The Daily Egyptian, April 15, 1993

Daily Egyptian Staff

Follow this and additional works at: https://opensiuc.lib.siu.edu/de_April1993
Volume 78, Issue 139
Student president used $450 for trip

Club says transfer of fee money unauthorized

By Chris Davies
Special Assignment Writer

Brad Cole, the SIUC student body president, secretly transferred $450 of student funds last summer to pay for his trip to the Republican National Convention in Houston.

Cole transferred the money Aug. 11 to the College Republicans' account without the club's approval, said Eric Scott, president of the College Republicans, who became concerned when he found the item in his budget. Cole was no longer a member of the club when the transfer was made.

Cole removed the funds Sept. 2 as reimbursement for travel costs, but without the permission of the president or the treasurer of the College Republicans, as specified in the club's constitution. Scott said Cole had no authorization to withdraw funds from the College Republicans' account.

"Our constitution states clearly that only the president or the treasurer can authorize the removal of funds," he said. "I am surprised Cole was able to transfer the funds so easily from our account, and it is questionable where he got the money."

"Scott said he also was upset because other club members wanted to go to the convention but had to pay their own way.

Cole said the College Republicans should have said something sooner if there was a problem.

"The College Republicans are simply trying to get at me as a time when I am up for re-election," he said. "I am surprised they would turn on their own."

see COLE, page 14

Gus Bode

Gus says no wonder why Ole King Cole was a merry ole soul.

Voting potential mostly ignored by SIUC students

By Drew Hendrickx
Student Writer

SIUC students probably will ignore the election of two City Council members next Tuesday, despite their potential for impacting the results.

"They almost don't vote," said David Kenney, a visiting professor of political science. "They're indifferent." But at least one council candidate is trying to change that behavior, with the idea of tapping into a large number of potential voters.

"Students could matter, if they would vote," said Mike Henry, a Carbondale businessman and one of four council candidates. "Part of it is that they're not registered to vote at home."

Kenney explained that out-of-town students registered at home cannot participate in local elections.

see VOTE, page 8

Candidate wins appeal

Spiwak must find running mate, 375 signatures

By Angela Hyland
Special Assignment Writer

Mike Spiwak, the Alliance: Party candidate for student president, won his appeal before the student judicial board Wednesday.

Spiwak and his running mate, Yaruf Haq, were disqualified from the election Monday because Haq, the vice presidential candidate, did not meet GPA requirements. The judicial board ruled that candidacy procedures were not followed in proper order and an不合格 candidate was allowed to be put on the ballot.

Spiwak has until noon, Monday to resubmit a petition with a new running mate.

To be eligible to run, Spiwak must obtain 375 signatures.

"It will be no problem whatsoever," Spiwak said. "It wasn't a problem the first time."

"I can not stress how happy I am," he said. "I feel justice has been served."

Spiwak appealed the disqualification because he said the Undergraduate Student Government constitution was not followed when the candidates picked up petitions to get on the ballot.

Before candidates can pick up a petition, they are supposed to sign an information release form so a check can be made of their GPAs, Spiwak said.

He appealed to the judicial board at that point but no sanctions were levied.

His running mate should have known immediately if his GPA was not high enough, and he never would have been allowed to become a candidate, Spiwak said.

"I am being disqualified for something I had no legal control over," Spiwak said at the appeal Wednesday. "The GPA of my running mate is confidential, and I had no "gal right to verify it."

Spiwak was upset when he found out his ticket was disqualified Monday night. He arrived at a scheduled debate with incumbent candidate Brad Cole to discover only one podium set up. No one had notified him of the decision.

Spiwak appealed again Tuesday. He also appealed to the student affairs administration, which ruled that it must re-evaluate a decision from the student judicial board before it can hear an appeal.

Awareness Week offers full schedule of support activities

—Story on page 3

Today is last day to file tax returns; post office to help

—Story on page 6

Opinion

See page 4

Classifieds

See page 10

Sports

See page 15

Delaware professor to talk about life at memorial lecture

—Story on page 9

Chicago prep guard signs letter of intent with SIUC basketball

—Story on page 16

Rain High 60s

Chicago prep guard signs letter of intent with SIUC basketball

—Story on page 16
Salukis

Saluki cagers ink 6-2 guard

By Karyn Viverito
Sports Writer

Carbondale's newest slogan became "my kind of town." Tuesday when Chicago basketball star Marcus Patterson signed a national letter of intent to join the Saluki men's basketball team. The 6-foot-2, 187-pound point guard averaged 14 points a game for La Salle last season, leading it to a 17-7 record. Patterson said he liked the atmosphere of Carbondale and its involvement with Saluki basketball. "When I visited, everywhere we went, everyone knew the players and the coaches, and of rain, he said. "It seemed like the Salukis in Carbondale were just like the Bulls in Chicago." A Chicago Catholic League all-star, Patterson is nicknamed "Flight" by his teammates. Patterson said they say he likes to spend a lot of time in the air.

De La Salle coach Tony Rappold said he is ecstatic about Patterson signing with a Division I school like SIUC. "Marcus is as strong as an ox, and a player who loves the game, and works hard," he said. "He is a very good athlete and is the most dependable player we have ever had."

Saluki head coach Rich Herrin said one quality he likes in Patterson is his ability to come through in tight situations. "I like the fact that he wants the ball at the end of the game," Herrin said. "He won a couple of games this season with last-second shots and I like that."

Herrin said Patterson is an athlete with great all-around skills and court awareness, and can play either the No. 1 (point guard) or 2 (shooting guard) position. Patterson's abilities have him named as one of the Top 20 senior basketball players in the state by Dave Kaplan in his Windy City Roundball Review magazine.

Thomas Shadrick, a teammate of Patterson's at De La Salle, is reportedly signing with SIUC rival Southwest Missouri State.

Herrin said he is not anticipating any further signings this week.

SIUC looks to keep pace in Valley race

By Dan Leahy
Sports Writer

The SIUC baseball team will take on Southeast Missouri State today in a 3 p.m. contest at Abe Martin Field, but its primary task will be this weekend. The Dawgs will try to follow up last weekend's thrilling 9-8 victory over Iowa by keeping the momentum this week in a game series against Illinois State at Abe Martin Field.

A solid showing this weekend will keep the Salukis in the thick of the Missouri Valley Conference race, as they are currently 4-2 and 4-0 with a 3-3 record against Illinois State.

Wichita State has raced to a 6-0 conference mark, living up to its billing as the preseason favorite to win the Valley. The Salukis won two of three from Illinois State last year, and have not lost a series to the Redbirds since the 1972 season. Illinois State (10-19, 2-4) dropped two of three to Southwest Missouri State last weekend. Casey Fisk is the Redbirds' top hurler, posting a 4-3 mark. Mark Dorencz provides the power on offense, pacing the team in homers (7), and RBIs (16).

If the Salukis are going to keep things rolling, they are going to have to do it without some key pitchers. Senior starter Mike Van Gilder and junior relief specialist Nait Smith are both on the list.

Van Gilder injured a tendon prior to last Sunday's game against Northern Iowa, and has been out since. The earliest he might see action is the Bradley series April 24-25.

