SIU-C may lose work-study funds if not spent by FY '85

By Jay Small
Staff Writer

SIU-C may have to send large truns of money earmarked for College Work-Study back to the federal government if the funds are not used by the end of fiscal year 1984, the University's top financial aid official said Thursday.

Joe Camille, director of student work and financial assistance, said financial aid officers are being instructed to fill student work openings for the rest of the semester with students who are eligible for work-study funds.

The effort, he said, is to spend more of the allocation so that next year's outlay will not be reduced.

Camille said $17 million has been allocated for work-study at SIU-C in FY '84. The government allows SIU-C to hold back 16 percent of that sum, or $2.7 million, for distribution in FY '85 but more than that may be unwise at year's end, Camille said.

"About a month ago, we calculated that if expenditures kept going the way they were, we'd have more than $17 million left over at the end of fiscal 1984," Camille said. "That leaves a real possibility of giving money back to the government."

If, for example, $18 million of the allocation is unspent at the end of FY '84, $1 million will go back to the federal government, and SIU-C's work-study allocation for FY '85 will be reduced by the same amount, according to Camille.

He could not estimate how much of the allocation might be handed back to Uncle Sam, but he said the University is keeping close track of work-study expenditures.

Although the move to hire work-study students for new jobs is on, currently employed students whose work-study awards run out early will not receive extensions from the remaining funds, Camille said.

"That's a different problem," he said. "Once we award a sum - that's all we can award. The cost of attendance hasn't gone up.

"The fact that we have funds left over doesn't mean we can give a blanket extension to work-study students," he said.

Camille said work-study awards are determined by subtracting family contributions and gift aid from the cost of attending the University.

"Any student who is running out of work-study awards should contact a financial adviser," Camille said. "Sometimes something can be worked out.

Camille said the University has not returned work-study funds to the government in the past.

Spring at last?

Jean and Irma Erickson took advantage of Thursday's sunny weather by taking a walk on their property on Chautauqua Road. But on Friday night the weather turned cloudy and cool temperatures.

Gus says he ways works for sure! Gus says the guy who says workfare is great stuff has a job, of course.

WIN program funded by a $1.5 billion federal block grant, is mandated by the State Youth Empowerment Program.

The $1 million program, in early stages now and under the scrutiny of the Herien-based project two weeks ago, will work with so-called "slave labor" and that a mandatory program would compose the unemployment problem in the region.

Phil Hatmaker, IWEF director, said that workfare would be created to encourage job search, but on a long-term basis it would help provide job experience and job skills and give a reference for employment.

Ten of 34 Williamson County public aid recipients with dependent children in the program have already received workfare payments for three months in public and private non-profit organizations at minimum wage for 40 to 60 hours a month, depending on the family size and the benefits already received.

The intent of workfare, which could affect about 2,500 of the state's jobless who are on public assistance, is not to displace those already employed, he emphasized.

But, he said, the independent workfare participants must "try" to do the best they can in order to receive benefits.

Board of Education IWEF director Prena Castrale, Ronald McAfee, head of the Work Incentives Program, and Hatmaker met with project members for more than two hours in the morning in the Herien Post Office.

Hatmaker said that IWEF is mandated because the state is trying to address a public sentiment which expresses that those who can work should not be receiving funds, and because of a fiscal pinch he says it's not possible to make layoffs in private industries because employers might move, or they could profit by using those in the workfare program at no cost.

Hatmaker responded that the state has the right to make it voluntary because employers might move, or they could profit by using those in the workfare program at no cost.

"We could remove the voluntary status at any time at the expense of violating the federal statute, which could mean risking the loss of federal block grants," he continued.

Hatmaker said he realizes it's difficult and tiring for a person to keep a job.

Action, Trojan parties ready to begin USO race

By John Stewart
Staff Writer

Both groups aiming to slate candidates in the April 18 Undergraduate Student Organization election have set down plans in anticipation of the start of official campaigning on March 28.

Andy Leighton, presidential candidate for the newly formed Action Party, said his group will try to obtain 3,000 signatures on its petition. Only 300 are necessary for a party to appear on the ballot and Action has over 1,000 now, Leighton said. Printed painter's caps, buttons, bumper stickers, lunches and media advertisements will also be used to familiarize students with Action's name and its stands.

The Trojan Party will run an issue oriented campaign, designed to stir student interest and ultimately large voter turnout, according to Ron Orr, Trojan vice presidential candidate.

A large voter turnout would lend credibility to USO in dealing with campus administration, he said.

"We could point to past Trojan successes to say we're not. There are other things to be done as well," Orr said.

Brantley, Trojan presidential candidate, said there are about 275 student candidates running, most of whom aren't incubent.

"The only thing that's old is our name - Trojan's a new organization," Brantley said.

Leighton said he wants to change that, along with bringing in new ideas, and enthusiasm to the senate.

Brantley, chairman of the USO Senate, said he wants to promote SIU-C's good points to prospective freshmen, and he favors exploring options to obtain additional state funds instead of increasing student tuition.

Special prosecutor may probe Meese's finances

WASHINGTON (AP) - Executive Mansion sources said Thursday for the appointment of a special prosecutor to make a "rapid, impartial investigation of the charges of political and financial improprieties that may have jeopardized his prospect of becoming attorney general.

The source, acting after the disclosure - latest in a series of his finances - that he failed to pay income taxes on several hundred dollars' interest on savings in the White House Credit Union.

President Reagan said he has full confidence in "this trusted colleague for 17 years," and that Meese would remain as presidential counselor pending the probe.

The director of the Illinois Work Experience Program on Thursday told members of the Local Project that workfare "was a part of the solution" to the percent unemployment, problem in Southern Illinois.

Two convicted, two acquitted in barroom gang rape case

By Fred Bayles
Of the Associated Press

FALL RIVER, Mass. (AP) — A jury on Thursday convicted two men of aggravated rape and acquitted two others of all charges in the case of a woman who was gang-raped on a barroom pool table while spectators cheered.

Two other men were convicted earlier of lesser charges in a separate trial with a separate jury, in a highly publicized case that had become a rallying point for women's rights groups when it was reported a year ago that a 22-year-old woman had been attacked in Big Dan's saloon in New Bedford.

The jury convicted Victor Raposo and John Cardello, who witnesses testified tried to have oral sex with the woman while she was passed out against the table. It acquitted Virgilio Medeiros and Jose Medeiros. Witnesses said they tried to interfere with effort to stop or report the assault, but no one directly linked them to the rape.

