Nixon agrees to surrender tapes

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon capitulated Tuesday and agreed to surrender Watergate-related tapes and documents to a federal judge.

The abrupt and astounding turnaround came two hours after the House of Representatives took the first formal steps toward impeachment.

White House chief of staff Alexander M. Haig Jr., the President's top aide, discounted the seriousness of the impeachment move. But he said Nixon's reversal reflected a realization that there was a threat of grave consequences developing in the wake of recent events.

Nixon scheduled a nationwide radio and television address on the issue for 9 p.m. EDT Wednesday.

"This President does not defy the law," Nixon's lawyer told Watergate Judge John J. Sirica in announcing that the President will comply in full with a U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals order requiring him to deliver White House tapes and related papers.

Nixon's earlier refusal to comply with the order led to his firing of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox and precipitated a crisis of confidence in his administration.

The decision to turn over the tapes was expected to ease the clamor for impeachment. But House leaders decided to go ahead with their earlier decision to begin a Judiciary Committee preliminary investigation to determine whether grounds for impeachment exist.

There also was growing support in both houses of Congress for legislation to establish a special prosecution force to replace Cox and assure its independence from the White House.

Meanwhile, the President's so-called compromise plan to give the Senate Watergate committee an authenticated summary of the tapes evaporated when Haig told newsmen at the White House that the offer had been withdrawn.

Nixon's agreement with the committee leaders appeared tenuous at best almost from the time of its announcement Friday night. And it was clouded further Tuesday when committee lawyers appealed Sirica's

Voting set today for trustee referendum

By Terry Martin
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Voting starts Wednesday for the Student Trustee Referendum that will determine the method by which a student trustee will be selected.

Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday for students, including graduate students, to vote for their choice. Voters will need their student ID and fee statement and on-campus dorm residents will also need their meal ticket.

Polling places will be located at:
—Lentz Hall at Thompson Point
—Trueblood Hall at University Park

—Grinnell Hall at Brush Towers
—Student Center
—Home Economics Building
—Airport Technological

Building School of Technical Careers
Student Center

—Small Group Housing
Library
—Woody Hall
—Wham Educational Building

On Sept. 12, Gov. Dan Walker signed a bill which makes it mandatory for every state university governing board to have one student member from each campus under its control. The student trustee will have all rights and responsibilities of membership with the exception of voting.

The four options available to students on the referendum are:

—1. The Student Body President appoints the trustee with ratification by the Student Senate and the Graduate Student Council (GSC).

—2. A Joint Student Government-GSC committee would develop a list of candidates for submission to the student body in a general election.

—3. A Joint Student Government-GSC committee would develop a list of candidates with the Student Senate and GSC to vote from that list.

—4. General student body election.
"A large turnout will give the student trustee the credibility needed to have a substantial effect on the board," Steve Nuckles and Richard Lau, election commissioners said.

University President David R. Derge and officers of several campus organizations have voiced support for the referendum.

Derge sent a message to all faculty members asking them to announce to their students the fact that the referendum is taking place. "In view of the intensive effort Student Government is making to insure credibility to the Student Trustee, I feel it only proper that the faculty offer support," Derge wrote.

Student Body President Mike Carr said he was contacted by Jack Hodel, coordinator of veteran affairs, who told him his office be closed Thursday so that workers could help canvass for the referendum because of its importance.

Jeff Kolp of the Student Environmental Center said, "We want people to get out and vote tomorrow to place a student on the Board of Trustees. The results of the referendum should be known by 8 p.m. Thursday because of SIU's first computerized vote through the OFSCAN readout machine and Wham computer procedure."

President's choice

Miss Southern truce sought

By Debby Ratermann
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

An attempt at reconciliation of opposing factions in the Miss Southern controversy was organized by Dean of Students Bruce Swinburne Monday.

Swinburne called a special meeting with representatives of Inter-Greek Council, People's Coalition for a Miss Southern Alternative, Gay Liberation, and Student Government.

Inter-Greek representatives refused to let reporters enter the meeting, which lasted an hour and a half. Swinburne declined comment on the meeting, but said the group will meet again Wednesday afternoon to try and reach a compromise.

"We discussed, philosophically and practically, the right of one group to oppress another, and the rights of the oppressed group to rebel," Diane Balich, commuter senator and co-sponsor of a bill terming the contest "sexist," said after the meeting.

"We want the contest to be open and free. If it's not going to be open to everyone, we'll take it to court."

"Nothing was resolved," said Diane Johnson, member of the People's Coalition. "The (Inter-Greek) aren't willing to change it or abolish it. They have oppressive standards and we'll do anything we have to to alleviate this oppression. I'm not sure what we'll do, but we will act."

Ken Kegley, president of Gay Liberation, was more optimistic and commented, "It was a worthwhile meeting. A compromise looks possible."

Student Body President Mike Carr said he was there "simply as a negotiator."

Swinburne said he called the meeting because he was "concerned about the strong feelings involved. I'm committed to the idea that reasonable people can discuss their differences. I thought we could sit down and reach a compromise."

Swinburne said the group will meet again at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday in his office.

decision to throw out their lawsuit seeking the tapes.

Then the panel's chairman, Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., sent a telegram to the President saying his understanding of the proposal, to be put to the full committee Thursday, was far different from that described by the White House.

After Haig announced termination of the agreement, committee chief counsel Samuel Dash questioned whether the President's offer "was really a play." "Obviously, we will now have to meet recognizing that this offer was not made in good faith," Dash said. "I don't think the President has heard the last from my committee."

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., the committee vice chairman, said he still hoped some sort of arrangement could be worked out with Nixon to obtain the tapes.

Haig and presidential attorney Charles Alan Wright told a news conference late Tuesday that the White House had miscalculated the public outcry over the tapes issue.

"...the President concluded after very painful and anguishing discussion with me, with his counsel, that the circumstances were sufficiently grave" to reverse himself on the tapes issue, Haig said.

The President's sudden reversal took many of the principals by surprise.

Even Wright, who announced Nixon's decision in court, "didn't find out until 12:30 this afternoon himself," a White House source said. The announcement came less than two hours later.

On Monday, the White House had quietly delivered to Sirica a copy of the President's compromise plan, which Cox had rejected, and gave the judge a proposed order accepting it that was prepared for Sirica's signature. When Wright went into court Tuesday, however, he withdrew the proposal and announced the decision to comply.

Cox had left a farewell party for him at the special prosecution force offices when Nixon's announcement was made.

"I know that all citizens will be happy, as I am, that the President wisely chose to respect the rule of law," he said.

Media utilized to attract SIU students

By Diane Mizialko
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The selling of SIU, under the direction of the Office of Admissions and Records, has become a multi-media campaign.

Ten thousand blue plastic stereo records, a slide show and personal visits all are part of a concerted effort to attract more students to SIU, Jerre Pfaff, director of Admissions and Records said this week.

A record is being mailed to each student who lists SIU as a possible college choice on his or her ACT forms, Pfaff said. So far, the response to the first mailing, which was three weeks ago, has been "pretty good," Pfaff said. Several hundred students, out of a mailing of 4,000, have returned the information request card included with the record, he said.

The recruiting record, titled "Think it Over," was pressed by Eva-Tone Soundworks, a Deerfield company. Admissions and Records, University News Service, and University Exhibits co-operated in the record's production, Pfaff said.

Each record, with its mailing envelope, costs SIU 25 cents, Pfaff said.

Funds for the new sales gimmick came from the Admissions and Records budget, Danilo Orescanin, executive vice president and campus treasurer, said. The record idea was approved in March, so some juggling of the 1972-73 Admissions and Records budget was necessary to absorb the unforeseen expense, Orescanin explained.

Pfaff said, to his knowledge, SIU is the only state school in Illinois using a recording as a recruitment device. Pfaff and others involved in the project had listened to records produced by other universities, and "We thought surely we could do better," he said.

The message on SIU's 10-minute record is that the University offers something for everyone. Interviews with students are interspersed among low-key narration and music. On-site sound effects, such as the rumble of the Daily Egyptian press and the roar of planes at SIU Airport, introduce the listener to various phases of instruction.

This year, SIU also is sending a slide show to junior colleges and high schools, Pfaff said. The show, also a new recruiting device, was prepared by University Exhibits.

"The show has a particular impact on Central and Northern Illinois students who have never seen this campus," Pfaff said.

Sight and sound aside, Pfaff said he still believes personal contact with potential SIU students is a valuable recruiting tool.

A team of Admissions and Records employees visits high schools and junior colleges to talk with interested students. This, Pfaff said, is not a new feature of SIU's recruitment effort—it has been going on for years—but personal visits are more important than blue, plastic records, Pfaff said.

Dormitory panty raid signalled by alarm

By Rafe Klinger
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The shriek of a fire alarm 12:38 a.m. Tuesday signalled the start of a panty raid by residents of Schneider Hall on Mae Smith and Neely halls, all east-side campus dorms.

Witnesses to the raid reported a crowd of men chanting and shouting outside Mae Smith while women residents stood on chairs looking out windows and raining water and undergarments on those below.

SIU Security Police, who had arrived with the fire trucks at Schneider with the sounding of the alarm, said the raid lasted about one hour. A follow-up investigation revealed that two windows in Schneider had been broken and three fire alarms in that dorm sounded.

Police said they believe the initial alarm was on the fifth floor of Schneider, A-wing, and an M-80 firecracker was exploded to set it off.

No arrests were made, police reported.

After the alarm was sounded, the Schneider resident counselor and police evacuated the building and attempted to locate which alarm was pulled and if there was a fire, police said.

