Computer probe may target Texas firms

By Steve Metsch
Staff Writer

A federal grand jury investigation of alleged computer purchasing irregularities in 1979 apparently is focusing on purchases SIU-C made with two Texas companies.

Doug Cannon of San Antonio, husband of Vickie Diane Cannon, who is listed on SIU-C purchase records as president and owner of Virtual Computing Systems, said Friday that he and his wife had been interviewed by federal authorities.

"To tell you the truth, I really don't know what's going on," he said. "I first heard about it a couple of days ago, when someone called and told us we were to meet with men from a federal agency."

Cannon declined to allow his wife to comment and declined to identify the agency, saying that any questions about Virtual would have to be handled through the company's legal counsel, San Antonio attorney John Gordon. Gordon's secretary said Friday that Gordon had no comment about the investigation.

A spokesman for the U.S. attorney's East St. Louis office said that he was unable to comment on the investigation — or on which companies and individuals may be involved.

"All I can tell you is that unsubstantiated allegations have been made to this office and this office is in the process of investigating them. I cannot tell you whether any subpoenas have or have not been issued," Cliff Proud, first assistant U.S. attorney, said Monday.

John Baker, President Albert Somit's assistant for budgeting, two weeks ago disclosed that information turned up in an investigation of "a problem in following purchase procedures" under state law had been turned over to federal authorities. The alleged irregularities also have been under investigation by the state auditor's office.

The SIU Board of Trustees approved contracts in 1979 with Virtual Computing Systems, of Port Arthur, Texas, and Angelina Computer Sales, of Lufkin, Texas, according to SIU-C purchasing records.

SIU-C paid Virtual $47,000 in May 1979 and $30,000 in July of that year for computing service activities and use of an optical scanning system, the records show. The University also reimbursed the Office of the Bursar $40,000 in May 1979 for use of an optical scanning system supplied by Virtual.

Charles Campbell, associate director in computing affairs, said an optical scanning system is used to read test papers marked by a No. 2 lead pencil. The system is used in instructional evaluation.

In accordance with the contract, SIU-C paid Virtual $30,000 in both 1980 and 1981 to lease the system. After paying Virtual $1,000 next month, SIU-C will own the system, under the 1979 agreement.

SIU-C also purchased a disk-storage unit from Virtual in June 1979 for $37,440. Campbell said the unit is in use by computing services.

A disk-storage unit is a magnetic storage device for information used by computers, said Associate Director Tom Purcell.

SIU-C also agreed to lease a DEC 11-34 computer processing system from Angelina for the College of Business and Administration at the initial cost of $35,000. SIU-C has since paid $24,000 to Angelina and owes $13,100, due this August, before it owns the system.

Barry Bateman headed SIU-C's computing services at the time and was the fiscal officer responsible for signing the invoice vouchers for the purchases.

He is now assistant vice president of general administration and computing at the University of Maryland. He has been unavailable for comment about the investigation.

Hubert Massey, director of SIU-C's computer center in 1979 and now data base manager for the office of admissions and records at Texas A&M University, said Monday, "I will have no comment until the investigation is complete."

Vickie D. Cannon was listed as president of Virtual in 1979, but, according to a former co-worker in Port Arthur, was an

Carbondale woman celebrates 100th birthday with friends

By Mike Nelson
Staff Writer

It was not an average birthday party.

Not if one calls celebrating a 100th birthday average.

Nola Belle Winter passed the century mark Monday amidst friends and well-wishers at a party held in Building Two of the Southern Manor Nursing Home in Carbondale.

Dressed in a bonnet and a new dress with a pink and white corsage, Mrs. Winter greeted residents of the nursing home and a group of about 25 children from the World of Oz Child Developmental Center, all who came to wish her a happy birthday.

Mrs. Winter is a former Marion and West Frankfort resident, confined to a wheelchair since being admitted to Southern Manor in June 1979. She is surprisingly alert and responsive, "but she does tend to wander a bit in her answers," said Gretchen Bedokis, her niece and nearest relative.

After celebrating with the children and the nursing home staff, Mrs. Winter received a special guest. Presenting the birthday cake was Miss Illinois United Teenager, Jane Borgsmiller, 19, of Murphysboro, a student from the University of Colorado at Boulder.

Borgsmiller sang a rendition of "One in a Million You" to Mrs. Winter as she received birthday presents from the residents. Mrs. Winter also received a birthday card from President and Mrs. Reagan. A special musical program was performed by Murphysboro pianist Joe Gilliam, who played seasonal favorites and requests from residents.

