Adamczyk seeks vacant council seat

SIU's student president is "actively seeking" to fill a vacancy on the Carbondale City Council.

Dennis Adamczyk said Monday he will submit his name to Mayor Neal Eckert for consideration sometime this week.

But, he said, he would not relinquish his duties as student president if appointed to the council.

The vacancy is left by the resignation of council member Joe Dakin. Dakin, an assistant professor in law enforcement, has announced he will resign effective Tuesday to accept an appointment to the state's Prisoner Review Board.

The vacancy will be filled through appointment by the six-member council.

"I've long recognized the need for student representation on the council," Adamczyk said. "The council and the University must coordinate their needs.

Last April, Adamczyk lost his bid to unseat incumbent council members Hans Fischer and Anne Jones in a general election. Adamczyk received 548 votes, compared to 989 for Jones and 1,188 for Fischer.

Two days later, Adamczyk was elected student president, beating his opponent by almost a 2 to 1 margin.

During his campaign in the spring, Adamczyk's opponents questioned whether serving both as student president and as a City Council member would present too much of a burden on him and constitute a conflict of interest.

Adamczyk answered critics by saying that many city issues are student-related, and that holding both positions would, indeed, be an advantage to his constituents.

He vetoed those statements Monday, adding that his one-year (term required by law) would end before the time the council fills the vacancy. His term as president expires in February.

Probably the most pressing problem facing Carbondale, Adamczyk said, is downtown redevelopment.

"It is something that's been discussed for years," he said. "But every time a major impediment or even a minor impediment comes up all the effort is stopped."

Without more effective cooperation between the University and the city, he said, decaying and burned out buildings will continue to thrive downtown.

Adamczyk said he asked Dakin to submit his name to the council but that Dakin told him he would not support any candidate. As a result, Adamczyk said, he has decided to make a formal request to Eckert Monday to have his name placed as one of four candidates, not including Adamczyk. He added that he expects a replacement to be appointed by the end of February.

Faculty and staff have accumulated $53,160 worth of unpaid parking fines, most of which are a year past due, according to the University of "disregarding student concerns.

He claimed no efforts have begun to collect the funds. But Clarence Dougherty, director of campus services, said late Monday that the figures have been sent to the Traffic and Parking Committee. The committee, composed of students, faculty and staff, will make recommendations to the unpaid fines, before its next meeting Feb. 17, according to one member.

To combat the scofflaws, Dennis Adamczyk, student president, recommended:

- No additional or new parking stickers should be issued to faculty or staff with unpaid fines.

- Checks of those with unpaid fines should be withheld.

- Former employees should be notified of their debts and collection efforts should begin.

Forty-five current faculty and staff members owe SIU over $80. The highest single fine still unpaid is $50. Former employees owe $19.50.

Students who fail to pay parking fines can be placed on a Burn's hold, which prevents students from registering or receiving a transcript.

Adamczyk said, "To not apply similar rules among the faculty and staff is in my opinion arbitrary and represents an abuse of administrative authority.

The major problem, according to Dougherty, is overall enforcement of parking regulations.

"If we can't collect fines levied for parking violations, it is extremely difficult to enforce regulations. The bigger picture is enforcement," he said

Adamczyk said if an acceptable solution to the unpaid fines is not found, he will take the matter before the Board of Trustees.

He added, "It is time for the students to speak on this arbitrary exercise of power on the part of the University administration.

For two years, civil service range worker representatives have been trying to get an election on collective bargaining at SIU, how they have.

The election, to determine whether their contracts should be negotiated with a labor union will be conducted from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Student Center Monday.

Conducted by the Illinois Department of Labor, the election will ask the nearly 900 civil service workers whether they want to be represented by the Civil Service Bargaining Organization-Illinois Education Association for collective bargaining purposes (CSBO-IEA), or if they do not want representation by any group.

A range employee works within a salary range beginning with a minimum starting salary and ending with a maximum wage.

CSBO joined IEA June 15 because the Illinois Department of Labor and the SIU Board of Trustees would not hold an election on collective bargaining unless it were affiliated with a union or other bargaining group. Lee Hester, chairman of CSBO, said.

No other collective bargaining groups are on the ballot because no other group got enough signatures on authorization cards. Mike Cook, IEA staff member said. Authorization cards are signed by workers saying they want a certain organization to represent them.

There is also no write-in space on the ballot for another collective bargaining group. Write-in spaces are not allowed on a collective bargaining ballot by the Illinois Department of Labor. Cook said.

Cook said a vote for CSBO-IEA in the election doesn't automatically make the person a member of IEA.

"All it means is that they are eligible to join IEA," said Cook. "We will have a table in the Solicitation Area of the Student Center this week and next for people who want to join IEA."

However, it came out during a CSBO meeting Monday that if a majority of a promotional line votes for collective bargaining in this election, the whole promotional line will be represented by the IEA in negotiations even if there are workers in that promotional line that do not belong to IEA.

