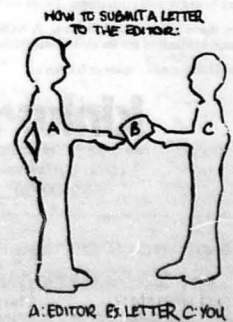

The cartoon that was run in the April 8 edition of the Daily Egyptian was in the poorest taste. It is an insult to Marines past and present, who have served this country honorably. By choosing the flag raising on Mount Surabachi as his target, the artist attacks the reputation of the Marines who fought and died on Iwo Jima in World War II. The Marine Corps has over 211 years of service to its credit and it should not be the subject of some sleazy cartoon. The editor should be ashamed to allow such garbage in this paper. — Donald J. Moore, sophomore, finance.

Pall is lifting over the White House

By Helen Thomas
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON — There have been atmospheric changes in the White House since the Iran arms-Contra aid siege was lifted — all for the better.

The aides are smiling and President Reagan is becoming more accessible, answering questions, and displaying his familiar genial nature after going underground for four months.

The month of May might not be as rosy as congressional hearings begin on the Iran arms-Contra aid scandal. The possibility that Adm. John Poindexter and Lt. Col. Oliver North, both ousted from the National Security Council staff, may testify, will ensure new headlines.

But right now the clouds have lifted a bit, and even White House chief of staff Howard Baker is saying he is "having a lot of fun."

THE PRESIDENT has not changed any of his views or his priorities. Over the next 21 months he will fight for the goals dearest to his heart — military aid to the Nicaraguan rebels, the Contras he has sponsored throughout his presidency at some cost, and the Strategic Defense Initiative or "Star Wars," his dream of the ultimate protection against enemy missiles.

He has other targets but more and more he is talking to the Ronald Reagan Library Foundation and making plans for his life after the presidency.

Some observers believe that he is now truly a "lame duck," having lost the strong bid to get Congress to sustain his veto over the $88 billion highway bill.

Others think that Republicans will want to rally around him, giving him a legislative victory here and there, to make up for their recent defection.

The president appears to have lost some of the old magic. But he doesn't think so.

He is enjoying the aura of the presidency again, the salutes, the imperial trappings. Life in the Executive Mansion is good and he no longer feels he is a prisoner.

The president will be displaying a high profile this month with trips and speeches and official meetings showing his involvement in the affairs of state.

He will even interrupt his Easter vacation at his serene California mountaintop ranch near Santa Barbara to receive a first-hand report from Secretary of State George Shultz on Shultz's return from Moscow next week. Shultz will confer with top Soviet officials on a new medium range missile agreement and is said to be taking a draft of a treaty with him to try to resolve outstanding issues.

REAGAN WOULD like to have one arms agreement for the historical record before he leaves office.

A new arms pact between the United States and the Soviet Union would portend a signing ceremony at a summit meeting in Washington between Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, with whom he has conferred at two previous summits.

A summit in the United States will be carried out with fanfare and will enhance Reagan's declining image.

Tentative plans for such a meeting appear to be in the making for late fall, although nothing is set.

The spy scandal relating to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow has caused a security breach, as well as embarrassment and chagrin on the part of the administration, which is trying to put the best face on it. But so far, the scandal has not disrupted the campaign to improve relations between the United States and the Soviet Union.

SOME OF THE credit for the lighter atmosphere at the White House can be attributed to Baker and to White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater, who are old pros in the Washington bureaucracy, and understand more can be accomplished with sugar than with vinegar.

Opinions from elsewhere

Congress is unable to stem flow of red ink

Rocky Mountain News

Democratic congressional leaders, unwilling to defy the spending lobbies, are becoming more vocal in their demands for a tax hike. They hope the weakened Reagan administration will cave in.

Rep. James Wright, D-Texas, has made higher taxes one of his favorite subjects during his first months as the new speaker of the House. So has Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee.

Wright says that new tax revenues should be combined with spending cuts. But it has become painfully clear that he and his colleagues lack the self-discipline to enact such cuts in specific programs rather than just talk about them in the abstract. ... Since the lawmakers habitually spend new revenue faster than it comes in, the federal deficit would end up growing rather than shrinking.

No news is good news for U.S. and Canada

The Idaho Statesman

President Reagan's summit with Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulroney was about as exciting as a Sunday game of lawn bowling. But that's OK. The lack of crisis on our longest border is a long-running, good-news story. That's not to say that there aren't problems or that Canada should be taken for granted. ...

Neither Reagan nor Mulroney needs any more problems right now. Both have been in political hot water since last they met in March 1986.

The president (was) making his first foreign tour since the Iran-Contra scandal broke in November. The conservative Canadian leader has been beset by a series of scandals and controversies within his Cabinet. Both men's popularity is sagging.

As for issues, there are three: acid rain, trade and sovereignty of the Northwest Passage.

Riverside students enter GM contest

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Call it a case of an academic David meeting one of the true Goliaths of business.

That's the scenario facing 25 students at the Riverside campus of the University of California, about 60 miles southeast of Los Angeles.

The university's Graduate School of Management has been selected by General Motors as one 10 universities nationwide to compete in the 1987 General Motors Marketing Competition.

Often overshadowed by the larger universities, such as UCLA and UC Berkeley, in California's eight-campus university system, Riverside is eager to show that its students have the marketing moxie to compete against the likes of the Ivy League's Columbia University and the blue-blood University of Virginia.

THE COMPETITION calls for a team of business students from each university to devise a marketing and advertising

Students benefit from the competition because of its "real world" environment. "Plus, it will look good on their resumes."

— Walt Henry, associate professor of marketing campaign for a General Motors product. This year, the teams will concentrate on helping GM sell more of its sporty Pontiac Fiero automobiles.