Mrs. Winter sat up in her wheelchair for the entire party, smiling at the guests, looking proud and pleased. Employees of the nursing home presented her with a large birthday card, adorned with two silk roses and signed by residents and guests.

Several of the children were amazed when Mrs. Winter received the birthday card from President Reagan. "Wow! A letter from Ronald Reagan," said one young boy. "How did he know she was 100?"

Belle Winter celebrated her 100th Birthday Monday at the Southern Manor Nursing Home.

A CENTURY OF LIFE—Nola Belle Winter celebrated her 100th Birthday Monday at the Southern Manor Nursing Home.

Mrs. Winter is in excellent health at 100. Except for an occasional arthritis pain reliever, she takes no special medication, said Jackie Thompson, activities director at Southern Manor and the coordinator of Monday's birthday celebration.

Bedokis said that Mrs. Winter is on a regular diet, eating regular food. Her hearing is starting to fade, Bedokis said, and she speaks in a hoarse whisper.

Mrs. Winter was born July 10,

1922, in Marion, to Sarah Cordelia McClintock and Andrew Fleming. She married J.C. Winter on Oct. 23, 1916, since deceased. They had no children.

Mrs. Winter worked as a seamstress in West Frankfort in the early 1900's and lived on a farm in Metropolis, Bedokis said. She lost most of her property in a flood which occurred in Metropolis in 1937. Mrs. Winter returned to West Frankfort in the early 1960's, Bedokis said.

Republicans echo national philosophy at county caucus

By Bob Delaney
Staff Writer

Wrapping up their first-ever convention Saturday, Jackson County Republicans were looking toward what they hope will be a successful November election, but are still searching for candidates.

Greg Prineas was nominated to run for the Jackson County Board from the 7th District, but the Republicans are still seeking second candidates from both the 7th and 5th districts and two candidates from the 6th District.

Donald Stricklin, Democrat running for re-election as regional school superintendent, is unopposed.

Ray Doerr, Jackson County GOP committee chairman, said he hadn't expected many candidates to be named at the convention. The search for candidates is still underway, with the filing deadline being Aug. 5.

The turnout of about 75 persons at the Jackson County Courthouse was disappointing, said Noel Stallings, of the GOP committee, who said she had been planning a convention for 10 years.

J.C. Penn, former county board member who has lived in Jackson County since 1933, said he could not remember any convention prior to Saturday's.

GOP leaders used the three-hour afternoon session in the courthouse to introduce state and local candidates and pass a platform put together by Stallings.

Seven of eight planks were passed with little discussion. The remaining plank was deferred to the next central committee meeting, scheduled for the third week in August. Disagreement arose surrounding wording on a proposed amendment.

GOP leaders attempted to "echo the national Republican philosophy" in the platform. Stallings said she took many of the measures directly from the 1980 Republican national platform.

The platform calls for development of local job opportunities, re-evaluation of the real property taxation system, development of local coal resources without undue harm to the environment, support for equal rights and full agricultural production within limits of good conservation practices.

Criticism was especially harsh toward County Clerk Bob Harrell and County Treasurer Shirley Dillinger Booker. Retired Judge Peyton Kuncce criticized Harrell for having "caused this county board more trouble about jails and space than anyone."

Gus Bode

office worker for a construction firm at that time.

A secretary at the H.B. Foster Co. in Port Arthur said Vickie D. Cannon was a stenographer there in 1979. The spokesperson said H.B. Foster Co. was not in the computer business but built homes and apartments. The Foster Co. phone number was listed on SIU-C purchasing records signed by Mrs. Cannon.

"I think she was familiar with computers. We don't have them here, but I understand she knew what to do with them," said the Foster Co. spokesperson.

Doug Cannon, who was identified as manager of a San Antonio sporting goods store by the Foster Co. source, said his wife was, and still is, president of Virtual. He said Virtual had been moved from Port Arthur to San Antonio. Virtual is not listed in the 1982 San Antonio telephone directory, according to a directory assistance operator there.

Neither Virtual nor Angelina is listed in the current Port Arthur or Lufkin telephone directories. A spokesperson for the Port Arthur Chamber of Commerce said last week that no listing for Virtual could be found in the 1979, 1980 or 1981 directories. A spokesperson for the Port Arthur Library also said Virtual was not in the city directory for 1979. A spokesperson for the Lufkin Chamber of Commerce said she had never heard of Angelina Computer Sales.

