Allies destroy one-third Iraqi artillery

United Press International

The allied air campaign against Iraqi targets has destroyed one-third of Saddam Hussein's war machinery, a U.S. military official said Thursday, and a Pentagon source said a military communications center hidden in a Baghdad hotel will not be targeted to avoid civilian casualties.

Two U.S. Air Force pilots were killed when their radar-jamming jet crashed in Saudi Arabia after a combat mission, while Iraq, vowing to avenge civilians killed in a U.S. bombing raid, fired two Scud missiles into Saudi Arabia. Allied commanders also reported a surge in desertions by Iraqi soldiers.

The U.N. Security Council, meanwhile, called a closed-door meeting to debate whether the allies have exceeded the U.N. mandate to drive Iraqi forces from Kuwait.

Marine Corps Brig. Gen. Richard I. Neal of the U.S. Central Command in Riyadh, the Saudi capital, said the allies have confirmed that their bombing raids, among the heaviest of the war, had destroyed 1,300 of Iraq's tanks, 800 of its 2,800 armored vehicles and 1,100 of its 3,100 artillery pieces.

Neal added, "You're damned right there were others that sustained damage," but refused to give an estimate, saying allied intelligence could not determine this. He also would not say how much of the destroyed machinery was for the use of Saddam's elite Republican Guard.

He said 2,800 combat sorties had been flown Thursday, among the highest for any single day of the war, bringing the total number of sorties to more than 70,000. Particular attention — about 200 sorties — was given to the Republican Guard in northern Kuwait and southeastern Iraq, Neal said.

In Washington, a senior Pentagon official said a major military communications center is hidden beneath Baghdad's al-

Rashid Hotel in Baghdad but it will not be targeted for allied bombing because it houses civilians, including Western journalists.

"Yes, we've known about that from the very beginning," said the official, who requested anonymity. "It may be the principle command position in Baghdad now" because of allied bombings in Iraq's capital, the official said, but he emphasized that it need not be taken out by allied bombing.

"There's more than one way to skin a cat," he said.

Edgar's broad speech leaves local politicians wondering

By John Patterson
Staff Writer

Local politicians had a variety of responses to Gov. Edgar's State of the State address given Wednesday.

Reactions varied from disappointment over the lack of specifics to praise for an aggressive agenda.

"I thought he made a good speech," state Sen. Ralph Dunn, R-Du Quoin, said. "He set an ambitious agenda for the next four years."

Edgar presented several wishes for state programs, but Dunn said not all of them may be as successful as the governor would like.

"Some are probably more than we can accomplish in four years with a minority in the General Assembly," he said.

Edgar's proposals for pre-school education and health care were two major issues Dunn said were important.

The proposal is for state-wide preschool programs by 1996.

"I don't know about funding, but he gave us four years to see what we can do," Dunn said.

For health care, Edgar proposed speeding up state assistance in paying hospital and nursing home bills.

"The state needs to get to paying bills in 30 to 45 days rather than 90 days," Dunn said. "Having hospitals and nursing homes wait 90 to 120 days will drive them out of business."

Other proposals included making

Assembly set to carve district lines minus two congressional seats

By John Patterson
Staff Writer

Illinois legislators are preparing to slice the state into new districts as they do every 10 years. But this year the knife will cut a little deeper.

Because of the lack of population growth compared to other states, Illinois will lose two U.S. representatives.

The loss will drop the number of Illinois congressional representatives from 22 to 20, and will force the state to be reshaped into 20 districts for the 1992 election.

The 1990 census figures for Illinois list the population at 11,917,100.

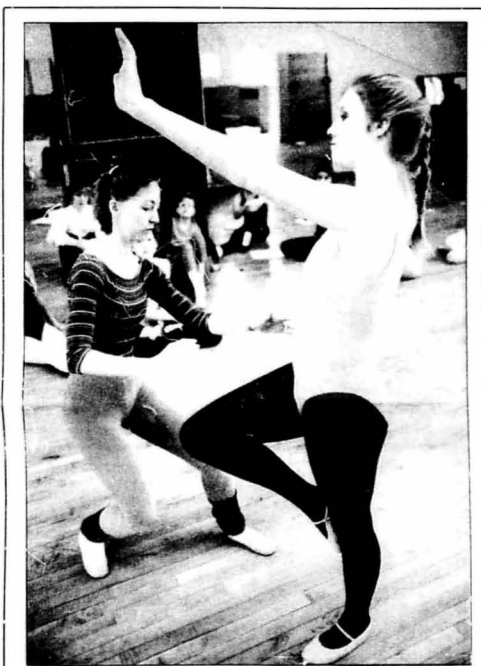

Cuts in representation will affect Illinois' U.S. representatives, but the power to decide where those cuts come from is in the hands of the state legislature, said Barbara Brown, SIUC political science

Forest Service continues to sell timber

Poshard requests postponement until settlement reached

By Amy Cooper
Staff Writer

The U.S. Forest Service said it plans to continue selling timber, despite U.S. Rep. Glenn Poshard's request to stop cutting and start talking.

Poshard, D-Carterville, asked the Shawnee National Forest to cease timber harvesting until the public can discuss an amendment to the Forest Management Plan, established in November 1986, regarding timber sales in the Shawnee.

The amendment will allow a 90-day public hearing period starting April 1 to discuss the implications of timber harvesting in the Shawnee.

Poshard made the request Wednesday at a conference in Marion after the Shawnee National Forest service released a report Tuesday outlining the $1.06 million loss in 1990 timber sales.

Sam Emmons, planning staff officer for the forest service, said he understood Poshard's concerns.

"We're anxious to see his proposal and talk with him," Emmons said.

He said the Forest service has no intention of stopping timber sales because of the 14 million board feet projected to be sold from the Shawnee in 1991.

"At this time, we have no plans to stop, but we need to see his proposal," he said.

Emmons said he sees the timber program in Shawnee as vital part of the national timber supply.

Officials need more viewing time on cable issue

By Natalie Boehme and Amy Cooper
Staff Writers

SIU trustees and other University officials will view the cost of cable for another month before making a decision on a $112 residence hall rate increase needed to install the system.

"We need as much time as we can have before we proceed," said SIUC President John C. Guyon at the SIU Board of Trustee Finance Committee meeting Thursday.

The cable project was approved by the board in September with the agreement that SIU will own the cable system and that the cost of installation will be paid during the next five years, said Lawrence Juhlin, associate vice president for student affairs.

