Walker leaves race for governor

CHICAGO (AP) — Former Gov. Dan Walker pulled out of the Democratic gubernatorial race yesterday, setting stage for state Sen. Adolphe Stevenson to emerge as the party's nominee to challenge incumbent Republican Gov. James R. Thompson next year.

Walker urged his supporters to work "enthusiastically" for Stevenson, who said he had lined up enough support to win the backing of Democratic state leaders. The party's 44-member central committee will convene this week in Springfield and Chicago to screen candidates.

"I said when I first announced my candidacy that I would not consider a primary fight, and I will. We're in it," Walker, who figured to be Stevenson's main challenger for the nomination, said in a statement. "Only a united Democratic slate can bring us victory in 1982."

Commenting on Walker's withdrawal, Stevenson said the former governor "gave himself to be a man of his word and a good Democrat. I'm grateful for his support and I look forward to working with him in the future for the success of the Democratic Party."

The central committee's endorsement does not assure a candidate of the party's nomination, but the endorsed candidates will have the financial and political backing of key Democratic leaders. The endorsed slate of candidates will face off against other Democratic hopefuls in the March 1982 primary.

On Saturday, Stevenson endorsed Lake County Clerk Grace Dormewald, 58th District, for lieutenant governor, giving her an edge over other announced candidates for the No. 2 spot on the party's ticket. She defeated Kenneth Busbee, 7-5th District.

Busbee had been considered a leading candidate for the lieutenant governor's seat recently. He has repeatedly said he was not endorsed by Stevenson, he would run for re-election.

The state Rep. Wayne Ablart, 8-5th District, said Friday he would not alter his course of running for Busbee's seat based on whether Busbee is endorsed or runs for re-election.

Illinois Department of Conservation Director David Kenney reaffirmed Friday his previous statements that he would not run for Busbee's seat but should Busbee run for re-election, Kenney would run for lieutenant governor.

Vowing to make the governor's lieutenant a "more significant" position, Stevenson said he and Mrs. Stern would run a joint campaign in both the primary and the November 1982 general election. The campaign will cost $2 million, Stevenson said.

Stevenson and Stern have received pledges of $100,000 from Chicago's mayor, $250,000 from Caesars World Foundation, $250,000 from the University of Illinois and $1 million from the Chicago Teachers Union.

Hartigan, who served under Walker, entered the race Monday, telling state Democratic Chairman John F. Touby that he would present his credentials to the slatemakers.

Conrail line headed for closing

By Liz Griffin

Staff Writer

Early abandonment of Conrail's 143-mile railroad route between Cairo and Lawrenceville has been "catastrophically assured" by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The only question concerning the track is its sale, according to U.S. Rep. Paul Simon, 16th District.

Simon's office also reported that funding for construction of the U.S. 51 overpass in Carbondale in the Railroad Relocation Program has been "maintained," with the request remaining a priority in a transportation appropriation conference bill. The bill will be up for vote in the House this week.

The same bill contains a funding request to upgrade the air service between Southern Illinois Airport and St. Louis.

While the conference report says that the $1 million project be funded in 1982, the Reagan administration last week asked that funding be deferred until 1983, according to Simon.

The ICC gave Consolidated Rail Corporation permission Thursday to close the line within 90 days retroactive to Jan. 1. Simon said and the ICC based its decision on a Department of Transportation decision to down-rate a key line between Conrail and Interstate 55.

Southern Railway System, a Washington, D.C.-based rail company and an employee-backed group are the contenders in a "unit labor agreement" lawsuit on the line.

Earlier this week, Conrail officials said Conrail has claimed the value of the Cairo-Lawrenceville line and that Conrail and Simon believe Conrail's price is too low.

"We are trying to work out a plan that will be in the best interest of Southern Illinois in terms of service and long-term transportation capability," Carl said.

Hinchley attempts suicide

WASHINGTON (AP) — John W. Hinchley Jr., awaiting trial on charges of attempting to assassinate President Reagan, tried to hang himself in a military prison Sunday but was cut down by U.S. marshals, the Justice Department announced.

Deputy Attorney General Delaney D. DeCair said the 26-year-old Hinchley was taken to the hospital at Fort Meade, Md., where he had been confined, and was in "serious condition, but not in a life-threatening or life-endangering medical state, as is satisfactory condition.

Hinchley was sentenced to 18 years in prison after he was convicted in June of attempting to assassinate President Reagan at a Washington hotel in March 1983.

On May 27, while jailed in Butner, N.C., Hinchley took an overdose of pill, an aspirin substitute, and was taken to the hospital as a precaution.

DeCair said Sunday's incident occurred at 4:26 p.m., when Hinchley "tried to hang himself with a piece of wire."

Astronauts praise Columbia mission

HOUSTON (AP) — Shuttle astronauts Joe Engle and Richard Truly, back from a brief but successful mission in the first craft to make a return trip to space, shared breakfast with Vice President George Bush Sunday and rested up for a week of debriefings.