Van Gilder's injury will slow his pursuit of first place on the all-time SIUC list for innings pitched. Van Gilder has pitched 262 2/3 innings, good enough to put him third on the list. He trails starter Dale Kirsten by 9 1/3 innings and seems to be a lock to break the record, barring further injury problems.

Sheddop broke the third mental at his left foot while running sprains Tuesday, and will be out four to six weeks. Riggelman said the pitching

Women netters prepare for league tourney with tune-up against SIUE

By Kevin Bergquist
Sports Editor

Rain, rain, go away. Come another day.

It is beginning to sound like a broken record, one the SIUC women's tennis team does not want to hear anymore. The reality is, however, that the threat of rain has once again cast a shadow over the Salukis' chance to get some outdoor court time in.

Weather permitting, SIUC is slated to take on SIU-Edwardsville Thursday at 3 p.m. at the University tennis courts.

A nonconference affair, Thursday's match will help serve as a tune-up for the Salukis as they prepare for "A" Missouri Valley Conference Tournament April 22-24 in Wichita, Kan.

"We would like to get this match in so that we do not have a big layoff before the tournament," SIUC coach Judy Auld said.

SIUE comes to town as somewhat of a mystery. Auld said she is unfamiliar with most of the Cougars' personnel, but expects a competitive match.

"We anticipate they will come in as a fairly good team," Auld said.

Auld said she would like to see her team focus in and play strong tennis heading into the tournament.

"We want to win the big and crucial points and take advantage of all our opportunities and close out points," Auld said.

The Salukis will head to Kansas City next Sunday, bringing with them the challenge of seeing how they have done, and whether or not they have improved. Auld said the team will have a couple of matches left before the conference tourney the last few years—health.

"What I'm looking at now is that we are healthy," Auld said. "The last few years, we have had some titles we could have won, but we didn't have a clean shot because of injuries."

Auld said the team will find out April 21 what its seed will be at the tournament. The Salukis could land a high seed by virtue of their 5-1 league record.

A win over the Cougars would bolster the Salukis to the .500 mark on the season. SIUE has not posted a losing record since the 1985-86 season.

Irref Peedanova leads the team in wins with 19 against 11 losses. She is 10-4 on the spring at the No. 2 and 3 positions in the Spring Clean Up 1993

When: Sat., April 17
8am - 1pm (Raindate: Apr. 18, 1-5pm)

Where: Sign in at Turley Park
for clean Up Assignments
T-Shirts for first 300 Volunteers
Free food for workers
Prizes
Live Entertainment by Tom Connolly,
Wild Bill Croisol & Friends, and Kathleen Shaffner

SIC

Do You Know Why?
Interested in University Health Insurance coverage that doesn't require a portion of your money to fund the elective procedures of other students (i.e. abortion)?
If you want to know more about an alternative to the standard
University plan, call
529-2261

South Africans mourn Hani's death — Millions of South Africans, staging the nation's largest general strike, mourned black leader Chris Hani in mourning, rallies and memorial services marketed by widespread looting and clashes with police that left at least five dead and hundreds injured. More than 80 percent of black workers stayed home from work on the day of mourning. But the anger and bitterness created chaos across much of the country.

12 men from Gorbachev era stand trial
The trial of 12 of the most powerful men of the Gorbachev era, facing charges of high treason for their roles in the August 1991 coup, commenced with the accused and their lawyers haughtily challenging the court with legal maneuver after another. Rather than acting like defendants on trial for a crime so weighty that it carries a possible death penalty, the men appeared relaxed and confident.

U.S. Allies response cool to Russian Aid
The United States made preparations to cut off a large aid package for Russia Wednesday but its allies were large, cool to American requests that each of them provide more bilateral assistance. Secretary of State Warren Christopher approved for the new assistance from the Group of Seven major industrialized democracies meeting here to work out a large aid package for Russia. His appeal did not appear to set off alarm.

King JURUS TAKEN TO PERSONAL PHYSICIAN
The judge in the federal trial of four men accused of violating Rodney King's civil rights said Wednesday that a juror who got sick would be taken to his personal physician for medical attention. U.S. District Judge John Stevens said that one of the panel would remain in the courtroom until Thursday morning, presumably with the man who was ill. The judge said it did not appear that the man who was ill would need to be replaced.

KORESH PLEDGES TO LEAVE COMPOUND
David Koresh, the leader of the Branch Davidians, said he and his more than 90 followers will leave the compound after he completes a manuscript that depicts the seven seals of a biblical apocalypse, according to his attorney Dick DeGuerin of Houston. DeGuerin, who spoke with Koresh for about an hour on the telephone, said no specific time frame was given for completion of the manuscript.

LANDING GEAR FAILS IN DALLAS INJURING 29
The landing gear of an American Airlines DC-10 hit the runway as it touched down at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport Wednesday, sending at least 29 people to area hospitals. An airline spokesman said there were no crisis injuries, though one passenger suffered a broken pelvis. The Right from Honolulu carried 189 passengers and a crew of 13. All were evacuated from the plane on emergency chutes after the jet skidded to a stop.

PULLITZER PRIZE WINNING NOVELIST DIES
Wallace Stegner, a novelist whose sense of the land and the righteousness of the West filled his books as well as his life, died in Santa Fe, N.M., as the result of injuries in a March 28 car accident. He was 84. Winner of the Pulitzer Prize for "Angle of Repose" in 1972 and a National Book Award for "Speculator Bird" in 1977, Stegner founded the creative writing program at Stanford University and ran it for more than 20 years.

from Daily Egyptian wire services

Accuracy Desk

If readers spot an error in a news article, they can contact the Daily Egyptian Accuracy Desk at 536-3311, extention 233 or 228.
Taxing situation
Andrew Pilicichla, a graduate student in public relations, selects his tax forms at the last minute Wednesday at the Federal Building. He was one of many procrastinating taxpayers scrambling to meet the April 15 filing deadline.

Ambassador: U.S. assistance helps Africa grow
By Candace Samolinski
International Writer
Africa’s experiencing a second revolution within its political, economic and social infrastructures and should not be abandoned by U.S. assistance programs during this time of progression, said the keynote speaker of African Awareness week.

“During the first revolution, 50 African countries declared their independence.” Herman J. Cohen, senior career ambassador and former assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs. “Now they are experiencing a second revolution which involves privatization of business and fair treatment for farmers.”

A crowd of about 100 turned out Tuesday night in the SIUC Student Center for Cohen’s speech. He said the United States has been active in providing Africa with assistance, and at the same time has given them enough leeway to make their own political choices.

“Africa inherited democratic systems from the countries which once controlled them,” Cohen said. “They soon determined these types of systems were not right for them and adopted a one-party system.”

“The United States stood behind them and allowed them to make their own form of democracy, even though it was very much different from our own,” he said.

Several members of the audience questioned the motives of the United States. Questions regarding the continuous allowance of dictatorial rule were asked. Cohen said the role of the U.S. government was not to dictate how the African countries should run their governments.

Cohen said the United States was pleased when a new generation of African people returned home and began demanding reforms within the political systems.

“During late 1970’s and early 1980’s people began to take a closer look at the governmental systems,” he said. “They decided the policies instituted in 1960 were no longer appropriate.”