A 4-percent housing fee increase is needed to fund the project. The increase would raise residence hall rates $112 in fall and spring semesters and $31 for summer session.

The increase was proposed by University Housing to cover the cable system, renovations to Evergreen Terrace residence hall and inflation.

About $69 of the $112 will go toward installing the cable system, according to the Residence Hall Association.

Donald Wilson, vice chancellor for financial affairs, said fee increases must go before the board twice before a vote is taken.

A decision will not be reached until the next board meeting March 14, he said.

The increase would raise the one year housing contract to $2,880, he said.

Donald M. Ballestro, assistant director of business for University Housing, said if all goes well cable hookups will be in place by the opening of the fall 1991 semester.

The fee increase also would fund

Women drop third conference game

By Paul Pabst
Staff Writer

The Lady Sycamores of Indiana State pulled a trip-wire on the Saluki women's basketball team's quest for another Gateway Conference championship with a 70-64 upset Saturday afternoon.

While SIUC lost the battle Saturday, the war is not over for the title. The Salukis, who are now 11-3 in conference, are just behind lead Southwest Missouri State at 13-2.

"It helped us that Illinois State lost yesterday," SIUC head coach Cindy Scott said. "I still think it will come down to the Southwest game, as it should."

Hopefully the Salukis will find an antidote to their shooting sickness, which was the antagonist in the Indiana State loss. Junior guard Karrie Redeker's off night, just 2 of 14 shooting, was symbolic of the entire first half in which the Salukis shot 28 percent from the field.

"We just seem to be struggling on nights when we don't shoot well," Scott said. "We expect to come out of this slump."

Both teams came out bricking Saturday, as ISU couldn't take advantage of the Salukis' early problems. Seniors Alison Smith and Cyd Mitchell, who started in the place of senior Amy Rakers who was injured Thursday against Illinois State, kept matters close as the pair combined to score 25 points.

The Salukis, however, needed a boost inside against the Sycamores' duo of Angie Eichhorst and Julie Lein who teamed for 26 points. They got that boost from a source who was supposed to be icing her knee during the game, instead of icing shots.

Rakers checked in and immediately took it to the Sycamores' inside people. In just 26 minutes of play, she tallied 18 points on five of six shooting and snared 12 rebounds.

"She wasn't supposed to play," Scott said of Rakers. "She came to me and said (her knee) felt good. It's still sore, but Amy's just a great competitor."

Unfortunately for the Salukis, Rakers couldn't defend both the inside and outside against ISU. Sycamore freshman guard Hazel Olden gave SIUC a look at the future as she took charge of the contest.

Olden led all scorers with 23 points to go with her four assists and five steals. She was the catalyst of a three-minute run late in the second half, in which ISU outscored SIUC 12-3 to up the margin to 60-49.

Dawgs down Wichita

By Eric Bugger
Staff Writer

The Salukis not only shocked Wichita State Saturday on MVC-TV, but they escorted them to the electric chair and turned up the heat.

SIUC dominated Wichita State for nearly 40 minutes of basketball as they trounced the Shockers 90-65.

A 10-0 run by SIUC to open the ballgame stunned the Shockers and kept them chasing the Salukis throughout the contest. The Dawgs jumped out to a 15-point lead before WSU managed its first field goal.

"We came out and tried to force the tempo," sophomore guard Tyrone Bell said. "We tried to dictate what they were going to do on offense with our defense. When we got a lead we just tried to not let them back in."

The Salukis shot a season-high 68 percent from the field, including 73 percent in the second half. SIUC had been shooting 45 percent this season. WSU hit 47 percent of its shots.

Senior guard Sterling Mahan was relentless with his 11-for-13 effort from the field. He also hit a 3-pointer to lead the Salukis with 23 points.

Three other Dawgs scored in double figures. Senior forward Rick Shipley dumped in 18 points and also contributed with five assists. Junior forward Kelvar Lawrence bombed the Shockers with three 3-pointers and a six-for-eight night from the field to collect 17 points. Sophomore center Ashraf Amaya contributed 10 tallies.

"I thought the reason we shot better today is we took better shots than we have in the past," Shipley said, "and we got some shots to fall that don't always fall. We come out Monday night and those same shots might not fall. It's a little bit of luck, but it's also a matter of getting the shots that we wanted to get." The Salukis were able to get

Salukis break records at TAC Championships

Two Salukis broke Recreation Center records Saturday at the Athletics Congress Championship (TAC).

Sophomore high jumper Arrin Plab shattered the old record of 7-41/2 with his first place leap of 7-5, and former Saluki, Kathleen Lee, presently the SIUC women's assistant track and field coach, set a new record in the 55-meter hurdles with a time of 7.97, breaking the old record of 7.99.

Other records broken include the mile run, which was set by TAC member Darryl Frerker with a 4:04.75, breaking the old record of Saluki sophomore Gerallt Owen (4:11.47). TAC member Kelly Riley set a new record in the pole vault with a vault of 17-10 1/2, breaking his own record of 17-7 which he set at SIUC last year when he ran for Arkansas State.

The SIUC coaches Bill Cornell and Don DeNoon were pleased with the outcome of Illinois' first TAC Championship and the performances of their athletes.

"I thought we looked really good considering the competition," DeNoon said. "It was encouraging to see so many season best performances from my girls."

Cornell said this was a very low-key meet for his team and since the conference championships are only a week away, he let each individual athlete decide whether or not he wanted to compete in the meet. "Some athletes want to rest and others want to tune-up," Cornell said. "So I let this be an optional meet for them. I think only about half of the team competed."

Other first place Saluki finishes for the men's team include junior Garret Hines in the 55-meter dash (6.39), sophomore Bernard Henry in the 800-meter run (1:53.8), and Owen in the 3,000-meter run (8:24).

Junior Nick Schwartz took second in the mile run with a time of 4:07.24, freshman Brian Miller placed second in the shot put with a throw of 51-11 1/2 and freshman Patrick Bridges took second in the 200-meter dash with a 22.7.

First-place finishes for the women's track and field team were taken by sophomore Dawn Barefoot in the 3,000-meter run with a time of 10:16.74. Sophomore Leeann Conway clocked in at the same time for the event, but the judges chose Barefoot as the winner and Conway placed second.

Sophomore Christina Gabler placed first in the 1,000-meter run with a time of 3:04.23 and sophomore Laura Batsie took second with a 3:09.47.

The 4x800 relay team of Gabler, Batsie, freshman Kelly Elliot and Stephanie Shelley took first with a time of 9:52.2. The 4x200 relay team of sophomores Brandi Mock, Nacolia Moore, Crystalla Constantinou and junior Theresa Lyles placed second with a 1:43.39.

