USG hopefuls debate crime records

By Miguel Alba
Staff Writer

When the polls open on Wednesday, party leaders in the Undergraduate Student Government elections will speculate what effect a report on candidates' criminal records will have on the outcome of the race.

Of the 57 candidates running, six senatorial candidates have been convicted of criminal charges, four from the Progress Party and two from the First Party. The NeXT presidential and vice presidential party candidates also were convicted of criminal charges.

Brian Hawkins, the First Party vice presidential candidate, said a candidate's criminal background should influence student voting.

Hawkins said the nature of some of the charges against candidates reflects "a lack of responsibility" on their part.

Although Berlando Drake, convicted of disorderly conduct, and Robert Broz, convicted of underage possession of alcohol, are both running as senators under the First Party ticket, Hawkins said these particular convictions are "normal, everyday occurrences," and, in his opinion, were not offensive.

Brian Skinner, the NeXT Party presidential candidate and current USG chief of staff, said he did not think students would be influenced by the information and questioned the purpose of its publication.

Skinner plead guilty to one count of obstructing a police officer and two counts of driving while his license was suspended. Skinner said there were mitigating circumstances involved.

"Just because I made an error doesn't mean I don't have an interest in the student body," Skinner said. "We're talking about the past. Why should that keep someone from doing what they want to do if given the opportunity?"

Skinner said he believed he is a better candidate because he has learned from his mistake. "Everyone makes mistakes," he said.

Skinner said the conviction did not represent an inability to serve in the student government, adding that he is eligible to run as a candidate under USG constitutional rules.

Charles Hagerman, the NeXT Party vice presidential candidate and current chairman of the USG committee for internal affairs, was convicted of driving under the influence of alcohol.

"Students have a right to know. It's public information," Hagerman said. "It has to be taken into consideration, but it's up to each individual to decide."

Blood drive falls short of pint goal

By Wayne Wallace

Southern Illinois hospitals and blood banks will soon be 2,071 pints richer thanks to "SIU-C Gives," the University's spring blood drive held last week in the Student Center.

Although the University fell 429 pints short of its 2,500-pint goal, Vivian Ugent, blood drive coordinator, said she is pleased with the student turnout and the improved community attitude toward donating.

"And I want to give credit to the students on the blood drive committee who did an excellent job of promoting the idea that giving blood is fun," she said.

"Most blood drives are a somber occasion, with donors leaving there looking worried," Ugent said. "This campus does a marvelous job of creating a lighter atmosphere with the clowns and videos in the Winning attorney speaks on abortion

Sarah Weddington, winning attorney from the Roe vs. Wade case, said she believes Roe vs. Wade will be modified by the Supreme Court.

"There will never be a consensus on the issue (abortion)," Weddington said at a press conference Sunday at the Student Center.

"The legal question is who gets to make the final decision — the government or the state," she said. "There will always be public debate about the religious aspect, particularly of the issue of abortion."

"The Supreme Court could overturn Roe vs. Wade," Weddington said. "I frankly do not think that's the most likely scenario. Partially, because the court generally does not do 180-degree turns.

"They could uphold Roe vs. Wade, I would like to hope for that, and most honestly say I don't think that is the most likely scenario. And they could modify it, so they could say there is a right of privacy," Weddington said.

Although the Supreme Court may still support the right of privacy, stipulations may apply, she said. The court could say they believe in the spirit of the trimester approach, which also could give the state power to regulate abortion.

This would give the states more leeway, Weddington said.

An overturn or modification of Roe vs. Wade would take the issue back to the state

Library support group honors Gray for service

By Alicia Hill
Staff Writer

Former Congressman Kenneth J. Gray was honored Sunday by SIU-C's library support group for his years of public service and the gift of his papers and photographs to the library.

Gray was awarded the Friends of Morris Library Association's "Friends of the Friends Award" during the association's annual dinner at the Student Center.

Gray's gift comes in two parts, written and pictorial.

According to Gray, the written material includes an estimated 1.2 million papers of correspondence that Gray received during his 12 terms as Congressman of the 22nd Congressional District.

Included in this correspondence are over 27,000 letters from area coal miners in regard to the 1973 Black Lung Law that he established.

According to Kenneth Peterson, dean of library affairs, the papers will be widely used for historical

Four winners share largest lottery prize

CHICAGO (UPI) — Four players matched all six Lotto numbers and will share the record $68 million jackpot, Illinois State Lottery officials announced Sunday.

The winners' names will be announced as they come forward. Lottery director Sharon Sharp, said.

The winning Lotto numbers drawn Saturday night were 3, 14, 32, 40, 46, 54.

When the final figures are in, the grand prize could swell even higher to $69 million, Sharp said. The exact figure, however, will not be known until Monday, she said.

The size of the jackpot is tied by law to the volume of ticket sales — half of the money collected goes into the prize pool. The more tickets sold, the bigger the prize. The four winners will receive 20 annual installments of at least $662,000.

"We have to process more than 112 million numbers — and that's a lot of numbers," Sharp said.

Two of the winning tickets were sold in the Chicago metropolitan area and the other two winners were punched in Southern Illinois and the west central part of the state, Sharp said.

"The four players will receive approximately $17.5 million apiece," she said,

"which, of course, exceeded all of our dreams."

Sharp said it was unlikely any of the winners would come forward on Sunday. With all the excitement of the record prize, they could face a few roadblocks even if they tried.

In addition to the four grand prize winners, 1,220 players matched five of the six numbers to win 2,316.50 each and 73,452 hit four numbers and won $76.50.

Spanish ambassador killed; home bombed by artillery

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The Spanish ambassador's residence was hit in an artillery exchange between Moslem militias and Christian troops, killing the ambassador, two of his relatives and a bodyguard and wounding his wife and two children, police and hospital sources said. Police said at least 25 people were killed and 140 wounded Sunday, bringing the death toll for a month of fighting to more than 250.

Crisis tapers, curfew later in Soviet Georgia

MOSCOW (UPI) — Authorities shortened the curfew in Tbilisi by two hours Sunday and began removing troops from the Georgian capital in an easing of Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev's worst nationalist crisis since he came to power. The slow return to normalcy in the southern Caucasus republic came a week after 19 people were killed in a clash between Soviet security forces and Georgian nationalist demonstrators advocating independence from Moscow.

Poles remember Katyn massacre of officers

GDANSK, Poland (UPI) — Thousands of Poles attended a mass Sunday to mark the 49th anniversary of the massacre of 4,500 Polish officers believed to have been killed by Stalin's secret police in the Soviet forest of Katyn, and a pro-Solidarity priest urged worldwide condemnation of the slaughter. The Rev. Henryk Jankowski, priest to Solidarity trade union founder Lech Walesa, said Moscow should release documents dealing with the killing of a total of 15,000 Polish officers.

Earthquake measuring 6.7 rocks rural China

BELING (UPI) — A strong earthquake measuring 6.7 on the Richter scale rocked a remote mountain region of western China at dawn Sunday, collapsing dozens of homes and leaving at least four people dead, authorities said. The earthquake struck near Batang, a county town on an upper tributary of the Yantze River in western Sichuan province on its border with Tibet the State Seismological Bureau in Beijing reported. The quake was felt as far away as Litang, a town 70 miles to the east.

Afghan rebels stall supply trucks to Kabul

KABUL, Afghanistan (UPI) — Authorities said Sunday a Kuwaiti military adviser to Afghan guerrillas will be put on trial, and reported rebel blockades of the overland lifeline to the Soviet border stalled hundreds of trucks with supplies for Kabul for a third day. Mohammad Nabi Amani, a spokesman for the Soviet-backed government in Kabul, also reported continued fighting around the southern city of Kandahar and the eastern towns of Khost and Jalalabad near Pakistan.

Uruguay votes on military amnesty referendum

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (UPI) — Uruguayan voters Sunday considered a referendum on whether to repeal an amnesty covering about 180 officers suspected of torturing political prisoners in the 1970s and 1980s. Despite a light rainfall, long lines formed at polling booths in schools, movie theaters and public buildings in Montevideo, site of half the electorate. The referendum is a culmination of 21 months of effort, mainly by left-wing parties and relatives of prisoners who were tortured, killed or disappeared under military rule from 1973 to 1985.

Chinese plea for democracy during mourning

BELING (UPI) — Chinese students combined expressions of grief with calls for democracy Sunday, mourning the death of former Communist Party chief Hu Yaobang with black arm-bands, wreaths in Beijing's main square and poster tributes on city carapuses. Hu's death Saturday apparently has stirred some Chinese campuses more than at any time since nationwide student protests two years ago that led to Hu's ouster as general secretary of the Chinese Communist Party.

Groups, individuals pitch in to clean Carbondale

Local volunteer response better than in the past

By Jackie Spinner
Staff Writer

Community volunteers picked up 14,655 pounds of trash Saturday from Carbondale streets and lots as part of Carbondale Clean and Green's 2nd Annual Spring Clean-up in Turley Park.

Scout troops, sororities, fraternities, clubs and individuals topped last year's total of 2,231 pounds, while they enjoyed free hot dogs, soft drinks and frozen custard.

"We did a better job of getting the word out," Coordinator Jeanne Foster said.

"We really don't care about the competition. We're just happy to work with the other fraternities."

The more than 500 volunteers brought discarded auto parts, broken fans, and litter to Turley Park, where the trash was weighed and placed in a garbage truck.

Recyclable litter such as glass, newspaper and aluminum cans were separated into barrels painted with the recycling symbol for Clean and Green's Recycling Awareness Day.

Members of the Illinois National Guard provided transportation to the various

"It's terrific," Foster said. "I'm real pleased with the response."

Pi Kappa Alpha worker, Chas Russell, said the Greeks participated to "help out the community."

As an extra incentive, fraternities competed among each other to collect the most trash. "We don't really care about the competition," Russell said. "We're just happy to work with the other fraternities."

Pi Alpha Kappa collected the most trash, 3,921 pounds, to capture the campus collector category.

frats are out this year, things are going really good."

Carbondale Community High School freshmen Kelly Hoffmann and Erin Hickam helped collect garbage with the oceanography club.

"It's nice doing stuff for the environment," Hoffmann said.

Hickam added that young people should help out the community more often.

CCHS Environmentalists finished second in the community group category behind the Coordinated Youth Program, which collected 3,525 pounds.

Children enrolled in the Kids for Conservation program received a free tree seedling during the cleanup, along with children signing up for the program Saturday.

Band-Aid won't cure the ills of education

ALTHOUGH A TAX increase for the sake of education would be an unlikely gift from the state Legislature this year, there are two bills under consideration by the General Assembly that holds some hope for funding Illinois schools and universities on the one hand, and restraining the soaring tuition for higher education on the other.

"Fund Education First," a bill cosponsored by Sen. Jim Rea, D-Christopher, would require that at least 50 percent of new general revenue money would go to education each year. What this could mean for higher education is an additional $35.5 million next year.

If, that is, Gov. James R. Thompson's proposed tobacco tax increase passes and the revenues raised by this tax are as rosy as Thompson says.

The other piece of legislation is the Keane Bill which would tie tuition increases to the education price index. The Illinois Board of Higher Education said the index has hovered in the 4 percent range for the last three years.

