Brandt asked to investigate threats

By Andria Strassman
Staff Writer

Dennis Adamczyk, student president, Friday called upon SIU President Warren Brandt to initiate an investigation into reports of threats from "vindictive strikers" against student workers who did not honor picket lines.

Michael Hampton, an East Side senator, in a press conference with Adamczyk and Sam Dunning, student vice-president, said the threats have involved students being told by supervisors that they would be fired.

A letter from Adamczyk to Brandt singled out SIU janitorial personnel for threatening students who did not honor the picket lines.

"Specifically," Adamczyk said, "student workers face the threat of losing their jobs by vindictive strikers who have indicated they will 'get even' with students who did not support the strike."

In the letter Adamczyk requested the following:
—That Brandt "immediately initiate an investigation into these threats against SIU student workers."

—That this investigation be conducted by members of the University police who did not participate in strike activity.

—That this information be before Judge (Peyton) Kunc at the hearing to be held Oct. 21 in relation to the continuance of the strike.

—That Brandt advise Adamczyk's office of "safeguards which will be used to ensure that students will not be arbitrarily terminated or otherwise ill-treated by their supervisors."

Adamczyk said he does not want the investigation done by University policemen who went on strike, because a possible conflict of interest might exist.

He also indicated he will ask the Jackson County Sheriff's Office and the Carbondale Police Department to assist in the investigation.

Dunning said he has received nine reports from students about the threats, the majority of which were made prior to the strikers' return to work Thursday.

He added that threats are still being received now.

Striking custodians and janitors, members of Building Service Workers Local 316, and policemen, members of Teamster's local 347, returned to work Wednesday and Thursday after the administration obtained a temporary restraining order forbidding the strikers to picket.

Adamczyk said Student Government finds the threats "reprehensible and shall do everything within our power to ensure both the physical and job safety of SIU student workers."

Bing Crosby dies of heart attack during golf game

MADRID, Spain (AP)—Bing Crosby, whose crooning voice and relaxed humor entertained millions around the world for half a century, died of a heart attack while playing golf outside Madrid. He was 73.

Crosby, an avid golfer, collapsed Friday while leaving the 18th hole after finishing a game at the La Moraleja club with three Spanish champions. He was taken to the Red Cross hospital where a spokesman said he was dead on arrival.

The singer, actor and businessman had come to Spain primarily for relaxation after a tour of Britain which he described as a test of his recovery from a back injury he suffered in a fall earlier this year. The accident occurred while Crosby was taping a television show to celebrate his 50th year in show business.

The brown-haired, blue-eyed Crosby was known variously as "Der Bingle," "Old Dad" and "The Groaner" — tags stuck on him by his long-time friend and verbal sparring partner, Bob Hope.

Hope, in New York, said of the news: "I still don't believe it. I'm absolutely numb... I saw him a couple of months ago and he seemed fine... I can't understand what happened."

Crosby made more than a score of records which sold more than one million each. The most widely known hits included "Silent Night"—his all-time best seller, "White Christmas," "When the Blue of the Night Meets the Gold of the Day"—his radio theme song. It was often said during his heyday in the 1930s and 40s that at any time, somewhere in the world, his rich baritone could be heard on a radio, phonograph or jukebox.

For many years, Crosby was credited with selling more records than any singer in history. He was overtaken in the 1950s, however, by Elvis Presley, who also died recently.

Crosby seemed to be at home in almost every medium. He made more than 70 films and won an Oscar as best actor in 1944 for "Going My Way," in which he played a priest. His screen credits ranged from the "Road" comedies with Hope and Dorothy Lamour to "The Country Girl" in which he played an alcoholic and to the rollicking "High Society."

Hope said Friday that he and Crosby had just "resolved all the contract deals" for a new "Road" picture with Miss Lamour, "The Road to the Fountain of Youth."

Kathryn Crosby, who married the singer in 1937, five years after the death of his first wife, arrived at the family home in Los Angeles on Friday. She was followed to the gate by a police car.

Crosby had four sons by his first wife and a daughter and two sons by his second wife, who at 23 was 30 years his junior when he married her.

Crosby was playing golf with Spanish champions Manuel Pinero, Valentin Barrios and Cesar de Zulueta when he collapsed. He had been planning to join a partridge hunt on Saturday and also intended to play golf on the Spanish island of Majorca.

Talking with a group of journalists in the clubhouse before Friday's match, Crosby seemed to be in a holiday mood. He reminisced freely about his lengthy show business experience and said the movie "High Society," in which he starred with Frank Sinatra, Grace Kelly and Louis Armstrong, was "the most satisfying one in my career."

Like Hope, other old friends reacted with surprise and sorrow at the news of Crosby's death. "It's a terrible shock to me," said comedian George Burns. "He was one of the greatest. He made it possible for a lot of new singers by introducing a new style. The world is going to miss him."

Sinatra said, "The death of Bing Crosby is almost more than I can take. He was the father of my career, the idol of my youth and a dear friend of my maturity. Bing leaves a gaping hole in our music and in the lives of everybody who ever loved him. And that's just what makes his death so terrible."

"I'll go on singing... as long as I'm asked," Crosby's given name was Harry Lillis.

He was born May 2, 1904, in Tacoma, Wash., one of seven children. His brother Bob also was in show business, a leader-singer. There were several versions of how he got the nickname "Bing," but they all agree that he picked it up as a child.

He began his musical career as a drummer in a high school dance orchestra. In 1927, he and Al Rinker, a pianist, joined Paul Whiteman's jazz orchestra, and Whiteman teamed them with Harry Barries as Whiteman's Rhythm Boys. Among their hits was "Mississippi Mud." In 1930, Crosby made his first screen appearance when the Whiteman band filmed "The King of Jazz."

The Rhythm Boys later left Whiteman and performed in Los Angeles at the Cocoanut Grove. Crosby then began singing and acting in a series of 20-minute movie shorts for producer Mack Sennett. It was during this period that he proposed to his first wife, Dixie Lee, over a chicken dinner at the Cocoanut Grove.

Crosby began a long association with Paramount Pictures in 1932 and in 1933 he made the first "Road" picture. He left Paramount in the 1950s and began to free-lance.

Ehrlichman preparing for early parole

WASHINGTON (AP) — John D. Ehrlichman turned from writing another novel to preparing an application for parole Friday as his sentence in the White House "plumbers" case was reduced to make early release possible.

The first of Nixon's closest advisers to enter prison, Ehrlichman thus probably will be the first to be freed.

