Chamber head wants tax increase

By Dana DeBeaumont
Staff Writer

An income tax increase for education is needed to support economic growth in Southern Illinois, Jim Prowell, president of the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce, said.

Prowell, who issued a resolution supporting a tax increase, said Illinois doesn't come close to meeting the educational demands of the business community.

"Economic growth is considered by the chamber to be the single most important issue of our day," Prowell said. "The state does not come close to meeting the demand from business to prepare Illinois workers for technological changes in the industry."

Not educating its people is the worst mistake a community can make, he said.

The Illinois Chamber of Commerce says a tax increase is not needed to raise more money for education because a projected surplus of $643 million in natural growth revenue could be used for education.

Gov. James R. Thompson has said that none of the surplus will be used for education and that a tax increase is the only way for education to get more money.

Prowell said "The state chamber isn't opposed to

BASA pickets minority meeting

By Antoinette Haycs
Staff Writer

A member of a state committee devoted to the concerns of minority students joined about 150 protesters during the committee's conference Thursday night in the Student Center.

The conference was aimed at increasing the retention level among minorities college students.

The protest was the second rally this month sponsored by the Black American Studies Association. Both rallies were aimed at putting pressure on administrators to meet proposals set by BASA.

Ray Adkins, a member of the Illinois Committee on Black Concerns in Higher Education from Lewis University, said he joined protesters because he feels a strong program like Black American Studies is needed on all college campuses.

Adkin carried a protest sign and walked along with students as they formed a single line and walked past the Old Main Room where President John C. Guyon and his wife were scheduled to play host to the conference.

The protest started in the front of the Student Center. Members of BASA spoke to the protesters about results of an attempt to meet with President Guyon concerning the BAS program.

Members of BASA have met with Seymour Bryson, dean of the College of Human Resources, but they haven't met with Guyon to discuss the group's proposals.

Sharon Meeks, a member of BASA, said even though the group has met with Bryson, his remarks are inconsistent. She said Bryson "did nothing but stall the group during the meeting."

Alliance wins top USO posts

By Susan Curtis
Staff Writer

Alliance Party presidential candidate Bill Hall and vice presidential candidate Larvester Gaither won the Undergraduate Student Organization election with 798 votes.

They were followed by Stand Party candidates Cindy Schnaitmann and Stephanie Bedinger with 568 votes and Phoenix Party candidates Chuck Hagerman and Nick Basil with 465 votes, USO election commissioner Damon Mathis said.

The referendum for a $1 fee to support the Illinois Student Association passed with 1,165 votes.

Ballots cast for the election of senators and other referendums will not be counted until today, Mathis said.

Mathis said 1,831 undergraduate students voted in the election. Only 808 students voted in last year's election.

Hall said a large number of international students voted in the election.

Many of them thought they couldn't vote because they weren't American, he said. Hall told them they could vote and informed them there were international students running on the Alliance Party ticket.

John Attard, current USO president, said the candidates did an excellent job of getting people to vote.

Attard said he thinks the new president and vice president will do a good job. "Bill (Hall) is very well-qualified and Larvester (Gaither) has the tenacity to run the senate meetings as vice president," he said.

Hall said he had no set expectations for the election and is "still somewhat surprised at winning."

Hall said the fact that a large number of students didn't vote for the Alliance Party tells him that students have concerns that the Phoenix and Stand party leaders can work with.

Soviets, Afghans sign peace accord

GENEVA (UPI) — Envoys from the United States, Soviet Union, Pakistan and Afghanistan signed an accord Thursday committing the Soviets to withdrawing their 115,000 troops from Afghanistan and a war they were unable to win.

The agreement, which commits Moscow to a withdrawal of troops beginning May 15, did not, however, provide for any truce between the warring Afghan factions or an end to U.S. and Soviet supplies of weapons to the two sides, drawing warnings more bloodshed was ahead.

After a signing ceremony at the European headquarters of the United Nations, U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze both declared their countries would continue respective arms shipments to U.S.-supported Afghan rebels, who were not a party to the accords, and the Soviet-backed communist regime in Kabul.

A senior American official described the accords reached after six years of U.N.-mediated negotiations as "a figleaf to cover the Soviet pullout, something they were going to do anyway" to end Moscow's direct involvement in a war that has been compared to the U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

The Afghan war has cost an estimated 20,000 Soviet lives and those of another 1 million Afghans since the late 1979 Soviet invasion.

At the end of the 11-minute ceremony for the signing of four major documents and a memorandum making up the accord, Shultz shook hands with U.N. mediator Diego Cordovez and said, "Well done." Afghan Foreign Minister Abdul Weakil and Pakistani Minister of State Zain Noorani stared stonily at each other without speaking.

Shultz and Shevardnadze later met privately as part of preparations for the late May summit between Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev and President Reagan, who with past U.S. presidents had long denounced the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan as a main stumbling block to better

Two Arab protesters die in clashes with Israelis

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Two Arab protesters were killed Thursday during clashes with Israeli soldiers and the military's chief of staff said Palestinians in the West Bank and Gaza Strip were beginning to realize rioting would not win them a homeland. The un-rest came as thousands of Israelis mourned the 6 million Jews killed in the holocaust during World War II, flying flags at half-staff, shuttering shops and attending memorial services to recite prayers for the dead.

Underwater explosion damages U.S. frigate

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — An underwater explosion possibly caused by a mine damaged a U.S. Navy frigate and wounded 10 sailors Thursday in the worst incident involving an American warship in the Persian Gulf since the Iraqi missile attack on the USS Stark 11 months ago. In Washington, Pentagon spokesman Dan Howard said the explosion hit the USS Samuel B. Roberts at 9:10 a.m. as it cruised about 70 miles east of the island of Bahrain after escorting a re-flagged Kuwaiti tanker through the war-stricken waterway.

U.S. soldiers searching Panamanian jungle

PANAMA CITY, Panama (UPI) — American soldiers continued a sweep Thursday of dense jungle surrounding a strategic fuel depot where U.S. Marines Tuesday night reported exchanging fire with a group of armed intruders, U.S. military officials said. Panamanian officials, including military and civilian spokesmen, Thursday ridiculed U.S. concern over the incident, calling it a "pretext to justify a climate of war which they have presented to other countries."

Car bomb kills U.S. sailor, 4 others in Italy

NAPLES, Italy (UPI) — An explosion apparently caused by a car bomb ripped through a USO club crowded with U.S. servicemen Thursday night, killing five people, including an American sailor, and wounding 17 others, officials said. Because the attack came two years to the date after the U.S. air raid on Libya, police said they were investigating a possible Libyan connection. No one claimed responsibility in the hours immediately after the blast.

Senate passes $1.1 trillion budget proposal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate passed a $1.1 trillion budget proposal Thursday, tacking on extra money for the campaign against drug abuse but turning aside all other bids to rearrange government spending priorities. Senators voted 69 to 26 in favor of the fiscal 1989 spending blueprint, which would establish guidelines for government appropriations bills to be drawn up over the next few months for the year that begins Oct. 1.

Victims of raid on Libya suing Reagan, others

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former Attorney General Ramsey Clark is suing President Reagan, British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and others for up to $100 million on behalf of victims of the 1986 U.S. bombing of Libya, he announced Thursday. The suit, filed Wednesday in U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia, seeks between $75 million and $100 million in damages for "55 men, women and children, all civilians, who were killed or injured in the U.S. bombing of Libya on April 14 to 15, 1986," court documents said.

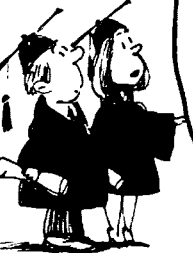

Mecham argues alleged church mission deal

PHOENIX (UPI) — Ousted Gov. Evan Mecham said Thursday he was "flabbergasted" by claims his lawyers sought a deal with state prosecutors to drop his felony case if Mecham would leave Arizona on a two-year Mormon Church mission. Mecham, removed from office by his conviction by a Senate impeachment trial, denied any wrongdoing and said he would never agree to such a proposal.