The shuttle Columbia, its five-day mission cut short by a faulty fuel unit, returned to Earth on Saturday in a second pictures-perfect landing in California's Mojave Desert.

Despite its problems, the wingsed rocketship reentry proved itself a "magnificent flying machine," said Engle. Bush also praised the men and machines of America's space effort, which is called the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

"Can that thing pick up, eventually — is it designed to pick up an alien satellite?" the vice president asked Truly, the shuttle pilot, during breakfast at the Johnson Space Center.

"It can," Truly replied.

After the breakfast with NASA officials, flight controllers and others, Bush said the flight proved again "the United States is the greatest country there is.""The NASA complex and the people who make it up are a national treasure, and it is essential that whatever we do in Washington that this national treasure be preserved and continued, and it will be," he said.

After breakfast, Engle and Truly spent the rest of the mild, sunny afternoon at home with their families.

"Monday they'll pick up on a solid week of technical briefings," said NASA spokesman Terry Whel. "Each system group's engineers will get a crack at them to pick their brains on what works and what needs to be improved.""Astronauts Ken Mattingly and Hank Hartsfield, who served as the backup crew for the Columbia's mission, will attend the briefings too, although they have not been assigned as the crew for the next mission, scheduled for March. "I doubt that will be a major mission," Hartsfield said.

"About nine days after the briefings, Engle and Truly will hold a news conference, where a key topic will be how the normally reliable electrical power unit broke down in space."

The breakdown left two functioning power cells aboard, but NASA officials, always conservative, invoked a "minimum mission" rule that requires tripwires to fire in certain systems. The 106-ton winged shuttle could limp by with only one cell, but if all three failed the ship was stranded in orbit.

NASA officials said prudence dictated the decision to cut the 24-hour mission to 14 hours. Acting associate administrator L. Michael Weis said the loss was minimal.
Comromise being searched for in House-Senate farm bill battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional negotiators are moving toward a resolution of House-Senate differences over the nation’s farm and food policy for the next four years. But they compromise they’ve headed toward could well be objectionable not only to President Reagan, who is trying to keep farm-support costs down, but also to the full House, which has formally rejected one of the proposals the conferences have agreed on.

Doctors remove, operate on fetus

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In the first successful out-of-womb surgery, a pioneering medical team removed an unborn baby from the womb, performed a critical operation and then returned the fetus to the uterus, one of the doctors said.

A baby boy was born four months after the operation, but soon died of kidney damage because his urinary tract problems had advanced too far before the daring surgery.

“It was the first successful surgery of its kind in terms of being able to get the fetus out of the womb, put it back and have it keep growing,” Dr. Mitchell Golbus said Sunday.

If perfected, out-of-the-womb surgery could lead to ways to correct a range of birth defects. The surgery took place at the University of California at San Francisco, and was performed by Golbus, a prenatal diagnostic specialist, Dr. Michael Harrison, a pediatric surgeon, and Dr. Roy Filby, an ultrasound diagnostic specialist.

The same doctors in April achieved a prenatal breakthrough when they inserted a catheter through a pregnant woman’s abdomen and into her fetus, venting a potentially fatal blockage of its bladder.

The out-of-womb operation was performed when the woman was six weeks pregnant. It corrected a urinary tract obstruction that would have killed the fetus, Golbus said.

The doctors had not planned to discuss the surgery until a paper was published in a medical journal, but after news accounts of the breakthrough appeared Saturday, Golbus confirmed these details of the fetus’ condition and the operation.

The team began considering an out-of-womb operation when sound waves showed the unborn baby’s urinary tract was blocked and badly distended. In such cases, urine can back up and swell the fetus’ kidneys, damaging them and possibly stunting the development of the lungs.

Errant Trident missile destroyed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A Trident missile fired from a submerged submarine veered off course Sunday and had to be destroyed by an Air Force safety officer, officials said.

The Navy missile was launched at 11:50 a.m. from the USS Benjamin Franklin, cruising below the surface about 50 miles off the coast of Cape Canaveral.

Major James Moore, spokesman for Patrick Air Force Base, said the launch and ignition of the missile’s first stage were normal, but a malfunction caused the missile to veer off course 55 seconds after launch.

GLEN COVE, N.Y. (AP) — A gunman pumped a dozen bullets into the home of the Soviet ambassador to the United Nations, shattering windows and causing little damage and no injuries, police said.

Ambassador Oleg Troynovsly and his wife were not home at the attack, which occurred sometime between 5 p.m. and 9 p.m. Saturday, said Nassau County Detective Harry Grzywacz.

Members of Troynovsly’s staff may have been at the house when the shooting occurred, he said.