Raposo is expected to take the stand before Monday. The guilty verdict could receive life terms, and federal authorities may move to deport them.

The jury of six men and six women deliberated about seven hours.

the probe which could take months, and the conviction of the last defendant in the midst of the election campaign.

Edwin Thomas, the friend whose interest-free loan to Mrs. Meese was reported in last week's Journal, said in a separate trial with a jury that the last time he saw Meese was in Europe, "at the last minute decided to purchase a Mercedes." Another friend, Thomas said, loaned Mrs. Meese money when they were "out of the city in 1981 and it was the last day to pay their taxes."

Meese issued a statement that he was sure he would be cleared of "the misrepresentations and baseless charges which have been raised in this political year by those who oppose my nomination."

looking for a job after talking to 25 or 30 potential employers. He said he understood that some counties don't even have 25 employers.

The counties where workfare is being tested will be reviewed for six months to see whether the program will be expanded, said McAtee, who added that it would be too costly to make it a statewide program.

"Some of the things we're doing for people, in WIN and TWEPS, will make the jobless much more employable," said McAtee. "But TWEPS is not the solution for all the unemployed."

WIN participants must attend weekly meetings and look for 40 jobs during a two-month period or else lose public aid. McAtee said 400 people statewide lose public aid every month for not cooperating with WIN.
Amtrak board approves route

By Bruce Kirkham

The Amtrak board of directors Thursday gave unanimous approval for an April 29 start-up of a passenger train route that will link St. Louis, with stops in Belleville, Centralia, and Orleans, and to the 1984 World's Fair, which begins May 11 in New Orleans, Marciniak said.

The new route, which will be called the "River Cities" route, will provide one roundtrip daily between Carbondale and St. Louis, according to Debbie Marciniak, spokesman for Amtrak.

The "River Cities" route is part of an extension of the "Missouri Mule" route, which currently runs between Kansas City and St. Louis.

The Amtrak board of directors decided a decision on the route on Feb. 15, citing operating and scheduling problems.

A major reason for the establishment of the new route is to make transportation available for 7.9 million people from St. Louis and connections farther west to the 1984 World's Fair, which begins May 11 in New Orleans, Marciniak said. Amtrak estimates 55,000 people will use the "River Cities" route in its first year of operation, Marciniak said.

Amtrak President Graham Clayton Jr. projects that the route will produce a profit in its first year, which will help Amtrak reduce its dependence on federal subsidies, Marciniak said.

Amtrak board of directors delayed a decision on the route on Feb. 15, citing operating and scheduling problems.

Barry Williams, spokesman for the National Association of Railroad Passengers, said that trains are expected to depart Carbondale about 3:50 a.m. and arrive in St. Louis about 5:50 a.m. Trains will depart St. Louis about 9:50 a.m. and arrive in Carbondale about midnight.

Time tables for new routes are usually readjusted after six months, Williams said.

Amtrak rejected a route directly linking Carbondale and St. Louis because capital improvements were expected to cost about $4 million, Williams said.

The Centralla link will require about $500,000 in capital improvements for a passenger platform in Belleville and track connection improvements at East St. Louis and Centralia, Williams said.

The "River Cities" route will use Illinois Central Gulf tracks between Carbondale and Belleville, and Norfolk Southern Railroad tracks between Belleville and St. Louis, Williams said.

Amen the overall presidential vote in Illinois, as he was in Pennsylvania, Hart is at a disa-} cantage. While Mondale has a full slate of 117 district delegates, Hart has only 65. Thus, even if Hart should win the popular vote, Mondale could end up with more delegates because he has more on the ballot.

In Illinois, Mondale had a full slate of delegates in all 22 congressional districts, while Hart had delegates slated in only 19.

Haims said he expected Hart to do better than he did in Jackson County, although Hart did best Mondale in the county.

Staff Writer

Although many Southern Illinois counties name association had a lot of bearing on delegate voting, Hart workers canvassed the region up until late in the afternoon on election day, letting voters know who to vote for, which may also have contributed to the delegate victory, he said.

In the state primary Mondale won 97 delegates, Hart, 39, and New Orleans, 2.

In the upcoming blood drive, April 2, AMU students will go door to door to inform them on their positions. Brantley said they would be available to talk to students and to solicit their votes.

Both Brantley and Leighton said they would speak to registered student groups to inform them on their positions and to seek their support. Both said they would agree to a debate, but nothing has been arranged yet.

Meese not the pick for attorney general

Meese not the pick for attorney general

In what one member of the Senate Judiciary Committee has termed "election-year cannibalism," U.S. attorney general nominee Edwin Meese III has been undergoing a slow roasting in his confirmation hearings.

The Senate Constitution, Commerce, and Government Operations Committee, which Meese chaired when he was in the House of Representatives, was a haven for those who wanted to make him vulnerable. His appointment has been controversial, mainly because his wife, Gretchen, was given government jobs, including a job in a federally funded organization in which she had a financial stake. She also failed to report her financial interests on government forms.

The committee's investigation has been conducted by the Senate Government Operations Committee, which is chaired by Senator Frank Church, a Democrat from Idaho. Church has been critical of Meese's appointment, saying that he is not qualified to be attorney general.

3 campus buildings blacked out

By Terry Levecke
Staff Writer

Problems with an underground cable between Lawson Hall and Life Science II caused a blackout in Lawson Hall, Kelby Hall and half of the Communications Building from 6:30 a.m. to about 1:45 p.m. Thursday.

Ten maintenance employees worked to restore electricity by rerouting power lines to draw off a feeder serving Small Group Housing, said Harrel Lerch, superintendent of building maintenance. The underground cable will be inspected Friday, weather permitting, Lerch said.

"We've never had a problem there before," Lerch said. The nature of the problem cannot be determined until it is investigated, he said.

The outage blacked out the south end of the Communications Building and left WSIU-FM unable to receive National Public Radio, said Irene Weibel, the station's assistant manager. But the station was able to broadcast the Morning Edition news show via telephone lines from SIU-E.

The next NPR show was not scheduled to air until 5 p.m. so no further program interruptions were expected. WSIU-TV had to delay broadcasts from its scheduled 7:29 a.m. sign-on to 1:54 p.m., when power was restored. An auxiliary power system enabled the radio station to broadcast, but did not service the television station.

