Board to ask state for $191 million

By James J. Black
Staff Writer

The SIU Board of Trustees will request $191.5 million in state funding for fiscal year 1991 for the University, including the School of Medicine in Springfield, a 16.2-percent increase.

The budget proposal, which will be forwarded to the Illinois Board of Higher Education next month, was approved at the Board of Trustees meeting Thursday in the Student Center. If the higher education board approves it, it will go to Gov. James Thompson for approval, then to the state Legislature for appropriation of funds.

The board will request $270.9 million in state funding for fiscal year 1991 for the entire SIU system, an increase of 16.3 percent over 1990 funding.

The requested budget would provide funding for the creation of a doctoral program in physics and master's programs in physical therapy and food and nutrition at SIU-C.

The Board of Trustees also approved a $283.9-million budget for SIU-C for the 1990 fiscal year,

Funding increase to enhance library's research materials

By Theresa Livingston
Staff Writer

Morris Library's research capabilities will be improved with the SIU Board of Trustees' passage of an 11-percent increase of the SIU system's budget for library materials on both campuses for fiscal year 1990, the director of library services said.

Director Darrell L. Jenkins said Morris Library's share of the additional funds would "greatly enhance" its research capabilities.

"The board approved the request, which will allow us to make some inroads into the purchase of valuable materials for the library," he said.

George W. Black, science librarian, agreed with Jenkins, saying the increase will enable his department to order some "badly needed" journals and periodicals.

"For the first time in 10 years, we're getting the chance to receive which began July 1.

The budget was not approved earlier because the state Legislature did not appropriate its part of the funding until mid-July. Thursday's board meeting was the first since the Legislature's appropriation.

SIU-C's funding is part of a $388.6-million budget for the SIU system, an 11-percent increase over last fiscal year. About 60 percent of the budget comes from state appropriations and the remainder is revenue generated by the SIU system.

SIU Trustees reallocate certain college programs

By Jim Black
Staff Writer

The SIU Board of Trustees abolished the College of Human Resources and reallocated the college's programs and personnel Thursday at the board's monthly meeting in the Student Center.

The college, founded in 1973, had dwindled from 11 academic units at its inception to five as a result of administrative restructuring. The board abolished the college because it had become "less and less viable," according to a written release from the board.

The board action transfers the bachelor's and master's degree programs in administration of justice and the minor in Black American Studies to the College of Liberal Arts.

The bachelor's and master's degree programs in social work now come under the administration of the vice president for academic affairs and research. The budget and personnel of the social work program become the responsibility of the associate vice president for academic affairs and research.

In addition, the Rehabilitation Institute was reallocated to the College of Education.

In other business, the board also awarded contracts for the expansion of the parking lot adjacent to and north of the Recreation Center.

USG OKs Halloween flyer

By Jeanne Bickler
Staff Writer

To publicize the end of Carbondale's Halloween street party, the Undergraduate Student Government will endorse a flyer about the celebration's demise. The flyer will be sent to campuses throughout Illinois.

A subcommittee of the Halloween Core Committee developed the idea, will publish the flyer and mail it. The proposal was presented to the USG at its meeting Wednesday night.

Tim Hildebrand, USG president, said the flyer was a good way to let people at other schools know not to come to Carbondale expecting the usual street party this Halloween.

The flyer makes five points about Halloween in Carbondale:

- Public consumption of alcohol is prohibited.
- Underage drinking will be enforced strictly.
- There will be no street activities — no bands, no food booths, etc. — and streets will be open to traffic.

■ Residence hall rules will be enforced — no "crashing" — one person per bed.

■ There will be a strong police presence.

The police presence was said to be necessary to prevent students from trying to create the Halloween party of the past.

There was some discussion about the residence hall rule at the Grass prohibited in landfill trash

By Jackie Spinner
Staff Writer

Carbondale residents won't be allowed to take out the grass clippings with the trash this summer under a new law that prohibits grass, leaves and tree branches from being put into landfills.