Neil Dillard says experience will teach him about council

By Bob Bondurant
Staff Writer

Being the new kid on the block, Neil Dillard recognizes that there are many things only experience will teach him as a Carbondale City Council member.

"I've got a lot to learn," he said. "I'll probably make a few mistakes."

When he made his presentation before the Carbondale City Council Nov. 2, Dillard said he had no idea what he would be Watkins' replacement by the meeting's end.

"I know nothing until I was called up," Dillard said.

Although he is looking forward to his activities as a council member, Dillard acknowledged that he is far from being an expert on all of the issues the council will be dealing with.

Dillard supported student participation in local government and elections. "As soon as students fill the board requirements, they should be voted," he said.

He said that many students make Carbondale their permanent home, with many other students never returning to live in their former homes. "They should be qualified. He said students need to use their rights responsibly.

Dillard said he had no idea what article was used. At the time, Hinckley was confined in a single cell under the observation of U.S. marshals who have watched him around the clock since the May 27 incident.

DeCair said he was surprised that only three people were interested in being the replacement to the Rev. Charles Watkins, who resigned in October to become the chief minister at the Christian Church of Owensboro, Kentucky.

Hinckley is scheduled to go to trial Jan. 4 in U.S. District Court in Washington as part of a count federal indictment of 13 count federal indictment of 13 count federal indictment of 13 count federal indictment charges. Higgins was the most important issue facing the city. He stressed the importance of the community attracting new businesses, and that the City Council should work to provide a climate conducive for business investment.

The City Council is looking forward to the public hearing on the proposal to pay for Carbondale's parking garage, saying that it would be the best way to hear from all groups which would be affected by such a tax.

The first council meeting discussed the need for an extension of the contract for the proposed parking garage bonds. The sale of the parking garage bonds has been held up pending the sale of bonds for the convention center, a sale which has been held up due to an excessive high current interest rate on the bonds.

The deadline was agreed upon with the department of Housing and Urban Development so that $2 million in funds can be released by the agency for the purchase and clearing of land for the project.

The bond underwriters of the parking garage sale, UMC, have indicated that they will not back the preliminary costs of the bond sale unless the bonds are sold.

City Manager Caroll Fry has asked the City Council for permission to pay for the $1,200 in preliminary costs, pending the commitment on the bond sale from the developers.

UMJC vice president Buddy Criddle, sent a letter to Carroll Fry that Nov. 18 would be the last date on which the city could cancel the sale of the bonds.

The City Council will also hold a public hearing Monday on a proposed ordinance which would require newspaper to be separated from other trash to be picked up.

The ordinance would permit the council to award a franchise in the collection of the newspaper material and other recyclable material that is separated from the ordinary trash.

Letters have been sent to area refuse collection and recycling businesses in an effort to receive their opinions on whether the proposed ordinance is enforceable.

The administration's revised Municipal Solar Utility plan, along with its budget for the 1981-82 fiscal year, will come up for consideration.

Fry has asked the City Council to approve a $46,338 budget adjustment to fund the utility through April 1982.

A revised bike ordinance designed to implement all aspects of the city's bicycle system short of designating which routes will be utilized also will be considered.

The revised ordinance reflects the opinions given at a Nov. 9 bicycle system public hearing, which dealt with a recommendation by the city men's bicycles to use the sidewalks.

Speakers at the public hearing told the council that the city's bike system would be policy and would create more problems than it would resolve.

Concern over Chilean torture

We have been reading much about the struggle for independence in El Salvador and the portrayal of that government by the media. The situation in El Salvador is undoubtedly difficult and complex, but it is important to recognize that the Chilean government also has a long history of human rights abuses, including torture.

The widespread use of torture in Chile has been well documented. This practice is not only morally repugnant but also violates international law. The government of General Pinochet has consistently denied the allegations, but the evidence is overwhelming.

We urge all those who believe in the principles of democracy and human rights to speak out against such abuses. It is important to remember that the struggle for human rights is a global one, and we cannot afford to ignore the plight of those who suffer under regimes that violate basic human rights.

The death of a political candidate

This is to inform you that my candidate, Mr. Smith, has been nominated for the office of U.S. Representative for the 24th District. The District has had a tradition of political engagement, and Mr. Smith is a strong candidate who will stand up for what is right.

I am writing to encourage all of my constituents to support him in his campaign. Mr. Smith has a strong record of service to the community and a commitment to the values of justice and equality.

Please consider voting for Mr. Smith on election day. Together, we can make a positive difference in our community and beyond.

The Reagan dollar

We have been watching the dollar fall against many currencies, which raises concerns about its status as the world's key currency.

The dollar's decline has implications for countries around the world, as it affects their ability to trade and compete in global markets. It is important to monitor the situation closely and consider how it might impact our local economy.

We encourage all to stay informed and to seek out trusted sources of information to better understand the implications of this development.