"The difference between this project and some of the case studies I've done is that the deadlines here are very real and that puts a lot of pressure on it," said Janice Newman, a member of the Riverside team.

The part-time business student — she also works as the public affairs coordinator for Contel, the state's third-largest telephone company — will present the Riverside strategy to a panel of General Motors executives this week.

"YOU TALK about advertising and promotion and market research but it is a vastly different thing to go out and do it," said Walt Henry, an associate professor of marketing at the 5,000-student campus and one of three faculty advisers for the competition.

Students benefit from the competition, Henry said, because of its "real world" environment.

"Plus," he said, "it will look good on their resumes."

The objective of the competition was to devise a total marketing plan to move 25,000 Fiero coupes in six months with a total promotion budget of $6 million or less, Henry said.

THE STUDENTS began by researching consumer buying trends and automobile preferences. This led to some off campus sleuthing in Riverside automobile dealerships, scoping out the competition.

After selecting competitive models, including the Toyota MR2, Mazda RX-7 and the Nissan Pulsar, the students rented a mailing list of all of the people in Southern California who recently purchased those vehicles.

A random telephone survey of 4,000 new-car owners helped the students define their target market for the Pontiac Fiero.

Having a feel for the market, the students then began hammering out a marketing and advertising campaign geared to the target audience.

The 2% Plan: Cannibalism Revisited

In 1980-81, in the midst of a bargaining election at the University of Minnesota, the University of Minnesota Administration instituted a shortlived 2 percent plan to increase faculty salaries, utilizing exactly the same methods as are currently being practiced at SIUC.

As you can see by the article reprinted below from the editorial page of the Minnesota Daily, the University of Minnesota faculty was as outraged then, as our faculty is today. "The Faculty Caucus Against (collective bargaining)" was an anti-bargaining faculty organization which supported the administration's 2% reallocation plan.

You Can't Change Human Nature

EATING PEOPLE

By Peter Lock

In one of their musical numbers entitled "The Reluctant Cannibal," the English satirists Swann and Flanders create a scenario in which a country's entire internal economy is governed by the slogan, "We always have eaten people, we always will eat people, you can't change human nature." Tum-ti-tum-ti-tum. For the space of a song it seems possible that there may be an alternative. But "human nature," universal, competitive, mercantile, belligerent, takes over; the revolt of the Reluctant Cannibal is ridiculed by the Great Panjandrum; and the economy of the nation continues to run its smooth digestive course, resulting once more in the survival of the fittest.

A variation of this pseudo-neo-Darwinism seems to be sporadically manifesting itself on campus in the guise of a loose group or club that has come to be generally known as the Faculty Caucus Against. People here are now pretty well certain that they know what the Faculty Caucus Against is against. But what, it has been repeatedly and unavailingly asked, is the Faculty Caucus Against for?

The answer to this quite reasonable question - a question until recently wholly rhetorical - has gradually become ominously clear in the light of recent non-events at the Capitol and reports from on high; the Faculty Caucus Against may well turn out to be for...eating people.

As we all know, the Legislature (when it deigns to get around to dealing with our salaries - perhaps late-ish in 1982) threatens to hand us down a single-figure raise (say about $8 a person). And the parapsychical logic of the Faculty Caucus Against seems likely, on past performance, to react to this by demonstrating that its statistics have shown that you can't change human nature and that even if we could, only about 5 percent of us would want to; that in any case their recent research indicates that this isn't a State College, a Kindergarten, or a factory but a Research Institution; that furthermore their figures have proven even if we're worse off now than we used to be, we have always been worse off than we used to be, and as far as they are concerned we always will be worse off than we have been or used to be, and we'll just have to learn to get used to this; and that finally we're now in a down-turn supply-side economy, albeit in a free country, and thus, if cannibalization has had to have been decreed to become ex-post facto operative by a couple of Vice-Panjandras, there isn't a bloody thing any of us can individually do about it except, well, frankly chaps...cannibalize.

Thus Marie Antoinette's dictum "Let them eat cake!" may well become translated in contemporary Caucus-ese as "Let them eat on another!" Let the faculty, it is being calmly suggested, devour the faculty, let departments incorporate departments, let programs swallow programs, let the strong gorge themselves on the weak, let the useful ingest the "useless," and let the weak or the "useless" or the "subversive" be vomited forth. Pit section against section, college against college, division against division, person against person - and all for 2 percent.

The Administration's Modest Proposal is a Swift exercise in auto-destruction. In order to raise an extra 2 percent the corpus academicus will be asked, in order, to behave like the folks at Donner Pass. And since most of us have no horses to start with, we shall, this year, start by eating ourselves, in order, say the Panjandra, to be able to eat, ourselves. To eat, people must eat people.

While collective bargaining offers us hope, a sense of purpose, a program for action, and union with 50,000 other MEA members, the Faculty Caucus Against seems likely to propose nothing more than a grisly parody of communion. One can imagine the text of their next epistle, now that they have found something they can be for: "Dearly beloved, we must come together in this place and at this place in time to eat one another. Go you hence forth and eat one another with grace and with gusto so that you may find favor in the Panjandrum's eyes." The myth which seeks to locate the origin of culture in the ritual ingestion of the Panjandrum Himself now will take on for Caucusfolk, a new and grotesque form: In order to protect Culture at the U, brothers and sisters are going to be urged, by the Panjandrum and by the Caucus Brothers and Sisters, to set about eating their brothers and sisters, in order that these (former) brothers and sisters can become 2 percent richer and fatter, so that next time (when ineluctably the Legislature does its non-thing again) they can eat still more and the next year yet more of their (former) brothers and sisters.