Sophomore Cheryl Evers took second in the shot put with a toss of 45-31/4 and sophomore Shaurae Winfield placed second in the 600-meter run with a 1:38.52.

Buckeyes beat Indiana 97-95 in two overtimes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Treg Lee hit a 10-foot baseline jumper with three seconds remaining in double overtime Sunday to lift No. 2 Ohio State to a 97-95 victory over No. 4 Indiana in a Big Ten game.

Jim Jackson scored 30 points for Ohio State, including a basket with one second left in regulation to force overtime at 78-78. He made virtually the same move down the lane at the end of the second overtime. This time, he dumped the ball to Lee on the left baseline for the winner.

Indiana called timeout with two seconds left. After inbounding, the Hoosiers called their final timeout with a second to play. Jamal Meeks inbounded to Pat Graham, whose desperation shot from near midcourt hit high off the glass.

Indiana fell to 22-3 overall and 10-2 in the Big Ten, with two of its losses coming to the Buckeyes. Ohio State, 22-1 and 12-1, leads Indiana by a half game in the Big Ten.

Freshman Damon Bailey led Indiana with a career-high 32 points, 12 coming in the two overtimes.

Salukis Leeann Conway and Dawn Barefoot compete in the 3,000-meter run Saturday at the TAC championships at the Rec Center. Barefoot and Conway clocked in at the same time, but judges awarded Barefoot the first-place win.

Rushdie's friends demand end to Iranian death threats

LONDON (UPI) — On the second anniversary of a death sentence issued against Salman Rushdie for alleged blasphemy against Islam, the writer's friends urged world leaders Thursday to repudiate the renewal of the religious edict by Iranian ministers. The International Committee for the Defense of Salman Rushdie and His Publisher called on world leaders to condemn the repeated death threats against Rushdie. Rushdie, 43, has met with moderate Muslim leaders, assuring them he did not intend to insult their religion in his novel "The Satanic Verses."

Moscow paper criticizes Soviet role in war

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet government newspaper questioned Moscow's post-Cold War alliance with the United States Thursday, saying "we are siding with murderers in this slaughter in the gulf." In the most strident commentary on the nearly month-old gulf war, the newspaper Izvestia said the nation has again been sold a bill of goods. "Again we have been deceived and cheated in something, but we have also deceived ourselves," wrote Izvestia's influential commentator Stanislav Kondrashov.

Baker skeptical of Iraq-Soviets talks result

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State James Baker received an extensive report on this week's talks between Iraq and the Soviet Union, the State Department said Thursday, but the United States remained skeptical about any early results. Soviet Foreign Minister Alexander Bessmertnykh told Baker that Iraq was told that it must comply with the U.N. demands, including the demand for unconditional withdrawal of Iraqi military forces from Kuwait. Spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler said Baker believes "it remains to be seen" if there will be any results.

VA hospitals not prepared for gulf casualties

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. Rep. Lane Evans on Wednesday called for a government investigation to determine whether Department of Veterans Affairs hospitals are prepared for a possible influx of wounded soldiers from the Persian Gulf war. In calling for a probe by the General Accounting Office, an investigative arm of Congress, the Rock Island Democrat said he has seen reports indicating that 80 VA medical centers could experience shortages of equipment and personnel in the event combat casualties mount.

Bush budget frees money for roads, hurts mass transit

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — A proposed revamp of the federal government's transportation policy would free up long-awaited money to repair Illinois roads but could deal a crippling blow to Chicago-area mass transit systems, state transportation officials said Thursday. The Illinois Department of Transportation is also worried the state could wind up spending more to repair secondary roads as the federal government concentrates on fixing the interstate highway system.

More chaplains activated to support gulf war

SCOTT AIR FORCE BASE (UPI) — The 932nd Aeromedical Airlift Group (Associate) chaplain office has been recalled and will report for duty Friday in support of Operation Desert Storm, Air Force officials said Thursday. The three-man office will be stationed at Scott Air Force Base, backfilling for those chaplains already deployed. The Scott Reserve group now has about 60 percent of its personnel activated.

Valentine donations push up weekly totals to 1,885 pints

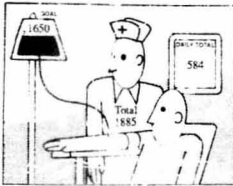

By Rennie Walker
Staff Writer

Chilling winds and falling snow did not stop 584 people from donating a pint on Thursday, the last day of the blood drive.

With two hours left in the drive, the weekly goal of 1,650 pints had been surpassed by 100 pints, and all beds were full. The total number of pints donated at the five-day drive was 1,885.

This is the first SIUC blood drive where the daily goal has been exceeded every day, said Sharrie Voigt, president of the SIUC Mobilization of Volunteer Effort.

On Thursday Ballroom D of the Student Center appeared to be a Valentine's Day celebration with helium-filled red balloons scattered among the crowd, and a few roses in a coffee can vase on a Red Cross staff table. Donors left the drive with red balloons tied to their wrists.

Chip Grigsby, junior in history, was a first time donor Thursday afternoon.

"I have a close friend in the Middle East. I've always thought the blood drive was a good cause, but I was always too lazy to come out. No more excuses," he said.

"Blood can save lives. Aside from the war, there could be a car accident anywhere at anytime. It would be pointless for someone to die because of a lack of blood."

The next SIUC blood drive will be April 15-17. Donors who gave blood at the February drive will be able to give at the April drive, said Vivian Ugent, coordinator of area blood drives.

USG upholds reprimand resolution against WIDB fiscal officer Yantis

By Doug Toole
Staff Writer

The Undergraduate Student Government upheld a resolution reprimanding the fiscal adviser of WIDB Radio at its meeting Wednesday night.

Jack Sullivan, west side senator and USG finance committee chairman, moved to rescind an earlier resolution censuring Joanne Yantis, coordinator of the University Programming Office, and calling for her to be more diligent in the performance of her duties.

The motion did not receive a two-thirds majority vote and failed.

Sullivan said USG can voice its disapproval at an administrator, but has no formal apparatus for censuring or reprimanding them.

"I've never seen a censure before, and I don't know what it means," he said.

Michael Parker, west side senator and writer of the resolution, said the censure was intended to express to Yantis that she had done a poor job as an advisor and has no real effect.

He said students that work at WIDB are being punished for something that is the fiscal officer's fault.

