The Daily Egyptian, June 29, 1995

Daily Egyptian Staff

Follow this and additional works at: https://opensiuc.lib.siu.edu/de_June1995
Volume 80, Issue 162

Recommended Citation

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Daily Egyptian 1995 at OpenSIUC. It has been accepted for inclusion in June 1995 by an authorized administrator of OpenSIUC. For more information, please contact opensiuc@lib.siu.edu.
Coffee houses exempt from new law

Compliance disputed: Local business owners question whether or not new license is needed.

By Rob Neff
DE Government/Politics Editor

Coffee houses may not be subject to the new entertainment license ordinance despite the insistence of a Carbondale businessman that businesses offering entertainment, such as coffee houses, should be bound by the new ordinance.

City Attorney Sharon Hauber said the primary function of coffee shops like Melange, 607 S. Illinois Ave., is to serve coffee, juice and food. Entertainment at such establishments is incidental to their primary function.

"They only offer entertainment for a few hours out of the day," she said. "That primary function is to serve coffee and food. The entertainment is incidental to that." Roland Davis, owner of Beach Bum, 611 S. Illinois Ave., told the City Council Tuesday that if his recently announced non-alcoholic club falls under the new ordinance, he should have to charge more.

"I have a good business, but I don't believe the coffee houses in Carbondale are defined as entertainment clubs under the new ordinance," said Davis.

Hauber said that while the school does not believe the coffee houses in Carbondale are defined as entertainment clubs under the new ordinance, the city manager would have to make the final decision on the issue.

City Manager Jeff Doherty said he has not had time to review the house since the council passed the ordinance. He said his office would examine existing businesses to determine whether they need to apply for an entertainment license.

The new law defines entertainment clubs as "commercial premises which are open to the public, the primary function of which is to offer patrons an opportunity to engage in social activities such as dancing, or the enjoyment of live or pre-recorded music, or the enjoyment of entertainment provided by dancers of other performers."

As an incidental function, an entertainment club may sell and serve food and beverages to its patrons.

The law goes on to declare establishments licensed to serve alcoholic beverages, theaters, full service restaurants and bars as commercial establishments.

The law, which goes into effect July 7, requires an entertainment club to have a facility of one of the three age groups at any time: those between 13 and 16 years of age, those between 16 and 18 years of age, or those 21 years of age or over.

Doherty said the audience at the

see COFFEE HOUSE, page 5

Chris Carr

selected in

NBA Draft

By Cynthia Sheets

Daily Egyptian Correspondent

The clock was ticking for Chris Carr, as he was not chosen in either the first round or nearing the end of the second round of the NBA draft.

Carr got the news he was waiting for, as the Phoenix Suns' second round draft choice, the 56th player overall.

April 18, 1995, Carr was a junior at SIU. He declared himself eligible for the NBA draft, giving up his last year with the Sycamores men's basketball team.

Chris Carr

Tied up 1,250 points in his intercollegiate career, becoming just one of six players to do so. The 6-foot 9-inch forward from Knob Noster, Mo., also broke three of his career high statistics in his final season with the Sycamores, topping a

see CARR, page 5

Federal government to cut contributions to student aid

By Donita Polly

Daily Egyptian Correspondent

In an effort to relate to working-class citizens by reminding them of a pick-up truck, a U.S. Senate hopeful talked with SIU students in front of the Student Center Wednesday afternoon.

Pat Quinn, a consumer advocate and former Illinois State Treasurer (1991-1995), who now lives on Chicago's West Side, announced his candidacy for next year's U.S. Senate.

Quinn, a Democrat, said he is running a grassroots campaign out of a pick-up truck because he is trying to connect with the voters and meet them face to face.

"This is the biggest issue people care about in Illinois," Quinn said. "I'm trying to go door to door, town to town and

see QUINN, page 5
CONCEALED HANGUN BILL PASSED IN VIRGINIA—WASHINGTON—Court clerks across Virginia are being flooded with thousands of phone calls from people asking how they can get permits to carry concealed handguns once one of the nation's most permissive weapon laws goes into effect Saturday. Gun instructors, meanwhile, say they are having trouble keeping up with the requests for training that are pouring in from people planning to apply for permits under the new law, which will require judges to issue two-year licenses to virtually any law-abiding applicant who is at least 21 years old and has been trained to use a gun.