The evacuated Schneider residents marched to the east side of Mae Smith and began chanting, police said. After receiving an interested response from women residents, a group of the raiders moved on to Neely. Little happened there since police and counselors worked to disperse the crowd.

A group of about 60 men returned to Mae Smith with several branching off to the service entrance and banging on trash containers, police reported. The security officers broke up both groups and the raid ended at approximately 1:30 a.m., police reported.

Kathleen Jurkash, 18 and a freshman in social welfare from Dalton, witnessed the raid with Marcia J. Broadway, 18, a freshman in French from South Holland. Ms. Jurkash said she and Ms. Broadway were studying in the central lounge on the sixth floor of Mae Smith when they heard men screaming outside. "We rushed to the windows in the end lounge to get a better view," Ms. Jurkash said. "In the hall, we passed two girls with buckets of water."

Out the window, Ms. Jurkash said, she saw "masses and masses of screaming, rowdy men chanting for panties, then for slips, then for beds."

"Some of the girls yelled for them to come up and get them," she said, while other girls threw panties, slips, and water out the windows.

In the lounge, "one girl spilled some water on the floor and I slipped into the chair Marcia was standing on causing her to fall into the window and shatter it," Ms. Jurkash said.

No one was hurt, she added, but she and Ms. Broadway reprimanded by dorm officials and will have to split a $200 bill for the replacement of the window.

Finance committee releases funding plans

By Debby Ratermann
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A proposal for funding third and fourth priority groups was released Tuesday by Student Senate Finance Committee Chairman Ron Adams.

Adams could not raise a committee quorum because of the resignation of two members. Chuck Stein and Dan Kelly have resigned, Adams said, leaving Diane Balich, Gail Brown, and Adams as finance committee members.

Adams said Ms. Balich, who is chairperson of the committee on committees, will introduce two names for approval to finance committee at Wednesday's senate meeting. Adams said he would not release the names until the senate meeting.

The funding proposal was written by Adams, following Student Body President Mike Carr's urging at the last senate meeting for explicit guidelines for funding.

Carr refused to sign a senate bill appropriating $1,500 to SIU International Soccer Club recently because there were no guidelines behind the funding.

"I'm sure any member of the finance committee will follow these guidelines,"

Adams said. Committee recommendations must be approved by a majority of the senate and signed by Carr.

"I can see no one who would object to our funding criteria," Adams said. "I wrote the proposal because no one is more knowledgeable about the needs and accountabilities of third and fourth priority groups than myself."

Adams proposal designates $2,000 from Student Organizations' fund plus $1,000 from Special Projects fund to be used to fund fourth priority groups.

"Most of these are athletic groups, and need money to travel to meets,"

Adams said. "There are only nine fourth priority organizations, so $3,000 should be sufficient."

Third priority groups will be funded according to their needs. "They must request money for specific activities," Adams said. "We will only hear requests for programming, food, and transportation expenses."

Special forms for all third and fourth priority group funding requests are available in the Student Government offices on the third floor of the Student Center. The forms must be filled out before the finance committee will consider making recommendations.

Adams said he will read his proposal at the senate meeting Wednesday, and hopes the senate will act on a backlog of funding proposals.

"If they don't take action tomorrow night, I'll ask Carr for emergency funding for some of these groups. I hope he'll sign them," Adams said. "I know Carr is as frustrated as I am with the childish behavior of the senate thus far."

Walker names Nagle to Board of Trustees

By Diane Mizialko

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A 28-year-old junior college instructor was named to the SIU Board of Trustees Tuesday by Gov. Dan Walker. James J. Nagle of Danville, upon confirmation of the Illinois State Senate, will fill the vacancy on the board left by the July resignation of Dr. Earl Walker of Harrisburg.

According to board by-laws, Nagle will serve the remainder of Walker's term, which expires in January, 1977. Nagle's appointment brings the board to its full complement of eight members.

Nagle is an SIU alumnus. He received his Master of Arts degree in English here in 1969. His undergraduate studies, also in English, were completed in 1967 at Holy Cross College, Mass. Now an English instructor at Danville Junior College, Nagle was a teaching assistant while studying at SIU.

In a telephone interview Tuesday, Nagle said he applied for the position of SIU Trustee by sending Gov. Walker a resume. About two weeks ago, he said, he was informed he was under consideration for the position.

"The fact that I was an SIU student probably had something to do with it," Nagle said. "Possibly the fact that I'm from Eastern Illinois helped, too."

Meeting set to urge campus drinking verdict

The student meeting for drawing up a resolution to allow alcohol on campus is rescheduled for Wednesday afternoon, pending receipt of a student government drinking survey.

Marc Kamm, student senator from the west-side non-dorms, said the resolution will reflect the results of the informal telephone survey. The resolution will then be presented to the Student Senate meeting Wednesday night. If approved by the senate, the resolution will be forwarded to President David Derge.

Any students interested in forming the resolution are invited to the meeting at 3 p.m. in Student Center, Activity Room C.

With the appointment of Nagle, the average age of the Board of Trustees drops two years, to slightly over 40. Nagle will be the youngest member of the board, though not by much. Trustee Victor Rouse, Chicago, became 29 in March.

Nagle is the third professional educator to join the board. Margaret Blackshere, Madison, is a teacher and Richard Haney, board representative of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, is the Assistant Superintendent of Public Instruction for Southern Illinois.

His experience "working on the other side of the desk from the State Junior College Board" has given Nagle insights into relationships between faculty, students and board members, he said.

Also, Nagle said, his years as a student and as a teacher qualify him to speak on behalf of the faculty and student body of SIU while serving on the board.

Since leaving SIU four years ago, Nagle said, he has paid several visits to old friends in Carbondale, but has lost touch with campus issues. He has never met any of his fellow board members or SIU-C President David R. Derge, he said.

"I intend to familiarize myself as soon as possible with the campus situation. I plan to spend some time there—I want to go around talking to students and faculty," he said.

Of the imminent seating of student representatives on the board of Trustees, Nagle said, "It was long overdue."

Ford says U.S. avoided crisis by tapes release

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Vice President-designate Gerald Ford said Tuesday that a constitutional crisis was avoided by President Nixon's decision to release Watergate-related tapes to a federal judge.

"We have been able to avoid a constitutional crisis between the courts and the White House," Ford said in an address to the Pennsylvania General Assembly.

The veteran congressman from Michigan predicted that "after the smoke has cleared" President Nixon will be vindicated.

Release of tapes may ease chance of impeachment

By Marcia Bullard
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Turning over the Watergate tapes to Judge John Sirica has lessened chances that President Nixon will be impeached, according to two political scientists at SIU.

Randall Nelson, chairman of the government department, and John Jackson of the Public Affairs Research Bureau also believe Nixon did not set any precedents in the use of executive privilege by releasing the tapes Tuesday.

There has been discussion that the separation of powers in Judicial, Executive and Legislative branches protected Nixon in his previous efforts to keep the tapes from the Justice Department. However, neither SIU professor thinks so.

"In my reading of the constitution, executive privilege is not one of the major bulwarks of our government," Jackson said Tuesday. "But Nixon based his previous position on that theory."

Nelson said he can't see that Nixon violated any principles by turning over the tapes.

"He could have said 'I deem it to be in the public interest to deliver the tapes, but still stand on the principle that if in the future I deem it not to be in the public interest to release some information, I will not deliver it,'" Nelson said. "That would have solved the whole question."

Although both men think investigations into Nixon's role in the Watergate affair will continue, neither considers impeachment a real threat. Nelson said the release has "smoothed the controversy a bit." Jackson said the moves toward impeachment this week probably forced Nixon into releasing the tapes thereby lessening immediate pressure on his position.

Jackson outlined three possible grounds for impeachment: 1) for being in defiance of a court order; 2) for obstructing justice in preventing the grand jury from access to evidence needed in pursuance of Watergate investigations and 3) for contempt of Congress in going back on a promise to the Senate that special prosecutor Archibald Cox could freely pursue the Watergate situation.

"I have never thought Congress could successfully impeach him on any of those grounds," but the threat did move him to action," Jackson added.

Jackson also admitted he is cynical enough to think there is nothing incriminating on the tapes now even if there was at some time before this.

"Nixon has simply done what should have been done some months ago" by releasing the tapes, Nelson said. An expert in constitutional law and the American presidency, Nelson also believes Congress should establish an office of Special Prosecutor to continue the Watergate investigations.

"I am a Doubting Thomas in respect to the Justice Department pledge to continue investigations fully and vigorously," he added. "I believe Congress could re-establish some of the integrity of the government by creating the position of Special Prosecutor."

ACLU petitions still in circulation

Petitions calling for the impeachment of President Nixon are still being circulated on campus even though he has agreed to release the Watergate tapes.

C. Harvey Gardiner, member of the local chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), said Nixon's action "doesn't affect our plans immediately" to send petitions to Rep. Kenneth Gray (D-West Frankfort).

"Until he actually puts the tapes in the hands of Judge Sirica, I don't trust him," Gardiner said Tuesday. "We may wait and see, but if he doesn't deliver the tapes, then we'll deliver our petitions."

More than 2,000 students were expected to sign ACLU petitions by late Tuesday in the Student Center, according to Fred Whitehead, assistant professor of English. He said he still feels Nixon should be impeached and that the petitions will be sent out as planned at the end of the week.

"The tapes are immaterial as far as reasons to impeach Nixon" Whitehead claimed. "They've probably been tampered with anyway."