The state law, passed by the Illinois General Assembly last year, will go into effect July 1, 1990. Besides prohibiting landfilling of landscape waste, the law also prohibits the use of degradable garbage bags and containers for the waste.

Tim Warren, Illinois Environmental Protection Agency manager of the resource recovery division, said the purpose of the law is to eliminate some landfill waste, since the landfills are filling up.

"We are rapidly running out of room," Warren said.

Landscape waste comprises 17-18 percent of municipal trash each year, according to a bulletin by the Illinois EPA's Office of Solid Waste and Renewable Resources.

Because landscape waste is most common during fall, spring and early summer, it is concentrated in parts of the landfill.

When buried, the decomposing waste leads to methane gas and leachate production, which can enter into water sources and the City property tax drops three percent

By Lisa Miller
Staff Writer

Carbondale taxpayers got a small break on the price of their property taxes this year when the tax rate went down almost 3 percent, Chuck Vaught, revenue officer for the city, said.

Vaught said the tax rate has been reasonably stable since 1982, but it declined some this year, lightening the financial burden for property owners in Carbondale.

"Tax rates fluctuated during the late '70s and early '80s, but for the last few years they have been relatively stable," Vaught said.

Individual tax bills are calculated and sent from Jackson County in June. Taxpayers must pay their bills in two different installments, Vaught said. One installment is due in July and the other is due in September.

According to a report in the Carbondale Communicque, the city's bi-monthly newsletter, because there was a growth in the tax base, the city was able to reduce the Carbondale tax rate.

For example, citizens who own a $50,000 home will pay $109.91 in property taxes to the city this year.

The rate would be higher for more expensive homes and lower for less expensive ones, the Communicque stated.

Money from property taxes is used for fire and police protection, professional administration salaries in the city government, citizens assistance programs, voter registration and elections, legal services, forestry programs, code enforcement, planning and subdivision services, street lighting, financial administration, fire prevention programs, personnel administration, community development services and purchasing and property management services.

"All in all, the owner of a $50,000 home will pay just 30 cents a day for city services funded in part by the property tax," the Communicque stated. "It's a pretty good bargain."

Vaught said the programs that are partially funded by property taxes will not be underfunded because the property tax is less this year.

"There are other sources of financing for these programs," Vaught said. "Revenue from sales and utility taxes also provide funding."

New president elected for five-years in South Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — A parliamentary electoral college Thursday officially declared Frederik W. de Klerk president of South Africa for the next five years, unanimously endorsing his plans to bring blacks into the national government for the first time in the country's history. "It is clear that this country is going through one of the most decisive phases in its history," the 53-year-old de Klerk told reporters after being informed by Foreign Minister R.F. Pik Botha of his election. "I have no doubt that what happened in the next five years will be decisive for many decades to follow," de Klerk said.

Chinese crackdown on economic policies

BEIJING, (UPI) — In a sign that Beijing is trying to crackdown on free-wheeling economic policies in the provinces, China on Thursday announced the dismissal of the governor of the nation's most experimental economic region. The official, Liang Xiang, the governor of Hinan Province in southern China, is a close associate of the ousted Communist Party leader, Zhao Ziyang. Liang is the highest-ranking official to be purged in connection with the government's recent campaign against corruptions. The Chinese authorities accused Liang of "serious mistakes by abusing power for personal interests."

Exxon spends $1 billion in Alaskan cleanup

VALDEZ, Alaska (UPI) — Exxon ended its Alaska oil spill cleanup Thursday, spending more than $1 billion to wash 1,069 miles of fouled shoreline and declaring the job a success even though some oil still remains. "There are hundreds of miles that everybody would consider clean," Otto Harrison, general manager of the cleanup, told a news conference. "We have not said we have removed all the oil," Harrison said, but insisted that oil remaining in the environment posed no threat to wildlife. The Exxon pullout came 175 days after the Exxon Valdez tanker ran aground on Bligh Reef and spewed nearly 11 million gallons of oil.