The first day of pleasant weather in weeks was made a little nicer for students with classes in the buildings that lost power, where classes were canceled until 2 p.m.

1,000 volunteers needed for Special Olympics

By Shell Rogers
Staff Writer

At 9:30 a.m. April 26, about 600 special athletes will parade through McAndrew Stadium to kick off the 17th annual Southern Illinois Special Olympics. To help make the day a success, the sponsors, which are the SIU-C Recreation Department, the Carbondale Park District and the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation, are seeking about 1,000 volunteers, said E. L. Pavledes, track and field chairman for the games. An orientation meeting for volunteers will be held at 7:30 p.m., April 18 in Lawson Hall room 161.

The athletes are from the counties of Jackson, Perry, Union, Williamson, Johnson, Alexander, Massac and Pulaski. Pavledes said the Special Olympics have grown considerably in past years and that is why the games are limited to certain counties. He said that the Southern Illinois region used to cover every county south of Effingham, but the regions had to be broken up due to the popularity of the games.

Every participant will receive a ribbon, and medals will go to the first, second and third-place finishers. Events include the 50-yard dash, the 220 and the 440, the mile relay and the Freeburg mile. The Freeburg mile is named after William Freeburg, a Carbondale resident and the founder of the Southern Illinois Special Olympics, who will be one of the dignitaries at the games. Other events include the softball and frisbee throw, the wheelchair race, the standing long jump and the high jump.

Pavledes said that the participants are thrilled about the games. "They love it. Some of them wear their ribbons to bed with them," he said. "Some of them will show up to the games with every ribbon they have ever won around their neck."

Volunteers are needed to pick the first through sixth-place finishers in each track event to organize and place the athletes in their proper lanes or positions for an event, to help start the events and to walk the results to the press box. Also needed are recorders to record the winning results, a clean-up crew and huggers, to encourage and greet the athletes at the finish line.

"The requirements to be a volunteer are a big smile and a willingness to help," Pavledes said. Volunteers can contact Pavledes at 529-4147, Karen Hamilton at 536-2166 or Sue Lipe at 536-2166 or 942-6040.

Another concert fizzles: Yes ‘reschedules’ out
By Joe Walter
Staff Writer

Fellowing in the path of several before it, the Yes concert slated for April 27 in the SIU Arena has been canceled. This is the fifth rock concert scheduled for the Arena that did not materialize during the 1983-84 school year. The other groups that canceled were Asia, Neil Young, the Kinks and, most recently, Ozzy Osborne.

According to an Arena press release, the concerts following the group's Caribbean show will move the band eastward toward Pennsylvania. Therefore, the band is considering a more eastern site, such as Kent State University in Ohio, for the April 27 appearance.

Arena Director Gary Drake said that Yes did not actually cancel but rescheduled their tour. He added that the group might appear at the Arena in the fall.

Drake said the concert probably was rescheduled because the population is not as dense around SIU-C as it is around Kent State. Kent State is near Youngstown, Akron, Cleveland and Canton - a population area of several million.

"They had the opportunity to make more money," Drake said, "and I can't blame them."

Although Drake said this has been an exceptionally bad year for cancellations, he also said that the SIU Arena was not alone in its problems. He said that he was told that the University of Illinois has had three shows cancel.

"The bands that canceled here canceled everywhere," Drake said. "When Ozzy Osborne gets sick, what can you do? When one of the Kinks goes crazy, what can you do? When Asia wants to make an MTV special, what can you do?"

Military plans to hold maneuvers in Gulf of Mexico
WASHINGTON (AP) - U.S. sea, ground and air units totaling more than 30,000 troops will conduct a major exercise in the Caribbean-Gulf of Mexico area in April and May in another demonstration of U.S. ability to protect its interests and its friends there, it was announced Thursday.

The Pentagon denied that Ocean Venture '84 is connected with any recent events in Central America, such as the civil war in El Salvador. However, the wording of the announcement left a strong impression that the maneuvers are intended to flex U.S. military muscle as a signal to such countries as Nicaragua and Cuba.

"The exercise is expected to enhance the perception of the capability of the U.S. to project military power, when necessary, to protect our national interests by supporting our friendly neighbors in the Caribbean Basin."

Workshop, call for election halt open Central American Week

By Chris Ogboadieh Staff Writer

The second annual National Central American Week began with a seminar on how Christian action can contribute to peace and a call for the suppression of election violence in elections that are scheduled to take place.

The secretary of the Central American Week organizing committee, Linda Mear, said the U.S. government should halt its support for the government in El Salvador because that country is in the midst of war. Meanwhile, elections are said, can be held only if there is peace in the country.

"It is useless to hold the elections," she said. "The elections serve no positive purpose but instead seek to legitimize the military dictatorship."

Participants in the workshop, held at the Newman Center, watched a 35-minute film, "Seeds of Liberty: Maryknoll Missionaries in El Salvador," a short account of the involvement of the church in the liberation of the Salvadoran poor from political and economic oppression.

According to Trivel, the three presidential candidates in the Salvadoran elections represent an oligarchy which used its control of media to deny participation. He said they are the candidates for the rich.

He said Americans generally don't understand repression and denial of participation in elections. He said the elections in El Salvador are like those in apartheid South Africa.

"The only difference," he noted, "is that in South Africa, the majority is denied participation on basis of color while in El Salvador denial is on political creed."

Trivel said the workshop had been organized to enlighten the public on U.S. policies in Central America and to discuss "our urgent concerns" about effects of that policy.

"It is also to determine what we as Christians are going to do," he said.

According to Trivel, a lot of information about U.S. involvement in Central America is not made available in the mass media.

"The media," he said, "has not met its responsibilities to inform the citizenry factually and independently of vested interests."

Trivel expressed optimism that Christians could assist in bringing peace to Central America partly by informing the public of the events in the region.

"If we form ongoing support groups to organize change programs, addressing Congress and those private corporate institutions which dictate U.S. foreign policy," he said.

The Central American Week begins Friday with a free dinner at 6:30 at the Wesley Foundation. Robert Gold, history professor, will speak on "Background Information on Central America." Following the dinner, Central American crafts will also be exhibited for sale.

The week's activities continue at 10 a.m. Saturday with a lecture by William Garner, political science professor, on "U.S. National Interest in Central America."

A panel discussion on current perspectives in Central America will be held at 1 p.m. in the Student Center T.Bees Room. The week winds up with a full evening program, a movie, "The Ice Pirates," scheduled for 4 p.m. at the Wesley Foundation Chapel, 815 S. Illinois Ave.