High school students to perform at Shryock

Music will be in the air Saturday as two bands take to Shryock stage for the Festival Concert.

The concert at 2:30 p.m. will feature the Heartland Honor Band, directed by guest conductor Joseph Christensen, and SIUC Wind Ensemble, directed by Michael Hanes and Dan Phillips.

The Heartland Honor Band is made up of 97 students from 18 high schools in Southern Illinois and Western Kentucky.

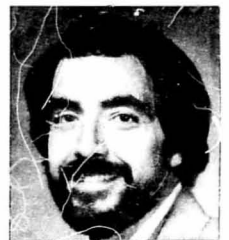

Students were nominated by their band instructors, and Hanes and Phillips selected the band from those nominated.

Hanes said 1991 is only the second year for the band, and it has already doubled in size.

The night before the concert will be the first time the entire band has rehearsed the music in whole, he said.

Christensen, guest conductor for the Heartland Band, directs bands at Iowa State University.

Hanes said he has gained national acclaim and has directed bands from coast to coast. Not only will the participants give the concert on Saturday, they will have the since he is instructed in special labs by SIUC faculty and students.

The music played by both bands will feature several recognizable songs from such composers as Leonard Bernstein, Alfred Reed, and the music of Aaron Copland.

Hanes said although most people wouldn't recognize the title of the last song by the honor band, "Canticle: All Creatures of Our God and King," they will recognize the hymn.

"The last song finishes up with the band and the Shryock organ playing at the same time," Hanes said. "It's a real dandy."

The program will include a tribute to Copland, the American composer who died earlier this year.

Gorbachev seeks peace solution with Kuwaitis

United Press International

Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev met Thursday with Kuwaiti Foreign Minister Sabah Ahmed al-Jaber al-Sabah as part of the Soviet effort to negotiate a settlement to the war.

Gorbachev's personal envoy,

Yevgeni Primakov, returned Wednesday from Baghdad citing "glimmers of hope," and Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz will go to Moscow on Sunday to resume exploratory peace talks.

Iraq fired two Scuds into Saudi Arabia around midday, U.S. military officials said. The missiles were not intercepted by Patriots, and debris from at least one of the missiles fell on Hafra al-Batan, about 50 miles south of the Iraqi border, the officials said.

Most civilians have left the town because of the war, but there is a Saudi military installation there occupied by allied troops.

It was the first time Iraq had launched a daylight Scud attack against Saudi Arabia. Previous Scud attacks have been mounted in darkness or twilight, apparently to prevent allied detection of the missiles' launch sites.

Air Force Lt. Col. Virginia Pribyla, a spokeswoman for the U.S. Central Command in Riyadh, said she could not say whether allied forces were able to take advantage of the daylight attack to find and destroy the Scud launcher or launchers used in the attack.

Iraq vowed to avenge Wednesday's U.S. bombing raid on Iraq.

Ban on clearcutting soon may get the ax

SOME AREA RESIDENTS are hoping to chop down the proposed lift of the clearcutting ban in the Shawnee National Forest.

President Bush proposed dropping the current ban on clearcutting in the Shawnee last week as part of the 1992 Federal Budget.

Members from environmentally conscience groups have protested any method of timber harvesting in the Shawnee for months.

CONGRESSMAN Glenn Poshard, D-Caterville, has called for a halt of timber sales until an amendment can be made to the forest management plan by the Forest Service.

The congressman's call needs to be answered.

Last year, the Shawnee lost $1.06 million in its timber sale program. Yet at least one Forest Service official claims the forest is being managed "excellently."

There is nothing excellent about continuing to cut and sell trees when money is being lost.

And there is nothing excellent about allowing clearcutting as a harvest method.

CLFARCUTTING has long been criticized as ecological damaging and wasteful of timber.

Although select cutting is a more expensive method of harvesting, the virtually non-existent waste factor makes the method more sensible.

Local politicians have said Bush has no real intention of lifting the ban.

The community needs to make sure Bush's budget proposal remains a proposal and not a reality.

Editorial Policies

Signed articles, including letters, viewpoints and other commentaries, reflect the opinions of their authors. The letters space will be a forum for discussion of issues of public interest. Open, civil dialogue is the aim. Letters may be edited for length and content. Letters of fewer than 250 words will be given preference for publication. Letters will be limited to 300 words. Letters that the editors deem objectionable because of potential libelous material or because extraordinary bad taste will not be published. Access to the letters space will be afforded to as many writers as possible to encourage diversity of points of view. Editors may impose, at their discretion, a limit on the frequency of publication of letters by an author. When a multitude of letters on the same subject are received, editors may select a few letters that are representative of those letters for publication.

Every letter must be signed and submitted in person by its author or authors. Students must identify themselves by class and major, faculty by rank and department, non-academic staff by position and department, others by address and occupation or position appropriate to the nature of their letters. Letters for which authorship cannot be verified will not be published.

Commentary

Profit-seeking 'patriot' sends sex cassettes to gulf for morale

In every war, there are those on the home front who do their part. From time to time, I will report on those patriots. Here is the first of these reports.

Michael Lobkowicz is a businessman of the Los Angeles species. That means he calls himself an "audio and print artist." His works of art include an erotic magazine and a low-rating late-night radio show.

When the fighting broke out, Lobkowicz decided to do something to help the war effort. He would raise the morale of the young men over there. As he said in a message he faxed to me:

"World Broadcast System is proud to announce 'Desert Susan,' the first in a series of radio shows on cassettes, created especially for American and Allied troops..."

"Desert Susan" is hosted by Susan Block, best-selling author, radio artist, matchmaker, Mistress of the Airwaves, sex therapist..."

He goes on to say that Ms. Block tapes the cassette "in her West Hollywood bedroom." And that in a "sultry voice penetrating the horrors of war... she comforts, inspires and counsels them on their long, lonely missions... bringing them a hot little piece of American pie with a lot of cool whipped cream. Desert Susan loves her troops."

As a patriotic gesture, Lobkowicz says he is sending free copies of the tapes — about 10 a day — to a Desert Shield P.O. box.

However, he is also making them available to patriotic Americans who might wish to send them to someone over there. He is charging $11.95 a tape. But for those who sign up for an entire year's supply of 12, he has a cut-rate price of $120.

As for the content of the tape, it is a bit difficult to describe.

It would be an understatement to say that Ms. Block, also known as

Mike Royko
Tribune Media Services

Desert Susan, has a sultry voice. I'm not sure that seductive or erotic would do it justice. Let me put it as delicately as I can: It is the sort of voice you would expect from a lady who was nibbling on your earlobe while unbuttoning your shirt and trying to lift your wallet.