Cohen said the United States did not urge the Africans to copy the democratic system of the United States. “We just urged them to make a change and offered to give them guidance in doing so,” he said.

Economic growth within African countries is 7 to 8 percent. “People are beginning to invest in their own country,” Cohen said. “It is exciting to think that Africa could become a major trading partner of the United States.”

“Back in the 60’s and 70’s we thought the events in Africa were headed in the right direction and with the help of the U.S. government more progress is possible.”
Senate vote just one against new college

THE PHOENIX COMMITTEE HAS SHOWN that a proposed new college made up of broadcast services, cinema and photography, journalism, and radio and television would be a strong academic foundation for students. The committee has shown that media and communication courses could be tied together in a centralized curriculum that would give students a taste of a multimedia world.

It also argues that a new college’s administration would cost no more than the additional administration that would be needed in the College of Liberal Arts if the units were absorbed into the already large COLA.

YET THE FACULTY SENATE rejected the Phoenix plan Tuesday, citing fears that the college would not be a cost-cutting venture.

Despite the vote, the Phoenix Committee should continue its fight with renewed vigor. One reason is the closeness of the senate’s vote. Of 28 voting members, 13 cast ballots against the college, 11 were for it and four abstained. A vote that close means that faculty are almost split on the idea of a new college, not decidedly against it.

AND FACULTY FROM THE PHOENIX UNITS were not even represented in the vote.

That is correct. The sole Faculty Senate representative from the units in question is Mike Starr, professor of radio and television.

At the time of the vote, he was only an advisory member and not allowed to cast a ballot.

Ironically, Starr was approved as a voting member of the senate in legislation immediately following the vote on the college.

BUT THE MOST COMPPELLING REASON the Phoenix Committee should continue the fight is because, like Starr was, the Faculty Senate is — and will remain — only an advisory group to the administration.

Groups such as the Faculty Senate, both student groups, the Graduate Council and organizations for administrative/professional employees and civil service employees play an advisory role on University matters so that each portion of the campus community has a voice on every administrative decision. But the actual decisions are made by the administration and the Board of Trustees.

CONSTITUENCIES’ VOTES SHOULD BE only advisory because they represent only one portion of the campus community — and in votes like Tuesday’s, the position decided upon was too close to call.

In this case, the Faculty Senate also made decisions based on economics rather than academics.

While deciding to nix the new college, the senate voted to encourage the University to keep two associate degree programs in the College of Technical Careers.

In essence, the group disapproved of a new unit with strong academic ties that would enhance the University, and it approved of the construction technology and tool and manufacturing technology programs, which provide the equivalent of trade school and junior college level degrees.

ADMINISTRATORS SHOULD ACCEPT the Faculty Senate’s vote for what it is: an ambiguous statement by one group.

And they should accept the Phoenix plan for what it is: an attempt to continue and improve a strong academic tradition.

Letters to the Editor

United States must stay in own lane

I’m writing in response to Stephen A. Szczewyc’s letter which was in favor of admitting Haitians with the AIDS Virus into the U.S.

It’s a shame that his letter wasn’t printed one day earlier, on April Fool’s Day, because it does seem to be somewhat comical.

Hello? Is anyone home? Stephen, AIDS is not a controllable disease. You get AIDS, you die. Not much control in that. But that’s another letter. Stephen, is the sky blue in your world? The Haitians should most definitely not be allowed to seek refuge in the U.S.

The accommodations that you spoke of, that could “definitely be absorbed into the already large COLA.

THE MINORITY REPORT

Fool’s Day.

Have you ever thought of the world and the way it is going to soothe away the increasing number of U.S. citizens that are homeless? Ah hell, let’s just extend an open invitation to all the world’s homeless to come to the U.S. We can fix it. You can bunk with Stephen. Get real!

Hotel benefits few students, threatens beauty of campus

I have always appreciated the SIUC campus for its natural beauty. Thompson Woods and the trees behind the Student Center create an atmosphere of harmony and peace.

Unfortunately, plans to build a 160-room luxury hotel threaten the attractiveness of our campus.

Those who decide to build this luxury hotel should answer the following questions:

1. Where will hotel patrons park? (will they reserved parking?)
2. How many trees will be chopped down to build it?
3. How many stories high will this hotel be?
4. What effect will the hotel have on the Student Center traffic?
5. Who will this hotel house benefit?

Given the present short-comings with higher education, are SIUC administrators more concerned with programs to benefit a minority of SIU students, or are they focusing their time and energy on programs to increase the quality of education for the majority?

The parking problem alone causes me to oppose this hotel, and I do not even drive on campus—there are not enough spaces as it is.

If a hotel must be built (which it does not), let it be built in an already existing enterprise zone.

Internships and conferences can be facilitated through an off-campus hotel; SIU can work with Choice Hotels, Inc. on an off-campus project if they so desire.

It would be nice if the administrators surveyed student attitudes to their proposals before they made decisions which directly effect the students — Robert W. Johnson, graduate student, therapeutic recreation

How to submit a letter to the editor:

A. You
B. Letter
C. Editor

Humanity needed for animal survival

Last Sunday we were out picking up litter along Grand Avenue. One of us picked a stick into a cardboard box, startling a cat in it out of the ditch, and out dropped four young kittens, still wobbily on their feet and crying for their mother.

The Humane Shelter accepted them with no question asked — but we were left with some questions. Why did the mother not take them to the Shelter, but instead leave them to a slow death? Why have a cat if you’re not a cat-lover? And, if you love cats, how can you do such a thing to kittens? Please learn from this. If you have a cat but don’t want kittens, have the cat sterilized. If you have kittens you don’t want and can’t find a home for, take them to the Humane Shelter.

Look in the phone book under “Humane.” — Sarah Heyer, foreign languages and Lee Hartman, foreign languages
Letters to the Editor

City Council election important; people should turn out in force

With the City Council Election rapidly approaching, I would like to express my opinion concerning the election.

This election is very important because the voters are electing two people to a seven-person council. These council persons will mandates parties and make decisions concerning who we elect to the future of Carbondale.
The City of Council election will affect every citizen in Carbondale, from students to retired individuals. Every vote in a voice in city government; every vote is important.

April 20 is a chance for every registered voter to be heard.

I have been working closely with one candidate, Maggie Flanagan. Ms. Flanagan encourages partnership, education for underemployed, and undereducated students. Ms. Flanagan is a young voice on human resources.

Another candidate has criticized her trying to "take a vision" into the city; I think Carbondale needs a fresh face for its future. Maggie is one of four candidates.

I feel that she is very qualified and would be a great asset to the future Carbondale residents, and the SIUC population.

Please take the time to vote on Tuesday, April 20.

Also, please take the time to consider supporting Maggie Flanagan for City Council and give Carbondale a chance to move strongly into the future. - Karol Abrams, Carbondale

Judicial Board should treat candidates fairly

Let's discuss democracy. This year holds another fine example of people electing USG candidates. Before this candidature, I personally had no experience in the exhibit election last year.

Tuesday's and Wednesday's Daily Egyptian, though, caught my attention. Just reading the articles concerning the disqualification of Mike Spikwak as a candidate for USG president. His running mate was disqualified, but for his general representation, this auto-nomously took Spikwak from the ballot, too.

