Discovery astronauts recover second satellite

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Discovery's astronauts plucked a second satellite from orbit Wednesday and muscled it into the shuttle's cargo bay, smoothly and swiftly completing an unprecedented adventure of spacewalking salvage 224 miles above the Earth.

"We have two satellites latched in the cargo bay," announced mission commander Rick Hauck after spacewalkers

Dale Gardner and Joe Allen secured Westar 6 beside its sister satellite, Palapa B2, that was recovered Monday.

"We've done enough work for two days of EVA (spacewalking)," said tired Gardner as he and Allen moved into an airlock after about six hours in the cargo bay.

"You've got one happy crew up here," said astronaut Anna Fisher, who operated Discovery's mechanical arm, a key part of the salvage.

The spacewalkers used a new technique to hold the satellite during the recovery, but ultimately the success depended upon the muscle of the astronauts as they maneuvered the bulky satellite by hand in the cargo bay.

Palapa and Westar, both manufactured by Hughes Aircraft, became stranded in space when misfiring rocket engines sent them into useless orbits last February.

Both will be returned to Earth aboard Discovery on Friday. The $35 million communications satellites are to be refurbished and eventually put back into space.

Gardner, flying a rocket backpack, captured Westar after Hauck maneuvered Discovery to within 35 feet of the satellite.

CIA officials dispute penalty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several CIA mid-level officials disciplined over the spy agency's production of a Nicaraguan rebel manual have objected to the punishments, contending they are being made "scapegoats" to protect senior CIA officials, administration sources say.

One administration official, who insisted on anonymity, said several of the six punished CIA employees had refused to accept the discipline by balking at signing letters that are being placed in their personnel files.

The official said those objecting to the discipline claim they had no role in approving the original manual which counsels the CIA-backed rebels on "selective use of violence" to "neutralize" officials of Nicaragua's leftist government.

President Reagan on Saturday approved a recommendation by the CIA inspector general meting out discipline to a handful of mid-level agency officials, but sparing senior officials from any punishment. Reagan also insisted that the manual's contents did not violate a longstanding presidential executive order barring U.S. involvement in assassinations.

Some congressional Democrats have criticized the findings and said oversight hearings, expected after Thanksgiving, would examine the role of CIA Director William J. Casey and other top officials.

Rep. Norman Y. Mineta, D-Calif., a senior House Intelligence Committee member, said the White House statement on the CIA report "confirms my earlier suspicion that the report would be a whitewash. (It) apparently dumps the blame on middle-level people.

"What about the senior-level people who either knew about the manual or should have known about it?"

Although the White House has refused to provide details about the discipline, administration and congressional sources said this week that six CIA employees were punished, with three given letters of reprimand, two suspended without pay, and the author of the manual, identified by his pseudonym John Kirkpatrick, allowed to resign from his agency contract.

Tuxhorn to run again; Jones to step down

By Bob Tita
Staff Writer

Carbondale City Councilman Keith Tuxhorn said he will seek re-election for another term. Archie Jones, the other councilman up for re-election, said he will not run for the council again, unless there is a groundswell of support from residents.

"I've been a voice that represents people that have never been heard before," Tuxhorn said.

Tuxhorn said he has voiced the sentiments of residents who oppose the downtown convention center and the railroad relocation project.

Tuxhorn said he is not opposed to downtown redevelopment but said the city should consider other projects besides a convention center.

He said the city's feasibility study on the convention center was a "mildly positive statement" and indicates that other possibilities for downtown redevelopment, such as an office complex with retail stores, should be considered.

Tuxhorn said that the railroad relocation project should also be reconsidered. The major phase of the project calls for the construction of a trench through Carbondale for Illinois Central Gulf Railroad trains.

U.S. renews talks offer with Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Following the latest U.S. test of an anti-satellite weapon, the Reagan administration Wednesday renewed its offer to talk with the Soviet Union about limiting weapons in space but rejected calls for a halt in the American program.

"We would certainly be willing to discuss a (test) moratorium, as we would many topics, but we would have to go to the conference table to discuss it," said White House spokesman Larry Speakes.

"The United States stands ready for serious arms control in this area," Speakes said.

The Soviets have called for talks aimed at limiting weapons in space, but want a halt in the testing program of the U.S. anti-satellite (ASAT) program before the negotiations start. The United States has repeatedly rejected that call.

A day earlier, the Pentagon announced the second test of the U.S. program, which involves an 18-foot-long, three-stage weapon carried aloft by an F-15 fighter.

In the test, the two-stage rocket fired and the guidance system of the small homing vehicle was tested by aiming it at a star. The F-15 was launched from Edwards Air Force Base in California.

It was the second major flight test of the U.S. weapon. The first test last January was simply to see if the ASATs engines fire after it is released by the jet.

Baby Fae's condition improving

LOMA LINDA, Calif. (AP) — Baby Fae is recovering from the "jolt" of her body's effort to reject a transplanted baboon heart, and she should be "her little exuberant self shortly," a doctor said Wednesday.

"She is recovering from the rejection phase," said Dr. David Hinshaw, a surgeon at Loma Linda University Medical Center. "The signs of rejection are reversing very definitely. We're encouraged and hopeful she will come out of this triumphantly. We believe she'll show consistent but gradual improvement."

The month-old infant — who received the baboon heart Oct. 26 in surgery performed by Dr. Leonard Bailey — remained on a respirator and was fed only intravenously Wednesday on order to aid her recovery, although she can breathe on her own, Hinshaw said.

The infant is still listed in serious but stable condition, as she has been since the week following the transplant, which replaced her own lethally underdeveloped heart.

Hinshaw said the infant's heart and kidney functions were still below normal but improving, and laboratory test results that had earlier indicated rejection had returned to "baseline" levels.

"We think she'll gain strength and be her exuberant little self shortly," he said. "We believe the rejection episode is under immunological control as of now, but it's a jolt to the patient, so she has to turn around and get better."

Hinshaw said Baby Fae was showing no signs of infection caused by suppression of her disease-fighting immune system by anti-rejection drugs.

The rejection episode, which wasn't unexpected, started Friday. It peaked Monday evening, and studies of Baby Fae's immune system since then have shown consistent improvement, the hospital's statement said.

Hinshaw said that in the first two to three months after human-to-human transplants, the body usually makes several attempts to reject the organ, with rejection episodes less frequent after that period.

Public endangered by drugs without FDA OK, panel told

WASHINGTON (AP) — The public is being exposed to unknown dangers from thousands of new drugs being sold without the Food and Drug Administration's required approval, a House panel was told Wednesday. "Over the past several years, FDA has repeatedly disregarded its responsibility for removing from the market new drugs that it has not approved as safe and effective," said Rep. Ted Weiss, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Government Operations subcommittee on intergovernmental relations and human resources. "As a result, approximately 5,000 new prescription drugs are being unlawfully marketed without new drug approval, and this number does not even include non-prescription, over-the-counter products or drugs that manufacturers have not listed with FDA," Weiss said.