"That's terrific," Ehrlichman exclaimed when his lawyer telephoned him in prison at Safford, Ariz., to relay the news that his sentence had been reduced.

"I can't make any predictions," said the lawyer, Stuart Stiller, "but we can't expect anything for several months." He said Ehrlichman would begin work on his parole application immediately.

The action Friday by U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell, coupled with the reduction of sentence granted Ehrlichman in the Watergate co-conspirator (the former White House aide) makes the former White House aide eligible for parole as of Oct. 28 — the first-year anniversary of the day he entered the prison camp.

But the parole process takes time. After Ehrlichman's application is received, he will be interviewed by local examiners whose findings are passed to the U.S. Parole Commission in Washington for decision. The commission seldom grants immediate release, although pre-Christmas release is a long-shot possibility.

Ehrlichman, 52, was convicted of violating the civil rights of Dr. Lewis J. Fielding, the Beverly Hills, Calif., psychiatrist who had treated Pentagon Papers figure Daniel Ellsberg. According to testimony at the trial, Ehrlichman approved sending White House-sponsored burglars into Fielding's office. They were nicknamed plumbers because their job was to plug leaks of secrets.

Ehrlichman also was convicted, along with former White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman and former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, of conspiring to cover up the White House involvement in the Watergate burglary.

Ehrlichman was sentenced to 20 months to 5 years for the Fielding break-in and, along with Haldeman and Mitchell, to 2½ years to 8 years for the Watergate coverup. He chose to begin the concurrent sentences before his appeals were exhausted and thus entered prison eight months before the others.

Ten days ago, U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica reduced the coverup sentences to 1 to 4 years. Gesell, on Friday, made Ehrlichman's other sentence a straight 42 months and directed "the prisoner may be released on parole at such time as the parole commission determines."

Before he went into prison, Ehrlichman wrote a novel, "The Company," the story of a CIA director who blackmails the president to keep his own wrongdoing from public view. The book, with thinly disguised real-life characters, was expanded and made into a television series shown last month under the title "Washington Behind Closed Doors."

Harrison says he never doubted strike

Hollis Harrison

By Jean Ness
Staff Writer

Hollis Harrison says he never had second thoughts about going on strike. "I'm not afraid," he said in a relaxed voice, as he sat in a folding chair in the Carpenters' Union Hall, 210 W. Willow St.

Harrison, president of the University's custodians' union, said that since members of Building Service Workers Local 316 had decided in late-September to set up picket lines effective Oct. 6, he felt responsible for carrying out that decision.

"We only want equal wages with Edwardsville," said Harrison, referring to the union's demand for an 11 per cent salary increase which would equalize the salaries earned by SIU-Carbondale custodians with those earned by custodians at the SIU-Edwardsville campus.

Although the union is still without a new contract with the University, picket lines have been removed and custodians are back on the job as the result of a temporary restraining order handed down by the Jackson County Circuit Court on Wednesday.

If the custodians had not honored the restraining order—as they had threatened—Harrison, as a union leader, could have been arrested.

"We said at first that we'd ignore it," Harrison said. "But we talked it over and felt it was better to go back to work" because, as he said, the health hazard of not having anyone around to do custodial work on campus was getting serious. "Naturally, I'm glad I didn't have to go to jail," Harrison said. "But if it would have taken that, we would have gone."

Harrison said he is confident that the community supported the custodians in their strike.

"People gave the picketers the thumbs-up sign and they were always bringing food to the men," he said, adding that he doesn't feel as though the community holds him responsible for inconveniences caused by the strike.

"I don't think they consider me a 'bad guy,'" he said. "I've got too many friends."

Instead, Harrison said he and other union members felt like celebrities with all the publicity they received.

"Everybody enjoyed themselves, even knowing they were not making any money," Harrison said.

The strike was more than just fun, Harrison added.

"Now we're not taken for granted," he said. "They (the administration) know we're here and they know we will continue to cause them inconveniences" if the union feels it has to.

However, the strike did have some negative consequences.

"The campus was in a mess," said Harrison, a union member since 1960.

Also, "I was at the Carpenters' Hall all the time," he said. "My wife called herself a widow."

In fact, Harrison said, the best thing about being off of the picket lines is that he can get more sleep now.

Nobel economics prize awarded to two Europeans

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—A retired British cabinet minister, both in their 70s, won the 1977 Nobel economics prize for their "pathbreaking contributions to the theory of international trade and international capital."

Cambridge professor emeritus James Meade, 70, and Beertil Ohlin, 78, former Swedish liberal party leader and one-time commerce minister, shared the $145,000 prize in the last Nobel award to be made this year. Earlier prizes were given in Stockholm for literature, physics, chemistry and medicine and in Oslo for peace.

The Briton and Swede were cited for classic works written between the early 1930s and 1950s. The Swedish Royal Academy of Sciences said their studies have gained actuality and importance with the increasing integration of the world economy in the past two decades.

"It has become increasingly clear that problems related to the allocation of resources, business cycles and the distribution of income are very much international problems," the academy said.

Meade in particular was cited as "the leading pioneer in the field of international macrotheory and international economic policy."

The academy said Ohlin "has developed a theory that demonstrates which factors determine the pattern of foreign trade and the international division of labor on the one hand, and on the other shows what effect foreign trade has on allocation of resources, price relations and the distribution of income."

A leading Swedish economist, Prof. Assar Lindbeck, summed up their work: "Ohlin is the originator of the modern theory of trade. Meade applied the theory to economic policy problems. He is also the originator of stabilization policy."

The economics prize is a late addition to the original prizes set up under the will of Alfred Nobel, inventor of dynamite, in 1901. The economics award was established in memory of Nobel by the Swedish central bank in 1969.

Six of the previous winners were Americans, including Chicago economist Milton Friedman last year when Americans made a clean sweep of the Nobel awards in all divisions except the Peace Prize which was withheld.

The prizes will be presented to the winners with traditional ceremony on Dec. 10, the anniversary of Nobel's death. Winners of the other awards were:

Literature — Vicente Aleixandre of Spain.

Physics — John Van Vleck and Philip Anderson of the United States and Sir Nevill F. Mott of Britain.

Chemistry — Ilya Prigogine of Belgium.

Medicine — Drs. Rosalyn Yalow, Roger Guillemin and Andrew Schally of the United States.

Peace — Mrs. Betty Williams and Miss Mairead Corrigan of Northern Ireland, awarded the previously withheld 1976 Peace Prize, and Amnesty International the 1977 prize.