NATURAL BORN KILLERS ATTACKED BY DOLE—WASHINGTON—Senate Majority Leader Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., lobbed another grenade at Hollywood Tuesday, this time highlighting alleged links between a brutal killing in Massachusetts and the controversial movie "Natural Born Killers." Calling it a "shocking story" that "should send shivers down the spines of all Americans," Dole cited a Boston Herald article in which a suspect accused in the stabbing of an elderly man was quoted as allegedly bragging to a girlfriend afterward: "Haven't you ever seen 'Natural Born Killers' before?" Or course, no. The movie caused this brutal killing in Massachusetts," Dole said on the Senate floor. "We are all responsible for our own actions, period. But at the same time, those in the entertainment industry who deny that cultural messages can bore deep into the hearts and minds of our young people are deceiving themselves.

EDUCATION AND ENERGY TARGET OF GOP CUTS—WASHINGTON—Only a handful of departments, agencies and programs initially targeted by the Republicans for elimination or deep cuts appeared to have avoided the ax under the compromise GOP budget and tax package headed for final passage late this week. The most prominent survivors, of course, were the departments of Education and Energy, which had been part of a House-passed budget bill. They were spared; in conference after Senate Republican leaders raised strong objections. House Republicans signaled in budget conference reports released Tuesday that they weren't giving up their efforts to dismantle the two departments. But for now, the Senate and House could agree only on the elimination of the Commerce Department.

--From Daily Egyptian wire services

Accuracy Desk

If readers spot an error in a news article, they can contact the Daily Egyptian Accuracy Desk at 536-3311, extention 213 or 228.

Daily Egyptian Southern Illinois University at Carbondale

Editor-In-Chief: Sean J. Wheeler
Associate Student Editor: Emily Privett
Managing Student Editor: Warren Bentley
News Editor: Clark Clark
Sports Editor: William Smith
Photo Editor: Mike Daniel
Features Editor: Jennifer Evans
Editorial Board: Dylan McManus
Chief Photojournalist: Chris Beck
Website Editor: Ben Kaczynski
Administrative Assistant: Samantha Taylor

Daily Egyptian Southern Illinois University at Carbondale

Editorial Page Co-Editor: Michael Doolin
Editorial Page Co-Editor: Dave Nuttall
Editorial Page Co-Editor: Benjamin Breyer
Editorial Page Co-Editor: Jake Holby
Editorial Page Co-Editor: Emily Privett
Editorial Page Co-Editor: Tanya Nowak

Daily Egyptian Southern Illinois University at Carbondale

Editorial Page Co-Editor: Michael Doolin
Editorial Page Co-Editor: Dave Nuttall
Editorial Page Co-Editor: Benjamin Breyer
Editorial Page Co-Editor: Jake Holby
Editorial Page Co-Editor: Emily Privett
Editorial Page Co-Editor: Tanya Nowak

Daily Egyptian Southern Illinois University at Carbondale

Editorial Page Co-Editor: Michael Doolin
Editorial Page Co-Editor: Dave Nuttall
Editorial Page Co-Editor: Benjamin Breyer
Editorial Page Co-Editor: Jake Holby
Editorial Page Co-Editor: Emily Privett
Editorial Page Co-Editor: Tanya Nowak

Daily Egyptian Southern Illinois University at Carbondale

Editorial Page Co-Editor: Michael Doolin
Editorial Page Co-Editor: Dave Nuttall
Editorial Page Co-Editor: Benjamin Breyer
Editorial Page Co-Editor: Jake Holby
Editorial Page Co-Editor: Emily Privett
Editorial Page Co-Editor: Tanya Nowak
McCluskey acts show how everyone is involved

By Kristi Dehority
Daily Egyptian Reporter

Audiences may sometimes believe actors are the most important part of a musical, but they seem to forget the efforts put into the whole show by the people who are not on stage. The crew acts show how everyone is involved in the musicals and their efforts are just as important as the actors.

McCluskey acts show how everyone is involved

By Kristi Dehority
Daily Egyptian Reporter

Audiences may sometimes believe actors are the most important part of a musical, but they seem to forget the efforts put into the whole show by the people who are not on stage. The crew acts show how everyone is involved in the musicals and their efforts are just as important as the actors.