A recommendation to increase tuition $44 a year for undergraduates and $64 for graduates has come under fire by an SIU-Gardenville faculty collective bargaining group.

In a letter to the Illinois Board of Higher Education, which proposed the hike last month, the Faculty Organizing Committee (FOCB) said the increase would limit the accessibility of school for many students.

The BIHE policy calls for students to pay 10 percent of their instructional costs. SIU students now pay $524 a year in tuition.

In opposing the hike, Tom Baldwin, FOBC president, wrote: "Year after year, the BIHE races blindly ahead to implement a tuition situation policy—one based on 33 percent of educational costs.

"Although in the past some relief may have been provided by increasing the funding of the Illinois State Scholarship Commission, (ISS), recent data shows that more than half of the scholarships go to students in private institutions.

"The total funding of the ISSC is nearly large enough to provide tuition for all students in public institutions. Thus, the net impact of the tuition policy has been to push the middle class family in Illinois and to force students in public institutions to subsidize private education.

"The BIHE has recommended that the ISSC receive $40 million in additional funding, as compared to the $26.4 million they received last year.

"Baldwin charged that the BIHE is "steadily destroying" public education and has "languished through the years" policies of coupling faculty salaries to tuition.

"And with the tuition increase, the BIHE has recommended an eight percent pay increase for faculty members and 1 percent for support workers.

"Further, Baldwin stated that the BIHE's tactics have begun to create an "adversarial relationship" between faculty and students and charged the BIHE with exhibiting "ill-cloth or no sensitivity to the plight of its students in our public institutions.

"Faculty salaries have been steadily eroded, and, said Baldwin, have "sustainently dwindled each year. Your staff has been forced to change and adapt to the political process in securing the funding higher education requires," Baldwin said.

Baldwin also said the FOBC believes it is time for higher education groups in the state to "review the implications and practices of the BIHE, before any recommendation or action is done to public education in Illinois."

Snow forces Thompson to seek state of emergency status

In the aftermath of the snow and ice storms which blistered Illinois in January, Gov. James Thompson has asked President Carter to declare a state of emergency.

"The weather conditions may give Illinois communities a chance to dig themselves out before any more snow falls. But Thompson said he does not know how many inmates will be released or how many parolees will be released in the near future. The Illinois correctional system is under controversy.

"The federal government's decision to close schools for the duration of the weather is causing a number of problems, " Thompson said. "We have already had some cold snap problems, and the forecast does not show any relief."

"Education officials in alliance with Thompson have been asking the president to order schools and businesses closed.

"The governor said he was asking for federal assistance under the Disaster Assistance Act of 1974 "by naming the state of Illinois to be in a state of federal emergency."

Some dorm residents said they were missing their sleds, while others reported that they had been replaced by a blanket or a towel. "I think the dorms are full of blankets," said one resident.

"We have a lot of weeds and leaves in our dorm," said another. "We need to clean them up before we go sledding."

"If we can't find a clean spot, we'll just have to make our own," said a third resident.

Carter's $20 billion tax cut gains support from committee

Chairman of the Committee, repeated his contention that the $250 billion plan proposed by Carter for 1979 is too large.

"I am still going to do my best to hold down the cost of living, but we are not going to have to give and take in all areas, it will be a difficult decision to make," the chairman said. "We need a plan that is better planned than the one recommended, Ulman told reporters.

Lake Heights complex closes following fire code inspections

Nine days after an SU student died in a fire at the Lake Heights trailer court, the complex was shut down Monday by the Carbondale Code Enforcement Division.

Inspection of the trailer court began after Celina Lazer, a foreign student from Germany, died in a fire started by a heptane-octane mixture in her mobile home.

John Yow, head of code enforcement, said Monday that the shutdown doesn't mean all of the mobile homes violated code enforcement regulations. He said the trailers were inspected because it was obvious that no one was living in the units.

Gov. Thompson seeks school budget increase

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Gov. James R. Thompson's chief educational advisor said Monday that Thompson will propose a $120 million increase in state spending for local schools next year, a $10 million short of the $186 million spending increase sought by education officials.

The aide, Robert Corcoran, said the governor proposed spending floor will be enough to pay for the state share of all current education programs recommended by the state's teachers.'

"The proposed increase" will be substantial less than $120 million over this year's allocated $281 million. Educators complain that an increase of less than $120 million won't be enough to meet all the state's obligations to local schools.

The Illinois General Assembly can accept or reject the governor's recommendations and has final say in making what will be spent on elementary and secondary schools.

Brandt to recommend two instructors' promotions

By Pam Bailey

President Warren Brandt said Monday he will recommend to the Board of Trustees that two women English instructors who were denied promotion by a vice president be promoted.

Brandt's decision came three weeks after a team of professional consultants to the English Department urged that Joan Martin and Lois Richman be promoted to assistant professor because of their "clear record of accomplishment in teaching and service" and the department's lack of high-level women faculty.