State, county and local authorities in Texas were unable to find in their tax records any information about either business.

Jean Pierson, of the Better

Business Bureau office in nearby Beaumont, Texas — near Port Arthur — said that "there is absolutely nothing in our files on Virtual Computing Systems."

Bill Spehn, city editor of Port Arthur's newspaper, The News, said that he was unfamiliar with Virtual Computing Systems.

"We don't have anything on them in our cross-reference file or in our own directory," Spehn said. "We looked back five years and found nothing on them."

Spehn said he also checked the Houston directory but again came up with a blank.

Virtual gave a post office box number in Port Arthur as its mailing address in 1979 on the SIU-C purchasing records, but the Port Arthur Post Office said last week that it was unable to find a post office box used by Virtual.

When asked if it could release the name of the owner of the post office box number listed on purchase orders from 1979, a postal spokesman said federal laws prohibited the release of such information.

The only information concerning either company was found in the Jefferson County clerk's office.

Karen DuBois, deputy county clerk, said records showed that Vickie Cannon had registered Virtual Computing Systems as a business in May 1979. SIU-C's purchase agreement with Virtual was signed in April 1979, according to purchasing records.

Angelina Computer Sales, whose owner was listed as C.C. Carroll in a 1979 purchasing agreement, never filed a business name in Angelina County, according to a clerk in the county clerk's office.

"It could have existed, but they never filed a name with the county," she said.

There is no listing for a C.C. Carroll in the 1982 Lufkin phone book. A C.C. Carroll was found in the San Antonio directory, but repeated calls to that number went unanswered.

Virtual and Angelina are not listed in the Directory of Texas Manufacturers, according to Chuck Newell, researcher for the Texas Industrial Commission. Neither company showed up in directories for 1978 and 1982. Newell said he did not have the 1979 directory in his office.

The Texas Bureau of Business Research, which has records of each business ever incorporated in Texas, was also unable to turn up any information on either Virtual or Angelina.

The Texas Controller of Public Accounts was unable to locate any record of either business applying for a state tax permit.

Neither Angelina nor Virtual has ever filed for a Texas state tax permit, according to the sales tax division of the Texas Comptroller's Office. It is illegal for a company to sell computer hardware in Texas without a sales tax permit, said a spokesperson.

However, the comptroller's office source said it would be legal for a company to operate without a state tax permit, providing it dealt solely with out-of-state customers.

Reagan supports budget amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan, himself an architect of record-deficit spending, took to the Capitol's doorstep on Monday to stump for a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced federal budget, saying "runaway government threatens our economic survival."

In oppressive heat in the mid-90s, Reagan told a rally organized by the White House that the campaign for the amendment "is the people's crusade and today we urge the Congress: Let their will be carried out."

"The American people are tired of empty promises and want an end to government credit-card spending," he said in a speech.

"The people have had it," he said. "The people are saying 'Enough.'"

Senate debates tax hike package

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate set to work Monday on the biggest tax increase in history, a grab-bag of more than 50 provisions whose bite will be felt chiefly by corporations and high-income investors.

The measure also doubles the tax on cigarettes and telephone service, sharply limits the tax deduction for medical expenses and cracks down on tax cheats by imposing a 10-percent withholding on interest and dividends.

Also included in the package is $17.5 billion in cuts in Medicare, Medicaid and aid to the needy over the next three years in an effort to reduce the federal deficit.

President Reagan said in a letter to Senate leaders that the package "will lead us on a downward path of deficit reduction, improve the fairness of the tax system and maintain the integrity of my economic recovery program."

Before debate began, Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker said that he thought the bill would pass.

Tight limits on insanity defense endorsed by administration

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration endorsed on Monday a proposal to drastically limit use of the insanity defense in federal criminal cases, holding the defendant responsible if he "knew he was shooting at a human being to kill him."

Without directly mentioning President Reagan's assailant, John W. Hinckley Jr., Attorney General William French Smith said the bill is designed to all but eliminate mental illness as a defense for criminal conduct.

"The criminal justice system has tilted too decidedly in favor of the rights of criminals and against the rights of society," Smith told the Senate Judiciary Committee.

He said the bill, sponsored by Sen. Orrin G. Hatch, R-Utah, "would effectively eliminate the insanity defense except in those rare cases in which the defendant lacked the state of mind required as an element of the offense."

