An estimated 2,500 people attended Bald Knob's 59th annual sunrise service Sunday. The event began shortly after 6:30 a.m. and offered doughnuts and coffee afterward to all who attended.

Thousands make annual trek to Bald Knob

By Carey Jane Atherton
Daily Egyptian Reporter

Rev. Steve Lirely opened his sermon to a crowd of 2,500 at Sunday's Bald Knob Cross Easter service by welcoming them to the "top of the world."

At 5:30 a.m., hundreds of cars drove up the winding four-mile road to Bald Knob Cross in the dark for the non-denominational service as they watched the sunrise.

"Boy I sure don't know where all those people came from, but there sure were a lot of them," said Dan Wilson, chairman of the board for Bald Knob Cross Corp.

Wilson said the crowd at this year's sunrise service was by far the biggest ever. He said that in past years they have always had big piles of programs left over, but this year they printed 2,500 and ran out.

People from all over traveled to attend the service. The guest book in the welcome center listed visitors from Kentucky, Arizona, Ohio, Tennessee and Pennsylvania. Many people arrived at Bald Knob on Saturday and camped out. Trailers, R.V.s and tents were scattered across the ridge that rises more than 700 feet above the Shawnee National Forest. Edward and Beulah Speight drove from their home in Union City, Tenn., for the 33rd year in a row.

Jan and Ron Easton, Ron Kosydor, Ron Kosydor Jr. and Michael Scott all rode an hour and 10 minutes on horseback to attend the service.

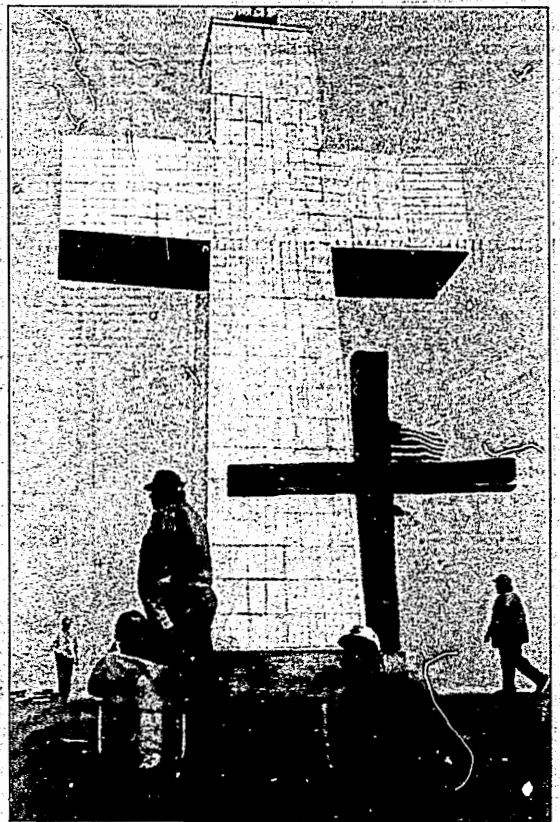

Dave Ebenhoh from St. Louis, got an Easter surprise when he drove up to Bald Knob and found a couple thousand people. Ebenhoh said he was driving around Southern Illinois two weeks ago and accidentally found Bald Knob Cross.

"I thought it would be a nice place to see the sunrise on Easter. Obviously, other people in the world thought of the idea before me," said Ebenhoh.

Gerald Caine, board member of Bald Knob Cross Corp., and D.G. Wilson, one of the original Bald Knob Cross land buyers, thought of the idea long ago. The two men are tied for the top attendance record.

Caine said he has been involved with Bald Knob Cross for 52 years and has only missed two services.

Wilson, who is 96, said he has been connected with Bald Knob since the 1940s.

IBHE decision may affect fee

By Rob Neff
Daily Egyptian Reporter

SIUC students may face a less severe athletic fee increase if the Illinois Board of Higher Education passes a proposal to reverse their 1992 recommendation that public universities divert state funds from athletics, according to Associate Athletic Director Charlotte West.

The current proposal, that SIUC President John Guyon presented to the SIU board of trustees Wednesday, calls for an $8-per-semester increase to take effect next fall, followed by a $7-per-semester increase to take effect in the fall of 1996.

The proposal is Guyon's latest effort to reconcile the athletic department's budget with an 1992 IBHE recommendation that all public universities stop using state funds to support their athletics program. The recommendation also suggests the athletic programs be funded without increasing their student athletic fees.

The IBHE cannot mandate this action, but can recommend the state legislature cut state funding to universities who do not comply with the recommendation.

According to IBHE board member Dave Downey, the only university in Illinois that has successfully cut state funding to their athletic program without raising their student athletic fee is the University of Illinois at Champaign.

"To have a directive that can't be abided by does not make any sense to me," he said.

Downey said he has drafted a proposal which would rescind the 1992 recommendation.

"The resolution is that this be decided at the local board level and not be a directive," he said. "Basically it says the boards of the various institutions should do the right thing for their university."

Downey said he expects the trustees of IBHE to receive a copy

REBEL LEADER FREED FOR LACK OF EVIDENCE — MEXICO CITY—Jorge Santiago, arrested as a rebel leader during a government crackdown on the Zapatista National Liberation Army, was freed Friday for lack of evidence, the second time in a single day that a federal judge disagreed with prosecutors in a high-profile case. An appellate judge found that, with a key witness missing, there was not enough evidence to hold him on charges of sedition, terrorism, rioting and rebellion. The prosecution's inability to produce witness Salvador Morales Garibay could have further repercussions, casting doubt on government claims that charismatic rebel leader Subcommander Marcos is really Rafael Sebastian Guillen, the son of a furniture store owner in the port city of Tampico.

CODE OF ETHICS TO REGULATE INSEMINATION — ROME—Alarmed by freewheeling artificial insemination and the growth of unregulated fertility clinics, Italian doctors have waded into a legal vacuum that has made biogenetic ethics a national controversy. Some specialists have injected one woman with the frozen sperm of her dead husband, and they have engineered "designer babies" from sperm donors screened for their looks, intelligence or social status. One Naples doctor is accused of substituting unknown sperm for that of a child's putative father. Similar incidences have inspired a new doctors' code of ethics that went into effect this month and forbids such practices. The code prohibits doctors from engaging in biogenetic practices that have drawn widespread criticism inside and outside Italy.