A artikel mentioned procedural violations by the election commissioner during disqualification of USG petition. Of course, no sanctions were needed since the Judicial Board thought that "candidates were treated fairly."

Spikwak's appeal, however, now has to go through the board. Let's see if he is offered the same leniency. Tuesday's article also jogged my memory back to the incident last year involving the disqualification of USG President Brad Cole, when he had spent nearly $200 more in his campaign than he should have.

As a result, Brad Cole is your USG president today.

Let's see if the administration decides to reinstate Mike Spikwak as well.

Admittedly, I do not know every last detail, and most of the student body probably does not know.

Is it not strange, though, how the rules can work for the same guy in different ways two years in a row?

Wouldn't it be nice if either the rules were adhered to consistently or if exceptions to them were made in the same manner this year as well?

I hope the judicial board sees that the candidates are "treated fairly." - Jeff B. King, senior, political science

Government today means less service, more self promotion

Most people will agree that there are problems with our "good old boy, scratch my back, I'll scratch yours" system of government. I know that I do. Those in power want nothing but to stay in power.

Public service used to mean just that, public service. What do we do about it? The first thing is to stop it at its roots.

Finally, what we seen of SIUC's USG, it is the breeding grounds for just this type of politician. I am not writing to pander to any candidate. Just to stand for what is right.

I can't pass judgement on Brad Cole for I do not know him. But I have met Mr. Spikwak on several occasions. He is definitely sincere, polite and interested in standing up.

According to the DE front page article on April 13, Mr. Cole had prior knowledge of Mr. Spikwak's candidacy disqualification and did not inform Mr. Spikwak.

Mr. Cole allegedly claimed that as a candidate himself, he could not tell Mr. Spikwak. If this is what took place, then shame on Brad Cole. From a candidate's perspective I understand, but he is the president already, and it should be his duty to be honest. He must not feel very secure not to have told Mr. Spikwak.

This is the kind of "hiding behind the skin" that lets bad people slip through the cracks.

I am not saying that you are bad. Mr. Cole, but if it is allowable, then we are rewarding people for being more competitive instead of more respectable and concerned.

Please note this, SIUC officials, are these the types of professionals you want to create? I sure hope not. - Eric Hielemo, junior, civil engineering

Student elections give early training for careers in political maneuvering

Let it never be said that SIUC student government is an inadequate environment in which to begin a career in politics. The power that (whoever they may be) are certainly training our aspiring politicians to play the game.

For two years in a row during the USG election, all students watched their votes get stripped from them. Last year, after he broke his word, Brad Cole had a contract with USG renewed with no votes cast at all. This year, another round of empty promises; Brad Cole appears to be the only candidate to vote for, which again means that the students have no choice in the matter.

These events would be almost appalling if they were not so typical of American politics. Most... decisions take place behind closed doors.

If one didn't believe that the administration knows better and is more concerned with setting a good example which would promote the image of a student government, one could almost assume that it is biased in favor of Brad Cole and is preparing him up for the scenes. With these events in mind, it is little wonder that most students are apathetic when it comes to voting. We are forced to wonder if our votes really matter.

These events would almost be appalling if they were not so typical of American politics. Most of the important and relevant decisions always take place behind closed doors. SIUC is doing an excellent job of teaching their budding politicians about some of the harsh realities of democracy.

Keep your eye on Brad Cole; he's almost certain to be a big name in politics someday. -- Brollt Perkins, senior English
Bar employees plead not guilty by Waigh case

By Joe Libietti

Six present and former SIUC students pleaded not guilty to charges including involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of a SIUC freshman in February. John Waigh, a 24-year-old freshman from South Holland, died Feb. 5 after asphyxiation after an early morning confrontation with employees of Checkers nightclub, 605 E. Grand Ave.

Martin Todd Lewis, 24; Jeffrey Judd, 23; Edmund Bart, 22; Charles E. Hicks, 22; Steven Crawford, 21; and Richard Wojcik, 23 were indicted by a Jackson County grand jury in March. The men were charged with two counts of involuntary manslaughter, one count of aggravated battery, one count of battery, and one count of reckless conduct.

The defendants were called one at a time to make their pleas by Judge David Waith Jr., who then issued an order to place defendants on trial preparation.

Waith also reminded lawyers in the case about ethical considerations, which limit statements made about the case outside the courtroom, particularly to the press.

"You must demonstrate that if a lawyer has, say, his case in the newspapers, he doesn't have much of a case," Waith said.

---

Fina! income tax deadline approaches

Local businesses extend hours to relieve last-minute stress

"There is no penalty for filing late if you have a refund coming. But if there is a balance due...filers should attach an installment agreement form." —Mary Meyer

He said he is expecting an extra 25,000 pieces of tax-related mail tonight.

In the event people find themselves missing the postmarked deadline, Mary Meyer, office supervisor for H and R Block of 1400 West Main in Carbondale, said filers nonetheless should file as soon as possible.

"There is no penalty for filing late if you have a refund coming," she said.

"But if there is a balance due and payment cannot be made at this time, filers should submit their tax forms and attach an installment agreement form (form No. 4656)." According to Meyer, once the installation form is submitted, the Internal Revenue Service will place filers on a payment plan.

Although the interest on the installment agreement is 7 percent annually, some late charges may be added.

The option of acquiring an extension is available, but Meyer recommended them in certain circumstances. "It is better to file the return than the extension," Meyer said.

"You should file the extension if you are waiting for income information, such as if your W-2 form was incorrect."

---

SPC Vid-e-o Presents...

TONIGHT!

7:00 & 9:30 p.m.

Student Center Video Lounge

(4th Floor)

Admission only $1.00

---

Trippe! Dose

Whatney's Red Barrel Beer $1.75

White Russians $1.75

457-3308 119 N.Washington

---

Shryock Auditorium Celebrity Series

Nikolas and Murray Louis Dance Company

Wed. Apr 21 8 p.m.

Retrospective Tour Celebrated genius of multiform performance that changed modern dance

---
Researchers scrap AIDS vaccine tests

The Washington Post

Bowing to pressure from federal health officials, leading AIDS researchers and AIDS activists, the Defense Department announced Wednesday night that it will scrap a controversial $20 million clinical trial of an experimental AIDS vaccine.

Defense Department spokesperson Susan Hansen said the money will be transferred to the Defense Department and Health Services for a clinical trial involving 6,000 to 12,000 HIV-infected people to be conducted at the National Institutes of Health (NIH).

The study would involve testing multiple types of therapeutic vaccines and will be run by Anthony Fauci, head of the NIH Office of AIDS Research. Hansen also said two vaccine manufacturers—MicroGeneSys, maker of VaxSyn—and Chiron have the go-ahead to proceed with their clinical trials.

Therapeutic AIDS vaccines contain either gp160 or gp120, substances made from parts of the outer coating of the AIDS virus.

They are intended not to prevent infections with HIV but to slow or halt the progression of full-blown AIDS, those already infected by the virus. "It's too early to say which vaccines will be tested," Fauci said Wednesday night. But in order for the study to be scientifically sound and stay within the $20 million budget, he said, it will need to follow a protocol designed last year by an NIH committee.

