Connections revealed in homicide of instructor

STEVE MCCOYNE AND
BURKE SPEAKER
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTERS

Chad Baldwin says he was told by Carbondale police Wednesday that he could return to the trailer where SIUC associate professor Loyd Yates was murdered — a trailer he shared with the man accused of the killing.

Baldwin, 28, an undecided SIUC freshman from Herrin, discussed his relationship with the accused, Frank Lynch, 47, of Carbondale, while replacing a section of blood-soaked carpet that was removed from the trailer by authorities collecting evidence.

Baldwin met Lynch in 1995, a fact Lynch confirmed when he spoke with the DAILY EGYPTIAN Saturday from the Jackson County Jail. The two shared the trailer at No. 25 Roxanne Mobile Home Park, 2301 S. Illinois Ave., since October 1998.

"He was a great guy," Baldwin said. "A quiet guy."

Baldwin also said Lynch had known Yates since Baldwin introduced the two in 1996. He said the three would socialize on a regular basis.

"We were all friends," Baldwin said. "That's what's so hard. I didn't lose one friend, I lost two."

Lynch allegedly murdered Yates, 52, the afternoon of Feb. 6 in what police have described as a "fit of rage." Yates allegedly was beaten with a baseball bat and suffered multiple stab wounds. Police said the body was then placed in the trunk of a 1984 Ford Tempo that Lynch was in the process of buying from the Good Samaritan House, 701 S. Marion St., where he worked as a house manager.

Yates was an associate professor in the Department of Technical and Resource Management. He was on disability leave from SIUC for chronic fatigue syndrome for two years prior to his death.

Council candidates debate SIUC Halloween, image

TIM CHAMBERLAIN
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

Carbondale City Council and mayoral candidates focused on University issues in the first public forum Thursday night amid allegations of frustrations with inattentive city government.

The forum, sponsored by the College Democrats and the Graduate and Professional Student Council, allowed candidates to discuss issues such as the annual Halloween celebration and increased enrollment at SIUC.

Mayoral candidate Wayne Sapinski said he has found a recurring theme when speaking with Carbondale citizens and students, which is general "frustration with politics as usual." Sapinski said he thought most people feel left out of city government.

Sapinski said the solution to this is to "get out and vote."

Only about 10 students and citizens were in attendance, but the audience managed to keep the candidates busy with questions concerning SIUC.

Candidates voiced their beliefs that the city should take a stronger role in increasing enrollment at SIUC. The candidates who voiced that opinion unanimously agreed SIUC's image needs to change for the situation to improve.

Council candidate Joel Fritzier thinks word-of-mouth might be the best avenue.

"The best way to recruit more students is to make the ones already here happy," Fritzier said.

Council candidate Corene McDaniel said both the University and the city need to improve their image. She emphasized SIUC needs to focus on how outsiders perceive the University.

The issue of Halloween and its effects on the community was another topic of debate. Candidates were somewhat divided on how Carbondale should deal with this issue.

Some, like City Council candidate Brad Cole, think the current method of closing down the Strip and the University for Halloween weekend is best.

"Though he acknowledges that past Halloween celebrations have brought in a lot of money, he thinks the associated property destruction outweighed the benefits."

"The situation with Halloween is a catch-22 for businesses downtown and throughout the community," Cole said. "At this point, I think that this is the situation that is best for everyone."

Others consider a renewed Halloween celebration a possibility. Council candidate Carl Flowers would like a return to the organized Halloween he remembers.

"It's not students versus the city," Flowers said.

"We need to try to resolve the issue collectively, and maybe we can get back to where we were 20 years ago."

Though he believes Carbondale city government is on the right track, the Rev. B. R. Hollins, a council candidate, called for an end to hidden agendas and ulterior motives by individuals on the council.

Hollins also wants greater input from citizens' groups on city issues, a sentiment shared by the other candidates as well.

"Do we want a continued divided council to represent the interests of some citizens?" Hollins said.

"Or do we want a council and mayor committed to working for the best interests of all people here in Carbondale?"

