Administration hit

Choate asks review

By Rich Davis
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Rep. Clyde Choate, D-Anna, has asked that the SIU Board of Trustees, meeting today in Edwardsville, review the action of the SIU administration in handling the past week of demonstrations which forced the University to close indefinitely Tuesday.

"If the administrators cannot keep this University open and operating, then their actions should be reviewed by the Board of Trustees. If anyone in an administrative capacity is found to be derelict or negligent in his duties as far as the orderly operation of that institution is concerned, the trustees should replace him.

"If the Board of Trustees does not want to accept this responsibility, the governor should review their appointments."

Choate, criticizing the SIU demonstrations, said as far as he was concerned the disturbances and vandalism that were taking place were being caused by a group of militants and hard-core disturbers who were in an extreme minority as far as the student body was concerned.

He said he would hope that the administrators charged with the responsibility of providing quality education for the students, would exercise their powers of office to the extent that they would not close the University but keep it open, thereby affording educational opportunities to the students.

Choate said he didn't feel that an institution of SIU's nature, constructed, maintained and operated by taxpayers' dollars, should be either closed or opened at the will and whim of students. He was referring to Thursday's opinion poll.

He said he thought the referendum would denote the majority of students do not condone the actions of a few militants but would show that a majority want to continue their education.

Choate, saying he had reviewed towns damaged in World War II that were nothing compared to the damage done on Illinois Ave. in Carbondale, said "We can't let people run rampant. If it takes National Guard to control this then they'll have to be there (SIU)."

He said he deplored the actions of the radicals who have done great property damage both to SIU and Carbondale. He said it is high time administrators at SIU and state and county law enforcement officials find the ones responsible and deal appropriately with them.

Dean Moulton promises Gus Bode no penalty for leaving

By Win Holden
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Dean of Students Wilbur N. Moulton said Thursday students who leave the University on the assumption that it will remain closed will not be penalized.

Moulton made the remark during a meeting at 1:30 p.m. in Furr Auditorium for resident fellows and resident managers of on-campus and off-campus dormitories and living units.

Moulton said if the University should reopen, the only penalty students would incur would be the loss of an educational opportunity.

It had been previously announced that students would have to leave on-campus living areas by 4 p.m. today, but that deadline has been extended 24 hours, pending action by the board of Trustees.

He was questioned as to the status of dorms if the board decides to close.

"If the decision is to close, this period will be treated as an interim, such as a break," Moulton said.

Whatever the outcome of the SIU Board of Trustees meeting in Edwardsville this morning, Moulton said, "We will serve the needs of the students."

He explained this by saying there are many foreign students who have nowhere to go if the University closed, and that many VII students have to obtain a specified number of hours of practical work in order to graduate.

If this requires the dorms on campus to stay open, Moulton said, they would remain open on a scale determined by need.

As to refunding of money paid toward rent and dorm fees, Moulton said, "We are attempting to arrive at a refund policy, but there is not

Faculty will meet at 3 p.m. in Arena

The general campus faculty meeting scheduled for 10 a.m. today has been changed to 3 p.m. in the Arena, according to Willis Malone, assistant to the chancellor.

However, an ad hoc committee of concerned faculty members has voiced displeasure with the change and is calling for a faculty meeting in the Arena at 10 a.m.

A spokesman for the committee said delaying the meeting until after the Board of Trustees' meeting in Ed-

Deadline for checkout extended 24 hours

By Steve Brown, Ingrid Tarver and Ellen Matheson
Daily Egyptian Staff Writers

Dean of Students Wilbur N. Moulton has announced a 24-hour extension on the checkout deadline for the on-campus residence halls.

The deadline had been set at 4:00 p.m. today. It has been changed to 4:00 p.m. Saturday. The final meal will be served Saturday noon.

The University News Service said any student who wishes to wait for the final decision from the Board of Trustees' meeting will be allowed to remain in the dormitories until they arrange for transportation.