YELTSIN REJECTS UKRAINIAN FRIENDSHIP TREATY — KIEV, Ukraine—Russian President Boris Yeltsin announced Saturday he will not sign a friendship treaty with Ukraine until it resolves its dispute with Russian nationalists in its Crimea region. Yeltsin's statement was his first response to Ukraine's political crackdown on ethnic Russian activists in Crimea who aim to separate the region from Ukraine and re-integrate it with Russia. The Russian-Ukrainian treaty, which was initiated in February after long negotiations, had appeared to represent a significant step in reducing the frequent strains between Moscow and Kiev. But Yeltsin's decision indefinitely postpones the treaty's signing, which was to have taken place during a Yeltsin visit being planned for the end of this month.

IRAQ'S REFUSAL TO SELL OIL FOR NEEDS LIKELY — WASHINGTON—Escalating a diplomatic standoff with the Clinton administration, Iraq on Saturday left little doubt that it will reject a U.N. offer to allow the isolated nation to sell $2 billion in oil for humanitarian purposes. Though Clinton administration officials stressed that Saddam Hussein's government had not formally rejected the plan, the ruling Revolutionary Command Council and the speaker of the Iraqi Parliament both denounced it Saturday. In Baghdad, thousands of people flocked to the streets for two noisy demonstrations that excoriated both the United States and the U.N. offer.

CLINTON CALLS FOR APPROVAL OF 'MUST LIST' — WASHINGTON—President Clinton on Saturday called on the Republican-controlled Congress to approve his "must list" of legislation, including welfare reform, tax cuts for the middle class and preservation of the ban on assault weapons. Clinton said that many of the lawmakers' new proposals "go too far." Among these were "cuts in education and job training, undermining environmental protections, undermining our efforts to put 100,000 new police on our streets, legislation to permit the sale of assault weapons, and penalties for going into court to assert your rights as a citizen," he said.

ORDERS FLOOD IN FOR HOME DRUG TESTING KIT — NEW YORK—The announcement of a cheap, easy-to-use home drug-testing kit has produced a flood of orders to a New Jersey company and the prospect of major changes, in what has been almost exclusively a police laboratory business. Thousands of parents have called Barringer Technologies Inc. in New Providence, N.J., since its March 28 announcement of a $20 kit that could be ordered by mail and used to check children's rooms for traces of drugs. Stanley S. Binder, Barringer's chief executive, said the company has sent out nearly a thousand kits so far.

'New challenge'

Departing dean says five years at SIUC 'rewarding'

By Stephanie Moletti
DE Assignment Editor

Personal and career factors are the reasons one University dean is leaving SIU.

Harry Haynsworth IV, dean of the SIU Law School, has accepted the position of dean and president of William Mitchell School of Law in St. Paul, Minn.

"I felt ready for a new challenge," Haynsworth said. "It is a very interesting opportunity."

He announced his decision April 11 and will leave SIU June 30.

Haynsworth said the Minnesota law school is a private school and he will be involved in a lot of fund raising.

He said the school is offering him more money and although that was not the deciding factor, it certainly contributed to his decision.

According to the Southern Illinois University Personnel Listing by the Education Office, Haynsworth is being paid $135,732 this year as SIU Law School Dean.

Haynsworth came to SIU in 1990 from the University of South Carolina, replacing interim dean Peter Goplerud.

Associate Dean Tom Britton said the law school faculty will meet Wednesday to lay the ground work for the search for a new dean, and then report to Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost

Benjamin Shepard. A committee will be formed to help aid in the search for a new dean.

"(Haynsworth) has been a very good dean," Britton said. "He is a man of great integrity. He has positioned our law school for greater success in the future."

Britton said it took less than a year to find Haynsworth for the position and he does not expect it to take any longer to find a new dean.

Darlene Blackstone, assistant dean for external affairs, said she believes the law school has come a long way since Haynsworth's arrival.

"It's sad for the law school but at the same time it's an excellent opportunity for his career," Blackstone said.

Haynsworth said while SIU law school is the sixth smallest, Minnesota's is the 15th largest.

He said he is proud of the school's accomplishments during his time here.

"The financial stability of the school has been advanced, the academic programs have been enhanced and there has been a complete transformation of the clinic," he said. "I don't take credit for all this, but I leave with a good feeling."

Haynsworth said SIU is an excellent law school, and he will ultimately miss the students and the friends he has made here. "In this school everybody knows everybody," he said. "I will miss that informality and less-competitive atmosphere."

Haynsworth said it was a hard decision, but the right one.

"This has been a very rewarding five years," he said.

WIDB celebrates 25 years with week-long festivities

WIDB remote

What: Prize give-away
Where: Free Forum area
When: Noon-3 p.m.
Monday

WIDB is now a quarter of a century old. Although the big birthday passed on April 15, the celebrations are just beginning.

There will be several activities and events commemorating the 25th anniversary of SIUC's radio station.

Today WIDB will kick off the festivities with a remote in the free forum area, located by the parking garage on campus. The remote is where WIDB brings their radio equipment to an off-station location and spins albums.

There will be lots of give-aways at today's remote, including a CD-player with a car adapter. The give-away remote will run from noon to 3 p.m.

Chris Swierzbinski, public relations officer at WIDB, said students signed up for buttons last week. To be eligible for the give-aways, students must wear the buttons.

"The big prize is a portable CD player," he said. "You show up in the free forum, sign your name and it will be randomly drawn, but you need to have (the button) on."

Tuesday, April 18 will be the day of WIDB's Twister Invitational, a marathon series of twister games with more than 30 participants.

Groups of four players will compete to retain their balance. The one left standing will win CD packs or gift certificates from Papa John's. The Twister Invitational will last from noon to 3 p.m.

Sign-ups for the event took place last week at the south end of Faner Hall, but people can still register at the event, said Swierzbinski, a junior in radio and television from Barrington.

"WIDB will clean out their closet at noon sharp before the Twister Invitational, and several items will be given away in a public free-for-all. Anyone interested should get there as early as possible."

"It's stuff that we've had that we haven't got rid of yet," Swierzbinski said. "We've got stickers, buttons, CDs, cassettes, albums and posters."

WIDB will conduct its own version of The Dating Game

Agriculture and animal science students bid on cows in a mock cow auction Thursday afternoon at University Farms. The auction allowed the students to earn extra credit while having some fun.

culture students whose pockets were bulging with thousands of dollars in play money, mumbled among themselves.

They poured over the sheets in their hands that gave them information about the cow's age, health, milk production and pedigree.

Finally, one member of a group of dairy cow buyers raised her hand. The auction assistant shouted, "Here," to let the auctioneer know the bid was in.

In the end, the cow was bought.

Auctioneer Dennis Devore banged his gavel to grab the audience's attention. In front of him stood a prime piece of farm merchandise, a high milk-producing cow.

"C'mon people. Look at that udder," he said. "She's a milkin' cow. Do I hear $2,200?"

The audience, composed of agri-and the group added five more extra credit points to their grades.