The study would be limited to HIV-infected individuals with white blood cell counts between 200 to 500, and requires pharmaceutical companies to provide vaccine free. But one vaccine manufacturer—MicroGeneSys, maker of VaxSyn—has offered to provide vaccines free, Fauci said.

"If we have to buy the vaccine, just would chew up more of it not all of the $20 million," said Fauci, noting that the study could begin in the next several months.

"We are concerned about the transfer of responsibility away from the U.S. Army, the acknowledged leader in therapeutic vaccine research, to an agency which has repeatedly made clear that they consider therapeutic vaccine research to be a low priority at best," MicroGeneSys spokesperson Judy Powell said. Requesting participating companies to donate vaccine "is a new barrier being raised by NIH," Powell said.
VOTE, from page 1

But registration outside of Jackson County only explains part of the shortfall in voter turnout.
Census data and voter registration figures show that at least 7,900 students are registered within the city's 27 precincts. The total represents more than half of the 15,350 students who lived within city limits, according to the 1990 census, and almost half of all registered voters in Carbondale.

Henry has urged Alpha Tau Omega fraternity's 100 members to register to vote in the election, said Steve Berry, a senior in liberal arts from Clinton.

Berry said the candidate visited the fraternity to solicit their votes and arranged for a deputy registrar to visit them later.

Henry also visited Brad Cole, student body president, and the Luzer Creek Council in his pursuit of students' votes.

"I'll like to see them get out to vote," Henry said. He added that the turnout in the council primary election was higher than in past primaries.

Yet in 13 precincts where students were the majority of the population, turnout in the primary was under 11 percent and averaged only 4.6 percent. Only three precincts, 22nd precinct, cast ballots, despite the precinct having 602 registered voters.

Darren Schroeder, a former SIUC student who has lived in Carbondale for 10 years, said he is not registered to vote at his current address.

"I didn't think of needing register when I moved," Schroeder said. "I guess I won't vote this year."

Turnout for primaries is generally low among all voters. Only 9.3 percent of Carbondale's 1,548 voters cast ballots in the primary Feb. 23. This is less than the total number of voters registered in precincts 20 and 23, which are almost exclusively student residential areas.

The highest turnout, between 24 and 28 percent, came in four precincts, all located west of Oakland Avenue and south of Main Street in an area with few students.

Despite the dismal rate of student involvement, there are some students who are planning to vote on April 20.

Forestry senior Edmund Schott is certain he will vote, although he still is becoming familiar with the candidates.

"It's extremely important. I plan on voting in USG elections, and City Council as well," Schott said. "It's the place where you have the most effect."

Former Student Trustee William Hall said students who vote are exceptions to the rule.

"There's always a small percentage of the student body that is very active, but this year students need to have a greater turnout April 20," Hall said. "This year the council is going to decide whether to prohibit people under 21 from liquor establishments. And at least as important is the proposal for a bus system."

Now you can take all your stuff home without overstuffing it. Just rent a Ryder truck, and it's easy.

Ryder trucks have plenty of cargo space, so they're easy to load.

And with power steering, air conditioning, and AM/FM stereo, they're fun to drive. There's even a Ryder dealer close to campus, so choosing the right truck and getting all the help you need is easy too.

Plus, Ryder makes it easy for students with special discounts just for students. So stop cramming and start saving. Call your local Ryder dealer today and take the easy way out

STOP CRAMMING.

Make It Easy With Ryder.

$25 OFF One-Way Rental
$10 OFF Local Rental

START SAVING.

Take this coupon to your authorized Ryder dealer. It entitles you to a $25 discount on a One Way Rental or a $10 discount on a Local Rental.

Discount valid through December 31, 1994. Offer not valid with any other offer, when or discount program.

Valid where printed. Limit 1 coupon per rental. Current student ID required.

E-Z Rental
1617 W. Sycamore
549-4922

Rent-All & Sales
533 West
987-9111

RYDER
We're there when you need us.
Nichols talks to law students about Balkan conflict, Russia
By Shawna Donovan
General Assignment Writer

Because international society is a "dynamic zone," students must meet the challenge of making contributions to it, a law school official said.

Scott Nichols, SIU School of Law assistant dean, talked to law students on Tuesday about the Balkan crisis and the many problems involved.

"It is state of flux. There has to be a process of laying the groundwork and looking at world problems with an open mind," Nichols said. "The challenge is to learn the task and to the students who have to make a contribution to it."

Nichols lectured on the global hot-spots dealing with ethnic cleansing, nuclear proliferation, economical intransigence as well as the sudden surge of nationalism.

"I am afraid if the international community intervenes, especially the United States, the Balkans will become another Vietnam," Nichols said. "The Cold War has changed the world. It has brought ethnic and nationalistic problems to the surface. It is so staggering the whole world will have to deal with." Nichols pointed out the Balkan ethnic wars have been going on since World War I and as far back as collapse of the Ottoman Empire.

"We are looking at a conflict that has not been settled in contact," Nichols said. "I do not think we can solve it by throwing troops in there. Sometimes I think we should let them work it out for themselves. Let them fight it out."

"Realistically, we are not being able to sustain ourselves as a species if we do not learn to live together," Nichols said. "I am not very optimistic."

A group of students attended with questions and opinions about the challenges and problems facing the world today.

Emily Harris, a second-year law student from Macoupin, said the lecture presented a pessimistic view of the future, but asked if the sudden surge of nationalism is the last stop to a world order tied together by mass communication and technology.

"It is a theory I know of," Harris said. "Overall, the lecture portrayed a pessimistic but realistic view of the world. I think the United Nations should be more aggressive and the United States should not be policing, but should pay their dues to the U.N. and take the lead.

Gordon Fisher, a second-year law student from Schamburg, said he enjoyed the lecture.

"I enjoyed it thoroughly. I am definitely interested in recent events and technological advances," Fisher said. "It is a dynamic time and Nichols was equally fascinating."

Global media has a positive effect when it comes to finding out about tyrants and dictators, Nichols said.

"The positive media effect is when we find out about tyrants and dictators," Nichols said. "Look at Tienanmen Square and the Soviet Union. The media will help the world not to forget them."

Nichols is also the law school's dean of admission. He graduated from the University of Iowa Law School in 1979. He worked in the civil rights division of the Iowa attorney general's office for three years after graduation and became a part of SIU's staff in 1983.

"My contribution to society is representing civil right clients to the best of my ability," Nichols said. "The biggest challenge to all lawyers is to have to defend and re-educate themselves initially. Interstate lawyers will have to be there wanting to make a difference or contribution to help globally."

SIU International Law Society sponsored the lecture.

DEANS, from page 1
The candidates for COBA are: Emercy C. Turner, dean of the School of Business and Administration at St. Louis University; Bae Mathur, the acting COBA dean at SIUC; and John Schermehorn, coordinator of executive MBA programs at Ohio University.

Certain qualities were looked for in the six applicants, Bruner said, including administrative experience in academics, a doctorate degree, fundraising experience and basic interaction with people.

Interpersonal skills will be assessed during the interviews, Bruner said.