THIS LAW would put an end to the huge tuition increases which Illinois universities have imposed on students over the last two years.

Under the direction of House Speaker Michael Madigan, D-Chicago, the House failed to consider Thompson's proposed income tax increase last year. And this year, as the governor proposes a politically safer tobacco tax, Madigan's spokesman signaled tentative disapproval of this tax as well as "Fund Education First" and the Keane Bill.

Pointing out that the Legislature scraped up enough money for a 7 percent faculty and staff pay raise last year without resorting to a tax increase, Steve Brown, Madigan's spokesman, said the budget should be "studied" to see if more money could be devoted to education.

Brown said "The governor, who likes to raise taxes, would come back at us with a (proposed income tax increase)."

IN OTHER WORDS, Madigan is afraid that if he gives Thompson an inch, the governor will ask for a mile. Apparently, higher education in Illinois is at the mercy of this sort of frivolous political consideration.

The fact that Illinois ranks near the bottom of the list for new state money for education seems not to bother Madigan, or the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, Madigan's only powerful ally in last year's tax increase battle.

Earlier this month, IBHE Director Richard D. Wagner said that "Fund Education First" would provide only half of the money that the board has requested for higher education, and while the bill would supply more money than Thompson's budget, money allocated for education would remain woefully low.

BUT NEITHER of these bills will pull higher education out of the downward spiral into which the Legislature has sent it. It seems that only an income tax increase could do that.

While "Fund Education First" would bring additional money to education this year, Brown noted that years in which the state has little or no additional revenues, the bill would require little or nothing for education funding.

And while the Keane bill might slow rising tuition costs, the down side is that if the Legislature continues its lukewarm support of higher education, public universities might be cut to pieces by administrators who are left with no where to turn for the money that fuels their institutions.

So while there is some good and bad in both of these bills, they are merely Band-Aids that might slow, but won't stop the blood that is pouring from the wounds of Illinois higher education. The bills cannot replace a substantial increase in subsidies from the state that would be supplied by a modest income tax increase.

Editorial Policies

Signed articles, including letters, viewpoints and other commentaries, reflect the opinions of their authors only. Unsigned editorials represent a consensus of the Daily Egyptian Editorial Board, whose members are the student editor-in-chief, the editorial page editor, the associate editorial page editor, a news staff member, the faculty managing editor and a School of Journalism faculty member.

Letters to the editor may be submitted by mail or directly to the editorial page editor, Room 1247, Communications Building. Letters should be typewritten and double spaced. All letters are subject to editing and will be limited to 500 words. Letters of fewer than 250 words will be given preference for publication. Students must identify themselves by class or J major, faculty members by rank and department, non-academic staff by position and department.

Letters submitted by mail should include the author's address and telephone number. Letters for which verification of authorship cannot be made will not be published.

DE should examine platforms

Well, well, I'm not the only one being persecuted for having a criminal record and running for office.

Another year has come for the student government elections and the DE has nothing better to write about than the criminal records of those seeking office. How petty can the DE be?

I would think that the DE would rather report about the lack of experience the candidates have, what they have done to help students, or the conflicts in the candidates platforms.

I figure that if the DE is going to be the first to put down a candidate for what they've done in the past then I shouldn't feel bad about giving my negative comments.

First, the First Party has no experience whatsoever to be considered for candidacy.

They say that none of the commissions are doing their jobs. Well what about the Mass Transit Committee? I suppose they've done nothing all year. If it weren't for those students involved in that committee then mass transit wouldn't be at the state and local government level that it is today.

The First Party has taken the idea of park and ride shuttle from the Mass Transit Committee's proposed system and used it on their platform. They have no idea of what the committee is doing with mass transit.

I know all the candidates are using mass transit as part of their platform and have no idea of what is happening except for what they read in the DE.

How do the NeXT and Progress parties propose to implement this mass transit system when they have had nothing to do with mass transit since its conception.

Mr. Hildebrand, how are you alone with your supposed connections going to get a tax increase to support educational funding? There have been two student protests to Springfield and you didn't participate in either one of them.

If anyone was smart enough to read the newspapers, they'd know that the Springfield legislators are already lobbying for an education funding increase.

If the Progressive Student Organization and Bill Hall couldn't convince the Board of Trustees to not raise tuition, how are you going to? I suppose you'd say you have connections there too? Why haven't you done anything yet?

On to Chuck Hagerman and his antics of a power control in the senate. Mr. Hagerman lost last year in the bid for the presidency, did not attend school this fall semester, jumped back into the spring semester, flaunted his supposed ability to use parliamentary procedure, took Juliana Taylor's place as chair of CIA, has stirred up several RSOs and is now running again. Are you trying to push your way into office?

Mr. Skinner has done his job as chief of staff to his fullest extent. If the other parties are blaming him for the lack of productivity from a few commissions then they should be blaming those apathetic individuals who were placed by Mr. Skinner.

The only ones who have done anything for the students in the past year are: John Grigas, chair of the academic affairs commission; Kwamee Lee, former chair of the financial committee; Kris Fabian, chair of the student welfare commission; and a member of the Mass Transit Committee, Drayton Roose; Bill and Susan Hall with financial aid and public relations; Matt Mongold, David Madlener, and myself with mass transit; Brian Skinner as chief of staff; and the student government secretaries.

Only two people who have done anything are running for office. Bill Hall and Brian Skinner. If I had to endorse any party at all, I'd endorse the NeXT Party for Brian's professionalism in filling the positions on the committees and commissions. — Marvin Tanner, sophomore, pre-law.

Heavy metal doesn't nurture intellect

I am writing this in response to an article that appeared in the April 7 issue of the DE. The letter, which was written by Mike Edwards, was a poor attempt to persuade SIU to sign more metal bands to play at the Arena.

First, I would like to state that this is the most assinine request I've ever heard. The last thing this school needs is to sign more high-schoolish bands with their screaming lyrics, which don't require any thought to write nor do they provoke thought after they are sung.

I don't like to stereotype, but it seems the only individuals who stand up and praise this type of chaotic music are pinheads who lack purpose.

If this school were to sign more shows at the Arena let them be groups with a theme to their music, such as R.E.M., who put on a great show and also stressed the point of their music.

We need bands like the Moody Blues, Elton John, Paul Simon, John Cougar, CSNY, and many other bands who don't promote the get high and womanizing messages of other bands.

If you want to see more metal bands then go back to your high school. If you choose to stay at SIU-C then develop an intellect.

After all, it was Mike Edwards who said "Man nothing steps on my buzz more than a lack of variety. I've banged my head from Bangladesh to San Bernadino and I'm still jammin'."

Now I don't know what it is like to have my buzz stepped on, but if it is variety that you want, I don't think we need to add anymore metal bands to the 12 that we've had in the past year or so.

As far as banging your head, maybe you should go to Bangladesh or San Bernadino and quit bothering us people who have minds. — Brad Selfert, freshman, psychology.

Red Cross says thanks for student fund raising

The students from SIU that helped on the Red Cross calling campaign were: Angel Flight (ROTC), Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity, Delta Chi Fraternity, and Gamma Beta Phi Honor Society. Our hats off to these groups for giving of their time to help for a worthy cause.

The American Red Cross does help families that have had a fire in our area and other areas. They give aid and help to military families, and are available in disasters.

So all of the money that is received is used for many things that are part of our every day life. Thank you. —

Jeannette O'Brien, public relations chairperson, American Red Cross.

Rebels report Iraq deporting Kurdish residents to camps

ATHENS, Greece (UPI) — A Kurdish rebel group said Sunday that Iraq is planning to send residents of a Kurdish city in northern Iraq to concentration camps as part of a move to create a security zone along the country's borders.

A spokesman for the Patriotic Union of Kurdistan, headed by Jalal Talabani, said the Kurdish leader made an appeal to the international community after people in the city of Qala Diza received notice from the authorities to prepare for deportation by May 1.

Talabani heads a rebel force of some 25,000 Peshmergas or guerrillas, who have fought Iraqi troops for more than a decade with Iranian assistance since 1986. The PUK is seeking autonomy for an estimated 5 million Kurds in northern Iraq. Qala Diza, about 225 miles north of Baghdad, lies about 10 miles from the Iranian border, and the move to deport its Kurdish inhabitants appeared to be part of Iraqi government attempts to create a security zone.

Military authorities were planning to deport the people to camps in the southern Iraq desert near the borders with Saudi Arabia and Kuwait, the PUK spokesman said, and handed out leaflets last month ordering nearly 120,000 people of Qala Diza and nearby areas to prepare for deportation.

The leaflets said people being moved would be allowed to take "only very personal belongings" with them, the PUK source said.

On April 6, several people in the Azadi neighborhood of Qala Diza began a hunger strike to protest the move. Anti-government slogans appeared on the walls of houses urging a halt to the planned deportations, the source said.

The military authorities then used bulldozers to raze the houses in the neighborhood, making several thousand people homeless, he said.

A three-man delegation from Qala Diza visited Baghdad to meet Hussein and appeal to him to reverse the order, but he refused to see them, the PUK spokesman said. The delegation "is still in Baghdad," he said.

Plans to create a "security zone" 14 miles wide along the borders began in 1978. The belt was designed to stretch along Iraq's borders with Syria, Turkey and Iran, the PUK source said.

The destruction of Kurdish villages has left close to 2 million Kurds homeless, and cities in the region are crowded with refugees, the rebel sources said.

research purposes.

Gray is also granting access to his pictorial gallery which the University will duplicate.

The gallery includes an estimated 10,000 pictures spanning the terms of eight presidents.

According to Gray, pictures of President Lyndon B. Johnson landing at a local airport, and President John F. Kennedy in Harrisburg are characteristic of his collection.

Gray, a Democrat from West Frankfort, was first elected to Congress in 1954 at age 24.

He served continually until 1974, at which time he retired from politics because of medical problems.

He was re-elected in 1984 and served until 1987, at which time he declined to run for reelection.

Also at the dinner, the Friend's organization awarded four writers with its Delta Awards. The awards recognize Southern Illinois writers and those who write about Southern Illinois.

Robert J. Hastings of Springfield, was honored in both categories for his description of the years when he grew up in Marion during the depression in his books, "A Nickel's Worth of Skim Milk" and "A Penny's Worth of Minced Ham."

John S. Jackson III, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, was honored for his contributions to the study of American politics. His work includes extensive writings for scholarly journals on U.S. political trends. He co-authored "Presidential Nominations and Primaries."

Betty Lou Mitchell, an assistant professor of English, was honored for her book "Delyte Morris of Southern Illinois University," which chronicles the growth of the University from a small teacher's college into a major research institution.

Ugent said this positive attitude toward giving is responsible for the high number of first-time donors, 282, who showed up during the week-long drive.

More than 236 people showed up to give at the drive, but were deferred for medical reasons, Ugent said. She added that cold and flu season probably prevented most of these people from donating.

Nearly 1,000 pints of blood a day are utilized by more than 140 hospitals throughout the the Missouri-Illinois region, Ugent said.

As for the University of Missouri's challenge to collect more blood than SIU's 2,071 pints, Ugent said SIU-C has an excellent chance of remaining victorious.