This is the mock cow auction. Students in the College of Agriculture got to spend last Thursday afternoon adding points to their grades by pretending to buy the milk-heavy bovines.

Agriculture Professor Richard Dado, who helped organize the event, said the students were given $700 each to bid on the cows.

Panel discusses challenges of interracial couples

By Michael D. DeFord
Daily Egyptian Reporter

When it comes to getting involved in interracial relationships, couples should look before they leap, said SIUC student Lawrence James.

James, a graduate student in psychology from Chicago, who is African American, was part of an eight-member panel speaking on interracial relationships Thursday evening in the Student Center Video Lounge. The panel was part of Asian American Awareness Month.

"Getting involved in an interracial relationship requires a great deal of maturity," James said. "If you are not secure or mature, an interracial relationship will not survive," James said.

James said he was involved in an interracial relationship, but was not comfortable during the relationship at the time.

"I felt paranoid walking down the street with my girlfriend (who is Caucasian)," he said. "I felt ready to kick somebody's ass if anyone said anything about us."

"I think the discomfort came from people wondering and thinking about us being together."

Thomas Dittmar, a senior in electrical engineering from Pearl City, who is Caucasian, said his parents are not entirely comfortable with the relationship between he and his Korean girlfriend.

"My family never stressed to me people were different," he said. "When I took my girlfriend home for the first time the reception was nice, but not very warm."

"Deep down inside, I believe that our relationship is a problem for my family, even though they will not admit it." Dittmar said when he and his girlfriend walk down the street in his hometown, people have asked him

"who is the oriental?" Dittmar's girlfriend Shauna Ulicni, a junior in psychology from Pendleton, Ore, said she does not feel a part of Tom's family. "No matter where we have been we have not had any problems with our relationship, especially at SIUC," she said.

Ulicni said there are both advantages and disadvantages in an interracial relationship, and for couples experiencing difficulties, they need to deal with it and grow with the relationship.

"I don't see our relationship any different from any other couple," she said. "There are always obstacles and you must deal with them."

Carol van Rossum, a teacher at Carbondale's Lincoln Junior High School, who is Caucasian, said their relationship has seen its share of stupidity from people unaccustomed to interracial relationships.

"I never thought about our relationship until we would get the double take look from other people," she said.

Chancellor may face obstacles in position

SIU CHANCELLOR JAMES BROWN SOON WILL pass the torch of University representation in the public forum to a new face. Ted Sanders, Ohio public school chief, was selected last week to replace Brown, who is retiring this summer. A University outsider, Sanders has little experience with SIU. If he is to be an effective administrator, Sanders will need help from everyone on campus — faculty and students alike — to identify and understand the problems that exist at all levels of our system.

While Sanders may well be the best man for the job, he is coming into the SIU system under a cloud. Sanders was selected through a process that is inherently unfair to those who must live with the results — good and bad — of his decisions. The very nature of this process generates an potentially negative atmosphere for the new chancellor. SIU needs to keep these potential problems in mind in future hiring decisions.

FOR ALL HIS POLITICAL CONTACTS, SANDERS has little knowledge of the SIU system. Until last week, Sanders had virtually no ties to anyone on campus, and he freely admits that he will have to spend the summer familiarizing himself with the workings of the University.

Given the relatively small number of students and instructors on campus during the summer semester, Sanders still will have a long road ahead of him before he fully understands all the official and unofficial networks that exist on campus in Carbondale, Edwardsville, Springfield and Alton, even if he spends the entire summer exploring the system.

THE CHANCELLOR SELECTION PROCESS ALSO presents potential problems for Sanders. Brown and the Board of Trustees narrowed a field of 75 candidates down to one before beginning the interview process with the chancellor-search committee, an advisory group comprised of members of the SIU community. Sanders could be a terrific asset to the University, but it is impossible to be sure he is the best possible candidate when there is no one with whom to compare him. There are people on campus who are upset by the way the decision was made, and Sanders may have some resentment to overcome before he can get down to the business of carrying out his official duties.

Since SIU students are directly affected by the chancellor's decisions, and their tuition and fees help to pay his salary, it would seem that they should have some influence in the selection of top-level administrators. By denying students a real voice in the selection process, SIU has set the stage for dissent when Sanders assumes his position. The board needs to consider this and change its selection policy to allow more student input in future personnel decisions, particularly at this level.

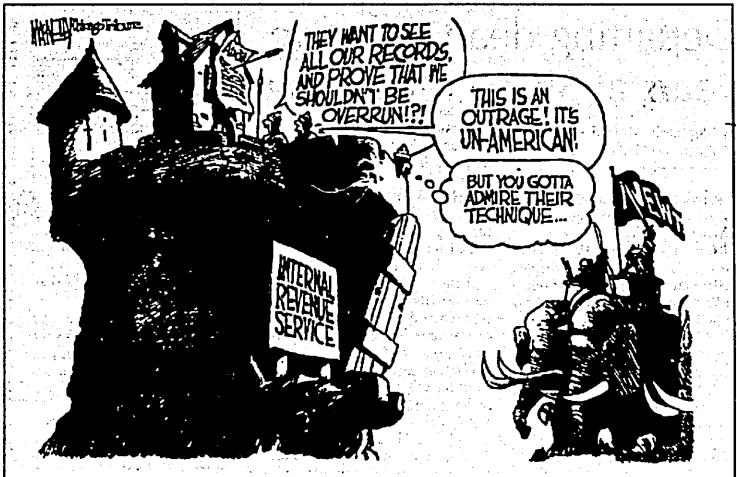

ALTHOUGH THE NEW CHANCELLOR HAS BEEN selected, students still can have some impact on the decisions he makes. Since he is new to campus, it seems that Sanders would appreciate input from those who know the University best — its students. A six-figure salary does not make our officials omniscient. By offering a few suggestions now, students can help Sanders get his bearings on campus while ensuring that our own voices are heard.

Porn not issue in sexual assault

This letter addresses the article "Porn danger in promoting violence," printed Wednesday, April 12, in the DE.

It seems that Ms. Laura Martin, Rape Action Committee coordinator for Carbondale's Women's Center, would have everyone believe that just because you read an issue of Playboy that you will rape a woman. I think not. Just because I see a picture of a naked woman does not mean that I am going to rape her. The violence needed to rape someone does not come from seeing a woman in the nude.

If I were to see a picture of a gun

I would not go out and kill someone. If I were to see a picture of a beer, that would not make me want to get drunk. My uncle not only looks at guns but collects them; he's never killed anyone. I like to look at cars; I haven't stolen one.

We don't want to kill people or steal cars because we are not criminals. The criminals are the ones who cannot handle pornography. Do you, Ms. Martin, propose to have a waiting period before you can purchase pornography like the waiting period now in effect for guns?