Candidates for the College of Agriculture are: Oval Myers, professor of plant and soil science at SIUC; James McGuire, professor and head of the department of plant pathology and weed science in the College of Agriculture and Home Economics at Mississippi State University; and Warren Freytag, dean and professor of the School of Forestry and Wood Products at Michigan State University.

In all, about 30 candidates applied, said Bob Wilt, professor and chairman of the Agriculture Education and Mechanization Department at SIUC.

Main qualifications were a strong academic background, leadership abilities, a commitment to quality education at the graduate and undergraduate levels and support to diverse scholarly activity.

Selections should be completed by early summer, Shepherd said.

Alternative Night
1.00 shots & one shot mixer
1.00 All Bottle Beers (Imports/Domestic)
1.75 Pitchers
(Do the Alternative)

760 E. Grand
301-522-1171

We deliver.

El Greco

An abundance of choice beef with Greek seasoning, ripe tomatoes, fresh onions, rich sour cream, served steaming on pita bread.

Library Affairs
Southern Illinois University at Carbondale

We are pleased to announce new features added to LINKS - Library Information Network:

Current Features:
- Online Catalog - SUIC Library (ILLINET)
- Online Catalog - Illinois Libraries (ILLINET)
- Periodical Indexes (EBIS)
- Library Information
- Ask a Librarian

New Features:
- Periodical Indexes (CARIL)
- Shakespeare's plays (full text)
- Online Catalogs - Chester Libraries
- Arizona State University
- Indiana University
- Michigan State University
- Pennsylvania State University
- University of Missouri
- University of Oklahoma

Access to LINKS is available through the SUIC mainframe computer.

Library Affairs invites you to visit the library during National Library Week April 18 - 24, 1993.
Eiei: LESCO PLUS COMPUTER will extend its best services on the following condition making $100. Call 5467-9992.

For Sale:

Auto
Parts & Services
Motorcycles
Recreational Vehicles
Bicycles
Mobile Homes
Real Estate
Antiques
Boats
Cameras
Computers
Electronics
Furniture
Musical Pets & Supplies
Supplies:
Miscellaneous
For Rent:

Apartments
Houses
Business Opportunities
Entertainment
Announcements

For Sale:

DIRCECTORY

For Sale:

EMBODEL OF NEWSPAPER
$3 to place one classified ad, on or before Wednesday, 5 PM. Maximum size advertisement for sale: 1/8 in.

1979 TOYOTA CORDIA, 4 door, manual, 32,000 miles, air conditioning, $2,800. Call 532-3883 or 424-1010.

DEY Poison Flower, Spring Blvd. A, 3/4 b. 26, very clean, some items, 120, 498-5203.

1987 SUBARU SJ, 3 dr., hatch, 5 speed, excellent condition, all systems 3, 000 Call 842-9274.

MADDOX 1986 FORD, 3 dr., hatch, 5 speed, excellent condition, all systems 3,000 Call 842-9274.

US BANK 1992 BON BLUE, 3 door, hatch, 5 speed, excellent condition, 12,000 miles. Call 842-9274.

STEVE THE CAR DOCTOR Mobile 1986 Honda Civic, 8, 000 miles, air conditioning, $3,500. Call 842-9274.

AUTO BODY C & S, 3200 S. Venice Blvd., 2400 S. 12th St., 9, 1, 250 Call 842-9274.

HOMES AVAL, 2 bdrm., northeast side $480. 547-6617.

Mobile Homes

WILDWOOD MOBILE HOME FOR SALE 1987. 2 bedrooms, 85 sq. ft., 15,000. Reform, 3-6212.

MURDACHE UNOCA

LIVE IN LUXURY! ALL NEW!

1993 Quality built home for only $39,900. Call 5467-9992 alt. 5.

For Rent:

Auto
Parts & Services
Motorcycles
Recreational Vehicles
Bicycles
Mobile Homes
Real Estate
Antiques
Boats
Cameras
Computers
Electronics
Furniture
Musical Pets & Supplies
Supplies:
Miscellaneous
For Sale:

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY ADVERTISING

Open Rate: $7.80 per column inch, per day

Minimum Ad Size: 1 column inch

Space Reservation Deadline: 3 p.m., 2 days prior to publication

Requisition: All 1 column classified display advertisements are required to have a 2-point border. Other borders are acceptable on larger column widths.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING RATES

(based on consecutive running dates)

Minumum Ad Size: 1 column inch

1-3 days, $6.00 per line, per day

3-5 days, $5.00 per line, per day

5-9 days, $4.00 per line, per day

Copy Deadline: 20 or more, $4.20 per line, per day

SMILE ADVERTISING RATES

$3.10 per inch

Space Reservation Deadline: 2 p.m., 2 days prior to publication.

Classifieds: Rates are designed to be used by individuals or organizations for personal advertising—birthdays, anniversaries, congratulations, etc. and not for commercial use or to announce events.

SMILE ADVERTISING RATES

$3.10 per inch

Space Reservation Deadline: 2 p.m., 2 days prior to publication.

SMILE ADVERTISING RATES

$3.10 per inch

Space Reservation Deadline: 2 p.m., 2 days prior to publication.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.

The Daily Egyptian does not guarantee space for any request from the classified section. Ads are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser will not be refunded. The Daily Egyptian reserves the right to refuse advertisements.
SIU STUDENTS FREE PICNIC!!

Free Forum Area
Thursday April 15th, 11 am - 2 pm
Hamburgers, Hot Dogs, Chips, Beverages
Sponsored by the SIU Greek System
Last season, Mark Messier was the Hart Trophy winner as NHL MVP for leading the Rangers to the regional championship. This year, after only one year later, the Hart of the Rangers has changed hands. It's still at least half the problem for a team that fell from first in the NHL to worst in the league.

On the day after the Rangers were eliminated from playoff competition, Messier was voted MVP in 16 seasons, the Rangers' captain said he received much of the credit for Messier's role in the midseason firing of coach Roger Neilson. Messier has admitted back and rib injuries prevented him from providing his usual strong play, but "Intern" Ron Smith didn't disappoint.

"My regret is that I wasn't able to carry the team," Messier said yesterday. "When we were in tight spots down the stretch, I couldn't get it done. I couldn't get involved physically, and that's what I've built my game around."

Messier expressed no regrets about his leadership. But both Neilson and Messier denied the perception that he was trying to run the team and force a change from a conservative style of play to a wide-open offensive one. Messier said his teams are better suited for the long season that the midseason turmoil in the locker room never disappeared. Messier also said he didn't want to leave his teammates.

"Last year I was hailed as a great leader," Messier said. "This year, we missed the playoffs. I think we solved a lot of things I did differently off the ice. That's why I'm learning it on the ice where you're not a spectator. It's not as happy with what I've done for the team on the ice. When you're the coach of a team, you're a target for losing.

"That's the danger of your premier player not being able to do it all by himself," Messier said. "We've got a lot of good players. I've been able to do it before.

Smith said he asked Messier to be the team's captain, as well. "I was clear he wasn't the physical presence he had been." But instead of stepping forward when Messier was injured, the Rangers became the "nifty," in Smith's view, spending too much time passing around the perimeter instead of pushing the puck to the net. "That's the danger of your premier player not being able to do it all by himself," Messier said. "We've got a lot of good players. I've been able to do it before.