Until only the Faculty-Caucus-Against-Everything-Except-Cannibalism is left, smug, replete, but with hardly any body around anymore to governance unto or even to eat.

And so there will come to pass another 2 percent chop. Whereupon, with that air of melancholy resignation that characterizes them, the surviving members of the Faculty Caucus Against, in the basements of their decaying mansions and in corridors and offices all across the campus, will begin, in a quiet, well-bred way, yet remorselessly and efficiently, to eat one another up.

Toxic acid leak forces 2,000 to flee, injures 93

GARY, IND. (UPI) — A storage tank of hydrochloric acid sprang a leak Tuesday, then mixed with rain to create a toxic cloud that sent nearly 100 people to hospitals, critically injured one man and forced about 2,000 others to flee.

The storage tank of diluted hydrochloric acid, used to clean truck engine parts at a Gary car and truck wash, began leaking toxic fumes about 9 a.m. and was patched at about 2 p.m., officials said.

Rain falling in the area reacted with the 42 percent acid solution, creating the toxic fumes.

About 1,000 people in a 3-square-mile area originally were evacuated, but authorities later ordered another 1,000 people to flee after the wind shifted.

At least 93 people, ranging in age from 3 to 73, were treated at three Gary hospitals for headaches, dizziness, nausea and hyperventilation. One man, identified as Dennis Simpson, age unknown, was in critical condition at Methodist Hospital, said spokesman John Canright.

Two other victims were expected to be admitted to St. Mary's Hospital, and the rest were expected to be treated and released.

Garland Lanier, the Gary Civil Defense director, said authorities patched the leak in the tank outside the car and truck wash and had the situation under control by about 2 p.m.

A hazardous materials team from the Hammond Fire Department assisted Gary officials in capping the leak near Interstate 65, where traffic was snarled because feeder routes and exit ramps were closed near the scene.

S. Illinois alcohol-drug use said to be highest in state

By JoDe Rimar
Staff Writer

Almost 56 percent of the people who are arrested for drunkenness and put into a detoxification tank in Southern Illinois also test positive for at least one other drug, says Steve Knox, director of field services at the Illinois Department of Alcohol and Substance Abuse.

Knox, who spoke Tuesday in Student Center Ballroom C during the second day of Human Resources '87 workshops, said Southern Illinois has the highest percentage of "double afflictions" — people who test positive for alcohol and drugs.

Based on data from urine tests taken in June 1986, Southern Illinois ranked highest for double affliction; Central Illinois ranked second, 48.3 percent; Cook County and the Chicago area were third, 48 percent; Western Illinois was fourth, 39 percent; and Eastern Illinois came in last with 37 percent, Knox said.

Double affliction is not uncommon nationwide, he said, and Illinois' alcohol and substance abuse department is one of the best equipped to deal with the problem.

The department was formed through a consolidation of two separate state departments — one for alcohol abuse and one for drug abuse. It is one of few such departments in the nation that operates at the "cabinet-level," allowing it greater access to the General Assembly.

Knox said people addicted to both alcohol and drugs should be treated not as criminals but as mentally ill.

A six-month study of drunken driving in Illinois last year found that 40 to 60 percent of the 2,230 convicted of DUJ (driving under the influence) were referred for alcohol and drug treatment beyond the classes required by state law, he said.

Knox said his department is working on programs to start education at the "primary level," in schools. With the cooperation of educators in the school systems, his office will be able to attack drug and alcohol abuse at the grass-roots level, he said.

Chemical spill at lab leaves 1 dead, 10 injured by fumes

NORTH SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (UPI) — A toxic solvent gushed from a ruptured pipe at an industrial chemical lab near downtown Salt Lake City Tuesday, killing the son of the company president and injuring up to 10 others stricken by fumes.

Killed was Lee Hodson, 37, Salt Lake City, chief vice president of Hodson Laboratories Inc., where about 2,000 gallons of the liquid spilled in an industrial park area at about 7:20 a.m., officials said. The victim was the son of owner Val Hodson.

Officials said up to 10 other people suffered breathing problems and other ailments from the fumes emitted by the escape of trichloroethylene — a toxic, colorless liquid — at the suburban manufacturing plant about 6 miles north of downtown Salt Lake City.

ALL OF THE stricken were either emergency response personnel — including two paramedics and a police officer — or passersby. North Salt Lake City Mayor Dwayne Simmons said more than 1,000 people were affected by a two-mile evacuation of the area near the facility, which makes chemicals used in concrete construction, for more than five hours.

"Rather than following our normal procedures, which are immediate evacuation or putting on breathing or oxygen gear, he went to try and turn the valve off on the line and was overcome by the fumes within 15 seconds and collapsed in the draining solvent. There's not much you can do after that."

— Owen Hogle, vice president, Hodson Laboratories Inc.

"We're estimating that 2,000 gallons spilled," Simmons said at a noon news conference. Officials said the fumes were heavier than air and were contained primarily within the building. There was no danger to Salt Lake City area residents, they said.

OWEN HOGLE, company vice president, said Lee Hodson was transferring the toxic solvent used to make concrete sealer between a 1,200 gallon storage tank and a 200 gallon tank when a pipe ruptured.

"Apparently while he was at the plant alone, transferring some solvents from one tank to another, an elbow ruptured at the base of the tank," Hogle said.

"Rather than following our normal procedures, which are immediate evacuation or putting on breathing or oxygen gear, he went to try and turn the valve off on the line and was overcome by the fumes within 15 seconds and collapsed in the draining solvent," Hogle said. "There's not much you can do after that."

GAY SAUNDERS, spokeswoman for Lakeview Hospital, where some of the injured were taken, said six people were treated and released. They included two paramedics and a bountiful police officer.

Gov. Norm Bangert visited the spill area along with Public Safety Director John T. Nielson, who said the chemical was being contained by 11 a.m.