DE editorial policy subject of Student Senate hearings

By Terry Martin
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Hearings on the editorial policy of the Daily Egyptian will open at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Student Government office (third floor of the Student Center).

Garry Seltzer, chairman of the Student Senate Academic Affairs Committee, announced that Fred Whitehead, assistant professor of English, will be the first witness.

The investigation stems from the Oct. 10 Student Senate meeting when the "free press" bill sponsored by Seltzer on behalf of Whitehead was passed.

The bill charged the Academic Affairs Committee to:

1. Investigate the editorial policy of the Daily Egyptian.

2. Prepare a written evaluation to be presented to the Student Senate by no later than the third regularly scheduled meeting in November.

The action was taken after Whitehead told the Senate a letter he wrote concerning University President David Derge and the Kalmbach Trust Fund had been refused for publication by Howard R. Long, fiscal officer of the Daily Egyptian.

Seltzer said the committee plans to talk with all the persons responsible for the editorial policy of the Daily Egyptian in addition to concerned individuals and those who have complaints.

Additions to the list of persons the committee intends to invite to the hearing will be made as the investigation progresses, Seltzer said.

"Through this approach, we can pursue leads called to our attention by the witnesses," Seltzer said.

Seltzer stressed that the committee is approaching the investigation in an objective manner. He said he intends to call at least one open meeting for anyone to come and give his opinion, but all the hearings are open to the public.

The only problems anticipated by the committee, Seltzer said, are scheduling and a possible reluctance of some individuals to participate.

He said the committee will try to have a stenographer at each hearing so that "our report will be more analytical and we will have some sort of a permanent record."

Other senators on the committee are Marc Kamm, westside non-dorm; Mark Harris, eastside non-dorm; Edgar Philpot, University Park; and Mario Davis, eastside non-dorm.

Law applications set for mailing

The SIU School of Law has begun mailing applications for admission in September, 1974, to more than 1,000 students who have inquired, Dean Hiram H. Lesar said Tuesday.

He said other students who wish to apply for admission may obtain application blanks by either writing or calling Associate Dean Thomas G. Roady, Jr., 536-7711.

Lesar said that as of mid-October only three of the original 87 full-time students in the first class have dropped out. He said this is a low rate and that it would not be unusual to expect up to a 10 per cent dropout rate at this point.

Editorial

Congress must act

There isn't time to wait for history's judgment of Richard Nixon's conduct as President of the United States.

For the President, that's undoubtedly a truth too harsh to recognize. Mr. Nixon's performance in office has been shaped by a historical consciousness which, at times, has seemed a pre-occupation.

In defending tapes and documents from the grasp of Watergate investigators, Mr. Nixon repeatedly has insisted he is duty-bound to protect Executive prerogatives and pass them undamaged to future presidents. Behind a shield of history, Mr. Nixon has taken his stand—as if he can read the future needs of the nation and knows tomorrow depends on him.

You might kick me around today, Mr. Nixon seems to say, but history will vindicate my decisions and call me noble.

There is no time to wait for history's vindication. This country is quaking through a crisis second in magnitude only to the crisis that preceded—and was solved by—the Civil War. Then, the nature of the Union was in doubt. Now, the foundation of the nation is in doubtful condition and needs to be rebuilt, and quickly.

Nations are formed and governments built on faith—faith in the ability of men to rule themselves by choosing leaders who will conduct affairs responsibly and honestly, with self-restraint and with great care for the popular trust.

Our faith, in the United States, has been worn away through two extraordinary decades of cold and hot war, of civil rights demonstrations and racial riots, of peace marches and of Kent State-style repression, of economic upheavals, of cynical hard-sell political campaigns and political scandals.

Now finally, unbelievably, the last crack in the foundation has appeared. The whispers of doubt about the integrity of the President of the United States have escalated to shouts. The house of the nation is shaking.

Once before, in this country, the people lost faith in their government. The vacuum was filled by a group of men who, through wisdom or Providence or luck, set the house in order.

But the Constitutional Convention has stood adjourned for nearly 200 years. The delegates went home long ago.

In their place sits a Congress which, in the years since at least Franklin Roosevelt's presidency, has allowed Executive power to grow and fatten.

Yet where else to turn, with time running out? Of all the components of our government, Congress is—or should be, given its over 500 constituencies—in closest touch with the people. Who in government can more accurately plumb the depth of the people's despair? Who can more directly restore our losses?

So, the burden falls on Congress. On the people's behalf, Congress must call the President to give a full account of his behavior. He must be examined by the Senate to determine his innocence or guilt of the "high crimes and misdemeanors" so chillingly mentioned in the Constitution.

No one else can demand the whole story—of Watergate and beyond—from the President. Mr. Nixon himself proved this by dismissing the former "untouchable" special Watergate investigator, Archibald Cox.

A call to trial before the Senate is issued by the House of Representatives and is called impeachment. The word has threatening connotations. But the summons, the impeachment, must be issued.

If the foundation of our house shatters, the roof will fall in.

Vote in referendum

To the Daily Egyptian:

During the last two weeks much mention has been made in regard to the Student Trustee Referendum taking place this Wednesday and Thursday. The importance of the outcome of this election is unquestionable. In the past, the students' somewhat distant relationship with the Board has resulted in many controversial decisions. Now, with a student trustee, that situation may change.

This idea of a student trustee is neither new or novel, thirty-five states in the U.S. have seen fit to include students on their boards. The pattern has been the same throughout—reluctance, even resistance in the beginning—and then enthusiastic support from board members once the concept is implemented.

Your vote is desperately needed to demonstrate to the Board that students want to make use of this representational opportunity. The policymakers are watching the outcome of the referendum for an indication of with what degree of seriousness they must treat the new student representative, whoever it is and however the person is chosen.

Give your trustee a chance at helping you. On Wednesday and Thursday, when you pass a polling place, do yourself a favor and vote.

Right of free thought

To the Daily Egyptian:

Resentment against that beauty contest is associated, by convention rather than by logic, with a certain theory of individual freedom. This theory asks us to find and assert our "true" identities by overcoming traditional conceptual distinctions between men and women. Those who succeed presumably enjoy the satisfaction of feeling "free."

This idea has a strange appeal. When you think about it, society's got a lot of nerve telling you how to think and act. In fact, the theory has so much appeal that I agree with it. And I would like those who claim the right to invent their own sexual roles (I'm still waiting for something original) to permit others who have different (e.g. traditional) ideas about the subject to do the same.

The perceptive reader will see, however, that in this ideology of supposed individual freedom, doing your own thing is completely out of the picture. There is only one—I repeat: one—way to think about sex: Their way. In the old days they used to call that hypocrisy. Today, we call it Women's Lib. Such a corrupting, stubborn narrow-mindedness, which can make an emotionally charged and nearly violent issue out of any subject from beauty contests to peanut butter, which can induce Betty Friedan to say to Phillis Schlafly, "I'd like to burn you at the stake, as far as that's concerned... just has no place in an institution devoted to the freedom of thought and expression.

In the University, students must have the right to express what they think, and in the case of the beauty contest, that's exactly what the Libbers want to forbid. Even apparent compromise (e.g. a petition) presupposes the authority of society (the students not involved) to forbid the free expression of those students wishing to hold, of all things, a beauty contest.

We appeal to the students of SIU to stand up against this attack on our right to think for ourselves.

Letters

Letters were sent

To the Daily Egyptian:

I would like to address the university community concerning statements made by Vice President Mager at the Oct. 16 meeting of the University Senate. There seems to be a discrepancy between what I know as fact and the statement Mr. Mager made that he or President Derge had not received one letter supporting the Ombudsman Office. I have in my possession a carbon copy of the letter I sent to Mr. Mager expressing my support for the Ombudsman function. I also possess the letter he sent to me in reply to my concerns. I have also seen copies of letters sent to him from various constituencies including the Graduate Student Council, students and at least one Administrative Dean. I bring up this point because Mr. Mager implied a lack of support for the Ombudsman function by various constituencies of the university. He made the statement that the office had declined in "trust and respect." In fact there IS support, there IS trust and there IS respect.

Mr. Mager also made the statement that, with the exception of Mike Carr, no campus constituency head had indicated a desire to maintain the office. On April 27, 1973 the Graduate Student Senate passed a resolution supporting the Ombudsman function and George Wilson, then GSC President, wrote a letter to Mr. Mager expressing the GSC's feelings.

If indeed Mr. Mager meant to imply something else, then I respectfully submit that action should be taken to clarify his point. Talking to others present at the meeting, I find that the understanding they had is the same I have and is the same as printed in the Daily Egyptian Oct. 17.

In all due respect to Mr. Mager, I feel very strongly that he has sought to mislead the University Senate and the University Community. Again, contrary to his statements, letters of support have been sent to him by various constituencies. This "inconsistency" makes me wonder what he feels about the "trust and respect" of HIS office.

I would like to call upon members of SIU who are interested in the Ombudsman Office (particularly those who have been helped by the Ombudspersons) to remind President Derge that you do indeed support the University Ombudsperson and her function.

Guilt by exclusion

To the Daily Egyptian:

As a former student and assistant of Dr. Harold McFarlin I have the deepest respect and admiration for him as a teacher and a scholar; nevertheless, I must as an interested and hopefully non-apathetic person stand in opposition to his opinion voiced at the recent "Middle-East Teach-in".