Heart attack risks can be cut, report says

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Teaching heart attack victims to conquer their hostility and impatience, hallmarks of Type A personality behavior, cuts their risk of suffering another seizure by half, according to a report released Wednesday. "I know of no instrument in medicine or surgery that gives those kinds of results," said Dr. Meyer W. Friedman, who pioneered the study of Type A behavior. "I think that when this is confirmed, it will almost be considered malpractice not to try to alter Type A behavior in the patient who has already had a coronary." People with Type A behavior tend to approach life with a sense of urgency. They are impatient, aggressive and often hostile.

Thousands nationwide fast for Ethiopian famine

CAMBRIDGE, MASS. (AP) — Across the nation, thousands are giving up meals Thursday, a week before Thanksgiving, as part of Fast for a World Harvest Day — an annual fund-raiser made more urgent this year by a devastating drought in Africa. Between 7 million and 10 million people are starving in Ethiopia, where at least 100 people are dying daily, according to Oxfam America, the Boston-based humanitarian organization sponsoring the 11th annual fest. The famine also affects 27 other African nations, where a recent United Nations report said 35 million people are "in desperate need of help."

Chicago man appointed postmaster general

WASHINGTON (AP) — Paul N. Carlin, a regional Postal Service official from Chicago, was tapped Tuesday as the new postmaster general, and he promised that the mail will be delivered "in a prompt, reliable, economical...and friendly manner." Carlin, 53, will move into the $82,900-a-year post on Jan. 1, the day after William F. Bolger retires after serving as postmaster general since March 1978.

Former Cook County judge indicted on bribery charges

CHICAGO (AP) — Former chief traffic court judge Richard LeFevour, whose name surfaced repeatedly during federal court trials stemming from the undercover "Operation Greyford" investigation of the Cook County court system, was indicted Wednesday as a result of the probe. Also indicted were three current or former Chicago police officers. At a news conference, U.S. Attorney Dan Webb announced that LeFevour had been indicted on charges of bribery in connection with the assignment of judges, the soliciting of cases by attorneys and the influencing of traffic court cases.

Calls claiming blame for killings thought hoaxes

LINCOLN (AP) — Anonymous calls from a person claiming responsibility for the slayings of two Decatur children apparently were hoaxes, police say, but they're telling parents to watch their youngsters very closely anyway. "We've been telling people to watch their children more than normal," Officer Mark Mann of the Lincoln Police Department said Tuesday night in a telephone interview. Lincoln is about 30 miles northwest of Decatur, where the bodies of Theresa Hall, 9, and Sherry Gordon, 12, were found Nov. 2 in a vacant apartment building. They had been sexually assaulted and strangled after they disappeared with a third child Halloween night, authorities said.

Track owners ordered to repay $2.1 million

CHICAGO (AP) — The company that owns Fairmount Park Race Track in Collinsville must repay $2.1 million in state construction funds obtained through alleged submission of phony bids, the Illinois Racing Board has ruled. The board also fined the owner, Ogen Leisure Inc. of Boston, $105,000 for submitting false bids. The company is to make both payments by Monday, the board ruled unanimously after six hours of testimony Tuesday. The company's attorney says an appeal is planned.

Goals for city proposed by citizens groups

By Lisa Eisenhauer
Staff Writer

solve some community problems.

A men's shelter, a swimming pool and an international festival each spring could be in Carbondale's future if the goals established at a conference held at the Student Center on Tuesday and Wednesday are reached.

The participants in the conference, members of several community groups, identified needs of Carbondale citizens and proposed ways to meet them. The conference was organized by Carbondale Community Education Inc., a non-profit group that works to incorporate the city's resources into improving the quality of life in and around the city.

Among the needs discussed were economic development, improved education and expanded housing for low income residents, retirees and students. Workable ways proposed to meet these needs included setting up a small business council to provide advice and strategies to local business owners and providing low cost homes or low interest home loans to needy residents. Papers listing these needs and the ways proposed to meet them will be sent to participants and community agencies that might be able to put them to use.

Anita Lenzini, chairwoman of CCE, said the people at the conference were merely an advisory group and were offering suggestions that might generally pleased with what came out of the conference, she said there was no representation from some groups in the area that should have been there, such as the police department and the community high school's administration.

Richard Poston, professor emeritus in community development and the conference's final speaker, said the event was a "two-day exercise in democracy" and now that it is over the work really begins.

"Regardless of what may be done by the city administration, or by agencies at state and federal levels, the community's potential for quality living will not, and cannot, be realized unless the people are willing to help themselves, to take their destiny in their own hands and work together for self-determined goals," he said.

Other participants in the conference agreed with Poston that the main goal now is to see that the information produced by the event does not go to waste. "I am just hoping that now that we have the initiative and the energy, some of these things get done," said Madge Smith, CCE member. Prospects for a shelter for indigent men and an annual cultural event, such as an international festival, look bright and some groups have already expressed interest in getting them off the ground, Smith said.

Panel drafts report on Shaw

By Karen Wiltberger
Staff Writer

The ad hoc committee for the five-year evaluation of Chancellor Kenneth Shaw and the operations of his systems office worked out a preliminary draft of a report scheduled to be presented to the Board of Trustees in December, said Ivan Elliott Jr., committee chairman.

Two meetings were held Tuesday at the Chicago Marriott O'Hare to discuss, and possibly adopt, a final report on the performance of the chancellor and the effectiveness of the chancellor system that SIU turned to in 1979.

The committee conducted an open meeting to discuss the findings of the university system, and later a closed meeting to discuss the performance of Shaw, Elliott said. Shaw attended part of the closed meeting for a personal interview with committee members and an outside consultant hired to participate in the review process, he said.

Elliott said committee members and consultant Fred Ness based the draft on information compiled from written statements, personal interviews and their own impressions of the situation.

Elliott, who has been a board member for 18 years, said he and committee members Harris Rowe and William Norwood having each served as chairman of the board "have first-hand knowledge" of the university system and Shaw.

Elliott said Ness has been "very objective" in the review process. "He has looked at the situation from a higher education view, not just SIU's view."

Elliott said the committee did not adopt a final report because one member did not arrive in time for the first meeting. He said the committee has scheduled to meet the Wednesday before the board meeting to adopt a final report.

The board will hear the report at the Dec. 13 meeting, and likely go into executive session to discuss the chancellor's performance. If no action is taken, Shaw will remain in his position, Elliott said.

TUXHORN: Council elections set

He said the project is too expensive and cheaper methods could be used to alleviate traffic congestion caused by trains, such as constructing overpasses.

Tuxhorn, who is part owner of Campus Comics on South Illinois Avenue, said merchants would lose the customer parking if the railroad project was constructed.

While Tuxhorn will run for another term, Jones said he wouldn't mind retiring from the council after almost 16 years. He said it may be time to let somebody else have a chance to represent Carbondale residents.

Jones, however, said he would not rule out another term if enough residents want him to run again.

Jones pointed to the construction of Cedar Lake and the improvements in the city's water treatment plants as major improvements during his time on the council.