Disney plus mediocrity equals disappointing 'Pocahontas'

By Melissa Edwards

Pocahontas, a Native American who becomes something of a liaison between her people and his. In the Disney version, Pocahontas is the rebellious young daughter of the village chief who wonders over hill and dale searching for guidance in her life. While the rather barbaric English invade the Americas looking for gold, Pocahontas and Smith meet and fall in love almost instantly, thanks in large part to the spirit of the wind and the magic of animation. The relationship is silly, however, and although it is hard to develop much of a story on a G-rated animated basis, the audience at least deserves more than the love-at-first-sight tale we receive. Undoubtedly, the main attraction is about the only thing "Pocahontas" has going for it. In typical colorful Disney style, it is up to the audience to detail is retable. And with woodland creatures running around at ears, sidekicks, the film certainly has kid-appeal.

The soundtrack is also a plus for the film—Judy Kuhn's lovely Pocahontas voice definitely can send chills down an audience's collective spine. She even manages to salvage the somewhat corny lyrics. Unfortunately, the story is not plausible, and in the end it does not matter who wants to kill whom. The bad guy—the English governor—is not rotten enough to inspire disgust, and not even Mel Gibson's silky voice (as John Smith) can make the romance remotely interesting. Kids may love it and adults may not despise it, but they were wonder if it was worth $5. Simply put, 'Pocahontas' is not so much as it is disappointing.

Sun comes out as 'Annie' star returns to SIUC

By Dustin Coleman
DeFe Feature Editor

Playing the part of Daddy Warbucks the second time around has been a source of fun for McCluskey. McCluskey, a 1996 SIUC grad who also played the part in SIUC production as an undergraduate, is again playing the part in the current production. McCluskey said that the role has changed since his original role in 1996. This year's "Annie," George Penney, worked as the choreographer on "Aspects of Love" in 1984 with McCluskey, and said McCluskey has been a great performer to work with in the past and present.

"He is highly disciplined and very enjoyable to work with," he said. "And besides the working relationship, he is a very warm person.

To fully total the part, McCluskey said he had to be on his "best behavior" for the next few days before his first appearance in Annie. But problems arose when the sides of his face started to crinkle up and exposing his teeth. Since he was playing a role in the next show that called for a performer with a lot of hair, he couldn't shave his face. After a discussion with the director, we decided to shave my face," McCluskey said. "I had to find it easy to shave his face for the part. Besides performing in "Annie" while he was a student, he also played in several other performances including " Oklahoma! "The Music Man," and "Guys and Dolls."" McCluskey said some of his professional career highlights have been his parts in the "Barber of Seville" with the New York City Opera, the count in "The Marriage of Figaro," and playing in the U.S. premiere of "The Golem."
Get ready... new entry age hits Strip

The time has arrived for the bar entry age to increase. Although the decision to raise the bar entry age is a positive step and one based on the hope of ending the party image of SIUC, there is the potential for other problems to arise.

For those under 20 hoping to get into the bars Saturday, you may want to seek alternate forms of entertainment. As of midnight June 30, the bar entry age increases to 20 and you can bet it will be enforced to its maximum limit by local bar owner's.

City Clerk Janet Vaughn said although the age increases to 20 on Friday night, enforcement will not start until Saturday July 1.

Unfortunately raising the entry age will not solve everything and one problem that may arise with the increase is one that is not centered around the Strip, but in Champaign that may benefit. Raising the entry age when bars on the Strip close. Raising the bar entry age may cause an increase in the number of parties that are held out in town, resulting in more underage drinking and the potential for more danger.

Although students still feel cheated over the bar entry age increase, none are sure what happens in the future. Student's, no matter what the age, have an opportunity to keep themselves in check and take more responsibility for their actions, so the City Council will not have to anymore.

President/Chancellor name switch has heads spinning

In an effort to model themselves after the University of Illinois, the SIUC administration has managed to create more confusion than clarity with an issue far too many people couldn’t care less about.

At present, the SIU Board of Trustees is considering a change in titles between the office of the president and the office of the chancellor. The change would make the chancellor of SIUC the president of both SIU campuses and the presidents of both campuses chancellors. Why?

Apparently the change would clarify terminology used at SIU and the U of I and improve communication between the University and state legislature.

To clarify things current Chancellor James Brown said the change would minimize confusion. First of all what confusion there is between the two offices is as it is, the only confusion the change proposal has created is in the attempt to understand the whole issue in its entirety. Third, what kind of confusion will it create in the future?

President Guyon said the issue has only been briefly discussed and the change, if approved, would take quite some time. The question is, would approval take the same amount of time it took to decide on the new chancellor (or is it president)?