And it is appropriate that she would record the cassettes in her bedroom, since she does everything but moan, shriek and ask: "Was it as good for you as it was for me?"

While breathing heavily, she slowly says "It's so good to talk to you again... I've missed you... you are the captain of my heart... You're so precious to me... Your strong mind... Your powerful (long pause) but so fragile (long pause) bodyyyyyyy... Let me whisper in your ear... Let me rock you in the cradle of my arms... Let me rub your feet and massage your mind... Let me kiss you... Let me touch you where... you long to be touched..."

There's much more. A few romantic songs, what appears to be an effort at philosophy and cheerful messages from a few other women — Angie, Janell and Marianne, who work for Lobkowicz in the audio and print artistry field.

But mostly it is Desert Susan, who goes on to say: "...Now I want you to snuggle up real close, close your eyes if you can, not if you're on Scud watch or anything, and think back to those good old dating days at home where after a great evening with a great girl, you had her just where you wanted..."

Then she pretends to be that girl, at one point saying: "Wrap yourself around me..." With appropriate sighs and gasps, of course.

In a phone conversation about his project, Lobkowicz denied that the purpose of the tape is to get a young man in the mood to squeeze a female's rump.

"It's just to make them feel good," he said. "This has more to do with their feelings inside and contemplation. These are all the things we're fighting for, to be at home with our loved ones. Ultimately, I do think that is what we're fighting for."

If he meant that the young men who heard the tapes might prefer to be in Desert Susan's bedroom, I couldn't argue with him.

Lobkowicz said he really didn't care if he made a profit from the project, although he added: "That would be nice; it's a capitalistic society."

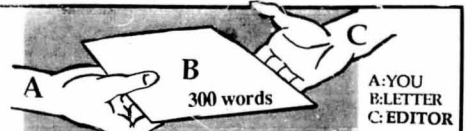

And he said that for every tape he sells, he will donate $1 to the USO, which is very generous. Of course, the tapes cost only $3 or less to produce, which leaves him a profit of $8 or $9.

In discussing the profit potential, Lobkowicz sniffed: "Well, newspapers have been aggressive in selling their product."

That is true. On the other hand, few newspapers tell the troops that we will rub their feet or touch them where they long to be touched. And we seldom sigh or moan, even when overcome with patriotism.

I guess we're kind of stodgy. If you wish to order one of Lobkowicz's war effort tapes, his address is... Oops, I seem to have lost it. Very careless of me.

Univer-City government ?

City officials and student leaders disagree on students' role in government

By Doug Toole and Leslie Colp
Staff Writers

City and University government leaders do not agree on the form of government Carbondale should have but they do agree more students should vote.

Graduate and Professional Student Council president Charles Ramsey said student representation in Carbondale is a double-edged sword—students aren't well-represented, but they don't turn out to vote.

In the Carbondale voting precincts, Precinct 23 includes Brush Towers and University Park and Precinct 25 is the Thompson Point area.

According to Jackson County voting statistics, 33 votes were cast from Precinct 23 and 29 votes were cast from Precinct 25 in the 1987 city election. In the 1989 election, 13 votes were cast from Precinct 23 and 28 votes were cast in Precinct 25.

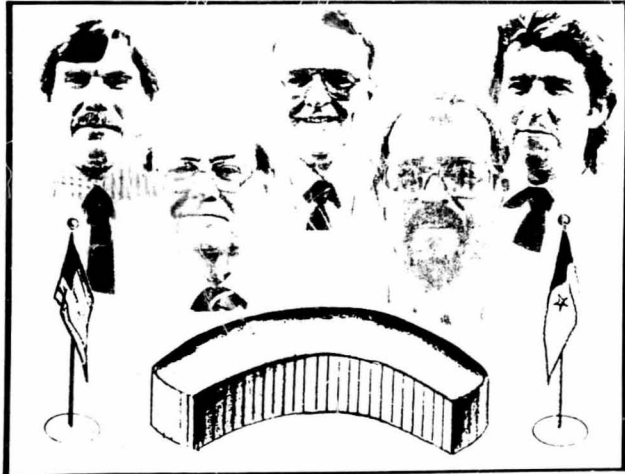

Many University students come from the Chicago area, said Student Trustee Bill Hall, and may be unwilling to transfer their voting rights from Chicago to Carbondale.

Another factor in low student voter turnout may be the small number of students who are deputy voting registrars, Hall said. Having more voter registration sites on campus would make the procedure more convenient for students and may increase voter turnout, he said.

"If we could get students to register and vote," Hall said,

"students would run this town."

Councilman John Mills, a graduate of SIUC, said not only do students not vote, they do not participate when given a chance.

"We've given students a variety of chances to be on boards and committees," Mills said. "Students don't call me. Students don't take part."

To help student representation, Ramsey said he would like to see a larger city council that would be geographically oriented.

Carbondale is a large city with a diverse community which is sectionalized, he said.

Carbondale currently has a city manager form of government. Councilmen and the mayor are elected at-large and a city manager carries out the decisions of the council. The mayor and four councilmen have equal voting powers.

Dividing the city geographically into wards would not guarantee a student representative to city council any more than it would guarantee a black representative, Ramsey said, but the chances would be better.

Councilman Richard Morris said he is pleased with the current form of Carbondale government because each councilman represents the entire city.

"It works for Carbondale," he said.

Morris said five votes are enough because there are no hassles from different segments of the city. All residents are considered when decisions are made, he said.

"When we make a decision, it is for everyone," Morris said. "Decisions are not being made lightly."

Morris used the University Mall's expansion as an example of how the City Council's decisions benefit the entire city. The mall is for everyone, he said, not just for

City government at NIU Dekalb gives students aldermanic seats

By Doug Toole

Marc Alberts, city editor for the Northern Star, the student newspaper at Northern Illinois University in DeKalb, said students play a major part in city government.

Of seven aldermanic positions, three are held by students, and the mayor was a student at NIU.

DeKalb is divided into wards geographically according to census information. Alberts said students make up more than 85 percent of the population in three wards.

In the 1987 election, 13 percent of the registered voters in DeKalb were students. Voter turnout was high because groups or housing areas of students would register and vote together, Alberts said.