Astronomers may identify supernova star near galaxy

By United Press International

Astronomers studying a rare supernova said Tuesday they may have identified the star that blew up 163,000 years ago, but the mystery is far from over and the star in question could be alive and well, hidden by the debris of the stellar catastrophe.

The star, a blue supergiant known as Sanduleak 202-69, is located in the large Magellanic Cloud, a satellite galaxy to the sun's Milky Way. It was located almost precisely where a supernova was observed in February, the closest observed supernova in almost 400 years and the brightest since 1885.

Although the explosion occurred some 163,000 years ago, radiation from the expanding shell of gas and stellar debris is only now reaching Earth.

As interstellar distances go the supernova, visible only in the Southern Hemisphere, is right next door, giving astronomers a unique opportunity to study the death of a giant sun and the nuclear processes thought to be responsible for the abundance of heavy elements in the

"We've shown that the hot blue supergiant, Sanduleak, has disappeared. ... It can mean that star blew up, but if it blew up, it destroys a whole bunch of textbooks on stellar evolution because hot blue stars are not supposed to blow up."

cosmos.

George Sonneborn, a staff astronomer at NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, Md., said in a telephone interview that astronomers originally thought Sanduleak was the star that exploded, but then changed their minds.

He said examination of older photographs of the area showed two stars, one of them Sanduleak, and that two stars later were detected by ultraviolet emissions after the supernova was discovered.

But recent analysis of earlier photographs revealed a third star extremely close to the other two. One of the trio is now missing and Sonneborn said he believes that star may be Sanduleak.

"We have confirmation now that there were three stars there and not two," he said. "It's the accurate positional measurements of these other stars that allows us to make the determination of which of the two stars we're detecting now."

But Sonneborn and Ed Weiler, program scientist for NASA's space telescope project, said other possibilities exist and that Sanduleak may be alive and well.

"We've shown that the hot blue supergiant, Sanduleak, has disappeared," Weiler said. "But that can mean one of two things. It can mean that star blew up, but if it blew up, it destroys a whole bunch of textbooks on stellar evolution because hot blue stars are not supposed to blow up."

Striking writers considering CBS proposal

By United Press International

A comprehensive proposal based on "hard bargaining" from CBS to striking news writers Tuesday awaited study by the union representing the employees, who have been on strike for six weeks.

CBS termed the offer "a strike settlement package." The strike against CBS and ABC has idled 525 news writers, producers and graphic artists from the Writers Guild of America over the issues of job security and work jurisdiction. The news writers walked off their jobs March 2.

"We believe this offer reflects the needs and interests of the company and we are hopeful the Guild and its membership will find it a fair and workable formula for the future," said George Schweitzer, CBS vice president for communications and information.

Schweitzer said the offer was discussed by negotiators on both sides over the weekend and put into final form Monday. He declined to provide details until the Guild makes a formal response.

"The offer was essentially the result of hard bargaining for the many weeks of the strike," he said.

Martin Waldman, spokesman for the Guild, confirmed that "this proposal is the result of long negotiations. It didn't just come out of the blue."

The Guild's negotiating committee was meeting to review new elements added Monday to what Waldman called "the first on-the-record complete proposal that the company in 1968 made since the beginning of the strike."

Waldman said the committee might make a public statement following further meetings Tuesday morning.

Officer elections set for GPSC

By Tracy Bartoni
Staff Writer

The Graduate and Professional Student Council plans to elect officers during its meeting tonight in the Student Center Mississippi Room.

Positions are open for president, vice president of administrative affairs and vice president of graduate school affairs. Nominees for president are Paul Antonacci, Darrell Johnson and Charlotte Bowns. Johnson and Bowns also were nominated for vice president of administrative affairs. Timothy Keller, Joe Phillips and Antonacci are the nominees for vice president of graduate school affairs.

Other nominations for GPSC board has met and recommends that the panel give ASA $300 for the event. Antonacci said the GPSC gave the ASA $1,000 for the same event last year and recommended that council members consult with department colleagues to determine the amount of funds that would be appropriate for the event.

Also scheduled at the meeting is a speech by Mark Gladford, a candidate for student trustee. A student trustee can be an undergraduate or graduate student and will serve on SIUC's Board of Trustees for one year. The election for student trustee will be held during the last week in April.

officers will be taken tonight, although those nominated will be write-in candidates and will not appear on the ballot, council member Eric Landrum said.

The meeting also will include nominations for members of the Graduate Council, whose election will be held April 29. Those nominated for Graduate Council are Marilyn Karaffa and Barbara Jahn.

In other action, the GPSC plans to discuss a fee allocation to the African Student Association, which is planning an "Africa Week" celebration to be held May 5-9.

Antonacci, vice president for administrative affairs, said the GPSC's fee allocation

Meister said he suspects the readings are invalid because readings taken on each floor were all at very high levels. Past tests showed fiber levels varied with different locations in the building.

"These don't make sense from where the samples were taken," he said.

There is a possibility that the air monitoring may have been manipulated or tampered with, especially since the machines were highly visible in the library, Meister said.

POLLUTION CONTROL will look at the lab results, talk to Jurgiel and make sure the testing is valid before determining whether the situation is serious, he said.

Clarence Dougherty, vice president of campus services, told a group of library employees and representatives from the Illinois Education Association Tuesday the asbestos test results were "unbelievably high" and further testing would be done "in the near future." Meister was not present at the meeting.

"Those readings were so far out of line that they were judged not to be reliable," Dougherty said in a telephone interview.

DOUGHERTY SAID he did not know what the test results showed, but was told by Pollution Control last week the readings were too high to be realistic.