Herrin officials indicted by grand jury

MARION (AP)—The mayor of Johnston City and three former Herrin city officials were indicted by a Williamson County grand jury. Mayor Bill Stevens was charged with allegedly accepting an inducement for his favorable vote on granting a cable TV franchise for Johnston City in 1970 when he was an alderman. John McVey, former mayor of Herrin; Frank Moroni, former street superintendent; and Basil Russell, former water superintendent, were charged with theft and official misconduct. The charges were in connection with their alleged use of city property, mainly graves, for their personal use.

Baptist Center outlaws sex change operations

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Southern Baptist officials met in executive session Friday and voted 54-2 to ban sex change operations at the Baptist Medical Center, a major U.S. center for such surgery. The board is dominated by Baptist ministers, who generally have opposed the operations on grounds that such psychological abnormalities can be righted only through spiritual transformation. The operations were performed at the hospital for four years, during which the sex of more than 50 transsexuals was changed, mostly from male to female. An additional 50 were in preliminary stages of the change, awaiting the board's decision.

Califano war:is stop to welfare cheating

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano asked businessmen to help him weed out welfare cheaters by seeing how many of their employees are on the welfare rolls. Califano said his request was prompted by the government's own experience in recently finding that 1,732 federal employees were on the District of Columbia welfare rolls. Califano said the program allow big businesses to, on the government's welfare list computer tapes through their own computers, letting the machines compare names. Califano stressed that no details have been worked out and the idea is tentative.

Unit-pricing is standard in most stores

WASHINGTON (AP)—Unit-pricing, once a major demand of consumer activists, has become standard practice in most supermarket chains today, but studies show that shoppers often don't use the information. Unit-price labels enable consumers to compare prices of different size packages. They list the actual purchase price of a given-size package, as well as the price per pound, pint or other common unit. The survey found that only two-thirds of those consumers who shopped in stores offering unit price labels said they used the information. The same study also showed, however, that 16 per cent of shoppers almost use the unit pricing and 9 per cent have never heard of it.

Panama assures U.S. of top Canal priority

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter and Panamanian leader Omar Torrijos, trying to dispel questions about the new Panama Canal treaty, have agreed the United States can defend the waterway against any threat and send its warships through it ahead of others in any crisis. But they also agreed in a joint statement that the treaty allows the United States to direct its actions only toward insuring that the canal remain open and "never against the territorial integrity or political independence of Panama." Carter said he thought the statement resolved "the major differences of interpretation" that threaten Senate ratification of the treaty.

Hijackers threaten to kill 80 hostages

DUBAI, United Arab Emirates (AP)—Four hijackers of a West German jetliner have given authorities until Sunday to meet their demands or risk the execution of more than 80 hostages. The terrorists want $15 million in ransom and freedom for "comrades" imprisoned in West Germany and Turkey, officials said. The hijackers, two Arabic speaking men and two women, declared in an ultimatum addressed to the Bonn government that they are linked to ultra-leftist radicals who kidnapped a West German industrialist in Cologne nearly six weeks ago. In Bonn, officials said the hijackers' demands matched almost every point set by the kidnapers of Schleyer.

Evergreen Terrace rent may increase in January

By Chris Moenich
Staff Writer

Rental rates for two- and three-bedroom apartments at Evergreen Terrace could increase $10 Jan. 1 in an attempt of offset a $16,921 deficit at the University-operated apartment complex.

If the increase is approved by the SIU Board of Trustees at its meeting in November, rates for two-bedroom apartments at the complex will be raised to $150 a month, while rates for three-bedroom apartments will increase to $165 a month.

Bob Wenc, director of Family Housing, said increased utility costs, higher wages for employees at the apartments, increases in building maintenance costs and an expected 6 percent overall inflation cost increase are mainly responsible for the deficit.

Wenc said the Egyptian Electric Cooperative has warned Family Housing that it plans to raise utility rates 12 percent for all of its customers. In one year, the utility increase would cause a $10,288 increase in Evergreen Terrace's budget, Wenc said.

He added that Family Housing is expecting to increase the salaries of its full-time employees by a total of $3,352 and that the federal government has indicated that the minimum wage—which would affect all student workers employed at the apartment complex—may increase 15 percent by next year.

Wenc said renters will be officially notified of any rent increase 40 days before such an increase is put into effect, and that they will be able to cancel their contract within 10 days of being notified.

New dental program delayed; dentist still sought to fill cavity

By Chris Moenich
Staff Writer

Hollis Merritt, School of Technical Careers (STC) assistant dean, said the student dental program will not begin Monday as planned because the procedure being used to hire the dentist has not been completed.

Merritt said, "We're shooting to get it started as quickly as possible. The process to hire a dentist must be endured and we're in that process right now."

Five people from University faculty and staff are reviewing four applications submitted for the position. Merritt said they made recommendations to his office but he will delay making a definite decision until Ray Huebschmann, Graduate Student Council president, and Dennis Adamczyk, student body president, make their recommendations.

Huebschmann said he will contact Merritt by Monday with his recommendation. Merritt said Adamczyk said he will be ready to make his recommendations by early next week.

Arden Pratt, STC dean who is away until next week, will make the final decision on who is hired. Merritt said Pratt will be contacted by phone for his decision when the recommendations are completed.

Sam McVay, Health Service director and member of the search committee to review the dentist's applications, said the committee reviewed the credentials of four dentists. Three applicants could not start immediately because of current commitments and a fourth would be available immediately, he said.

The dental program is funded by a $2 Health Service fee instituted last summer after a student referendum. The fee provides for a dentist, dental assistant and student workers.

Operating papers, prepared by student government officials and McVay, state the program's purpose is to provide, when possible, emergency dental care that requires no immediate external follow-up.

White Cane Day reminds drivers to yield for blind

By Andris Stasmanis
Staff Writer

A blind man wanting to cross a street walks up to the edge of a sidewalk, extends his white cane, waits a few seconds and then starts across.

As he proceeds, a car drives by missing him by only a few feet.

Expecting to yield the right-of-way to a blind person, the driver is forced to stop, costing him time and $1,000 for violating Illinois' White Cane Law.

The White Cane Law, passed in 1969, states that whenever a blind person who is about to cross the street displays his white cane or is being led by a guide dog, a driver must yield the right-of-way.

As a reminder of the law, Carbondale Mayor Neal Eckert has proclaimed Saturday to be White Cane Day in the city.

Eckert's proclamation urges "all sighted citizens to practice the courtesy of stopping for our sightless citizens throughout the year."

Approximately 200 city residents are visually impaired, said Janel Taylor, a Carbondale social planner. Thirty of those persons are either students or faculty members at the University.