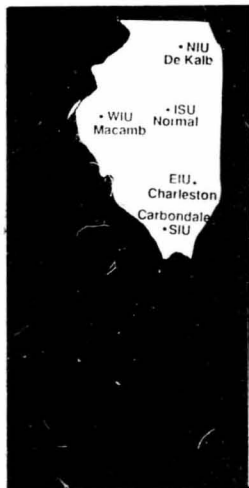

Student aldermen receive full voting powers and serve as much of their four-year term as they can. Alberts said when a student alderman does leave, the mayor takes applications from others living in that ward and appoints another alderman.

Alberts said a student alderman was able to organize an ad hoc environmental commission to promote recycling in DeKalb. He said this was strongly supported by NIU students.

DeKalb Mayor Greg Sparrow said the city designed the ward boundaries to encompass students, who make up about 40 percent of DeKalb's population.

Sparrow said DeKalb's aldermanic form of government has been very beneficial and gives a good representation of the community. He said there aren't many student marches on city hall, partly because students know they have power in city government.

Jennifer Johnson, local and state editor for the Daily Vidette, the student newspaper at Illinois State University in Normal, said students are poorly represented in their town council.

Johnson said a mayor and six commissioners make up the town council in Normal, and that none of the commissioners are students.

The ISU Student Body Board of Directors president and vice president serve on the Normal Human Relations Committee, which acts as a liaison between students and the town, Johnson said.

Type of city government has changed over years

By Leslie Colp
Staff Writer

Carbondale's city-manager form of government is the most common form for a city its size, said an SIUC political science professor.

Professor Keith Snavely said changes normally come when a city changes sizes.

The most recent push to change government forms in Carbondale was in 1987 when residents voted on a referendum to change from a commission form to a ward-alderman form.

Carbondale's newspapers were split on the matter.

"The fact is that the at-large system has failed to allow blacks and students adequate representation," wrote editors of the Daily Egyptian on April 3.

"Both groups are concentrated in two areas of the city and the at-large system dilutes their electoral strengths. Only a ward-alderman system will allow blacks and students the representation they deserve."

But the editors of the Southern Illinoisian wrote on April 5 that the "ward-alderman system would reduce Carbondale's forward-looking city government to a gladiator's arena for settling neighborhood squabbles."

Snavely said it would take a lot of time and organization by different groups to change to a ward-alderman system.

Residents rejected the ward-alderman system by nearly a 2 to 1 margin with nearly 3,000 votes cast in the April 7 election.

This was not the only time the ward-alderman system was considered in Carbondale.

Aldermen represented three wards from 1874 to 1901 when a fourth ward was added. Carbondale changed this system in 1911 to the commission form.

Each commissioner was in charge of a city department. The body of commissioners had the power to do such things as pass ordinances and impose taxes.

According to letters to the editors of the Daily Free Press, a Carbondale newspaper, government officials at the turn of the century were not regarded as very respectable citizens. The newspaper also recommended a change.

"Under the commission form it should be easier to elect successful businessmen of high standing in the community and men with force of character..." the editorial board for the Daily Free Press wrote. "...we believe (the commission form) will eliminate any venal rogues, dishonest people open to bribery, as candidates for city officers."

When the votes were counted, 441 people were in favor of the commission form and 172 opposed it.

Changing forms of government was again an issue in 1959 when residents voted for the council-manager form. It failed by nearly 200 votes.

Commissioners governed Carbondale until the there was another push to change in 1966.

The town council is elected at-large and does not represent any particular geographic area, Johnson said. While the city pays attention to student needs, there is not student vote on the council.

"I think we're definitely underrepresented," Johnson said.

Students often run for town council seats, she said, but the student vote is not strong enough to elect them.

Melinda Thompson, editor-in-chief of the Western Courier, the student newspaper at Western Illinois University in Macomb, said students at WIU were "apathetic and pathetic" in their involvement with the city.

Macomb has a mayor and seven aldermen, Thompson said, none of whom are students. Students rarely run in city elections, and generally are not involved in city committees.

Thompson said an alderman recently raised a protest about noisy house parties in Macomb and proposed having the city police randomly check parties for underage drinkers. "We're voiceless on the city level, and no one seems to care," Thompson said.

to contact Yantis for comment.

The resolution stems from the student-run WIDB radio station's failure to return an after action report to the USG finance committee after receiving $105 in the fall. The finance committee suspended funding to the registered student organization indefinitely as a penalty.

Parker learned that Yantis was fiscal adviser of WIDB and was responsible for maintaining proper fiscal records and the administration, collection and expenditure of WIDB's account funds.

USG passed the resolution to censure Yantis Jan. 30. Sullivan argued that Yantis was not given an opportunity to defend herself Jan. 30 and that it is the students' jobs to oversee the after action reports,

FRED'S

THE TRUE STORY OF AREA CODE 618

Though we've always joked fun at Area Code 618, the truth is there is nothing funny about this serious-minded band. With this act, Fred's will try to rectify the slights and insults of the past by revealing the true history of this extremely talented group.

Herr Mueller, a student of Pablo Casells, and Herr Hilgedieck were former members of the Smetana String Quartet of Czechoslovakia. After Mueller effected a daring escape by pole-vauling across the Berlin Wall, he went on to study mandolin at Juillard. (The seventeen-foot four-inch vault would have been recognized as a world record, had it taken place at an AAU sanctioned event.) Hilgedieck later defected while on a concert tour in Keokuk, Iowa, and went on to study with Buddy Rich. With his talented Detaurie and Pizzicato, he made one of the most amazing string-to-percussion transitions in modern times.

Steve Dersely, formerly Steverno Daniello, was originally a member of the Milan Boys' Choir. As Steve matured he was faced with the choice of either "El Castredo" with its accompanying permanent soprano-hood, or running away, he chose the latter. He rowed away in a Fiat that was shipped west-mail to Jascha Heifetz. Heifetz (a world-renowned hoo-down fiddle player), took pity on this young urchin and taught Steve everything he knew.

At the age of twenty-seven, L. Thomas and Bill Carter (hall-brothers, born in Dolores Hidalgo, Mexico) were apprenticed as Marshall Fields Uncle Mistletoe Toy Room Elves. As luck would have it, Bill was on duty when the shipment of Andre Segovia Matel Guitars arrived, and the rest is history.

The Illinois Constitution calls for legislative redistricting every 10 years following the release of census figures. The districts are redrawn so each has equal population and provides equal representation.

Redistricting is a very partisan process, involving much debate and several revisions before action is finally taken to approve a plan, Brown said.

Both political parties in both houses of the Illinois General Assembly create a plan that suits their needs for the coming decade.