Dr. McFarlin speaks of the Zionist attitude of the Jews being the "chosen people" as being harmful to the fabric of human society. His opinion on this subject manifests the assignment of guilt by exclusion, for excluded are other elements of the Middle-East confrontation which are also detrimental to the survival of the human community. Divisions, separations—they rend the fabric of society. The history of man is the record of splits and schism, every one of which has its origin in the primal separation of man from God and man from man. It is for all of us to search our own hearts for the solutions to mankind's problems and not rely upon vain babblings. Now, and in time to be, blood-lust, greed and vengeance know not ethereal bounds. Now, and in time to be, all men are under God's judgement.

Ombudsman necessary antidote

To the Daily Egyptian:

In your 17 Oct. issue T. Richard Mager observed that the Ombudsman's Office has declined in "trust, dignity, and respect." These sentiments, he said, have been transmitted to him from various segments of the campus community. As such he argues that there is no positive support for the Office.

I think that T. Richard Mager ought to try to remember those people who have so severely impugned the integrity of Ms. Haedrich and her Office. As a lawyer, he ought to know how useless and cowardly vague citations and generalized complaints are. Indictments hiding behind anonymity aren't worth a damn in a court of law and less in a university community. Proof must, I submit, be presented to the public.

As Faculty Adviser to the Student Civil Liberties Union, I had been in contact last year with Ms. Haedrich. She has brought to her Office integrity, intelligence, and compassion—the last such a rare commodity here. She has always understood the needs and the tensions of the students and always provided what aid could be rendered. The Ombudsman's Office under her leadership has been a beacon in a wilderness of indifference, arrogance, and contempt for civility and justice. I and the Student Civil Liberties Union found her a refreshing and necessary antidote to red blazers, green turf, and Academic Mediocrity.

Daily Egyptian Opinion & Commentary

EDITORIALS—The Daily Egyptian encourages free discussion of current issues through editorials and letters on three pages. Editorials—labeled Opinion—are written and signed by members of the student news staff and by students enrolled in journalism courses and represent opinions of the authors only.
LETTERS—Readers are invited to express their opinions in letters which must be signed with name, classification and major, or faculty rank, address and telephone number. Letters should be typewritten, and their length should not exceed 250 words. Letter writers should respect the generally accepted standards of good taste and are expected to make their points in terms of issues rather than personalities. Acceptance for publication will depend on limitations of space and the timeliness and relevance of the material. Unsigned letters will not be accepted, and authorship of all letters must be verified by the Daily Egyptian. It is the responsibility of the Daily Egyptian to determine content of the opinion pages. Other materials on pages four and five include editorials and articles reprinted from other publications, syndicated columns and articles, and interpretive or opinion articles authored locally.

No legal compulsion to publish

It would be a strange system of justice that, in its concern for the rights of an individual, would divest of another individual the freedom to exercise the discretionary powers related to the responsibility of editorship.

This position is supported in the review of court findings presented here by Professor Gene Wiggins, who concludes there is nothing in the law to force the editor of a newspaper to accept material offered for publication. This short article is based upon research undertaken at Southern Illinois University under the direction of Professor Clifton O. Lawhorne, now of the University of Arkansas, Little Rock. Gene Wiggins, formerly of the SIU journalism staff, received the Ph.D. degree here in the August commencement and now is assistant professor of journalism at the University of Southern Mississippi.

By Gene Wiggins

Recently, I read with interest an editorial printed in the Daily Egyptian entitled "Anatomy of a newspaper," in which the open forum policy of that newspaper was emphasized. As a former faculty member in the SIU School of Journalism, I am familiar with the operation of the Daily Egyptian and its policy of providing a forum for the University Community. I also am aware that the Daily Egyptian makes an effort to print every letter it receives if the writer attaches his name to the material and if the letter meets the standards of good taste and the like. Letter-to-the-editor is an excellent method for providing an outlet to all who wish to speak. However, I am sure that the occasion arises when such access via the letters columns might be denied and a letter is not printed. In some cases, when a large amount of letters is received on a popular, controversial topic, it becomes physically impossible to print all letters received. In other cases, the judgment of the editor or other management personnel might prevent letters from being published. In such cases, the letter writer might feel he has some recourse to force the publication of the letter, since such newspapers as the Daily Egyptian is a publicly-owned newspaper, being printed at a public institution.

While a private newspaper has the right to discriminate against an individual, a newspaper affiliated with the state, in many cases, cannot since it is the state which would be discriminating. And, this, of course, is forbidden.

While some individuals, possibly scholars or legal experts, might feel that legal precedents exist which might be used to force a newspaper like the Daily Egyptian to accept and publish a letter-to-the-editor, I feel that it is necessary to outline these so-called precedents and demonstrate that no such rights exist.

I am well aware that an editorial was published in a local Southern Illinois newspaper which outlined several legal cases seeking to show that the Daily Egyptian has an obligation to accept all letters sent to it for publication. However, many of the legal cases mentioned were either misused or misinterpreted.

The three primary cases which have granted the public a right of access to state-affiliated publications came in the area of ADVERTISING, not in the news-editorial area, in which letters-to-the-editor definitely fall. The first of these cases came in 1969 in Zucker v. Panitz. In this case, a group of high school students sought to publish an advertisement protesting the Vietnam war in a high school newspaper. In this case, a United States District Court ruled that the newspaper, as a creature of the state, could not discriminate by refusing to publish the submitted political advertising. In the second case, the 1969 case of Lee v. Board of Regents of State Colleges, a United States District Court in Wisconsin ruled that the Wisconsin State University-Wisewater newspaper could not refuse to publish paid political advertising submitted by students while accepting paid commercial advertising. Thus, a state-affiliated publication cannot discriminate between types of paid advertising.

The third case bearing on the matter is the 1970 case of Radical Lawyers Caucus v. Pool. This case dealt not with a high school or university publication but with another type of state-affiliated publication, a state bar association journal.

In the Radical Lawyers decision, a United States District Court in Texas ruled that the Texas Bar Journal, as a "state agency," could not refuse a political advertisement submitted by a group of radical lawyers.

All three of these cases dealt with advertising. Not with the news-editorial area of a newspaper. And, all three courts granted access to the state-affiliated publication. However, only one case could be found in which the question of whether a state-affiliated publication could determine the content of its news-editorial section. In that 1967 case, Avins v. Rutgers, a United States Circuit Court of Appeals, which carries much more clout than a federal district court, ruled that a state-affiliated publication has a broad area of discretion on the content of news or story columns. The United States Supreme Court REFUSED to hear the case, thus upholding the lower court ruling.

Although the Avins case dealt with a law journal published by a state university, the principle also would apply to a newspaper affiliated with a university. Even though the U.S. Third Circuit Court of Appeals recognized the ties of the state and the publication, it added that such a publication "necessarily involves the exercise of editorial judgment; and this is in no wise lessened by the fact that the law review is supported in part by the state."

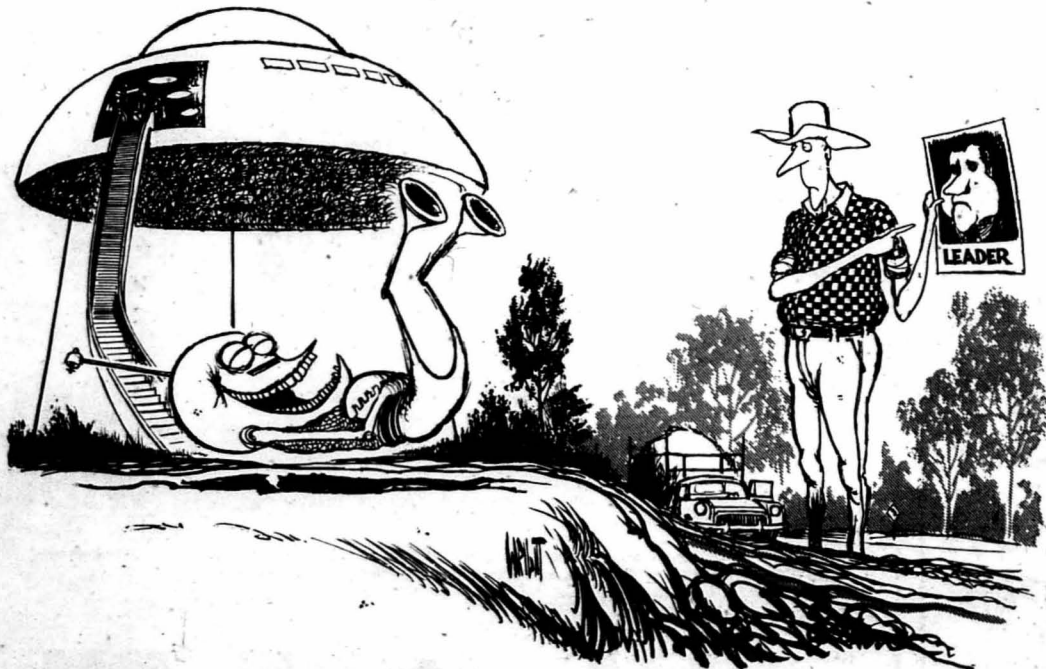

Although these are the pertinent cases as to the right of individuals to the advertising and news columns of a public-owned publication, one other case, although dealing with commercial advertising in the privately-owned media, spoke on the subject at hand. That 1971 case, Associates & Aldrich Company v. Times Mirror Company, contained several comments by the U.S. Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals about the Avins case and about the right of a public or private newspaper to determine news content.

With specific reference to the decision in Avins v. Rutgers, the appellate court said it was not convinced that the "courts or any other governmental agency should dictate the contents of a newspaper. There is no difference between compelling publication of material that the newspaper wishes not to print and prohibiting a newspaper from printing news or other material." The court also had Avins in mind when it stated: "Even if state action were present as in an official publication of a state-supported university, there is still the freedom to exercise subjective editorial discretion in rejecting a proffered article."