Almanac

THIS WEEK IN 1966:

- The role of the Chicago Urban League in trying to improve the African American's place in society was outlined at a conference on "The Negro In History." The speaker was Arthur E. Strickland, associate professor at Illinois Teachers College, Chicago, South Branch. His talk, based on his doctoral dissertation, was entitled "Urban League Adjustments to the Negro Revolution: A Chicago Study."
- The latest quandary of the city and the campus police forces was in the issue of ticketing. Does the driver or the passenger get the ticket? The problem stemmed from the newly implemented city ordinance banning side-saddle riding by motorcycle passengers. Side-saddle riding was an issue because it posed a problem for women entering and exiting the motor bike. The only way women could ride as passenger decently in straight skirts, A-line skirts and even pleated skirts, was to ride side-saddle.

Scholarship raffle brings in the crowd

NOTHING TO LOSE: Winner Chris Walker 'stunned' after hearing his name announced.

ANGIE ROYER
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

Chris Walker came down the bleachers with his cheeks flushed in a rush of excitement when announced as the winner of the Alumni Association scholarship raffle drawing Saturday at the men's basketball game at the SIU Arena.

The SIU Alumni Association raffled off a $2,000 tuition and fees scholarship to encourage more students to support the men and women's basketball teams.

Walker, a junior in business management from Anna, said he had nothing to lose when he registered for the drawing.

"I heard them say Chris, and I was like 'No way,'" Walker said. "I was pretty stunned."

Walker said he has been going to the Saluki home games when his schedule permits.

Rose Walker, Chris's mother, said when her son won the scholarship, it seemed too good to be true. She gives her thanks to the Alumni Association for making it possible.

"I'm very happy and appreciative for the scholarship," Rose said. "It's really going to help out a lot."

Greg Scott, assistant director of the Alumni Association, said 600

Walker, a junior in business management from Anna, was picked at random from the more than 6,000 that attended the game.

students registered for the scholarship raffle.

Scott said he felt the anticipation from the crowd as they were about to announce the name for the drawing.

Scott was pleased with the attendance at Saturday's game.

"Saturday's crowd was the largest crowd we have seen at a basketball game in four years," Scott said. "And the Salukis responded by dismantling a good team."

Scott said the Saturday night game was emotional from the standpoint of seeing the students, alumni and the community come to the game and give their support to the Salukis.

"It gave me chills," Scott said. "And it made me feel good to be a part of that."

Scott said the game was something they could build on and possibly do another raffle drawing next year.

"I think we'd be disappointed if we didn't do something next year," he said.

Strangefolk to jam out and rock at the Copper Dragon

Vermont-based jam band Strangefolk will be bringing its melodies, guitar riffs and rhythms to the Copper Dragon, 700 E. Grand Ave., at 9 tonight. Strangefolk has played with groups such as the Dave Matthews Band, Agents of Good Roots and Bela Fleck and the Flecktones. The band has toured extensively during the past few years, and its new record, "Weightless in Water," contains a '70s rock 'n' roll sound.

Retrial ends with first-degree murder conviction

A jury found Brian Gillin guilty of first-degree murder, reinforcing his original conviction in a retrial at the Jackson County Courthouse Thursday afternoon.

Gillin, 41, was convicted of first-degree murder in 1994 for the 1993 stabbing death of his girlfriend Jane James. He claimed self defense, and the retrial demanded he be given the opportunity to receive a conviction for second-degree murder.

In 1994, Judge David Watt Jr. did not give the jury an opportunity to decide if Gillin was guilty of second-degree murder. The Illinois Supreme Court last year ruled Gillin should be given the chance for a retrial. In March, Watt will sentence Gillin, who is eligible for 20 to 80 years in prison.

FUN FOR ALL:
International Festival '99 begins Tuesday.

NICOLE A. CASHAW
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

Venturing to Africa, Japan or Thailand may seem impossible for some people, but starting Tuesday students and members of the Carbondale community will have a chance to travel to such places without flying thousands of miles.

Mamadou Coulibaly, a doctoral student in geography from the Ivory Coast, is anticipating the celebration of International Festival '99, beginning Tuesday with the International Parade of Flags and ending Sunday with the International Cultural Show.

"I think we provide a very good opportunity for those who have not taken a trip out of the country yet to witness partially because we cannot fully represent what's going on in our countries, because we are students," Coulibaly said.

"We try as best as we can to give a picture of the way the cultural aspect is in our countries, which is a dynamic thing."

The International Parade of Flags allows students and faculty to see the more than 100 international countries SIUC students represent.

Clinton seeks more support for AmeriCorps

President Clinton pushed Congress to expand his AmeriCorps program, insisting that young people need opportunities to demonstrate that they are not "a generation of cynics and slackers."