William Byrnes and John Keiffer, both library employees, said Dougherty implied during the meeting the monitoring machines may have been tampered with and will be guarded the next time testing is done.

The IEA helped to arrange the meeting with Dougherty and filed freedom of information requests for the 1984 and 1986 lab results from Jurgiel. IEA organizer Charles Zucker said employees should see the air testing reports instead of being told the results by the administration.

"I DON'T THINK they're perfectly free to withhold them just because they don't like the results," Zucker said.

Byrnes said he asked Dougherty what further action the University would take in controlling asbestos on campus and was told the University had no specific time schedule for removal at the library and other buildings on campus.

Removal of asbestos was to be done this month in the shipping receiving room in the basement of Morris but was postponed because the removal company, United Thermal Co., did not receive bonding money for their insurance costs, Meister said.

Keiffer, a storekeeper II in shipping and receiving, said Dougherty told him Tuesday a company in Belleville was hired to do the removal.

Friday. "We do not wish to delay this any further, but we do wish to be prepared," Twomey said.

Gatsby's has been charged with selling beer to an underage drinker March 5. If Gatsby's is found guilty, the commission could suspend or revoke its liquor license.

Mayor Helen Westberg said she thought the commission in office at the time of the violation should hear the case, but added that the commission had little choice but to delay the hearing. Two new city council members and a mayor will be sworn into office next week.

Gatsby's, 608 S. Illinois Ave., has been cited for 22 violations for underage drinking since August 1986 and is under a pitcher ban imposed by the commission. The ban prohibits the bar from serving beer in anything larger than 12 ounce cups until June.

pay," she said. "We'll send you the bill anyway, but please let us know that you can't pay so we can work with you."

The only way out of paying taxes today is by filing for an extension.

If you can't file your taxes before midnight tonight, you can file a Form 4868, or "Request for an Extension" form. Filing a 4868 gives the delinquent taxpayer an automatic four month extension, Zini explained.

But it, too, must be postmarked by midnight, April 15, and it applies only if you intend to file a return. Non-filers can't use it to delay the inevitable.

People who get their returns into a mailbox before midnight, and are sure they don't owe the tax man, can look for their refunds around July 4, Zini said.

She said the 1986 Tax Reform Act won't complicate matters for filers this year. Next year, however, will be another matter.

He said Carbondale put together its forestry program after city residents expressed concern about the voids left by the removal of dead trees.

Among the prizes Carbondale will receive as Tree City are "Tree City" signs posted at each city entrance, a Tree City flag, several patches and decals, which are free to the public, and a walnut plaque to display at City Hall.

Marine guards returning to U.S. for investigation

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The return to the United States of the 28 Marine guards at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow as part of the sex-for-secrets investigation should be completed by next week, the Marine Corps says.

In a brief statement Monday, the Corps said five Marine replacements arrived in Moscow Sunday. Another 12 were scheduled to arrive Monday, with the remainder due by the end of the week, the statement said.

"Marines will depart Moscow as an orderly transition permits, but the rotation should be completed by next week," it said.

Officials have said the 28 would be kept together as a group until the investigation of the spying scandal is completed. Two former Moscow embassy Marine guards have been charged with espionage and a third suspect from the U.S. consulate in Leningrad is being held pending charges.

Closed door criminal proceedings will be held today and Thursday at the Marine base in Quantico, Va., to determine if the case of the two charged with espionage should be decided by a formal court martial, which some Marine officials consider a foregone conclusion.

It is possible that a portion of a formal court martial hearing could be made public, a Corps spokesman said, but no decision has been made yet.

Sgt. Clayton Lonetree, 25, of Chicago, and Cpl. Arnold Bracy, 21, of New York have been accused of espionage at the Moscow embassy and are being held in the Quantico brig.

Sgt. John Weirick, 26, of Eureka, Calif., who served at the consulate in Leningrad from Nov. 18, 1981 to Dec. 2, 1982 after a month at the Moscow embassy, was arrested last Tuesday at the Marine Air Station in Tustin, Calif. on suspicion of illegal contacts with Soviet women.

A fourth Marine, Sgt. Robert Stufflebeam, 24, of Bloomington, Ill., also was charged last Tuesday on three counts of failing to report his contact with a Soviet woman in July, September and October, 1984 when he was deputy commander of the Moscow embassy guard detachment.

Last Thursday, the Pentagon ordered the entire six-man detachment at the Leningrad consulate home for "precautionary" questioning in connection with the spying scandal.

State Department lax in monitoring Marines, Navy study shows

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The selection and training of Marine embassy guards has been adequate but the State Department management of their performance has been poor, Pentagon sources said Tuesday.

The study by the Navy inspector general growing out of the sex-for-secrets scandal at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow also concluded that random lie detector tests for Marine guards should be considered as a means for stopping involvement in espionage or unauthorized contacts, the sources said.

The study was completed last week, and has been forwarded to Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger for his review, the sources said. It also will be reviewed by an interagency government group headed by former Defense Secretary Melvin Laird to see which recommendations would be implemented, they said.

The study comes as an additional five Marine guards were reported being recalled from the U.S. Embassy in Vienna. This would be in addition to the 28 being brought home from the Moscow Embassy and the six-man detachment from the consulate in Leningrad.

The inspector general study does not contain a flat recommendation that random lie detector tests be used on Marine guards, one source said.

Hinckley hearing reveals letters to mass murderer

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Florida death-row inmate Theodore Bundy told officials he corresponded regularly with John Hinckley Jr. last year, receiving as many as four letters from the presidential assailant and replying at least twice, prosecutors said Tuesday.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Roger Adelman also told a federal court hearing that "the flagrant tone of the letters" concerned officials enough to subpoena all of Hinckley's personal correspondence since he was committed to St. Elizabeth Mental Hospital in 1982 after his assassination attempt on President Reagan.