Husband, wife team parted by mine accident

VULCAN, W.Va. (AP) - J.C. Staten says a rock fall that permanently disabled his wife has convinced him that husband and wife coal mining teams aren't necessarily a good idea.

Staten's 35-year-old wife, Linda, was working beside her husband last month at Old Coal Co.'s Tower No. 28 in Mingo County when a slab of slate the size of a car hood and three inches thick fell on her head.

She suffered brain damage, broke her left arm and lost an eye in the accident.

Mrs. Staten spent three days in the hospital after the accident and says she was told at one point she probably wouldn't survive.

"We met each other in that mine," said Staten, 35. "We worked side-by-side many a time.

"Now, I say a married couple should work in the same area of a mine," he said. "If there was a mine accident and both got killed, who'd be left to take care of the children?"

The new police recruits. Call them slobs. Call them jerks. Call them gross. Just don't call them when you're in trouble.
The cancer death rate among American children has fallen at least 44 percent in the last three decades, largely as a result of improved therapy, a study says.

The study by researchers at the National Cancer Institute says the number of leukemia deaths each year among children under age 15 fell by more than half between 1960 and 1980.

Death rates among children for other less common forms of cancer — such as Hodgkin's disease and kidney tumors — fell even more sharply over the same period, according to the study, which appeared in .Prev. 31, through April 26, in the Recreation Center Golf Room.

Study: Cancer deaths among children down

CHICAGO (AP) — The cancer death rate among American children has fallen at least 44 percent in the last three decades, largely as a result of improved therapy, a study says.

The study by researchers at the National Cancer Institute says the number of leukemia deaths each year among children under age 15 fell by more than half between 1960 and 1980.

Death rates among children for other less common forms of cancer — such as Hodgkin’s disease and kidney tumors — fell even more sharply over the same period, according to the study, which appeared in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The decline in the cancer death rate among children has been most pronounced since 1960, the study said. In the period 1960-1979, there were 17,000 cancer deaths among children than would have been expected had 1950 death rates prevailed, the study said.

Though cancer death rates generally have been on the decline, the number of children who are born with certain types of cancer is increasing, according to a study by the American Cancer Society.

In a news release, Dr. Robert W. Miller of the institute’s Cancer Epidemiology Branch, said, “In our study, there were 17,000 fewer cancer deaths among children than would have been expected had 1950 death rates prevailed, the study said.”

Regarding the decline in cancer death rates generally, Dr. Miller said, “In conclusion, our study indicates that 17,000 people who are alive today would not have been expected to survive 30 years ago,” Miller said. In a phone interview from Bethesda, Md.

State fluoridation law under attack

By Christine Gerchel
Of the Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — A lawyer for an anti-fluoridation group told the Illinois Supreme Court on Thursday that the state failed to prove that fluoride was safe in requiring its use in municipal water supplies.

Justices heard oral arguments in a 16-year-old challenge to the state law that says communities must put fluoride in their water supply.

The arguments focused not only on the safety of the chemical but also on whether the Legislature, or the courts, have the responsibility to decide the issue.

Fluoridation, promoted as a way of fighting tooth decay, has been required in most Illinois communities since the late 1960s. An estimated 10.6 million citizens drink fluoridated water. Some smaller towns are exempt from the requirement.

The Illinois Pure Water

Committee of Alton complained in a suit filed in 1984 that fluoride can cause cancer and has other harmful effects.

After a long delay caused in large part by the extensive evidence presented in pre-trial

documents, Madison County

Circuit Judge Ronald Niemann ruled in 1991 that fluoridation of water is unconstitutional. He ordered the Alton Water Co. to stop putting fluoridation in its water supply.

Niemann based his ruling on the scientific evidence presented and on a section of the Illinois Constitution that says everyone has a "right to a beautiful environment."

Cahokia Mounds stock on rise as a U.S. 'wonder of world'

The Cahokia Mounds Historic Site, near Collinsville, Ill., provides Illinois with "a small wonder of the world," said Milton Harrington, managing director of the Cahokia Mounds Museum Society.

"We're trying to alert them to the fact that we have a small wonder of the world right here in reach of all Illinoisans. A lot of people know where Cahokia is, but have seen it, but they don't appreciate it. But this world wonder is growing in interest," Harrington said.

The 77-year-old Harrington doesn't understand why some Illinoisans fail to appreciate the ancient, grass-covered mounds, which peak at 104 feet.

"When I was 12 years old I tramped all over the mound," he said, "and I loved it. And I still do. It's really an awe-inspiring site."

The mounds, two miles west of this southwestern Illinois city, were built by an advanced and complex Indian civilization about A.D. 1,100, archeologists believe.

In October, the United Nations Education, Science and Cultural Organization named the state-owned mounds to the World Heritage List. There are nine other American sites, including Yellowstone National Park, Great Canyon National Park in Arizona and Independence Hall in Philadelphia.

As other sites on the list include the Great Pyramid of Cheops and Mount Everest.

Malaysians rate American traits

Americans tend to be friendly, outspoken, casual and financially, "wonderful people," said Ahmeds, 135 of 1,000 Malaysians surveyed said Americans in a recent survey done as part of a research on the American marketing students.

About 68 percent of the 130 Malaysians surveyed said Americans have little understanding of events outside the U.S., and 79 percent said Americans lack knowledge of the cultural backgrounds of foreign students.

About 1,300 Malaysian students are enrolled at SIU-C, and most of those surveyed were students in the colleges of Liberal Arts, Business, and Administration and Education.

Newman's hearty volunteers reach out in many directions

By Alice McCourt
Student Writer

For Janine Trapp, a short drive north on Illinois 51 every Wednesday means games of pool, ping-pong, basketball and special friendship matches. The volunteer work for Trapp means equally as much to her as the Anna Mental Health and Developmental Center does to the volunteering in Marion.

"We have an attachment to those at Anna," said Trapp. "It gives me a good feeling to be able to help."

Trapp is one of eight volunteers in the Newman Center's Anna program, now in its 14th year. The program is one of a series of the Newman Center's volunteer programs titled Heart to Heart. The activities at Anna offer a sense of personal satisfaction for all those involved, according Myrtle Beck, coordinator of the volunteer services for the program.