Moulton said the deadline was extended because of the renewed curfew in Carbondale Wednesday. He said the extension might lessen some of the confusion and allow students to travel outside the curfew time.

According to James Dugger, supervisor of Family Housing, housing for married students will remain open. He said those wishing to leave will not be held to their 30-day notice clause.

"We will try to be as fair and reasonable as possible," he said. Dugger said if the University remains closed only until summer quarter, he expected to keep the housing units open.

By noon Thursday, more than 1,000 persons had checked out of on-campus living areas.

John Evans, assistant dean of students, said 200 students had checked out of the University Park Area as of 8 a.m. Thursday.

Seeks removal

Chamber absolves mass

By Stephanie Brown
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Carbondale Chamber of Commerce has passed resolutions absolving the majority of SIU students from damage done over the past few days and calling for the removal of Roger Leisner from his position as student representative to the Carbondale City Council.

The action came after a joint meeting of the Chamber of Commerce and the Downtown Business and Greater Carbondale Retail Merchants Association Wednesday night.

In addition, persons at the meeting drew up a petition to be circulated to members of the SIU Board of Trustees, the Illinois State Legislature, the Carbondale city administration and a representative of Congressman Kenneth Gray (D-West Frankfort) urging them to "do all in their power to assure continued education of our population."

The resolution on behalf of the students reads: "The Carbondale Chamber of Commerce wishes to convey to the vast majority of responsible students that we in no way hold you responsible for the damage over the past few days. We want to cooperate with you to create a better community."

The resolution calling for the removal of Leisner is being sent to the SIU Student Senate as well as to the Carbondale City Council.

"We have found that he is unfit to serve in this capacity, which can be easily documented by statements he has made," the resolution states.

The resolution asks the City Council to immediately remove Leisner as student representative from the City Council.

A representative of the Chamber of Commerce said the resolution came about as a result of "statements he (Leisner) made in newspapers, actions he was seen participating in by some of the Carbondale merchants and statements Leisner made at Chamber of Commerce meetings."

After being informed of the action Thursday morning by the Daily Egyptian, Leisner said, "It doesn't worry me what they say. I'm the student body representative, not the representative of the Chamber of Commerce," he added. "If the city starts dictating, then it's (Leisner's position) no longer a representative of the student body, it's a representative of the Chamber of Commerce."

The petition on behalf of the "businessmen of the community of Carbondale," asks persons, especially in administrative positions, to "insure by any means available that violence and physical threats of damage to life, liberty and property of the majority not be encountered."

The petition also supports the right of University officials to offer courses they feel necessary to give the student the education of his choice, "as well as the student's right not to enroll if he so desires."

SIU Board asked to consider impact on city of its decision

The Carbondale City Council voted Thursday night to ask the SIU Board of Trustees to "consider the impact on the community of Carbondale of their decision as to the future of SIU."

The Council met in an emotion-packed special session to consider the Council's position on today's impending Board decision on the status of the University.

The sound of periodic silence reflected the soul-searching of each councilman as he weighed in his mind the ramifications of today's action by the Board.

The options they discussed were to present no statement at all before the Board; to inform the Board they favored closing the University; to incorporate the feeling that it is the nature of a democracy to support the decision of a governing body.

The Council's final statement, signed by all members of the body, will be presented to the Board at its meeting today in Edwardsville by City Manager C. William Norman.

The statement reads as follows:

"Inasmuch as the City of Carbondale has suffered grievous damage at the hands of students and others; and

"Inasmuch as continued conflict will ultimately lead to violence and bloodshed;

"We, the City Council of the City of Carbondale, Illinois, urge the Board of Trustees of Southern Illinois University to carefully consider the impact on the community of Carbondale of their decision as to the future of Southern Illinois University. We are prepared to fully support the final decision of the Board because we are dedicated to the principles of democracy upon which our nation is founded."