A pamphlet released by the Illinois Federation of the Blind states that George Bonham, former president of the Peoria Lions Club, saw a blind person in traffic desperately tapping a black cane on the pavement in hopes of getting consideration from busy drivers.

Bonham then came up with the idea of using a white cane with a red band on it for use by blind person trying to warn drivers.

County will receive $11,300

SIU reaches ambulance agreement

By Steve Pounds
Staff Writer

The Health Service has ended its fee dispute with the Jackson County Ambulance Service, by agreeing to pay $11,300 for ambulance calls from students over the past three months.

Gary Hartlieb, chairman of the county's ambulance committee, said that the county has a "standing purchase order" with SIU to provide service to students who need the assistance of an ambulance.

The University will pay the county on a monthly basis through June 1978, Frosty Cummings, director of the Jackson County Ambulance Service, said.

Cummings was optimistic that the ambulance service and the Health Service will come to an agreement on a long range contract "in the next few months," but Hartlieb disagreed.

"We were ready to give them a contract, but they don't want it," Hartlieb explained. "Now we submit the bill to them, and they pay it."

The ambulance service also learned this week it will be charging out-of-the-county residents more than Jackson County residents for an ambulance call.

Cummings said that persons who are not from Jackson County will pay an additional $25 for an ambulance.

County residents now pay $60 for an emergency call and $45 for a transfer trip from their home or a nursing home to the hospital, he explained.

Non-county residents are charged $85 for an emergency call and $70 for a transfer call.

A mileage charge of $1.20 a "loaded mile" is added on to the first charge, and is the same for both county and out-of-county residents.

Hartlieb said county residents pay a tax to provide for the ambulance service, and should therefore pay less to use one of the county's six ambulances.

"We are not obliged to service people not in the county, so if we have to go past the borders, they (non-residents) should have to pay a little bit more," Hartlieb said.

"We came into operation under a referendum in Jackson County, so we are responsible to people in that country," he added.

Hartlieb pointed out that the non-residents rule does not apply to students at the University, because of the county's arrangement with the University, nor to non-residents who own property in the county.

The extra charge to ambulance users outside the county will serve as a deterrent to call Jackson County's ambulance service.

"People in adjacent counties are calling on us because we have a very high quality ambulance service, and we don't want to deny the service," Cummings said.

Cummings said that the ambulance service will expand from six ambulances to eight this year to assist in calls to outlying areas such as Ava, Grand Tower, and Cambell Hill.

Students have chance to monitor use of medical fees

Our Health Service is in a near crisis situation, and it doesn't appear that things will get better on their own. President Brandt has said he will not ask for state funds to bail out the Health Service program, which has a projected deficit of a third of a million dollars, and that can only mean an increase in student fees, vast cuts in already meager and under-funded health programs, and perhaps even a standard clinic fee for each Health Service visit. Since the Health Service is used and designed primarily for students, it isn't likely that anybody is going to come to our rescue. That leaves it up to us.

Maybe your priorities won't allow you to take the time to assure that you have an adequate health program backing you up, but remember—you are paying $60 per year for health care, and fee increases are inevitable. You owe it to yourself to make sure your money buys what it should, and all it takes is a little bit of your time to protect your investment. It's your money, and it's your health.

Black unity needed to beef up CARE membership

At the Nigerian Cultural Event on Sunday, Oct. 9, the theme of black unity was recurring. But the Coalition Against Racial Exploitation (CARE) has a few black members. CARE is protesting the investments of the SIU Foundation in South Africa. Contrary to popular beliefs, these investments are helping to exploit the black labor of South Africa. The

This is a call to action, for the sooner we as blacks realize that whatever happens to blacks in the farthest corner of the world affects us as a black unit and as black people, the sooner black unity will be achieved. So raise your social consciousness and join CARE. Meetings are Sunday night in the International Lounge of the Student Center at 7 p.m.

If this philosophy appears to have idealistic or naive, then so be it. It is in brief. On the other hand, it can also strive to be different. My memories of athletics include very few season's records but the good and bad experiences as a student athlete are quite vivid and both played a role in my development. Fortunately I had more good than bad. It is my belief that this is the case now with the leadership currently charged with the responsibility of teaching our students in sports. Thanks coaches.

Agency gives chance to see county by air

By Dennis Sullivan
Staff Writer

A governmental agency is offering interested citizens the opportunity to get "high" for periods of "up to half-an-hour," for a minimal fee.

The Jackson County Soil and Water Conservation District will provide air tours of Jackson County to anyone interested in seeing what Carbonade, Murphysboro and the rest of the county look like from the air.

The tours, which will begin at the SIU Airport at 10 a.m. and end at dusk on Sunday, Oct. 23, will be divided into flights over the western and eastern parts of the county. Dave Warner, educational coordinator for the district, said the half-hour flights are intended to show farmers and "any interested persons how what they do will ecologically affect surrounding areas."

Three airplanes will be used for the tours and will, Warner estimated, reach heights of up to 1,000 feet. Each plane will be capable of holding three passengers, he added.

Warner said the tours are "offered every three years to show what kind of conservation measures have occurred."

Each "25 to 30 minute tour" will cost the passenger $5 if tickets are bought in advance, or $6 if purchased the day of the tour.

Marilyn Eaton, district secretary, explained that "We're not trying to make money, we're just trying to cover costs."

The purpose of the tours, she said, is educational. "Normally, we promote conservation through schools and some ministers by using essay contests, poster contests and other conservation-oriented material to interest students."

Advance tickets may be purchased from Arnold's Market in Carbonade and the Jackson County Soil and Water Conservation District office located at the intersection of Illinois 127 and the DeSoto Road north of Murphysboro. Tickets may also be purchased at the Jackson County Extension Service, which is located on Ava Road north of Murphysboro.

Howard W. Allen, a professor in history, does something he says very few other historians have ever done. He combines history and computers to analyze the way people voted in certain elections.

After spending last year on a sabbatical at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, Allen brought back historical data on the state of Washington for a project "I plan on using the data to see what effect the depression and the socio-economic factors of that era had on voting patterns," Allen said.

The data includes such diverse factors as annual totals of bushels of grain harvested in the state and the percentage of dwellings with electric lights. These factors are processed in the computer along with the election results of the different counties.

After the data has been processed, Allen will analyze it and look for deviations from voting patterns in the state's counties from one election to the next.

Allen said that the Washington state survey is an experiment and that he hopes to do a regional study of the Midwest in the future.