"A mental disease or defect would be no defense if a defendant knew he was shooting at a human being to kill him," he continued. "Mental disease or defect would constitute a defense only if the defendant did not even know he had a gun in his hand or thought, for example, that he was shooting at a tree."

Smith offered the administration's first formal support for a major change in the insanity defense since June 21, when Hinckley was acquitted by reason of insanity in the March 30, 1981 shooting.

Hinckley has been committed to a mental hospital in the District of Columbia and can only be freed if he is found by psychiatrists to be no threat to himself or society and a court accepts the finding.

Reagan has said the law placed an unfair burden on the prosecution.

Smith's position Monday went beyond calling for a shift in the burden of proving sanity or insanity.

In endorsing the Hatch bill, Smith said, "this would abolish the insanity defense to the maximum extent permitted under the Constitution and would make mental illness a factor to be considered at the time of sentencing, just like any other mitigating factor."

The attorney general said the measure would "eliminate entirely the presentation at trial of confusing psychiatric testimony."

While the Hatch bill would apply only to federal criminal cases, it could provide impetus for states to adopt a similar approach.

At least two states, Montana and Idaho, already have abolished the insanity defense.

Three plays to run for free at SIU-C lab

A black reporter in love with a white politician, three strangers reminiscing about an apparently murdered girl and the lives of women in a small Southern Illinois town are the subjects of three new plays being presented this week by the Department of Theater's Playwriting Workshop.

The plays will be presented at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights in the Communication Building Laboratory Theater. The performances are free.

"Newsbreak," by Brenda Major, will be presented Tuesday. The plot concerns an ambitious young black reporter named Lydia Collins who is romantically involved with a white State Senator.

A second performance of "Newsbreak" will be presented on July 26 at 8 p.m.

South Carolina immediately after the Civil War is the setting for "Holly's Rock," written by Kenn Robbins, which will be presented Wednesday. The drama brings together three men, strangers to each other, who recall different aspects of a mysterious young girl who apparently has been murdered.

"Holly's Rock" will be performed a second time on July 27 at 8 p.m.

"Quilt Pieces," by Pam Billingsley, is a quintet of short plays dealing with women, young and old, and their lives in a small Southern Illinois town. "Quilt Pieces" will be performed a second time July 28 at 8 p.m.

Ex-Saluki Schulz wins road race

Four Carbondale residents captured first place honors for men and women in two 10,000-meter road races held in the area over the weekend.

In the Pepsi Challenge race, two ex-Saluki tracksters won their divisions. The men's crown was captured by ex-Saluki distance specialist Karsten Schulz in a time of 31:41. The overall women's winner was Patty Houseworth in 41:10. Schulz, who has qualified for the NCAA cross-country meet five times, the indoor NCAA meet three times and outdoors in two events in 1981, is also holder of the fifth best 1500-meter run in SIU-C history. Houseworth is the number two all-time distance runner for SIU-C, and closed out her track career this year.

The race was held at Marion Junior High School on Saturday. It was sponsored by the Swamp Fox Track Club.

Another former SIU-C trackster, Tom Breen, won the fifth annual Carbondale 10,000-meter Road Race Saturday with a time of 33:04.

Janine Cox of Carbondale took first place in the women's division with a time of 43:30.

The race was sponsored by the Carbondale Park District and B and J Distributing Co. of Carbondale.

The 2,000-meter Fun Run was won by Brian Pendleton in 14:16. Trophies were awarded to the top finishers in men's and women's divisions for nine age groups.

Watson on streak, wants PGA win

TROON, Scotland (AP) — Tom Watson has achieved some milestones. He's secured his place in golfing history. He's acquired membership in some of the game's most elite company.

But there still are goals to achieve.

The next one is at Southern Hills in Tulsa, Okla., three weeks away. That's the American PGA national championship.

"That's the one I haven't won," Watson said. "That's what they'll say. That I haven't won the PGA. Well, what about Arnold Palmer?"

Well, for one thing, Arnold, who never managed to win the PGA, has just been tied, by Watson, in the matter of major tournament victories. Each has seven. So do Gene Sarazen and Harry Vardon.

Ahead of Watson now are Gary Player and Ben Hogan, each with nine, Walter Hagen, with 11, Bobby Jones, with 13, and Jack Nicklaus, with a record 17, 10 more than Watson.

Nicklaus' record may be out of reach for the 32-year-old Watson. But Tom's triumph in the British Open last weekend gave him two distinctions that even the mighty Nicklaus has not achieved.