Councilman Hans Fischer said of the statement, "We are reaffirming that in this society decisions are made in a democratic process." Fischer said he trusted that the Board would make its decision on the basis of the facts.

Strike on again; no contract yet

Carbondale members of the Plumbers and Pipefitters Union went back on strike Wednesday after having met with members of City Council the night before to discuss their grievances.

According to William Held, business representative of the union, the City Council gave them no satisfaction during the meeting.

He also said the union maintains the same position in their wage increase request.

The union is asking for an across the board increase of 40 cents an hour. The city's position is an increase of 22 to 25 cents per hour depending upon the worker's position.

City Manager C. William Norman said no negotiations are underway at this time. The city and the unions are still far apart, according to Norman.

Norman said the city's operations are sufficiently curbed at this time by temporary help. If, however, an emergency should arise Norman said the city would go through the courts for an injunction and if that failed, ask the National Guard to man essential services.

Involved in the strike by the Public Works Department employees is the possibility of penalties from the state for failure to meet terms of the state licenses.

Water supply operators are licensed under the Department of Public Health and sewer department employees under the Sanitary Water Board. The penalty from these agencies is revocation of license.

Norman said that it is the city's intention of filing charges against the local union.

SIU students turned in their textbooks in large numbers at the Textbook Rental Service Thursday.

"About one-third of the students at SIU have turned in their textbooks," according to A. A. Logue, manager of Textbook Service Thursday.

"We started receiving textbooks Wednesday morning. One student was outside at 5 a.m. Wednesday waiting to turn in his books."

Many of the students who turned in textbooks Thursday said that they were all packed and ready to leave Carbondale.

"I think if school did not close, it would be in chaos," said Marshall Marks, Marks, a freshman from Murphysboro, said that one-fourth is a significant number to create chaos to close the school. "I'm packed up and ready to go."

"I don't know what to do," Joann Barth explained. "I'm going to wait and see what they are going to do. If school reopens Monday I'm coming back."

Vera Miles, a sophomore from Bronx, N.Y., said, "School should close if it is going through these changes."

Many students feel that closing SIU was the best thing to do under the circumstances.

"I think the school had to close, or the students would have just about done it themselves," Karen Jacquot, a freshman from Murphysboro, said.

Ora Ferguson, a freshman from Chicago, pointed out, "I don't think it should be open because it will cause a lot of trouble. Many students have checked out and gone home and if it reopens it will cause a lot of trouble for them."

"I think it's best that it is closed. I think there would have been more trouble if it hadn't closed," said Henry Guenther, a sophomore from Edwardsville.

Margaret Laster, a sophomore from Carbondale, said, "I think it's for the best because I think they would have kept on until they got it to close."

The issues that seemed relevant to those wanting the school to remain closed did affect all the students. However, one student tried to look at the issues as if they affected him directly.

"School closing proves a point," said Larry Maduri, a sophomore from Chicago. "I am a veteran and I'm out of the draft. These kids' lives are in jeopardy, they want to be heard. They see the war as an evil thing. I think closing school makes people stop and think."

"It doesn't really make me any difference whether school closes or opens," said James Humble, a senior from Cairo. "I feel there are more important things. If school reopens on Monday I will not return."

Charles Atterberry, a sophomore from Chicago, said that if school reopens, there will probably be trouble and the studying atmosphere has gone. "If school reopens Monday, I will not return."

Don Zutschell, a junior from Chicago, said, "I think if they reopen school, someone will get hurt. If school reopens Monday, I will not return."

Sherry Brown, a junior from Golconda, said, "If school reopens Monday, I will not return; in my opinion I'm kind of glad it's closed."

The Textbook Service is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. today, from 8 a.m. to 12 noon Saturday and from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday.

Task force established

A student-faculty task force to document and coordinate information on the campus situation was created Thursday afternoon with an assist from the Department of Design, according to Tom Busch, a task force coordinator.