Commentary

Turkish occupation of Cyprus ignores U.S. foreign policies

On July 20, 1974, the Republic of Cyprus was invaded by Turkey, a member of NATO, resulting in the continued occupation of 37 percent of the territory of the Republic, the forced expulsion of 200,000 Greek Cypriots, new refugees, the unknown fate of 161,619 missing Greek Cypriots, the unknown fate of five missing American citizens, and the plundering of the Cyprus cultural, archaeological and religious heritage in the occupied area.

The international community has condemned the invasion and have continuously called for the withdrawal of the Turkish troops, a plea that has fallen on deaf ears. The government of the Republic of Cyprus is adamant that key, and lasting solution of the Cyprus problem must be a first step towards solving and implementing the fundamental and critical issues of the Cyprus problem, namely:

A) The withdrawal of the Turkish troops
B) Effective international guarantees
C) The three basic freedoms, namely freedom of movement, of ownership and of settlement.

Since the invasion, Turkey has refused to deal with these issues at all.

The Cyprus problem is one of invasion, continued occupation and the deprivation of basic human rights by Turkey. The respect for human rights is the heart and soul of the peace-loving people of Cyprus. They need your support to ensure that Turkey also respects basic human values and rights.

Do not allow Cyprus to become another forgotten problem.

Costas Christoforou
Graduate Student, Mechanical Engineering

Study says breast implants unlikely to harm the body

The latest study to find no link between silicone breast implants and a variety of connective tissue disorders underscores the conflict between science and dubious punitive damages. The study, done a month after the Dow Corning Corp. filed for bankruptcy to protect itself against legal claims from women. And it comes 15 months after Dow Corning and other manufacturers agreed to set up a $4.2 billion fund to pay claims — claims for which there is scientific and medical evidence.

The new study, from Harvard and the Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston, monitored 87,501 American women, and found that those who had breast implants were actually slightly less likely than others to develop some of the connective tissue disorders symptoms of other autoimmune diseases thought to be related to silicone implants.

The lessons are both complex and compelling. Silicone gel implants are no safer than saline implants and both have been found to cause adverse reactions in some women. But the study does suggest that there is no clear link between silicone implants and connective tissue disorders.

Quotable Quotes

"Only those who dare to fail greatly can ever achieve greatly." - Robert F. Kennedy

How to submit a letter to the editor:

A: You
B: Letter
C: Editor
Exasperated student offers uses for accumulating parking tickets

Cynthia Sheets

Perspectives

somewhere and need roadside assistance.
1. I have developed a certain quality for the little maroon tugs with the yellow flashing light. In the past, I used to ride out until they passed the blue lots to park my car. Now I just stick to the, because I figure by now I have paid for that not too much and it is right in front. I am also a plan to recycle the, at least come up with some alternative set.
2. Costers, paper towels or lip-stick blisters (last suggestion is for men).
3. Use them collectively as a sunshade for your car — just peel off the adhesive strip and paste to your windshield.
4. Put them on a friend’s car — if you don’t think this works, just ask someone.
5. Car floor mats — my tickets usually wind up there anyway, why not wipe your feet on them.
6. Give the meter reader and sticker prices hike up 50 percent this year, I will have to cut the cost of my gas, just keep them then off.
7. I do hope they put the exorbitant amount of money they are charging for good site, possibly to online more meter maid and more Division tracks so that they will not be able to charge their hard earned minimal student wages the tax I do, with Officer Meter should not be responsible for their bills of joy.
8. P.S. I park in a blue lot for my class at Paner from 9:30-10:30. Happy hunting!

Cynthia Sheets is a senior in Journalism from Golden.

Bar Specials

DRAFTS $2.50

Pickles $3.00

Sam Adams now on tap

KITCHEN IS NOW OPEN!

With Garden Dinner Salads

*The closest bar to campus

711 S. University
across from Wendy Hall near KINKOS

FOOD CARRIES OUT AVAILABLE

Relax and unwind

with

HOOTER’S FOOD & AFFORDABLE DRINKS

AFTER THE CONCERT

Student aid

continued from page 1

Study aid

continued from page 1

Upcoming

THE SPEER FAMILY: God, and Country Celebration Sunday, June 25, 5 p.m. in Turley Park. For more info, call 298-8080. The event will have an interest meeting for on-air DJ’s at 1 p.m. on the fourth floor of the Student Center in the radio station on July 6. For more info, call 298-8080.