However, Brandt said his decision was unrelated to the consultants' report as he had been unaware that a departmental review was underway. He declined to explain why the decision was reversed.

Female Salukis should be top dogs, too

A resolution asking that student athletics fees be divided equally between men's and women's athletics will be introduced at Wednesday's Student Senate meeting. The Senate should adopt the resolution, and the University should act favorably on it.

A look at this year's athletics budgets clearly reveals why.

SUU will spend more than $1.5 million on men's athletics this year, compared to $250,000 for women's athletics. The men's budget includes income from sources the women don't have: television rights, ticket sales, guarantees and contributions.

The 70-30 athletics fee split is neither fair nor adequate for women's athletics. It creates disparities like these:

—Women athletes are limited to $7.50 per day for meals when they are on the road, while some men athletes get as much as $5.55.
—All women coaches are limited to $100 for telephone expenses, but some men have telephone budgets of more than $3,000.

This gross disparity is heightened when you consider that women's athletics has about 285 athletic competitors compared to about 560 athletes in the 16-sport men's program.

To correct such inequities, Congress passed Title IX of the Education Amendments in 1972. This federal law requires colleges receiving federal funds—like SUU—to provide equal opportunities in men's and women's athletics. The deadline for complying with this law is July 21.

But compliance has been hindered partly by zealous guardians of the men's athletics purse. Some claim Title IX is too vague. W.D. Klimstra, chairman of the Intercollegiate Athletics Committee and representative to the NCAA, says the problem with Title IX is that "HEW is still playing around with rules and regulations." And Gale Sayers, men's athletics director, argues the present recognition an athletics program brings to SUU should determine how the money is allocated.

These critics are wrong. Title IX is neither vague nor capricious. Last month, federal courts ruled that Title IX is both clear and valid in rejecting an NCAA challenge of the guidelines.

And using recognition for SUU as a funding yardstick for athletics, is, at best, fuzzy thinking. To expect the women's program to recruit, grow and excel on the money it now gets is absurd. That female Salukis have done as well as they have is a credit to Women's Athletics Director Charlotte West and her athletes, not to the women's athletics budget.

The Board of Trustees recognized this problem in 1975 when it increased the athletics fee from $15 to $20 a semester. The board said the fee increase should be used "to ensure equitable programs for both men and women.

That has not yet been done.

If the University is to comply with Title IX, it must begin now to correct the funding inequities that lead to second-class citizenship for women athletes. An equal distribution of student athletics fees is a positive step in this direction. When the opportunity in athletics, both male and female Salukis deserve to be top dogs.

Is President Carter becoming conservative?

By James J. Kilpatrick

Is Jimmy Carter turning conservative as he begins his second year in office? A close reading of his two major messages last week suggests that something of the sort is in the wind. It is an embarrassing thing to say, but many passages in Mr. Carter's two documents read like my own editorials.

For example: "We should rely principally on the private sector to lead the economic expansion and to create new jobs for a growing labor force... By emphasizing the creation of private jobs, our resources will be used more efficiently, our future capacity to produce will expand more rapidly, and the standard of living for our people will rise faster."

That was from last Friday's economic message, and you can't beat it. In this same pronouncement, Mr. Carter dwelled at length upon the necessity for reducing federal spending as a percentage of our national output. By managing federal expenditures "carefully and prudently," he hopes to whittle away at this situation.

Federal outlays in fiscal '76 claimed 27 percent of our gross national product. Mr. Carter believes this is too much.

Therefore: "In formulating my recommendations for the 1979 budget, I have exercised very strict controls over spending. Adjusted for inflation, the increase in outlays has been held to less than 2 percent and the phase of federal expenditures in GNP will fall to 27 percent. I intend to continue prudent expenditure controls in the future." Hallelujah!

These are cogent pledges of prudence, evoking fond memories of the late Sen. Harry F. Byrd, crop up repeatedly in the State of the Union message also. In his prepared text, Mr. Carter proposed to say that "Government cannot solve all our problems, set all our goals, or define our vision.... In his actual delivery Thursday evening, he left out the "all." He sounded for all the world like an editorial in National Review.

"We need to realize that there is a limit to the role and function of government... Government cannot eliminate poverty, reduce inflation, save our roads, cure illiteracy, provide energy, or mandate goodness... Only a true partnership between government and the people can hope to reach those goals. Those who govern can sometimes impose, and we can identify needs and marshall resources, but we cannot be the managers of everything and everybody...."

Thus, Mr. Carter chose to recognize two-star applause. Mr. Carter won two stars again a few minutes later with his pledge of support that the "private sector, not the government," must lead an economic expansion. He got one star on his promise to seek "strong additional incentives for business investment through additional cuts in corporate tax rates and improvements in the investment tax credit."

Yet another one-star interruption with the flat statement that "I do not believe in wage and price controls.