Clinton made his pitch during a rally at the University of Maryland, insisting that the program's volunteer ranks could grow by 25 percent if his fiscal 2000 budget proposal is approved. In his budget proposal released last week, Clinton asked Congress to provide the program a 24 percent increase in funds — $106 million more than the $472 million spent this fiscal year. The additional money would grow AmeriCorps from about 53,000 volunteers serving in 1999 to 69,000 in 2000, Clinton said.

"The Parade of Flags is the beginning of the event," ISC member Keiko Kawamura said. "The people wear costumes, and they parade on campus. This lets people know we are now opening the International Festival, and this is the beginning of the events."

Kawamura, a graduate student in curriculum instruction from Osaka, Japan, said the Festival has been ongoing for more than 30 years at SIUC.

FESTIVAL '99

• For more information, call: 453-3497

She said the purpose of the event is to "display the different cultures present in Southern Illinois."

"We share our culture including customs and food, and the clothes we used to wear, to the Carbondale community," she said.

Coulbaly said two of the most important events of the week are the Proclamation and the International Cultural Show.

"That's a very important opportunity for us to show the real picture of our different countries," he said. "We want to give people a chance to ask questions, to satisfy their curiosities and to clarify what they heard."

Kawamura said working as a team allows ISC and other student organizations to work productively with the Festival to accomplish its goals.

"The many things we do as a group work, so we have to get a many variety from each association," she said. "One association cooks something, and then we have to have a couple of people helping that association — everything is group working."

John Li, of Singapore, Southeast Asia, and the chief coordinator of the cultural show, said 10 international student organizations are contributing their culture to the International Cultural Show.

"They will each be coming up with their own performance," said Li, a sophomore in physics. "We have dancers, we have musical items, we have comedy, we have skits. For example, the Caribbean Student Association is giving a tribute to Bob Marley."

"We have beachwear modeling, too, and the Thais are doing their sword fighting. Most of the performances are very traditional, so they will bring across their culture to the audience."

Other mayoral candidates in attendance were Mayor Neil Dillard and Nancy Foster. The fourth candidate, John Budsluck, did not attend because of a previous engagement, but he sent Councilman Larry Briggs in his place.

Other City Council candidates at the forum were Earl Czajkowski, Steven Haynes and Pat Kelly.

Candidate Michael Neill was unable to attend.

Another candidate forum will be sponsored at 7 p.m. Thursday at Carbondale City Hall. The forum is sponsored by the League of Women Voters and is open to the public.

CONNECTIONS

Police discovered his body at 10:30 p.m. Feb. 6 after executing two search warrants obtained for the trailer and the car.

Because rain threatened to contaminate forensic evidence, the body remained in the trunk as the car was towed at about 2:30 a.m., according to police.

Lynch was charged Feb. 8 with three counts of first-degree murder in relation to the homicide.

Baldwin, who claims he is a state's witness, maintains he is not a suspect in the on-going investigation.

State's Attorney Mike Wepsiec, whose office determines whether individuals should be used as witnesses for the state, could not be reached for comment.

Baldwin said he left the morning of the murder to run errands, leaving Lynch alone in the trailer.

He would not comment on the exact time he departed, what happened when he returned to the trailer or what he did for the remainder of that evening.

"I had an alibi. They talked to me. They know I didn't do it," Baldwin said.

What is clear to Baldwin is the murder was not a crime of passion because he and Lynch were both seeing other people at the time.

"They all think this is a gay thing," he said. "Me and Frank were just friends."

Lynch confirmed he was seeing another person at the time.

What is not clear is what specifically brought Yates to the trailer. Carbondale Police Sgt. Robert Ledbetter said he could not comment on whether or not drugs were involved.

The identity of the man who walked into the Herrin police department late Saturday afternoon and told police of the murder in Carbondale is still being kept confidential. Carbondale Police Lt. Calvin Stearns said he could not comment on why the man went to the Herrin police instead of the Carbondale police and doubts that information will be made available while the investigation continues.

Carbondale police maintain there is a good reason for keeping the man's identity a secret but said they do not know what the reason is.

Carbondale police learned from other agencies that the unidentified man is not a suspect, according to Lt. Stearns.

He said he could not specifically comment on what agency provided that information.

"In situations such as this," he said, "it is not uncommon for police departments to reach out to as many other agencies as possible."