Thus while courts have granted access to the advertising columns of a publicly-owned newspaper and refused to allow such publications to discriminate in this area, the courts also have refused to force such publications from publishing news-editorial articles, which include letters-to-the-editor.

Clearly, no legal precedent exists by which a newspaper, whether publicly-owned or privately-owned, could be forced to accept and publish articles or letters-to-the-editor. To the contrary, the only decision or legal comments bearing on the matter have held that the editors have the discretion as to what is published.

A newspaper can never satisfy all its readers as to content but I feel that the Daily Egyptian does an excellent job in news coverage and in providing a forum for its readers. Even with the mistakes and errors that are bound to occur, it is preferable to have a competent, professional staff of editors and reporters making the decisions as to news content rather than leaving that decision to an irate reader, to a "scattering of middle or lower level administrators," or to a judge.

Non-sexist children hard to raise

By Debby Ratermann
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Raising non-sexist children "is a long, hard hassle," Barbara Haskin, assistant professor in the Department of Child and Family, said Tuesday at the "Being A Woman" seminar sponsored each week by the Counseling Center.

The topic "Raising Non-Sexist Children" attracted about 20 women, about half of them mothers, and two young fathers. The group discussed their personal experiences in raising children outside the stereotyped roles for males and females.

"I have a young daughter," one man said, "and I've been teaching her carpentry. She likes to work with her hands and is better at carpentry than her brother. But I'm wondering if when she grows up she'll be attractive to men."

"It's not as important for her to be an attractive female as it is for her to be an attractive person," Dormalee Lindberg, assistant professor in the Department of Elementary Education, said. "Your little girl is probably better off being masculine than a little boy would be who is too 'feminine.'"

A mother of four said, "I think our children will have hell to pay. If we're going to encourage equality, we also have to encourage them to have guts. My kids are called different, and they get a lot of guff from their peers.

"My husband bakes bread and I fix the car engine. My kids don't like their friends to know this," she said.

"I don't think we're in the majority, we who try to raise non-sexist children," one of the fathers agreed. "My little boy has beautiful long blond hair. We told him when he wants it cut, to say so. The neighbor kids tease him and ask him whether he's a boy or girl. Now he has to decide what to do. It's tough for him, but so far he hasn't asked to have it cut."

"Growing up is never easy," Ms. Lindberg said, "but these problems will prepare them to handle decisions in later life. Some people make all the decisions for their kids until they're 18, then pack them off to college and wonder why the kids go wild."

"If you raise your children in a non-sexist manner, they'll just have to cope with the world sooner," she said. "We can't protect our kids from pain."

Yvonne Hardaway of the Counseling Center added, "Kids gather strength from seeing strong mothers and strong fathers. A lot of it rubs off. Children have intense peer pressure, but school is just training for the real world."

Another mother said her four-year-old son "came home the other day and said he was glad he's not a girl, because boys are better. He certainly didn't get that idea from me. Where did he get it?"

Most of those present agreed he got it from movies, TV, books, and general societal opinion pressure.

Another mother said she and her four-year-old daughter "always wear jeans. The other day she came home crying because her friends wouldn't let her play 'mommy' because she doesn't wear dresses."

One woman commented that jeans reinforce the stereotype of liberated women. She said she often wore dresses "because a dichotomy upsets people who are into stereotypes, and I wear whatever I want and feel secure."

Another woman said "Women aren't taught to determine goals or values. They're told not to worry their pretty little heads about the meaning of life," a woman said. "I'm 22 and it never occurred to me before to ask who I am and where I'm going. And I don't have any answers."

Cyclists to pedal to Giant City

The Cycling Club will sponsor a trip to Giant City at 9 a.m. Saturday and another to Lake Murphysboro State Park at 1 p.m. Sunday. Both trips will begin at Shryock Auditorium.

The round-trip ride to Giant City is about 24 miles, and the round-trip to Lake Murphysboro State Park, one mile northwest of Murphysboro, is about 18 miles, Bruce Patterson, club president, said. Both trips will take from 2 1/2 hours to 3 hours, he added.

Last Sunday, the Cycling Club had its most impressive turnout of the year. Patterson said, as 19 people rode to the Crab Orchard Spillway.

To prove that all types of bicycles can easily make the trips, Patterson pedaled a 50-pound, one-speed, coaster-brake, "clunker" on the 15-mile ride to Crab Orchard.

The next meeting of the Cycling Club is scheduled for 7:30 to 10 p.m. Oct. 31 in the Student Center Activities Room A. Members will discuss the sport of cycling and show slides of past club activities.

Club membership fees are $5 for the entire school year and $2 for one quarter. All interested cyclists are invited to attend. For further information, contact Bruce Patterson at 453-5693.

Put A Student In His Place...

The Student Trustee Referendum

Do you remember back to September and December 1972?

WIDB does. We were presenting a detailed proposal to the SIU Board of Trustees. In September they listened politely and told us to come back later. In December they talked for forty minutes deciding not to listen to us.

What we needed then was a student on the Board. If there had been one, he or she could have made certain that the student voice was expressed. He or she could have put us on the agenda without all the red tape and hassle involved in getting the proposal on the agenda through the President's office.

Here is one instance when a student representative would have helped. Vote today and tomorrow to make sure things like this don't happen again.

Council told liquor bill could be legally adopted

By Dan Haar
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

An ordinance allowing the sale of hard liquor to 19- and 20-year-olds could be legally adopted by Carbondale, the Carbondale City Council has been told. City Atty. John Wornick told the council Monday no state statute prohibits the ordinance. The only problem that could arise, he explained, is that a licensee could have his state license revoked for violating state law. The required age for purchase of hard liquor under state law is 21.

Wornick added he doubted the state would take such action. He cited a similar ordinance passed in DeKalb, home of Northern Illinois University, extending the sale of hard liquor to 19-year-olds. The ordinance goes into effect Jan. 1.

The proposal, a late entry on the agenda, received mixed reaction from council members.

Councilmen Hans Fischer and Clark Vineyard indicated they favored the ordinance because it would be easier to enforce than the state law.

Councilwoman Helen Westberg and Councilman Archie Jones said they were concerned over making alcoholic beverages more available.

Mayor Neal Eckert voiced concern over the difficulty of enforcement of the state liquor law. "I would rather have laws we could enforce," Eckert said.

Eckert said he would rather have the police do a better job of controlling underage drinking than dealing with the issue of separating beer and wine from hard liquor.

Fischer agreed, calling the difference between beer and wine and hard liquor ridiculous.

Ms. Westberg said alcohol, along with other drugs, is a major trouble area. For that reason, she said she could not support the ordinance. Vineyard favored the proposed ordinance, saying he thought the state law is a "perpetuated joke."

Jones agreed but also said he thought making liquor more available was a serious and valid concern.

Eckert ended the discussion by saying he thought the city could do a better job of controlling underage drinking if the bartenders would not worry over the present state law.

The council also heard a report from John Holm, a representative of Carl Walker and Associates, on progress of a feasibility study of the proposed downtown parking garage.

The study area, Holm explained, is bounded by Main Street on the north, the railroad tracks on the east, Elm Street on the south and University Avenue on the west.

Holm said four parking spaces per 1,000 square feet are recommended. The 164,000 square feet study area presently holds 2.5 spaces per 1,000 square feet.

Holm presented two parking garage plans to the council. The first plan calls for a two-level garage with 225 spaces and entrances on Walnut and Elm Streets. The second plan is for a 232 space garage at Walnut Street and Illinois Avenue.

Holm said the second plan would be best suited for Carbondale. The garage, estimated cost at $350,000, would provide the city with 107 more spaces than it has now.

Parking in any garage lot would be 25 cents for two hours. Holm said the construction cost could be financed by a revenue bond.

Council members were concerned over the cost of the parking in the garage and how the city would pay off such a cost.

City Manager Carroll Fry emphasized that, under a revenue bond, it would be the consumer who pays and not the taxpayer.

Eckert said that since the city would pay $350,000 for 107 additional spaces, the cost would average out to approximately $3,000 per new lot. This cost, Eckert added, could not be afforded by the city.

Fry asked that a more detailed report on the study be presented to the council at its Nov. 26 meeting.

The council showed concern over a proposed ordinance which would amend the qualifications of Class G liquor licenses to include billiard parlors.

The Class G license authorizes the retail sale of alcoholic beverages in individual drinks for consumption on the premises where the primary business is a bowling alley.

Fischer said many high school students frequent the billiard parlors. Fischer asked how the sale of alcohol would be controlled.

Eckert suggested that anyone under 19 be prohibited. Fischer reacted by saying that facilities for teenagers in Carbondale are already inadequate without making the billiard parlors unavailable to them.

The council reacted favorably to a proposed land trade between the city and the U.S. Forest Service. The land involved in the trade is 40 acres the Forest Service owns in the city sector of acquisition and 60 acres the city owns adjacent to the Shawnee National Forest.

The trade would square off the city-forest service boundary in the Cedar Lake area.

Sheriff's office has pot

PRESCOTT, Ariz. (AP)—Two secretaries for the Yavapai County sheriff's department believe there's no use letting plants go to waste when they could be used to brighten up the office surroundings.

So Kay Meyers and Diane Reynolds have taken potted plants, when they are available, and displayed them around the office.

Their corner of the county courthouse here now has a touch of pale green — marijuana plants Mrs. Meyers says authorities are holding for evidence at trials.