Group to keep fighting for removal of mayor

DENVER (UPI) — Opponents of Mayor Federico Pena Thursday refused to abandon their effort to remove him from office, but a lawyer for the city's election commission declared the recall over. The Metropolitan Action Committee came up more than 2,000 signatures short by Wednesday's deadline to produce the required 39,091 supporters to force a recall election. But at a brief news conference on the steps of the City and County Building, leaders of the group pledged to continue their fight.

Trustees OK new computer system

Medical, attorney fees increased for fall semester

By Curtis Winston
Staff Writer

SPRINGFIELD — Plans for a new $2.8 million computer system that will nearly double the University's computing capacity were approved by the Board of Trustees Thursday.

Thomas C. Britton, vice chancellor for administration, said the new system is expected to be installed and working by the the fall semester.

The new computer will upgrade the existing system located in the Wham Building. Memory storage capacity will be increased by 43 percent and response time will be quicker, Britton said.

The total cost of the computer hardware and software package is $4.5 million, with finance charges of 6.9 percent.

YEARLY PAYMENTS of $889,418 will be made until September 1992. About $1 million of that amount is owed on an existing contract for older equipment.

The current computer will be "pushed off the mountain" because maintenance costs to keep it would be prohibitive, Britton said.

Increases in student medical and attorney fees also were approved by the board.

Medical benefit fees will go up $9 for the fall and spring semesters and $5.50 for the summer semester. Students will now pay $35.50 for fall and spring coverage and $23.75 for the summer.

STUDENTS AT the Springfield medical school will be exempt from the increase. Instead, their rates will be reduced to make up for a bookkeeping oversight that occurred when the school changed insurance programs in fall 1986.

The medical students also will receive a refund of fees from fall 1986 until this semester for medical benefits they do not receive. The students' fall and spring fees will drop from $50 to $39.50.

Another increase discussed by the board's finance committee is a $2,040 training fee hike for flight courses offered by the SIU-C Air Institute and Service at Southern Illinois Airport.

The summer fee will be lowered from $30 to $23.75.

The student attorney fee will be increased by 35 cents. The increase is needed to provide for additional graduate assistant staffing to cover the current load of cases. The program has not had an increase since fall 1984, when the fee was increased to $2.

ANOTHER INCREASE discussed by the board's finance committee is a $2,040 training fee hike for flight courses offered by the SIU-C Air Institute and Service at Southern Illinois Airport. The proposed increase appeared as a notice item on the agenda and will be voted on by the board next month.

In other action, the board: — Approved $350,000 to supplement funding for the construction of an addition to the School of Medicine laboratory. The medical school will occupy half of the lab facility. The other half will be shared by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency and the Illinois Department of Public Health.

The addition's total cost is estimated to be $3.3 million, which is $700,000 over its $2.6 million projected budget. The money from the University will cover its 50 percent share of cost overruns.

— Endorsed the establishment of the department of industrial engineering and the department of construction in the SIU-E School of Engineering. SIU-E officials said the new departments have been anticipated since its School of Engineering was created in 1983.

Teacher's appeal rejected

By John Baldwin
Staff Writer

SPRINGFIELD — The Board of Trustees on Thursday denied a request for appeal of a grievance from Fannie Jones. The denial may provoke a law suit.

Jones was a project specialist and teacher's aide for the child development program at SIU-Edwardsville's East St. Louis Center. Following two complaints about her disciplinary methods, Jones was suspended June 12, 1987 with pay. Her contract, which expired June 30, was not renewed.

Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit said he saw nothing wrong with Jones' dismissal.

Jones claims the complaints about her disciplinary methods were unfounded.

Pettit: Students paying more of SIU budget

By John Baldwin
Staff Writer

SPRINGFIELD — Students gradually have been asked to pay for a larger portion of the SIU budget over the past 10 years, Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit said Thursday.

The portion of the SIU budget that has come from the state has decreased from 59.2 percent to 47.3 percent in the past 10 years. Tuition money accounted for 14.7 percent of the budget this year, compared to 9.3 percent 10 years ago, Pettit said.

Harris Rowe, chairman of the Board of Trustees, said: "The students and the University have done their part. The state needs to do its part."

Rowe said state legislators will need to make a tax increase proposal soon.

"If they wait until they come back after the election in November, that won't do much good this year," he said. For a tax increase to boost state funding for higher education this year, an increase would need to be passed by June, the end of the current legislative session.

Pettit said he was getting mostly positive responses about a tax increase from citizens groups. He also said he was getting "sympathetic" responses from state legislators.

SIU-Edwardsville President Earl E. Lazerson said he didn't think the poor student turnout at a statehouse rally Wednesday will have an impact on whether there is a tax increase.

"The (student) efforts in Springfield have not been a very potent weapon," he said.

Pettit has been working for a tax increase to supplement state funding for higher education. State universities are facing no increase in funds next year unless a tax increase is approved by the Legislature.

Pettit has not indicated the specific tax increase he is seeking. Several local legislators have said they would support a 0.5 percent income tax increase.

Gov. James R. Thompson has suggested making an increase in income tax part of a package with a gasoline tax. Legislators, however, have indicated they would be less inclined to support such a package because a gasoline tax has little relation to human services.

Thompson supports such a package deal because he fear a gasoline tax would fail if it stood alone.

State funding for higher education is 4-percent less than the 1987 funding.

Pettit has said even no increase in state funding would result in a "retrenchment budget" because of inflation.

Create more jobs, help the homeless

STATE SEN. GLENN Poshard, D-Carterville, has a plan that should help solve two problems in Southern Illinois — unemployment and the plight of the homeless.

Poshard has proposed harvesting timber in the Shawnee National Forest to build two-room homes at a price affordable to low-income families. The timber in question was planted during Franklin D. Roosevelt's administration, and will be practically useless in about 10 years. The Forestry Service is encouraging the harvest so the reforestation process can begin.

Wood currently is being harvested in the forest, but much of it is being shipped out of state for processing. The question Poshard asks is "Why ship it out of state when Southern Illinois could develop a processing industry and put locals to work?"

THIS QUESTION SHOULD be answered with action, both for the sake of the homeless and the unemployed. A feasibility study is underway to determine if there's a market for the homes in cities a day's drive or less from Southern Illinois. Memphis, Louisville, St. Louis and Chicago — all cities with sizeable homeless populations to contend with — are among the markets being considered.

The homes would have one bedroom, a combination kitchen and living room and a bathroom. Although the homes would be small, it would be better than the touch and go situations with which many are faced.

But while the study continues, the homeless live on, hand to mouth, in church basements, shelters, even in tents or parks. Johnson's Great Society proved that vertical building and tenement housing aren't the answer. The Pruitt-Igoe project in St. Louis is a prime example. Within a year of relocating there, the dwellers had trashed the place. Drug dealing, crime and unsanitary conditions prevailed.

THE ANSWER IS individual ownership. If people are paying toward ownership of their homes, even a temporary one, — instead of renting or being given a free ride — they'll have a personal interest in the upkeep.

Large cities spend vast amounts of money each year subsidizing slumlord to house low-income workers. Why do this when an affordable housing plan can be implemented, at less cost than subsidization to cities and with more benefits for the economically deprived?

Initial estimates place the monthly payments around $75. Someone working 40 hours per week for the minimum wage should be able to afford that amount. We just hope they get the chance — and that Southern Illinois workers get the chance to mass produce the homes.

Postal service still quite a bargain

I was angered after reading the editorial on March 30 concerning the postal rate boost. I think you folks jumped the gun without doing some research. There are a few things that need to be explained.

First, what's the big deal with paying an extra 3 cents per letter? How many people out there have a jar full of pennies on their desk or counter? How many of us could find at least 3 cents embedded beneath the cushions of our sofa, or underneath the driver's seat of our car? Will it really break anyone's back to shell out 3 cents more per letter? I doubt it.