The letters also "present the possibility that other writings...including to other people...are in the possession of Mr. Hinckley," Adelman told U.S. District Judge Rarrington Parker.

Surrogate mother 'feels great' visiting child

HACKENSACK, N.J. (UPI) — Mary Beth Whitehead was reunited with Baby M Tuesday for the first time since a judge upheld her $10,000 surrogate mother's contract with a childless couple and stripped her of all parental rights to the child.

Emerging from a Bergen County youth home in Hackensack after a two-hour supervised visit authorized by the Supreme Court, Whitehead told reporters "it felt great" to see the child again.

She said she called the infant "Sara," the name she has always used to refer to the year-old girl. The child has been known legally as Melissa Stern since the March 31 decision in the custody battle between Whitehead and "If it was (an employer-employee relationship), it violated existing state policy about oppressive wages for an employee."

—Alan Karcher, lawyer

William and Elizabeth Stern of Tenafly, N.J.

One of Whitehead's lawyers said Tuesday that Whitehead's appeal of the Baby M case will argue that her contract to bear a child using William Stern's sperm was illegal because she was not paid the minimum wage of $3.35 an hour.

Lawyer Alan Karcher, who also is leader of the Democratic minority in the New Jersey Assembly, said he would base his arguments to the State Supreme Court in part on New Jersey minimum hour and wage law.

"If it was (an employer-employee relationship)," Karcher said "it violated existing state policy about oppressive wages for an employee."

The Supreme Court, which has agreed to hear the case in mid-September, last week granted the Brick Township, N.J., homemaker the right to visit the child once a week during the appeal process.

Karcher, who was not involved with the Baby M trial but has volunteered to help with the appeal, said Whitehead worked nearly 7,000 hours to fulfill her contract with the Sterns, including the four months she spent trying to conceive, the pregnancy itself and four days in the hospital when the child was delivered.

Karcher said the $10,000 fee White was to be paid for carrying Baby M actually works out to $1.47 per hour, far less than the minimum wage of $3.35 per hour. He said the contract should be voided on those grounds. Whitehead never has accepted the fee.

Gary Skoloff, the chief lawyer for the Sterns, rejected Karcher's arguments and said the issue of an employer-employee relationship never was raised in the 'wo-month Baby M trial.

"I'm not sure he can raise it on appeal since it wasn't raised in the courts below," Skoloff said, "let alone to argue that she was an employee."

Americans seek Canadian birth control

NEW YORK (UPI) — An increasing number of American women are being forced to cross the Canadian border in search of birth control devices, says Glamour Magazine.

"The contraceptive situation is like abortion used to be 20 years ago," Dr. Mary Gatter, a Connecticut gynecologist, told Glamour. "It's almost like you're selling cocaine or something."

"Many gynecologists are running scared, and don't want to take any chances with litigation," she said.

Women from as far away as Florida are heading to Canada for IUDs, intrauterine devices, the magazine said. Most IUDs no longer are sold in the United States under pressure from lawsuits from women who claimed the device had left them sterile or injured.

Dr. Marion Powell, medical director of the Bay Center for Birth Control, Women's College Hospital, Toronto, said most American women who seek such devices are in their late 20s and early 30s.

Richard Lincoln of the Alan Guttmacher Institute, a public policy research group in New York, said the removal from the market of most forms of the IUD, once used by 2.3 million women, could result in up to 123,000 unintended pregnancies.

Request for Secord files called 'charade' by judge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal judge said Tuesday that if he grants a request by Senate Iran-Contra affair investigators for the foreign bank records of retired Air Force Maj. Gen. Richard Secord, he will be "writing an order that I know is a charade."

Last month the Senate cited Secord for contempt of Congress for refusing to sign a directive granting investigators access to the records. The Senate's legal counsel conceded the unusual effort to gain access to Secord's records may be rebuffed by the Swiss, who have strict bank secrecy laws.

"Whether or not this is ultimately a useful device will depend on the Swiss," said counsel Michael Davidson. "The hope is the Swiss will be responsive."

But U.S. District Judge Aubrey Robinson, considering whether to order Secord to sign a consent directive to banks in Switzerland, the Cayman Islands and Panama or face possible imprisonment, must decide if Secord's documents are protected by the Fifth Amendment's guarantee that a person not be compelled to be a witness against himself.

Although Robinson called the directive "a charade" because it clearly would not be a truthful consent by Secord to release his documents, it was unclear on how he would rule.

"I will issue an order on whether it's appropriate and the Court of Appeals will determine it," he said at the end of the hearing.

Earlier, however, the chief judge suggested the Senate panel, which believes Secord's accounts can help unravel the trail of money in the Iran-Contra affair, simply approach the Swiss government and banks in the Cayman Islands and tell them diplomatically that Secord "does not have Fifth Amendment protection... so can you turn over the information."

"It's the Swiss authorities that have the right to decide if the directive is adequate, Robinson said. "They would know that this is not a consent" and signed only under the threat of jail.

"I have a problem with charades," he said.

Oil giants employ lobbyists to influence bond limits bill

AUSTIN, TEXAS (UPI) — High-dollar lobbyists swarmed the Texas capitol Tuesday on behalf of Texaco, Inc. and Pennzoil Inc., trying to influence legislators on a bill that would cap state appeal bonds at $1 billion.

Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, who sponsored the bill, said Texaco's decision to seek bankruptcy protection Sunday would not pressure the legislature to pass the bond limit measure.

Parker, whose district includes Texaco's largest domestic refinery, Friday filed a bill that would limit appeal bonds in civil cases to $1 billion and allow trial judges to set both the amount and type of bond posted. Texaco filed for protection from creditors under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code to avoid posting an $11 billion appeal bond to continue its legal battle with Pennzoil in the Texas court system.