"We also keep them around to show people what marijuana looks like," she says. "You'd be amazed at some of the things people bring here thinking they're marijuana," Miss Reynolds adds. "We've had tomato plants, all sorts of things."

7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the University City Cafeteria.

Statements by individuals will be limited to five minutes. Presentations will be on a "first come, first talk" basis.

The policies may be changed as a result of the public hearing before they are submitted to the Carbondale City Council for approval.

The policies, formulated by the Cedar Lake Planning Committee, specify the extent of development and the types of uses for the lake and the city-owned property surrounding it.

The committee has urged that city-owned property around the lake be maintained in as natural a state as possible. The committee suggested the area be used for public purposes such as wilderness camping and outdoor laboratories, hiking trails, bicycle trails, boating, picnicking, swimming, fishing and developed camping.

VD information project shows early success

By Ken Townsend
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Social diseases are not contracted from social intercourse, but they are subject to the same kind of misconceptions and half-truths that accompany a subject long taboo in western society.

"Sex and Social Diseases," an experimental VD information project, is now underway on East Campus. The second of four programs held at 8 p.m. on successive Mondays was held at Schneider Tower with 80 students participating, said John Bonaguro, graduate intern.

The main objectives of the program are to teach participants how to recognize, prevent and treat venereal disease, Bonaguro said.

Bonaguro, presently the only intern conducting the program, said a secondary objective of the program was to provide research information on dealing with students' attitudes about VD and what effect educational programs may have on these attitudes.

Interns are Health 490 students involved in field work with community agencies. Bonaguro said his training was supervised by the Jackson County Health Department and the SIU health education department.

Bonaguro said interns are taught the content of venereal diseases, to understand human relationships, the use of audio-visual aids, public attitudes toward venereal disease and how to communicate effectively with participants.

Interns are given a "VD Demolition Kit" containing brochures, statistics of VD rates, teaching aids and the Illinois VD hotline number (1-800-252-8959), Bonaguro said.

Foreign study fellowships offered to Belgian schools

Fellowships are available for advanced study in Belgian universities from the Belgian American Educational Foundation, the SIU graduate school announced Tuesday.

To be eligible a candidate must have a doctorate or have qualified for the degree and also be under 35 years of age.

Further information can be obtained by contacting the External Support Office in Woody Hall, Room 228B or by phoning 543-2357.

Also available are fellowships for combined teaching duties and research at Latin American Universities. Applications are open to persons holding an A.B.D. or doctorate degrees and to post doctoral individuals studying law, engineering, medicine, natural and social sciences and public health.

Further information can be obtained from the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, Tufts University in Medford, Mass. 02155.

He said the project was initiated when Steve Gutos of the State Health Department Division of Information and Education, contacted the SIU health education department and asked for cooperation in training interns for venereal disease education. Health 490, taught by Deward Grissom, was chosen as the core course for the proposal.

SIU was picked for the experimental program because Jackson County has the second highest VD rate in Illinois. According to recent figures, the rate of occurrence for fiscal year 72-73, is 1,091 per 100,000 population. Champaign County has the highest rate.

Another reason is the consultant relationship between the state health department and SIU, Bonaguro said. The University provides recommendations, people and facilities, and the state provides materials and training, he explained.

Since the program is state-oriented, if successful, it may branch out to other campuses, Bonaguro said.

The program consists of a film, "Look What's Going Around," followed by a question and answer session, Bonaguro said. Response to the second presentation was excellent, he said.

"The students were very perceptive about the program," Bonaguro said. "I expect that the reported VD rate will rise as a result of our efforts."

Bonaguro explained that once students learn to recognize the symptoms of VD, those who unknowingly contracted the disease earlier will report for medical help.

Jackson County also employs a VD investigator who traces victims of venereal disease. Once the victims are known, VD statistics also rise, Bonaguro said.

The remaining programs will be held Oct. 29 in Mae Smith Tower lobby and Nov. 5 in Neely Tower lobby, Bonaguro said.

"Students need not have VD, or think they do, to attend the program," Bonaguro said. "The program, in terms of information, is valuable to everyone." If a student suspects he has VD, he should report to the Health Service, Bonaguro said. The Health Service offers free diagnosis and treatment for VD problems, and treatment is strictly confidential.

Calipre stage features 'Little Prince'

French fable unfolds on stage

By Tom Finan
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"To forget a friend is sad," wrote Antoine de Saint Exupery. "Not every one has had a friend. And if I forget him, I may become like the grown-ups who are no longer interested in anything but figures..."

The "him" in de Saint Exupery's statement is The Little Prince, ruler of asteroid B-612 and subject of the same name.

This weekend an adaptation of the work by Marion Kleinau will be presented on the Calipre Stage.

The Little Prince is the incarnation of de Saint Exupery's ideal of friendship, a person who does not convert other humans to numbers that are so tall, so old, or so rich.

After meeting the Little Prince in the middle of the Sahara where the author's plane has force-landed, de Saint Exupery gradually becomes aware of the extraordinary nature of his friend.

He manages to ascertain the Little Prince's birthplace as the unnamed asteroid B-612, a kingdom no bigger than a house on which the prince is absolute monarch of three volcanoes (two active, one extinct) a few trees and a rose.

The rose, proud and naive, the personified coquette, gives the Little Prince his first insight into friendship and love when she bravely wishes him well as he leaves in the midst of their courtship.

"I ought never to have run away from her... I ought to have guessed all the affections that lay behind her little stratagems. Flowers are so inconsistent! But I was too young to know how to love her," he tells his aviator friend.

After leaving his planet, the prince relates, he met an assortment of odd characters, who embodied various degradations of humanity.

Finally his search becomes an introspective one and he elects to leave his body behind and search once again for the stars.

In his introduction to the book the author apologizes to children for dedicating his book to an adult and amends his dedication to read:

"To Leon Werth, when he was a little boy."

The work has appeal to both adults and children in that the author evokes an understanding of the frustration of a child's insight contending with the insight of the adult world.

"I really do think it is a beautiful story that appeals to adults as well as children," Cecelja Duncan, director of the Calipre production said.

Mike Mullen plays the Little Prince and Matthew Rich narrates in the reader's theater presentation. Bill Lovin, Wayne Farley, Len Spengler and Robin Thomas each play a number of secondary roles.

There will be five performances of the show, Friday at 7:30 p.m.; Saturday at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. and Sunday at 2 and 7 p.m. Reservations may be made by calling 453-2291.

Out-of-state enrollment up

According to the computer, there are more out-of-state students enrolled at SIU-Carbondale this fall than there were a year ago.

This is despite an overall campus-wide enrollment drop of 1,202 between 1972-73.

First-run computer figures show 1,162 students from 46 other states and the District of Columbia. That's an increase of 71 out-of-staters from last year.

The foreign student population is down, however: from 525 last year to 495 this fall.

The top 10 states in non-resident student representation are Missouri, New York, New Jersey, Indiana, Pennsylvania, California, Ohio, Tennessee, Wisconsin and Kentucky (tied for ninth) and Florida—a newcomer to the "Top Ten" list.

Hong Kong, with 64 students, leads all foreign student contingents. Following—in a "Top Five"—are Iran, Taiwan, India, and South Vietnam.

The computer reports that SIU-C lost 630 students from Cook County—from 6,003 last year to 5,373 this fall.

"Sesame Street" audience grows

NEW YORK (AP)—The inner-city audience of "Sesame Street" continues to grow four years after the classic TV series for preschoolers was put on the air, and the Children's Television Workshop's newest offering, "The Electric Company," has already garnered a solid following among children in low-income neighborhoods.

These were among the findings of a survey conducted for CTW by Daniel Yankelovich Inc. in New York's East Harlem and Bedford Stuyvesant communities and in depressed areas in Chicago and Washington D.C.

The survey found "Sesame Street's" inner-city penetration to be 92 percent in Bedford Stuyvesant, 94 per cent in East Harlem, 97 percent in Chicago and 67 per cent in Washington, a UHF city. Youngsters in poor neighborhoods are the primary target audience for the series.

When asked by surveyors if their children ever watched "The Electric Company," a program geared for elementary grade students, mothers' responses ranged from a positive 24 per cent in Washington to 61 per cent in Bedford Stuyvesant.

S-Senate to discuss impeachment letters

By Terry Martin

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A resolution calling for letters to be sent to state officials in support of impeaching President Nixon is expected to be brought up at Wednesday's Student Senate meeting.

Jim Kania, student body vice president, said the meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in Ballroom A of the Student Center.

Kania said Ron Adams, east-side dorm senator, spoke to him about the resolution that would call for letters to be sent to Sens. Charles Percy and Adlai Stevenson and Rep. Ken Gray, D-West Frankfort, supporting Nixon's impeachment.

Adams said the reason for submitting the bill is simply to urge further investigation into Nixon's involvement in Watergate.

"Impeachment, which is only an investigative measure, would speed up the entire Watergate process allowing expedient and efficient functioning of the federal government," Adams said.

A $500 allocation for the student trustee referendum and the "bull session" and "suggestions" bills submitted by Gary Ferguson, west-side dorm senator, are also planned for the meeting, Kania said.

Kania explained the "suggestions" bill as one that would mandate each student senator to write what he expects the senate to accomplish this year.

Reports are expected to be given by the academic affairs committee on the investigation of the Daily Egyptian editorial policy, the finance committee on funding fourth priority groups and Marc Kamm, west-side non-dorm senator on a proposed resolution for alcohol on campus, Kania said.