President Reagan given OK to go home

ROCHESTER, Minn. (UPI) — Former President Ronald Reagan, who is recovering from brain surgery, will be released from the hospital Friday morning, a spokesman said Thursday. "The team of physicians and nurses managing President Reagan's care at Saint Mary's Hospital are completely satisfied with his recuperation," spokesman Mark Weinberg said Thursday. "They have advised him he can return to California tomorrow (Friday) and he will do so in the morning." Meanwhile, prominent Soviet politician Boris Yeltsin met for about a half-hour Thursday with Reagan and wished him a speedy recovery.

Man arrested on drug charges lives near local police station

GLEN CARBON, Ill. (UPI) — A man living next door to the police station in this small town near St. Louis has been arrested for having at least 20 pounds of marijuana in his basement. "He told one of our officers it was probably a stupid thing to do, living so close," Glen Carbon Police Chief Bill Moore said Thursday. Terry E. McQueen, 30, Glen Carbon, was charged with possession of 20 pounds of marijuana. He was being held Thursday in Madison County Jail in Edwardsville in lieu of $100,000 bail. Moore said additional charges against McQueen could be filed after police test what is suspected to be cocaine and other pills.

Mother-daughter team wins round to compete in pageant

By Katherine Lydon
Staff Writer

A University student has fulfilled the dream of some young girls in the United States of having a chance in a beauty pageant, but this time Mom will be walking the runway with her.

Shelly Dahm, junior in communications, and her mother, Marilyn, will represent Illinois in the national Mother/Daughter Pageant to be held in mid-November on national television.

The Dahms won the four-day state competition this August in Rockford which allows them to compete nationally in Los Angeles.

Marilynn said she felt that they were meant to win.

"It was more than just a pageant. People can see how God really shines through us to exemplify what love and life are about. We were meant to be an example," she said.

The Dahms were not sure if they could compete until three weeks before the pageant because of Shelly's internship at Disney World. While there she attended weekly seminars and worked as a maid in the Haunted Mansion, giving speeches in the expanding room or seating people on the ride.

Shelly was allowed to leave the internship early and arrived home with one day to be fitted for her dress and prepare for pageant.

"There was so much pressure on me, but I just took it day by day and tried not to worry about it," she said.

The state competition included bathing suit competition, sportswear and evening gown competitions and interviews together with a panel of judges.

Unlike many pageants where judges meet contestants only during interviews, this one planned activities with the judges, such as a riverboat ride and a double-decked bus tour.

Marilynn Dahm said she felt that it was a more fair way of judging.

"They had the opportunity to see the beauty in our relationship that would be hard to portray in a two-hour interview," Mrs. Dahm said.

Shelly said she was nervous about the judges' presence at first, but said, "I realized that they are just people too and were just as nervous as us."

Shelly compared the pageant to camp because there were activities planned for the whole day.

Because there was no talent competition, the majority of the judging was done on personality, which will eventually represent the mother/daughter relationships of America, Shelly said.

"It's neat how people can look at mother/daughter relationships and see how different they are," Shelly said.

Shelly's 12-year-old brother, Ryan, said that Shelly and their mother have a relationship that is more like sisters and they are very confident about competing in Los Angeles.

When Shelly's roommate, Tina Ballance, junior in liberal arts, was asked to describe Shelly, she exclaimed, "She's great! She's outgoing, talkative, and easy to get along with. Four girls crammed in an apartment gets very tiresome, but Shelly makes the best of it."

The main preparation for the national competition includes obtaining donations. The State of Illinois is the Dahm's main sponsor, but they need others for the gowns they must wear and the many trips that Shelly must make to and from Carbondale.

13 skits slated for Great Saluki Tailgate Saturday

Katherine Lydon
Staff Writer

Featuring 13 skits, The Great Saluki Tailgate to be held north of McAndrew Stadium in parking lot 10 A will warm fans up for the Salukis' second home football game against Eastern Illinois University Saturday.