"They had a blood drive at the end of March and only got 1,942 pints. That's 129 less than we just got," she said. "But it's a very healthy and friendly competition that does the community a lot of good."

SIU-C was crowned the nation's No. 1 school for peacetime donations in 1986 after collecting 3,706 pints, a record which still remains unbroken, Ugent said.

The University collected 2,111 pints in last November's blood drive, meaning "SIU-C Gives" saw a decrease in 270 donors.

The next on-campus drive will take place at the end of June, Ugent said. All donors who participated in "SIU-C Gives" will again be eligible to give again, having waited the customary eight weeks.

legislature, and the kind of political organizing that was happening before 1973 will be happening again, Weddington said.

When asked what she felt the consequences of the Webster case will be, Weddington said, "My best guess, and it is a guess, is that the court will modify Roe vs. Wade. That they will say there is a right of privacy, because if they said there's not, it overturns a whole line of cases I don't think they want to overturn."

Many of the members of the Supreme Court are state-rights judges and are more willing to give the states more leeway, she said. "And that is why I worry it will be modified."

"The impact of that will really go back to exactly how did they say that exactly how wide of a leeway they give the state. If all they do is say that a state can regulate reasons for abortion after liability as a practical matter, it will have almost no impact at all," Weddington said.

"If they open the floodgates for state legislation, it could have major impact in terms of acceptability of abortion," she said.

"As far as we know, every student running could have a criminal record in another county," Hagerman said. "But we just know about the ones in Jackson County."

Hagerman said that students should also take into consideration a candidate's performance record in other areas such as academics, involvement in student activities and citations and awards for service.

Tim Hildebrand, the Progress Party presidential candidate, said the information pertained to a person's private life and that it was wrong to have been made public.

"I don't think it will play a big part (in the elections) at all," Hildebrand said. "Sometimes people have to learn from their mistakes."

Nation's second worst hospital fire remembered

Effingham blaze
claimed 77 lives
40 years ago

By Tim Crosby
Student Writer

Shortly before midnight 40 years ago this month, fire broke out as St. Anthony's Hospital in the east central Illinois town of Effingham. Three hours later, 77 people were dead in the nation's second worst hospital fire.

Though April 6, 1949, was a night of tragedy, it also was one of heroism and even joy. It also was one that Marilyn Hout will never forget.

Hout worked at St. Anthony's after school and on weekends as a nurse's aide. She had left the hospital for her home four blocks away just a few hours before the fire began.

"My father worked at the police station and he called home and told us the hospital was on fire," Hout said. "We went down there right away."

Hout said by the time they arrived, the entire hospital was engulfed in flames.

"It was a very fast fire and we all knew immediately that it was a tragedy," she said.

All accounts agreed that the mysterious fire started in the newly painted basement of the Catholic-run hospital and quickly swept through the laundry chutes that connected all floors. It was speculated that the fresh paint and varnish helped feed the deadly flames that managed to overcome an automatic extinguishing system and gut the three-story building.

Ben Bidenhorne, a fellow employee of Hout's, had been sleeping on the top floor of the hospital when he smelled smoke. He told authorities he went downstairs to investigate and discovered it burning fiercely.

"In those days interns like Ben lived in the hospital too," Hout said. "I think he was one of the very few to make it off the third floor."

Disregarding his own safety, Bidenhorne proceeded to the first floor where he assisted several patients to escape through windows. "Ben was very lucky," she said. He managed to escape with only burns around his face and neck.

The second floor nursery was the scene of carnage, as well as heroics. At least 13 infants in their cribs and a young nurse, who refused to leave her charges, perished in the flames. Witnesses told the Harriburg Daily Register that Fern Riley, 21, refused to leave the nursery in an effort to save the helpless infants.

Another baby was born dead after its mother leaped from a window in an effort to escape the blaze. The Chicago Tribune reported that the mother, Wenton Snider, suffered a broken back as well.

Many people were seen jumping according to Hout. "A lot of the people who made it off the second floor had to jump for it. They had no choice."

The most miraculous escape from the second floor was June Aderman's. Aderman was in the early stages of labor when people in the delivery room noticed smoke. Upon discovering the seriousness of the fire, Aderman and others kicked out a screened window and called for help. Soon firefighters raised a ladder to the trapped group and Aderman crawled to safety.

However, the ordeal was not yet over for the Aderman family. A quick trip across town followed the ladder rescue and soon Aderman gave birth to a boy in the family's home. Aderman told reporters that they had considered naming the boy "Lucky," but had settled instead for Charles Lee.

The Effingham community did what it could for survivors. Anna Miller and her son Lowell, 25, took in and cared for six patients who had escaped the fire. Some were badly burned and Miller told reporters she tried to make them as comfortable as possible.

During the fire's peak, several tanks of ether exploded, startling the crowd that had gathered. The highly flammable substance was used as an anesthetic during operations.

Also listed among the dead was hospital chaplain the Rev. C.C. Sandon; Sisters Bertina and Eustachi, both of the hospital diocese; and hospital superintendent Frank Reis, who succumbed after going back into the building in an attempt to rescue those trapped.

The fire burned out of control for three hours. It subsided in the early morning hours of April 6. Witnesses said the fire was impossible to fight.

Hout said a temporary morgue was set up in a laundry building behind the demolished hospital. Police escorted family members in to identify the bodies of victims.

An estimated 128 to 134 people were in the building when the fire began. Authorities estimated three bodies were never recovered from the pile of rubble where the building's inner floors had collapsed.

Gov. Adlai Stevenson flew in the next day to survey the fire scene. He called Company F of the Illinois State Guard to assist in the clean up and search for victims, and he directed state agencies to give all possible assistance to the community in rebuilding the hospital. The estimated cost was $2.1 million.

Hout said rebuilding quickly was important since the nearest hospital was at least 30 miles away. In the meantime, a temporary 16-bed emergency care center was established in a small building where the hospital's sisters had lived before the fire. Hout said the center served well in its role as a place to receive intermediate care before making the journey to a larger hospital in Mattoon or Vandalia.

"It had small operating rooms and everything," Hout said.

In February 1954, a rebuilt St. Anthony's opened.

"It was a proud and painful moment for the town," Hout, a registered nurse by then, said. "The whole town really came together to make sure we had a hospital, that was one good thing."

Hout now works as nursing supervisor at St. Anthony's.

Blues man reels back years, influences; still going strong

By Wayne Wallace
Entertainment Editor

Lonnie Brooks claims to have the power of magic. "I can duplicate anything," the Chicago blues guitarist boasted. "I can go to sleep with a record on the record player, and when I wake up in the morning, I can play every note."

Well, it's not exactly magic, but this rather unique talent for versatility catapulted Brooks to the top of the heap among Chicago's session musicians in the early 60s, back in the days when he was known as "the human jukebox."

Brooks, who headlined an evening of blues-rock Friday at Fred's Dance Barn, said he used to play any recording session or any night club gig he could dig up for himself to support his family.

And how did his family make out?

"I PUT all my kids through private school on what I made in clubs and studios," Brooks answered. "I could have worked every night if I wanted. In those days you booked yourself. You didn't have to have an agent."

Brooks said the secret of his success in Chicago was his ability to adapt to so many styles: country, blues, rock. "Jazz gave me trouble though," he added.

"I had sort of a distinctive style back then, and they knew to ask for me when they wanted that bayou sound," Brooks said.

Country and blues came easiest to him, he said, recalling his boyhood in Louisiana and Texas.

"I used to play all night and listen to Lightnin' Hopkins, John Lee Hooker, Muddy Waters, B.B. King on the radio on this all-night Texas station," he said.

DESPITE THESE early influences and the fact that his grandfather was a blues musician, Brooks didn't learn to play the guitar until age 22, and even then blues wasn't his first choice.

He picked up on a hot new fusion of country, blues and pop to begin a short-lived career as Guitar Junior, rock star.

Brooks said after he "got lucky" in 1959 with "Family Rules," which hit the rock 'n' roll charts down South, he was invited to Atlanta to perform at a benefit.

Headlining the benefit were B.B. King, Jackie Wilson, Ray Charles and Sam Cooke.

"ONE NIGHT on the way back to the hotel, I shared a cab with Sam. We got to talkin', y'know? I was looking for a label at the time," Brooks recalled.

"Well, we started jammin' in Sam's room, and right there on the spot he asked me to come on tour and open for him. So I learned all his tunes and traveled with him for about a month. That's how I got to Chicago."

Today Brooks puts out platters for Alligator Records, and although he was signed with Capitol for a time in the 70s, the blues guitarist said there are certain advantages to working for a smaller label.

"You've got the freedom to do what you want to do," Brooks said. "Most producers don't want to gamble on an album that just has my tunes on it; tunes I've written. They want those familiar songs so that more people will buy the record."

BROOKS HAS released five albums for Alligator, all of which featured at least eight Lonnie Brooks originals.

"I've got 15 tunes ready now which I've written for my next album. I'm just waiting to record them," he said.

Brooks said his favorite guitar is an electrical SG-Gibson that he uses on tour, but he admits to owning at least seven other axes, including a Yamaha, a Gretsch and a guitar given to him by Roy Clark from "Hee Haw."

"I ain't too bad a guitar player, and I can sing a little too," Brooks said humbly of his talents.

"It's not how good you play, but how good people think you play," Brooks opined on certain guitarists who've made it big in show biz.

"I REMEMBER seeing one guy one time, and I knew how much guitar he could play just by listening to the first couple of notes. But the people loved him," Brooks said, though reluctant to identify the performer.

Brooks said the obligations of touring prevent him from practicing everyday. He also remarked that he would like to devote more time to writing.

"Sure, there's times when you get tired and fed up (of touring), but your love of what you do makes you go," he said.

Brooks compared touring to sex. "You get awful wore out, but still want to do it again when it's over."

Hepburn tours Sudan; calls for peace in area

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — Actress Audrey Hepburn issued an emotion-filled plea Sunday for peace in the Sudan, where she completed a four-day tour of camps housing thousands of people left homeless and hungry by the nation's 5-year-old civil war.

"It is hard to articulate what I have seen, you feel so much pain," the Dutch-born actress told reporters during a brief stopover in Nairobi before she returns to Europe.

"I take with me so many images," she said. "Images of newcomers staggering into the camps with absolutely nothing left at all, so emaciated. All that seems to be left is their souls."

"What I have seen in the last few days are not the ravages of a natural calamity," Hepburn said. "They are the horrors of a man-made disaster, a war, and there is a man-made solution, peace. That is what those heart-breakingly affectionate children need most of all."

The United Nations estimates 250,000 people starved to death in southern Sudan last year because of the war and another 100,000 would die this year unless the massive U.N.-backed relief effort, which began April 1, can proceed unhindered.

Hepburn, the UNICEF goodwill ambassador, spent the last four days visiting the Sudanese capital, Khartoum, and camps for the displaced civilians at Muglad in west-central Sudan and at the rebel-held town of Kapoeta, 50 miles north of the Kenya border.

In Muglad, she said she was told 13 people died of thirst the night before she arrived and that water is desperately needed.

In Kapoeta, she added, a growing number of people "are a step away from death" in spite of the remarkable efforts of a private Norwegian group that has been trucking in food from Kenya since last year.