Busch, Action Party's candidate for student body president in the recent election, said the task force was formed to give non-administrative personnel a means of influencing administrative policy.

Businessmen advised to arm against violence

Jackson County Sheriff Raymond Dillinger said Thursday he has advised area merchants to arm themselves in case violence again erupts in Carbondale.

Dillinger said he is not advocating shooting people in the streets, "but there is a need for these people to protect their lives and businesses," he said.

States Attorney Richard E. Richman, who could not be reached for comment, was quoted by the Associated Press as saying, "I'm surprised that vigilante action has not started already. Carbondale merchants have asked me for an advisory opinion on laws regarding vigilantes."

Richman said a representative of the merchants association told him that enraged businessmen wanted to arm themselves to ward off intruders.

Carbondale Mayor David Keene ordered a curfew for Thursday night, the second day decisions prompted by the recent campus strife.

No channels existed to deal with the current problems, Busch said, since student government was closed Thursday by the Student Activities Office.

The task force will operate out of the facilities of the Department of Design, Busch said. He added that the reason design's facilities were being used is that the department chairman offered the group the department's resources.

this week the 7:30 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew has been in force since last weekend's 76-hour curfew.

Keene requested a call up of National Guard troops to quell possible disturbances that were forecast for Wednesday night.

Carbondale merchants, who have unofficially estimated damage to their businesses at $100,000, privately expressed some criticism of security measures taken to guard their stores.

The Chamber of Commerce officially commended police, however, at a Carbondale City Council meeting this week.

Rumors of vigilantes arming themselves were heard from various sources, including police, all of whom refused to comment on the matter for the record.

Arrest number drops

Calm returns to campus, city

A temporary calm returned to the city of Carbondale and the SIU campus Wednesday night for the first time in a week. Police reported making only 11 arrests in contrast to over 400 arrests during disturbances on previous nights.

Carbondale Police reported that the night was very quiet following Mayor David Keene's reinstatement of a 7:30 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew. Keene also ordered liquor stores to close, and prohibited the sale of gasoline in containers and the sale of guns or ammunition.

SIU Security Police reported making five arrests, two of which were students. Those arrested were Dorie Weintraub, 19, a sophomore from Chicago; Dennis M. Sheehan, 23, Arlington; Michael Brown, 19, Springfield; and Allen Stola, 28, Carbondale, all charged with possession of narcotics.

A. J. Olson, a sophomore from Carterville, was arrested by SIU Police near Neely Hall about 9 p.m. Wednesday. Olson was charged with illegal possession of weapons, resisting a police officer and disorderly conduct.

Carbondale Police reported making 6 arrests, three for curfew violations. One person was arrested for shoplifting and two persons were arrested for disorderly conduct.

Carbondale Police said the records of those arrested had been sent to the SIU Security Police. Dan Keller, of the SIU Security Office said he "really didn't know if they had the reports" and said all information would be dispersed through the University News Service. The News Service reported it had received no records from Carbondale and referred back to the SIU Security Police.

Hourly employes' position in doubt till poll completion

The position of hourly civil service employes is still undecided. But the poll Thursday will help clarify the question.

Frank Hartman, acting personnel director, said determination will be made after the poll is complete. He went on to say he thought it was a little premature to make a statement at this time. (Hartman was questioned Thursday morning.)

Hartman went on to say that each employe would be dealt with individually. He said no matter what happens some employes will continue because some operations at the University will continue.

Hartman did not elaborate on which employes or units will remain in operation if the University remains closed.

Lee Heister, president of the Non-Academic Employee Council, said "our members are voting with the students and faculty objecting to the closing of the University."

Hestor said if the University remained closed the group will have to meet to discuss their future action. As yet they have not contemplated any such plan. He added that he expects more information from the Board of Trustees.

wardville was nothing more than providing a docile audience to rubber stamp anything President Delyte W. Morris presents to us."