Now, it is part of the chameleonic genius of Jimmy Carter that he can constantly manage to be all things to all people. The two messages contained much to gratify the liberal left. Mr. Carter hit a lick, for example, for the Humphrey-Hawkins planned economy bill. He asked for a vast new bureaucracy in a full-blown Department of Education. He stroked the farmers. He renewed his support of bills for welfare reform, consumer advocacy, labor reform, and national health care. He plumped initially for civil rights and human rights.

But there was no mistaking the overall tone. Last week, Mr. Carter was the fox of needless rules and paperwork. He was the apostle of understandable regulations. He was the old campaign Jimmy, railing against a remote Washington government.

This remarkable metamorphosis may last to longer than it takes for George Meany to sit down for tea in the Oval Office, but let us be grateful for even temporal favors. After a year of largely liberal oratory, these conservative sentiments fall sweetly on the ear.
General Telephone rep deserves thanks

Everybody knocks everybody, so this New Year begins it seems appropriate to reveal another aspect of the real and real people. You can't call them 'reclar' than hassles with General Telephone Company in a college town.

A non-smoker speaking 75-year-old lady experienced incredible difficulties and subsequent communication with her rural telephone company. In trying to make the situation somewhat more comprehensible to her, I became involved with Bell Co., a telephone supervisor.

Once Ms. Cole understood the situation, her professional competency and her caring concern for another human being resulted in a solution that was more than fair and just. On more than one occasion the time and energy she expended in behalf of this unknown subscriber were remarkalbe and much appreciated.

Since we tend to lump all representatives of public utilities into the same bag and label them "rip-offs" and "hassles", when these people are revealed to be decent human beings, let a let that be known, too.

Calling political opposition terrorism is scapegoating

As a member of the Young Socialist Party of Switzerland, I would like to respond to the letter by Bahram Salamat in the Dec. 9 issue of the D.E. It seems to me that his understanding of the political situation in Iran is wrong.

First, there are not several different interpretations of democracy. Whether it is in a country of the West or a Third World nation, a political system must have certain characteristics to be called a democracy. The main one is liberty, which doesn't exist in Iran. This country lives under a dictatorship, even if Iran's economic development (with benefits only a small minority of Iranians) cannot be denied. Can economic development justify a regime that practices daily terror and political repression?

Associated political movements like Bader-Mehdoob and the Red Army with the opposition in Iran, which has a different origin and totally different goals, denotes either intellectual dishonesty or ignorance of international politics. Relating any and all political opposition to terrorism makes me think of Nazi propaganda which attributed all known economic and social problems to the Jews. This policy is not the heritage of the Nazis during the 1930s or in Iran in 1977, fascism always needs a scapegoat.

I would like to say that my party supports, within the limits of its possibilities, the Iranian opposition. I hope we will be the only ones who respond to Salamat's letter. Perhaps there will be at least one or two out of 20.000 American students with enough political awareness to answer the letter also.

Freedon of speech should know no political boundary

Once again Zionism has shown its face, this time at both the international and academic community level. Professor Begin, head of the so-called "only democratic state in the Middle East", has seen fit to dictate to the citizens of Egypt what they may or may not print in their newspapers. Begin's outrage at the treatment he and Israel have received in the Egyptian press sounds empty considering his statement that "Israel would not negotiate with that Nazi organization, the so-called PLO, even on the moon."

Here at SIU the chairman of the Anthropology Department has prohibited students and faculty alike from posting matter of any sort in their dorms by enforcing an oft-neglected Pomer Hall regulation.

How to submit 'letter to editor' of Daily Egyptian

Letters to the Editor are welcomed and writers may submit them by mail or person to the Editorial Page Editor, Daily Egyptian, Room 1247, Campus Center Building.

In order to expedite printing of the letters, certain policies and procedures have been formulated:

Celino Larez' death was at hands of common enemy of students

Having read about the death of Celino Larez in the back pages of Monday's D.E., I spent three days ceasing my rage to a point where I could write coherently. Has it not occurred to you that Celino Larez' misfortune, to understate the case, was at the hands of a common enemy?

The landlords in Cardonville believe that students will take any roach-infested, unheated, overpriced, and under-cooked meal if they know that Celino Larez' misfortune will make them look good. This belief was confirmed last week by the death of Celino Larez.

Most students remain mute victims of the shoddy block that dominates Cardonville rental property? Mr. Evergreen's trailer, are not an isolated case. Countless other students are literally risking their lives to go to college; somehow that risk is not proportionate to the reward.

Minimal precautions in accordance with city codes would have prevented the fire that killed Celino Larez.

Point nose at 'Goodbar,' not at cinema textbook, and he'll buy your ticket

I was very impressed by Larry Moffett's vocabulary lesson in Tuesday's Daily Egyptian. Unfortunately, the familiar story of the student who asked the professor to misread his paper is not an isolated case. More than likely, when he returned the paper, he referred to her talent as "budding".