Baldwin would not say if he is the unidentified man.

Police said during a press conference early last week that they were unsure how Yates got to the trailer.

However, a neighbor said she saw Yates' vehicle, a brown and tan Ford Bronco, parked in Baldwin's driveway sometime after noon on the day of the murder.

Lt. Stearns confirms that other witnesses have also placed the vehicle at the scene.

The Bronco was towed by Express Towing, Route 51 North, Carbondale, from the Herrin Police Department to the company's yard.

Lt. Stearns would not comment how the vehicle ended up in Herrin. As of press time, the vehicle had yet to be claimed.

The motive for the murder may not be known until the actual trial. It is the one area of the case where authorities are consistently refusing to comment.

Baldwin claims he knows the motive for the murder.

"I know why he did it, I just can't say," Baldwin said. Lt. Stearns said he would not speak about Baldwin.

"At no time has any person in this organization confirmed to you that they have spoken with a person named Chad Baldwin," Stearns said.

However, Baldwin showed Daily Egyptian reporters Lt. Stearns' Carbondale Police business card. The card contained a hand-written pager number. The Daily Egyptian used that number to contact Lt. Stearns on Saturday and Sunday.

"I have statements I make to people," Stearns said. "I can't stop them from talking to the paper, but I can tell them I'll never release their name."

Baldwin said he was close with the victim. He characterized Yates as a generous man.

"He was a really good friend. A really good friend," he said. "Anything I wanted, anything I needed, all I had to do was call."

Baldwin said that this also included loans.

"I would call him and ask him for money, and he would give me $1,500, $1,600 a pop. Whatever I needed," Baldwin said.

Baldwin stressed that money he received from Yates was always paid back, and there were times when Yates borrowed money from Baldwin as well.

Baldwin said that administrators at SIUC have offered to help with resources and in finding him a new place to live, a fact the Daily Egyptian was unable to verify because of Baldwin's unwillingness to disclose who he is talking with at SIUC.

"They're helping me out," he said. "They know I know a lot of stuff."

Lynch, who said Saturday that an attorney had yet to be appointed to his case, is scheduled for a hearing Feb. 23 and the Jackson County courthouse.

Police investigate discovery of remains in classroom

COLLEGE PRESS EXCHANGE

LINCOLN, Neb. — University Police have launched an investigation to determine why American Indian remains were under a podium in a classroom at the University of Nebraska.

Last April, the room was supposed to have been cleared of American Indian remains.

Sgt. Bill Manning said the room was to be cleared of all human remains on Dec. 21 to prepare the room to once again be used as a classroom. Bone fragments and a tooth were discovered Feb. 5 when anthropology department members, an American Indian activist and University Police were clearing the room in preparation for a blessing by an American Indian spiritual leader.

They also found two original logbooks that had been missing prior to the clearing. The books detailed American Indian finds at two Nebraska excavation sites.

When the room was cleared in December, no remains were found in the places they were found Friday morning, Manning said.

From April until Friday, Karl Reinhard, anthropology associate professor, has had one of two keys to the room. The other key was in the hands of Robert Hitchcock, anthropology department chairman, who said that his key didn't work.

Now the Arts and Sciences dean's office has the two keys. Manning said the police want to find out if the remains were actually in Room 109 in December during the second clearing, whether the remains were planted there or if the remains were brought there to study after the December search.

The University Police will be staying in contact with the State Patrol throughout the investigation, he said.

Reinhard, who has been accused by tribal representatives and activists of studying and storing the remains illegally in Room 109, would not comment Tuesday on those accusations.

"I can confirm bones were found in the room overlooked in previous clearances," Reinhard said.

Under the Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act of 1990, remains must be inventoried and returned to affiliated tribes upon request.

Some say under NAGPRA, the remains cannot be studied without tribal permission. The Society for American Archaeology has disputed that claim.

American Indians who have worked with the university before this discovery in the preparation for the repatriation of about 1,700 remains were surprised and perplexed by the discovery.

James Riding In, a NAGPRA consultant for the Pawnee Tribe of Oklahoma, said he thought the remains might have been planted by someone at the university.

Riding In said that though Reinhard has been accused of committing illegal acts and acting unprofessionally, the university, or activists should not jump to conclusions that he's responsible for the remains found in Room 109.