If I heard of the lecture that Ms.

Martin gave I would have loved to attend. After all, I'm not closed-minded, and I'm in school to broaden my mind. I want to hear more. Especially where Ms. Martin got her facts about 75 percent of women in the porn business being victims of incest. I find that alarming. I hope that I hear about your next lecture Ms. Martin.

I wonder, does Ms. Martin have objections to pornography in which men are featured? After all, men get raped too.

DE good forum for student views

Lately, I've been wondering what is the one issue that will galvanize us to unite and throw off the chains of our apathy.

There are a bevy of issues to choose from: domestic violence (this issue is spoon fed to us by the media), racism (a never ending battle), welfareism (this issue is emoted by Washington), or maybe xenophobia. I'm not sure if these issues will end our apathy, but I am trying to enter into a dialogue — through the Daily Egyptian — to find the issue that will coerce us into action.

Everywhere you turn there is an organization regulating every facet of your life: medicine, education, and even your job have all been institutionalized. Perhaps, culturalism should be allowed to fight the increasing atomization of our society.

This would allow for differences within society, eliminating the need for institutionalism. The "revolution" I keep hearing about is not what is needed. The culture that fights the fragmentation of society is the "revolution" that should be supported.

Institutionalism has led our society toward Balkanization. Race, gender, and class status are just some of the issues used by institutions to unbind our society. Does anyone remember the quote, "United we stand, divided we fall?" I do not hear this quote emanated in popular political sound bites, nor the information and media whirlwind. If this so called "revolution" was about true change it would be uniting our society, not continuing the fragmentation.

This is my contribution to the dialogue, and I invite all of you to participate in it. Not through any institution — club, organization, etc. — but through the medium of the Daily Egyptian!

Bomb unfortunate; no apology needed

Washington Post

President Clinton, in response to a question, recently said that he thought the United States owed Japan no apology for using nuclear bombs at Hiroshima and Nagasaki 50 years ago.

President Truman, he added, made the correct choice "based on the facts he had before him." Mr. Clinton is right on both points and need not have added that cautious qualification.

The nuclear bombs were a success in the crucial sense that they were followed by an immediate end to the fighting with no further American deaths.

The immense casualties in the bombings were largely civilian, but that is true of any bombing of large cities, whether nuclear or conventional.

One could add that, to put it mildly, Japan's imperial army was never distinguished by any great concern for the civilian populations fortunate enough to come within its reach.

But trading tit-for-tat accusations about the war is not a useful exercise.

It is better simply to remember that Japan since 1945 has earned the trust and respect of this country as an ally and a democracy that upholds the rights of its own people and its neighbors.

of the proposal at their May meeting.

Trustees should vote on the proposal at the June meeting, Downey said.

According to Ross Hodel, deputy director of IBHE, the future of the 1992 recommendation is unpredictable.

"All I can tell you with any certainty is that the board will discuss the recommendation at their meeting May 2," he said.

The SIU board of trustees is expected to vote on the proposed fee increase at their next meeting in May.

West said if the IBHE resolution is passed, she would ask Guyon to reduce the student fee increase proposal currently before the SIU board, but was unsure of the amount of that reduction.

"I certainly would plead that case," she said. "The president is very aware the (athletics director) Jim Hart and I would prefer to keep state funding in the budget."

West said a smaller increase in the student athletic fee would still be necessary to keep pace with the increasing cost of maintaining the department.

"I think perhaps I would go to the students with a smaller increase proposal just to keep up with the cost of doing business," she said. "There hasn't been a student athletic fee increase in eleven years."

"The coaches keep telling us they have less and less money and are able to give less and less scholarships. Our competitiveness is faltering due to our budget."

Trustee Molly D'Esposito, chair of the Finance Committee and vice president of the SIU Board of Trustees, declined to speculate on possible actions the board may take if IBHE rescinds its recommendation, but said she supports the current proposed fee increase.

"I do think athletics play a role in university life and I am disappointed that the students don't seem to agree," she said. "I am in support of the current recommendation. I am disappointed with the number of students who voted in the referendum. I'm not sure the referendum accurately represents the feelings of the student population."

The students voted 314-140 against the proposal in a referendum April 10.

Corker will officially step down July 1 to join the faculty of SIUC's Animal Science, Food and Nutrition Department in the College of Agriculture. Corker has been teaching a class part time, in managing and organizing student unions.

Harvey Welch Jr., vice president for Student Affairs, and James McGuire, dean of the college, made the announcement April 13.

A national search will be conducted to fill the position.

Corker, 62, came to SIUC in 1976 and helped develop the Sunset Concert series and Springfest.

In 19 years at SIUC, Corker has helped add 30 major services, such as the I.D. card service and upcoming mass transit central base, to the Student Center.

The number of social events, conferences and meetings has tripled since Corker became director.

"I'm leaving on a high note," he said. "Lots of things have been achieved."

Corker said he has had disagreements with other administrators, but did not comment on specific problems or specific administrators.

"I've always been a risk taker," he said. "I could have been more diplomatic at times."

"You take risks and stand up a few times," he said. "You might get opposition. It's been a very political year."

Corker supported Springfest, the past celebration that was turned into the Dawg Days of Spring in 1993 after problems arose from underage drinking at the events.

In 1991, 39 people were arrested for underage drinking, reckless conduct, public indecency and mob action. Of those 39, 23 were not SIUC students. More than 13,000 people were estimated in attendance at the event from April 19 to April 21 that year.

"An effective administrator meets the needs of the population and functions well within the university system," he said.

"I wish I could've done that better."

Corker said the transition from an administrator to full-time professor is going to be a unique experience.

"When you are an administrator you have less and less contact with students," Corker said.

"I took the opportunity (to teach)," he said. "I happened to be at the right place at the right time."

Corker's accomplishments include personalizing the center with student art, specifically the Student Purchase Awards in which the center purchases student artwork.

Corker said he tries to have small successes everyday because life is all about making a lot of small decisions.

He said the center is a facility without walls because of the positive programs that have been housed there.

As an instructor, Corker plans to retire in four to five years.

Easter

according to Jamie Corr, the community aid for family housing at Evergreen Terrace.

The Annual Egg Hunt was sponsored by the Family Housing and Recreation Office and the Evergreen Terrace residents council, Corr said. One highlight of the hunt was WCIL-FM disc jockey John Riley, who distributed free CDs and T-shirts to the kids.

The first group hunted at 9 a.m. and subsequent groups were unleashed on the field each hour until everybody was done.

Surprisingly, the largest turnout was from the 13 and up age group, with 114 hunters. The second largest group was the 5-to-8-year-olds with 103 kids.