But what do we get for that extra 3 cents, you ask? Well, you get quality handling of your mail. Last summer I worked as a U.S. mail carrier and learned firsthand that it is not an easy job. Forty-pound bags that break the shoulder. Ninety-five degree heat that makes the body melt. Fluffy, the killer poodle, whose owners say: "Oh, she won't bite." Apartment cluster boxes and curbside mail boxes replete with sharp, rusty corners, promising to give any mail carrier tetanus. The list goes on and on.

According to my employer, the rate increase will help pay for, among other things, the replacement of our aging Jeep fleet. Everyone sees them. But the next time you see one, inspect it closely. You will notice that it's rusty, runs rather loudly, handles erratically, has turn signals and horns that seldom work, windows that don't roll down, etc. My carrier supervisor said they stopped making mail Jeeps in 1978. He also said that our fleet of vehicles is to be replaced every eight years. Hmmm.

In other words, the U.S. Postal Service has mediocre vehicles that are being spread very thinly until their replacements arrive. Some have arrived in the form of LLV's (Long Life Vehicles). These cost money — lots of it. Without these new vehicles, Joe Mailperson is at an increased risk of having an accident because of faulty equipment. Mail carriers need and deserve these new vehicles. At 3 cents a letter, it's a veritable bargain.

Finally, after participating in and seeing the inner workings of the U.S. Postal Service, I've concluded that it really is well managed. When at least 1,000,000 pieces of mail are handled per day, with a delivery accuracy rate of 99 percent, some excellent management skills are present. After all, the U.S. Postal Service is by far the biggest of its kind in the world. And let's face it, we get great service for our money. Sure, we probably know of an instance of improper delivery, but this is truly the vast minority. We get our mail in due time.

The mail carriers work hard for their paychecks, paid primarily through the purchase of stamps. An extra 3 cents is going to help them do their jobs better by providing them with safer equipment. Mail delivery is a thankless job. Help make their job easier. Say "Thank You." — David A. Bertellotti, sophomore, aviation

University should offer wellness program

SIU-C should follow the lead of the business world, where it has been shown that employee health promotion and wellness programs save money for the employer.

Two pilot SIU-C programs, one conducted last year among "white collar" workers and the one currently under way with Physical Plant employees, should be expanded to include all University employees at a very early date.

SIU-C workers encouraged to pursue a healthy lifestyle would use less sick time, would be more productive, and would cost the Personnel Department less in insurance benefits.

Morale among University employees, at a low point now with the specter of no salary raises and increased work loads, is predicted by our supervisors to dip even lower as budget cuts make more cutbacks necessary. This drop in morale could be counteracted to a large extent by a health promotion and wellness program for academic, administrative, professional and civil service staff.

A reallocation of resources to provide such a program could take advantage of and expand existing campus resources such as the Wellness Center and the Recreation Center, and could provide practical experience for SIU-C students in health-related fields. It would, in the end, save the University money and provide better service to students. — Vera Felts, word processing supervisor, School of Law

The boat skims through the water of Crab Orchard Lake.

"Watch your head," says Pat Brewer, sailing club vice-commodore, as the main boom swings to starboard.

I scramble to the other side of the boat to counter Pat's weight, ducking my head as the boom whips past me. The wind settles for a moment, then catches, filling the main sail and propelling our boat west.

It's time for all three parties to join and work for the students, he said.

He said one of his first concerns is to significantly enlarge the USO staff. This will require increased space for offices, he added.

There is enough work to keep everyone busy even if the staff were to be tripled or quadrupled, Hall said. He's also considering new ways to recruit students for more positions.

Hall speculated that the goal the Alliance Party had set to increase financial aid available to students is one reason so many people voted for them.

Students can expect to see increased cooperation from the University, the Illinois State Scholarship Commission and the Department of Education Office of Financial Assistance, Hall said.

Hall said he was pleased with student support of the student association fee.

"I believe one of the reasons students support the ISA fee and are willing to sacrifice and invest money into the organization is because they know the ISA can give us a return in the form of financial aid," he said.

Police Blotter

Kenneth Patterson, 21, of 602 N. Marion St. was arrested and charged with burglary Thursday. He was taken to Jackson County Jail. Bond was set at $10,000, police said.

Police said Steven R. Sassi, a junior pre-major, returned to his residence at 310 W. Sycamore while Patterson was allegedly committing the burglary. Patterson allegedly fled on foot but was identified by Sassi, police said.

SIU-C Security police officers discovered two vandalized cars parked at a lot on Wall Street east of University Park Thursday morning, police reports said.

Cars belonging to University students Harold Clemens, 19, of Felts Hall, and Brian Holtz, 19, of Wright II, had broken windows and dents on the doors, police said.

Stereo equipment of unknown value was stolen.

Five state colleges raise fees

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — The Board of Governors Thursday raised housing and student fees at its five colleges for the 1988-89 school year.

The approved plan did not include a tuition increase, but officials warned there could be one if the Legislature does not hike the income tax to provide more funds for education.

"I think if there's no tax increase we're going to be back to the board asking to increase tuition," said Thomas Layzell, the board's chancellor.

The board's action means students living in dormitories at Eastern Illinois University will pay $2,388 for housing next year — up $88 from this year. Individuals living in smaller university apartments will pay $201 monthly, up $8 and larger apartments will go for $217 per month, up $9.

Western Illinois University students will pay $2,445 annually for dorm rooms — up $60. Individuals with small university apartments will pay $215 per month, up $5 and those with larger apartments will pay $280, up $3 per month. Officials from both universities said the increases were necessary due to higher food, utility and employee costs.

EIU students also will pay $481.70 in student fees next year — up $42.70 this year. Students will pay $78, up $13.50 for health insurance and $110 for textbook rental, a $24 hike.

WIU students will dole out $459 for student fees, up $23 including increases for health insurance and the health center.

Students at Northeastern Illinois University will pay $305.80 for student fees, with the majority of the hike — $42.20 — to pay for increased health insurance costs.

Hijackers release one hostage, continue to make same demands

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI) — Hijackers holding a Kuwait Airways jumbo jet released one of their 32 hostages Thursday, the 10th day of an ordeal in which the terrorists threatened to kill their captives unless the Persian Gulf sheikdom met their demands.

However, a deal to free two of the three members of the Kuwaiti royal family aboard the Boeing 747 jumbo jet fell through at the last minute, witnesses and Algerian sources said.

The freed hostage was identified by Algerian officials as Jamal Abdallah Al Zaki, 50. He was taken by a security van to the VIP lounge at Algiers airport at 3:45 p.m.

The release came about two hours after an Algerian negotiator spent 27 minutes in the plane talking to the hijackers.

"I am tired but, thank God, I'm fine," Al Zaki told reporters. He appeared haggard and unshaven and wore glasses and traditional white Kuwaiti robes.

Initially, witnesses said they believed the man was Fadhel Al Sabah, 33, a member of the Kuwaiti royal family. But sources close to Algerian mediators later said those reports were not correct.

They said the hijackers at one point offered to release two of the three Kuwaiti royal family members on board, but the hostages had refused to go unless all three were freed.

Earlier, the hijackers had forced one hostage to appeal for their demands to be met, saying, "If not, they will execute us all."

In unusual signs of cooperation, the air pirates had taxied the jetliner away from in front of the control tower at Houari Boumediene International Airport to avoid interfering with the state visit of Zambian President Kenneth Kaunda and later allowed a doctor and cleaners to board the plane.

"Their morale is low," Dr. Mehdi Yousef said of the hostages after emerging from the plane. "They are tired. But physically they are in good condition."

The hijackers, their precise number and identification unknown publicly, seized the plane April 5 during a non-stop flight from Bangkok, Thailand, to Kuwait, demanding Kuwait release 17 Moslem extremist prisoners. The jumbo jet arrived in Algiers Wednesday from Larnaca, Cyprus, where it landed April 8.

Two of the passengers, Kuwaiti nationals, were killed after Kuwait refused repeatedly to meet the terrorists' demands but 13 others were released in Cyprus.