Tabled items that may be discussed, Kania said, include: Miss Southern, funding for Bridge Club, Judo Club and the Mid-East (telephone line to Premier Golda Meir) and the "Watts Happening" bill.

Kania said a representative from General Telephone is scheduled to appear before the senate to explain the Watts line.

Campus Briefs

John Gardner, noted novelist and professor of English, will be among distinguished participants Nov. 1 and 2 in University of Rochester observances honoring the late Joseph C. Wilson.

Wilson, UR graduate, was chairman of the board of the Xerox Corp. at the time of his death in 1971. He was a long-time University trustee and benefactor.

Included in Wilson Day activities will be symposia on the national energy crisis and the impact of genetics on medicine, concerts by the Eastman Philharmonic Orchestra and Eastman Woodwind Quartet, lectures and poetry readings.

Gardner, author of "Sunlight Dialogues," "Grendel" and "Jason and Medea," will speak Nov. 1 on "Fiction and So-called Reality."

A research project concerned with "genetic improvement of white ash" forest trees by Fan Hao Kung, assistant professor of forestry, and Calvin F. Bey, U.S. Forest Service plant geneticist with the Forest Sciences Laboratory, has received approval for partial funding under the McIntire-Stennis Act cooperative forestry research program.

Kung and Bey expect the study to continue through 1976. The aim is to find superior kinds of white ash trees for timber production in Southern Illinois. The researchers will gather data from nursery and plantation study plots on such characteristics as tree survival, height, diameter, tree form, hardiness and proneness to insect or disease damage.

Douglas R. Bohi and Milton Russell of the Department of Economics will deliver a paper titled "Energy Use in the U.S. Economy" at a conference called "Energy and Agriculture: Research Implications." The conference will be held Thursday in Omaha, Nebraska, and is being sponsored by the North Central Regional Seminar, an agricultural regional research organization responsible for natural resources research.

The paper is a spin-off from a study Bohi and Russell are doing on oil import controls under the sponsorship of Resources for the Future.

Dinh-Hoa Nguyen of the Department of Linguistics presented a paper entitled "Notes on Vietnamese Verbs in Series" at the Sixth International Conference on Sino-Tibetan Language and Linguistics. The conference was held Oct. 19 to 22 at the University of California at San Diego.

Professor Nguyen, director of the Center for Vietnamese Studies, also served as chairman of the panel on Verb Studies in Southeast Asian Languages, where his paper was presented on Oct. 21.

Mid-East ignores cease-fire

By the Associated Press

The Arab-Israeli war raged on Tuesday as if the United Nations cease-fire never existed.

The State Department said in Washington that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger postponed his planned trip to China because of the continuing Middle East fighting and that "intensive diplomatic activity" was under way to save the threatened truce.

The U.N. Security Council in New York was summoned into an emergency session at Egypt's request and the Soviet Union proposed a renewal of the council's cease-fire appeal.

The Soviet government in Moscow accused Israel of looting Monday's U.N. truce and warned Israel that "continuation of its aggressive actions against Egypt and Syria" would bring "the gravest consequences."

As the diplomatic developments unfolded, Israeli warplanes and armor clashed in hard day-long fighting along the Suez front and Syrian jets and cannons tangled with Israeli air raiders to the north. "If the Egyptians want to continue the battle, they will find Israel ready, strong and determined," Premier Golda Meir told the Israeli parliament in Jerusalem.

Israel and Egypt issued an angry string of accusations that the other had violated the day old cease-fire, which both accepted Monday evening. Egypt demanded the council hear its complaint that Israeli forces were trying to grab more territory in the Egyptian heartland.

Syria, the other major combatant in the 18-day-old conflict, kept its silence and continued studying the U.N. appeal with no sign it was ready to accept it.

Israeli spokesman reported artillery duels along the Syrian front and claimed their raiding warplanes scored "exact hits" on a fuel depot 12 miles north of Damascus.

Syria charged that about 60 Israeli warplanes streaked in over the Golan battleground "in waves" to bomb civilian targets north of the Syrian capital.

The Damascus command said its Soviet-supplied MIGs reared up to meet the attacking jets and drove them off before they could carry out their mission in dogfights that sent 11 Israeli planes crashing to the ground.

But Tel Aviv claimed 10 Syrian jets were blasted out of the sky in the aerial combat and mentioned no losses of its own.

As the fighting continued, the United Nations alerted its 90 veteran truce watchers to prepare for a return to the war zone from which most were evacuated when the fourth Arab-Israeli war erupted Oct. 6.

This led to speculation they might be posted along the battle lines in an attempt to enforce the in-place truce ordered by the Security Council for 6:50 p.m. Monday as a first step toward negotiations aimed at a permanent peace for the war-scarred Middle East.

Israel claimed it has won "a very big victory" in the 18 days of fighting and said it holds about 753 square miles of land inside of Egypt proper—west of the canal—and about 300 square miles in Syria beyond the land captured in 1967.

In his order of the day, Lt. Gen. David Elazar, the Israeli chief of staff, declared the Security Council had not moved when, he said, the Arabs attacked Israel two weeks ago but the Arabs "and their friends hastened to demand cessation of the fighting... once they realized they were close to defeat."

Public relations discussion will highlight talk

Paul Maranto, general information manager for Southwestern Bell Telephone, will discuss "Corporate Public Relations," noon, Thursday in Lawson 221.

Maranto will explain the philosophy of public relations as carried out in a major corporation. He will use radio and television commercials to aid the discussion. In addition, Maranto plans to exhibit printed ads showing this year's advertising campaign for Southwestern Bell.

Maranto has been with Southwestern Bell for 20 years. He has had experience in advertising, news and community relations. If time permits Maranto will also discuss advertising programs and community relations.

The discussion is open to all interested students.

College Democrats to hold meeting

The SIU College Democrats will hold its second meeting of the quarter at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Activities Room B, third floor of the Student Center.

Among topics to be discussed will be the possible impeachment of President Nixon and the Student Trustee Referendum.

All SIU students are welcome to attend. For further information, call Randy von Liski at 549-9102.

Nixon offered favors for funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—The dairy industry promised President Nixon $2 million in re-election contributions two weeks before the President imposed import quotas on ice cream and other dairy products, it was disclosed Tuesday.

The promise was contained in a letter sent to Nixon Dec. 16, 1970 by Patrick J. Hillings, lawyer for the Associated Milk Producers, Inc. (AMPI) A copy of the letter was obtained by the Associated Press. Public records show the quotas were imposed Dec. 31, 1970 by presidential proclamation.

"This letter discusses a matter of some delicacy and of significant political impact," Hillings said in the opening paragraph.

He said the milk producers' group had donated $135,000 to Republican candidates in the 1970 mid-term elections and said the group was working to set up "appropriate channels for AMPI to contribute $2 million for your re-election."

In the following paragraph, Hillings noted that the U.S. Tariff Commission had recommended quotas on dairy products almost three months before. "No presidential proclamation has been issued," Hillings said.

The problem is this. The dairy industry cannot understand why these recommendations were not implemented very quickly. The longest the Democrats ever took to implement a Tariff Commission dairy recommendation was 16 days," he said.

Copies of the letter have been made available to the Senate Watergate committee and other investigators.

Ohio State still No. 1; Hayes plans to stay on top

By The Associated Press - Woody Hayes, the veteran coach of top-ranked Ohio State, has broken the unwritten code of college football.

He's publicly looking beyond the next game. In fact, he's outlined how he hopes to keep his Buckeyes unbeaten and No. 1 in The Associated Press college football poll for the next four weeks; Don't play conservative ball, at least not until Nov. 24 when OSU faces fourth-ranked Michigan.

"If we do we're going downhill," said the crusty coach after his team crushed Indiana 37-7 in a Big Ten battle last Saturday. "If you button up, you get worse. We're playing some good football teams yet."

The Buckeyes, who received 35 first-place votes and 1,126 points in the weekly voting by sports writers and broadcasters Tuesday, have to get past Northwestern, Illinois, Michigan State and Iowa before they meet Michigan, one of 12 unbeaten, untied teams in the Top Twenty.

Alabama, a 42-21 victor over previously unbeaten Tennessee, remained No. 2 in the poll but narrowed the gap from 183 points of the previous week to 84 with 12 first-place votes and 1,042 points.

Oklahoma, which overwhelmed

Colorado 34-7, collected eight top votes and 953 points, Michigan, a 28-6 victor over Wisconsin, remained fourth with one first-place vote and 857 points and Penn State, which bested Syracuse 49-6, was favored by four voters and received 709 points to remain fifth.

The only change in the Top Ten was the re-entry of Nebraska and the exit of Tennessee. The Cornhuskers, No. 2 two weeks ago and 11th last week after a 13-12 loss to Missouri, moved up to 10th with a 10-9 victory over Kansas. The Vols dropped to 14th from 10th.

Missouri, the only other team in the Top 10 to rate a No. 1 vote, remained seventh behind Southern California. Note Dame, which faces Southern Cal in a showdown this weekend, was eighth and Louisiana State ninth.

The bottom 10 includes Arizona State, Houston, UCLA, Tennessee, Tulane, Miami of Ohio, Kansas, Texas Tech, Texas and Richmond.

Ram's Dryer Defensive Player of Week

By Bruce Lowitt
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Maybry Fred Dryer should be the Offensive Player of the Week. After all, he did score four points.

The only problem—if it can be called a problem—is that Dryer is a defensive end for the unbeaten Los Angeles Rams.

So he's The Associated Press Defensive Player of the Week in the National Football League, selected Tuesday for his outstanding work in the Rams' 24-7 victory last Sunday over the Green Bay Packers.