"Would Reinhard be that stupid? Would Reinhard be that sloppy?" asked Riding In, who is also an associate professor of American Indian Studies at Arizona State University in Tempe. "... Maybe. But I doubt it."

Hitchcock did not return calls to the Daily Nebraskan on Tuesday.

"I felt like if we would have made our free throws we would have been in great shape first half. It would have given us a good shot to try to do something late in the game if we had made those earlier," Beck said.

The Salukis have mathematically qualified for the MVC Tournament March 4 and most likely would face this same Evansville team that has played four games in eight days.

"I feel that we were very fortunate," Evansville coach Kathi Bennett said. "I don't think we earned it the way that I would have liked to. I wish we would have shown more toughness down the stretch."

The Aces' balanced scoring attack was led by forward Andi Speer and Tami Masterson, who came off the bench with both scoring 12 points. Standout center Shyla McKibbin was in foul trouble much of the game but managed to score 10 points.

Abramowski pulled down 10 boards for a double-double.

Sophomore Maria Niebrugge quietly led the Salukis with 15 points and five rebounds. Sophomore guard Courtney Smith added seven points.

"I think it was good that we didn't give up against this team," Abramowski said. "It just shows that no matter where you are at in conference, everybody is playing really hard, and you have to fight all the way to the end."

The Salukis don't get long to digest the loss. They play host to Drake University (13-8, 9-4) at the SIU Arena tonight at 7. Drake downed the Salukis 79-58 Jan. 21.

"We're not a functional unit to go up and down in practice," Beck said about the diminished number of bodies in practices because of injuries. "The more games the better. I think playing these games is as good as anything for preparing us for the stretch run."

11 below his season average.

"They were awfully aggressive, both offensively and defensively, and we didn't respond very well," UE coach Jim Crews said. "They really went after the ball on the boards and loose balls. And then they did a great job of extending the lead."

The lead Crews spoke of was the 17-point cushion, 47-30, the Salukis built in the first half. Still, the Salukis were determined to put the whammy on the Aces (19-7, 11-4), who had their five-game winning streak snapped but remain first in the Valley standings.

The Salukis, winners of 10 of their last 14, answered every threat the visitors made to get back in the game. A 16-0 run capped with consecutive three-pointers from Jenkins and sophomore guard Abel Schrader providing the final knockout blow. The 6,222 fans in attendance, the largest crowd in four years at the Arena, watched the home team extend the lead to 76-42, with nine minutes and 22 seconds remaining.

There were no shades of the Salukis Feb. 1 matchup with Creighton University. In that game, SIUC had a 20-point lead at the half, before hanging on to win by eight.

Saluki head coach Bruce Weber did everything he could at halftime to help avoid a Creighton repeat.

"Every game we've had these leads, and we'd go [in to the locker room] and harp on it," Weber said. "I didn't say a word about it. I just hit on some points, and we didn't say anything about a lead."

The Salukis were so far ahead that an eight-minute scoring drought and an 18-0 run only allowed the Aces to pull within 16 points, 76-60, at the 2:13 mark.

SIUC had four different players hit at least two three-pointers. Jenkins and junior point guard Ricky Collum (16 points) each had four. All nine of junior forward Chris Thunell's points came from behind the arc.

DAWGS DEFEAT MVC LEADER EVANSVILLE

LARGEST CROWD IN FOUR YEARS PACKS ARENA

Monsters of the MVC

SHANDEL RICHARDSON
SPORTS EDITOR

The Salukis haven't appeared on ESPN since the glory days, but it was certainly a "happy action fun time" for them Saturday night.

All 13 Salukis saw action in an 80-65 drubbing of the Missouri Valley Conference leader, the University of Evansville, at the SIU Arena.

"That's a good team," SIUC junior forward Derrick Tilmon said. "They're the No. 1 team in the conference. We had to go out and battle. Just get every loose ball, every tip, every deflection—we had to go try and get it. But it was fun."

Evansville	65

Tilmon scored 10 points, grabbed nine rebounds, dished out five assists and blocked three shots in one of the best all-around games of his collegiate career. His performance was just one of many in this statement game for the Salukis (14-9, 9-5), who still sit in fourth place in the MVC standings.

SIUC dominated the Purple Aces from start to finish, shooting 52 percent from the floor (13-of-31 from three-point range) and limited UE to just 44 percent. SIUC senior guard Monte Jenkins, who scored a game-high 24 points, turned in yet another sparkling defensive performance. He held Evansville standout Marcus Wilson to just nine points.