"After what I have seen, I dare not think of all the camps that are inaccessible," she said.

U.N. officials, whose efforts have been hampered by political and logistical problems, say some 29,000 tons of food have reached those in need since January, largely thanks to private relief groups.

However, that amount is less than a quarter of what they believe must be transported before the rainy season closes roads and airstrips next month.

The government and the Sudan People's Liberation Army (SPLA) rebels have agreed to a temporary halt in hostilities in key areas so the emergency relief operation can proceed over the coming weeks.

Club's festival provides fun and is a positive experience

Annual 'Bonusfest' members dance, mingle and relax

By Jackie Lay
Student Writer

You won't find the land of Bonus on a map of Carbondale, but it does exist.

Bonus is a place created by the members of the Bonus crew to describe their homefront and where Bonus Festival, an event held annually the weekend before Springfest, takes place.

The Bonus Festival was established in February 1985 at the original land of Bonus, 409 James St. in Carbondale.

"We were sitting around on a Friday afternoon pondering the thought of why some people had wretched dispositions and we wanted to change it," Steve Matthews, a senior in electrical engineering and an original member of Bonus, said. "We wanted to help give people a positive self-image."

THE ORIGINAL Bonus crew consisted of nine SIUC students who encouraged "a positive attitude for their fellow students," Matthews said.

This year's fourth annual Bonus Festival was held Saturday at the new land of Bonus, 305 Crestview Ln. Students participated in events such as volleyball, "Nintendo mania," a barbecue and the MC Hammer Circle.

MC Hammer is a rap singer who is known for his dancing abilities. Matthews explains the game as involving a group of people in a circle. Each person has a specific MC Hammer dance as their sign; one person must do another person's dance sign to music. The person whose sign was done then proceeds to do another person's dance sign and so the game continues until someone goes off beat. That person is out of the game and the circle gets smaller and smaller until the winner is left standing.

Bonus is something extra, or a step above the rest.

"BONUS FESTIVAL gives the students a little time out to relax, have fun and mingle," said Chris Galloway, junior in industrial engineering and technology and an original member of Bonus.

The events are funded by the Bonus members. They ask for contributions from the students for extra food or drinks at the function, Matthews said.

Bonus is something extra, or a step above the rest, according to Matthews. "It brings out positive attitudes," he said.

Bonus is not a student organization affiliated with the University, nor is it an organization that one must pledge to get into, Matthews said.

"Our members must have a Bonus attitude, which is portraying a positive self-image and having an overall pleasant disposition at least 99.9 percent of the time," Matthews said.

THE INITIATION process consists of a ceremony in which would-be members read a few words from the Bonus by-law book, Matthews said. "We don't dance or step," he said.

"Our philosophy: know who you are and what you are capable of becoming, because only you know what's best," said Galloway. "You can accept the advice of others, but yours is the final word. Take responsibility."

Matthews credits member Franz Mullings, senior in biological sciences and president of the African American Studies Association (AASA), as a prime example and shining light of Bonus.

"HE SAW a wretched situation (SIUC vs. AASA) and wanted to do something about it. He's one of the few people that I know who takes a stand on what he believes in regardless of what others think," Matthews said.

The other original members are Rochelle Goree, senior in computer information processing systems, and LaShawn Coleman, senior in business.

Those members who have graduated are Desmond Jones and Johnny Taylor. Two other members, Kim Fitzberg and Raymond Smith, have transferred to Chicago schools.

Bonus also has developed a student-outreach program where the members convey a positive attitude to students who are distraught, said Galloway.

Bonus mechanics is another service developed for the students on the weekends.

If the students don't have the money, they can barter their repair services Matthews said. In the future, Matthews said that students can expect to see the annual Bonus Festival continue.

"Bonus is forever," the members said in unison.

Israeli soldiers kill three during PLO uprising

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israeli soldiers shot and killed three Palestinians, including a 10-year-old boy, during "a day of mass rage" called to protest the assassination of PLO leader Yasser Arafat's deputy a year ago, hospital officials said.

Despite curfews on all of the Gaza Strip and major towns and refugee camps in the West Bank, clashes erupted when soldiers attempted to disperse memorial marches in several communities.

Military continued investigating the killings last week of four Palestinians by paramilitary Border Police in the West Bank village of Nahalin and Army Chief of Staff Lt. Gen. Dan Shomron visited the village's leader.

After the meeting, Shomron said that although the army regrets any loss of life, casualties were the result of violence against soldiers.

"We will check ourselves to see if this could have been carried out with a smaller number of wounded," he told reporters. "Who says there are any guilty parties here?"

Villagers charge the Border Police opened fire indiscriminately.

Police Minister Chaim Bar-Lev told Israel Radio there was no evidence yet that the Border Police had lost control during the early morning raid in which four Arabs were killed and at least 20 wounded.

Israeli commentators have called for a thorough review of the raid, one of the bloodiest incidents of the 16-month-old Palestinian uprising, which has claimed the lives of at least 417 Palestinians and 14 Israelis.

The underground leadership of the uprising in its latest leaflet called for increased confrontations with soldiers — "a day of mass rage" — to protest the April 16, 1988, killing in Tunisia of Khalil Al-Wazir, better known as Abu Jihad.

Abu Jihad, who was Arafat's deputy, was in charge of PLO military operations and supervised many guerrilla attacks against Israeli targets.

The Palestine Liberation Organization has alleged that Israeli commandos carried out the assassination. News reports said senior Israeli leaders had approved the killing of the No. 2 PLO leader. Israel has declined comment on the killing.

Abu Jihad's death unleashed the deadliest day of rioting during the Palestinian uprising. Sixteen Palestinians were killed and dozens wounded in the widespread violence.

Last week, Gaza residents began preparing for the anniversary, putting up black flags and pictures of Abu Jihad, who had many relatives in Gaza.

The army began imposing curfews on dozens of refugee camps, towns and neighborhoods Saturday and put the entire Gaza Strip under curfew late Saturday. In all, more than 900,000 Palestinians, or about half the Arab population of the territories, were confined to their homes.

Professor against 'nice girl' feminism

By Alicia Hill
Staff Writer

She is a woman, and she roared.

Mary Daly may be pleased with that description.

In her lecture, "Be-Witching: Re-Calling the Elemental Powers of Women," Daly, a feminist philosopher, urged her audience at Lawson Hall Thursday to abandon the "nice girl" feminism that has arisen in the 1980s.

"I want rage," she said.

Daly asked her audience to keep the image of the doom-day clock in mind as she took them on a journey into an "other world."

According to Daly, associate professor of theology at Boston College where she teaches feminist ethics, the world is run by fools.

"I see patriarchy as the hierarchical system at the root of all oppression," Daly said.

Redefining the term "radical feminist," Daly spoke for a little more than an hour about the evils of our male-centered, "plastic world" with its plastic flowers and plastic ideas.

Daly said men are "raping" the elements of earth, air, fire and water, and she asked for its just treatment.

"Just look at Alaska," Daly said, referring to the recent oil spill off the coast of Valdez.

Daly read from her latest book, "Webster's First New Intergalactic Wickedary of the English Language," in which she redefines words to ridicule the patriarchy.

"Fundamentalist: one who sermonizes from the fundamen-," Daly said. "The fundamen is described by Webster's as 'the part of the body on which one sits: buttocks.'"

The standing-room-only audience responded to her references with laughter.

Daly suggested four criteria for a radical feminist: An awesome sense of otherness; knowledge of the sanctions of the patriarchy and moving ahead in spite of them; moral outrage on the behalf of women of all race, class, age and time; and consistency.

Daly also suggested new virtues for women: disgust, rage and the courage to sin.

Women's Studies, with the support of other departments on campus, sponsored the lecture.

Southern Baptists witnessing in Sin City

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Can Bible belt Baptists find salvation in Sin City?

That question was put to delegates to the Southern Baptist Convention's annual meeting being held this year in Las Vegas, the bawdy city that makes a virtue out of vice.

The Greensboro News & Record reported Sunday that some delegates hope to convert sinners during the June 13 to June 15 session. And some may even do a little sinning themselves.

"I've asked for my travel advance in quarters," the Rev. Mike Moore, pastor of Greensboro's Friendly Avenue Baptist Church, said and then laughed. "My stars, we met in New Orleans. You can't get in any more sinful place than that."

The Southern Baptist Convention's annual meeting has drawn quite a crowd in recent years as fundamentalists and moderates battle for control of the 14.8 million-member denomination.

The strip in Las Vegas is mile after mile of neon lights advertising casinos, where such vices as drinking and gambling hold sway. Slot machines — known as one-arm bandits — are in every nook and cranny. Scantily-clad hostesses are ready with a smile and a deck of cards.

"I really think it's a wonderful opportunity for a witness," said the Rev. M.O. Owens, a fundamentalist leader from Gastonia, N.C. "If any place in the country needs a witness, it's Las Vegas."

Owens said some Baptists plan to go to the casinos — to preach the Gospel.

"I do know this has been discussed and plans have been made for that," he said.

But Owens acknowledged a few delegates may be led unto temptation and delivered unto evil.

"I'm sure there'll be a few people who maybe cross over the line once in a while — to go in the gambling places," he said.

But the Rev. Otis Davis, pastor of Sedgefield Baptist Church in Greensboro, said he doesn't believe his Baptist brothers will fall into sin.

Texas teen sues school for drug tests

GALVESTON, Texas (UPI) — A high school senior suing a rural Texas school district over mandatory student drug tests prepared to go to federal court this week to challenge the constitutionality of the policy.

Brent Brooks, 19, a senior at East Chambers High School in Winnie, is suing the East Chambers school district because of its policy of issuing mandatory drug tests to students in grades six through 12 involved in extracurricular activities.

Brooks refused to take a drug test in November, and the school district ordered him not to compete in a Future Farmers of America event. Brooks filed suit against the district and won a temporary restraining order that allowed him to continue participating in the FFA.

Brooks, represented by the American Civil Liberties Union, will argue his case challenging the constitutionality of the district's policy beginning Monday in U.S. district court.

"We don't care if they test on a voluntary basis. We just don't want them to force students to take it," Bruce Griffiths, the student's ACLU lawyer, said.

The East Chambers school district, 60 miles east of Houston, began the urinalysis policy in September.

Poshard postpones budget meeting

Because of conflicts in the U.S. House of Representatives, Congressman Glenn Poshard will change two of his scheduled budget meetings in the 22nd District.

Poshard will travel within the district, inviting residents to a budget-cutting exercise. The purpose of the exercise is to explain the budget challenges that face the country.

Today's scheduled meeting will be postponed until April 21.

The meetings will begin at noon at Shawnee College in Room J-411 and at 3 p.m. in the dining room of Southeastern College in Harrisburg.

Crime spoof not hokey despite plot

By Kathleen DeBo
Staff Writer

"Disorganized Crime" is surprisingly funny and entertaining — surprising because the premise sounds hokey.

Film Review

Frank, played by Corbin Bernsen, plans a bank robbery in Montana. His fellow crooks show up for the job, but Frank is nowhere to be found. He has been arrested by two New Jersey cops.