Tailgating events are expected to start around noon, and kickoff is scheduled for 3 p.m.

The tailgate location had to be moved because rain over the past few days has soaked the grassy area in which it was held last year, according to Fred Huff, sports information director. "It's a wise move because the other location would be ugly for pedestrians," he said.

The skits, which will be broken into five categories, will be judged from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m.

Those competing in the Fraternity/Sorority category include: Delta Chi/Alpha Gamma Delta, Theta Xi/Sigma Sigma Sigma, Pi Kappa Alpha/Sigma Kappa, and Alpha Tau Omega/Delta Zeta.

Cyndi Oberle, sophomore in speech communication, said, "We and the Delta Chi's have been practicing hard for the past week and we're very excited about our performance. Our energy level is high and we're ready to knock everyone's socks off!"

Other categories consist of the Campus Housing, business, alumni and the Saluki pride category.

The SIU Officials Club is the single contestant in the Campus Housing category and GTE North, Ike's Auto, and Walgreen's make up the Business category.

Opinion & Commentary

Purse strings tighten on artist's creativity

A RECENT proposal by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-North Carolina, would make Michaelangelo's David cover himself in shame.

The controversial proposal concerns the National Endowment for the Arts. The plan would restrict types of art that the Endowment could fund. These restrictions, as stated in the Chronicle of Higher Education, would prohibit the use of federal funds "to promote, disseminate or produce obscene or indecent materials, including but not limited to depictions of sadomasochism, homoeroticism, the exploitation of children, or individuals engaged in sex acts; or material which denigrates the objects or beliefs of the adherents of a particular religion or nonreligion. . ."

The proposal was prompted by a recent controversy over two exhibits supported by the endowment. The controversy centered around a showing of photographs by the late Robert Mapplethorpe that included homoerotic and sadomasochistic images and a photograph by Andres Serrano that depicted a crucifix submerged in the artist's urine.

HELMS' PLAN would not tell an artist they cannot pursue a project, the plan just simply states that it would not award money to that specific project. The Endowment would be using the money that many of these artist's rely on as a way to restrain forms of art that the Endowment regards as portraying blatant taboos and atrocities.

In order to get a grant from the Endowment, an applicant must often fill out various forms and be specific about what the money would go towards if awarded. The applications then go to a peer-review system. This consists of professionals in the field who review the applications and ultimately decide where the money should go. This is where the proposal would come into play. If any of the applications consist of art that would fall into the previous categories listed, the artists would be denied the money on the basis of the content of the art.

We consider this indirect censorship. As Ed Shay, professor in the School of Art, said "to take this out of the hands of people who are knowledgeable in the field and put it in the hands of politicians is unwise." The Endowment has been given the right to administer the funds in supporting art, and now the government wants a bigger and tighter control over what is sponsored by the "taxpayer's dollar."

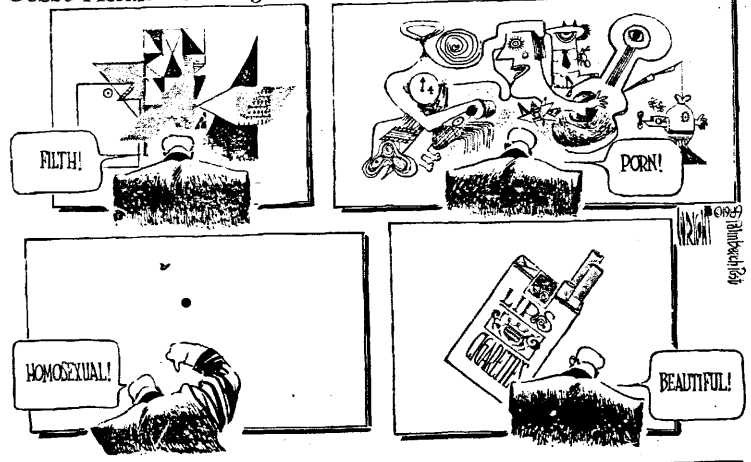

ALTHOUGH THE Endowment is not in the position to tell artists what to create, it is practicing a form of censorship when they put specific criteria on the art that the artists want a grant, from the Endowment, to create. It's like waving a piece of bread in front of a starving man, offering it to him, but then saying "Hold it, if you want this bread there are a few things you must do to get it."