Allen, professor in 20th century history, conducted research and gathered the data at the Inter-University Consortium for Political and Social Research at the University of Michigan. The consortium holds data from U.S. census reports since 1790, and election return data from every county in the union since 1820.

"The consortium is an international organization with members from every major university in the country and many universities in Europe," Allen said. According to Allen, SIU is a member of the consortium enabling interested and qualified persons to acquire data for research.

While some history majors have used the available data at the consortium for thesis papers, the majority of requests for data comes from the Political Science Department, Allen said.

SIU dairy livestock judging group scores fifth place in national contest

By Michael Gansauhs
Staff Writer

The dairy division of the SIU animal judging team was awarded fifth place at their national contest held in Madison, Wis., last week.

Sponsored by the Department of Animal Industry at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, the SIU School of Agriculture, the dairy team, along with the poultry and livestock judging teams travel to contests located in states as far west as Texas and as far east as Virginia. "Illinois in one of three or four states that has four college level judging teams," said Jim Males, assistant professor in Animal Industries, and coach for the livestock team.

Along with SIU, animal judging teams can be found at Western Illinois, Illinois State and the University of Illinois.

"The judging teams from these four schools consistently place in the top ten spots at the nationals, which is pretty good," Males said.

There are "about eight students on the poultry judging team, eight students on the dairy judging team and 10 students on the livestock judging team," Males said.

Most of the students come from an introductory course called "Animal Industries 311."

Students are taught to look for those qualities which the official judges, men who raise cattle for a living, will probably find are important. During the contest the students rank animals in 12 classes. For eight of these classes they have to defend why they placed them where they did.

"Anytime we evaluate livestock, size is important since the primary purpose of livestock is to produce meat," Males said.

Many of the contests are held in conjunction with the livestock and the students judge the livestock at the show. Sometimes cash awards, other times ribbons, plaques and trophies are presented to the college teams that receive a high rating.

Last year the SIU livestock judging team was rated third in the country on the college level. "Our national livestock judging contest will be held Nov. 14, in Louisville, Ky.," Males said.

This spring the judging teams will travel to contests at North Carolina State, of Louisville Ky., Memphis Tenn. and Kansas City Mo.

House passes bill to build Alton lock and tax vessel fuel

WASHINGTON (AP)—Legislation authorizing a new $432 million lock on the Mississippi River near Alton, Ill., and instituting taxes on fuel used by vessels on inland waterways has received House approval.

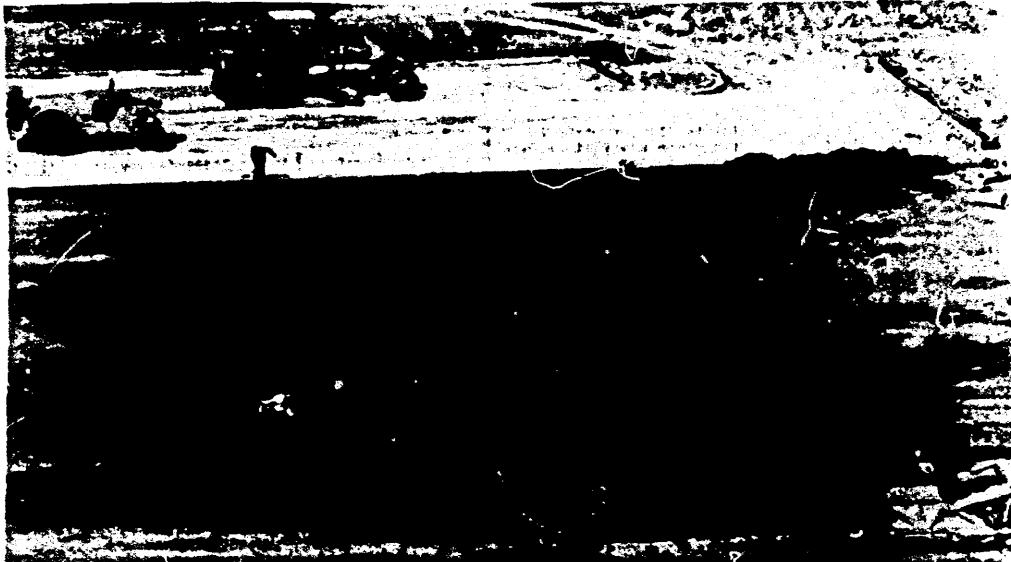

The House approved the measure Thursday by a vote of 331 to 70. The legislation now goes to the Senate.

The new 1,200-foot lock would replace 40-year-old locks and dam 26, which the House Public Works Committee said have deteriorated and are slowing traffic between the Mississippi, Illinois and Ohio rivers and the Gulf intracoastal waterway.

Controversy over the measure centered largely on a section that would impose, for the first time, a tax on users of the inland waterways. Diesel and other fuel for vessels would be taxed 4 cents a gallon beginning Oct. 1, 1979, and 6 cents beginning Oct. 1, 1981. Ocean going ships, passenger and recreational vessels would be exempt.

President Carter's administration favors taxing waterway users to cover part of the cost of engineering improvements and navigational aids financed by the federal government.

The fuel tax was estimated to produce $29 million in fiscal 1980 rising to $71 million in fiscal 1984.

Money cart key to $1 million mystery

By Charles Chamberlain
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Call it the case of cart T-12, the main character in the mystery of the missing million, and it can't tell what happened.

T-12 is green, made of steel, has wheels and is about the size of a portable bar. Its home is in the massive underground vault area of the First National Bank of Chicago.

T-12's job is to deliver several million dollars in cash to the nearby cage of the head teller. He unlocks it with a key and removes the currency for the day's banking business. Only a limited number of other employees have a key to T-12, officials said.

The teller may have a half dozen similar carts wheeled in, and an accounting of their money must jibe at day's end.

On Tuesday, an even $1 million in packaged currency had disappeared from T-12.

A team of five auditors failed to find a possible accounting error.

The FBI said the money has vanished either through a computer error, embezzlement or burglary. Authorities said they are inclined to believe the money was stolen. But how?

The FBI questioned some 60 bank employees working with cash inflows delivered by armor cars in the vault area over the Columbus Day weekend and said Friday they have no suspects.

Some employees have taken lie detector tests and officials say others will do the same. But so far the tests have not been conclusive. The FBI also is studying films taken by four television cameras that sweep the vault area, an area agents describe as having one of the most sophisticated bank security systems in the country.

Investigators said no evidence of forced entry has been found in the vault, or of T-12 or elsewhere in the bank.