The CBBO on illegitimacy of performance evaluations

We of the CBBO-IEA contract committee have placed a very high priority in recent contract negotiations on the issue of employee performance evaluations. We believe that these evaluations are crucial for the overall well-being of our organization.

We urge all those involved to take this issue seriously and to engage in open and respectful dialogue to reach a mutually agreed-upon resolution.
King Crimson music involves 'democratic' effort by members

By Tom Travis
Senior Writer and Joe P. Schumacher

King Crimson is a band without a star player, according to bassist Bill Bruford and guitarist Robert Fripp. Any music major knows, it's a cooperative effort with electronics and four personalities involved.

Lead vocalist and guitarist Bill Bruford has stressed the teamwork involved in the band's album, "Discipline," and both said working as a team is an important success on their current U.S. tour.

"The band is a democracy," said Bruford. "I think of Robert (Fripp) as a sort of guide. He points us in a certain direction, but it's a democracy, and we always make our own decisions about it. Everyone in the band has an equal say, and if one says we shouldn't do something, we don't. Everyone basically makes up their own part.

Bruford said most of the time the band works out their individual parts together. "We sit down and work out all these more or less mosaics, like 'Discipline' for instance. In those cases, I admit, it's more Robert's style of playing and my adoration of the music that's needed."

But it has a soloised case. Most of the time it's not that way. 'Skying' and 'Scentless Engine' were jammed together and developed, just the band wanted. At that point it's up to me to decide if I want to sing and add to the melody.

Bruford said the song "Discipline" was originally intended to have lyrical words. But in the conversation that Fripp overheard in a pub, but Beliel said he didn't want to sing in that song because it simply is a piece of music that didn't need vocals.

The band's democratic atmosphere is well, Beliel said, noting that the lyricist and lead guitarist to Robert, things got better.

Below's wife, Margaret, said, "Adrian was really used to being in a certain role, and it took him a few weeks to realize his role as an equal member of the band.

Beliel added that there was the overcomer of being the lyricist and singer, who can only deal with their problems to do all my life and I've worked at doing. But it's not something you can overcome as heavy as King Crimson.

Fripp contrasted Beliel.

Steven J. Sowa, junior in chemistry, was listed in stable condition Sunday at Carboneal Memorial Hospital after being injured in a chemical explosion and fire Friday morning in the chemistry building on the third floor of Neckers B.

The 26-year-old Sowa, from Lake, was shot in an explosion in an experiment involving highly flammable pyridine, ethyl alcohol and metallic sodium when the explosion occurred, resulting in a small fire which was extinguished immediately by Gerard Smith, a chemistry professor working in a nearby laboratory.

According to David Schmalbach, chairman of the Department of Chemistry and Biochemistry, damage to the laboratory was negligible. There was a huge amount of broken glass, some chemical spillage and some charring of the counter that Sowa was using.

Research assistant Stanislav Duraj was working alongside Sowa when the explosion occurred, but was not injured, Schmalbach said.

Sowa, whose safety glasses were knocked off by the force of the explosion, sustained burned fingers on his left hand when the flask in which he was conducting the experiment shattered.

Twenty-five seats to be filled in Wednesday USO elections

By Andrew Strang
Staff Writer

Twenty-five seats will be filled during the Students Senate election Wednesday, but there won't be much of a contest since only 23 names will be on the ballot.

The seats being filled include one from Thompson Point, two from East Campus, six from the west and six from the city and county from the University's 10 colleges, according to Gary Daughenbaugh, Undergraduate Student Organization election commissioner.

A list of candidates' names that will be on the ballot shows that the only contested positions will be the six east side seats, which have seven candidates running for them, and the single College of Education seat, for which two candidates are running.

In the race for six west side seats, which represent students living off-campus on the west side of the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad tracks, only four students are running. No names will be on the ballot for seats representing the College of Communications and the School of Technical Careers.

The only Thompson Point candidate is Mary Walsh.

The East Campus candidates, who will represent students living in University Park and Brush Towers, are David Morris and James Moyhan.

The candidates running for seats representing academic units are the following: Ken Maschhoff, agriculture; Perry Baird, business; Scott Bower, engineering and technology; Peter Evertz, general studies; Gerald Chicken, human resources; Clarice Parsons, liberal arts; Robert Moore, psychology; and Ricky Robbins and Jerry South, education.

Start out small, build history to establish credit, expert says

By Pam Petrov

For college students seeking to establish credit, the process is often a "Catch 22" dilemma—in order to get credit, you have to have it.

But according to consumer credit expert Stephen Pollan, there are consumers who can take to establish credit at an early age. Pollan spoke to about 70 members of Psi Sigma Epsilon, a marketing fraternity, last week.

"The best time to apply for credit is when you don't have any need to use it. The longer you wait for credit, the more difficult it becomes to get." Pollan advised those looking to establish credit to apply for gas cards as a first step, since they are easier to obtain. Department store cards are also readily available, Pollan said.