We realize that recent incidents have angered many taxpayers. We also realize that many do not wish to have such graphic forms of art displayed. Some art, to the government and to some constituents, is regarded as disgusting, morally offensive or sexually deviant. These people also need to realize that their views are exactly that — their views. This is America, a place where everyone has that explicit right to believe what they want to believe and stand up for what is important to them. America also is based on the idea of freedom of expression. If the proposal is passed, although not directly telling the artist what is art, the plan will inhibit what is being created. Money is often used to manipulate, and this case is no different.

IN NO way are we condoning obscenity, sadomasochism, homoeroticism or the exploitation of children. That would be ridiculous, not to mention the fact that pornography is exempt from the First Amendment, therefore not even considered in our argument against censorship. We also do not attempt to tell people what is right and wrong. That is up to the individual. We just wonder what the members of Congress are thinking when they attempt to tell the American people what is art and what is not. Who is Jesse Helms and why does he feel the need to tell or perhaps vaguely construe a list of specifications that determine for the rest of the nation what is right or wrong?

Beauty is in the eye of the beholder. What one human being sees as a work of art because of the manner or perhaps the expression of the piece, another may see as a piece of smut.

No simple solutions to drug problem, but legalization would help America

In response to Te li Huang's oversimplification of the drug problem in American, I think it is important to keep things in their proper perspective.

One thing that must be understood is that there is no simple solutions to the situation at hand. Mr. Huang's fight the good fight vigilance is certainly in step with the step of the nation. A nation which is currently treading on its own basis in reality, the fourth amendment. The decay of personal privacy is a sad legacy to American impotence in the drug dilemma. The frustration of the public to eradicate this "scourge" has had dire consequences.

This brings me to the true crisis in American, George Bush's 8 billion dollar Vietnam conflict, a war which consequently cannot be won. This war is being waged against capitalism in its truest form. Contrary to what you've heard, drug smugglers are not concerned with how they can corrupt America's youth. They are inspired purely by profit motive. Not unlike multi-national corporations who see fit to clear the rain forests of South America at the expense of tomorrow's youth. Only because the apathetic American public has no foresight that they are able to overlook these injustices. It seems that a cheap burger takes precedence over the survival of the forthcoming generation.

Some may feel my Vietnam/Drug war comparison is unwarranted, but when viewed with the fact that one cargo plane of cocaine can supply the United States for a year, all of the rhetoric and tough talk seems redundant. When we consider the prospect that President Bush has made the U.S. Armed Forces available to any South American country that requests our aid, Vietnam seems like the perfect analogy. Fighting a guerrilla war against private armies in the jungles of Columbia will be history repeating itself. What will we do when the death toll of the drug war exceeds that of cocaine addicts?

These conclusions can only force me to side with the great spy novelist William F. Buckley in advocating the legalization of drugs. This would expel the criminal element of drug trafficking as it did with the end of the Volstead Act. Why should the United States suffer from the reality of drugs when they can profit from it?

With the legalization and taxation of drugs, real problems like the homeless, the deficit and our degrading environment could be concerns of the past. As it stands now, our great leader is throwing billions of dollars into police, prisons and war material when that money, if correctly used in drug education, not propaganda, could actually make a difference. How much can you learn from watching a frying egg?

When will the American public and the lawmakers, who are subservient to their pressures, wake up and stop pouring billions of dollars into a black hole of misguided, though well meaning, intentions? — Michael J. Edwards, graduate student, history.