Mace sentenced and fined

George Mace, former SIUC vice president for university relations, was sentenced Thursday on charges stemming from a fighting incident with two SIUC students last spring, said a representative from the state's attorney's office. Mace was sentenced to 12 months court supervision.

Mace pleaded guilty to one charge of battery and one charge of unlawful use of a weapon. A charge of aggravated assault against Mace was dismissed.

Mace was fined $400 for each of the two remaining charges by Judge Bill Green.

The former associate professor of political science had been arrested May 25 after struggling with two students whom he had chased in his car while brandishing a weapon.

Options open to student travelers

SIU-C students who are interested in going to the Chicagoland area before Thanksgiving break have several options on how to get there.

If a low-budget trip is all that matters, the overwhelming choice is The Student Transit. The Transit bus makes 10 stops in the Chicagoland area and costs only $39.75 round trip. The Transit departs on Fridays from the Student Center, and is almost half the price of Greyhound Bus Lines, located in Marion.

For those students who want to get home a bit quicker, and enjoy the luxury of a cocktail bar, Amtrak is the way to go. A round-trip ticket on an Amtrak train costs $67. Holiday rates are a bit more.

For the elite few who are interested in the time element only, flying offers a way home in less than half the time of a bus or train. Resort Air, located at the SIU Airport, flies round trip to Chicago's O'Hare Field for $208.

SIU-C Jazz Band to present concert

The SIU-C Jazz Band, directed by Robert Allison, will present a concert at 8 p.m. Thursday in Shryock Auditorium.

The concert will feature jazz bassist Harold Miller, new to the SIU-C music faculty this year, and will include works from a wide range of jazz eras, with tunes by Count Basie, Thad Jones, Rob McConnell, Woody Herman and Bob Brookmeyer.

Admission is $2 for the public and $1 for students.

Socially, economically, Israel faces a future with problems

By Paula Buckner
Staff Writer

Israel has suffered 400 percent to 1,000 percent inflation yearly, said Fred M. Gotthel, and its people are terrified of unemployment. However, the central issue it faces, he said, is the "unwillingness for Middle Eastern countries to recognize the legitimacy of Israel."

Gotthel is an economics professor at the University of Illinois and an expert on social, political and economic affairs in the Middle East. He spoke to an audience of about 50 Tuesday night about Israel's future under its new prime minister, Shema Peres.

Peres' major task, Gotthel said, is to lower the standard of living of a democratic society whose people are "undisciplined and unwilling to cut back." During 1978-84, Israel's standard of living rose while Western Europe and the United States suffered 12 percent or more unemployment. This rise was due to indexation + raising workers' wages to parallel the rising inflation rate.

Because of indexation, there has been no cutback in consumption and personal living standards. A wage and price control is needed to cut back the high standard of living or the economy could come to a grinding halt, Gotthel said.

Gotthel, who has served as a White House consultant on Middle East affairs, also spoke about the situation on the West Bank, or Judean-Samaria. The choice for Peres is the Israeli presence there, a presence created while he was minister of defense. The question is sovereignty, and Peres has no political forces nor a personal willingness to give it up, he said.

Any agreement would give control of the West Bank + including parts of Jerusalem + to the Arabs. In turn, that power could be given to anyone the Arabs choose, including the PLO. Because of this situation, Gotthel sees no movement on the West Bank. Gotthel, the author of two books and more than 25 articles on economic relations in the Middle East, also spoke on U.S.-Israeli relations.

Because the two nations are similar in their Judeo-Christian beliefs and their democratic systems, the United States gives Israel the recognition it wants. The United States knows that Israel can be relied upon, and pumps $2.6 billion a year in grants and loans into Israel's military defense. The United States sees it as money well spent for a strategic ally, Gotthel said.

Lasers can be art, says guest lecturer

By Jim Ludejian
Staff Writer

When most people think of lasers or computers, they think of high technology. Most don't think of using them to create art.

Otto Piene, director of the Center for Advanced Visual Studies, located at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is trying to develop more artistic uses of lasers, holograms and computers, as well as video art.

Piene, who was a guest lecturer at SIU-C last week, said that since the laser has been developed, artists have been thinking about its application as an art form.

TO DEMONSTRATE, Piene showed slides of his work and students' work at CAVS. The slides depicted anything from large light sculptures to beams of light projected over cities.

Piene also showed slides of laser drawings, which can appear and disappear before the viewer's eyes, he said.

Laser drawings are projected on a screen or other suitable projection surface, such as a large building, Piene said in an interview.

"There is no limit to size, if you have the proper equipment. If you have a strong laser with matching (equipment systems), one could project images on clouds," he said.

SUCH LASER art, after going through the experimental stage, can be introduced into more traditional media, such as opera, he said.

To demonstrate, Piene had slides of an opera that used a laser projection screen, and had various images projected on it to enhance the performance.

Another area of research at the CAVS is holography, and the use of holograms. Holograms, Piene said, are three-dimensional images created by projecting a laser at a holographic plate. The result is a 3-D image that either protrudes toward or away from the viewer, he said.

THE CAVS is also creating and researching video art and the application of computer graphics with video art.

Video art, as seen from the demonstration and lecture, is art using video equipment.

The advent of video art was around 1965, with the appearance of the Sony video camera.

Instead of using a canvas or film for their art, artists began to use video equipment, Piene said.

OTHER WORK being done at the CAVS includes researching the use of video disks, Piene said.

The video disk is "a library that contains 54,000 images," Piene said.

Art can be a private exhibition, he said, but put it on a video disk, and projected on to a monitor, it can become a public exhibition.

One artistic use of a video disk would be to prerecord a performance on it, then project the performance on a big screen, and dance, play or perform, using the prerecorded image to enhance the artist's performance, he said.

PIENE SAID that what the CAVS is doing with the high technology is considered art, and not science.

The subject of science is nature, Piene said, and nature is the object of exploration and experimentation by science.

"The artist may be inspired by nature, but the objective is to create a second reality that competes and feeds back on nature," he said.

"We think what scientists and engineers do (with high tech research) is professionally serious and morally frivolous. From a scientific view, our work is considered frivolous, but we consider it morally serious," he said.

PIENE EXPRESSED his gratitude to MIT for its high tolerance level in allowing the CAVS to conduct research and use the facilities available.

"Compared with the rest of MIT, what we do is fairly flakey," he quipped.

The CAVS is located at MIT, Piene said, because of the large pool of resources and knowledge required for such work and research, and as far he knows, there is no other center like it in the world.

PIENE LECTURED at SIU-C in connection with a course called Communications, The Arts and High Technology. The course is part of the curriculum of the College of Communication and Fine Arts.

The goal of the course, taught by Keith Sanders, is to introduce people to the new developments in communication technologies, and discuss some of the artistic applications these developments have.

Piene was invited here to give a presentation on some of the work being done in the convergence of art, communications, and high technology, according to James Sullivan, associate professor in the School of Art, and responsible for arranging Piene's visit.

Security suggests precautions to help prevent personal theft

By John Krukowski
Staff Writer

Students can avoid coming back to an empty apartment or residence hall room if they take a few simple precautions before leaving for Thanksgiving Break, said Nelson Ferry, SIUC police community relations officer.