Charge cards are the next item to apply for. These cards, including American Express, Carte Blanche and Diners Club, can be a gas you go basis. They have no preset dollar limit on what can be charged, but bills must be paid in full each month. They offer a variety of travel and purchase incentives. Some charge cards offer special programs, such as for college seniors. Graduating seniors and graduate students who have been approved to receive an annual salary of $10,000 or more are eligible for the American Express Card, Pollan said.

"There's important difference between charge cards and credit cards," Pollan said. "The former are used by banks and have a preset spending limit. Once you reach the cut-off, you can't spend any more.

Credit cards, like Master Charge and VISA, are often referred to as revolving accounts because they go on; buy now, pay later basis. Credit card balances have minimum amounts leaving a continuing balance.

Another good plan for establishing credit is to take out a student loan at a bank.

"If you tell the bank that you're taking out the loan in order to establish credit, they'll know it's a genuine purpose and will "pay back the loan," he said.

Once a consumer has established some sort of credit, he has to be sure to keep a good credit history. Whenever a person uses credit, a record of such use is routinely collected by credit bureau, he said.

The main credit bureaus are TRW, Trans-Union, and Equifax. Consumers can obtain a copy of the credit report by writing to the bureau in their own geographic location. The fee for the service is usually between $5 and $10, Pollan said.

If a mistake has been made on a credit profile, the consumer should report it in writing to the bureau which will then correct the same. If the source agrees that there has been an error, the record will be adjusted.

For more reason a person had unusual circumstances that contributed to a failure to pay, he can submit a statement under 100 words to the credit bureau, he said.

"The statement will be printed on that person's record," he said, "and will be an affirmative demonstration that the record is not as difficult as people think. Pollan said people should try to get it as soon as possible.

Pollan, a professor of business at Manhattan College in New York, is the co-author of "The Consumer's Credit Handbook." His other book, "How to Borrow Money," will be released sometime in the spring, he said.

San Antonio, Texas (AP) — President Reagan and his top three aides were returning to Washington on Sunday aboard the so-called "Doomsday Plane." A sleek $117 million jumbo jet equipped to serve as an airborne command post in a nuclear war.

After a weekend in Texas to visit the Houston Space Center, attending a political dinner and hunting wild turkey, Reagan became the second president to fly in the plane, which is based at Andrews Air Force Base and ready to take off at a moment's notice.

Presidential counselor Edwin Meese, who did not accompany Reagan this weekend, flew to Texas specifically to ride back with him in the aircraft. Two other top advisers, Chief of Staff James A. Baker III and Baker's deputy, Michael K. Deaver, also were to join the president aboard the plane after hunting with him at a Texas ranch owned by a relative of Baker's wife.

Deputy White House Press Secretary Larry Speakes said Reagan's flight was for orientation purposes and was not intended as a test of the aircraft, although White House officials are known to be concerned about the adequacy of emergency procedures.

"The solicitor likes to have all new presidents get an opportunity for an orientation," Speakes said.

Vending machines play role of ‘neighborhood merchants’

NEW YORK (AP) — Diane Sauer remembers the last time she had a meal served up by a vending machine:

“It was... five years ago,” says the 1975 grad of the State University of New York at Buffalo. “It was a Law school... It was a Law school... And it was the last time she had a soft drink. But vending machines are unusual. She is not among the millions of Americans who drink coffee, smoke cigarettes, munch the crackers, crunch the candy, ice cream and cupcakes that come out of those metal boxes.

Americans put an average of $45.9 billion in vending machines last year, 196,000 coins every minute of every day for total sales of more than $13.8 billion.

That includes more than $3 billion for cigarettes, $1.2 billion for packaged candy and snacks, $1.2 billion for bottled cold drinks and $0 million for cold drinks in cups.

Vending machines have been around for at least 2,000 years, but it has only been in the last 30 years that Americans have come to rely on them for everything from soup to nuts, everywhere from airports to zoos.

History’s earliest known vending machine dispensed holy water for a five-drachma coin in Egyptian temples around 215 B.C., and machines offered cigars and candy in this country before the turn of the century. But vending machines didn’t really come into their own until after World War II, when sophisticated new equipment was developed to keep machines running and from being created by thugs.

There are an estimated 4 million vending machines in the United States—and schools, factories, stores, coal mines and funeral homes.

Soft drink machines on military bases, in college fraternity houses dispense beer instead of soda. But shops have machines that let after-hours fishermen buy packages of fresh worms. And flower shops have machines that let wedding dress designers pick up corsages to soften their customers' grief after a late night out with the boys.

Arthur Yokelam, editor of Vending Times magazine, says Americans today rely on vending machines the way they used to rely on neighborhood merchants such as the iceman, the flower lady, the grocer and the tobacconist.