Bank officials said no one can enter the receiving and cash storage area without passing strict scrutiny, and that there are accurate records of who did have access. They said that only bank employees, and no outside visitors, were in the area during the weekend.

Officials would not give the denomination of the missing bills. But they said the currency could have been carried in a small suitcase, an indication that large denomination were involved. A warren of locked cages built of heavy-gauge steel mesh and connected by aisles are inside the half-square-block receiving and accounting area.

Four guards are posted at strategic spots. One is in a bulletproof booth at the only entrance from the outside, the underground loading dock for armored cars. Another operates two motorized steel doors, about 15 feet apart. They are opened and closed one at a time to admit passage. The vault—two floors below street level of the modern sky-scraper bank—has a two-foot-thick steel door with a time lock and is partitioned into locked cages.

The money apparently disappeared from T-12 some time between 6:15 p.m. Friday and Tuesday evening, when the loss was discovered by the head teller. Officials said the vault was not opened Sunday.

The FBI was not notified until Wednesday after the close of business hours. Bank officials said they were not sure the money actually was missing until then, after the auditors' investigation.

United Way to sponsor rally

The Carbondale United Way Kickoff rally will be held at 6 p.m. Monday at the University House.

The rally is being sponsored to drum up support for the United Way campaign. The campaign will last throughout October.

John T. Cherry, a 20-year resident and current business manager in Carbondale, is the chairman for this year's campaign.

The goal for this year is $80,000. Volunteers will be collecting money from area businesses, retail stores and industries.

Carter urged to settle strike

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Striking longshoremen in the East and the Gulf Coast are preventing Midwest grain shipments from getting to market, and President Carter should push to end the deadlock, Gov. James R. Thompson says.

"We request the administration take an active role in bringing all involved parties to the bargaining table," Thompson wrote in a telegram to Carter. "If negotiations prove fruitless, then we urge you to use any and all means at your disposal to resolve the matter."

Thompson said Thursday that striking dock workers at New Orleans, the nation's second busiest port and mover of 60 per cent of America's grain harvest, have backed up barge traffic on the Mississippi River and its major tributaries.

The backup is stalling what otherwise could be a bumper corn and grain crop in Illinois, the governor said.

Plugging up the Mississippi eventually could prevent delivery of coal and fuel oil to the Midwest points for winter stockpiling, Thompson warned.

"If the movement of grain and processed products is stopped by this strike, then a number of export contracts will be canceled," he added. "Future overseas sales will be jeopardized at a time when we need every sale we can get to help relieve oversupply and depressed farm prices."

Home births safer, doctor tells court

CHICAGO (AP)—It is safer to deliver babies in a home than in a hospital, says a doctor who has brought 700 babies into the world in home births.

Dr. Gregory White said Wednesday at a federal court hearing that the state should resume the licensing of midwives. There is an "enormously increased demand" for home births, which are safer than those in hospitals, under the right circumstances, because there is less risk of infection, he added.

White said mothers are immune to home-grown germs and "the danger of infection in hospitals is greater. Also maternal-infant bonding is important because babies do better when their mothers are with them continuously, as opposed to the intermittent contact they have in hospitals for the first several days."

About 100 interested parents and others were in the audience that included babies breast feeding, crying, burping, gagging and burping.

White testified in support of a lawsuit filed by pregnant women and prospective midwives. The suit asks the court to overturn a 1963 state law banning the licensing of midwives. The plaintiffs claim that the law is unconstitutional and violates their freedom of expression.

Adam Farmer, Tim Mooney, stands between his paren: David, Walter R. Moss, and Louise, Mary Wade, in the Calipre Stage presentation of "I am the Cheese."

'Cheese' uses cycle of suspense

The typeface of the psychosuspense novel "I am the Cheese" was one of the leading factors causing Eric Peterson, a graduate student in speech communication, to read the book, then adapt and direct it for a Calipre Stage production. When Peterson was looking through a New York Times Book Review, he came across an ad for the Robert Cormier novel. The typeface of the title in the ad caught his attention. "The typeface intrigued me so," said Peterson, "that I read the book and it was then I realized the plot could adapt itself well for a show in several ways." "I am the Cheese," is being presented Saturday at 8 p.m. on the Calipre Stage deals with interacting cycles. In one cycle, a 17-year-old boy rides his bicycle on a search for his missing father, an investigative reporter who exposes government corruption. The "cyclical" plot that focuses into the boy's mind. Through psychiatric interviews, the audience

Dolly Parton, Dave Mason appearing soon

Dave Mason, Kenny Loggins, and Dolly Parton should leave area music fans "feelin' alright" when they all appear in the Arena during the same week in November. Tickets go on sale this Wednesday at 8 a.m. for the Mason and Loggins concert, which is scheduled for 8 p.m. Nov. 9. Seats costing $5, $6, and $6.50 will be available at the South Main Lobby Box Office of the Arena. Tickets for the Parton concert, scheduled for 8 p.m. Nov. 13, will go on sale this Thursday at the Arena Special Events Ticket Office and the Student Center Central Ticket Office. Seats for this concert will cost $4.50, $5.50, and $6. Mason first achieved recognition in the rock world as an original member of the British group Traffic. While the focus of the group was on lead singer-rhythm guitarist Steve Winwood, Mason contributed such popular group songs as "Feelin' Alright," "Crying to Be Heard," and "You Can All Join In." Loggins, who last appeared here with former partner Jim Messina in the fall of 1975, has recently released a solo album. Parton, a favorite of country fans, is touring following the release of her new album "Here You Come Again." Student receive a 50-cent discount off of the top two ticket prices for both concerts. After the first day of ticket sales for each concert, sales will be moved to the SIU Arena Special Events Ticket Office and the Student Center Central Ticket Office. Further information may be obtained by calling the Arena's 24-hour information and reservation line the first day of sales.

Soviet trade needed, expert says

William H. Edgar, deputy director of Soviet Union affairs for the U.S. Department of State, said at SIU Friday that the U.S. must increase its trade with the Soviet Union because it will benefit American markets and will help develop worldwide economic stability.

"We must understand each other in order to maintain trade between the East and the West," Edgar said. He said that a major problem in dealing with the Soviets is their conservative attitude in conducting business.

Edgar spoke at a conference, sponsored by the College of Business and Administration, on East-West trade. Nearly 200 businessmen, faculty and students attended the day-long program, at which State Department and Department of Commerce experts on East-West relations and trade spoke. A hard currency squeeze in the Soviet Union caused by a growing trade deficit will probably result in lessened U.S. Russian trade during 1978, according to Edgar.