It tied him with Hagen for the most British Open victories by an American, four. Nicklaus has won three.

And it made him only the fifth man in the history of this ancient game to win the British and American Opens in the same year. The last was Lee Trevino, in 1971. The others were Hogan in 1953, Sarazen in 1932 and Jones in 1930.

And the triumph, which goes with his dramatic victory in the U.S. Open only a month ago, along with two other American tour triumphs, made him a virtual cinch as golf's Player of the Year.

The victory, by one stroke over Nick Price of South Africa and Peter Oosterhuis of England, reconfirmed his position as the dominant player in the game today.

And it left one more big goal — the PGA.

That's the big one that has, thus far, eluded him, just as it did Palmer. Watson now has won four British Opens, all in Scotland, the U.S. Open and two Masters titles.

Charlotte West 'pleased' with new conference for woman

By Jackie Rodgers
Staff Writer

Women's Athletics Director Charlotte West said she is pleased that the new conference for women, the Midwest Collegiate Athletic Conference, was voted into action last week.

"I'm real encouraged by the new conference, and I am looking ahead to many years of strong conference affiliation," said West.

West is one of four people—two athletic directors and two faculty representatives—who comprise a search committee for a new commissioner to head the conference. She said that a national advertisement would be issued for the position, but that the commissioner could come from a school within the conference. She said the applications would be reviewed, and the selection would then be made.

Jackie Jessell of Indiana State, Martin Perline of Wichita State and Mary Jo Wynn of Southwest Missouri are also on the committee.

James Franklin of Eastern Illinois was selected as the first MCAC president.

West said she was not surprised that the two most recent applicants, Northern Iowa and Wichita State, were given charter membership. She said that although Wichita State will pose a financial burden because of travel expenses, they will add good elements as well.

"Wichita State has very strong women's sports programs," said West. "They have a very good reputation for their program, and that will help the conference as a whole."

"I'm really encouraged," says Women's Athletic Director Charlotte West.

Bruce Swinburne, vice president of student affairs, said that he believes the MCAC will have a positive affect on SIU-C.

"The MCAC will be a good thing for women's athletics, and SIU-C," he said.

The MCAC champions in softball, basketball and volleyball will receive automatic bids to the NCAA championships. Conference championships are tentatively scheduled for eight other sports.

The governing body of the MCAC will be comprised of faculty representatives from each school. Swinburne said President Albert Somit will name the representative from SIU-C.

Johnstone, Cubs, rally past Astros

CHICAGO (AP) — Jay Johnstone singled home the tying run in the 10th inning and then raced home with the winner on a pinch single by Jerry Morales as the Chicago Cubs rallied for a 6-5 victory over the Houston Astros on Monday.

Houston had taken a 5-4 lead in the top of the 10th on singles by Ray Knight, Danny Heep and Phil Garner but the Cubs came back.

Leon Durham opened the Cubs' 10th with a single, stole second and scored on Johnstone's hit. Larry Bowa singled Johnstone to third before Morales, a .230 hitter, topped his game-winning hit to right-center.

Chicago went ahead with two runs in the first inning on singles by Ryne Sandberg, Junior Kennedy and Bill Buckner and a fielder's choice by Durham.

Art Howe's double and a single by pitcher Vern Ruhle gave the Astros a run in the second, but the Cubs got that back in the bottom half of the inning on a double by Jody Davis and a single by Sandberg.

Terry Puhl singled to open the Houston third and two outs later Heep hit his third homer on a 3-0 pitch to tie the score 3-3.

Severe Back Pain

If you've been suffering severe back pain, maybe you've had a bad fall, or some other recent accident has caused it. Or maybe the pain has come on gradually because of misalignments in your spinal column that have been there for a long time without your knowing it.

Over a period of time, faulty spinal alignment will cause a gradual weakening of the disc fibers and other ligaments that your spine depends on to operate with comfort and flexibility. But there's more to the problem. Misalignments in your spine may also be interfering with the normal functioning of your nervous system. Nerve impulses travel from the brain through the spinal column to all of your body's vital organs and cells. They need an adequate supply of nerve impulses to function properly. Misalignments in your spine may fall, or some other recent accident has caused it. Or maybe the pain has come on gradually because of misalignments in your spinal column that have been there for a long time without your knowing it.

Doctors of chiropractic use gentle manipulation and other techniques to correct the misalignments that may be causing pain and discomfort. With proper treatment, the pain can be relieved and your body returned to normal function.