Fifty kids colored 80 dozen eggs to make sure that nobody went home with an empty basket, Corr said.

The hunt has been going on for quite some time, according to Corr.

"I've been living here for 11 years and we've had them every year that I've been here," she said.

With the melting pot of cultures and religions at Evergreen Terrace, the word Easter is omitted from the event title to avoid alienating anyone from the festivities, according to Corr.

Evergreen Terrace resident Charlene Robinson, a senior in early childhood development from Chicago Heights, said the egg hunt is a good learning experience for the children.

"It gives 'em self-esteem, the little ones especially, to be able to find things without their parents," she said. "We can sit down with the kids and explain the real reason behind Easter, which is the resurrection."

Several SIUC students volunteered at the hunt.

Joanne Cook, a junior in recreation from Springfield, was one of the student volunteers.

"I'm getting experience working in the community with recreational programs," she said.

Ila Barlean, another volunteer and a junior in recreation from Bellingham, Washington, said she enjoyed the multicultural atmosphere at Evergreen Terrace at the egg hunt.

"They're interacting with everyone else. Each one has their own experience."

"It's not just one culture group, it's mixed," she said. "That's what I like." Robinson said the egg hunt was a new experience for her daughter, Tesia.

"This is my daughter's first taste of America," she said. "We had Easter egg hunts overseas, but they weren't as big as this."

"We don't have this in my country," said Maria Granados, a 13-year-old from Costa Rica.

Although some of the younger children were scared, most of egg hunters had a good time, Barlean said.

"I think it's fun," said Amy Castillo, age 11. "I get to see my friends."

"It's fun when you get the candy," said Angel Castillo, age 12.

"I get to be the Easter bunny tomorrow," she added. "I get to hand out all the candy."

However, other children felt they were getting too old for the egg hunt.

"I won't be here next year because it will be boring. I won't be a kid next year," said Mohammed Hussain, age 10.

Best of all, it doesn't interfere with your highest priority—earning your college degree. PLC is the Marine Corps' primary officer commissioning program. All training takes place during one or two summers while you're an undergraduate. After completing training and earning your degree, you're commissioned a second lieutenant. All commissions are active duty; and if you qualify, we can guarantee flight school. Most companies want managers. We look for leaders who thrive on responsibility. COWS

He said some of the cows were better buys than others and it was up to the students to know which cows to bid on. If the student ended up buying a cow, and it was ranked high, they earned extra credit points. They could receive more points if they bought the cow at a price similar to the actual value of the cow.

Mary Baker, a senior in animal science from Tinley Park, said the experience is good for students.

"There is a lot of hands-on experience here," she said. "You're looking at everything that is going to affect your buying decision. You look at the their feet and legs as well as their udder structure."

Baker said because she only had $700 and the price of the cows range from $2500 to $10,000, she had to join forces with other students to form buying syndicates.

"If you lose out on getting the cow you bid on, you hope the cow is the worst one the other group could buy," she said.

Dado said seniors had to prepare the cows for the auction by putting together the statistics and ranking and taking care of them.

They also paraded the animals through the auction house while Devore and animal science senior Eric Andersen touted the cow's attributes. Freshmen and sophomores do the bidding, Dado said.

Animal science students Lori Kreiser, Angie Suttner and Brandy Fudge were part of a buying group that bought four of the eight cows for sale.

"This is a lot better than sitting in a lab or class learning about this stuff," Kreiser said. "We think we got the best ones of the group."

Larry Hicks, a freshman from Golconda, said, "It's supposed to help the kids who have never been to an auction before."

Hicks' group only had three members, so they could not bid high on any of the cows. But that did not stop them from purchasing the one cow that no other group did not seem to want.

"It would be nice if we could get the best cow, but we are looking for the extra credit points," he said.

At the end of the auction, Dado read the auction results and revealed that almost every cow had been bought at a price higher than its actual value.

"The good thing is they don't have to take them home," he said.

Swierzbinski said there will be two separate games, one with a bachelorette and another with a bachelor choosing between three eligible suitors. Two lucky dates will win a dinner at Alcazar's or Tres Hombres and a limousine ride.

"(The Dating Game offers) a chance for possibly making a love connection or at least a date with an exquisite meal and a limo ride to top it off," he said.

The free forum area will be rocking with the sounds of Waxdolls, Bris and possibly a third band from noon to 3 p.m. Thursday, April 20.

Later that night, WIDB will run a Radio Hell show at Beach Bumz, where the worst music ever cut will play all night.

"It's a crazy time," Swierzbinski said. "We just spin tunes from the WIDB's T.G.I.F. event will be a Rock-N-Row remote at the campus boat docks. People can check out boats for free while listening to Carbondale's notoriously happy band Organic Rain. There will also be volleyball, horseshoes, Frisbee, badminton, a toy boat regatta and lots of food.

"It's an event for the whole family," Swierzbinski said.

Rock-N-Row will run from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. Afterwards the party will move to Pinch Penny Pub.

WIDB alumni from around the country have been invited to come down for the weekend in honor of the past 25 years. Alumni are welcome to guest-DJ at Pinch Penny Pub Friday night during WIDB's 25 Years of Music.

Israelis ambush, kill three

Los Angeles Times

HEBRON, Israeli-Occupied West Bank—Israeli security forces Sunday ambushed and shot dead three Palestinians, one of whom the army called a key gunman for the militant group Hamas.

The three men—later identified as Jihad Ghulmech, Adel Falah and Tarek Natsheb—were sitting in a white Subaru sedan, apparently preparing to mount a terrorist attack, when they were ambushed by a special border patrol unit, an Israeli army spokesman said.

According to the army, there was an exchange of gunfire. But Palestinian witnesses said that the Israelis sprayed the Subaru with machine-gun fire before the Palestinians saw them.

Two of the three had been "wanted for a long time," an Israeli said.

USG waits on grievance resolution, funds RSOs

By Dave Mack
Daily Egyptian Reporter

Ratification of the student trustee election results by the Undergraduate Student Government has been postponed due to two grievances filed by Andrew Ensor, a former trustee candidate.

Ensor said one of his grievances claims unfair campaigning practices on the part of election supervisors in Lentz Hall.

"They were not just instructing people on how to vote, but who to vote for," he said. "I am requesting that the results from Thompson Point be disqualified."

Ensor said if there is no change in the election results from the disqualification, he will drop the grievance. However, if the results change, he said he will request that Thompson Point be re-poll.

Ensor has requested in his second grievance that Jason Ervin be disqualified as student trustee-elect.

Half of $300,000 awarded; balance under review

Ensor says Ervin violated the student code by using a Black Affairs Council photocopier to produce campaign flyers.

"The Black Affairs Council is not organized as a political campaigning organization," Ensor said. "Its assets are public. (They) are not for the personal gain of anybody."