Ferry said several steps people living in residence halls should take several steps to avoid theft.

"The biggest precaution against a break-in," he said, "is to make sure your door is locked."

Ferry said that a major priority of the SIUC police during vacations is to patrol the residence halls, and that they don't often find unlocked doors.

One precaution that some students tend to overlook, however, is to properly lock their windows, he said.

Ferry said that residence hall residents need to make sure that their windows are secure, because while the windows often appear to be completely shut, the locks may not be quite in place.

"Let's face it, if they want to get in they'll get in by just breaking the window," Ferry said, but added that a securely-locked room may discourage or slow down a burglar.

Ferry also suggested marking all personal belongings, including clothing, stereos and books.

Ferry said people are welcome to borrow engravers from the Security Office through the "Operation Identification" program.

For those living off-campus, Ferry recommended the same precautions with a few additional ideas.

"Let a friend know that 'hey, I'm gonna be out of town,'" he said, "and leave a phone number with them so you can contact in an emergency."

Art Wright, spokesman for the Carbondale Police Department, said that his department's "House Watch" program is available to anyone who is leaving town for a while.

Interested people need only stop by the Carbondale police station, Wright says, and apply to have the police check their dwellings at least three times daily for the duration of their vacations.

Thanksgiving dinner to be offered

By Paula Buckner
Staff Writer

Students and Carbondale residents who find themselves celebrating the founding of America without family or friends can partake in a festive atmosphere and meal on Thanksgiving at the Newman Center.

Katy Keefe, one of the coordinators for the dinner, said that it is co-sponsored by the Newman Center, the Undergraduate Student Organization, the Inter-Church Council and several other groups and individuals who made food donations for the dinner.

She said that several local farmers usually donate surplus, and "what we serve depends on what they have."

Linda Brayfield and Larry Stritch are the chief organizers of this year's dinner, the 16th offered at the Newman Center. Brayfield and Stritch are handling most of the kitchen duties, and Keefe takes care of getting the word out about the dinner.

Although there is no cost for the meal, there is a $1 deposit which reserves a seat. This assures that no food will be wasted, Keefe said, and the deposit is returned at the door. Keefe said this gives the organizers an accurate estimate of how many people to cook for.

About 400 people show up for Thanksgiving dinner each year. This number includes University students who have to stay in Carbondale for the break, married and single Carbondale residents and international students who simply cannot afford to have their own meal, Keefe said.

For students from other countries, Keefe said, the dinner is a "chance for us to show them our tradition of Thanksgiving.

This way, they have a way of understanding and experiencing it."

Dinner is scheduled to be served from noon to 2 p.m. on Thanksgiving Day. Tickets can be picked up at Newman until noon on Nov. 20.

Batteries taken in garage burglary

Carbondale police are investigating a burglary at a local service station earlier this week, a police spokesman said.

Unknown people apparently gained entry to Lee's Veach, 301 E. Main St., through a garage bay window sometime between 6 p.m. Monday and 6:30 a.m. Tuesday. Four car batteries, a case of anti-freeze and some battery cable terminals were taken, the spokesman said.

The total value of the stolen items is $178.

First in series of political books due next year

By Cathy Brown
Staff Writer

A first volume in a unique series of books incorporating the ideas of "the best and the brightest" in the field of political communication should be out by the middle of next year, said Keith Sanders, editor of the first volume.

The series of books, called "Political Communication," will be unique for several reasons, said Sanders, dean of the College of Communications and Fine Arts at SIU-C.

For one thing, the 20 authors and editors of the book represent 14 states and "some of the finest universities in the country," as well as two universities in Germany. And none of the contributors are being paid for their work.

They are doing this, he said, "to get their work in a volume with other notable people and to make a contribution to the field."

Another unique aspect to the series is that, "There's no volume of its kind in this field, though there are some good journals." A new volume in the series will be put out each year.

"In this very interdisciplinary field of political communication, we felt there was a need for a single volume reference work, published annually," he said. The topic is an important one because in one way or another, we are all trying to understand better the role which communication plays in the political process — that's a pretty substantial undertaking."

Contributors are from such diverse fields as political science, mass communication, journalism, speech communication, and social psychology. "They each wrote from a different perspective," said Sanders.

"We tried to pick the most interesting ideas in the field, and they can take a number of forms. They could be practical, theoretical, historical, or empirical."

Different chapters of the book deal with such topics as gender differences in political communication, George Orwell, an assessment of the Ronald Reagan rhetoric, and computers and political communication.

One of the most interesting ideas discussed in the book is a section on a theory called "the spiral of silence," which says

"that we are willing to articulate a point of view depending in part on how popular we think it is," Sanders said.

In other words "If I hold a point of view which I think is unpopular, I am less likely to articulate it," he said. The theory, he said, is fairly recent and "certainly not universally accepted."

However, he said the theory could have great relevance to public opinion polls. According to the theory, he said, there may be, "a number of very creative ideas held by people who wrongly feel that those ideas are unpopular, and who therefore never talk about them."

This theory is discussed in the book by the scholar who first put it forth, and criticized and evaluated by other scholars.

In addition to such "state of the art chapters," the book includes a survey of the field of political communication for that year, and a selected bibliography.

Women veterans reception slated

By Cathy Brown
Staff Writer

Women veterans at SIU-C will be honored at an open house from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday in the Student Center Mackinaw Room as part of National Women Veterans Recognition Week.

Perry Murry, coordinator of Veteran's Affairs at SIU-C, said the open house will feature a display of uniforms, photographs, military artifacts, and other items.

He said the number of women veterans at SIU-C is increasing. Out of the 550 people on campus who are getting veterans benefits, 28 are women, "the largest number we've had on campus in the last couple of semesters."

Officially, women have only been serving in the military in the last 100 years or so, he said, and they still serve only in "support roles."

Unofficially, however, he said, there have been women in the military since there has been a military. "There are recorded instances of women being on the battlefield as far back as Greek and Roman times."

There are also reports of women following their husbands onto battlefields during the Revolutionary War and picking up guns and fighting, he said.

For the most part, though, women have only been able to serve as nurses. Only during World War II when the Women's Army Corps was created were women allowed to serve in other roles, such as clerical and administrative personnel, truck drivers and in the signal corps.

And though women still can't serve in combat, he said there are now women pilots, and women can now attend military academies. "There are a lot of areas that are open to women in the military now that weren't open just a few years ago."

Nationwide smoke-out encourages smoke-free day

By Cathy Brown
Staff Writer

Thursday could be the beginning of a new and healthy life for smokers across the nation. Thursday is the Great American Smoke-Out, a day set aside by the American Cancer Society to encourage smokers to give up cigarettes for just this one day.

However, most people who smoke will agree that going even one day without cigarettes is not easy. To help smokers make it through the day, Andrea Frank, a counselor at the Wellness Center, offers some advice.

"Different things work for different people," she said. One aspect of quitting has to do with attitude. It may help if a smoker tells himself "It's not that you will never smoke again, it's that you don't want to smoke today," she said.