"The Soviets have found it increasingly difficult to sell enough to the United States to enable them to buy the things they feel they need from us," Edgar said.

He said the Soviet Union's growing hard currency debt—which he said reached $14 billion last year—will make it difficult for Russia to continue trading with Western countries at current levels.

"Russian trade emphasis has been on acquisition of machinery and technological expertise that will enable the Soviets to begin exporting finished products in greater quantities," Edgar said.

Despite prospects of lessened trade with Russia next year, the Soviet Union "considers trade with the United States a very important part of U.S.-Soviet relations," Edgar said. "Soviet leaders are not averse to achieving a degree of interdependence and self-reliance with Western nations, based on trade."

The trade picture with other Communist countries is considerably rosier for the United States, according to Michael Hagedus of the East-West Trade Bureau of the Department of Commerce.

Hagedus said American business executives "tend to underemphasize the potential for expanded trade with Eastern European nations."

He said U.S. trade with the seven Communist East European nations has increased from $611 million in 1971 to $4.7 billion in 1976.

Synchers club adds 21 members

By Gary Gibson
Student Writer

The Southern Synchers, SIU's synchronized swim club, hopes to have a good year in store for them with the addition of 21 new members.

The members had to attend at least one clinic and pass an audition offered by the club, according to Joyce Craven, advisor for the group.

"With this showing of interest, we were able to resubmit our constitution to the Student Government and regain our active status with that body," Craven said.

Craven said that in addition to this, the club really has progressed in things that they can now do.

"I'm really impressed with these people. They are ahead of where I had hoped that they would be at this time," Craven explained. "Most of them are getting into pretty good shape and have got the basic skills down."

"We also have one man, Tom Kalish, on the Synchers. He has a head start on some of the girls because he is fairly strong," Craven said. "We are really looking forward to getting into different kinds of events with Tom here."

Craven also said that in January the team will be holding more clinics and an audition to let others join.

"I am hoping that other men will try out," Craven said. "It would be unique to have a couple of routines with just men."

Road Runners slate two races

The Southern Illinois Road Runners will be in action at two sites Sunday as the club will host a race at Lake Murphysboro State Park and the weekly run runs on the University campus.

At Lake Murphysboro, located a mile west of Murphysboro on Illinois 13, the sixth annual 4-mile Gumbuster is scheduled at 2 p.m. Defending champion Bill Riggs isn't returning, so a new champion will be crowned.

The race is open to all interested athletes. The start and finish are near the park's main parking lot.

On campus, the fun runs are scheduled to start at 1:30 p.m., with all events starting and finishing on Douglas Drive in front of the west entrance to the Arena. This week's distances are one-half mile, one mile and 2.2 miles.

The fun runs are open to anyone. Certificates are presented to all finishers.

Girls' skill levels improving in high school, Stanley says

By Vicky Lebowitz
Student Writer

The skill level in girls' interscholastic sports at Carbondale Community High School (CCHS) has improved steadily over the past five years, according to Jennifer Stanley, CCHS physical education instructor and coach.

Stanley, an SIU graduate, attributes the improvement to expanding physical education programs for girls in grade schools, along with support from the administration, parents and community.

"Physical education programs are beginning in the grade schools," Stanley said. "Females can become as skilled as males if they start as early."

High school instructors are also teaching the girls more advanced skills in class because they know many of them are involved in interscholastic sports. The girls can also get additional practice in softball and basketball programs sponsored by the Carbondale Park District.

Stanley said that people are finally becoming aware of women's role in athletics. "It's important that parents realize that being supportive is essential," she said.

Stanley added that the number of spectators at the interscholastic sports is also increasing each year. Basketball usually has the largest turnout because the rules are understood, whereas many people don't know what is involved in volleyball.

CCHS's interscholastic sports include: basketball, softball, track and field and football. Softball is the only conference sport which plays in the South Seven Conference. Stanley, who coaches volleyball, softball and basketball, said that many of the changes in the program stem from new state rules.

"Five years ago, when I began teaching here, we were allowed four play days a year for each sport," she said. "These days allowed the high school to invite other schools to compete in the sport. We've advanced now where we are almost identical to the boys' sports."

The CCHS volleyball team, which opened its season against Benton in September, plays 10 schools and has 16 games scheduled. This can be compared to the eight games played five years ago.

"Next year we will probably be conference in all four sports," Stanley said. "This will make things easier because the schedules will be arranged in advance and we won't have to find schools to play during the season."

Coaching, according to Stanley who's working on her master's at SIU, is now a more important part of athletic training for instructors than when she attended college.

She stressed that the coach must be knowledgeable of the rules and use the rules to their advantage. Learning to take losses in stride and learning from the loss is equally important.

Rugby club to play Jackson County

The SIU Rugby Club is scheduled to play at 1 p.m. Saturday against the Jackson County rugby team at the "pitch" east of the Arena.

The Rugby Club, 3-2, won last week's annual Homecoming game, 13-4, over Western Illinois.

John Kalin and Tom Anderson scored 4-point tries and kicker Jim Ellerton scored five points on kicking to lead last week's victory.

Coach: Salukis must eliminate errors to beat Ragin' Cajuns

By Jim Misunas
Sports Editor

The Saluki football team must cut down on its errors to defeat Southwestern Louisiana (USL) Saturday, says Jim Vecchiarella, defensive coordinator.

"To beat them we have to cut down on our errors," Vecchiarella said. "For instance last week against East Carolina, our defense held them, but gave up some big plays. Our offense drove the ball well and then didn't score any points because of fumbles and a missed field goal points because of mistakes."

SIU's goal of cutting down on mistakes will be tested when the Salukis, 2-4 play USL, 4-1-1, at 7:30 p.m. at Cajun Stadium.

Ragin' Cajun coach Augie Tammariello said he expects a crowd in excess of 24,000 for the game. Cajun Stadium seats 25,000. Tammariello said the weather, which had been unseasonably cold early in the week, should warm up by gametime.

USL won 27-19 in the school's only meeting in 1975.

In that game, SIU scored its points on a 67-yard touchdown pass from Leonard Hopkins to Ivy Moore and on a 44-yard field goal by Ken Seaman.

Cajun quarterback Roy Henry led the USL triumph as he scored two touchdowns, passed for 170 yards and ran for an additional 96 yards. Henry returns for the 1977 Ragin' Cajuns.

Vecchiarella said containing Henry will be a key to slowing down the Ragin' Cajuns' offensive game.

"We've got to try and contain Henry," Vecchiarella said. "If he breaks the line of scrimmage passing, we'll be in trouble."