However, he says, the nation’s more than 5,000 vending machine owners and operators from huge companies like Coca-Cola to the lone guy who has a half dozen machines he services on the way home from his regular job each night—are on hard times.

The increase in vending sales has not kept up with inflation in recent years. Yokelam says, because more people are out of work now. For instance, he says, vending sales in the Midwest are closely tied to how many auto workers are on the job—and buying things out of auto plant vending machines.

The more business booming, he says, the more overtaxed workers put in, and the more often they grab a cup of coffee or a sandwich from vending machines.

Walter Reed of the National Automatic Merchandising Association says this is where every dollar you put into a vending machine gets: 49.5 cents for the product, 54 cents for operating expenses and 31 cents for profit.

Those operating expenses, Reed says, go to salaries for the people who service the machines, replacements or parts for machines, insurance, service vehicles, warehouses and garage space, taxes and corporate overhead.

Typically, he says, the owner of the building gets more money from a machine just for allowing it on the premises than the owner of the machine does for installing, stocking and servicing it.

Reed says industry surveys show that vending machines work properly about 80 percent of the time, and few people actually kick or pound on recalcitrant machines.

However, Reed concedes a certain amount of consternation among vending moguls who recently gathered for an industry conference in Jackson Hole, Wyo., where their soft drink machine outside their conference room clearly showed the dents of a sharp and angry cowboy boot.

Reed also admits there is widespread belief that people resent vending machines because they are so impersonal, but he says preliminary results of an industry survey show the opposite.

Seven lives lost in coastal storms

By The Associated Press

Seaborn storms assaulted the nation from two sides Sunday in a continuing siege that has claimed seven lives, left six people missing, disabled ships and ruined beaches.

Gale winds, boiling waves and floodwaters swept in from the Atlantic and the Pacific. Seaborn storms began last Wednesday, when the force of football fields-size waves was left a drift or aground. The white sands of resort beaches returned to the sea.

Campus bar gets axe

School officials complain that staff competition from casinos caused the campus bar's early demise. After a rocky three months in which it lost thousands of dollars, the pub was closed Thursday.

Students, who fought for years with administrators to establish a bar on campus, turned up their noses once the bar was established, said Pete Perrieria, director of the student center.

"The novelty of it wore off," he said. "It became a symbol for the students: 'Hey, we're adults—treat us as adults.'

He said students soon discovered what many locals already knew: Many casinos, in an effort to lure patrons, offer free drinks to people who cash their checks there. And, if the inside casino-hopper plays his cards right, he can get into a show with free drinks to boot.

Other school officials placed the blame solely on the campus bar's rather sterile surroundings.

"We couldn't fool people into thinking they were somewhere else," said a top official in a recent government, which provided most of the pub's financial backing. "You can put it in a few blocks, but it's still the same bar."

Buzbee named to SFA post

State Sen. Kenneth Buzbee, D-56th District, has been named vice chairman of the State-Federal Assembly of the National Conference of State Legislatures, the official representative of the nation's 7,500 state lawmakers and their staffs.

The SFA is a group of about 1,000 legislators from around the country who shape the policies which guide NCSL's legislative activities each year.

As SFA vice chairman, Buzbee will press for continued state legislative participation in all areas of federal decision-making that affect state interests, and will represent state views before Congress and the executive branch.

Housing program may face probe by grand jury

CHICAGO (AP) — A man who ran a "non-profit" housing rehabilitation program spent $400,000 on house sales on himself and cannot account for $85,443 of the organization's money, Illinois Attorney General Ty T. Fahner says.

Fahner said Saturday that an audit prepared by his office found that Paul L. Grevin, of west suburban Naperville, used his organization's trust account to buy membership in an exclusive hunting club, a subscription to Soldier magazine and hundreds of dollars worth of sporting goods, and pay health club fees, travel and department store bills.

"I anticipate that after reviewing our files, and from what I already know, that we'll present this matter to a Cook County grand jury for criminal prosecution," Fahner said.

Reached at his home Saturday night, Grevin said the audit was "so ridiculous that I don't want to give it any credibility by responding to it. How they've twisted it, it's hard for me to imagine."

Instead of running a non-profit organization, Grevin actually used two corporations, Family Children Enterprises and Community Christian Enterprises, to engage in "real estate speculation" and carry on a "business rehabilitation of an "exclusive" business for profit," according to the audit.

Volleyball Coach Debbie Hunter said last week she thought the Salukis had been "resurrected" and her observation proved to be very true over the weekend. The Salukis finished third at the nine-team Illinois Intercollegiate Classic in Chicago. The performance was a satisfying one for the Salukis, who had lost nine of their last 16 matches.

"It was just a night and day difference between this weekend and last weekend," Hunter said.

SIU-C was seeded third going into the tournament, which formerly served as the state tournament.