The remainder of the film follows Frank's attempts to escape, the other robbers' quest for him and both cops' and criminals' fight against the Montana to survive.

The film is loosely based on the showrunners' formula of stupid cops and clever criminals. Yet this funny film makes the formula work.

The formula succeeds because the characters are relatively well-developed. The best aspect of the film is that none of the characters are one-sided.

The New Jersey police officers bumble at times, but they're also the only people who figure out that there is a bank robbery in progress.

The New Jersey police officers get lost, have their car stolen and lose their pants crossing a creek.

The robbers also have their difficulties. They are not prepared to find Frank missing or to live in Montana. These crooks are on-edge. When some neighboring kids shoot at bottles, the gang thinks the police have found them.

The film does not exactly glorify criminals, but it comes close. The crooks go through so much hassle to rob the bank, the audience wants them to succeed.

Yet, the criminals are not entirely nice people. They are nervous and distrustful. They pull guns on each other.

In the end, the crooks pull together and rob the bank. Readers will have to see for themselves whether they get away. The film also stars Lou Diamond Phillips as one of the criminals.

Group protests against aid to Contras

By Daniel Wallenberg
Staff Writer

About 20 members of the Southern Illinois Latin Solidarity Committee picketed outside the Carbondale Federal Building, 250 W. Cherry, Friday, protesting the nearly $50 million in non-lethal aid Congress passed to help the Contras.

Cold breezes and a slight rain did not deter members of the committee from voicing their displeasure with the efforts being made by Congress in trying to establish peace in Central America.

Georgeann Hartzog, spokeswoman for the committee, said the money appropriated for the Contras in no way furthered the peace process in Central America.

Some of the signs protestors carried read "No Funds to the Terrorist Contra" and "Contra Aid Violates Peace Plan."

The non-lethal aid is supposed to provide money for food, clothing, medicine and other similar supplies — but no arms.

However, Hartzog said there was no way of stopping the Contras from purchasing weapons with the money.

Hartzog said the United States should stay out of Nicaragua and let the people govern their own lives. The United States should not force itself on Nicaragua and should leave them alone, she said.

"If Congress thinks this is peace, it is a distorted notion. It perpetuates the idea we can tell them what to do or, rather, our money can tell them what to do," Hartzog said.

Hartzog said the Contras have not proven to be an effective fighting force. During trips to Central America throughout the last few years, she noticed there was not much support for the Contras by the people of Nicaragua.

Hartzog called the Contras a "mercenary army the CIA created," designed to damage the predominantly agricultural economy of Nicaragua, while occupying territory needed to produce food.

Hartzog said the Contras have blown up schools and have terrorized health care personnel and civilians.

On March 24 President George Bush and Secretary of State James Baker said former President Ronald Reagan's policy of military pressure on Nicaragua to end its alleged communist subversion of Central America had failed largely because of political opposition in Congress, where the Contras were condemned as human rights abusers lacking any real support inside their country.

The U.S. House of Representatives voted 309-110 in favor of the aid to the Contras and the U.S. Senate approved the measure 89-9.

Housing managers ask for funds to battle drugs

WASHINGTON (SHNS) — Public housing managers complain they are having to use their already-strained operating budgets to battle drug-related crime in the housing projects.

Sometimes it gets down to either protecting the tenants or picking up the garbage.

Housing authority officials have told the Bush administration they need a special new category of federal funding to hire police officers, install security lighting, train jobless youths and treat drug offenders in public housing neighborhoods.

And while they praise Housing and Urban Development Secretary Jack Kemp's plan to crack down on drugs in public housing, they warn it's only a start.

Kemp last week pledged speedier eviction of drug offenders from federally funded housing projects and called for installation of security fences and other devices.

"We agree with the thrust of what he's proposing, but it's only one of the steps needed to deal with the problem," said Richard Nelson Jr., executive director of the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment.

Nelson and Robert McKay, executive director of the Council of Large Public Housing Authorities, complain that public housing operating budgets are being used to finance anti-drug measures.

Seattle is an example, McKay said.

"The Seattle Housing Authority has been funding its own anti-drug efforts out of its regular operating budget for the past two years," Harry Thomas, executive director, wrote HUD recently. "We are using funds that are desperately needed for regular maintenance and operation."

"The Seattle Housing Authority has been put in the untenable position of having to decide whether to pay for garbage pickup, or fund anti-drug efforts."

School plans construction of wall to protect students against gunfire

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Administrators at a Long Beach junior high school are planning to build a 10-foot-high concrete wall alongside the school to protect students and teachers from flying bullets.

The sounds of gunshots mingle with the noises of children playing at Charles Lindbergh Junior High School about every six to eight weeks, prompting the decision to build the 900-foot-long wall, the Los Angeles Times reported.

Last week students were evacuated from the playing fields that a low-income housing project twice after reports of nearby gunfire.

Two years ago, in the only incident where someone was hurt, a student playing basketball after school was hit in the chest by a stray bullet and nearly died.

"It's really sad that something like this has to be done," Principal Max Fraley said. "But it's needed in today's society."

Construction of the wall, which will cost $160,000 and will be financed by the school district and the county, is scheduled to begin this week.

Once it is completed, physical education teacher Trish Ryan said she will celebrate by hanging a sign on it that reads "The Great Wall of Lindbergh."

People in the Carmelitos housing project on the other side of the proposed wall, however, told the Times they were bothered by the plans.

There are already three chain-link fences and a small flood-control channel separating the school from the 713-unit project, which houses about 2,000 people.

Some residents acknowledged that they have a crime problem and they understood school officials' concerns but many worried about the symbolism of the wall and argued that it would solve little.

"Anything for the safety of the kids," resident Ray Fox told the paper. "But I think that $160,000 in law enforcement would do more to ease crime."

Rhoda Neal also argued that the money could be better spent. The district's solution is "like putting a Band-Aid on a deep wound," she said.

"They're keeping the people of Carmelitos in and the outside world away as if we were all bad guys," she said.

Suspected arson fire destroys art

CHICAGO (UPI) — Arson is suspected in a fire that devastated one-square block renovation project in the fashionable River North area, destroying eight galleries and millions of dollars in irreplaceable artwork.

The fire was still burning in spots Sunday, more than 24 hours after it first began in at least three areas of the four-building complex. A third firefighter suffered minor injuries early Sunday when a section of a brick wall collapsed. Two other firefighters suffered minor injuries Saturday.

Gallery owner William Van Stratten said the fire wiped out art worth more than $50 million and his personal losses were $2 million to $3 million.

Because of was evidence

Gallery owner William Van Stratten said the fire wiped out art worth more than $50 million and his personal losses were $2 million to $3 million.

that the fire was set in three places, Deputy District Chief Mike Ahern said, "We believe it was arson."

Rekindling flames hampered the efforts of investigators Sunday.

Only one wall remained standing and officials said they were planning to knock it down sometime Sunday, enabling traffic to begin moving again through the area, just north of Chicago's Loop area.

The century-old complex that housed eight art galleries was designed by architect Louis Sullivan and was awaiting City Council approval for designation as a historical landmark.

The complex was being renovated at a cost of $40 million to install more shops and 200 loft apartments and was filled with piles of wood and drywall, as well as acetylene and propane torches, fire officials said.

"It was a disaster waiting to happen," said Van Stratten, who said he had unsuccessfully sought a court order halting the renovation on Friday.

for him, we wouldn't be as far along in the investigation right now."

An international manhunt is under way for the man and woman accused of directing a drug trafficking ring that killed its enemies and random victims for human sacrifice, mutilating them and removing their brains in the belief it would make the cultists more powerful.

Four suspects are jailed in Mexico. U.S. and Mexican authorities are searching for the ringleaders and 11 other suspects in the slayings of at least 13 young men and boys on the cult's ranch near Matamoros.

Officials expect to name at least four more suspects this week.

U.S. drug investigators had worked routinely with Benitez since his arrival several months ago.

They were able to seize 18 vehicles and three cars belonging to suspected drug dealers because of information he provided in one case alone last month, Neck said.

"We'd been working some joint narcotics cases. We earned their trust. They earned our trust. This has really worked out," Neck said.

The nationally publicized disappearance March 14 of Mark Kilroy, 21, a University of Texas student who disappeared during a spring break trip to the border, tested that relationship.

"When Mark Kilroy disappeared, the first person we went to was Benitez," Neck said. "He worked day and night after that."

Benitez's agents solved the case, finding Kilroy's body buried with others on the ranch last Tuesday, obtaining from the suspects they arrested a motive and the names of the cult's ring leaders.

House waits for Wright ethics report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two House members cautioned Sunday against making early judgments on the propriety of the financial dealings of Speaker Jim Wright, subject of an ethics committee probe expected to be released this week.

In an interview on ABC's "This Week with David Brinkley," House Majority Leader Thomas Foley, D-Wash., and Rep. Vin Weber, R-Minn., agreed that it was important to wait for the results of a lengthy House ethics committee investigation on allegations that Wright profited from his office.

"I think the discussion on Wright's future is premature and that's one of the problems many of on the Republican side have with what has happened over the last few days," Weber said.

"We have not seen the report. We do not know what allegations are going to be made. And more importantly, we certainly have not seen the committee's rationale, even for those charges that have managed to be leaked out to the news media," he said.

"We shouldn't be condemning the man or exonerating him in advance."

"We shouldn't be condemning the man or exonerating him in advance."

The 12-member committee — the only House panel composed of an equal number of Democrats and Republicans — scheduled a Monday morning session at which it may publicly detail the charges against Wright, D-Texas.

The committee voted last June to start a preliminary inquiry and hired Chicago lawyer Richard Phelan to conduct the investigation, which lasted nine months, cost at least $1.2 million and looked into several decades of Wright's life.

According to several reports, the committee found enough evidence to accuse Wright formally of violations and to proceed to a trial-like hearing to determine if the charges are true.

Some of those charges reportedly concern Wright's financial relations with George Mallick, a longtime friend and Fort Worth business associate. Wright and Mallick were partners in an investment firm that employed Wright's wife, Betty, at $18,000 a year.

Other charges involve publication of Wright's book, "Reflections of a Public Man," which largely was sold in bulk to lobbyists and special interest groups, and for which Wright received an unusually large royalty.

But Foley, who holds the No. 2 Democratic leadership post and is considered Wright's likely successor should he be toppled as a result of the ethics charges, defended his fellow congressman.

"I think the speaker will continue to be the speaker in this Congress, in the next Congress, as long as the Democratic Party has the majority in Congress, as long as he wishes to," Foley told ABC. "I think that he'll be cleared of these charges. ... The speaker is confident he can show there is no violation of the rules."

Foley also agreed that it was important to wait for the committee to release its findings. "It's unfair to criticize the speaker for answering charges that have been widely reported in the press," he said.

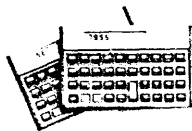

Weber, however, said he was concerned that Wright last week launched "a pre-emptive defense by attacking the ethics committee itself and its integrity."

Wright, responding Thursday to news reports of the impending report, said he would "fight to the last ounce of conviction and energy that I possess" to prove he is not guilty.

Wright made his defense Thursday surrounded by some 50 fellow Democrats who wanted to show their support for the embattled speaker.