Colombian aid plan won't stop dope — expert

By James W. Brosnan

WASHINGTON — The $65 million in U.S. military aid to Colombia isn't going to stop the drug traffic and may not do much good, warns one Latin American expert.

Drug traffickers may have so infiltrated the Colombian army that raids may be tipped off before troops reach the hidden drug labs, says, Donald Mabry.

Mabry, 48, is a professor of history and senior fellow at the Mississippi State University Center for Security and Strategic Studies. The author of several books and papers on Latin America, he is about to publish another book in November on the drug trade.

The Senate Judiciary Committee had called Mabry to testify last week as an expert witness on President Bush's Colombian aid plan, but the hearing was canceled at the request of Attorney General Dick Thornburgh.

Mabry was prepared to support Bush's plan, but mostly because he believes the aid is necessary as a show of support for Colombian President Virgilio Barco in his war against drug traffickers.

"It is a short-term response to a short-term emergency," Mabry said in an interview. "It is not going to solve that problem. All we're doing right now is to prop up the Colombian state."

The 69,000-man Colombian army "has got its hands full" not only with the drug lords but with approximately 10,000 leftist guerrillas, said Mabry. In some cases, guerrillas have protected the drug traffickers; at other times, however, the traffickers have turned over information on the leftist to the army, said Mabry.

Because of the cooperation and the inevitable corruption, "the lower levels are easily bribed," Mabry said. "As for the middle class, we're not sure which ones we could trust."

While the Colombian army needs the U.S. helicopters and communications equipment to raid the drug labs it won't do any good if one of the army planners leaks the information, he said.

The Colombian judicial system needs the help more than the army, said Mabry, especially for metal detectors and computers to deal with a backlog of court cases.

And even if the Colombian army does damage the drug lords, the traffickers can simply move their processing labs to other Latin American countries.

The Bush plan also risks the lives of U.S. military advisers who will accompany the equipment and train Colombians in its use. If some are killed, the American public must resist the temptation to seek revenge with more troops, said Mabry.

Explaining that Colombians would have similar nationalistic resentment if the roles were reversed, he said, "You would get the same reaction if Colombians were sent into Washington or New York to deal with drug sellers."

The solution to the drug problem, Mabry said, is to curb Americans' demand for drugs. He hopes Bush will stress that in his speech Tuesday.

Bush also should try to get European and South American countries to work on an international approach to curbing drug trafficking, he said.

MIA's return brings peace to families

By Tim Crosby
Staff Writer

Every war has its prisoners and some are still being held today. Some are held prisoner by their memories; others by not knowing the fate of a loved one or friend. As a result of World War II, nearly 79,000 Americans were listed as either a prisoner of war or as missing in action. Many were lost in ways that made recovery of a body and subsequent reclassification impossible.

However, at least 20,000 were known to be alive in German prison camps that were liberated by Soviet forces at the war's end. To this day they have never been accounted for.

The Korean Conflict added 3,000 to the list of American service personnel known to have fallen into enemy hands. Vietnam another 2,364. As of 1989, the remains of only 235 service personnel from the Vietnam war have been returned. Over 90 percent are still unaccounted for.