Yousef said he examined five or six "obviously worn-down" elderly captives and one crewman who requested attention, ordering antibiotics, cough medicine and aspirin be sent to the plane.

"I saw no sign of any illness requiring hospitalization or any major medication," the doctor said. "I find them satisfactory."

The jet later moved back to its original position about 400 yards in front of the terminal.

As negotiations with the hijackers went into their second day, Algerian authorities imposed a news blackout on the talks.

U.S.-Soviet relations.

The accord covered a bilateral Afghan-Pakistani agreement to respect each other's "sovereignty, political independence and territorial integrity," U.S.-Soviet guarantees return of Afghan refugees, and a Soviet withdrawal, and U.N. monitoring.

Pakistan has funneled arms to the Moslem guerrillas and shelters millions of Afghan refugees. But Iran, which also has been supplying the rebels with aid and sheltering Afghan refugees, did not participate in either the talks or the final agreement.

The provision on a Soviet withdrawal, completed only in the last two months, said, "In accordance with the time-frame agreed upon between the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the Republic of Afghanistan there will be a phased withdrawal of the foreign troops which will start on the date of entry into force mentioned above (May 15)."

"One half of the troops will be withdrawn by 15 August 1988 and the withdrawal of all troops will be completed within nine months."

In a document signed by the United States and Soviet Union only, the two countries expressed support for the settlement and said they would "undertake to invariably refrain from any form of interference and intervention in the internal affairs of the Republic of Afghanistan."

Shultz and Shevardnadze called the agreement "historic," with Shevardnadze saying the accords were made possible by "a new political thinking" under Gorbachev, who has put forth sweeping economic and social reforms aimed at opening Soviet society and reviving a stagnant economy.

"The Afghan people can now determine their own destiny for themselves on the basis of national reconciliation and unification of all patriotic forces," Shevardnadze said.

Shevardnadze also said, "Arms supplies are not directly covered by the agreement" and that Soviet deliveries to Kabul forces were "on a legitimate basis."

Shultz said Washington would stop its deliveries only if Moscow did the same.

"As far as we can see there is nothing in this (agreement) that specifically restricts the United States in any way and so we assert that right," he said.

The agreement would, on paper, prevent the continued presence of Afghan Moslem bases in Pakistan as well as further U.S. arms deliveries to the rebels via Pakistan. But it referred to "terrorists," "saboteurs" and "subversive agents" rather than to sides in a civil war, which is the case in Afghanistan.

On state-run Kabul Radio, Afghan President Najibullah, a former secret police chief, thanked the United States and Pakistan for cooperating in forging the accords, saying "The Afghan people rejoice."

In Islamabad, Pakistani President Mohammad Zia ul-Haq said Afghan guerrillas will continue fighting, hinted U.S. weapons will continue to reach the resistance through Pakistan and warned of "trouble and turmoil" because of Moscow's "stubborn" refusal to negotiate an interim government during a Soviet withdrawal.

taxation, it's opposed to the way the money is being allocated. The governor says there's going to be an increase in state wealth, but that we are not giving any of it to education.

"The state chamber is saying that if the governor better allocated money that we wouldn't need a (tax) increase. That is true," he said.

"But I do not live in that world."

The state chamber is not looking at the situation realistically, Prowell said.

A one-half percent income tax increase, which about 65 percent of Southern Illinoisians favor, is the best way for education to receive more money, he said.

About 600 tickets are available for James Dapogny's Chicago Jazz Band performance at 8 tonight at Shryock Auditorium.

James Dapogny, who played with jazz legends while growing up in Chicago, carries on musical traditions set by Ferdinand "Jelly Roll" Morton, Louis Armstrong, Fats Waller, Benny Goodman and Duke Ellington.

The eight-piece band specialize in highly-spirited, traditional jazz, with emphasis on New Orleans and Chicago Ragtime from the 1920s and Swing from the '30s and '40s.

The group was nominated in 1983 for a Grammy Award in the traditional blues category. Their recording — "Sippie," featuring Sippie Wallace and Bonnie Raitt — was chosen record of the month and nominated album of the year by Stereo Review magazine.

Other album releases include "Back Home in Illinois," "James Dapogny's Chicago Jazz Band" and "Piano Music of Ferdinand 'Jelly Roll' Morton." The music of "Jelly Roll" Morton will be featured in tonight's performance.

New School to exhibit art by children

By Dena Schulte
Staff Writer

Carbondale school children have their brushes and paints ready for the second annual Community Art Exhibit at the Carbondale New School.

Their works will be displayed from April 18 to 22 at the New School on Pleasant Hill Road.

A reception will be held at 8:30 p.m. April 18.

The exhibit will include drawings, paintings and pottery, Debbie Allen, first and second grade teacher, said.

"There's a little of just about everything," she said. "Some students worked on their projects for a day; others worked on them for about a month."

Prizes will be given to winners in three categories: kindergarten to third grade, fourth to sixth grade and seventh to 12th grade, Allen said.

A first, second and third prize will be selected from the winners of each category, and all students will receive a ribbon for participating, she said.

The exhibit is open to all schoolchildren in the Carbondale area. Schools entered include, Murphysboro Junior High School and World of Oz Child Development, 611 E. College, she said.

The New School received about $650 for the exhibit and other artistic events from the Southern Illinois Arts and the Illinois Arts Council, Allen said.

The funds will be used to provide the prizes and materials for the art exhibit and for other events, including art displays at the spring SIUC Craft Show and a drama production in the fall, she said.

Feminist urges separate worlds

By Lisa Warns
Staff Writer

Women must create their own system rather than try to change the present one, Sonia Johnson, a visiting radical feminist, said.

Author of "Going Out of Our Minds: The Metaphysics of Liberation," Johnson was on campus to speak about the women's movement Thursday evening in the Student Center Auditorium.

The women's movement has become a revolution of women's thinking that has made women realize the need to assert their own independence, Johnson said.

"What women need to do is not to get men to change, but simply to do what we want to do ourselves," she said. "Women need to do what women need to do ourselves."

Johnson said her latest book is entitled "Going Out of Our Minds" because feminists are foregoing the traditional thinking that they need men's permission or approval of their actions, or that they need men to do things for them.

Acts of civil disobedience are not the answer for the women's movement, Johnson said. Women have tried civil disobedience and resistance but it has just made things worse, she added.

Johnson has taken part in countless incidents of civil disobedience since she became involved in the women's movement in 1980. She chained herself to the main entrance of the Republican National Headquarters in Washington,

Sonia Johnson

D.C. in 1980. In 1982 Johnson fasted for 37 days in Springfield to support the Equal Rights Amendment. She also has knelt in front of the White House to pray for the passage of the ERA.

In 1982 Johnson ran for the presidency of the National Organization for Women. In 1984 she was the first woman in the 20th century to run for the presidency of the United States in the general election. She proposed that women grow to lead themselves rather than looking for a leader.

"Nobody is boss," she said. "We (feminists) don't believe in hierarchies. No one can represent you but yourself and no one does."

Johnson now feels it is important for women to create a woman-oriented system separate from the current system, where she envisions there is peace.

"We have to (be separate) to make it (a new world), she said. "Once we pull out of this very bad marriage with the patriarchal state, there will be no hierarchal system."

"When men were under a mother goddess (in ancient Greece), they created their patriarchal world," Johnson said. "Men are using their laws to massacre women."

Women, she added, perform two-thirds of the world's work and get only one-tenth of the money.

"Now we are creating our own world," Johnson said. "We are going into something completely new. We are not focusing on economic details but on values."

Johnson is best known for her excommunication from the Mormon church in 1979.

Editor: Biggest threat to press is reporting on only official news

By Edward Rahe
Staff Writer

The biggest threat to the free press comes from journalists content with reporting only the "official news," Erwin Knoll, editor of a left-wing political magazine, said.

Knoll, editor of The Progressive, was the featured speaker at the SIU-C School of Journalism's annual banquet Thursday night.