Howard Webb, chairman of the Faculty Sub-Council, explained that the postponement of the meeting was approved unanimously Thursday by the faculty sub-council.

Webb said that the chairman of the graduate council, and chairman of the faculty sub-council and the three Carbondale faculty members on the University Board would attend the Board meeting.

Rather than hold the meeting at 10 a.m., it was delayed until 3 p.m. to provide time for representatives to return to Carbondale, Webb said.

The meeting will deal with the reopening of the University. The Faculty Sub-Council passed a resolution Wednesday which in part called for a meeting of the faculty for "reopening the University at the earliest possible time and re-establishing the processes of free inquiry."

Volunteers are on duty to keep campus watch

By Norris Jones
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

They wear green arm bands.

They carry no guns.

Only the telephone stands between the Peace Volunteer and a would-be vandal.

From 200 to 300 students guarded 40 key campus areas Wednesday night where no incidents were reported.

Teams ranging from three to 10 were assigned to each station. "We had the campus covered last night," said Frank Bridges, coordinator of SIU's Civil Defense who is assisting in the peace-watch operations.

The agriculture building had seven assigned, Communications building had six volunteers and Wham Education building had from eight to 10.

Each group had faculty, staff and students. "We want a complete representation of the University," Bridges said. "We have blacks and whites, girls and guys, professors and students."

The majority of the patrol groups are working in a building they are associated with, Bridges said. Chemistry majors are working in Parkinson, Education majors are in Wham. "They are more or less protecting their own stuff," he said.

The groups go out in two shifts. One reports at 8 p.m. and works until 1 a.m. The second team is on duty from 1 a.m. to 6 a.m. They walk through the building at least once each hour.

"No one has any means of protection," Bridges said. "They are there simply to watch, listen, smell and communicate activities at each building. If they are approached by others, they have orders to call the proper authorities and get out," Bridges said.

Headquartered in Barracks T-39, the Peace Volunteers have also implemented two other services. "We are trying to stop rumors," the receptionist said. Phones are busy constantly tracking down rumors, handing out current official policy, taking complaints and referring the reports to the appropriate agencies. Their phone number is 453-5315.

"We keep in touch with the Carbondale police and the SIU Security Office to find out basically what is going on," the receptionist said.

The Volunteers have also established a jail watch at the Carbondale, Murphysboro and Marion jails where they take down the names of those arrested and find out who they can call to get bail money.

The Daily Egyptian printed in Wednesday's paper that the United Majority for Education was accepting letters supporting the opening of the University. Those letters should be turned into the student activities office, Barracks T-38, not the Peace Volunteer's headquarters.

certain specific conditions, or when required to save their own lives."

Another section of Patton's order states, "Warning shots will not be fired, and Guardsmen will not fire into crowds." The order concludes saying weapons may be loaded and made ready to fire only in "extreme situations."

Stoncipher said his men will remain here until local law enforcement authorities, headed by Jackson County Sheriff Raymond Dillinger, the ranking officer in the county, decide there is no longer a need for the guard. "When they feel we can leave," he said, "we will."

Units came here from Decatur, Danville, Paris, Lawrenceville, East St. Louis, Mt. Vernon, West Frankfort, Litchfield, Salem and Carbondale.

Check cashing policies established by agencies

Students are allowed to cash personal checks for up to the regular $25 limit at the Bursar's office, according to Robert Brewer, assistant bursar, but a paid summer fee statement is required.

In the event a student does not have a paid summer fee statement, a personal check will be cashed only if co-signed by a faculty or staff member. Student paychecks and scholarship checks are being cashed as usual.

Hours for the Bursar's Office are: Friday, 8:10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Saturday, 8:30 to 11 a.m.

Many students planning to leave town need the cash for travel transactions.

The Carbondale National Bank, the First National Bank and the University Bank of Carbondale are not cashing personal checks for persons not having accounts with the bank.