Texaco said it was financially unable to post an appeals bond of more than $1 billion.

Under current law, Texaco was required to post bond equal to the record $10.3 billion judgment, plus interest, won by Pennzoil. In 1985 a Houston jury found Texaco guilty of interfering with Pennzoil's plan to acquire Getty Oil Co.

Parker said the Texaco bankruptcy filing would not be a factor in the bill's outcome. "I don't think it makes a difference," he said. "If this bill could get passed, it might increase the chances of Texaco coming out of Chapter 11."

But an analysis of the bill distributed by Pennzoil said "Pressure was placed on the Texas legislature to pass this legislation."

The analysis said if the bill is passed, "Texaco apparently will petition the bankruptcy court in New York for dismissal of the Chapter 11 proceedings."

But it added, "Now that Texaco has voluntarily put itself in Chapter 11, it is doubtful that any action by the legislature can get it out."

One player -not Bosworth- seeks early entry to draft

NEW YORK (UPI) Only one college football player has sought early entry to the April 28 NFL draft-and it was not All-America linebacker Brian Bosworth of Oklahoma.

Bosworth allowed Monday's deadline for the draft to pass, apparently preferring to wait until the league's supplemental draft this summer. At that time, all 28 teams would have an opportunity to select Bosworth.

The player who did file Monday was strong safety

Brian Hutson of Mississippi State, who will be eligible to be drafted but will not be able to sign a contract until he actually graduates, NFL Director of Player Personnel Joel Bussert said Tuesday.

Hutson will be one of more than 1,000 players eligible for the April 28 selection of players who have exhausted their college eligibility, graduated or have had five years elapse since enrolling in college.

Full Tilt disc club tosses second at St. Lou

By Greg Huber
Staff Writer

FULL TILT, THE SIU-C Ultimate Frisbee club, won four matches but lost the championship game to garner second place in Men's Division II play in a two-day meet at St. Louis Forest Park last weekend.

The University of Illinois Just Say No club won the top honors after narrowly averting a Full Tilt comeback attempt late in the finals Sunday.

Although Full Tilt beat Just Say No Saturday, the worn-out players faced more of a challenge Sunday.

Just Say No came out strong in the match, and was leading by a 13-9 score before Full Tilt came alive to and knot the score, first at 14, then 15. The U of I club then scored two points to win the match.

Earlier Sunday in semifinal action Full Tilt defeated Boone County, a Columbia, Missouri team, with a 15-10 score.

Saturday's action saw Full Tilt with a full day as the disc throwers played and won three separate matches to gain entry to the finals.

"It is far and away the best start we've had in years," Full Tilt co-captain Bill Byrnes said. The team is now 9-3 in season play.

Dave Buchanan and Mark Kelly were two standouts in the tournament.

FOUR FULL TILT women disc throwers teamed up with Nemesis from Chicago in order to see action at the meet. Nemesis has some former Full Tilt players on the team.

The women pulled a 5-3 record at the meet and also captured second place.

The two-day event held in Forest Park featured a total of 16 division I teams, eight Division II teams and nine women's teams.

Double dilemma universities like SIU-C. The University's responsibility is to see that it competes well and within the guidelines of the NCAA.

On the other hand, a sports program that lacks competitive ability might not do a university a lot of good, he says. But a program that lacks integrity can be destructive.

Such is the case of Southern Methodist University. Pettit believes SMU will have a hard time recruiting teachers and students because of its player-payoff scandal and subsequent NCAA violations.

He adds that the push for large money-making sports programs is a cultural problem rooted in the university's geographic location.

"There's more emphasis on athletic competition, and at a university because of booster pressure. That certainly was SMU's case. But they have to exist in Texas, where football is more important than any other single thing."

PETTIT KNOWS about that, having been the chancellor of the University of South Texas system from 1983 to his selection in June to head the SIU System.

He says, however, that many NCAA programs are going to be cleaner in the next few years because of media attention on violations. Getting caught with a hand in the pocketbook and the "media event" that follows can be what triggers reform and the adjustments being made now.

PETTIT — WHO says he hasn't done much athletically since he left Montana in 1979 and "is in remarkably good shape for a man who's turning 50 and doesn't do anything" — would like to see SIU-C compete in the IA arena, with "our real peers," in the future.

But he doesn't think that will happen for another five to 10 years.

For now, he says SIU-C should be competitive in everything it does from baseball and football to moot court and debate teams.

"We're not bringing in paid gladiators and then using them up and casting them aside. It's not easy being an athlete, putting in the hours that they do. And it's not easy being a student when you're doing that."

Salukis discard Aces

By M.J. Starshak
Staff Writer

Junior Chuck Locke watched three of his teammates get hit by pitched balls in Tuesday's opener against Evansville and then retaliated by knocking a grand slam, his first of the season.

The fifth-inning blast was icing on the Salukis 14-3 cakewalk over the 21-19 Aces.

SIU-C (25-9) jumped out to a 6-0 lead after the first inning, powered by strong offensive performances from Chuck Verschoore, Brad Hollencamp and Charlie Hillemann. Verschoore and Hollencamp both hit doubles and Hillemann pounded his third homer in the bottom of the first.

Saluki coach Richard "Itchy" Jones said senior pitcher George Goich's April 7 victory over the Aces "merited giving him the opportunity" for a repeat performance. Goich did not disappoint, going the distance to raise his record to 3-0.

The Salukis led 7-2 going into the high-scoring fifth inning. Aces' pitcher Bili Marsh walked Hollencamp to lead off the inning and shortstop David Wrona lined a shot up the middle to put Salukis on first and second with none out.