Dryer, a 27-year-old fifth-year veteran from San Diego State, set a unique NFL record with his four points. They came on a pair of safeties, the first time any player has ever dumped ball carriers in the end zone twice in the same game.

It was at an advantage 'cause they were behind and had to pass and I just teed off," Dryer said of his two fourth-quarter sacks of the Green Bay quarterbacks, Scott Hunter and Jim Del Gaizo.

"All I said to them (Hunter and Del Gaizo) was, 'Lay down, baby, lay down,'" quipped the free-spirit backer.

Also nominated for defensive honors were Miami's Vern Den Herder, who had seven tackles, three assists and five quarterback sacks in the Dolphins' 27-6 victory over Buffalo. Denver's Paul Smith, who had seven tackles and three sacks in the Broncos' 23-23 Monday night tie with Oakland, and Washington's Mike Bass, who had two interceptions, one of which he ran back 68 yards for a touchdown, in the Redskins' 31-13 triumph over St. Louis.

The winner Mets reappraise Berra after team turnabout

By Hal Bock
Associated Press Sports Writer

HAWORTH, N.J. (AP)—The last time Yogi Berra lost the seventh game of the World Series, he also lost his job. That was 1964 with the New York Yankees. He did much better in 1973 with the New York Mets.

hands of the fans. But when General Manager Bob Scheffing announced Tuesday's re-hiring of Yogi, he said, "There never was any doubt of his returning."

Now that he knows for sure where he'll be working next year, Berra has some ideas on how he'd like to change his team.

Rugby team outscored

The SIU Rugby Club lost to Kansas University 14-6 at the "Heart of America Rugby Tournament" held in Kansas City, Missouri on Saturday.

SIU was held scoreless in the first half and trailed 6-0; their only points came midway through the second half on a 20 yard breakthrough run by Tex Ashe. Jim Clapsaddle successfully kicked the two point conversion.

With SIU out of the single elimination tournament, the club played Wichita in a consolation game made up of the losers in the tournament. SIU blanked Wichita 15-0.

Skora and Ashe handled the scoring in the first half. Second half scoring honors went to Kevin Conway and Clapsaddle.

Less than 48 hours after the last out in Oakland, Berra was granted a new three-year contract by the Mets with a substantial raise. The guessing is that the numbers on the new deal are something around $75,000, that's not bad for a man who was being fired almost all summer long when the Mets were languishing in last place in the National League's East Division.

Berra said the Mets had offered to renew his contract before the end of the season. "I said, 'Let's wait until it's all over.' I could have signed earlier but I said I'd rather wait until after the season."

Berra said the length of his new contract was his idea. "I asked if I could have it and they said, fine," said Yogi.

When the Mets were struggling in July, Donald Grant, chairman of the Board, said Berra's fate was in the

Squids on top with 38-32 win

The Squids, SIU's wheelchair basketball team defeated the Bi-State Twisters 38-32 in a pre-season exhibition game at Viana, Illinois over the weekend.

Sieve Kirkwood led the Squids scoring with 18 points and 11 rebounds. Other top scorers were Ray Clark with 11 points and Ed Brewer finished with 8.

The Squids first home games of the season will be played against Topeka and Emporia on Nov. 3-4.

Parseghian plots big Irish rematch with Davis, USC

By Jerry Liska
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO — "It should be a helluva football game," Notre Dame's Ara Parseghian said Tuesday of Saturday's high-voltage clash between his Fighting Irish and invading Southern California.

Notre Dame, ranked No. 8 nationally, venge against No. 6 Southern California for a 45-23 trimming last season by the Trojans, still unbeaten in their last 23 starts.

"I think we have a much better defensive team, with more speed and quickness than last year," said Parseghian, whose Irish carry a 5-0 record against the undefeated, but once-tied Trojans 5-0-1.

Still a nightmare to the Irish is Trojan Anthony Davis, who scored six touchdowns, including kickoff returns of 96 and 97 yards, in USC's romp over Notre Dame last Dec. 2.

Against the kickoff returns of Davis and punt returns of fleet Lynn Swann, Parseghian said "I'll be clutching a religious medal I got from some priests down here."

"When you consider Southern California's skilled players, such as Davis, one of the finest wide receivers in Swann, and a fine passing quarterback in Pat Haden, this is a very dangerous football team," said Parseghian.

"People here have been talking about this game since the season started and we're hopeful our campus activity won't interfere with our practice progress this week. We don't want to leave our game on the practice field.

"We want our team up for Saturday. I hate to think we have any psychological edge knowing what Davis did to us last year. He could do it again."

Trojan coach John McKay told Chicago writers "We've always been able to make the big play against Notre Dame. If we don't make the big play Saturday, we won't have a chance.

"Notre Dame has been preparing for us since last December. They'll be emotionally high, and it will be difficult for us to get as emotionally involved as Notre Dame since we have our own conference race and battle for the Rose Bowl ahead of us."

Replaces Cronin

MacPhail new AL chief

CHICAGO (AP)—Lee MacPhail, general manager of the New York Yankees, was named to succeed Joe Cronin as president of the American League Tuesday.

The appointment, made by league owners, is effective Jan. 1, 1974.

Cronin, who still has two years to go on his contract, said he will remain as chairman of the board when MacPhail takes over as league president.

Cronin read a statement from the Yankees that it was with great "trepidation" that the Yanks gave MacPhail permission to accept the appointment. The Yankees said they regretted his loss but that the loss of the team was the gain of the league.

"I echo those sentiments," said Cronin. "We couldn't have a more qualified man to represent the American League."

MacPhail said: "The new ownership of the Yankees had nothing to do with my leaving the club. I found my relationship with the new owners excellent."

Bears trade end Holman

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Bears Tuesday traded veteran defensive end Willie Holman to the Washington Redskins for an undisclosed 1974 draft choice.

Holman, 28, sidelined most of the 1972 National Football League season because of a leg injury, was a starter at defensive left end for the first six Bear games this season.

Coach Abe Giron said Tony McGee will be switched from right end to left end and Mel Tom, recently acquired from the Philadelphia Eagles, will start at right end.

Holman was a six-season Bear player and was the club's No. 7 draft choice for 1968. The 250-pound product of South Carolina State spent two years of Army service in Germany before he was drafted by the Bears.

played. Sullivan's outstanding play was recognized when he was voted Most Valuable Player.

The team's record is now 4-3, with all three losses by one point. This is the club's first year of water polo competition. The team is made up of varsity swimmers and former water polo players.

The club's next match is an away game against Southwest Missouri at Cape Girardeau Wednesday.

Sullivan paces water polo team to third place finish

The Saluki Water Polo team won two games and lost one for a third place finish in a ten team tournament at Hendrix College in Arkansas over the weekend.

In the competition, SIU drenched the University of Arkansas 43-6, splashed to a 17-4 victory over the University of Missouri and lost a close one to Texas A&M 10-9.

Pat Sullivan led all SIU scorers with a total of 32 points for the three games

Towers lauds offense, defends goal line call

By Mark Tupper
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

"The loss to Tampa was one of the most disappointing losses we've had around here in years," a dejected Dick Towers said after Saturday's 25-23 decision with the Spartans. "We let it get away from us."

"We had the game won, but we didn't hold on," Towers continued. "This was by far the best offensive game we've played. We made very few mistakes. But this was also the poorest defensive game we've played."

Towers singled out several players as having especially good performances against Tampa. He said he felt offensive guard Frank Biskner had an excellent game blocking.

Most of Tower's praise however, went to his running backs. "Pat Forsys played the best game he has played since he has been at SIU," owners said. Forsys scored one touchdown, made several drive-sustaining runs and was an effective blocker.

Towers said Melvin Moncrief was great, as usual, as was his other tailback, Larry Perkins. "We're just real proud of Larry here," Towers beamed. "He's an outstanding runner who had an outstanding night." Perkins rushed 14 times for 99 yards and one touchdown. In the coaches dressing room after the game, Towers said he had recommended Perkins to two post-season bowl game committees.

One of the plays questioned in the game was a reverse near the Salukis' own goal line which resulted in a fumble and a Tampa safety. Towers defended the call, pointing out that the handoff took place on about the five, and noted the game films showed that a clean exchange would have resulted in a long gain.

"It was a gamble," Towers admitted. "but we felt this was a game that we had to take some gambles to win."

As SIU made a final drive hoping to get within field goal range of Ken Seaman, the march ended on a fourth down pass interception. Towers said the offense needed to move ten more yards before he would have sent Seaman in for a try. "Our pass blocking on that last series was poor," Towers said. "We had poor execution on our passes to Ivy Moore that series."

"We've got to make some changes defensively," Towers said. "I think our freshman are playing as well as they can. We're still not getting the leadership we need from our defensive upper-classmen."

Only one senior played on the offensive squad Saturday night. Five seniors played on defense. "Because our team is so young," Towers said, "I'm worried about how well they will be able to respond."

The response will need to come Saturday when the Salukis face Akron in a 1:30 p.m. Homecoming contest at McAndrew Stadium. Akron's season record is 3-4. Akron has also played Tampa and lost to them 21-7.

Sororities volley for championship

Sigma Sigma Sigma squeaked past Sigma Kappa Saturday to win the championship match of Sigma Pi's sixth annual volleyball tournament for sororities.

Final match scores were 15-12, 11-15 and 15-13.

Scott Stocke, Sigma Pi social chairman, said he was pleased with the caliber of competition. "The girls really seemed psyched up for it," he said.