"We'll have to put a rush on Henry and cover the receivers well downfield at the same time," he said.

Henry, has 71 completions in 139 attempts for 1,112 yards in 1977. He has passed for 13 touchdowns and holds six season and seven career passing records at USL.

Henry, who has passed for 3,956 yards, will certainly top 4,000 career passing yards against the Salukis.

USL's strong passing game might make an opponent overlook its running game, Vecchiarella said.

They have a fine running game too," Vecchiarella said. "(Barry) Herbert is a fine runner, he's been their No. 1 rusher. Their fullback (Allen Strambler) also is a good, hard runner."

Vecchiarella said if SIU overplays USL's passing game, the Ragin' Cajuns will hurt the Salukis with their running game.

Vecchiarella said SIU will have to play a very good game to defeat the Ragin' Cajuns.

"We'll have to limit our errors," Vecchiarella said. "Our defense has got to force some turnovers and then our offense will have to capitalize and score."

Three radio stations will broadcast the game starting at 7:30 p.m.

WJPF, 1340 on the AM dial, features sportscaster Mike Powell with the Ray Dempsey pregame show at 7:05. WCIL, 101.5 FM, also will air the Ray Dempsey show at 7:05 with Ron Hines handling the play-by-play.

WSIU, 92 FM, features broadcaster Joe Paschen with play-by-play plus a pregame show at 7:20.

Vecchiarella said the only SIU lineup changes will be that Keith Pearson will replace Steve Hemmer at an offensive tackle. Alvin Reed will start at a cornerback for injured John Palermo and Ken Caitthamer will start at linebacker for Billy Hadfield.

Saluki defender John Palermo (25) lunges to stop Indiana State quarterback Pete McCoy in SIU's first home game of the season. Safety Oyd Craddock assists on the tackle.

Meriweather traded to Jazz

Joe Meriweather, former Saluki basketball player, was traded by the Atlanta Hawks to New Orleans Thursday, for the Jazz 1978 first round draft choice and future considerations.

Meriweather was the first-round pick of the Houston Rockets in 1975, but was dealt to Atlanta prior to the start of the 1976 season. He averaged 11.2 points and 8.5 rebounds per game for the Hawks in the 1976-77 season.

The Hawks termed the trade an "economy move based on the decision of ownership," according to Mike Gearon, president of the Hawks.

Meriweather set all the rebound records in his distinguished SIU career. He pulled down 1,005 in his career, including 374 in 1974. He also holds the single-game rebound record with 27.

Meriweather also ranks third in career scoring for the Salukis with 1,536 points. Charlie Vaughn and Mike Glenn, who is now with Chicago Bulls, are the only SIU players to score more.

Women harriers to host Invitational

Women's cross country defending national champion Iowa State heads a 14-team field in the third annual Saluki Invitational which begins at 11:30 a.m. Saturday at Midland Hills Golf Club.

Midland Hills is located about 5 1/2 miles south of Carbondale off U.S. 51.

SIU women's cross country Coach Claudia Blackman says Iowa State should be able to defend its national title despite losing two of its top runners—Peg Neppel and Carol Cook—the last two seasons.

"Iowa State still should be able to win the national title," Blackman said. "They have a top runner returning in Debbie Vetter, who'll probably win Saturday."

Blackman said SIU, which has finished sixth and fifth the last two years, may have a shot at finishing second if her team runs well.

"I'm very pleased with the way we have run this week," Blackman said. "Our runners, in a practice run last week, have improved their times 30 seconds to a minute. We may be ready to surprise these other teams."

Peggy Evans, who has been SIU's top runner this year, will lead the Saluki squad Saturday. Blackman said other Saluki runners who should fare well are Jean Meehan, Cathy Chiarello, Juli Conover, Linda Snovak, Trish Grandis, and Cindy Ruester.

Also competing for SIU will be Roxanne Romans, JoAnn Stemberge, Cindy Tschider and Anne Kruempstaedter.

Blackman said the meet will help show whether SIU can defeat Western Illinois and Illinois—two teams which have beaten SIU consistently this year SIU won the 1976 state title.

"We are competitive in the state and the race between the three teams will be interesting," she said. "The meet will also let us know how we stand to do in the regional and national tournaments."

She said Iowa State comes to the meet because several other good cross country schools also compete at SIU.

"I think we have drawn good competition here," Blackman said. "Minnesota finished sixth in the nation last year. Tennessee, which placed third here last year, and Kentucky, which placed fourth both years."

She said the 5,000 meter race should be run in under 18 minutes by the winner. She said most runners will complete the course in about 20 minutes.

"We have a good course at Midland Hills," Blackman said. "The course is hilly and is considered one of the tougher courses around."

USL proves cheaters can prosper

Sometimes cheaters do prosper.

When speaking of athletics programs that have been caught cheating on recruiting violations by the NCAA the names of Oklahoma, Minnesota, Long Beach State and North Carolina state are well known.

All of these schools have managed to be successful in college athletics despite having their programs on NCAA probation because of recruiting violations.

A lesser known member of a cheating school that has had athletics success is Southwestern Louisiana (USL). For the first time since 1973, the school is free of NCAA probation.

USL's probation ended Aug. 4, 1977 and the school is free to compete in post-season NCAA tournaments and appear on television in live broadcasts.

According to the book, Sports Factory, the Ragin' Cajuns were convicted by the NCAA for various illegal activities.

In the book, Toby Warren, who is still athletics director at USL, is quoted as saying, "Some of the students took test for athletes. The students from up north would be given transportation back home for Thanksgiving and Christmas. The parents were flown in for games. All of this was illegal."

Warren, who took the athletics post in 1973, was quoted in the book as saying that every coach and official under contract at USL had to agree that his job would be terminated if he were found in violation of NCAA rules.

If any member of his department is in violation, Warren was quoted as saying in the book, he will also resign.

It's strange, but USL was in violation of an NCAA rule during the 1976 football season.

USL, which defeated Fresno State, 41-14, and Cincinnati, 7-3, later forfeited those games because it used illegal players. The forfeits dropped USL's 9-2 record to 7-4.

Amazingly, USL's record is recorded as 9-2 in every piece of publicity sent out by the Ragin' Cajun sports information staff.

Either USL doesn't believe the NCAA or the word hasn't gotten around to USL's staff yet.

Things are supposed to move slower in the South, but that is ridiculous.

A possible explanation could be that a 9-2 record "looks better in the books" than a 7-4 record.

It'll be interesting to see what Warren has to say about last year's NCAA penalty.