The Carbondale National Bank will cash student paychecks, money orders and cashier's checks only with proper identification, a spokesman for the bank said.

The Sahati Currency Exchange could not be reached as of Thursday afternoon.

Nat'l Guard morale is 'tops,' officer in command reports

By Win Holden
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The morale of the approximately 1,000 national guard troops in Carbondale is "tops," according to Col. Amos Stoncipher, commander of all units in Carbondale.

Ten units of the national guard were ordered into Carbondale Wednesday night at the request of Carbondale Mayor David Keene. Members of the 1,125-men contingent have served in campus riot duty at both SIU and the University of Illinois.

One of the reasons given by city and University authorities for requesting the pull back of the troops Sunday was that the morale of the national guard was low.

Stoncipher said the attitude of the men is good. "They feel there is a need for them here; that's their duty. I'm sure they'd rather be home, but they are professionals with a job to do."

He said his men are equipped with their weapons, but the order regarding ammunition issued by the Adjutant general of the Illinois National Guard, Maj. Gen. Harold R. Patton, has not been changed.

Patton said "Guardmen will neither load nor fire weapons except when authorized in advance by an officer in person, when authorized in advance by an officer under

Graduate students call for resignations

By Nathan Jones and Luzina Swank
Daily Egyptian Staff Writers

Approximately 175 graduate students called for the resignation of President Delyte W. Morris and the resignation of each member of the Board of Trustees based on these administrators' actions "in the past weeks of turmoil."

The group also voted to keep SIU closed until the end of the quarter and asked that the Board of Trustees meeting be postponed until after the faculty meets today.

The group unanimously supported Chancellor Robert W. MacVicar and the Board in the resolution to close the University and said they feel it "dangerously unwise" to reopen SIU this quarter.

The inter-departmental meeting, which was held

Thursday afternoon in the Lutheran Student Center basement, was attended by teaching assistants, graduate fellows and graduate students.

The assembly requested the Board to postpone its Friday meeting so that resolutions and ideas from the faculty could be considered.

The two proposals were determined after an hour-and-a-half debate over a resolution concerning the suspension of SIU students arrested in recent disorders.

The body demanded "that the University immediately rescind student suspensions caused by the recent arrests in Carbondale and SIU, on the grounds that:

"1. This is a denial of due process of law, in that the students are summarily suspended prior to having a legal hearing, and the student must prove his innocence to be reinstated in the University."

"2. The students arrested are automatically considered guilty as evidenced by the punitive action of suspension taken by the University upon notification of arrest."

An added proposal was that "as graduate students we are willing to take necessary steps to insure that students are not severed from the University community without adequate and complete legal justification."

There was unanimous consensus on a proposal that no faculty member, graduate student or student be threatened with contract revocation or suspension for opinions expressed about the demonstrations or for participation in these demonstrations.

Beginning this Monday the graduate students called for an "open confrontation" with the administration and faculty to deal with the functional and structural difficulties at SIU.

Another inter-departmental meeting of graduate students is scheduled at 3 p.m. today in the Pulliam Hall Gymnasium. The group also plans to attend the faculty meeting this afternoon in the Arena.

Cornerstone removed

Foreign students wait for Trustees' decision; CESL remains open

"About the only thing we know for sure is that we don't have any immigration problems." This was the way Clarence Hendershot, assistant director of Internal Student Services, summed up the situation for the foreign students at SIU.

Hendershot said definite plans have not been made as yet. These decisions will be made after Thursday's referendum and the Board of Trustees meeting today.

According to Joseph H. Friend, director of the Center for English as a Second Language, said that operation would remain open. "To close the center would be unsympathetic to the 75-80 students from distant lands who study there," Friend said. He added that after conferring with the Chancellor CESL would remain open.

The International Center has announced housing will be available for students after Saturday in the Brush Towers area for two dollars a night. Meals are not included. Students currently living in on-campus housing will receive a refund, according to Hendershot.