To the charges of such crimes as "incoherence of plot" and "a lack of purposeful focus," I answer with a few questions. What is so coherent about this "realistic" you speak of? And what better way to create a foundation for a confused character than by confusing the focus of the medium in which that character exists? The plot truly boasts the uncompromising material of Brook's, who has used his best material available: reality, stark and sad.

I suggest that Larry go see the film again. I'll even buy his ticket. But he has got to promise me a copy of his note out of his cinematic textbook and pointed at the screen, where a real lesson is being taught.

Correction

A letter in Friday's Daily Egyptian incorrectly stated that student workers will not be paid for the three days—Jan. 17, 18 and 26—the University was closed because of bad weather.

Goodman, a full-time student worker and financial assistant, said a memo from President Waldman said that full-time student workers would be paid for those days as follows:

Student workers who were normally scheduled to work, but did not because of inclement weather, would be paid for the hours they were required to work. In addition, those workers have the option of claiming either compensatory time off for the number of hours they were required to work, or being paid double time for those hours.

Student workers who were not regularly scheduled to work (such as those 'on call') to work Arena events will not be paid and will not receive compensatory time off.

Short shot

The Faculty Senate's proposal for a three-day bona fide work standard will make the job much more interesting. It can take that long just to check them out.

Shirley MacLaine and Anne Bancroft

Film a mature, believable portrayal

By Alan Thachter
New York Times

So the industry seemingly geared for violence and visual ex- cess, it’s a pleasure to see a movie succeed in that mature and thoughtfull. “The Turning Point” is nothing less than a film about real, believable characters, and the relationship between them. The background is the world of professional ballet, an exotic one for most of us, but it is to the film’s credit that the background stays there, and allows the charac- ters the foreground space they deserve.

Shirley MacLaine (DeeDee) and Anne Bancroft (Emma) are mid- aged women who have been young ballerinas competing for a leading role 30 years before. At that time, DeeDee became pregnant and got married, and Emma went on to become a star. Now circumstances throw them together again. DeeDee is a dancer-daughter. Amelia (Leslie Brown) has the potential of Emma. Brown, too, to be a great ballerina. But DeeDee is faced not only with the loss of her daughter, but with the long-buried regret for the life she could have had, if she had only chosen different.

The film’s pacing is complex and the story’s many changes take place. Amelia becomes involved with Yogi (Omar Sharif). A young Russian dancer, DeeDee has a fine film with an old friend. Emma finds the in being phased out of the dark side of her. Amelia becomes. Emma’s prototype, finally they are given ample time and space to be fully explored, so that the characters have a roundness and depth that is rarely found in today’s films.

That is probably due to Herbert Ross, method of working with actors; he believes in, and practices, long rehearsals before shooting commences. Ross is not a visually exciting director—in fact there are some flaws in his blocking of scenes—but he sustains he brings in his cast of performers make up for that.

Shirley MacLaine and Anne Bancroft have probably never looked or acted better than in “The Turning Point”. The most mature films often seem to want to make films with meaningful roles of women in them, and “The Turning Point” is a fine prototype.

A Review

The rest of the cast is good, too. Special mention should be given to Tom Berenger, for his understated portrayal of Wayne. DeeDee’s husband Jack. Two young dancers make very promising film debuts: 18-year-old Leslie Brown, whom appeared from the American Ballet Theater, and Mikhail Baryshnikov, who needs no introduction to ballet aficionados. Both are quite good, which they should be, since their roles are so close to home. Perhaps there are a few too many fog- filtered closeups of the woman, Browse, but that’s consistent with the somewhat romantic point of the whole story.

The clever, achingly screenplay is by Arthur Laurents, whose previous credits and defenses include “West Side Story”, and “The Way We Were”. With this background it’s no surprise that Laurents provides plenty of oppor- tunities for the dancers to showcase their skills. The dancing in “The Turning Point” is excellent. Veterans of the American Ballet Theater Robert Sarle has filmed perhaps the smoothest-flowing dance sequences on celluloid, using specially-adapted stage lighting and multiple cameras.

But whether it will really become a classic remains for posterity to judge.

Famous violinst, pianist to appear at Shryock Friday

Eugene List, pianist and Carroll W. List, violinist, are the featured performers in a concert planned for 1 p.m. Friday at Shryock auditorium.

The public recital concludes a day of meetings and the concert, which are both open to the general public.

List has performed with all the major symphonic orchestras of the world. A professor of piano at New York University, List has been a guest soloist at major music festivals, a solo recitalist and recitalist with orchestra. He was the first American to be awarded a gold medal in violin at the Internationale Musikwettbewerb in Graz, Austria.

List has also been awarded the 50th Anniversary of the League of American Orchestras and the Academy of Music for his work as a composer and conductor. He has received numerous awards and honorary degrees from universities and music institutions around the world.

Recital guest to play Bach

Organist William T. Stewart will play the organ at the concert. A native of Boston, Mass., and a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music, Stewart has been a frequent performer at the recital. He has served as an organist and choir director at several churches and has been a guest artist at many recitals and concerts.