Mainstream journalism reflects the worst aspects of society, Knoll said. The media act in self interest, he added. "They're (the media) businesses trying to turn a buck."

The idea of the objective reporter is a myth, Knoll said, adding that a reporter who watches events closely is bound to form opinions.

"To pretend we don't (have opinions) is a disservice to the public," he said.

Technology that creates hazards and government agencies that regulate businesses should be scrutinized closely, Knoll said. In the future, journalists will have to address problems such as those caused by industries that have been dumping toxic wastes for many decades, he added.

Reporters shouldn't be "immobilized by dread" when reporting on such issues, he said.

Knoll said he views the First Amendment as something that belongs to everyone, while many people in the media tend to think the First Amendment was written especially for their protection.

The Progressive gained national attention in November 1979 when it published an article that revealed the secret of building the hydrogen bomb.

The article originally had been set for publication April 1979, but a federal district judge issued a restraining order barring The Progressive from publication. On Sept. 28 the U.S. Seventh Court of Appeals vacated the injunction and the article was published in the November issue.

The Progressive responded at the time that it had not violated any acts or revealed classified information in its article.

Dog disrupts street's mail delivery

FORT WALTON BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Neither rain nor snow nor gloom of night will stop a mail carrier from his appointed rounds — but a big dog who doesn't like men in uniform could do the trick in the Florida Panhandle.

Postal officials said Thursday a German shepherd in a Fort Walton Beach neighborhood has chased or knocked down carriers four times this year. After the latest incident Tuesday, the dog owner — a policeman — was told mail would not be delivered to the address until the situation is resolved.

And more than one home may be affected, postal officials said.

Pat Rickard, supervisor of mail delivery in the Bay Drive area, said the mail carrier was told that if he sees the dog loose in the neighborhood he should not deliver mail in the area. She said that could affect up to 10 addresses.

"We notified the people that they need to restrain the animal. And we have gone so far as to talk to the gentleman's supervisor or boss in order to try to get the situation resolved," said Rickard. "As a last resort we are withholding the mail."

Rickard said the first incident occurred Jan. 14 and two other incidents occurred within a week. A newspaper reported that delivery was halted to 10 addresses Wednesday, but Rickard said the mail was later delivered to every address but the one with the dog.

"In one of the prior incidents, the dog knocked the carrier down and tore his shirt," said Rickard.

State delays start-up of health insurance plan

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — The state-backed health insurance plan for the sick, elderly and disabled will be postponed until at least Aug. 15 as the House Thursday gave final legislative approval to Gov. James R. Thompson's suggestion to delay the program until sufficient funding is assured.

The House voted 112 to 1 to accept the governor's amendatory veto postponing the start-up date of the Comprehensive Health Insurance Plan, which had been scheduled to begin April 1.

The Senate approved 54 to 4 Thompson's amendatory veto suggestion Wednesday, so the change now will become law.

"I think under the circumstances that is a wise decision," said Rep. Woods Bowman, D-Evanston, House sponsor of the bill (S688).

The delay in starting the program came after the Legislature did not appropriate $3 million needed to fund the program from April 1 to June 30, when the state's fiscal year 1988 ends. Thompson recommended the program not be started until fiscal 1989 funding, estimated as high as $30 million, was approved.

The CHIP program was designed to make health insurance available to the sick, elderly and disabled who have difficulty buying health care coverage or finding employment that offers health insurance.

The House action prompted one lawmaker to urge a thorough examination of the program during the spring

Legislative session.

"This plan needs a lot of work. I would like everybody to realize and think about most seriously the fact that this needs a lot of substantive revisions," said Rep. Thomas McCracken, R-Downers Grove. "We passed this very hastily at one time. It should be considered in full this session and I hope this is a step in that direction."

The House Judiciary Two Committee voted 9 to 0 to send the full House a measure (H3099) that would toughen penalties for crimes against severely mentally retarded adults. The bill would make 10 crimes ranging from kidnapping to pimping to sexual assault of retarded adults felony offenses as if the crimes were committed against children.

Severely retarded adults currently are protected under the law as other adults. But the bill would give retarded adults with IQs below 40 the same protection as children.

Uncle Sam paid in 126 work days

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The average American taxpayer will work 126 days this year — until May 5 — to pay income taxes, the Tax Foundation said Thursday. That's two days more than last year.

"This way of expressing the tax load is calculated on the assumption that, sooner or later, the American worker ultimately pays the total tax burden — including business taxes, which are passed on to individuals — in his or her capacity as an employee, proprietor or investor," the foundation said in its annual Tax Freedom Day count.

The group said the average American works from Jan. 1 through May 4 to furnish federal, state and local tax collectors with money to pay all taxes, if every cent earned during that period went for taxes.

"On May 5, Americans finally start working for themselves," the foundation said. "Put another way, it will take 126 days to satisfy the tax man this year, two days longer than were required last year."

Although Tax Freedom Day fell on May 4 last year, there is a two-day difference this year because of leap year.

The group said the U.S. taxpayer "has now lost all the ground gained through the major cuts of the Economic Recovery Act of 1981."

It added that since the 1981 act, "large revenue raisers in 1982, 1983 and 1984, plus the 1987 omnibus bill and the 1988 continuing resolution, have lopped off big chunks of the '71 cuts and Social Security hikes have made further inroads, until, like the Cheshire Cat in 'Alice in Wonderland,' nothing remains but the smile."

The foundation's May 5 Tax Freedom Day, the latest since 1955, compares to May 4 in 1987 and April 30 in both 1986 and 1985. The earliest Tax Freedom Day announced by the foundation was April 9 in 1955.

Since 1955, there were 11 days in May that were calculated to be Tax Freedom Days by the foundation.

The foundation also said in 1988, the average American worker "will spend 2 hours and 45 minutes on the job for the tax collector" in an 8-hour day, or 2 minutes more than in 1987 — the "largest tax bite since U.S. tax statistics began to be recorded early in this century."

Of that 2 hours and 45 minutes, the foundation said, 1 hour and 50 minutes goes to federal taxes and 55 minutes go to states and municipalities.

Jesus and Judgment

A SIU student recently described, in the Daily Egyptian, an incident that occurred during the Easter season in downtown Carbondale. The student reported seeing a group of "Jesus freaks" beating a bunny to dramatize their belief that the true spirit of Easter had been lost. Offended, he insisted that it had always been his impression that Easter celebrated Jesus' crucifixion and resurrection from the dead rather than bunnies, eggs and candy. The letter went on to say that group accompanied their demonstration with remarks of condemnation and promises of hell for all those in a downtown bar; and, his personal belief was that "if there is a God, he would tell his followers to be cool and make friends." (D.E. 4-8-88)

There is, most certainly, a God; and, Jesus Christ the Son of God was crucified and resurrected, a reason for celebration. And, in fact, Christ did instruct his followers as to their attitude toward others.

Christ instructed his disciples to demonstrate compassion, love and sincere concern as well as spreading the message of salvation by God's grace through faith in Jesus Christ.

Unfortunately, not all of his "followers" always heed his instructions or follow his example. At times the true spirit is lost even to them.

Christ, while on the road to the crucifixion and resurrection, was rejected by the people of a particular village. Appalled by the rejection of Jesus, two of his closest and dearest followers responded by asking Jesus if he would have them call down fire from heaven and destroy the villagers.

Jesus turned and rebuked them saying, "You do not know what kind of spirit you are of, for the Son of Man did not come to destroy men's lives, but to save them." (Lk. 9:55-56)

Unmistakably, condemnation and judgment are elements of the Easter message and can not be taken lightly by anyone. They are as real as the crucifixion and resurrection of Jesus; however, they must be communicated in their proper context.

It is because of the crucifixion and resurrection of Christ that an individual is able to avoid condemnation and judgment. They are, in part, the reason Christians celebrate Easter.

People sometimes wrongly portray Christ and Christianity; and, examples are blatantly evident. At times God's word and Christ, himself are the only source of a true portrayal.