Other things that may help are keeping the hands occupied by reading or doing a puzzle, and substituting cigarettes with sugarless chewing gum, cinnamon sticks or toothpicks. She also advises smoker to drink water instead of smoking.

For real motivation, she said, "Bet a friend $50 you can quit."

She also advises smokers to "celebrate quitting daily, weekly, monthly, even hourly."

Smokers should also avoid carrying cigarettes with them when they are trying to quit, and stay away from activities that they associate with smoking, such as drinking alcohol or coffee.

Drinking alcohol is especially bad for the quitter because besides being associated with smoking, alcohol diminishes willpower and self-control.

The American Cancer Society is also urging non-smokers to "adopt a smoker" for the smoke-out, and give encouragement and support as he or she tries to quit. "This doesn't mean ripping the pack of cigarettes out of his hand," Frank said. It means "gentle support."

Adopt-a-smoker forms are available from resident assistants in the residence halls, and from the fraternities and sororities, said Frank.

She acknowledges that smokers who try to quit are not going to have an easy time.

"Usually the first day (without cigarettes) is a lot easier because by the second or third day people are experiencing physical withdrawal symptoms," she said. Symptoms can range from irritability to depression to shakiness, she said.

Various programs are available to help a person quit. The Wellness Center offers group programs twice a semester, and individuals can go in for individual counseling to help them quit at any time.

She said the American Lung Association and the American Cancer Society also periodically run stop-smoking workshops in the area. For more tips on how to quit, smokers can contact the Wellness Center or the local American Cancer Society.

Student resident assistants reap many rewards

By Cynthia Weiss
Staff Writer

Only students who will have attained junior status by the start of the 1985-1986 school year, and have a cumulative grade point average of at least 2.5 need apply.

Those who meet the above requirements and are interested in a challenging and rewarding student work job might consider the student resident assistant position offered by University Housing.

Student resident assistants earn no bi-weekly wage as do other student workers, but they do receive free room and board for their efforts. They may also earn a management training award of $300 each semester. The award is based on excellent service and is by no means automatic, said Steve Kirk, assistant director of housing-resident life.

There are also non-monetary benefits, Kirk said.

"Being a resident assistant is probably the most interesting kind of job you can have as a student worker on campus," Kirk said. Resident assistants "get a chance to develop a lot skills in terms of dealing with people. They get experience with taking on responsibility and dealing with problems," he said.

More important in the minds of many students, Kirk said resident assistant experience looks excellent on a resume.

The resident assistant position is not for everyone, however. The job takes a lot of time. Therefore, resident assistants must be "solid academically," he said. Resident assistants are not allowed to take more than 16 semester hours without special permission.

Resident assistants are responsible for an average of 50 students, Kirk said.

Interested students must attend one information session for each area in which they are interested in working, Kirk said.

Student resident assistant positions are available in three areas: Brush Towers, which includes the Mae Smith and Schneider high-rises; University Park, which includes the Neely high-rise and the triads — Allen, Boomer and Wright; and Thompson Point, which includes the 11 halls in the Thompson Point living area.

Several information sessions have already been held, but it is not too late to attend one.

There will be an information session for those interested in the Brush Towers area on Nov. 27 at 1 p.m. in Mae Smith 105.

For students interested in the University Park area, an information session will be held Dec. 2 at 4 p.m. in the Trueblood Hall Westmore Room.

A Thompson Point information session will be held Dec. 2 at 9 p.m. in Lentz Hall dining room five.

Laser games past heyday, says arcade director

By John Dyslin
Staff Writer

Space and laser games are out and sports and pinball games are in at video arcades across the country, said Ron Malinowski, director of equipment at Aladdin's Castle, Bally-Midway Inc.

A few years ago laser games were touted as the new wave in video games that would revolutionize the industry. Laser games such as Dragonslayer and Firefox include film footage that is shown during the course of the game and put players more in the situation as game participants.

The great success of laser games never came about.

Malinowski blames the high price to play and the degree of difficulty of the games.

"The price to play was higher, usually two tokens, and that turned off a lot of people. The difficulty also intimidated many potential players," Malinowski said.

STEVE BLATTSPEILER, vice president of sales at Bally-Midway, said the laser games were rushed and were never really perfected which hurt the possible growth of its popularity. He said that in a sense the type of confrontation that was needed was never there and to the operator it was much too expensive.

While laser games never fulfilled their prophesy as the video games of the future, another breed of games — games that offer a prize — are being marketed to lure more players into the public. The games aren't new, but are being applied more as an incentive to merchandise the video game form of entertainment.

BUSINESS HAS dropped off nearly 70 percent since the peak of the video arcade popularity, said Blattspeiler. Business should pick up during the holiday season, Malinowski said, especially for arcades such as Aladdin's Castle that are located in enclosed shopping malls when typically the most business occurs.

Blattspeiler said that in 1985 the drop-off in popularity should stabilize and video games will attain their percentage of the entertainment pie. What that percentage will be, though, Blattspeiler isn't sure.

"The video arcades have lost the atypical player. During its peak, businessmen would play the games during lunch and you just don't see that happening too much anymore," Blattspeiler said. "We're back to the basic core of players."

THE DEPRESSION of the video business is substantial, Blattspeiler said, but the video game had phenomenal growth and reached total penetration where there was no place to go but down. He said that he knew of no other business that had the popularity or flare that the video game went through during its height of popularity.

Malinowski said that the home video market didn't hurt the success of the video arcade business. If anything, he said, it helped as the younger children at home wanted to experience the real thing. "The video games for home don't have the same technology or graphics and are minor league compared to the games at the arcades."

THE DECLINE in excitement for video games has meant a revival in the popularity of the pinball game, Blattspeiler said. The extreme popularity of the video game nearly made pinball machines extinct, but the boredom with video games has brought the pinball machine back.

Student charged after attack

An SIU-C student was charged with unlawful use of a weapon and aggravated assault with a knife Friday after he attacked another student at the Recreation Center, said SIU-C police.

The victim, Michael Pullam, 26, of 319 E. Park Ave., apparently got into an argument with the offender during a basketball game at the center. At about 2:45 p.m., Pullam and Michael Banks, 21, of 611 W. Cherry, went outdoors to settle the argument.

Banks pulled a knife and Pullam ran away. Banks chased him for about three blocks. Pullam returned to the center later with SIU-C police, who arrested Banks.

Banks was released on $100 cash bond.

Nebraska favored to beat Oklahoma

By The Associated Press
When Oklahoma plays Texas, it is called the battle of the Red River, which separates the two states.

But when Oklahoma meets Nebraska the stadium turns into a red sea and Saturday's game in Lincoln will be no different — the No. 1-ranked Big Red of Nebraska against the sixth-ranked Big Red of Oklahoma.

For a change, this game may not decide the Big Eight championship. Nebraska needs only a tie to make it to the Orange Bowl for the fourth year in a row. But if Oklahoma wins — and quarterback Danny Bradley says he is "tired of losing" to the Cornhuskers — the Sooners must still beat Oklahoma State on Nov. 24.