No 'shaft' for Hayes' debtors

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) - A bankruptcy court in Memphis on Wednesday, Dec. 29, granted a petition for bankruptcy to the estate of Harry Hayes, who was known as a community leader and a businessman. Hayes had millions of dollars in debt and was one of the largest creditors for the bankruptcy court.

The final sale of the estate was approved after he and his wife petitioned for bankruptcy in federal court in Memphis in December, 1974. At the time, Hayes, who won an Academy Award for his role in "Shawshank," was married to actor Lauren Bacall, who is a prominent figure in the entertainment industry.

Along with his wife, the estate of Hayes was ordered to pay off the debt. The sale was approved by a bankruptcy court judge.

Student workers to get snow day pay, Brandt says

All University employees, including student workers, will be paid for the work they missed on the three days NIU was forced to close last month because of the hazardous travel conditions, President Warren Brandt said.

Brandt said that student workers, civil service personnel and all administrative and professional staff who were required to work when the University was closed will be rewarded by compensatory time off.

However, student workers, civil service range non-exempt and civil service negotiated and permanently rate employees will have the option of taking time off or earning double pay for the hours worked.

HELPFUL HEALTH SERVICE HINTS

There is a new appointment system at the SIU Health Service. You may call up 536-2391 beginning on a Monday morning at 7:30 and make an advance appointment for that week. There are only a limited number of advance appointments (usually filled by Wednesday or Thursday), but you can still call at 7:30 A.M. each day of the week to get a daily appointment.

If you can't get a limited advance appointment you can be seen by the walk-in staff any time during regular Health Service hours. 8 A.M. to 5 P.M., Monday through Friday. The Walk-In clinic hours are from 8 A.M. - 4:45 P.M., Monday - Friday and 8 A.M. to 12:45 P.M. Saturday.

Doctor's appointments are made for every 15 minutes. Be on time. The schedule is tight. If you are five or ten minutes late there is a chance that you may not be seen by a doctor that day.

Why doesn't the Health Service offer something to help me stay healthy? It does. Prevention and Health Maintenance Programs can help you to lose weight, stop smoking, learn good nutrition, develop personal exercise program, deal with sexual concerns, and to examine your life-style as it affects your health and well being. For information about programs, call 536-7702 or stop by 112 Small Group Housing, Room 215.

If you have any questions about what kind of health benefits the Student Health Program has or if you need to submit a claim for payment, your questions can be answered by our Insurance Claims Officer by phone at 453-3311, extension 245, or in person at 112 Small Group Housing, Room 118. If you already are covered by some type of medical insurance you may be entitled to a refund of a portion of your fee. If you think you qualify, you will need to apply within the first three weeks of each semester to our Insurance Claims Officer. Bring your paid fee statement and explanation of your benefits.

Government to fund abortions

President Carter signed into law by Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano a provision of the Clayton Amendment which prohibits the HEW from financing nearly all elective abortions under Medicaid or other programs. The extension of the Clayton Amendment's sterilization ban, which would be reenacted in 1978, was added in 1974.

The Clayton Amendment, which was included in the HEW's budget bill, will not take effect until Congress enacts a new law. The Clayton Amendment, which was added in 1974, was not effective until the previous year.

Programs to help battered women in area discussed

By Vicky Jacobsen
Stu! Writer

The plight of battered women is a local as well as a national problem. According to Kathy Starch, women's advocate at the Women's Center, "more than 50 percent of any housed at the center during Sep,- and October were battered women.
The need to develop a system of local services for battered women was discussed in a working con-mission.

Fifty interested women, including representatives from Syntex, Network, the Women's Center and Jackson County Mental Health, agreed that awareness of the problem is essential.

"The community has to identify who the problem is early in our intervention is important," the women said. "We have to get services to battered women now.

Establishing counseling agencies, crisis intervention, educational programs and self-supporting groups was discussed in helping to alleviate the problem.

Dr. William J. Johnson, of 80 W. Freeman, temporarily housed and counseled battered women, but not on a long-term basis.

One of the people planning a follow-up plan. This area needs a halfway house where women can stay for six months to a year," said Grace Poppin of the Jackson County Mental Health Center.

Pope said most women don't know how to go when faced with the problem and they believe that "we're forced to give up our children.

We need to develop women's battered women stay with their husbands include financial dependency and the lack of any other place to go."

Johnson said that the problem concerning battered women is not in isolation of other problems but that it is a combination of all these. It is related to alcoholism or childhood.

Other aspects of the conference included legal aid, counseling and self-help groups and a panel discussion of psychological and

Saluki wrestlers lose dual meets

By Jim Misiman
Staff Writer

The Saluki wrestlers managed just three wins and two ties as they dropped matches to Illinois State and Eastern Illinois last weekend.