The true spirit of Easter can best be described by Christ's own words, "For God so loved the world that he gave his one and only Son, that whoever believes in him shall not perish but have eternal life." (John 3:16)

Microbiology budget decreases; top teacher calls for more funds

By Richard Goldstein
Student Writer

In the past ten years, Michael T. Madigan, an associate professor of microbiology has seen money for lab materials in his department decrease by $10,000.

With the rise of inflation over the past decade, this translates into a 30-percent cut in department funding, Madigan said.

"Although teaching should be fun, it's very frustrating to teach at SIU because you're not given the proper resources for teaching. In terms of academics — we're slipping."

Strong sentiments. Even more so because they come from the College of Science Teacher of the Year.

"I am very honored by the award because I know that it reflects the feelings of students and my colleagues," Madigan said. But "getting yourself up for teaching with fewer, and fewer resources becomes harder every year."

A University of Wisconsin graduate, Madigan has been at SIU-C since 1979 studying the physiology and biochemistry of photosynthetic bacteria.

An articulate and genial man, he becomes animated when the subject of departmental funding comes up.

The point, Madigan said, is that the microbiology program is in trouble if more money doesn't come in from the University budget. What suffers most, he said, is the quality of instruction in undergraduate labs.

"Microbiology is an expensive discipline — agar (a medium used for growing microorganisms) costs $90 a pound."

Professor Donald R. Tindall, associate dean in the College of Science said the lack of a state budget increase for higher education has caused inflation to take even bigger bites from the University budget.

"The immediate future doesn't look good for state funding," Tindall said.

While Tindall acknowledged the inadequate funding of microbiology, he notes that the program has benefited from the hiring of two new faculty.

Microbiology is offering a new course next fall, biotechnology. It will not include a lab.

Department Chair Jack Parker said, half-jokingly: "It's biotechnology without the technology. Starting up a new lab is absolutely out of the question, we're really close to not being able to deliver our courses."

The department, Parker said, is getting to the point that it will be unable to offer adequate practical experience to prepare undergraduates for the job market.

Madigan is undergraduate adviser for microbiology as well as a retention and recruitment committee member for the College of Science. One of the committee's duties is to identify and recruit high school students who have science backgrounds.

What to do with them once they're here is a different matter.

"We have too many students (at SIU-C) in my opinion," Madigan said. "We should be more concerned with instructional quality than simply counting bodies."

For instance, there are 61 undergraduates in microbiology. Few more can be accommodated with present resources, Madigan said. "The equipment for teaching labs is unbelievably poor."

Parker talked about the state of affairs in the labs: "The electricity supply is a nightmare, you plug things in and circuit boxes blow up. We don't even have any money to fix the microscopes. The only renovation this department has had since I've been here (1977) is a door between Dr. Madigan's lab. Everything that gets fixed, gets fixed because of catastrophe."

On the outside of Madigan's office is a bulletin board with a memo written by Parker recounting the financial woes of the department, and warning that cuts will soon be made in the 400 level laboratories. Madigan has added his own comment in script — asking students to write their state representatives in support of a tax increase for next year.

"Hopefully, responsible funding will come from the state as of July 1 and we can then begin to upgrade academic programs," Madigan said. "Without more tax money, even the best academic programs, like microbiology, will find it impossible to compete with programs at comparable universities."

Maybe in another 10 years, Madigan adds, "there won't be a teacher of the year award."

Graduates name new president

Trudy Hale has been named president as the Graduate and Professional Student Council.

Hale, who ran unopposed, is a graduate student in political science.

The new vice president for graduate school affairs is Joseph Phillips, a doctoral candidate in rehabilitation, who ran unopposed.

Kim Vines, a graduate student in business and administration defeated Phil Lyons, graduate student in educational administration for vice president of administrative affairs. The vote was 15 to 11.

Study: AIDS cases rise by 58 percent

ATLANTA (UPI) — Federal health officials reported Thursday a 58 percent increase in the number of AIDS cases diagnosed in the last year but said it is impossible to estimate accurately how many people are infected with the virus that causes the fatal disease.

The national Centers for Disease Control's estimate of the total number of persons infected with the AIDS virus in the United States remained unchanged at 1 million to 1.5 million.

Health officials estimate the human immunodeficiency virus, or HIV, that causes AIDS can remain dormant for more than five years before it shows symptoms.

Homosexual and bisexual men, hemophiliacs and intravenous drug abusers continued to have the highest prevalence of HIV-1 infection, while males were more likely to have the virus than women. Blacks and Hispanic minorities also were more likely to have been exposed to the virus than other minorities and whites.

As of Thursday, a total of 58,355 AIDS cases had been reported and the disease had claimed 32,516 lives, the CDC said. In the past 12 months, 23,200 cases were reported, a 58 percent increase over the previous year.

But the CDC said AIDS cases increased at a slightly lower than anticipated rate in 1987, with the number actually 8 percent shy of the Public Health Service's estimate. The health agency attributed this to "less complete" and slower case reporting of AIDS.

"We haven't heard about all the cases diagnosed in '87 because there is a delay in the pipeline from the time of diagnosis until it is reported to the national agency," the CDC's Dr. Tim Dondero said.

The 416 children who contacted AIDS in the past year represented an 85 percent increase over the previous year and three-fourths of the infections occurred before birth.

Of all diagnosed AIDS cases, 68 percent were among bisexual and homosexual men, 19 percent among intravenous drug abusers and 4 percent among heterosexuals.

While 7.7 percent of every 10,000 Army personnel and 2.9 percent of 29,193 prisoners tested positive for HIV, the CDC said accurate estimates of the prevalence of HIV in the general population "are not possible at this time."

"More precise estimates are available only for certain subgroups of the general population such as blood donors and applicants for the military service," Dondero said.

"Short of testing everybody in the country, which is logistically, politically as well as economically impossible, you can't ever get a direct count of how much there is."

Effects of suicide examined

Cluster suicides believed to have 'contagious effect'

Reports of suicides committed simultaneously by two or more individuals in an apparent suicide pact are relatively rare.

ATLANTA (UPI) — Teenage suicides that occur in clusters or are committed in death pacts among two or more individuals are rare but appear to have a "contagious effect" on other young people, federal health officials said Thursday.

In its first study of "cluster suicides," the national Centers for Disease Control examined the case in New Jersey last year in which four teenagers locked themselves in a garage and sat in a car with a running engine until they died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Despite a significant increase in suicide prevention activities following the four deaths, two other youths attempted suicide in the same garage six days later.

"Reports of suicides committed simultaneously by two or more individuals in an apparent suicide pact are relatively rare," the CDC concluded from its investigation. "Suicide clusters in general — whether multiple simultaneous suicides or a series of suicides occurring close together in time and space — may account for no more than 1 percent to 5 percent of all youth suicides."

Nevertheless, the imitative patterns of some suicides and suicide attempts "suggest that suicide may have a contagious effect," the CDC study said.

The CDC's investigation found five additional similarities between the New Jersey suicides and various other cluster suicides in the United States. They were:

—Victims were teenagers or young adults.

—Other young people died of unnatural causes prior to the multiple suicides. Before the New Jersey cluster suicide, one of the victims had watched an 18-year-old friend fall off a cliff to his death.

—Suicide cluster caused anger, confusion and fear in the community and an urgent need to prevent other suicides.

—Community leaders felt media demands for information disrupted efforts to address the crisis.

—A coordinated community response was developed.

County seeks to close bathhouses

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — In an effort to stem the spread of AIDS, District Attorney Ira Reiner will try to close an undisclosed number of the county's 12 gay bathhouses by filing a public health suit, it was reported Thursday.

The Los Angeles Herald Examiner, citing a spokesman in the district attorney's office, said the suit will be filed within the next couple of weeks, culminating two months of undercover investigations coordinated by Reiner.

It would be the first legal action taken by the county against the bathhouses in nearly two years, despite widespread medical opinion that they constitute a health hazard.