Women fall to Aces

HOME LOSS:

Saluki fall in first game of double header at Arena

PAUL WLECINSKI
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

When you stop SIUC sophomore guard Terica Hathaway, you stop the Salukis.

The University of Evansville did just that in squeaking out a 57-53 victory at the SIU Arena Saturday to extend its Missouri Valley Conference lead.

The Lady Purple Aces (15-6, 10-3) contained Hathaway, who has led the team in scoring 14 times this season, to just nine points. She shot 3-for-16 from the field and for just the third time all season she failed to reach double figures.

Hathaway had a tough night and that always hurts us," SIUC women's basketball coach Julie Beck said. "She's a little bit under the weather, but that's no excuse. She's carried us for a long time, and we didn't get anybody involved, except (Kristine) Abramowski late. You can't win like that."

The Aces broke open a close game when they unleashed a second-half attack behind Shyla McKibbin's nine straight points, eventually outscoring the Salukis 19-6 in the first 10 minutes.

It was not until seven minutes and five seconds remained in the game that Abramowski was able to generate some leadership of her own. Facing a 49-35 deficit, the largest of the night, Abramowski scored all 12 of her points during that stretch.

By then it was too late for Abramowski and her teammates.

"We were really casual, very lackadaisical and just not a lot of effort," Beck said. "There wasn't a lot of leadership out there today at all."

The Salukis (6-15, 5-8) had a chance to take control, trailing 26-22 just before halftime. But they missed five of eight free throws, allowing the Aces to escape with a 26-25 lead at

Swimmers win title again

WINNERS: Both swimming and diving teams maintain crowns, break 11 MVC records.

MIKE BJORKLUND
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

You almost don't know where to start a story that features two Saluki swimming and diving teams capturing the conference crowns and 11 individual conference championship records.

You could start at the men's team's convincing 972-841 victory over closest competitor Southwest Missouri State University to capture its fifth consecutive Missouri Valley Crown.

Then there's the women's team, who proved that youth does not mean inexperience in their 940-50-908.50 to win its second-straight MVC title.

"This was a great win for the school," said men's coach Rick Walker, who was named MVC Coach of the Year. "It is great to be five-time champions. It was great for the athletes, and it's just an indication of the improvement of our team."

Herman Louw captured three individual titles (100 and 200-yard freestyle, 200-meter individual medley) while also earning MVC men's Swimmer of the Year accolades.

Louw also helped the team of freshman Matt Munz, junior Luke Wotruba and senior Jasson Velez set another conference mark in the 400-yard relay medley.

Senior Liam Weseloh, who competed in his last meet in Carbondale, set a league mark in the 500-yard freestyle. Weseloh also won the 1,650-yard freestyle.

"This was a very big meet for him," Walker said. "But Liam is such a team player, I know this win will be in his heart forever."

The winning became contagious for the Salukis. Freshman Chris "Big Papa" Papachrysanthou also set a Valley mark in the 50-yard freestyle and set a pool-record in the 200-yard relay.

Thursday, Papachrysanthou also qualified for Cyprus' National team with the victory.

The Salukis led SMSU 640-507 after day two of the event. Walker said his coaching staff did an excellent job in preparing for the Bears.

"We expected them to be there, and that didn't surprise us," Walker said. "If they did surprise us, we wouldn't have been doing our jobs."

On the women's side, freshman Brook Radostits broke the conference record in the 100- and 200-yard backstroke.

"It's been spectacular," said Radostits. "I feel that all the training has paid off. It's unbelievable."

But before he let his troops get too far ahead of themselves against a tough Redbirds' program, MVC Men's Coach of the Year Mark Klumemper told his team to keep looking forward.

"He kept reminding us to keep stepping things up," Radostits said. "He said no matter how tired we were getting, we should do it for the team."

Also pacing the Salukis were sophomore Beth Ann Erickson, who captured the 100- and 200-yard butterfly, and freshman Courtney Corder, who won the 200-meter individual medley.

In diving, freshman Kristin Kaylor held off two upperclassman from Illinois State in victories in the one- and three-meter springboard events. Kaylor also was named the Women's Diver of the Year.

"It was really exciting," Kaylor said. "When you win individual events that's great. But when the whole team wins, it's something special. It brings you closer together. It's something everyone should experience once in their life."