Indiana State beat SIU, 24-13, as three Salukis won. Ritu Zanita, Dale Egeret and Paul Hibs posted wins.

Eastern Illinois defeated SIU, 15-4. Zanita and Mike Delgianti tied for the highest points. The Salukis posted their 17th straight win while SIU's dual match slate slipped to 3-5. A scheduled meet against Indiana was canceled because of a snowstorm. The Salukis won 90-31.

Siu is scheduled to wrestle Illinois Thursday and No. 1-ranked Oklahoma Friday in home meets. Both matches start at 7:30 p.m. at the Arena.

Eastern which finished fifth last year in the NCAA Invitational tournament, impressed Saluki Coach Larry Bean.

"I think they've got a good, wellbalanced team. They aren't super in any class, but they're reliable. They've got steady performers."

We made some critical errors of technique that cost us a few matches," he added. "Five of our Salukis dropped close matches against Eastern Egeret and John Paul Jones.

Tom Zivica lost a point match. Paul Hobbs dropped a 4-point match and Eric Jones lost 13-4.

The match against Indiana State was an important one because the Salukis wrestled in the same NCAA Midwest Regional Meet which SIU is in. Since a dual match is the only name the teams meet also, a win or loss can help determine seeding for this year's regional.

Hobbs listed losses by Gross, Vizzini and Starr against Ilavonmore losses probably will hurt them when regional selections are announced.

Gross lost 7-4 to Dave Claude, Starr dropped 9-7 decision to Guy Hynes and Vizzini lost 3-2 to Greg Meier.

Hobbs posted the largest win at 113.5 pounds with a 13-3 victory over Kurt Sherman. Gross lost to Dave Zivica and Zanita topped Scott Wild, 6-3.

Kuhn wins again, vetoes Blue deal

NEW YORK (AP) -- Basketball Commissioner David Stern said he rejected a proposal by the Blue Devils of Duke to play the University of Cincinnati Reds Monday, but urged the two teams to continue the transaction.

This was announced by his office after Kuhn had left for Boston, where the 2-75 million that the Reds had paid to Duke for the Blue, a 2-time 20-game winner.

Kuhn has placed an informal $500,000 ceiling on the price any team would pay the Blue Devils for an individual player. The Red and A's tried to skirt that limit when Cincinnati included minor league signing Dave Bevington in the Blue deal which was announced at baseball's water'skiers in Hawaii last December.

Within a rule of the agreement, Kuhn informed both clubs that he was withholding approval pending his examination of the transaction.

Fikety and Reds President Bob Kuhn had spent two days together at hearings called by the commissioner earlier this month. There was no time at a compromise that would have sent other Reds players to Oakland and reduced the impact in the transaction.

Women swimmers beat Illinois State, 84-46

By Bob Vandermark

What was an important meet for Illinois State was nothing more than a Saturday afternoon in the pool for the women's swimming team. SIU's overall attitude was more successful.

The women swimmers soundly defeated Illinois State, 84-46. Saturday at Normal as the Salukis ran eight individual events and two relays. Coach Inge Remmer had been too pleased because she did not alter her practice schedule in preparation for the meet.

"We accomplished what we were looking for," Remmer said. "We did no taper for this meet. We did nothing because Illinois State tapered and shaved down for the meet and we went into the meet right out of training."

Julia Walter, Wendy McCurdy and Lynn Atkinson were double winners for the Salukis. Walter was the 1-meter and 3-meter diving events despite what Remmer called "unsatisfactory points." SIU placed 1-2-3 in both diving events, as Amy Wheel and Penny Hoffman placed second and third in the 1-meter event. Wheel and Hoffman reversed places in the 3-meter.

McCurdy won the 50 butterfly and the 100 butterfly. The senior from Springfield broke the one-minute barrier in the 100 for the fourth time this season. In the 100 individual medley, Kathy Protzman took first-place honors in both the 100 and 100 backstroke.

Senior Mary Jane Sheets was another individual winner for the Salukis. As she won the 200 individual medley in 2:16, her best time of the season, freshman Heidi Ebersol also swam the winner's circle with a split of 1:11.5 in the 100 breaststroke.

Remmer's relay teams swept the 200 medley and 200 freestyle events. The medley team consisted of Sheets, Kothbroad, Moeller and Anna Gutnick, while Ted Kothbroad, McCurdy, Sheets and Garlick swam at the freestyle relay team.

Remmer said there was no outstanding aspect of the meet, but she did single out Sheets' effort in the 200 individual medley. Her time of 2:16 was within three seconds of the NCAA national qualifying standard. Remmer said McCurdy, Warner and Kothbroad tapered in their usual consistent performances.

"Next on the schedule for the women is the Indiana Invitational Saturday at Bloomington. Remmer is not underestimating the importance of that meet and she plans to have her swimmers at top shape."

"I'll work the girls hard the first two days this week, but I'll rest them some on Wednesday and Thursday," Remmer said. "I'm hoping to get some qualifying time this week. It will be a meet with good teams, and I think they are ready for it."