In the first match, SIU-C gained revenge against Western Illinois for a loss to the Westerwinds in the Southern Classic, thumping WIU 15-10, 15-7, 15-2.

What could be called the Salukis' "match of the season" followed, even though SIU-C lost. No. 3 seed Illinois State beat SIU-C 15-17, 8-15, 15-13, 16-14, 17-15 in a two-and-a-half hour volleyball extravaganza.

With only a few minutes rest, the Salukis took to the court again and beat Illinois-Chicago 15-11, 12-15, 15-10. The Salukis lost the first game of their next match, but dumped Illinois 8-15, 15-7, 15-11.

It was the Salukis' fourth win over the Illini this season.

Nemesis Northwestern beat SIU-C 15-5, 15-11 to end the tournament for the Salukis.

"We didn't play that well," Hunter said. "We had a lot of trouble trying to block their middle attack. Northwestern had just been beaten by Illinois State and they got pretty fierce with us."

Junior middle blocker Sonya Locke and junior setter Barb Clark were named to the all-tournament team. Through coaches' balloting, Sophomore Mary Maxwell and junior Bonnie Norrenberns also received votes. Hunter was particularly pleased with Clark. SIU-C topped its record to 25-16-1. The seedings for the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women Nov. 20 and 21 region meet were based partially on the results of the weekend tournament. The Salukis have been seeded second behind Ohio State for the region meet.

school record of 59.50 in the 100 individual medley with a 59.17, which is currently No. 4 in the nation.

Alyssa Flaugher, who placed eighth in the 200 breaststroke and fourth in the 100 breaststroke, qualified for the nationals. She also claimed the 400 IM with a 4:36.75 and the 100 breaststroke.

Freshman breaststroker Ashley Mosser qualified for nationals where she left off last week, qualifying for the nationals in the 100 and 200 breaststroke events. Her times of 30.59 and 2:22.41 respectively, were her personal bests as a Saluki.

Freshman Mosser also set a new school record in the 200 breaststroke school record of 2:22.50. She set last week in her first meet.

Martin also teamed with Larson, Brown and Jordanus to win the 400 medley relay, the meet’s opening event. This formed a three-year streak in the nationals qualifying time. Larson then won the 200 breaststroke at 2:12.76, but finished second in the 50 breaststroke to Indiana freshman swimmer Sarah Cravens, who also won the 50 freestyle.

In the diving competition, Saluki All-American Tracey Terrell captured the one-meter event, scoring 260.88, edging out Indiana sophomore Logan Fine, 227.78, and All-American Amy McGrath, 218.55.

In the three-meter event, McGrath won with 274.73. Terrell took second with 270.75 and Fous scored 253.73.

Men ruggers close season, win 25-16

By Bob Marand

Staff Writer

The men’s rugby club closed out its season Saturday with a 25-16 win over the Springfield Celtics, in a match in which SUIC rugby coach John Glotzbach certainly got his kicks.

Player-coach Dave Hanetho said: “We got 21 points off the foot of Glotzbach, who carefully bootied seven penalty kicks, three of which were spaced.”

The Celtics, Hanetho said, “were persistent for incurring penalties in SUIC’s favor, taking advantage of their penalties.”

“The game was really marred by all the penalties,” Hanetho said. “We didn’t play as well as we should have, but Glotzbach had a real good day.”

SUIC went into the second half trailing Springfield 13-6. But as soon as halftime was over, Glotzbach’s foot was on overdrive. Springfield was called for five penalties in the last half and Glotzbach capitalized on all of them.

“A club like Springfield’s has a different style of play than we do,” Glotzbach said. “They’ve been playing together for a long time. And since they are a together-club, they’ve developed a knack for getting away with a lot more.”

Glotzbach didn’t get away with quite as much as they wanted, however, as Brian “The Flash” Gallagher scored a try for SUIC late in the second period. But with four points, capped SUIC’s scoring at 25 points. The kick after attempt, the Flash of course, was missed, however.

The rugby club’s next season begins March 6, when they host Illinois. Hanetho added that the team has three members to graduation and that he expects the team to do well as well as better when play resumes.

“We got a good nucleus of players who have been playing for two to three years and have some experience. The experience shows on the field, as we started to gel as a unit,” Hanetho said.
Grid defense steals the show, Salukis beat Aggies, 23-15

By Rod Farlow
Staff Writer

Saluki football Coach Roy Dempsey has praised his team all season for its ability to overcome adversities, and the team overcame the ultimate adversity at New Mexico State Saturday.

The Salukis left their offense in Carbondale, or at the airport, or somewhere. It certainly wasn’t Las Cruces, where the Salukis managed to beat the Aggies 23-15 while picking up only 187 offensive yards.

"We looked slow and sluggish on offense," Dempsey said during his post-game radio show. "I believe we played the way we wanted to. It created turnovers."