Ervin said neither he nor the Black Affairs Council violated any rules.

"I paid for the use of the copy machine based on what it would cost to be done at Kopies & More," he said. "I would rather give $44 to the Black Affairs Council than to Kopies & More."

The student conduct review board will meet to discuss the grievance at 8 a.m. Monday, Ervin said.

Ensor said he is not filing the grievances for personal gain.

"There is no way I can win (the student trustee election)," he said. USG senators did vote in the April 12 meeting against a resolution which opposed SIUC President Guyon's graduation prayer ban, according to Jamal Powell, a senator from the college of mass communication and media arts. The resolution, written by Powell, favored a moment of silence instead of prayer.

Senator Jennifer Rubin cited Supreme court cases on prayer at graduation which supported Guyon's stance, said Carin Musak, vice president of USG. Powell replied that Supreme Court cases are only precedent and are not written-in-stone policy.

Senators sided with the arguments against Powell's resolution, though, and voted it down 20-5.

Powell said he feels the students' interests are not being represented with the omission of even a moment of silence.

"The majority of students, I believe, favored a moment of silence," he said. "The senate's opposition to the resolution shows that the people who care don't have a voice."

"I stood up for what's right, not for what's politically correct."

Powell was more successful sponsoring a resolution which passed against the Amtrak service cuts. The resolution, he said, was intended to let state and Amtrak officials know that SIUC students oppose the cuts. But Musak said some senators who wanted to debate the Amtrak resolution did not know that it had been placed in the omnibus bill and were upset.

Funding for Registered Student Organizations which did not lodge appeals for larger appropriations also were approved. Almost $150,000 of the total $300,000 RSO budget was given to those organizations. The RSOs that did appeal for more money will be reviewed and voted on at a later meeting.

Police Blotter

Carbondale Police

Carbondale Police arrested a woman reportedly involved in a stabbing Thursday morning on East Campus Drive.

Police arrested Dynetta S. Cole, 22, of University Heights Trailer Court, at 9:31 a.m. Thursday after she allegedly stabbed her boyfriend, SIUC student Matthew D. Blakey, 25.

Police said the two were at Blakey's residence at 622 E. Campus Dr. when an argument started. Blakey and Cole struck each other and spit on each other before Cole went to the kitchen and retrieved two knives, police said.

After Cole retrieved the knives, the two engaged in a struggle and Cole stabbed Blakey three times in the upper section of his back, according to police.

Police said Cole was disarmed by Blakey's roommates.

Police said Cole had several bruises on her body as a result of the incident. Both Cole and Blakey were treated for their injuries at the Memorial Hospital of Carbondale.

Cole was charged with aggravated battery and taken to the Jackson County Jail. She later posted bond and was released.

Christopher A. Parades, an SIUC student, was found dead at his residence, 1966 Evergreen Terrace, April 12.

The cause of death is unknown at this time, said Jackson County Coroner Jerry Thurman.

Thurman said he expects to know the cause of death when the toxicology report comes back around the first Tuesday in May.

Parades was pronounced dead at Carbondale Memorial Hospital at 7 p.m. April 12, said Thurman.

According to University News Service, Parades was a senior in advanced technical studies in the College of Technical Careers.

innings of work.

SIUC committed three errors in the game.

Game 2 — SMSU 13, SIUC 5
The lucky number was 13 for SMSU in game one of Saturday's doubleheader.

The Bears cranked out 13 runs on 13 hits to sweep the afternoon twin bill at Abe Martin Field in front of over 300 Dawg faithful in attendance.

SIUC drew first blood in the opening frame and jumped out to a 2-0 lead before SMSU began his offensive onslaught in the top of the second inning.

Saluki starter Mike Blang (2-4) was the victim of two Bear home runs in the second, which resulted in a 5-2 SMSU lead heading into the third frame.

SMSU got another run off Blang in the third and forced the senior hurler to turn the game over to reliever Dan Davis in the fourth.

Davis' luck wasn't much better, as the junior gave up six runs (five earned) off six hits in just two innings of work.

SIUC muscled out one run in the third and two in the sixth before bowing down in the seven inning affair.

A disgusted Callahan reflected on Saturday's blowouts after Sunday's loss.

"Yesterday was as humiliating experience I've been through," he said. "That's not Division I baseball. That's not any kind of baseball."

Game 1 — SMSU 14, SIUC 15
It took 11 innings to settle the opening showdown of the weekend's four game series, but in the end it was hometown hero Braden Gibbs who came up big for the Dawgs.

Gibbs, a Carbondale product, drove in the game-winning run for the Salukis in the bottom of the 11th to give SIUC a 1-0 advantage in the series.

This was almost the game that got away, as SIUC blew a five-run lead in the ninth, which forced the game into extra innings.

Saluki sophomore Dan Davis took over the mound for SIUC in the 10th and shut the door on the SMSU comeback by throwing two innings, giving up just one hit and one walk for the win.

Saluki catcher Tim Kratochvil went 5-for-5 with five RBI's, while designated hitter Mark Russell knocked in four runs.

Support from the field came from Ken Norikus and Jonathan Sweetin, who backed Miller with a two- three finish in the hammer event, and Sam Roan in the triple jump placed second behind Kiaku.

Garth Akal recorded the lone win with a time of 9:10.11 in the steeplechase.

1995 Spring Semester Final Exam Schedule

The examination schedule attempts to avoid examination conflicts by providing separate examination periods for Tuesday-Thursday lecture classes. Other information about final examinations is listed below:

1. The class final exam period is scheduled based on the meeting time and days configuration listed on the first line of the class entry in the Schedule of Classes book (which should be the same as the first printed line for the section on the registered student's schedule print-out). For example, a class section is listed in the Schedule book on two lines in the manner:

08:00 - 8:50 T R
09:00 - 10:50 W

The listed starting time for the first line of the entry is "8:00". The meeting days of that first line are "T R", and therefore are in the category "Begin with T or R." The Exam Date and Period is by the attached Spring '95 Final Examination Schedule to be Thursday, May 11 at 10:10 a.m. - 12:10 p.m.

2. Classes should plan to hold their final examination in their regularly scheduled classrooms. The space scheduling section of the Office of Admissions and Records will refer to departments information relative to the location for examinations for those classes that cannot hold their examinations in their regularly scheduled rooms because of a space conflict. This will be done sufficiently in advance of the final examination days to provide adequate notice for all.

Classes that meet less than the entire semester should hold their exams during the last regular class session prior to final examinations.

It is a policy of the University that no final examination be given prior to the scheduled final examination period, and that students be given their examinations at the designated times. Any deviation from this policy must be approved by the Dean of the College.