"If volunteers committed to the Anna program, Beck believes the opportunity is there for them to find lasting experience. Where the patients are concerned some take it more serious than others. A lot of them don't know the day of the week, but they love it for the opportunity to help those from the volunteers to come."

"They told me what an inspiration it is having us come here," said Karen Ryan, volunteer for the Marion program. Ryan, an administration of justice major, feels she is learning a lot about her field from working with the residents at Marion.

Tapes, movies, discussion and prayer are the mix of a second Heart to Heart community outreach program, weekly visits to the minimum security camp of the Marion Federal Penitentiary.

The Rev. Tom Lamb chaplain at the prison, says that the visits to the prison illustrate to the inmates that people on the outside are interested in their lives.

Volunteers can build friendships with senior citizens in the community through two community outreach programs. Volunteers can make visits to the Carbondale Manor Nursing Home or visit seniors in their homes each week through the Friendly Visiting Program. Most often, time is spent writing letters, reading and just talking with senior citizens.

Cathy Glover, volunteer coordinator at the Senior Citizens Center, said visits with Friendly Visiting has found that students who are away from or miss their grandparents really appreciate this type of volunteer program.

Glover expresses the realization it offers senior citizens: "People care about them."

Reaching younger members of the community with special needs—whether those needs be academic, social or personal—is the purpose of yet another program offered by the Newman Center.

The Big Brother-Big Sister Program refers volunteers to the Hill House Outpatient Center or the Jackson County Youth Services Bureau, a local social service agency.

According to Kathy Keefe, graduate of University Studies and coordinator of the volunteer efforts of the Heart to Heart program, the children whom the volunteers reach often need a role model.

"A lot of them come from broken homes," Keefe said. "They don't see their parents a lot or there are other domestic problems. They might have hard times at school or could be in a little bit of trouble."

Keefe believes offering the youths some positive influence by including them in activities such as volleyball or cookouts, taking them out to movies or just for a walk can curb some deliquent behavior.

Shippers work to restore rail line

ANCHOR (AP) — When legal efforts to prevent the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad from abandoning the Bloomer Line failed, the shippers decided to seek state and federal help to take over the 53-mile route.

Shippers will buy and rebuild the discontinue railroad and it will again carry grain and fertilizer through one of the richest farming areas in the nation.

They will use $5 million from the Federal Railroad Administration, $375,000 from the state, and about $600,000 of their own money to upgrade a 33-mile portion of the line. It runs from Colfax in McLean County to Kempston in Ford County. It marks the end of a seven-year battle to keep the Bloomer Line from meeting the fate of many of the branch lines that serve rural America: extinction.
Study grants up to $2,000 offered by real estate group

By Alice McCourt
Student Writer

Eight or more scholarships, ranging from $500 to $2,000 or more, are available to college students in real estate studies for fall 1984. Awarded by the Illinois Real Estate Educational Foundation, the scholarships are of three different types, each with its own eligibility requirements.

Any resident of Illinois who is enrolled in a certificate or degree program in a real estate-related field at an accredited college or university in Illinois may apply for a scholarship from the foundation's general fund. Amounts range from $500 to $1,000. Scholarship in amounts of $2,000 or more are available to University of Illinois students from the foundation's Thomas F. Sevy Fund. Eligibility is limited if Illinois residents are students at any accredited college or university in the nation.

Other scholarships of $2,000 or more are available to University of Illinois students, from the foundation's Morgan L. Fitch Fund. Applications may be obtained locally from the Illinois Board of Realtors, 117 N. 10th St., Mount Vernon, or by writing to the foundation in care of the Illinois Association of Realtors, Rooms 400-3300 Adluff Lane, Springfield, Ill., 62703.

Applications must be completed and returned to the foundation's Springfield office by May 1, with academic transcripts and a letter of recommendation by June 15.

Selection of scholarship recipients is based on the applicant's academic qualifications and recommendations and references.

Open hearing on merit pay set

An open hearing for faculty members wishing to discuss the establishment of a University policy regarding merit pay guidelines will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. Friday in Gagey Hall 118.

Joel Zucker, chairman of last year's Faculty Committee to Study Evaluation Procedures, has asked speakers to provide written comments in advance, but additional statements will be accepted from the floor if time permits.

The evaluation procedures committee is expected to begin the hearing with the discussion of system for evaluation proposed by the Graduate Council's Educational Policies Committee, which Thiear also chairs.

The Graduate Council voted unanimously March 1 to support the proposed system, which suggested that faculty should have input and knowledge of materials on which merit decisions are made, and that those decisions be made on the academic department level. The system also provides that departments must relate merit to faculty job descriptions, which would have to be filed with the vice president for academic affairs, and suggests a merit plan for administrators.
Barney's heart team awaits second chance

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A year after the death of artificial heart recipient Barney Clark, doctors who once hoped to save thousands of dying patients with the plastic organ are sti

Still, Joyce said, "It's a shame we have gone a whole year now. It's almost disrespectful to him (Clark) that we haven't done any more implants."

After receiving IRB approval, DeVries began evaluating potential recipients, but now has stopped until the FDA decides.

"The nature of (heart) disease is such that patients don't have very much time. It's quite discouraging when they die," Lee said.

DeVries is still conducting training for the heart team and has trained other surgeons in case Joyce, who has moved to Minneapolis, is unavailable.

Clark's widow, Una Loy, says she's "a little disappointed" that the FDA hasn't yet approved a second implant.

Clark's widow, Una Loy, says she's "a little disappointed" that the FDA hasn't yet approved a second implant. "I'm very eager to see the program go forward," she said. "It was through such fault of the artificial heart that my husband passed away."

The conference will begin with registration at 8 a.m. and is scheduled to conclude at 7 p.m. on April 4.

Speakers will be Ira Markwood, Illinois Environmental Protection Agency; Donald Rossohnn, Ralph L. Evans, John Erickson and Stan Changnon, Illinois Water Survey; and James F. Crews, Army Corps of Engineers.
Defending champion Malaysia, 8 others set for soccer tourney

By Chris Ogbonnaya
Staff Writer

After months of planning and preparation, all is set for International Soccer Fest '84, which kicks off at 1 p.m. Saturday at McAndrew Stadium.

Nine teams — divided into two groups — will be trading hard tackles for honor and glory in the month-long round-robin tournament.

Group A will consist of defending champion Malaysia, Latin America, India and U.S.A., while Group B will be made up of Greece, Africa, Pars, Palestine and the United Nations.