Although the idea sounds simple, carving the state into 20 districts while politicians protect their jobs and their party interests tends to be a tedious and drawn out, Brown said.

"They think of what is best for them in terms of getting re-elected," she said.

The majority of legislators in the General Assembly are Democrats so they will draw up a plan trying to ensure their positions, she said.

But Illinois has a Republican governor with the power to veto redistricting plans.

Under the state constitution, the General Assembly has until June 30 to approve a plan. If an agreement between the two parties and the governor cannot be reached, an eight-person commission comprised of four Democrats and four Republicans has 30 days to submit a compromise plan.

The commission usually has just as much trouble agreeing on a plan as the entire General Assembly, Brown said.

After the 30 days are up, the constitution provides for a tie-breaker. The Supreme Court submits the names of a Republican and a Democrat, one of which will cast the deciding vote for the commission.

Secretary of State George Ryan draws the name out of Abraham Lincoln's hat. In 1981, then Secretary of State Jim Edgar drew former Democratic Gov. Sammie Shapiro's name, and the Democratic plan was approved.

The luck of the draw has a very large influence on how the government will be run and who will be in control, she said.

The loss of two representatives will create several problems when the redistricting process begins. Once it is done, two people basically will be out of jobs, Brown said.

"It's very difficult to pit one congressman against another," she said. "They know each other personally."

Brown said the predicament usually is remedied by a legislator who is near retirement volunteering to lose his or her position.

This year, however, legislators have some flexibility to work with, she said.

"Two U.S. congressmen have been called to Washington to work for the president, Lynn Martin and Edward Madigan," Brown said. "It would be easy to take their districts."

Legislators must look at their districts and find a way to compensate for lost or gained population, said State Sen. Jim Rea, D-Christopher.

"I'm going to have to jump six to seven thousand people or maybe more," Rea said. "Some areas have lost population."

The loss might affect some areas of the state, but Rea said there will be "no substantial changes in Southern Illinois."

State Rep. David Phelps, D-El Dorado, said he remains optimistic about the General Assembly's ability to work out an agreement over redistricting.

Although Phelps said he believes an agreement can be reached, he said it would not be easy.

Phelps expressed his wish that the redistricting be completed before the deadline.

"It has to be completed. I hope it doesn't go to the courts. I think it should be decided by the popularly elected people," he said.

State Rep. Larry Woolard, D-Carterville, said he also hoped the process could be completed before the deadline.

"A compromise can be reached," Woolard said. "The governor and legislature have the responsibility and hopefully a bipartisan plan will be reached."

State Sen. Ralph Dunn, R-Du Quoin, said he also wishes for better representation of both parties views in redistricting.

"The governor said he wants a bipartisan plan, but I think the Democrats are shooting to keep it to themselves," Dunn said.

He said he wants to continue to eliminate below-cost timber sales at Shawnee and to ask that timber stop being sold until the public has a chance to talk.

"Timber is being sold at a major loss to taxpayers, and it's not bringing in jobs," he said. "We continue to lose money on timber sales at Shawnee."

Emmons said it was important to know exactly what timber was sold at below-cost. He said 85 percent of the timber sold in 1990 was pine, and pine timber sales usually lose money.

He said it was necessary to sell the pine to eventually convert the pine forests into more profitable hardwood forests.

He also said the thinning of the pine wood forests is important to the habitats of quail, deer and turkey.

"The policy of harvesting timber from national forests is not set by the forest service," he said. "There is considerable public debate about if we're doing the right thing."

Poshard said although the Forest Service has given reasons that some cutting of Shawnee timber is good for wildlife, he would like to see sufficient data that the cutting is environmentally and ecologically beneficial.

"If we need to do this to supplement the sale of private timber, then let's see the data," he said.

He stressed a need for the people to know the ecological aspects of continued timber harvesting in addition to the economic aspect.

"I don't know if we know the full implications of timber harvestation. The question is should we do this at all," he said.

He said 65 of the nation's 122 forests lost money in 1990.

Region Association of Concerned Environmentalists President Mark Donham said he was pleased with Poshard's statement.

improvements at Evergreen Terrace, including replacement of the heat and air conditioning units.

Juhlin said the improvements are designed to make the 22-year-old apartments more energy efficient.

Another improvement discussed by the board was blacktopping the 27-year-old south parking lot at the SIUC Arena.

The board approved including the project in a $652,000 parking lot improvement package which will be completed this summer.

The lots west of University Park residence halls, south of the Baptist Student Center, the graveled half north of the SIUC Health Service and the drives to Wham Education Building and Thompson Point residence halls also are included in the parking lot improvement package.

SIUC Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit summarized state funding recommendations from the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

IBHE recommended an 8.9

percent increase in state funding for SIUC, which totals $168 million. The recommendation is based on the renewal of a temporary income tax surcharge and the approval a 5-percent tuition increase.

He said IBHE budget requests are becoming less relevant to university funding, because the state does not have money to support the recommendations.

They play an important part in the governor's decisions for planning the fiscal budget, he said.

state programs accountable to tax payers, environmental programs and property tax relief.

Dunn said he thought the governor did a good job of touching on each subject and expects to get the specifics when Edgar presents his budget.

Local Democrats agreed Edgar's proposals are ambitious, but were disappointed he did not go in-depth.

State Rep. Larry Woolard, D-Carterville, said Edgar needs to be more aware of the legislature.

In his State of the State address, Edgar called for an immediate meeting of the General Assembly to attempt to limit property taxes.

This special meeting surprised and angered several legislators, Woolard said.

"I agree with him that we must work cooperatively, but many legislators had other arrangements," Woolard said. "He got off on the wrong foot with the legislature."

The limitation of property taxes was criticized by Woolard, who said some Southern Illinois areas would be hurt by the move.

"Some of these local governments who did reduce taxes, now won't be able to get the money back," he said.

Despite the disagreement over the property tax policy, Woolard said he hopes the legislature and governor can work together.

"I'm optimistic about working with the governor," he said. "Cooperation can be a reality."

State Sen. Jim Rea, D-Christopher, said he thought also the governor was too broad.

"He didn't get into details of how they'll work. Many of those areas would be hard to disagree with until I see the plan," Rea said.

Aerosol fights cystic fibrosis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A new aerosol spray may limit devastating lung damage caused by cystic fibrosis, the most common fatal inherited disease in the United States, government researchers reported Thursday.

A study involving 17 cystic fibrosis patients found those who sprayed an aerosol containing a protein called alpha 1-antitrypsin into their lungs for a week had sharply lower levels of a lung-damaging enzyme.