All 12 bathhouses in the county are located within city limits. The establishments are noted for offering patrons a forum for anonymous sex with multiple partners.

In the past seven years, 2,722 deaths from AIDS have been recorded in the county.

San Francisco officials, who virtually closed all bathhouses in their city four years ago, said it is unconscionable that a dozen bathhouses still operate in Los Angeles County and take in an estimated 9,600 customers each week.

In 1986, the county's effort to close the bathhouses was dismissed by Superior Court Judge John Cole because of insufficient evidence.

Increasing funding for U of I new chancellor's primary goal

CHICAGO (UPI) — Dr. Morton Weir, who served as interim chancellor at the University of Illinois' Champaign-Urbana campus the past eight months, Thursday was named permanent chancellor by the university's Board of Trustees.

Weir, 53, was selected from a pool of 160 candidates who applied for the post following the June resignation of Thomas Everhart. His appointment was unanimously endorsed by the 10-member board, including its two student members.

Weir, who formally assumed the interim post Aug. 21 when Everhart left to become president of the California Institute of Technology, said his top goal would be to win increased funding for the state's largest public university.

"Illinois has shortchanged education at all levels for more than a decade — a trend that must be reversed if this state is to regain its former level of competitiveness in the global marketplace," he said.

"Investing in programs and facilities... has demonstrably produced dividends for the state several times over. Withholding such investments threatens our quality, our reputation and our ability to help the citizens of Illinois achieve the goals they have set for themselves."

Heading Weir's list of top-priority spending plans is a raise for the university's teachers and staff, who have worked without a salary increase for the past 20 months, he said.

Gov. James R. Thompson's budget plans for the state's public universities calls for no spending increases for education. But Thompson has said he could support higher spending if lawmakers approve some sort of tax-hike plan.

Weir, a professor of psychology, joined the university in 1960.

University president appointed

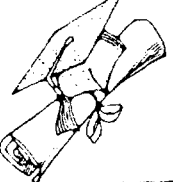

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — David Roselle was invested as University of Kentucky president Thursday as students cut classes to protest a racist remark by a trustee and the NCAA launched another probe into the basketball program.

Roselle, who has been president for more than a year but had delayed the ceremony celebrating his taking the job, pledged full cooperation with the investigation into the allegation that $1,000 in cash was found in a package shipped to the father of a Kentucky basketball recruit.

Last month Kentucky was reprimanded by the NCAA for failing to cooperate with an investigation into the Lexington Herald-Leader's Pulitzer Prize-winning series on cash gifts and other improper benefits given to basketball players at the school, which has won five NCAA national championships.

A walk-out of classes on the Lexington campus fizzled, with only about 100 students joining in a rally at the student center calling for the resignation of former Gov. A.B. "Happy" Chandler.

Chandler used the word "nigger" in a trustee meeting last week.

innings. "They have to go out and give us innings so we don't get into the bullpen too early," Champion said. "Lee Meyer has been strong. Campbell has shown he can give us up to 120 pitches. Dale's the same way." Champion said that McIntosh can not let playing first base affect him when it is his turn to pitch. "McIntosh is swinging the bat so well that he's going to play in the first three ballgames," he said. "Maybe that was one of the reasons he wasn't that effective in the fourth game at Illinois State. He's got to overcome that." Saluki pitchers will face a

Bradley offense that is fifth in the Valley with a .307 average. The Salukis top the conference with a .327 average. Catcher Tony Ardis (.377), outfielder Troy Guidotti (.362) and infielder Daren Epley (.337) lead Bradley in hitting. Infielder Brad Tilly (7 HRs) and Eric Kulman (6 HRs) provide the punch to a club which has hit 22 home runs in 26 games. The Braves prefer not to challenge opposing catchers on the base paths. They have stolen just 23 bases. Outfielder Bob Becker is the only threat with nine steals in 12 attempts. Right-handed pitchers Mike Boyan (3-1, 2.70 ERA) and Mark Borcharding (2-1 2.82 ERA) lead the staff that has a 4.54 ERA. Left-hander Brian Shouse (4-2, 4.44 ERA) has 31 strikeouts in 42 2-3 innings.

Other notes:

—Center fielder Doug Shields, who made his first pitching appearance of the year on Wednesday, made two appearances in his freshman season. In 4 1-3 innings last year, he allowed four runs on five hits.

It was not the first time Jones has converted an outfielder into a pitcher. He did the same thing with Dave Steib (drafted in 1978), who became a pitcher for the Toronto Blue Jays.

Two other former Salukis are currently in the majors. Jim Dwyer (1971) still is an outfielder for the Baltimore Orioles and outfielder Jim Adduci (1980) is in his first year as a member of the Milwaukee Brewers.

football coach March 24, filled five assistant coaching positions within eight days of his hiring.

Rhoades said last week that he had one candidate in mind and was simply waiting for him to talk it over with the school he is at currently.

Meanwhile, the Salukis will have a scrimmage from 9:30 a.m. to noon Saturday. The first week of spring drills has brought some surprises.

"We told everyone they could report to any position they wanted to the first day of practice," Rhoades said. Bill Leonhard did just that.

Leonhard, a 6-foot-2, 250-pound sophomore, has made the transition from defensive line to fullback.

"He (Leonhard) is working out good," Rhoades said. "He's had some great days and some days that were not so good. He has the physical attributions but he lacks the experience."

Offensive tackle Pete Jansons has successfully switched positions with Rob Mason, an offensive guard, Rhoades said.

"In our offensive scheme we simply believe that your biggest people should be at the guard positions," Rhoades said. "At 6-7 and 280, we believe Jansons is our man for that job."

The quarterback situation has changed drastically since last season. Fred Gibson is, "out in front right now," Rhoades said. Junior Kevin Brown, who was injured much of last season, has stopped going to practice.

"He just quit showing up," Rhoades said. "We wish he would have come in and talked to us about it, but that's his business. We wish him the best of luck."

Softball coach gives team day off before today's game

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Softball coach Kay Brechtelsbauer tried something unorthodox to prepare for this weekend's Gateway Conference doubleheaders against Indiana State and No. 9 Illinois State.

Instead of an intense practice session Thursday, Brechtelsbauer told her players to take the day off.

"We look tired, we are playing tired, we are just plain tired," Brechtelsbauer said. "We need a day off to rest."

The Salukis have not won both games of a doubleheader yet this season, something Brechtelsbauer was counting on getting Wednesday when the team ended up splitting with Evansville.

"We were at home, we should've come away with a double win," Brechtelsbauer said. "We're not making any moves, we're not going anywhere. If anything, we're slipping behind."

The Salukis are 18-13 overall and 2-4 in the conference. They are at Indiana State at 2 p.m. today and at Illinois State at noon Saturday.

—Kay Brechtelsbauer

"Sometimes at this time of the year the players need a time out," Brechtelsbauer said. "Maybe this will get more enthusiasm in them."

With Indiana State at 15-11 overall and third in the league standings at 3-1, Brechtelsbauer is counting on her team being pepped up by the time it arrives in Terre Haute, Ind.

Indiana State has shut out opponents seven times this season behind a trio of pitchers: freshman Deb Styx (5-4), freshman Kelly Mulcahy (3-3) and junior Mara Canary (7-4).

Freshman shortstop Connie Fiems leads the Sycamores with seven doubles and a .354 average. Senior second baseman Peg Boardman has a .294 average, but hit .368 in six games last week.

Pitching and a game-breaking offense has powered Illinois State to a 19-4 record and first in the conference standings at 2-0.

Former SIU-C pitcher Lori Day Shoemaker, a junior, heads the Illinois State staff with a 5-0 record and an 0.76 earned run average which ranks second in the conference behind Western Illinois' Brenda Heyl at 0.62.

Senior Lori Vogel is 11-3 and Linda Wendt is 3-1. At the plate, Dana Klug had three hits, three RBIs and scored two runs to help the Redbirds' past South west Missouri last week.