"We are introducing a new dimension into the semifinals," said Niyi Bello, the commissioner for the championships. "Instead of knockouts, we will have a round robin and whichever teams that finish best will clash in the finals.

With one day to kickoff, soccer enthusiasts might be wondering whether the Malaysians will be able to produce the soccer fireworks that shot them to back-to-back consecutive championship victories.

Although nothing is being taken for granted, the Malaysians are expected to qualify for the semifinals. Team U.S.A. has been revamped, but it is likely it will drop from playoff action along with India after their first-round play. This may propel Latin America and Malaysia to the semifinals in group A.

The group B games are more difficult to predict. The Greeks will be holding almost the same team that finished second last season. The Greek right fielder is not returning to the team. But they will be entering the field Saturday against Africa with newcomer Nikos Mirtidis, who has had a respectable professional soccer career in Greece.

Mirtidis will be leading Greece's trio-forward. It is doubtful, though, if he still has the form and flair he had while playing in his country some years ago.

The African team, which had been plagued in the past by injuries, will have to be better organized this season under new team manager Jim Lawson. Even with this improvement in the team, the Africans may not be a force in group B. The absence of the team's prolific striker, Camara, and midfield schemer, Sam Nwou (who is nursing a leg injury), leaves a question mark on the performance of the Africans. They will have to bring out everything in their soccer bag in order to qualify from this group.

The other teams in group B — Pars, Palestine and United Nations — are not going to be pushovers. In the last indoor season, for example, Pars trounced the vaunted Greek team 7-1.

McGirr, men golfers seek win

By George Pappas

The SIU-C men's golf team will travel to Evanville, Ind., this weekend to take part in the nine-team, 18-hole Aces-Oak Meadow Invitational.

The Salukis are hoping to improve on their sixth-place finish (of 767) in the UI Sunshine Invitational over spring break. To do so, they will have to make their way from Xavier, Evansville and Indiana State at Evanville.

The competition in Evanville will not be as tough as in Florida, Saluki Coach Mary Beth McGirr said. She is confident of her squad winning the invitational. "Most of the schools entered in this tournament are smaller schools," McGirr said. "I sincerely think we can win this one."

McGirr will take five players to the invitational: Scott Briggs, John Schaefer, Tom Jones, Tim Sass and J.D. Tomlinson.

According to Evansville sports information, the Oak Meadow Golf Club was in a muddy condition Wednesday, but the tournament will still be played. McGirr said this could change the scores some. "The ball doesn't bounce off the fairway and keep rolling," McGirr said. "It just sinks into the mud."

Florida, the Salukis shot four rounds of golf for a score of 1,258, averaging $1.13 per player. The Salukis were led in Florida by Briggs, who had a 331. His best day's score was 78. Schaefer and Jones tied for second on the Salukis scoring card with a 336. Schaefer's best day in Florida was a 76. Sass shot a 336 and Tomlinson, who played as an independent, shot a 332.

White Sox win; Cardinals fall

By the Associated Press

Tom Brennan, Salome Barajas and Bert Roberge combined on a four-hitter as the Baltimore Orioles defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1 in spring training baseball games Thursday.

The loss was the fifth in a row for the Dodgers, leaving them with a 7-10 record in the spring. The White Sox have an 11-7 mark.

Both Chicago runs were unearned. The Dodgers committed three errors, giving them seven errors in their last two games and 27 in the spring. Tim Hulett and Julio Cruz opened the Chicago fifth inning with singles off Laing pitcher Rich Rodas. One out later, Rudy Law reached first base on a throwing error by Los Angeles second baseman Steve Sax that loaded the bases. Rodas then walked Scott Fletcher to force home Hulett with the only run the White Sox would need.

In the seventh, with Tom Niedenfuer pitching, Cruz got an infield single with one out and went all the way to third on a throwing error by Niedenfuer. Cruz scored as Greg Walker grounded out. Steve Yeager had two of the Dodgers' four hits, both singles. Brennan got the victory, blanking Los Angeles on three hits over the first five innings. He walked two and struck out two.

The Orioles, 12-6 in exhibition games, scored the winning run in the eighth inning when rookie catcher Al Pardo drove shortstop Cal Ripken Jr. home with a sacrifice fly. Ripken homered in the sixth inning.

The Cardinals, 4-12 in spring training, opened the scoring in the fifth inning when David Green doubled and scored on a single by Darrell Porter.

Boddicker, who allowed only one run in the last 20 innings, held the Cardinals to four hits in six innings, while Martinez held St. Louis scoreless the rest of the way.

Martinez was the winner and Cards rookie right-hander Kevin Hagen was the loser.

Gymnasts to take aim at 280 average

By George Pappas
Staff Writer

The SIU-C men's gymnastics team has one last chance. If the Salukis are to carry a 278 average into the NCAA Championships on April 12, they will have to score 277.70 or better in the Illinois Open this weekend in Champaign.

It's obvious that the fifth-ranked Salukis would also like to win the meet.

"I'm looking for us to score well so we can raise our average," Saluki Coach Bill Meade said. "It would also look good to win, too.

The competition in Champaign this weekend will be tough. Iowa, carrying a 277.83 average, will challenge the Salukis for first place in the meet and if they score higher than the Salukis, then their season average will end up higher, also. The Saluki average is 277.72, and they have beaten Iowa this season.

The Illini would also like to raise their average from 276 and to win their own meet. They have lost to the Salukis, Iowa and Ohio State.

The Buckeyes are averaging 279.80 this season and they, along with Penn State, are the only teams to have beaten the 14-5 Salukis this season. Ohio State is not going for the high score in Champaign, as they will bring just five all-rounders to the meet. On Sunday, gymnasts will be able to go for their compulsory scores in Champaign.

"That's why Ohio State is bringing just five all-rounders to the meet," Meade said, "so that all five of them can try out for the Championships of the USA.

An all-rounder must score 110 points, which counts all-around scores from a compulsory and an optional routine to make it to the Championships of the USA May 17-19.

Meade said that John Levy, David Lutterman, Kevin Mazeika and Bryan Reed will try out for the Championships of the USA this Sunday.

Other teams that will compete in the Open are Illinois-Chicago and Indiana State. Meade said there will probably be gymnasts from Western Michigan and other schools who will compete on Sunday.

But. Meade is more concerned about the Saluki average.

"If the boys do their job," Meade said, "we'll get the score we want, raise our average and win the meet."