"It's a whole new concept for cystic fibrosis," said Dr. Ronald Crystal of the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute, who led the study published in the British medical journal The Lancet. "I think it's going to be something that becomes significant in the armamentarium against cystic fibrosis."

More patients need to be treated for longer periods to show whether the aerosol actually prevents lung damage, he said. But the study "shows certainly the feasibility of a new strategy for therapy for cystic fibrosis," he said.

And although the treatment does not offer a cure for the disease, it is one of a number of experimental drugs that appear promising for helping patients, said Robert Beal of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

"We're very encouraged by the preliminary data," he said. "We hope it's going to reduce the destruction of the lungs that results from the chronic lung infections you see in cystic fibrosis patients."

Cystic fibrosis afflicts one in every 2,000 white babies born in the United States, killing most before they reach age 40. Most victims are born with a defective gene that causes their lungs to become clogged with mucus.

Victims are prone to bacterial respiratory infections that damage the lungs. The lung damage is aggravated by the body's immune response, which fails to fight off the infection but deposits an enzyme, called elastase.

Americans love greasy junk food

NEW YORK (UPI) — The fat and cholesterol scare has changed Americans' buying habits over the past few years, but many still love that greasy junk food, a survey reported Thursday.

Women also try harder than men to watch what they eat, the survey of 1,250 adults said.

Since 1986 there has been a 25 percent increase from 36 percent to 61 percent, in the number of Americans purchasing low-fat, low-cholesterol products, said the survey by Louis Harris for Fleischmann's products and Prevention magazine.

Forty-nine percent of those surveyed said they were trying "a lot" to limit their intake of high-cholesterol foods.

Fishermen may face tuna embargo

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Environmentalists Thursday asked a federal appeals court to reinstate an embargo on tuna imports from Mexico because Mexican fishermen have failed to reduce the number of dolphins killed by their nets.

Joshua Floum, attorney for Earth Island Institute, accused the Commerce Department of 17 years of foot-dragging in implementing the intention of Congress.

The 1972 Marine Mammal Protection Act is being used by Congress to push the protection of dolphins.

Albert Ferlo, a Justice Department attorney, said the accusation of 17 years of delay was "hyperbole at best." He said the Commerce Department did not make specific findings about dolphin kill levels until 1984.

Ferlo said the department has shown in other cases its enforcement is "vigorous."

Tuna fishermen set nets over air-breathing groups of dolphins because schools of yellowfin tuna generally swim under the dolphins, which are mammals. Where dolphins are seen on the surface, tuna are likely to be below.

The result has been the killing many dolphins because they drown when they become tangled in the nets and cannot get to the surface, or they are crushed as the nets are hauled onto the ships.

games and four out of its last five. The Shockers last defeat came at the hands of St. Peter's in Jersey City, N.J. The Peacocks beat the Shockers 74-59.

Wichita State is tied for third in the Valley with SIUC at 6-6. The Shockers are 13-13 overall, while the Salukis are 12-11.

Last year in the Arena, the Dags tore apart the Shocker defense, winning 81-67. The Arena was sold out and the crowd roaring in the Shockers' ears for weeks.

"By the judge of last year's games there (Carbondale), it ought to be a heck of a challenge," WSU coach Mike Cohen said. "Coach Herrin has done a tremendous job with the program there. The fans really support the team and it's an exciting arena to play in."

Swimmers head to Nebraska

By Jennifer Wise
Staff Writer

SIUC men and women swimmers compete against the University of Nebraska Friday for the second time this season and also against the University of Kansas Saturday.

"It's going to be a tough challenge for our guys," SIUC assistant swimming coach Mike Lambert said. "Nebraska is ranked pretty high. We need our guys to straighten up and perform if we're going to win."

Nebraska is ranked 11th nationally. SIUC is ranked 23rd. They competed at the Saluki Invitational Feb. 1-3. Nebraska dominated the invite up until the last three events, when SIUC took the lead to win.

"Nebraska is definitely deep all around, but they have really good freestylers," Lambert said. "We need our sprinters like Deryl Leubner and Brian Gagan to come through for us. V-Meng Ten really needs to come through for us in the 200 individual medley relay.

"It's one of those meets where if everyone doesn't swim well we will end up not on top."

Nebraska coach Cal Bentz said his team will have to stay sharp to keep up with SIUC.

"SIU has always been an excellent challenge, no question about it," Bentz said.

looking. It can be quite a surprise to a person who doesn't realize what is going on.

"There are a lot of people who are at games for their first time and they aren't expecting a T-shirt to come flying at them," Davis said.

Probably the worst mishap was when one of the T-shirts hit the backboard and fell on the basketball court during a women's game. Trude, with the bad rotator cuff he complained about, was trying to throw a T-shirt to a man sitting next to SIUC Athletics Director Jim Hart. But his throw was off target.

The shirt hit the backboard and the rubber band around it broke. It fell to the court like a leaf falling from a tree. It just laid on the court until sophomore forward Angie Rougeau stepped on it and was able to kick it out of play.

"The best part of this job is having an idea and seeing it work," Davis said. "This is definitely one of those ideas. I never thought this would go over so well."

Trude and Davis are responsible for promoting all the athletic events at SIUC. They buy advertising on television, radio, and in newspapers. They are the designers of the basketball, football and volleyball posters and schedule cards. Any promotion for SIUC athletics usually goes through the hands of Trude and Davis.

Davis and Trude said they wish all their ideas would go over so well, but as long as the NCAA keeps the 3-pointer and T-shirts in style, Saluki fans will be bombarded by the T-shirt guys.

Donaldson, president of the University of Tulsa and chairman of the MVC President's council.

The MVC is the oldest intercollegiate athletic conference with headquarters west of the Mississippi River. The league has its headquarters in St. Louis.

Northern Iowa also has been a charter member of the Gateway Conference with its football and women's sports programs throughout the league's nine-year history. Seven other MVC schools also offer women's athletics through the Gateway Conference.

Northern Iowa will join the MVC in women's sports in July 1992, when the conference will include eight women's championship sports under the MVC umbrella for the first time ever.

The Panther basketball team won the AMCU championship last season and made its first-ever appearance in the NCAA Tournament, where it upset the highly favored University of Missouri in the first round.

"They've got a competitive program," SIUC basketball coach Rich Herrin said. "This will give us two more ballgames and ease the scheduling a little bit. The only down side is the traveling."

Northern Iowa, which moved from NCAA Division II to Division I in 1980, sponsors 19 intercollegiate sports.