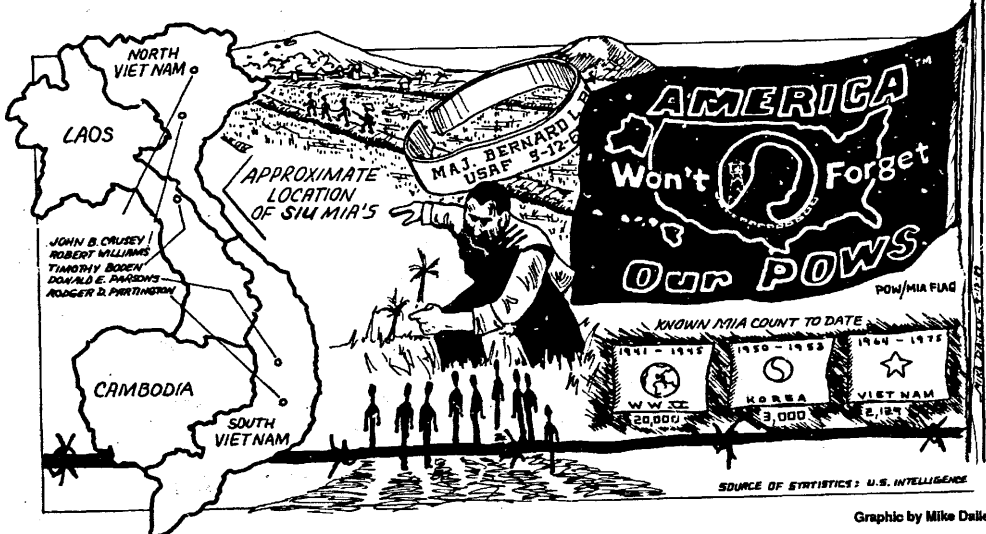

SIU-C GRADUATE Robert R. Lynn was one those returned. His, along with the remains of three fellow B-52 crewmen, were returned to the United States in winter of 1988. After identification, he was buried in Camp Butler National Cemetery in Springfield.

Of the 106 Vietnam POW/MIAs from Illinois, six attended SIU-C. With the return of Robert R. Lynn last year, five remain missing in action. As of this year, the remains of only 235 military personnel in Vietnam have been returned. Over 90 percent are still unaccounted for.

"It did bring a closure to the whole thing," Martha Laubner, who married Lynn in 1963, said. "It was difficult because you feel like you're going back in a time machine and you remember a lot things. But I think it was better for everybody."

Laubner, who has since remarried, said Lynn's homecoming helped the couple's two children get on with their lives.

"The timing on the whole thing was really amazing. It was like Bob was reaching back and telling us it was OK to go on," she said. Their son David, 22, had just returned from service in the Army and their daughter Catherine, 18, had just started college, she explained.

Graphic by Mike Dailey

"I THINK IT helped David understand it better. C.J. (Catherine) was too young to remember him, but it helped her to."

Lynn's mother Ruth said it helps to know her son is home.

"It has brought a sort of peace to me. Before, there was always a bit of you that wonders," she said.

Of the 106 Vietnam POW/MIAs from Illinois, six attended SIU-C. With Lynn's return, five remain. They are Master Sgt. Timothy R. Bodden, USMC; Capt. John B.

Casey, USAF; Lt. Col. Donald E. Parsons, US Army; Capt. Roger D. Partington, USMC and Maj. Robert C. Williams, USAF.

THE ELDER PARSONS who lives in Steeleville, said he is satisfied with the way the government handled his brother's case, which has since reclassified him as legally dead.

"It was pretty much an impossible situation," he said. "I think they did everything they could."

"He was a good soldier and his men respected him. He had real compassion for his men. He didn't dwell on why we were over there. He planned on retiring and being a teacher when he got home."

Though a reputed gun runner reported in December 1979 that he had the fingerprints of one of the crewmembers of Parsons's helicopter, he was thoroughly discredited by the government.

CAPT. ROGER D. PARTINGTON also disappeared in a helicopter.

On Nov. 1, 1969, during his second tour as a helicopter pilot in the Marine Corps, his ship exploded in mid-air and crashed. Two other crewmen on board that day jumped just before the explosion. One was killed by debris and the other survived. Partington was classified as killed in action.

Though Partington's body was never recovered, his older brother Larry believes he is dead.

"The helicopter exploded while he was still in it," the Partington said. "The surviving crewman said Roger told them both to jump because he knew something was

Though Myrna Towle has been to Washington D.C. several times, her trip this October will be a new experience.

Her son, John C. Towle, flew AC-130s in Vietnam. While on a mission over Laos on April 22, 1970, he was shot down and listed as missing in action.