Key trackmen will be withheld from meet to rest for Indiana

By David Wilhelm
Staff Writer

After an impressive sixth-place showing at the NCAA Indoor Championships and two easy victories to open the outdoor season, the SIU-C men's track team will compete in six events this weekend at the Paper Tiger Invitational in Baton Rouge, La.

It would be the squad's last competition before its Big Ten meet against Michigan.

The Salukis are entering in three relay events: the 400-meter intermediate hurdles, the high jump and the 400-meter run.

The SIU-C trackmen will be staying home to prepare for the meet.

"I feel our key performers need to travel through and rest," Coach Lew Hartzog said.

SIU-C has dominated the early outdoor season, crushing Missouri and Southwest Louisiana March 17 in Lafayette, La., and defeating Northeast Louisiana, Arkansas-Monticello and Alcorn State at Monroe, La., March 15. Hartzog has been happy with those performances, but that he is looking forward to the remainder of the season.

"We had a very successful trip," Hartzog said. "We won with ease in both of them (the meets). I'm pleased with the way we went about it."

This weekend, the competition will be fierce," Hartzog said.

About 50 teams will be at the meet, Hartzog said.

Among the teams that will compete will be Alabama, Mississippi State and University of Mississippi, all of which are NCAA qualifying teams.

The Salukis will be represented by Sam Nwosu in the intermediates, Stephen Wray in the high jump and Mike Elliott in the 400-meter. The relay team will be run by sprinters Mike Francis, Perry Duncan, Elvis Ford, Tony Adam's and Mark Hill.

Duncan was held out of the squad's last outdoor meet because of a possible stress fracture. After it was determined there was none, Hartzog said he decided to bring Duncan along slowly and will hold him out of certain events for a while.

Duncan will compete in the 400- and 1,500-meter relays this weekend but will be held out of the 400-meter.

"I'm looking for us to score well so we can raise our average," Saluki Coach Bill Meade said. "It would also look good to win, too.

The competition in Champaign this weekend will be tough. Iowa, carrying a 277.83 average, will challenge the Salukis for first place in the meet and if they score higher than the Salukis, then their season average will end up higher, also. The Saluki average is 277.72, and they have beaten Iowa this season.

The Illini would also like to raise their average from 276 and to win their own meet. They have lost to the Salukis, Iowa and Ohio State.

The Buckeyes are averaging 279.80 this season and they, along with Penn State, are the only teams to have beaten the 14-5 Salukis this season. Ohio State is not going for the high score in Champaign, as they will bring just five all-rounders to the meet. On Sunday, gymnasts will be able to go for their compulsory scores in Champaign.

"That's why Ohio State is bringing just five all-rounders to the meet," Meade said, "so that all five of them can try out for the Championships of the USA.

An all-rounder must score 110 points, which counts all-around scores from a compulsory and an optional routine to make it to the Championships of the USA May 17-19.

Meade said that John Levy, David Lutterman, Kevin Mazeika and Bryan Reed will try out for the Championships of the USA this Sunday.

Other teams that will compete in the Open are Illinois-Chicago and Indiana State. Meade said there will probably be gymnasts from Western Michigan and other schools who will compete on Sunday.

But, Meade is more concerned about the Saluki average.

"If the boys do their job," Meade said, "we'll get the score we want, raise our average and win the meet."

State, when SIU-C takes on the Tigers in a doubleheader. Saturday's twin bill opens a five-game swing through Tennessee for the Salukis, who play a single game Sunday in Memphis before busing to Nashville for two games with David Lipscomb on Monday.

'The last two days have been pretty wet, wiped out SIU-C's first scheduled home games of the season Tuesday and Wednesday, when Kentucky and Greenville were due for visits to Abe Martin Field.

According to Memphis State sports information, the weather in Memphis has been good the past few days, but there is a chance of rain there Friday and Saturday.

The Tigers were 11-1 going into their game with Christian Brothers on Thursday. Among their victims are Austin Peay, Murray State, Tennessee-Martin and Wisconsin.

Jay Bellissimo is expected to start Saturday's opener and Paul Salika or Rich Koch will probably pitch Sunday, Green said. Mark Wooden, who pitched well in relief in Florida and is being counted on as SIU-C's closer from the bullpen, may start Sunday if he doesn't pitch Saturday.

THE REAL SCIENCE OF O.C.S. IS TO HELP YOU DISCOVER THE LEADER IN YOU.

Army Officer Candidate School (O.C.S.) is a 14-week challenge that will make you dig deep inside yourself for mental and physical toughness. For many, especially girls, it isn't easy. But you'll discover what's inside you. You'll know how to harness that power. You'll become a leader in our Army.

It's not a cakewalk. The training is hard. But if you have the potential, you've got what it takes. It's an opportunity you won't want to miss.

Turner has mixed emotions as gymnastics regionals near

By Jim Iser
Sports Editor

A season of hard work and frustration will reach its peak for the Saluki women's gymnastics team Saturday at the Central Regionals in Columbus, Mo.

Just check and compare.

The team this weekend, Vogel said. Indiana State lost its top gymnast, Debbie Amson, at the Gateway meet two weeks ago when she injured her ankle. She is doubtful for the regionals.

"I don't think Indiana State has a shot without Debbie Amson," Vogel said.

Alabama's top gymnast, Patty Rice, has been hurt of late. Rice, a 37-point scorer, has not been able to compete in all-around competition, and Vogel said either Alabama is trying to hold her back to get her healed or is trying to hold back the seriousness of her injury.

Luies C is almost over most of its major regionals. Turner's latest injury was to her hip, but she is feeling better. Gina Hey's ankle is almost healed, and Vogel is expecting most of the team's minor injuries to be pretty well healed by the time her squad gets to the regionals.

"I think it's going to be a race (between Alabama and SIU-C)," Vogel said. "They'll have to make some mistakes and we'll have to hit our routines. Alabama, on paper, has it going away."

However, Vogel said he hasn't seen a meet this year that was won on paper.

Rain bogs down softball season

A waterlogged diamond has forced the cancellation of the Saluki softball team's first home doubleheader, driven the Salukis into the limited confines of Davies Gym, where they have been unable to do much more than work in the batting cages.

This weekend, improving a road trip, Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer will pack her squad off to Indiana Saturday, where it will take on Indiana and Gateway Conference rival Illinois State.

The Salukis had to cancel Thursday's doubleheader with Eastern Michigan early in the week, and this weekend's doubleheader with SIU-C has also been canceled.