Several weeks ago, Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne thought his Huskers would handle Oklahoma with relative ease, a thought that could get him excommunicated from the coaching fraternity if it occurs too often.

Nebraska is favored by 6.5 points. The pick is Nebraska 28-21.

No. 10 Texas (favored by 2) at No. 12 Texas Christian: Texas 16-10.

No. 15 Georgia at No. 18 Auburn (by 7.5): Auburn 24-14.

No. 2 South Carolina (by 14) at Navy: South Carolina 28-21.

McDuffie can leave Tigers, Stewart says

ST. LOUIS (AP) — University of Missouri basketball coach Norm Stewart Wednesday denied a published report that he was preventing sophomore guard Tony McDuffie from leaving the program to play at another school. "If he needs his release, he's got it," the veteran coach said in an interview. Stewart made the comments after attending a news conference with Illinois basketball coach Lou Henson to promote the Missouri-Illinois game at the St. Louis Arena

Dec. 6. McDuffie, who dropped off the Missouri basketball team and withdrew from classes last week, was quoted in a St. Louis Post-Dispatch column Wednesday as saying that he was hiring a lawyer to get his release.

Intramural floor hockey ends

By Stan Goff
Staff Writer

The Puck Offs, led by the scoring of team captain Jeff Dvorak, won the men's Division A floor hockey tournament sponsored by the SIU-C intramural sports program.

Dvorak scored four goals in the title game as the Puck Offs defeated the Fubars 6-3. Dave Murphy scored the other two goals for the champions. George Kasper contributed some strong goaltending.

The Puck Offs won their semi-final game 3-1 over Wickd behind the tough play of defensemen Cary Kroll, John Dini, Linzy Ledbetter and Mark Shurson. Dvorak and Murphy scored all the goals for the Puck Offs once again. The Fubars advanced to the finals by defeating the T-F Kings 5-4 in overtime.

The Fubars, who finished the season 7-2, were led by top scorers Chris Dynek and Tim Gleamza, and defenseman Scott McGovern.

In the sixth annual "Turkey Trot" three-mile cross-country run held Saturday, Bill Cadagin finished first, winning the men's division with a time of 17 minutes, 37 seconds.

Dennis Wescott (17:41) was a close second, and Jim Gray (18:49) finished third. Dan Geisheimer was awarded a prize for finishing closest to his predicted time.

Sandy Schrabner won the women's division with a time of 24:01, exactly one minute ahead of second place Michelle DeFalco. Nancy Lamar (27:20) finished third, and also won the time prediction contest in the women's division.

In the finals of the tennis mixed doubles tournament, Lucinda Jackson and Darryl Jenkins defeated Laurie Dvorak

Cards announce 1985 broadcast schedule

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A new three-year agreement announced Tuesday by the owner of the St. Louis Cardinals calls for NBC affiliate KSDK-TV to telecast at least 40 road games during the 1985 National League season.

Michael J. Roarty, executive vice president and director of marketing for Anheuser-Busch, Inc., which owns the Cardinals, also announced that KMOX Radio of St. Louis would continue to broadcast all Cardinal regular season games in 1985.

Roarty said KSDK-TV will have completed 25 years of telecasting St. Louis Cardinals games in 1987, the last year of the agreement.

The 1985 season also will mark the 34th consecutive year in which KMOX has broadcast Cardinals games, he said.

Amanda Martin, a top performer for the SIU-C women's swimming team, is striving to become an All-American breaststroker for the fourth consecutive time this season.

All-American Martin expects to peak in final year at SIU-C

By Mike Frey
Staff Writer

Amanda Martin has already made an impact on the SIU-C women's swimming team in the last three years, but she says she "wants to go out with a bang" in her final season with the Salukis.

Martin, a native of Rhodesia who came to SIU-C from Jersey Wahoos High School in Marlton, N.J., is aiming for her fourth consecutive All-American season. She holds school records in the 50- (29.36), 100- (1:03.28) and 200-yard (2:16.25) breaststroke events.

At the NCAA championships last season, Martin finished sixth in the 100-yard breaststroke and eighth in the 200-yard breaststroke. In 1983, she finished fourth in the 100-yard breast and sixth in the 200-yard breast. Coach Tim Hill has called her "one of the top breaststrokers in the U.S."

DESPITE HER past accomplishments, Martin has no plans of resting on her laurels this season. She said she wants to improve the times on her school records, and also to place higher in the NCAA finals.

"I don't want to end my career on a sour note," Martin said. "My goal is to improve my times, and my places at the NCAA championships. I feel real positive, and I need to keep a good attitude and stay healthy."

Hill said he believes Martin can reach her goals, because she is working harder than ever and has made vast improvements in the past few months.

"I think she's improved. This summer, she's had her best performances," he said. "Already this fall, she's swimming better than ever. There's no question that she'll exceed her lifetime performance."

MARTIN'S FAMILY moved to New Jersey from Rhodesia, now called Zimbabwe, in 1978, when she was 15. Since then, she has adapted to American life, but she said the adjustment was difficult at first.

"It took a long time. The first year was really bad," she said of her move to the U.S. "It's hard to adapt to a different way of life. I'm sure Americans would have a hard time adapting to Rhodesia."

She first began swimming competitively at Jersey Wahoos, where she caught the eye of several colleges in her senior year. She said she was attracted to SIU-C because of Hill.

"Tim sounded real honest to me on the phone," she said. "He made SIU-C sound attractive, and convinced me that it suited my needs."

Martin, a naturalized U.S. citizen, attempted to qualify for the Olympic swimming team last summer in the 100- and 200-yard breaststroke events. She fell short in her bid, but did record a personal record time in both events.

"I did my best time at the Olympic trials, but I could've done better," she said. "It's just that my rhythm was off."

As a breaststroker, Martin said rhythm is all-important to her performance.

"It's just a matter of having a feel within the pool," she said. "I feel my strength and rhythm have been off in the last two years, but I think it's coming back now. The breaststroke involves real technique, and everything has to click."

MARTIN IS also a member of the 200- and 400-yard medley relay teams that hold SIU-C school records. She said she hoped the team would improve the record this year. Wendy Irick and Armi Airaksinen return along with Martin, and Jackie Taljaard has replaced the graduated four-time All-American Pam Ratcliffe.

Martin, who is majoring in business and electronic data processing, has a 3.7 GPA. She said after she graduates in May, her first order of business will be to visit Zimbabwe.

"I want to go back to visit," she said. "It will be over six years since I've been back, and I'm looking forward to seeing a lot of people."

She said she may continue to swim on the amateur level after graduation, but she has no intention of becoming a swimming coach.

"I couldn't coach, because I'm too sentimental," she said. "I enjoy swimming, but not enough to make a career of it."

Sutcliffe's agent to talk with Royals

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Royals will sit down Thursday to "talk turkey" with the representative for free agent pitcher Rick Sutcliffe, said general manager John Schuerholz.

Schuerholz and Sutcliffe played golf Monday and talked in general terms about the Royals and Kansas City, where Sutcliffe grew up and still maintains his home.