3. Students who find they have more than three examinations on one day may petition, and students who have two examinations scheduled at one time should petition their academic dean for approval to take an examination during the make-up examination period on the last day. Provision for such a make-up examination period does not mean that students may decide to miss the scheduled examination time and expect to make it up during this make-up period. This period is to be used only for students whose petitions have been approved by their dean.

4. Students who must miss a final examination may not take an examination before the time scheduled for the class examination. Information relative to the proper grade to be given students who miss a final examination and are not involved in a situation covered in the preceding paragraph will be found in the mimeographed memorandum forwarded to members of the instructional staff at the time they receive the final grade listing for the recording of grades.

5. Individualized Learning Program classes will be administered at the SIUC Student Center throughout final exam week. Students wishing to sit for an exam must contact the Division of Continuing Education at Washington Square "C" (536-7751) at least three days in advance in order to reserve a time-slot and receive a room assignment.

Mets step away from Gooden's downslide

Newsday

ST. LUCIE, Fla.—Ask these New York Mets about Dwight Gooden and they express genuine concern about their former teammate. They all like him, support him and root for him ... when they think of him. Which is not particularly often these days.

Gooden and his problems hardly qualify as yesterday's news here. Just the same, they aren't today's news either.

"The game moves forward," Joe Orsulak said Saturday morning. "And if you don't move forward with it, you're not in people's thoughts as much — even people who really care."

"I don't think there's a guy in here among the guys who know him who doesn't like him. But we're down here working. Guys are here trying to win a starting job or win a place on the roster, at least that's what they should be thinking about. So your mind isn't on Doc. Other things are on our minds. It's a little out of sight, out of mind."

Word of Gooden's latest problem — a March 18 ticket for speeding and apparent violation of his aftercare program — didn't spread through the clubhouse quickly. In fact, people in the New York Yankees' clubhouse Thursday night — Whitey Ford, Billy Connors, Kevin Elster and Don Mattingly — seemed more curious about Gooden's latest "incident" than the Mets had been Wednesday.

"I think of him, and I shake my head," one Mets player said. "I keep thinking about him hitting rock bottom, and then something else happens. They say you have to reach rock bottom before you get better. I just hope his rock bottom isn't death."

From the top.

When Bobby Bonilla talked his way into the starting lineup Saturday night, a first glimpse of the 1995 Mets — as they will be — became available. The batting order that Dallas Green hopes to use regularly included Brett Butler in center, Jose Vizcaino at shortstop, Rico Brogna at first, Bonilla at third, Jeff Kent at second, David Segui in left, Ryan Thompson in right, Todd Hundley catching and Bret Saberhagen pitching.

Green decided on Thompson rather than Hundley batting seventh. He wanted someone other than the pitcher to "protect" Thompson, who remains the team's most undisciplined batter. Green considered batting Thompson eighth to take advantage of the rightfielder's speed — pitchers' bums could advance him — but Thompson's low on-base percentage and inability to steal diminish the impact of his speed.

Future uncertain for Webber's return

The Baltimore Sun

Hundreds of times, Chris Webber has been asked whether he will return to the Washington Bullets next season, and most of the time his response has been the same: definitely. But that same question brought a less convincing response last week.

"I definitely like D.C.; that's where I want to be," Webber said before Thursday's game against the New York Knicks. "But I don't think everything's guaranteed, especially what I've learned in life. I'd love to be back, but I don't know what's going to happen."

What was going to happen this season when Webber arrived in the blockbuster trade with the Golden State Warriors in November was this: The Bullets were going to make the playoffs for the first time in six years and, the "Fab Two" of Webber and former Michigan teammate Juwan Howard were going to save a struggling franchise, laying the foundation for a bright future.

With Webber and Howard in uniform, that foundation is there. But because of injuries to veteran players, Webber and Howard — both 22 years old — have been forced to assume the roles of team leaders. When the playoffs start in two weeks the Bullets will be spectators, finishing with the NBA's second-worst record. Their loss in New York Thursday was their 13th straight, tying a franchise record.

Webber called the defeat "embarrassing" and "the toughest loss of the year." He even told his agent that he planned to call team owner Abe Pollin to apologize.

"There has been a change in his thinking, not so much (that) he is saying 'No, I'm not coming (back) to Washington,'" said Fallasha Erwin, Webber's Detroit-based agent. "He's expecting some things. I don't think Chris wants to be in a position where he can earn a lot of money, and have people say he's just in it for the money. One thing that Pollin said after the trade was that he wanted a championship, and Chris wants to help him get it."

The Bullets traded Tom Gugliotta and three first-round draft picks to Golden State for Webber, who then signed a one-year, $2.1 million contract. After this season he becomes a restricted free agent, meaning he can seek other qualifying offers. The Bullets would simply have to match a qualifying offer to retain the rights to Webber.

Efforts to reach Bullets general manager John Nash were unsuccessful late last week. But throughout the season Nash has said that resigning Webber will be a top priority.

"We expect to make him a fixture in the Washington area," Nash said recently. "He has God-given talent that will enable him to be as good as he wants to be."

It's that potential to be great that has other teams salivating at the prospect of signing Webber. "There are teams that have an interest in Chris Webber," Erwin said. "Those teams know there's a moratorium. But they say 'If you guys don't get the offer you like from the Bullets, we'd like to talk to you.'"

Webber makes it clear that the place he wants to be is Washington, an area that he has found socially rewarding.

"There's nothing better to me than to see a city predominantly black, where it's not predominantly ghetto like Detroit and other cities 'I've been to,' Webber said. "You see black doctors and black lawyers; it's a place with a positive influence on young blacks. It's a very attractive city in that aspect."

Dawgs mauled by Bears, lose 3 of 4

After 15-14 win, Salukis lose next three by combined score of 40-13

By Grant Deady
DE Sports Editor

The scoreboard at Abe Martin Field looked more like the one at McAndrew Stadium over the weekend, as the Saluki baseball squad met Southwest Missouri State. Unfortunately for SIUC, its results on the diamond had striking resemblance to those on the gridiron last fall.

SIUC (15-18, 4-10 in MVC) got outscored 54-28 in four games with the Bears and lost three straight after a 15-14 Friday win that took 11 innings to accomplish.

First-year Saluki head coach Dan Callahan said there's no particular aspect of his team's game to blame — it just needs to improve everywhere.

"As tough as it is, we have to put this weekend behind us," he said. "We can't start pointing fingers because that never helps anything."

The Dawgs were in control of Sunday's finale, 6-1, until SIUC starter Mike McConnell ran out of gas with one out in the seventh and Callahan turned to his bullpen.