Higher wage has caused oppositions

Scrrips Howard News Service

WASHINGTON — A dispute over the minimum wage is likely to trigger the first legislative showdown between President Bush and Democrats who dominate both houses on Capitol Hill.

The dispute is partly a matter of political philosophy — and partly a matter of how much and how soon.

Bush is willing to raise the minimum from $3.35 an hour to $4.25 by January 1992. Democrats, led by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., say that's not enough. They want $4.55 an hour by October 1991.

Here, in question-and-answer form, is an explanation of the proposed increase and why the two sides disagree:

Q. What is Congress doing about the minimum wage?

A. Both houses have passed legislation raising the minimum wage to $4.55 an hour over a three-year period. It would be the first increase since the minimum was raised to $3.35 in January of 1981.

Q. Are the two bills identical?

A. No. Both raise the minimum to $4.55, and both specify a lower, 60-day training wage for new workers. But other provisions differ. For example, the Senate version includes a proposal by Sen. William Armstrong, R-Colo., to let Social Security recipients under 70 earn more money before losing retirement benefits. Differences in the two bills will be resolved by a joint conference committee.

Q. Is there disagreement over the training wage?

A. Yes. Bush wants a training wage for all new hires. The House and Senate would limit the training wage to workers who never have worked before. The Senate bill adds another provision — that no more than 25 percent of an employer's work force be drawing the training wage.

Q. Will the president sign the legislation?

A. He says $4.25 an hour is his limit. He seems to have the votes to uphold a veto.

Italians decry Soccer tragedy

ROME (UPI) — Italians, no stranger to soccer tragedy, Sunday decried the calamity in Sheffield, England, where 94 people were killed as fans surged into a packed stadium grandstand.

"An Absurd Slaughter," declared La Gazzetta Sportiva, a sports daily. The paper laid the blame in a front-page piece on official British negligence ranging from poor club organization to incompetent police supervision.

"We are faced with the triumph of stupidity in a country marked with terrible soccer violence but incapable of learning," the paper said. "... The atrocious reckoning has been paid by the fans of Liverpool."

Most of those crushed to death in the Hillsborough stadium Saturday were Liverpool fans attending an FA Cup semifinal against Nottingham.

Liverpool fans incited the May 1985 riot in Heysel Stadium in Belgium that cost 39 lives, mostly Italian, at a European Cup final between Liverpool and Juventus of Turin.

On Sunday Italian President Francesco Cossiga sent his "most deep-felt condolences" to Queen Elizabeth II. Pope John Paul II telegraphed his condolences Sunday to English Cardinal Basil Hume.

"Deeply saddened by the Sheffield stadium tragedy which caused the loss of a great number of human lives and provoked wounds in so many families whose loved ones left home for a day of relaxation and pleasure," the Vatican telegram said, "the Holy Father prays for the souls of the dead and invokes the comfort of God for the nation and all those personally affected."

For Carlo Duchene, 38, television images of the horror at Sheffield revived memories of his ordeal at Heysel. He was clubbed by an English spectator, leaving him in a coma for a month and costing him most of his sight.

"I was expecting another Heysel," said Duchene, a barber now living in San Remo on the Italian Riviera. "I was too shocked by the violence of the English fans to think that such a tragedy would not be repeated."

Milan's influential Corriere Della Sera newspaper spoke of the "carnage in an English stadium four days after the readmission of British teams into European cup play and four years after the tragedy of Heysel."

Added a Corriere columnist: "It is clear that in England the hands of hooligans and hotheads are alive and well, deaf to any call to common sense and police restraint."

Last week the families of Italians killed at Heysel protested the decision by the European Union of Football Associations allowing English clubs to return, with British government approval, to European competition in 1990-91. The Liverpool club was to be banned an additional three years.

Juventus President Gianpiero Boniperti welcomed that decision and said Liverpool should be "pardoned." Others bitterly protested UEFA's lifting of the ban.

"Clearly, those who decided to readmit English clubs to European cup play didn't lose anyone at Heysel," said a spokesman for the Association of Heysel Victims.

Soccer fans clash in Amsterdam

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (UPI) — Fans of two rival Dutch soccer teams clashed at the Olympic stadium Sunday, prompting baton charges by riot police to quell the violence which left at least 27 people injured, authorities said.

Police said three officers were among the 27 casualties. A police spokesman said 24 people were arrested and held on suspicion of inciting the violence, which occurred before, during and after a game between archrivals Ajax Amsterdam and Feyenoord of Rotterdam.

The scuffle erupted less than a day after 94 people were killed and 170 others injured by a surging crowd at a soccer stadium in Sheffield, England, in Britain's worst soccer disaster.

The unrest in Amsterdam began Sunday morning before the match when 250 supporters of the Feyenoord team stopped the train they were travelling on by pulling the emergency brake as it pulled into Amsterdam.

The fans disembarked and ploughed through the southeastern part of the Dutch capital toward the Olympic stadium, leaving a trail of destruction in their wake. Once at the stadium, fighting broke out between rival fans.

Riot police were called in and made baton charges at the stands and in nearby streets in order to keep the rival fans apart.

The start of the game was delayed 20 minutes. After the match, more violence broke out as about 2,000 Feyenoord fans, angry at their team's 4-1 defeat at the hands of Ajax, clashed with 500 fans from the Amsterdam team.

IBM tops in United Way awards

CHICAGO (UPI) — IBM Corp. received top honors from United Way of America, which presented its second annual Spirit of America awards to 13 corporate philanthropic leaders Sunday.

IBM, Armonk, N.Y., received the overall Spirit of America award during a ceremony on the second day of United Way of America's national Volunteers Conference, which runs through Monday at the Chicago Hilton and Towers.

Last year, IBM employees nationwide contributed $31.8 million through the company's corporate campaign — an increase of $2.6 million over 1987 contributions. United Way said in a news release. The corporation donated the largest single corporate gift to United Way, $16.5 million.

Microsoft Corp., Redmond, Wash., received the Trailblazer Award for introducing an electronic pledge card that enabled employees to pledge donations using their computer terminals.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING POLICY

Please Be Sure To Check
Your Classified Advertisement For Errors
On The First Day Of Publication

The Daily Egyptian cannot be responsible for more than one day's incorrect insertion. Advertisers are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser which lessen the value of the advertisement will be adjusted.

All classified advertising must be processed before 12:00 Noon to appear in the next day's publication. Anything processed after 12:00 Noon will go in the following day's publication. Classified advertising must be paid in advance except for those accounts with established credit. A 25% charge will be added to billed classified advertising. A service charge of $7.50 will be added to the advertiser's account for every check returned to the Daily Egyptian unpaid by the advertiser's bank. Early cancellation of a classified advertisement will be charged a $2.00 service fee. Any refund under $2.00 will be forfeited due to the cost of processing.

All advertising submitted to the Daily Egyptian is subject to approval and may be revised, rejected, or cancelled at any time. The Daily Egyptian assumes no liability if for any reason it becomes necessary to omit an advertisement.

Relief pitching carries Cubs to sixth straight win

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Chicago relievers increased their perfect save record to seven Sunday, matching the number of consecutive victories the Cubs reached with a 5-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Mitch Williams saved his sixth game of the season for the Cubs, who last won seven in a row June 8, 1983. Williams came on with one out in the ninth after starter Rick Sutcliffe walked Darren Daulton and pinch-hitter Dwayne Murphy.

The hard-throwing Williams struck out Von Hayes, the league's leading hitter, and after RBI singles by Tom Herr and Chris James, got Mike Schmidt on a game-ending fly to right field.

The Cubs, 8-2, have had seven save situations this season, and nailed down all of them.

"Williams was a big factor," Cubs Manager Don Zimmer said. "But the key pitch was to Schmidt in the first inning. We could have been knocked out right there."

Philadelphia's first run came in the first inning when Hayes doubled and scored on a Herr single. After a single by Chris James, Sutcliffe survived by getting Schmidt on an infield pop up for the first out of the game.

Sutcliffe raised his record to 3-0 and allowed only six hits. He also singled home two runs to highlight a three-run fifth inning that put the Cubs in command.

"We're playing well, but we're also having a little luck, like that Sutcliffe single," Zimmer said.

Chicago scored in the first inning when Mitch Webster singled, moved up as Ryne Sandberg walked, and scored on a two-out single by Mark Grace, who later robbed Chris James and Darren Daulton with defensive plays at first.

The Cubs took the lead, 2-1, with an unearned run in the fourth. Shawon Dunston walked, stole second and took third on a throwing error by catcher Daulton. Jerome Walton brought him home with a sacrifice fly.

Sandberg opened the fifth inning with a single and took third on Grace's single. Vance Law doubled in Sandberg to put the Cubs in front 3-1. Dunston was intentionally walked, but, after Joe Girardi fouled out, Sutcliffe singled to left for two runs and a 5-1 lead.

Cardinals 5, Mets 3

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Ozzie Smith had three hits and two RBI Sunday and Jose DeLeon pitched a four-hitter, lifting the St. Louis Cardinals to a 5-3 victory over the New York Mets.

DeLeon, 2-1, struck out five in going the distance. DeLeon, 1-9 against the Mets entering the season, has beaten them twice this year.

He gave up two homers to Darryl Strawberry, who hit his first of the year Saturday in a loss against the Cardinals. Mets starter Bob Ojeda, 0-2, went four-plus innings.

Smith, who came off the disabled list Saturday, is 5-for-6 in two games.

St. Louis scored a run in the fifth for a 3-2 lead. Vince Coleman led off with a bunt single and stole second, his seventh stolen base of the season — all against the Mets. Coleman is 46 for 46 lifetime against the Mets in stolen bases. After Smith walked, Terry Pendleton lined a single to left to snap a 2-2 tie. Rick Aguilar relieved Ojeda and worked out of the inning, receiving a break when Gary Carter threw out Smith trying to steal third.

Expos 5, Pirates 4
PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Hubie Brooks' pinch-hit sacrifice fly scored Nelson Santovenia with two outs in the 11th inning Sunday, giving the Montreal Expos a 5-4 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Santovenia led off with a double against Jeff Robinson, 1-2, and took third on Damaso Garcia's groundout. Brooks followed with his fly to center to make a winner of Joe Hesketh, 2-0, who pitched two innings of one-hit relief.

Tim Burke retired the side in order in the 11th for his second save.

The Expos tied the score at 4-4 in the eighth with the help of an error by Bobby Bonilla, one of three committed by the game's two third basemen. With two out and Scott Medvin protecting a 4-3 lead, Bonilla failed to field a ground ball hit by Tim Wallach.

Braves 7, Giants 2 (1st game)

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Gerald Perry belted a three-run home run and had four RBI and Tommy Gregg drove in three runs Sunday to help the Atlanta Braves snap the San Francisco Giants' four-game winning streak with a 7-2 decision in the first game of a double-header.

The Braves took a 6-2 lead in the second inning, scoring five runs to make a winner of John Smoltz, 2-1. Smoltz went five innings, allowing two earned runs, eight hits, and striking out five.