"They're real possibility it gets into the other players' heads a bit. Players should never let themselves be led by that, but human nature is to let their guards down. You're not up to scratch, it affects the team."

Smith said he tried to pick a style of play that gave the Rangers back some of their scoring style, but it was too late for a change. "The Rangers should play, and coaches should coach," Smith said.

Messier said the storyline one of the Ranger's fascination was the Rangers' difficult season, and "There was nothing they could do.

Messier" Smith said the Rangers needed to become a more physical team instead of relying so heavily on offense. The loss for 48 games of defender Brian Leetch because of two different injuries obviously was a serious blow to the offense, but Smith said the loss of Andersson and Jay Wells for 31 games was more damaging than anything realized.

"I miss a guy who gives you six, eight, 10 crunches a game," Smith said. "That contributed to our lack of physical presence. We had a three-hit game for every guy, so to say, there were a lot of nights that wasn't.

There were other problems that contributed to the Rangers' ongoing turmoil. Goaltenders John Vanbiesbrouck and Mike Richter have played 12 more minutes than No. 1, and injuries forced Smith to place some special responsibility in the hands of goalie Sergei Zubov and Alexei Yashin.

Smith tried to get the Rangers to play a simple, defense-oriented game down the stretch, but they went 1-9. "We didn't execute for Roger or Ron," alternate captain Mark Messier said. "Players should play, and coaches should coach."

Sports Briefs

COLE, from page 1

Cole said he requested the funds from USG to go to the convention, but other members of the College Republicans also were supposed to attend.

"I was going with Pat Brown, a member of the organization," Cole said. "There should have been no problem with the transfer of funds."

Neither Brown, a former member of College Republicans, or Brian Ellis, the club's president last summer; nor Patrick Kelly, the faculty advisor and USG, said Cole had any problems regarding the paperwork.

Brian, who said he did not handle the paperwork, blamed the administration for the oversight. "Whoever gave the paperwork, Br-w'n said. "But it is not his fault. Student Development should have kept the paperwork, Br-w'n said. "But it is not his fault. Student Development should have kept the paperwork, Br-w'n said. "But it is not his fault. Student Development should have kept the paperwork.

Brown said he does not understand club's administrations toward Cole.

Cole helped build this organization and now they are going to accuse him like this," he said yesterday. "I'm not going to get any’autograph signatures, but they could have told him a long time ago if they were a problem.

Nancy Hunter Pei, director of USC Student Development, said she received the original paper work for Cole to withdraw funds from the College Republicans account, but it has no authorizing signatures.

We have paper work showing

COLE, from page 1

Cole said he requested the funds from USG to go to the convention, but other members of the College Republicans also were supposed to attend.

"I was going with Pat Brown, a member of the organization," Cole said. "There should have been no problem with the transfer of funds."

Neither Brown, a former member of College Republicans, or Brian Ellis, the club's president last summer; nor Patrick Kelly, the faculty advisor and USG, said Cole had any problems regarding the paperwork.

Brown said he does not understand club's administrations toward Cole.

Cole helped build this organization and now they are going to accuse him like this," he said yesterday. "I'm not going to get any’autograph signatures, but they could have told him a long time ago if they were a problem.

Nancy Hunter Pei, director of USC Student Development, said she received the original paper work for Cole to withdraw funds from the College Republicans account, but it has no authorizing signatures.

We have paper work showing

450 for the express purpose of Cole's trip to the Republican National Convention," she said. "USG authorized the funds to go to the College Republicans. Patrick Kelly, faculty adviser for the College Republicans, said he never asked USG for the money and never authorized the money to go for Cole's trip.

"I have not signed any of the paperwork, Brian, who said he did not handle the paperwork, blamed the administration for the oversight. "Whoever gave the paperwork, Brian, who said he did not handle the paperwork, blamed the administration for the oversight. "Whoever gave the paperwork, Brian, who said he did not handle the paperwork, blamed the administration for the oversight.

Cole said he requested the funds from USG to go to the convention, but other members of the College Republicans also were supposed to attend.

"I was going with Pat Brown, a member of the organization," Cole said. "There should have been no problem with the transfer of funds."

Neither Brown, a former member of College Republicans, or Brian Ellis, the club's president last summer; nor Patrick Kelly, the faculty advisor and USG, said Cole had any problems regarding the paperwork.

Brian, who said he did not handle the paperwork, blamed the administration for the oversight. "Whoever gave the paperwork, Brian, who said he did not handle the paperwork, blamed the administration for the oversight. "Whoever gave the paperwork, Brian, who said he did not handle the paperwork, blamed the administration for the oversight.

Cole said he requested the funds from USG to go to the convention, but other members of the College Republicans also were supposed to attend.

Colesaid he requested the funds from USG to go to the convention, but other members of the College Republicans also were supposed to attend.

"I was going with Pat Brown, a member of the organization," Cole said. "There should have been no problem with the transfer of funds."

Neither Brown, a former member of College Republicans, or Brian Ellis, the club's president last summer; nor Patrick Kelly, the faculty advisor and USG, said Cole had any problems regarding the paperwork.

Brian, who said he did not handle the paperwork, blamed the administration for the oversight. "Whoever gave the paperwork, Brian, who said he did not handle the paperwork, blamed the administration for the oversight. "Whoever gave the paperwork, Brian, who said he did not handle the paperwork, blamed the administration for the oversight.

Cole said he requested the funds from USG to go to the convention, but other members of the College Republicans also were supposed to attend.

"I was going with Pat Brown, a member of the organization," Cole said. "There should have been no problem with the transfer of funds."

Neither Brown, a former member of College Republicans, or Brian Ellis, the club's president last summer; nor Patrick Kelly, the faculty advisor and USG, said Cole had any problems regarding the paperwork.

Brian, who said he did not handle the paperwork, blamed the administration for the oversight. "Whoever gave the paperwork, Brian, who said he did not handle the paperwork, blamed the administration for the oversight. "Whoever gave the paperwork, Brian, who said he did not handle the paperwork, blamed the administration for the oversight.
It could be long year for Mets, media—again

Newday

This Bobby Bonilla business is something like a million-dollar case that crack in his charm let last season show through. Murray has been a troublesome player for the last three years, but Murray has always given the Mets the right to play. Murray's position in the Mets' starting lineup is sure to be as unlikely as it was the year before. Murray's salary is a mere $300,000, and it is likely that the Mets will be paying him that much or a lot more to come back and play for them. The Mets are already paying him $100,000 a year, and it is possible that they will pay him even less for the next few years.

Yet Lemieux is so private, so unknown to the public, that it is quite possible that Lemieux's career is not yet over. Lemieux has been very successful in the last few years, and it is likely that he will continue to be successful in the future. Lemieux is a very good player, and he has the potential to be one of the best players in the league. The Mets are lucky to have Lemieux on their team, and it is likely that they will continue to be successful in the future.

The early suggestions are ominous. And not just for him, but for the entire New York Mets crowd. It has become a very unsingable situation.