Freshman David Piazza came on in relief and gave up a two-run homer to the first batter he faced, Bear third baseman Brad Kennedy, that got SMSU back into the game. Piazza lasted just one inning, giving up four runs on five hits before turning the ball over to fellow reliever Dan Davis.

However, Davis also ran into trouble as SMSU touched the senior for two more runs on two hits and the Bears went ahead for good 9-6.

Brad Blumenstock came in and silenced the Bears for the final 1 2/3 innings, but Callahan said the entire relief staff needs to become more consistent.

"Maybe we need to do a better job of simulating game situations in practice," he said. "We need to find out what we can do so we can better prevent beating ourselves — which is what we did today."

SIUC got its biggest offensive lift of the game in the third inning when sophomore Jay Mansavage belted a three-run homer that gave the Dawgs a 5-0 lead.

But SIUC could only muster seven hits on the afternoon — none of which came in the final three innings.

Game 3 — SMSU 18, SIUC 2
SMSU pitcher Jarrod Mays was almost as impressive as the Bear bats in this one, as the senior went all nine innings, giving up nine hits and just two runs.

Mays' performance was complimented by 20 hits from his SMSU teammates, which included home runs from both Steve Hacker and Dave Slemmer.

Saluki starter Dave Farrow (2-2) took the loss for SIUC after giving up nine runs (four earned) in 3 2/3

SIUC pitching key to wins; streak at 6

By David Vingren
Daily Egyptian Reporter

The Saluki softball squad upped its winning streak to six consecutive games last weekend, as SIUC disposed of Missouri Valley Conference opponents Tulsa and Southwest Missouri in Friday and Saturday doubleheaders at IAW Fields.

SIUC pitching put on an impressive display as three hurlers combined to give up only three earned runs in the Salukis' 6-5 and 5-2 wins over the Golden Hurricane on Friday and 3-1 and 7-3 victories against the Bears on Saturday.

The Salukis (20-14, 5-5 in MVC) are in the midst of their third consecutive major streak this season. The beginning of the team's current streak, which began last Wednesday at Southern Illinois at Edwardsville, immediately followed a five game losing streak, which was preceded by a seven game win streak.

"I can't explain it," Saluki head coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said. "The first time things had fallen into place. Then things fell apart. Now we come home and we turn it around."

Sophomores Jamie Schutteck and Buffy Blust, and freshman Kim Holder did not surrender an earned run to SMSU (13-17, 2-4). Holder pitched the first three and one-third innings while Schutteck finished the game to pick up the win, giving up one hit in three and two-thirds innings in the Salukis' 3-1 victory in Saturday's first game.

The scene was similar in the second contest, except it was Buffy Blust giving up no earned runs in the opening four and one-third innings in SIUC's 7-3 victory. Again it was Schutteck finishing things up as she gave up only two hits in two and two-thirds innings, upping her record to 12-3.

"The pitching staff did well as a group," Brechtelsbauer said. "We just said give us a couple of strong innings and then we'll get someone in for you."

The Salukis opened up the four-game weekend by downing Tulsa 6-5 in nine-innings Friday. Senior right fielder Marlo Pecoraro's two-out triple in the bottom of the ninth set the stage for junior center fielder Christine Knotts, who singled home the game winning run.

Holder racked up the win to move her record to 3-3 while Schutteck finished up the final five and two-thirds innings, giving up two runs, both unearned.

Schutteck was left in the bullpen in Friday's second game as Blust (3-4) went the distance in SIUC's 5-2 victory over the Golden Hurricane (7-24, 0-4). The sophomore gave up two runs, both earned, on six hits in six innings.

In the four games Pecoraro went 5-for-11 with two runs scored and two walks, while Miller batted 5-for-10, while scoring three runs, collecting four runs batted in, and drawing four bases on balls.

The Salukis next take the diamond in Evansville, Ind. for an MVC twin bill with the Aces on Wednesday.

The SIUC men's basketball team looked to compensate for the loss of swingman Marcus Timmons and possible departure of forward Chris Carr by signing Rock Island High School senior Monte Jenkins to a letter of intent last Friday.

Jenkins, a 6-foot 5-inch 190-pound forward, averaged 17 points per game his junior and senior years at Rock Island while leading his team to a third-place finish at this year's Class AA state tournament.

"Jenkins is our kind of player," Saluki head coach Rich Herrin said. "He's an exciting player who fits our up-tempo style perfectly. He plays hard, runs the floor well and is a good person, the kind of player we enjoy having in our program."

With Timmons moving on to the United States Basketball League and the possibility of Carr forgoing his senior season to enter the professional ranks, Jenkins may find playing time in a hurry.

"He'll play a lot for us and that playing time could come as early as next year," Herrin said. "Who knows?"

Jenkins was selected to all-state teams by the Chicago Sun-Times and the Illinois Basketball Coaches Association and was chosen by the Associated Press for the second-team all-tournament team following the 1995 state tournament.

Jenkins, who scored 1,041 points during his Rock Island High School tenure, also made the all-Western Big Six Conference team in his junior and senior years, and was named metro area Player of the Year by the Moline Dispatch.

Women's track still undefeated; men finish fourth at Kentucky

D-E-P-T-H spelled success for the SIUC women's track and field squad against a competitive field on Saturday, as the Salukis continue to hold on to an undefeated record for the outdoor season.

"We have a lot of depth on the team, which is the reason why we won the meet," said SIUC women's track and field coach Don DeNoon.

The Saluki squad earned a total 159.5 points, four-and-a-half points ahead of second place Michigan (155). The meet's host, Kentucky (142.5), finished third while Indiana (141), brought up the rear.

SIUC victory was provided in part by the 4X400 relay team of LaTonya Morrison, Elissa Pierce, Mindy Bruck and Katrina Daniels, who raced to second place despite the absence of Sheila Hollins and Jaspreet Bajwa. The second place finish was the first time the relay team has been beaten this season.

Senior LaTonya Morrison grabbed first place finishes in both the 100 and 400 meter hurdles, while Debbie Daehler finished ahead of the field in the 5000-meter run, in a time of 17:42.90. These wins were the only victories the Salukis recorded during the quadrangular meet.

Jennie Horner also had impressive performances, as she finished second in both the 1500- and 3000-meter runs. Horner's time of 4:25.57 in the 1500 guarantees her a NCAA Provisional time, as well as setting an SIUC record in the event.

Next weekend will prove to be another test for the Salukis, as they head to Indiana to take on a 11-team field, including tough conference opponents Indiana State and Illinois State.

Unfortunately, top performances were not enough to push the Saluki men's track team past the Kentucky Wildcats at Saturday's meet.

The Wildcats placed first with 175 points, Indiana second with 173, followed by Michigan (154), and the Salukis (141) finished fourth.