INTERNATIONAL Programs and Services will have a hiking trip to Milestone Bluff and Bell Springs on July 8. For more info, call 529-7484. FREE MOTORCYCLE RIDE Classes on July 7 at 6 p.m. and on July 8 at 6:30 p.m. For more info, call 1-800-654-9596.

THE ART OF BREASTFEEDING & Overcoming Difficulties will be the topic at the monthly meeting of the human lactation Society on Tuesday, July 11 at 7 p.m. The meeting will be held at 122 Elstrom. For more info, call 547-1415, 457-5287, 529-4884 or 1-800-5633.

CLOSEOUT POLICY: The deadline for Calendar items is 10 a.m., new publication each Thursday. Calendar items and must include time, date, admission, name and price of event and the name and price of event. Items must be received at least one week prior to publication. Individuals or groups should send their calendar items to the Daily Egyptian newspaper. Items should be sent to the Daily Egyptian, Communications Building, Carbondale, IL 62901. Items must be called over the telephone.

WIDOWS will have an interest meeting for on-air DJ’s at 1 p.m. on the fourth floor of the Student Center in the radio station on July 6. For more info, call 298-8080.
By Carey Jane Aberton
Daily Egyptian Reporter

A Carbondale man found guilty of leading and organizing a crack cocaine distribution conspiracy has been sentenced to more than 33 years in prison for his role Monday.

U.S. District Judge William L. Beaty ordered Cleveland J. McDade, 26, to serve 342 months in prison, pay $72,000 in fines and serve five years of supervised release after his prison sentence is completed.

McDade was convicted March 31 of being a drug-cocaine distribution and possession of a firearm in the commission of a drug crime.

In a press release, United States Attorney for the Southern District of Illinois W. Charles Grace said McDade is considered to be an armed career criminal and career offender. Therefore, Grace said, McDade received an enhanced sentence under the Federal Sentencing Guidelines.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Raney R. Killian said McDade has one previous conviction for assault and five previous convictions for residential burglary.

An investigation by the FBI and the Southern Illinois Enforcement Group led to the conviction of McDade and co-conspirators Edward L. Mims, 29, of Carbondale.

Mims and McDade were charged for distributing 50 grams of crack cocaine in the Carbondale area known as "crack alley," Killian said the drug trafficking conspiracy included a federally-funded housing in Carbondale between May and July of 1994.

Mims was convicted for being a street-level seller of 50 grams of crack cocaine and for the use of a firearm in the course of a drug trafficking.

Cyberporn access is not exactly child's play

The Washington Post

Nudists and sadists and perverts, oh my!

This week’s cover of Time magazine trumpets a new study conducted at Carnegie Mellon University that found easy access to electronic networks. The headline is enough to make any self-respecting “good” roof run cold. “All the study shows how pervasive and wild it really is ...” is a fare-expectant,-lost-child child stars out from the cover, mouth agape.

The message: Keep your kid off the Internet.

But, in fact, that’s not what the actual study says.

“This is an important study, which will soon be published in the Georgetown University Law Journal, mostly describes the kind of pornographic material found in the “crack handbooks.” These services, which are typically not connected to the Internet, are not closely scrutinized. They usually involve a long-distance telephone call and require that users supply a password. Some require a fax of a driver’s license as proof of age. Others require a credit card number.

In spite of the hating images in The Times, a hand reaching out of a screen to grab innocent users, the Carnegie Mellon study isn’t about what appears in the newspapers, it’s about what people post messages for one another.

“It’s as if they have taken a study of adult bookstores in Times Square and generalized about what was in Barnes & Noble-worldwide,” concludes Mike Godwin, general counsel at the Electronic Frontier Foundation.

Time editors say they feel that their presentation was fair. “The percentage of pornographic material on the Internet isn’t the issue,” says Time Editor Norman Pearlstine. “It’s whether any of it is accessible to kids.”

Cyberporn access is not exactly child’s play.

The Fall Semester is Around the Corner!

Don’t Miss Your Chance
To Advertise in the

THE CAMPUS EDITION

- 1 Advertiser Minimum for Reaching SIUC Students
- Deadline July 17
- 10,000 Copies Mailed to Incoming Freshmen and Transfer Students
- Excellent Opportunity to Reach Non-SIUC Students
- Coming to SIUC
- 15,000 Distributed to Area Students & Residents

For More Information Call 536-3311

Daily Egyptian