Sutcliffe, who won the Cy Young award while leading the Chicago Cubs to the National League East title, has said he wants at least a five-year contract. By some estimates the big, bearded righthander may command close to $2 million per year.

Schuerholz said the meeting Thursday with San Diego agent Barry Axelrod will get right to specifics.

"It's to talk turkey. We have a meeting with his agent to make a proposal. It's a dollar proposal. We're going to talk specifics and contract length," Schuerholz said.

The Royals, surprise winners in the American League West this past season, have gone after glamour free agents in the past without success. They made big pitches to Pete Rose, Ron Guidry and Tommy John.

"There's a more honest, legitimate and understandable desire on the part of this player as opposed to the other players mentioned, to play in this town," Schuerholz said. "I didn't sense that in any of the other people to this degree. I recognize that's only going to be one of many considerations."

Schuerholz brushed aside a statement by Dallas Green, Chicago general manager, that the Cubs will not let themselves be outbid in the Sutcliffe sweepstakes.

"That's not the kind of statement we'd ever make," he said. "What we're going to do is analyze the man's ability — his value — and his worth and then attach to that what we believe is a fair and rewarding compensation package."

The Royals were one of eight clubs to draft Sutcliffe in the free agent draft.

Crowd to gain free admission to debut for six Olympic boxers

NEW YORK (AP) — Six Olympic boxing medalists, including welterweight Mark Breland and heavyweight Tyrell Biggs, will be given a coming out party Friday night at Madison Square Garden.

They will turn pro before a free packed house of 21,000. To obtain tickets, written requests had to be made to the New York Daily News. There was a limit of four tickets per request.

The giveaway was the idea of Breland, who grew up in Brooklyn's Bedford Stuyvesant section. "After all the years I've been fighting at Madison Square Garden, I felt I owed the fans something," said Breland, who won five New York Golden Gloves titles in the Garden.

Promoter Dan Duva of Main Event Productions, Inc., said that in the past he has been bothered by people requesting free tickets, but this time people have asked to buy tickets.

GCAC: Redbirds favored to win

aggressive style.

If the Indiana State Lady Sycamores hope to hold their rank as number seven team in the GCAC, it will need to get practice out of the training room. Head Coach Andrea Myers she has been practicing with only seven players since injuries struck down all three point guards.

Angela Beck, head coach of the Bradley Lady Braves, has recruited heavily at the guard position following the loss of Judy Burns. She thinks the Lady Braves can have a successful season with a running attack.

Western Illinois and Northern Iowa will probably take the role of spoilers in the conference. Head Coach Terry Check, of the Westernwinds, said Western Illinois will try to replace the loss of standout Kelle Lindbeck with balanced physical and aggressive court play.

Kim Mayden, rookie head coach of the Northern Iowa Panthers, faces a task of rebuilding the team which only has three returning players.

STANTON: Has to make choice

portunities. It's got everything from graphics to weddings. If I felt I could get the same kind of classes and people teaching, I'd go to another university."

Although two more years of diving would be nice, Stanton said transferring to another university would be a big step to take.

Practice alone has not allowed Stanton to get himself back into top shape for diving, he said.

Stanton talked about his goals and said, "It's too early to say the top three; my goal is the top five."

"I want to be in the '88 Olympics."

The other Olympians are lightweight Pernel Whitaker and featherweight Meldrick Taylor, gold medalists, as were Breland and Biggs; light heavyweight Evander Holyfield, a bronze medalist, and middleweight Virgil Hill, a silver medalist.

Kind of a wallflower at coming out will be Hill, a North Dakota native now living in Los Angeles.

Breland will be in the featured final bout against Dwight Williams of Syracuse, N.Y., who has a 7-1 pro record, with two knockouts. The 21-year-old Breland, who is 6-foot-2 and a-half, had a 110-1 record, with 73 knockouts, and also won a world championship.

Holyfield, 22, of Atlanta, 160-14, with 75 knockouts, will box Lionel Byarm of Philadelphia, 9-1-2, with four knockouts. Holyfield was the subject of an Olympic controversy when he was disqualified in the semifinals after knocking down his opponent with what the referee ruled was an illegal blow.

Taylor, 18, of Philadelphia, will fight Luke Lecce of Pittsburgh, who is 14-2-1, with eight knockouts. Taylor, who was 99-4, with 32 knockouts, won his Olympic gold medal as a featherweight.

Biggs, 21, of Philadelphia, 108-6, with 41 knockouts, will fight Mike Evans, 25, of Los Angeles, 3-1-1, with one knockout. Biggs was the super heavyweight champion at the Olympics, while Henry Tillman of Los Angeles was the heavyweight champion (201-pound limit).

Whitaker, 20, of Norfolk, Va., 201-13, with 91 knockouts, will fight Farrain Comeaux, 23, of Nederland, Texas, 10-0, with six knockouts.

Brewer still hedging on commitment to SIU-C

By Steve Koulos
Staff Writer

High school players Thad Matta and Todd Krueger signed with SIU-C Wednesday, but talented forward Jerome Brewer of Vincennes Junior College failed to make a decision on the first day of the one-week early signing period. Brewer made a verbal commitment to SIU-C in late October but last week told The Sporting News that he was going to break the commitment and was leaning toward signing a letter of intent with Oklahoma. Vincennes basketball coach Dan Sparks said Wednesday in a telephone interview that Brewer is still interested in SIU-C, but may not reach a decision until spring. Sparks said other schools Brewer is considering are Oklahoma, North Carolina State and Evansville.

"He talked to Coach (Allen) Van Winkle this morning over the phone but decided he wasn't ready to sign," Sparks said. "But I think he wants to stay close to his hometown in Indianapolis." Sparks said Brewer is confused and it is affecting his play this season for Vincennes, which has a 2-1 record. "Right now, he is playing lousy," Sparks said. "Once the signing period goes by, he might settle down and play." Brewer is averaging only 14 points per game and is shooting 38 percent from the field. Last season, Brewer averaged 21 points, nine rebounds, and shot 54 percent from the field to help Vincennes qualify for the National Junior College Athletic Association Tournament in Hutchinson, Kan. Sparks said he tries to give his players guidance, but never tries to tell them where to go to school. "I try to point out the pluses and minuses of the program but I let them decide," he said. "I explained to Jerome that Coach Van Winkle has done a good job with Bernard Campbell." Campbell, who played two seasons at Vincennes from 1981 to 1983, averaged a team-high 13.7 points per game last season for SIU-C.

Tough choice awaits men's diver Stanton

By Martin Folan
Staff Writer

Saluki diving star Nigel Stanton has a decision to make: wait until Feb. 15, 1985 before the Salukis are able to use his services, or transfer to another university where he will be able to compete for two more seasons. SIU-C is suspended from entering Stanton in competition because of an NCAA and University misinterpretation of Stanton's high school records, he said.

Originally, Texas Christian University recruited Stanton but couldn't sign him because of problems with his high school records, he said. Then when TCU saw him competing in diving meets it wondered why he qualified to participate at SIU-C but not at TCU.