The defense covered three fumbles, snatchied four interceptions, and partially blocked a punt. Tailback Jeff Warner and place-kicker Paul Molla took it from there.

Scored touchdowns in the second quarter fourth quarters and Molla sprinkled third field goals into the contest. His two boots in the second half put the Salukis ahead 10-15. In the fourth quarter, his own great field position to the Saluki defense.

Tackle Louis Loucett recovered two second-quarter fumbles, but Buffalo also "corned" Tony Haywood did him one better. Haywood grabbed three interceptions, tying a Saluki record.

The win gave the Salukis a 3-2 record with two games remaining in this year’s finale at the Missouri Valley Conference.

Before Saturday, the Salukis had lost all three of their games at Las Cruces. They came closest to winning that last game, when they took a 17-0 lead into the fourth quarter and lost 17-17.

"We played much better in losing last year than we did winning today," Dempsey said. "If we could play as well last year like we did today, we would’ve won 36-0."

Paul Molla kicked three field goals Saturday, tying the Saluki single-game record for the third time. Molla’s 15 field goals this season set a Saluki and MVC record. His first boot against the Aggies was a 42-yarder, his longest of the season.

Junior quarterback Rick Johnson needed to complete one pass to break Jim Hart’s 1964 record of 111 completions. He was missed on six attempts, but completed eight to set the new mark at 119.

Junior tailback Warre gained 127 yards Saturday. That’s no surprise, after the sparking season Carbondale native Tom Striegel has had. Striegel was second in the nation before the game. He kept his average over 5 yards a kick Saturday, to a 66-yard second-quarter boot.

The 66-yarder made up for the rest of Striegel’s day. The Salukis had 260 yards at one point, once, had a punt partially blocked, an untrusted Darren Davis’ second-quarter snap rocket over his head and hop through the endzone for a safety.

Dempsey credited some of the punting team’s troubles to mistakes made by Tony Appleby, who stands between Striegel and the line on punts.

"When the ball is in the air, he’s got a crucial job," Dempsey said. "A couple of times he’s been wrong with the snap, he’s not good, he’s not good."

Warren, the punter, has been good. "I think he’s got a good percentage," Dempsey said. "But it’s a couple of times with the snap, he’s not good."

Women swimmers, divers beat Big 10 champ Indiana, 95-54

By Doug Applebaugh
Staff Writer

It was the combination of Saluki swimming being well prepared and the Hoosiers not being prepared that brought about the best showing for Saluki swimmers and diving team.

In the Big Ten Conference Championships Indiana Saturday, said Head Coach Tom Hindt.

"We swam very well as a team and they may have taken us too lightly," said Hindt. "I feel sure we would have done much better if they had been more prepared."

The Salukis, row 36 in dual competition, claimed 14 of 17 events, set four school records and had swimmers in seven events meet Division I National qualifying times at Saturday’s meet.

Swimmer Linda Storer and diver Pam Ratcliffe were the stars of the meet for Saluki swimmers.

Cardiologist and freshman Janie Cozzi were each triple winners for the Salukis, and both were members of the winning 400-meter freestyle relay team.

Cozzi won the three distance freestyles and put the Salukis on the school record and qualified for the nationals with her 10.06.20 in the 1000 free style, she set a school record with her 1:51.54 in the 200 freestyle and she qualified for the nationals with a 1:47.54 in the 500 freestyle event.

Big Ten distance freestyle winner Sue Hooker hardly made a splash, as she finished third in the 200 and 500 freestyle events.

BU-C’s Laura Brown took second in the 200 and 500 freestyle events and placed third in the 100 free style event.

Carded beat Bills, 24-0

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Ottis Anderson pounded for two touchdowns on a rushing performance of 177 yards, leading the St. Louis Cardinals to a 24-0 National Football League upset Sunday of the Buffalo Bills.

Anderson’s running and a St. Louis defense that was keyed by Ken Greene’s three interceptions and a fumble recovery forced six Buffalo turnovers.

The Cards, who had yielded 59 points and 901 yards in their previous two games, picked off Joe Ferguson passes and recovered two Curtis Brown fumbles, handing Buffalo its first shutout loss in 28 games.

Anderson shredded a Buffalo defense that had played well in the American Football Conference with touchdown gallops of 18 and 8 yards in the final 13 minutes.

St. Louis opened the scoring in the first quarter, glibing 13 yards in eight plays to set up a Neil O’Donoghue 35-yard field goal.

Early in the second period, the Cards made it 10-0 on Stu Mitchell, capping a 79-yard drive.

Greene’s first interception then stalled Buffalo’s best bid of the opening half, with the Cards’ Safety keying in front of Frank Lewis at the goal line.

St. Louis, following Greene’s second interception and 14 return, put the lid on its victory with Anderson’s touchdown runs.

Anderson’s running was tops for the season against Buffalo 6-4, as the Cards improved their record to 4-7.