Gregg had a two-run single in the second and Perry hit the three-run blast, his second homer of the season, off loser Kelly Downs, 2-1. Downs went five innings, giving up seven earned runs. He allowed eight hits and walked one.

Reds 5, Padres 0

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Rick Mahler pitched a six-hit shutout Sunday and Herm Winningham and Jeff Reed homered in a five-run first inning to lift the Cincinnati Reds to a 5-0 victory over the San Diego Padres.

Mahler, 1-2, pitched his seventh career shutout and first since 1987. He recorded 18 groundouts, walked one and struck out two.

San Diego starter Ed Whitson, 2-1, pitched eight innings, giving up eight hits, walked three and struck out one. After giving up six hits in the first inning, Whitson allowed only two singles the rest of the way.

Barry Larkin was hit by a pitch leading off the game and took second on Chris Sabol's single. Eric Davis walked, loading the bases, and Kai Daniels singled home two runs.

Dodgers 2, Astros 1

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Tim Leary pitched a five-hitter and Mike Marshall homered in the fourth inning Sunday to lift the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 2-1 victory over the Houston Astros.

Leary, 2-1, took a two-hit shutout into the ninth but gave up three hits and a run in the final inning. Leary struck out six and walked none.

After surrendering a double to Billy Hatcher in the fourth, Leary retired 13 in a row. During this stretch, Leary struck out four.

Ken Caminiti opened the ninth with a single to snap Leary's string of 13 straight outs. Leary retired the next two batters before Rafael Ramirez singled to right for his second hit of the game, advancing Young to third. Hatcher followed with an RBI single to left, making him 8 for 18 lifetime against Leary.

Athletics 3, White Sox 2

CHICAGO (UPI) — Walt Weiss, back in the starting lineup after missing two games because of the flu, smacked an RBI single in the ninth inning Sunday to give the Oakland Athletics a 3-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Chicago tied the score 2-2 in the eighth, but Oakland knocked out starter Eric King, 0-3, in the ninth. With one out, Terry Steinbach and Stan Javier hit consecutive singles to put runners at first and third. Weiss then greeted reliever Donn Pall with a single to right to score Steinbach with the go-ahead run.

Dennis Eckersley, 1-0, picked up his first win of the year in relief.

Dave Henderson put the A's in front 1-0 in the third inning with a single to left after two out, scoring Weiss, who also had singled, from second.

Blue Jays 15, Royals 8

TORONTO (UPI) — Jesse Barfield hit a three-run home run in the fourth inning and Kelly Gruber drove in six runs and hit for the cycle Sunday to lead the Toronto Blue Jays to a 15-8 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

Barfield's blast to left field, his fourth homer of the season, helped the Blue Jays to bounce back from the Royals' six-run first inning off starter Dave Steib.

With two out in the fourth and the Royals leading 7-6, George Bell doubled, Fred McGriff walked and Barfield followed with his blast off Bret Saberhagen, 1-1. Saberhagen was making his first relief appearance since Sept. 14, 1986 after lasting just two-thirds of an inning Saturday.

David Wells, 1-0, pitched four innings, allowing two earned runs on six hits while striking out three and walking one in relief of Steib. Saberhagen allowed three earned runs on two hits while walking two and striking out one.

Twins 9, Yankees 4

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gary Gaetti homered twice and drove in six runs Sunday to lead the Minnesota Twins to a 9-4 victory over the New York Yankees.

Gaetti, who went 4 for 5, hit a three-run homer in the third and added a two-run shot in the seventh, giving him three home runs on the season. He also singled home a run in the fifth and tied a career high with six RBI.

Brewers 4, Indians 3

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Glenn Braggs greeted Cleveland reliever Jesse Orosco with a bases-loaded single in the 10th inning Sunday to give the Milwaukee Brewers a 4-3 victory over the Indians.

With the score tied 3-3, B.J. Surhoff opened the 10th with a single to center. Mike Felder pinch ran for Surhoff. After Gary Sheffield flied out, Robin Yount laced a double.

There's no place like home. That is what the men's tennis team is saying after sweeping three matches this weekend on its home courts.

The Salukis beat Evansville 8-0 on Friday, Indiana State 9-0 on Saturday, and Bradley 8-1 on Sunday. The men won 26 consecutive matches before losing the No. 2 doubles match against Bradley.

Coach Dick LeFevre said that he was pleased that his team did well, especially against conference foes Indiana State and Bradley.

"Everybody played well, the score shows that," LeFevre said. "The teams we played had good first and second singles but they lacked depth. We were stronger down the line."

In Sunday's match versus Bradley the Salukis took all of the singles matches. No. 1 singles Joe Demeterco won 6-2, 4-6, 6-2. No. 2 Jairo Aldana won 5-7, 7-5, 6-1. The other Salukis won in straight sets — No. 3 Mickey Maule 6-2, 6-1, No. 4 Juan Martinez 6-2, 6-1, and No. 6 George Hime was victorious 6-4, 6-0.

LeFevre said that winning so many conference matches this weekend will help the Salukis during the conference tournament.

"If a player has a bad record against the conference, he will get a tougher seeding," LeFevre said. "We need as many wins as we can to help us in the tournament."

The weekend sweep raises the Salukis record to 8-17. As LeFevre planned, the tough early-season schedule has produced a number of wins late in the season. The Salukis have won four in a row.

"We prepared by playing tough teams early," LeFevre said. "I think it's paying off. Our record isn't pretty but we're playing as tough as any team in the conference."

Injured women lose 2

The hobbled women's tennis team dropped two of its three matches this weekend.

The Salukis met up with Wichita State, Drake, and Southwest Missouri State. Friday and Saturday at Forest Park courts in St. Louis. The squad lost to both Wichita State and Drake by scores of 6-3 and 5-4, respectively, but the Salukis rallied together to get by the Bears 5-2.

Coach Judy Auld said the injury situation with No. 1 singles Beth Boardman and other players hurt the teams chances this weekend.

"Without Beth and with Lori Edwards still hurting, we went into St. Louis a little flat," Auld said. "The matches were still there for us to win. I think even with the injuries we should have done a little better."

Cherebetiu, normally at No. 2 singles, was bumped up to the No. 1 spot and handled the job by winning 2 of her 3 matches.

With all the singles players moving up a notch, Julie Burgess got her chance at No. 6 singles and didn't let the opportunity pass her by. Burgess won all three of her matches.

Men's golf team finishes sixth in Morehead's Eagle Classic

By David Gallianetti
Staff Writer

Men's golf coach Lew Hartzog has no problem with his team giving a good effort. It's just that little extra that sometimes spells disaster.

After shooting a season-low 296 Thursday, the Salukis combined rounds of 306 Friday and Saturday to settle for 908 and a sixth place in the 12-team Eagle Classic at Morehead, Ken., this weekend.

"We played extremely well the first day, and found ourselves in second behind Louisville," Hartzog said. "From then on, I'm not too sure the kids didn't try a bit too hard. We would bogey a hole and try to get it right back with a birdie. When you do that, you're in trouble."

Louisville won the tournament with a 885. Morehead was second at 888, Delta State third at 900, Southwest Missouri fourth at 901 and Cincinnati fifth at 907.

Mike Cowen led the Sa'ukis with rounds of 72, 75 and 78 for 225. Sean Leckrone finished with 74, 74 and 78 for 226, Brian Pavelonis with 74, 80 and 75 for 229, Mark Bellas with 77, 77 and 79 for 233 and Sean English with 76, 83 and 75 for 234.

"I really felt, when we got down there, with the teams that were in it, I would not be upset if we finished 10th," Hartzog said. "There are only two teams I really thought we could beat, Middle Tennessee and Tennessee State."

Olajuwon, Houston nip Mavericks to gain fifth straight winning year

DALLAS (UPI) — Akeem Olajuwon rallied Houston in regulation and Otis Thorpe hit the game-winning with 1:39 remaining in overtime Sunday to bring the Rockets a 114-112 decision over the Dallas Mavericks.

The victory ensured the Rockets a franchise-record fifth consecutive winning season and all but eliminated the Mavericks from playoff contention.

Another loss by Dallas or another win by Portland during the final week of the season will give the eighth and final playoff spot in the NBA West to the Trail Blazers.

Houston overcame a 22-point first-quarter deficit after the Mavericks scored the game's first 13 points. The Rockets climbed to within 14 at the half and 11 after three quarters, tying the game for the first time at 104-104 with 35 seconds remaining in regulation.

Rolando Blackman's shot to win the game at the end of regulation was blocked, with the Mavericks protesting heatedly that Blackman was fouled on the shot.

Thorpe gave the Rockets a 114-112 lead with 1:39 to play in overtime, and neither team could score after that. Dallas' last bid to tie the game failed at the buzzer.

Philadelphia 76ers defeat New York Knicks

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Charles Barkley sank 2 free throws with eight seconds to play Sunday to help the Philadelphia 76ers defeat the New York Knicks 115-112 in a preview of a likely first-round playoff matchup.

Barkley's free throws gave the 76ers a 113-112 lead and, after a New York turnover, Mike Gminski sank two more and with two seconds to play for the final margin.

Gminski led the 76ers with 25 points, Barkley had 22 and Hersey Hawkins added 21 as Philadelphia won the season series from the Knicks 4-2. New York, which rallied from a 26-point deficit to take the lead, received 16 points each from Patrick Ewing and Mark Jackson.

Ewing's jumper gave the Knicks a 112-110 lead after his two free throws; had brought New York within 111-110 with 1:02 to play. Ewing sat out all of the third quarter.

Men's track team disappoints coach with weekend display

By Paul Pabst
Staff Writer

The men's track team enjoyed a weekend of good weather and horse races while in Hot Springs, Ark.

Unfortunately, according to Coach Bill Cornell, the team didn't enjoy much success on the track.

"Everything was conducive to good performances," Cornell said. "Weather, good competition, we didn't rise to the occasion. The team didn't perform up to our standards. We are a better team than we showed. I'm disappointed and so are they."

Saturday's meet saw the Salukis place sixth in the eight team field. Arkansas won with 108 points, while SIU-C scored 36 points to finish ahead of both Oklahoma and Oklahoma State.

The bulk of the Salukis scoring came from sprinter Erick Pegues and weight man Eric Bomball.

Pegues took second in the 400-meters in a time of 47.76. Teammates Kevin Steele and John Stinson took 4th and 5th, respectively. Pegues also anchored the third-place 4 x 400 relay team of Stinson, Steele, Donnell Williams, and himself. The relay squad finished one second behind the winning Oklahoma team in 3 minutes 11.51 seconds.

Bomball, who had his season best in the discus, placed in two field events for SIU-C. He threw 53 feet 7½ inches to place third in the shot put and was fifth in the discus in 154-10.

"The 4 x 400 team was in it all the way, they were nipped at the end," Cornell said. "Bomball is showing some real consistency, he's starting to round into good condition."

Another field event that saw a Saluki place was the triple jump. Leonard Vance jumped 48-6½ to seal a third-place showing.

Cornell said that the lack of quality performances was not because of physical condition.

"We are in great physical shape," Cornell said. "The guys weren't prepared mentally. We look great in workouts and something happens when they hit the track against competition."

The team got a special treat in Hot Springs, their own horse race. The second race at Oak Lawn race track was named for the Salukis. According to Cornell the team had a good time at this special event.