"We need to get back on the field with a shot of confidence," Brechtelsbauer, who said her team is severely limited by having to work out in tiny Davies Gym. "It's put us behind," she said.

"You just don't set up a diamond in Davies Gym. We've been concentrating on the batting cages but we need to see some live pitching."

The Saluki hitters will be on the spot when they face Illinois State at 10:30 a.m. and Illinois State at 1:30 p.m. SIU-C has scored just five runs in six games and

Blue Moon claims IM men's A cage crown; 7 others win titles
By Steve Kooloe Staff Writer

Intramural basketball wrapped up its season this week with championship games held in the gymnasiums at Davies Gymnasium.

The IM champions were Blue Moon in men's A; Womb­ wreckers in women's A; and Ledbetter in both men's B and women's A. Happy Hookers in women's B; Floor Winners in men's C; Blue Moon in men's B; and Red Riders in co-rec.

The men's A, B, and B six-foot-and-under leagues played championship games on Monday night.

In the only skilled men's A, Stan Gray scored 17 points and Marion Lofoten and captain Little Ledbetter added 10 each to lead Blue Moon to a 63-57 victory over Equus VIII. Blue Moon completed its season with a 9-0 record.

"We're the defending champ, but nobody thought we would win it against Ledbetter," said Ledbetter, whose team, the Blue Moon scored five straight to deadlock the score at 31-31 at halftime.

The men's six-foot-and-under, Utopia stunned previously undefeated Mutants, 25-20, in overtime.

The women's A, B, and women's A B championship games, were played Saturday night. Tyrone Eckels poured in a game-high 22 points and Keith McMenemy added 20 to lead the Wombwreckers to a 54-47 victory over the Hotbers.

Dave Shriver said, "We had an off night, but our team would have picked up the slack.

Equus VIII opened up a 13-6 lead late in the first half, but Blue Moon fought back and tied the score at 31-31 at halftime in the women's six-foot-and-under round.

The score tied 31-31 with 3:23 left in the game, and handed the Wombwreckers to a 47-46 victory over the Hotbers. And the Hotbers' season ended by losing to Blue Moon, 54-47.

The co-rec championship games were played Tuesday night. In co-rec A, Kim Frick and Peggy Kunzmann combined for 46 points to help Floor Play ruin Loops Shoe Store's bid, 53-52.

In co-rec B, Sonya Locke fired in four three-pointers and Barb Clarance added 13 to spark the Red Riders to a 50-40 victory over the Wombwreckers.

The Red Riders finished 3-1 and handed Count Down, 9-1, their only loss of the year. They scored 48 points for Count Down.

Penn rank 12th at NCAA meet
By Scott Rich Staff Writer

Saluki Coach Bob Steele and his men's swimming team said the only day he can remember was the first day of competition at the NCAA Division I Swimming and Diving Championships, but Thursday they picked up 18 points in the first of four days of competition.

The Salukis competed Saturday at the PE House pool in Cleveland.

Steele thought that Saluki diver Nigel Stairon would expectedly rank 12th but was not swimming, competing in a diving competition, but positions raised by the NCAA in regard to Stairon's collegiate eligibility forced Steele to withdraw him from competition.

"You can't count on one person for your points at the NCAA's," Steele said, "but points are so hard to come by, and I think Nigel would have placed on the three-meter board.

The Salukis men got a chance to make some noise Thursday by competing in three events: the one-meter diving, 500 freestyle and 400 freestyle relay.

Jim Watson was the lone Saluki hopeful in the one-meter diving event, but he failed to make it past the preliminary round. His five-dive total of 372.50 points placed him 37th of 39.

Gary Brinkman and Andres Grinnago qualified for the 800 freestyle relay, but didn't make it past the prelims.

Gary Brinkman finished 16th in the prelims in the prelims 12 times, and 26th in the prelims.

The Saluki divers scored 48 points in the prelims.

This was the second time they competed in the 800 freestyle relay.

The Saluki diver qualified for the prelims in 1985, and 1986.

Gary Brinkman was trying to over-power the hotbers and you can't do that at this level," Steele said, "Gary has to change speeds more and throw his fastball in tight.

"If he learns to throw up and in," Green said, "he'll improve. That will make his slider more effective. If you don't throw up and in, the hitter will lean on you."

Based on Green's assessment of Bocchon, the pitcher will take his coach's words to heart.

"Gary's very coachable," Green said. "As a coach, I like his intensity and willingness to work on things.

Bocchon will get his next turn Saturday at Memphis State as sharp as steel and his 86 mph fastball, a slider, changeup and a "slur- ve." The slurve, a mix between a curve and slider, is new and still in the developmental stage, Bocchon said.

As Bocchon walked off the field after beating Rutgers last week, coach Rich Brinkman said, "I probably would have rather used him against some of the better teams, but hopefully the experience will help him.

Bocchon posted a 4-0 record and a 1.87 earned run average in 1983.

"I don't really want to say," Bocchon said. "I'll just say this is the respect he has for what he did. He did the right thing at the time."

by Daryl Van Schouwen Staff Writer

Gary Bockhonn's earned run average was 4.00 when the Ivy League图表 at this stage of the early season didn't go unnoticed.

But Bocchon didn't mislead the ambience.

The right-hander right-hander, who will be counted on to anchor the starting rotation, was not lured by the ambience.

The ambience is right-hand Florida last week. Its ERA ballooned to 10.85.

"I'm not indicative of his potential as a starter," said Stalo pitching each Jerry Green. "He's struggling right now. His control isn't as sharp as it was last year at this time. He's trying to do too much.

Last year, after starring at Steveville High School, Bocchon was drafted by the Cleveland Indians to pitch in the Instructional League. Kansas City Royals selected him in the 12th round of the major league draft.

"They said I'd play rookie ball and if I advanced well I'd move to words later," Bocchon said. "But they were nervous.

With that, Bocchon packed his glove and skies and headed to Florida State.

"I wanted to be close to home and the baseball program is real good here," he said. "I'm real glad about my decision.

Since Green wasn't getting great production out of him last year, Bocchon was called up to pitch in the Instructional League. Green said Bocchon pitched against Arkansas, South Carolina and Georgia in his first four games.

"I probably would have rather used him against some of the better teams, but hopefully the experience will help him.

Bocchon posted a 4-0 record and a 1.87 earned run average in 1983.