Illinois State has six players in the lineup hitting over .300, including Debbie Mattes at .328, Becky Barrigar at .328 and Kim Riddering at .323.

Women's basketball gets third signee

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Amy Horstman, a 6-foot-1 forward from La Crosse, Wis., signed with the women's basketball team Thursday.

Horstman joins a long list of players that Coach Cindy Scott has convinced to cross the Wisconsin-Illinois border. Former 1,000-point scorers Mary Berghuis and Ann Kattreh were from Wisconsin. Colleen Heimstead, who joined during the NCAA early signing period in November, is from Elk Mound, Wis.

"Wisconsin has been good to us," Scott said. "We've worked hard to get some of the state's top players, and it's paid off. Now, we've got another one headed our way."

Horstman is from Aquinas High School, which is in western Wisconsin. She is the third player in four years from that school to receive a basketball scholarship to a Division I school, following Karen Skemp (San Diego) and Paulette Stall (Louisiana Tech).

"Amy was our first 6-footer," Aquinas coach Mike Desmond said. "Not only does she have size, she's a great athlete with outstanding jumping ability and quickness. Coaches keep telling me she has much more potential."

Since making varsity her sophomore season, Horstman has helped Aquinas advance to the state tournament quarterfinals three years straight.

"Amy is a go-getter on the floor," Scott said. "She is a fierce competitor who has tremendous natural ability. She runs the floor like a guard and is an aggressive rebounder."

Horstman has a 3.7 grade point average and wants to study physical therapy. "She is a model student-athlete, her academic record is impeccable," Scott said.

Men's golf at Kentucky

The men's golf team competes at the Morehead State Eagle Golf Classic today and Saturday in Gilbertville, Ky.

Coach Lew Hartzog has Jeff Mullican, Bobby Pavelonis, Tom Neuman, Mike Cowen and Mark Bellas slated for team play.

Britt Pavelonis will play as an individual for SIU-C in the 54-hole tournament.

The team will play two rounds Friday and one round Saturday at the Kentucky Dam Village Golf Course.

Mullican shot a 230 that included two rounds in the 70s last weekend at Bradley.

Task force puts deadline on Ueberroth

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Angered at being "stiffed" by Commissioner Peter Ueberroth, a Senate task force Thursday threatened to strip baseball of its coveted antitrust shield if Ueberroth fails to produce a timetable on expansion.

Task force chairman Sen. Tim Wirth, D-Colo., demanded a meeting with Ueberroth "right away" and set the owners meeting during the July All-Star break as a deadline for a timetable on adding new teams to the 26-franchise major leagues. The action came after seven senators from the task force met for one hour with Major League Players Association Executive Director Donald Fehr.

Congress granted major league baseball a special exemption from federal antitrust laws in the 1920s, in effect allowing the sport to act as a monopoly. No other sports league has such protection, although the National Football League was conferred limited immunity from antitrust laws in the 1960s.

Ueberroth met with the Senate Task Force on the Expansion of Major League Baseball in November and Wirth said the commissioner promised to devise a timetable on expansion.

Burns said, "The basic skills, like ballhandling, aren't too tough to learn. But the more advanced skills, like developing good reactions, can be tough."

SIU-C's current team has several freshmen, which is good for the continuity of the program, Donovan said.

"The team we have now is competitive," he said. "Sometimes it hurts, (having only club status), because the guys don't think they have to be at practice all the time. This year's team is mostly freshmen, they're very dedicated."

One of those freshmen is Bob Guido, the team's goalie.

"I just love it, it's a great sport," Guido said. "It wasn't that hard to learn the game, especially playing goalie."

Guido, who learned of the team from current members, said that the group is like a family. "We go out together all the time, we all have a lot of fun together," he said.

Donovan added, "Most people who play the game fall in love with it."

Club's spirit is unsinkable

By Jeff Grieser
Staff Writer

What sport requires its participants to pass a ball back and forth, and ultimately, to throw it into a goal—in a pool?

It is an Olympic event. It is played at high school and college levels, including at SIU-C, but still is virtually unheard of.

What is it? It's water polo.

"It's very physical and challenging," club member Robert Burns said. "It's like basketball in the water, there's a lot of fast breaking."

The SIU-C water polo club, which has 12 members, often competes against teams from Big Ten schools.

Bill Donovan, a senior who has been a member of the club for four years, said the club travels a lot to play in tournaments.

"Those teams know each other so well and we have to get used to them, but we usually do well in the tournaments," Donovan said. "A lot of people are calling us now. It used to be hard to get anyone to play us. People hear we've turned our program around."

The University gives the club $300 a year to help pay for such things as tournament entry fees, which range from $35-$45. Donovan said the University also will match the amount brought in by a home tournament.

The club practices from 8 to 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday at the Recreation Center pool. The game is played in a pool 25 yards long, in an area about the size of the Rec Center diving well.

Teams are made up of six players, one of them a goalie. A match consists of four periods, each lasting six minutes. The basic format of water polo is similar to that of basketball and hockey: throw the ball into the opposing team's goal.

But, in water polo, there are certain unique rules. A player can use only one hand when controlling the ball. Two referees—above the water—call fouls for rules violations. A player is out of the game after committing three fouls.

Donovan said he started playing water polo in high school in Chicago. "I was a swimmer," he said. "After practice the coaches wanted us to stay around and play polo. After a while I started to like polo more than swimming." SIU-C club members agree that the ability to swim is essential, but that there is more to the game.

"You have to know how to swim, but a lot of the game is mental," Donovan said. "It gets really physical under the water. Guys go at each other

Salukis geared up for MVC

By Dave Miller
Staff Writer

With Bradley coming to town for a four-game weekend series, baseball coach Itchy Jones said the Salukis are on the verge of playing their best ball of the season.

"I really feel the excitement on the inside now that we're ready for this weekend," Jones said. "I'd be highly disappointed if we really don't play exceptionally well this weekend."

All six Missouri Valley teams go into this weekend's competition tied for first. The Salukis have won five of their last six games to give them a 21-12 record overall and a 2-2 mark in the Valley. Bradley entered the week with a 17-9 record.

The Salukis will send pitchers Dale Kisten (3-5, 4.40 ERA) and Lee Meyer (3-0, 1.00 ERA) against Bradley in Saturday's noon doubleheader. Rich Campbell (4-1, 3.36 ERA) and Cliff McIntosh (3-0, 5.04 ERA) will start games three and four on Sunday.

With Larry Beattie injured and the rest of the bullpen plagued by inconsistency, pitching coach Kirk Champion said the four starters must take the Salukis into the late

The final piece in Rick Rhoades' assistant coaching puzzle is about to be put into place.

Rhoades said Thursday that he expects to name the sixth and final assistant coach by Monday.

Cheryl Venorsky and Kim Johannsen of Belleville West signed national letters of intent Thursday to join the SIU-C softball team next fall.

"We are very fortunate to sign two outstanding players in Cheryl and Kim out of a very strong high school program," Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said.

The pair joins Dede Darnell of Carbondale High School and Jennifer Brown of John A. Logan College as SIU-C's recruits.

Belleville West is 5-0 this season under Coach Tom Ninnis, who led the 1986 squad to second in the state tournament.

"Both Cheryl and Kim are sound in all the fundamentals," Ninnis said. "They hit well, slide well and bunt well. Cheryl has a tremendous arm and has made a real good start defensively this season. Kim is a real team leader, she really pumps the team up and helps a great deal with the team's spirit."

Venorsky, the daughter of Edward and Judith Venorsky of Belleville, is a power-hitting shortstop. She holds single-season school records of 41 base hits, seven home runs, 20 extra-base hits and 46 runs batted in.

"She is a line-drive type hitter," Brechtelsbauer said. "She has very quick wrists and the ball jumps off the bat."

Johannsen, the daughter of Eric and Kathy Johannsen of Belleville, is a team co-captain batting .357 this season. She plays both second base and outfield.

Johannsen plans to major in secondary education while Venorsky wants to study criminal justice.