"The kids and the coaches loved the races," Cornell said. "Instead of just running and sitting in a hotel the kids got to see some interesting things in the town. It was a good experience."

Thatcher visits stadium day after soccer tragedy

SHEFFIELD, England (UPI) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher visited the Hillsborough soccer stadium Sunday a day after 94 people were killed by a surging crowd and announced an investigation into Britain's worst sports disaster.

Flowers and cards were tucked into the stadium gates where the chaos began Saturday shortly after the start of a semifinal game of the English Football Association Cup between Liverpool and Nottingham Forest. Sunday church services also were held in remembrance of the victims.

Police said 94 people were crushed to death when late arrivals pressed into a standing-room section for Liverpool fans, crushing those inside against a spiked railing designed to keep spectators off the field. The gate eventually collapsed.

Television reports brought home the tragedy to million of Britons as the dense crowd could be seen struggling toward the field.

Two hospitals in Sheffield,

150 miles north of London, treated 170 injured fans, mostly young men. Officials said 17 of the 71 still hospitalized were in critical condition, several with brain damage from oxygen deprivation.

Less than 24 hours after the disaster, fans of two rival Dutch soccer teams clashed in Amsterdam, prompting baton charges by riot police to quell the violence which left at least 27 people injured, authorities said.

A police spokesman said 24 people were arrested and held on suspicion of inciting the violence, which occurred before, during and after a game between arch-rivals Ajax Amsterdam and Feyenoord of Rotterdam.

Although British soccer has been plagued by rioting and hooliganism in recent years, police cited no reports of intentional violence Saturday. The disaster was the second major soccer stadium melee in four years involving Liverpool.

more than last year's team leader and the season isn't over yet."

Rosanne Vincent breezed to a victory in the 800-meters in a time of 2:14.65. Vincent held with the pack until the second lap, when she kicked in and left the competition behind.

"Rosanne turned it on in the last lap," DeNoon said. "She just creamed everyone after that."

Adding a distance victory for the Salukis was Jane Schumacher. She ran to a personal best time of 4:34.20 in the 1,500-meters to gain the victory.

The final first-place victory for the Salukis was the 4 x 400 relay team of Michelle Williams, Carmen Robbins, Vincent, and Danielle Sciano.

Vincent gave the Salukis the lead with her 56-second opening leg. Robbins and Williams widened the gap to almost 30-meters by the time anchor Sciano took the baton. Sciano never let up as the foursome ran to a victory in 3:50.80.

Davis ran to the second-fastest 100-meter time in SIU-C history to finish second in 12.07.

Dachner, a freshman walk-on, placed third in the javelin in a throw of 129.9.

"Both performances were surprises," DeNoon said. "Davis has been improving ever since she transferred here. Jamie couldn't throw over 100 feet a month ago, and in practice now she throws 140 feet sometimes."

the teams got into an argument, leading to the expulsion of a SEMO player.

Jayver Luque led SIU-C for 90 minutes, showing skillful ball control and precise

Baseball team struggles with Bradley

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Last week, Bradley slugger Jerry Mitchell took a crack on the head and ended up with a concussion that was supposed to keep him out of the lineup. But Mitchell had fully recovered for the four-game Missouri Valley Conference series against the Salukis, and he made it clear with a crack of his bat.

In the first game of Sunday's doubleheader at Meinen Field in Peoria, the Salukis led by one run in the last of the ninth when Mitchell belted a two-run homer that clinched a 9-8 victory for the Braves.

Mitchell's home run completed a big game at the plate. He went 3-for-5, had 3 runs batted in and scored three runs.

Although SIU-C captured the second game 10-5 behind four innings of no-hit relief pitching by sophomore Dale Meyer (4-4), Bradley won the series thanks to a 6-1 and 4-1 sweep of the Salukis Saturday.

Bradley went to 24-12 overall and 4-4 in the conference. The Salukis are at 18-17 and 3-5.

The Salukis have seven games scheduled this week. They play Southern Indiana in a doubleheader Tuesday at Abe Martin Field before embarking on a five-game road swing. They are at Eastern Illinois for a single game Wednesday and at Creighton next weekend for a four-game series.

SIU-C's offense, which had been dreadfully silent, did awaken Sunday. Brad Hollenkamp went 4-for-5, including two home runs, three runs and 4 RBIs while Doug Shields contributed three hits and two runs in the first game.

Shields, Ed Janke and Matt Giegling each doubled as part of a five-run rally in the sixth that put SIU-C briefly ahead 6-5.

Hollenkamp's second home run, a two-run shot with two outs, put the Salukis ahead 8-7 before Mitchell came through with his game-winning blast.

Bradley's Steve De Paep was the winning pitcher, working the last 2 1-3 innings. Shane Gooden (0-1) threw the last 3 2-3 innings for SIU-C for the loss. Chris Bend started and Paul Conn added an inning of relief for the Salukis.

In the second game, Meyer took to the mound with the score tied 5-5 in the fourth, and he blanked Bradley for the next four innings. He struck out three and walked two.

Brian Shouse (4-3) was the loser for Bradley, giving up seven hits.

Mark Hokanson pitched the first 3 1-3 innings for the Salukis. He allowed four runs on five hits.

The Salukis got three runs in the fourth, highlighted by Derek Shelton's run-scoring double and Tim Davis' two-RBI single.

In the four-run fifth, Rick Damico had a two-RBI triple and Giegling a two-RBI single.

In the sixth, Kurt Endebrack tripled and scored on a Shields' fly ball.

On Saturday: Tony Ardiss and Phil Caplis each doubled to give Brian Dour (7-1) the pitching victory for Bradley. Meyer was the losing pitcher. Shields and Hollenkamp had three hits each.

In the second game, Mike Grace struckout 10 for the victory. Sean Bergman (4-3) was the losing pitcher.

Softball team splits action on weekend

By Douglas Powell
Staff Writer

The Saluki softball team added a pair of wins and a pair of losses to its Gateway Conference record over the weekend to move its record to 14-11 overall and 4-2 in the league.

Wichita State's pitcher Patty Bautista had 98 strikeouts before Friday's doubleheader in Wichita began. But after the nightcap had ended Bautista had 18 more strikeouts to add to her record.

"She is the strength of their team," said Saluki coach Kay Brechtelsbauer. "She pitched brilliantly."

"As long as Patty is on the mound Wichita will be a conference contender. She can make our batters look at the good pitches and swing at the bad pitches."

The Salukis dropped the first pair of weekend games to Wichita by a score of 2-1 and 4-0. Saturday's games against Southwest Missouri fared better for the Salukis with two wins, 6-3 and 2-1.

In the opener against Wichita, junior second baseman Shelly Gibbs had an RBI double that scored the Saluki's solo run. Freshman outfielder Kim Johannsen went 2-3 with a triple.

In the second game the Salukis were blanked by Bautista who racked up eight strikeouts. Junior catcher Jan Agnich and Gibbs both hit doubles.

Sophomore Lisa Robinson and sophomore Traci Furlow were tagged for the losses on the mound for the Salukis.

SIU-C soccer club claims victory in first competition of new season

By Fernando Fellu-Moggi
Staff Writer

The SIU-C soccer club is undefeated this season — maybe because its first game was Saturday.

The SIU-C team, a selection of international students from various international teams, defeated the Southeast Missouri soccer team 1-0 at the Rec Center soccer fields in a friendly match that was the first competition for SIU-C.

Alan Harasimowicz, adviser of the local club, said he is trying to put together a collegiate team that can compete with other soccer clubs of the area.

M. Ali Firouzi, president of the International Student Council, said the team was composed of members of various international teams that played in two tournaments sponsored by ISC.

"They are not real teams. They don't train throughout the year," Firouzi said. "They just get together and play."

Although an unorganized team, SIU-C dominated the first half of the game with powerful attacks that kept SEMO in its own territory.

SIU-C missed excellent goal opportunities because of a lack of organization. But its shots were still dangerous, keeping SEMO's goaltender busy.

SIU-C's score came with 38 minutes gone in the first half, when a Saluki rebounded a corner shot and put in between the posts. It was the only score of the day.

The lack of training started to show in the second half. SEMO also showed fatigue in weak attempts for advantage.

To add to the excitement, the two teams realized they were not playing by the same rules.

In a discussion with the referee, the teams discovered SIU-C and the referee were playing by international rules while SEMO was following slightly different collegiate rules. This misunderstanding led to tempered discussions, but no major changes in game.

Near the end of the game,

Women run well at Eastern

By Paul Pabst
Staff Writer

The women's track team came back from the Eastern Illinois Invitational with six first-place finishes against a number of Gateway Conference opponents.

Saturday's meet featured SIU-C battling with Purdue, Illinois State, Indiana State, Western Illinois, host Eastern, and a number of other teams.

Men runners disappoint coach

"The meet wasn't scored," coach Don DeNoon said. "But if it was I think we would have won. Purdue would have been a close second."

One athlete that kept the Salukis on top was sprinter-hurdler Kathy Raske. Raske bettered her own school record in the 100-meter hurdles, winning the race in 13.63 seconds.

Later Raske added a personal best 24.60 in the 200-meters to place second. She continues to edge closer to the NCAA 100-meter hurdles qualifying time of 13.60.

Juniper Christiana Philippou notched a pair wins in the long jump and the triple jump. She jumped to a distance of 19 feet 5 inches in the long jump and 39-4½ in the triple.

"Kathy and Christiana both was pretty handy," DeNoon said. "Christiana has scored 217 points for us this year and Kathy has scored 180. That's

Women's basketball team signs final 1989 recruit

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Women's basketball coach Cindy Scott can finally file this season's fat recruiting folder away and breathe a sigh of relief — even though an empty envelope with "1990" scrawled on it awaits her.

For the moment, at least, the Salukis' future is secure.

Cheryl Weis, a 6-2 sophomore center from Rend

Lake College, signed a national letter of intent Thursday to play at SIU-C. She is the second player to pledge in this signing period and the fifth for the recruiting season.

"I think with the addition of Cheryl, we've got ourselves in good shape inside," Scott said. "Successful programs are strong inside. As a JUCO, she can help us right away."

Weis, who averaged 23 points and 8 rebounds for Rend

Lake this season, completes a list of six newcomers that will highlight next season's 15-player roster — of which only two are returning starters.

Incoming freshmen from the early signing period: 6-2 center Kelly Firth of Springfield, 5-11 forward Tiffany Bolden of Kansas City, Kan., and 5-10 guard Angie Rougeau of Memphis.

The other newcomers:

Wednesday's signee, 5-7 guard Anita Scott of St. Louis Normandy High School and San Diego transfer Alison Smith.

Coach Scott said she was intent on bringing another center into the fold to complement 6-2 sophomores Amy Rakers and Cyd Mitchell.

"There are times when are offense was anemic this year," Scott said. "Cheryl is a post player that likes to play with her back to the basket. It's a dimension to the post game that we don't have."

Weis was one of two double-figure scorers — shooting 59 percent from the field — for Rend Lake, which finished at 19-14.

Weis, who will study print journalism, also showed interest in Gateway rival Indiana State and Alabama-Birmingham.