Junior Rich Gaebe hit into a fielder's choice, but reached on a throwing error. Hollencamp scored on the play.

Joe Hall (2-2 for the game) got hit by a pitch, prior to catch. Dan Hartleb's appearance at the plate. Hartleb grounded to the shortstop for an apparent second out, but Evansville's Paul Lee bobbled the ball, loading the bases for Hillemann.

The junior right fielder became the second victim of the "bean ball" pitch, taking first base and scoring Gaebe,

Fox got a second out before nailing senior Steve Finley in the back with the first pitch to once again load the bases.

Locke, who went 3-4 with six RBI, slammed his fourth round-tripper of the season to give SIU-C a commanding 14-2 lead.

Sophomore Tim Hollmann struck out one but only allowed one extra base hit in the nightcap to give SIU-C the 6-0 victory. Hollmann's record improves to 3-0.

Evansville was held to one hit until the fourth inning when first baseman Rob Maurer singled to left and Jim Horlock doubled down the right field line to put Aces at second and third with two out. Hollmann got a sky-high pop up from John Bauser to end the threat.

Saluki senior pitcher George Goich winds up at the start of a doubleheader against Evansville. SIU-C won both.

Baseballers hit road for St. Louis rematch

SIU-C's baseball team (25-9) will attempt to continue its romp over St. Louis University at 3 p.m. today when it meets the 4-29 Billikens at Saujet Field near East St. Louis.

The Salukis defeated the Division I team 14-3 April 2 at Abe Martin field. Senior George Goich earned his first victory and Chuck Locke hit his third homerun of the season in the seven-inning rout.

and has a 6.86 ERA in 39 1-3 innings pitched.

Miguel Ribas, the Billikens' leading hitter, holds a .337 average and leads the team with 19 RBI and 32 hits.

The Salukis will be without the services of first baseman Jim Limperis for today's game. Limperis chipped a bone in his left hand while sliding into home in Sunday's game against Bradley.

The senior from Palatine is expected to rejoin the squad for the Friday and Saturday series against Missouri Valley Conference opponent Wichita State.

Matt Boxdorfer is the probable starting pitcher for the Billikens in today's game. Boxdorfer, the ace hurler of the squad, is 2-5

Power pitching splits double play vs. Panthers

By Wally Foreman
Staff Writer

The women's softball team split a doubleheader with Eastern Illinois Tuesday winning the first game 2-0 and losing the second game 4-0.

The split made the Salukis' record 16-13 overall and 7-3 in the Gateway conference as the Panthers are now 12-13-1 and 6-4.

In the first inning of the opening game Becky Rickenbaugh hit a single and Dana Riedel reached first on a bunt to put runners at first and second base.

Susan Wissmiller then hit a bunt to sacrifice Rickenbaugh and Riedel to second and third base. Cindy Espeland followed with a single and Rickenbaugh scored from third to give the Salukis the only run they would need to win the first game.

Riedel scored from third base when the Panthers' catcher made a throwing error trying to catch Espeland off first base.

In the third inning Rickenbaugh and Jenny Shupryt collided in short left field going after a pop fly and Shupryt had to leave the game. Shupryt suffered a bruised legbone.

"We went a little flat after Jenny went out," coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said.

Lisa Peterson picked up the win for the Salukis and remains undefeated in conference games.

The Salukis didn't have too much luck in the 4-0 nightcap loss.

Saluki pitcher Stacy Coan walked the first batters for EIU in the first and second innings and the Panthers capitalized by scoring one run in each inning.

The Salukis didn't really threaten to score in the second game partly because of the pitching of Zam Mogill.

Mogill suffered the loss for Eastern Illinois in the first game and got stronger as the games progressed.

Coan was the losing pitcher in the second game.

Athletically inclined chancellor strongly supports school sports

By Paula Buckner
Staff Writer

Dressed in a crisp, white, but on-down shirt and a blue-and-green striped tie, Chancellor Lawrence Pettit might not appear to be inclined toward athletics.

But don't let his business-like exterior fool you.

"I like sports, of course. I'm an avid fan," Pettit said.

The chancellor has been seen at Saluki home games, most notably basketball and football, usually with his wife, Libby. His interest in sports is hardly surprising.

During his high school days, the 49-year-old Lewistown, Mont., native was a three-year letterman in basketball, football and basketball. In college, he focused on tennis and golf, but says he didn't play much.

"Later on, I concentrated on snow skiing, racketball and shooting the rapids in rubber rafts with a lot of Leer."

He says he suspended his interest in sports as a graduate student and as a young faculty

I got back into an intense interest in sports."

THAT INTEREST can be seen in his views on intercollegiate athletics.

For SIU-C, a large, multipurpose, comprehensive institution that serves a "broad variety of clientele both internally and externally, maintaining a good intercollegiate athletics program is really important."

But Pettit is adamant about the balance between a university's athletics and academic programs: players are students first and athletes second.

"We want our athletes to graduate, to get a good education and to be able to compete in life after they're too old to compete athletically.

"So for most of them, we need to prepare them to do well in life without athletics after they leave there. And we owe that to them because they sacrifice a great deal to compete for us."

A GOOD ATHLETICS PROGRAM — one that has university visibility that it might not otherwise get, Pettit says.

Some people aren't attentive to other things the University does necessarily, he says, and athletics keeps a university's name before the public, at least once a week.

And there's an emotional relationship that develops between a sports program and its fans, a relationship not quite the same as other activities.

"The people who really care deep down inside whether you're for or not and really become loyal fans have a kind of attachment to the University through athletics that I think is really important.

"And that translates into more general kinds of support."

ATHLETICS BOOSTERS generally are more inclined to contribute money to the university, Pettit says from his experience at other universities.

He says athletics has an important role to play at
