ON THE COVER:
Despite the relative calm on the Strip during the weekend of Oct. 24, body surfing and tree jumping still occurred. Concerned because of incidents of prior violence on the Strip earlier this semester, SIUC administrators and student leaders were present that weekend to help maintain order.

(Right) Cathy Cross, a freshman in early childhood education from Carbondale, reads some of the examples of the Clothesline Project in Faner Hall Breezeway. The Clothesline Project is a display of t-shirts made by victims of sexual and domestic violence and one of the events during Women's Safety Week, Oct. 4 - 9.

In a Rush? COME SEE US.

We understand the hectic life of a student.

Finals, graduation, packing to go home for break... the end of the semester is a frantic time for students. Why make your life even more difficult by running all over town to sell your books back? The University Bookstore is conveniently located at the crossroads in the Student Center. Stop by between classes - sell your books back, we'll buy you lunch* and give you a dry erase board! to help you keep track of all you've got going on.