The swimmers will be on the road for most of their remaining events, but Remmer has added one more meet to the schedule. Eastern Illinois will visit the Recreation Building pool Feb. 8 for a meet at 6 p.m.

IAC sets meeting to hear reports by athletics directors

The Intercollegiate Athletics Committee will meet at noon Wednesday in an open meeting in the balcony conference room of Anthony Hnil to discuss several items.

The committee, an athletics advisory committee to George Mace, vice president for University relations, will hear reports from both athletics directors from the January national conventions.

Charlotte West, women's athletics director and Shirley Friend, SIU's voting delegate to the AIAW convention, will present a report from the women's national convention.

Gary Savers, athletics director and W.D. Klimstra, NCAA voting delegate, will report on the January NCAA convention. Savers said the major issue to report on is how the resigned NCAA Division I-AA and I-AA football classes will effect SIU.

Thomas McConnaugh, an IAC member, will lead a discussion on the Arena's seating policy for athletic events and a report from a budgetary review subcommittee are also scheduled to be presented.

Saluki express brought to halt by Aggies, 72-69

The Aggie fans were treated to an extraodinary game between two teams who appeared to be headed for a decision in the Valley. The Aggies led the entire game, and although the Salukis put up a fight, they were unable to overcome the Aggie's physicality and time management.

New Mexico State led throughout the second half, but Coach Ken Hayes never felt secure, and he submitted to the pressure by taking off his coat with 3:23 left and his team ahead, 67-63.

Nerves were especially noticeable Saturday night, the Aggies used their size and power to score numerous baskets on layups and free-throws. The game had just appeared physical to the fans, but as they repeatedly snuck a Saluki comeback efforts in a 72-69 win that protected the Aggie's lead in the Valley. The Aggies, 73 in the conference, now have six-game Valley wins.

The Salukis, whose Valley record dropped to 6-3, simply could never get untracked. They did a better job on boards in the second half, but the Aggies still got the key rebound when they needed it. SUU player without Wilson for eight minutes in the second half after the 6-6 game start, Wilson took up his fourth foul with 16:08 left. Despite playing only 26 minutes, Wilson still finished with 17 points and led his team in rebounding.

The Saluki machine did not function properly with Abrams, the driver of the machine, not at full strength. The sophomore guard was removed from the game early and his condition caused him to skip the last five minutes of the game.

Greg Webb, a 6-3 guard, led the Aggies with 18 points and was followed by 5-2 forward Curry Corner with 15. The Salukis, who played at Drake Monday night, were led in scoring by Huggins, who kept SUU in the game with fine all-around play and finished with 19 points.

Women cagers dethrone Redbirds;
Foley leads Saluki scoring parade

By Rod Vandersick

The Salukis never expected to win this game, but they did. The women's basketball kingdom in Illinois has been ruled by the Illinois State Redbirds for the past six years, but their reign may be over. Although the women did not make an official proclamation, SIU's 81-48 win over the Redbirds Saturday at Davies Gym indicates that the king may be dead.

The victory gave the Salukis a sweep of their two games with Illinois State this season, as the women rostered the Redbirds, 82-57, in a game at Normal last December. The dominance of Illinois State will also be beneficial when the seedings are announced for the state tournament, which will be March 24 at Normal.

The win improved the Salukis' record to 5-3 and gave them a modest two-game winning streak. The women struggled to a 3-5-4 victory over the Redbirds, one that helped out close to the basket. Illinois State Coach Bill Hutchinson should have devised a special defense to stop Bonnie Foley because the 6-3 junior center from Stratford, Conn. erupted for 24 points and 14 rebounds to lead the Salukis in both categories. Her finest moment came as the Bears' second victory of the season. Foley also had strong all-around games. Fisher had 12 points and 12 rebounds, but Hoffman finished with 8 points and 8 rebounds.

The Salukis did not use the fast break as much as Scott would have liked, but their execution on offense was much better than it had been on Friday night. The team's play had Scott smiling after the game.

"We worked the ball inside well," Scott analyzed. "I told the girls to be patient on offense if we didn't get the break. This was our best game of the year."

The Salukis led the entire game against Southwest Missouri, but Bears managed to stay close for much of the contest. The final margin of 55-44 was SIU's largest lead of the game. Hoffman scored 13 points to lead the Salukis and Sue Schaefer followed with 12. Terry Becker scored 16 points for the Bears.

The Cory quarters of Davies Gym were frozen to the women's roundballers over the weekend, but they will not have another home court advantage until Feb. 17. Scott will take her team to the Hoosier State this weekend for games with Ball State and Indiana State.

Saluki forward Barry Smith (42) was lucky to get a shot over Aggie center "Steve" Jones (58) in Saturday's 72-69 SIU loss to New Mexico State at the Arena as Dan Kieszowski looks on. Jones blocked three shots on the night. (Staff photo by Marc Galassini)