People in the business of reporting the news should not be in the business of making the news. In this case, however, the two arcs intersect. When Bonilla threatened to walk and go to the press on this issue, Lemieux and Eddie Murray and Vince Coley came over to the hotel to try to talk Lemieux into staying. Lemieux refused to interfere with his work, it's an issue for one thing, it suggests they don't know who the real enemy is. When they display their hostility as if they are home owners, as if they are without a doubt, Lemieux is in the right.

Commerntary

Bonilla, whose sense of self is as strong as an expensive dress bought in a benign climate. He hated last season, much of which he brought upon himself. Lemieux threatened to leave the Mets last month when he was standing in a new season relatively fresh, and he threatened a reporter in the clubhouse with violence.

"I will hurt you," Bonilla said. Lemieux was seen again, forget it, he concluded.

The conclusion here is Bonilla is going to have to let go of his hostility. There is too much media and too much pressure. Lemieux is again, it's too much to learn to cope with it.

If players are looking for something to get rid of in New York, and it's April, it's going to be a painful season.

Lemieux, for example, ought to explain the facts of life to Bonilla, that he won't have the same effect in New York, the media and he doesn't know to care is to be honest, he has to understand that it's coming to an end.

Whatever substance Bonilla's complaint may have had, he buried it. Players are not going to let you have it over what they are written about them, which is their right. They don't try to provoke the author into fighting, and they don't intervene, "He doesn't believe it," Lemieux believes, his displeasure is not showy, but rather for everyone in the clubhouse and around the world that Lemieux endures his own adversity," That misses the point entirely.

It's a whole lot more pleasant working around a team that's going good. Dispositions are good, subjects make themselves available, perceptions are upbeat. Look at Bonilla, his declaration in "86 Mets, for goodness sake.

You know the real test is in management—any team in any sport—would like the papers to run stories like that among as if they were champions. New York won't permit that, and nobody likes criticism. Lemieux still rejects critical angles because they're coming to his program.

The press is not supposed to be part of the program.

The book I'm talking about in this book that touched off the new blaze in the clubhouse is the first sentence that Torborg has written in books about sports—writing that it kills Lemieux to lose is.

A generation earlier, a wit had noted, "No man is a hero to himself.

Endure the hostility in the clubhouse these days and it's going to be a painful season.

Dawgs need some extra support at the plate, and have been bolstered by some hot hitting in MVC play. Playmaker third-fielder Dave Taylor is batting at a .391 clip in league play, with a team-high nine hits and seven RBIs. Dan Espinol and Chris Williams have also shown in conference action, batting .386 and .364, respectively.

Riggwiid seems to need some extra support at the plate, and have been bolstered by some hot hitting in MVC play. Playmaker third-fielder Dave Taylor is batting at a .391 clip in league play, with a team-high nine hits and seven RBIs. Dan Espinol and Chris Williams have also shown in conference action, batting .386 and .364, respectively.

Riggwiid seems to need some extra support at the plate, and have been bolstered by some hot hitting in MVC play. Playmaker third-fielder Dave Taylor is batting at a .391 clip in league play, with a team-high nine hits and seven RBIs. Dan Espinol and Chris Williams have also shown in conference action, batting .386 and .364, respectively.

Riggwiid seems to need some extra support at the plate, and have been bolstered by some hot hitting in MVC play. Playmaker third-fielder Dave Taylor is batting at a .391 clip in league play, with a team-high nine hits and seven RBIs. Dan Espinol and Chris Williams have also shown in conference action, batting .386 and .364, respectively.

Riggwiid seems to need some extra support at the plate, and have been bolstered by some hot hitting in MVC play. Playmaker third-fielder Dave Taylor is batting at a .391 clip in league play, with a team-high nine hits and seven RBIs. Dan Espinol and Chris Williams have also shown in conference action, batting .386 and .364, respectively.

Riggwiid seems to need some extra support at the plate, and have been bolstered by some hot hitting in MVC play. Playmaker third-fielder Dave Taylor is batting at a .391 clip in league play, with a team-high nine hits and seven RBIs. Dan Espinol and Chris Williams have also shown in conference action, batting .386 and .364, respectively.

Riggwiid seems to need some extra support at the plate, and have been bolstered by some hot hitting in MVC play. Playmaker third-fielder Dave Taylor is batting at a .391 clip in league play, with a team-high nine hits and seven RBIs. Dan Espinol and Chris Williams have also shown in conference action, batting .386 and .364, respectively.

Riggwiid seems to need some extra support at the plate, and have been bolstered by some hot hitting in MVC play. Playmaker third-fielder Dave Taylor is batting at a .391 clip in league play, with a team-high nine hits and seven RBIs. Dan Espinol and Chris Williams have also shown in conference action, batting .386 and .364, respectively.

Riggwiid seems to need some extra support at the plate, and have been bolstered by some hot hitting in MVC play. Playmaker third-fielder Dave Taylor is batting at a .391 clip in league play, with a team-high nine hits and seven RBIs. Dan Espinol and Chris Williams have also shown in conference action, batting .386 and .364, respectively.

Riggwiid seems to need some extra support at the plate, and have been bolstered by some hot hitting in MVC play. Playmaker third-fielder Dave Taylor is batting at a .391 clip in league play, with a team-high nine hits and seven RBIs. Dan Espinol and Chris Williams have also shown in conference action, batting .386 and .364, respectively.

Riggwiid seems to need some extra support at the plate, and have been bolstered by some hot hitting in MVC play. Playmaker third-fielder Dave Taylor is batting at a .391 clip in league play, with a team-high nine hits and seven RBIs. Dan Espinol and Chris Williams have also shown in conference action, batting .386 and .364, respectively.

Riggwiid seems to need some extra support at the plate, and have been bolstered by some hot hitting in MVC play. Playmaker third-fielder Dave Taylor is batting at a .391 clip in league play, with a team-high nine hits and seven RBIs. Dan Espinol and Chris Williams have also shown in conference action, batting .386 and .364, respectively.

Riggwiid seems to need some extra support at the plate, and have been bolstered by some hot hitting in MVC play. Playmaker third-fielder Dave Taylor is batting at a .391 clip in league play, with a team-high nine hits and seven RBIs. Dan Espinol and Chris Williams have also shown in conference action, batting .386 and .364, respectively.

Riggwiid seems to need some extra support at the plate, and have been bolstered by some hot hitting in MVC play. Playmaker third-fielder Dave Taylor is batting at a .391 clip in league play, with a team-high nine hits and seven RBIs. Dan Espinol and Chris Williams have also shown in conference action, batting .386 and .364, respectively.

Riggwiid seems to need some extra support at the plate, and have been bolstered by some hot hitting in MVC play. Playmaker third-fielder Dave Taylor is batting at a .391 clip in league play, with a team-high nine hits and seven RBIs. Dan Espinol and Chris Williams have also shown in conference action, batting .386 and .364, respectively.

Riggwiid seems to need some extra support at the plate, and have been bolstered by some hot hitting in MVC play. Playmaker third-fielder Dave Taylor is batting at a .391 clip in league play, with a team-high nine hits and seven RBIs. Dan Espinol and Chris Williams have also shown in conference action, batting .386 and .364, respectively.