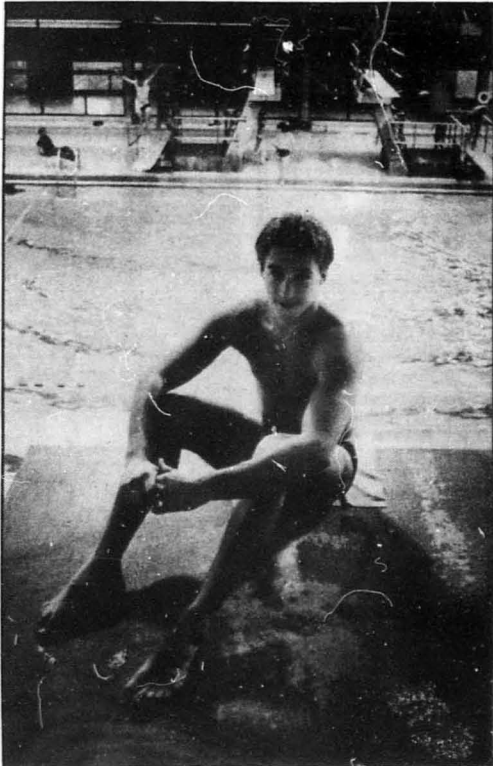

At a hearing earlier this year, he was declared ineligible to participate in NCAA-sanctioned events from February 1984 to February '85, losing that year of eligibility.

"The options I have are to stay here and compete my last year, or go to another school, where I'd have two more years," he said. "So what they're doing is punishing the school."

"It really disheartens me to be diving for a school the NCAA says if I stay at I have only one more semester, but if I go to another university I'd have two more years," he said.

Stanton said he has "a compelling feeling to stay here" because of the many friends he has at SIU-C, the possibility a number of his credits won't transfer, and because of the quality photography program here.

"SIU-C is one of the top three of four photo schools. I feel the only thing that will get me a job is my education. I'm not going

Illinois State favored in GCAC basketball race

By Anita J. Stoner
Staff Writer

Although as many as six teams have a realistic shot at the Gateway Conference title this season, the preseason coaches poll chose Illinois State to regain the championship it lost to Drake last season.

Jill Hutchison, head coach of the Redbirds, said this will place the burden of additional pressure on her team, which returns four starters from last year. She said the strength of her team is experience, but it must be complimented by the freshmen to blend the Redbird attack. And, due to an injury, her players have not practiced in their proper positions, so Hutchison can not yet say how good she thinks the Redbirds will be.

"The conference is more balanced and several teams are blessed with returning starters. We can't rule anyone out since we haven't seen 50 percent of the players," Hutchison said.

Two teams no one can afford to overlook will be Drake and SIU-C, ranked second and third respectively.

Drake lost three starters, but an improved Wanda Ford will be back. Head Coach Carole Baumgarten believes Ford may be a legitimate candidate for All-American honors this year, and should be one of the top three players in the Gateway. However, the starters Drake lost averaged 52 points a game.

"Fifty-two points makes me nervous," Baumgarten said. "Everyone will be keying on Ford. She'll need a solid inside and outside game to beat the pressure, and we hope the other four can fill in and get to help take some pressure off of her."

The Salukis have four pairs of shoes to fill in the starting lineup, but Head Coach Cindy Scott feels they have had an excellent recruiting year. The leadership of returning starter Petra Jackson will be relied on at the beginning of the season when the team is expected to struggle. Scott said the team will gain valuable experience against tough non-conference opponents early, and hopes that by the conference opener they will be ready.

"We've got a long way to go," Scott said.

Fourth-ranked Wichita finished at 500 last season, and their strong winning finish and three returning starters pulled them up in the poll. Karen Harden, in her second year as head coach, said she has good depth coming into this season, and said she can count on her team in comeback situations.

Eastern Illinois, ranked fifth, is the only team in the conference to have all five starters returning. Head Coach Barbara Hilke was disappointed at her team's low rank in the poll even though she said the Lady Panther's chances are no better than anyone else's.

"People don't feel we're there yet, so we'll have to prove it," Hilke said.

In order to finish anywhere above their sixth ranking, Southwest Missouri State will need to improve on defense, which was the worst in the GCAC last year. Valerie Goodwin, the Bears' head coach, said she has changed the team philosophy by spending more time on defense to help the players adjust to a more

Baseball negotiators begin contract talks

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiations began Wednesday on a contract to replace the one that ended a seven-week major league baseball strike in 1981, and management negotiator Lee MacPhail said it may be a month or more "before we get a feel of how tough it's going to be."

MacPhail, who is president of baseball's Player Relations Committee, said preparations leading up to the initial bargaining session had a "better tone."

"I think both sides learned from their problems in 1981," he said. MacPhail and Don Fehr, executive director of the Major League Players Association, met for more than one-and-a-half hours Wednesday morning with other management and union people at the New York offices of the Player Relations Committee.

A key issue in the negotiations is expected to be how to split a $1 billion television contract that baseball has with ABC and NBC. Money from the TV contract would be applied to the players' pension fund and other benefits.

"It's no secret that could be a major issue, and it could be something that would cause us a lot of problems," Fehr said. He said the union will maintain its "historic" position that it should share in one-third of the revenue. Because of the unprecedented size of the TV contract, this would represent a substantial increase in the owners' contribution to player pensions.

The next negotiating session is scheduled for Tuesday in New York. In mid-December, more negotiations will be held in New York and California, probably in Los Angeles, MacPhail said.

"Other than going over what we wanted to talk about, there was a lot of talk about the importance of keeping the negotiations on a good level and the importance of our working to try to reach an agreement in a timely fashion," MacPhail said.

The current agreement, which resulted from a seven-week players' strike that split the 1981 season, expires on Dec. 31. MacPhail said it "might not be realistic" to expect a new agreement by then.

Baseball executives hold their annual winter meeting Dec. 3-7 in Houston. The players' union will hold its annual meeting concurrently in Las Vegas.

MacPhail said he probably couldn't tell how smoothly things would go until after those meetings, and Fehr said he didn't expect any specific proposals to be made until then.

Cagers scrimmage set

The men's basketball team will hold its third intra-squad scrimmage of the season on Thursday night at Mount Vernon High School. Tipoff is at 7:30 p.m.

Coach Allen Van Winkle said he will use different combinations of players for the third time.

The White team will consist of guards Nate Bufford, Brian Welch and Kai Nurnberger, and forwards Cleveland Bibbens, Chris George, Gene Lewis and Dan Weiss.

The Maroon team will include guards Roy Birch and Steve Middleton; forwards Tom Schmidt and Tony Snooks; swingmen Bernard Campbell and Doug Novsek; and center Kenny Perry.

In Friday's scrimmage at Benton, Perry scored 20 points and George added 12 to lead the White team to a 59-52 victory over the Maroon.

"As a group, they looked better at Benton than the first scrimmage," Van Winkle said. "I thought our defense looked better but it still is a long way from where we want it to be."

The Salukis' final scrimmage will be held Nov. 20 at Marion High School before the team faces Missouri-Kansas City Nov. 30 at the Arena.