Some students will probably be hard pressed financially because of the University closing. Summer work permits for the foreign students have not arrived yet from the Immigration Service.

The Families for Friendship will be available for assistance if it is necessary. Some faculty members have said they would be willing to provide housing for some students if it is needed.

The Visiting Students Association has planned several activities during the coming weeks. These activities will include a cultural trip to St. Louis on Saturday. The group will leave the International Center at 10:00 a.m.

A dinner, honoring members of VISA who have contributed outstandingly to the promotion of international understanding, will be held at Ma Hales in Grand Tower, Ill. on May 23. Before the dinner a business meeting will be held.

The group also plans a five-day trip to Meramac Caverns and the Mark Twain sites around Hannibal, Mo.. The cost of the entire trip will be about $50.00. All students are welcome.

Another program which is a series of discussions with the Jackson Co. 4-H Club will be held May 19. The discussion topic will be Finland. Several films will also be shown at the program.

According to Hendershot all foreign students are urged not to leave the area and to stay in contact with the International Center. He expected that more specific information will be made available early next week.

enough data at this point to make a decision because we simply do not know what will happen (at the Board meeting). We will make refunds," he said.

Moulton announced a general faculty meeting will be held today to inform faculty members on what to do with regard to grading and other necessary closing business.

Grading will probably be done on a satisfactory/unsatisfactory basis as submitted by the Faculty Sub-Council.

Moulton explained the procedure to mean that hour totals would be counted but the grade point would not be affected.

He said this policy is not definite, but it is one suggestion.

More than 20 per cent of the students living on campus had already left, Moulton said. He also said that in his conversations with off-campus living units the percentage of students who have left is virtually the same.

"We will do everything we can to protect the student who acted on information that was good information when he heard it," Moulton said.

Choate criticizes shutdown

Somewhere in the whole realm of the administration there should be a way to maintain control and order, he said.

Commenting on rumors of riot control or vigilante groups forming in Carbondale, Choate said he "advises them to obey the laws of the State of Illinois."

Elsewhere in Springfield Thursday, other legislators commented on the SIU situation.

Rep. Phillip Collins, R-Chicago, said the idea of the opinion poll was "ridiculous" and President Delyte W. Morris "should be roundly criticized for allowing it."

Collins said SIU should be reopened and there should be police protection if necessary.

"Students are entitled to finish the school year and it is up to us (the state) to give the protection, regardless of cost, to make this possible."

Two Southern Illinois legislators contacted Thursday were convinced the University should be reopened.

Rep. C.L. McCormick, who handled the $104 million dollar SIU budget appropriation bill which passed in the House of Representatives Wednesday, said the general feeling in Springfield was not necessarily that Morris was too lenient as much as it was that Chancellor Robert W. MacVicar was permissive in his handling of the situation.

McCormick, in favor of the opinion poll, said it was a shame such a small minority was allowed to shut the University down.

Rep. Gale Williams, R-

Murphyboro, said "SIU cannot be closed."

He said University officials should do whatever is necessary to keep the school open. "Regardless of the results of the referendum, SIU should be kept open."

"When over 100 million is invested in SIU, thousands of students are attending the school and less than five per cent are doing the destruction, we owe it to the parents of the good students to keep it open."

He said representatives from Southern Illinois were under tremendous pressure Wednesday while the SIU appropriation bill was on the House floor.

He did say he thought it was wrong for the administration to allow students to turn in books or to close dormitories.

Twenty of the 80 residents of Egyptian Sands East had left by noon, the resident manager said. He said no check-out policy had been established "because the University hasn't made up its mind."

Egyptian Sands North and West reported a small number of checkouts, linked to the number of persons waiting for the Board of Trustees final decision as to whether the University should be reopened.

The Pyramids reported that 20 per cent of its 450 residents had checked out by noon and that others were being checked out.

The manager said if the University reopens, maybe one part of the building will be reopened for those persons who chose to remain in school.