"He would call me every two weeks," Towle, who lives in Harrisburg, said. "We would talk, but he never told me the scary things about flying missions."

After her son had been shot down, Air Force officers would visit her every six weeks and give her any news.

"They would bring pictures of POWs that they knew were being held over there to see if I could identify them," she said.

"I really didn't think he was alive though."

This October, Towle will travel to Washington D.C. for her first look at the Vietnam Memorial.

"I've seen the traveling one, but I never saw the real one in Washington," she said.

"I think the government could have done more to get the POWs released," Towle added. "I know there are a lot of families who are wondering about it."

wrong with the ship."

PARTINGTON SAID his brother chose to go back to Vietnam for a second tour because he felt it was his duty.

"He figured he was making a career out of the military and that was where he belonged. He went to officer candidate school after about one year at SIU. He had always wanted to be a pilot."

Laubner said Lynn's family felt an obligation to the families of other POW/MIAs.

"It was our choice, but in our case we felt we owed it to other POW/MIA families to make Bob's funeral public," Laubner, now a resident of Petersburg, said. "We thought it might help some of them have hope — that they might vicariously also have a funeral," she said.

Ironically, Laubner and the rest of Lynn's family were notified of the possibility that the remains were his within days of the 16th anniversary of his shootdown on Dec. 21, 1972.

Laubner said the most touching tribute the family received was a plaque from the pilot of Lynn's B-52. The plaque, inscribed with the poem "High Flight," came from James Y. Nagahiro, one of the two crewmen who survived to be released.

Bracelets keep MIAs' cause alive, in public eye

Maj. Robert C. Williams USAF, 7-1-66, NVN, E.

This is the inscription on a red metallic bracelet worn by Frank Carlisle, a member of the SIU Veterans Association Inc.

Williams is one of five SIU-C alumni still listed as missing in action over North Vietnam. Statewide, over 100 Vietnam veterans are still unaccounted for. The bracelet lists the person's name,

"We wear (the bracelets) mostly to make people ask what they are."

—Frank Carlisle, SIU Veterans service branch, date of their disappearance, the location of the incident and home state.

"We wear them mostly to make people ask what they are," Carlisle, himself a Vietnam veteran, explained. "Hopefully that will cause them to think about the issue and it makes the person wearing it think about the guy they're wearing."

The bracelets have been around since the early 1970s when the United States started negotiating for the return of prisoners of war. Carlisle said he wore the bracelet of one veteran who returned home after the war.

"I mailed it to him, but I never got a response. He probably got hundreds though," he said.

"Our government never recognized the government of Laos," Terry Bowman, faculty advisor for the association, said. "We knew they had our POWs, but we wouldn't negotiate with them."

As a result, negotiations broke down and many service personnel held there and in other countries were never returned.

The National League of Families began the bracelet program to promote awareness of the problem of POW return. The SIU Veterans Association sells them for $4 dollars apiece.

"We don't make any money on them," Phil Pearson, a member of the association, said. "That just covers our cost."

"They are very popular," Carlisle said. "We can go through 100 in a week when we have them."

Bowman said the association will be making the bracelets available every other Wednesday at the Student Center.

Bush responds to pressure; sends Poles more food aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Bush, pressed by Congress and the new Polish leadership to do more to bolster democracy and free-market economics, announced an additional $50 million in food aid Thursday to Poland.

The new assistance, prompted by acute shortages threatening support for economic change, will include meat, corn, butter, cotton seed and sunflower oil, cotton and rice. The shipments will augment $58.4 million in previously authorized food aid.

In a written statement, Bush said the additional food aid, to be drawn from government stocks of surplus commodities, reflects the intent of the United States and its allies "to support the process of change that is under way in Poland."

"It underscores our continuing commitment to assist the Polish government and people in their efforts to introduce market principles and to build a private sector that will enable Poland to invigorate its economy," he said.

Bush said food shortages and "extremely high prices" — brought on by low production and a lifting of government controls — "have placed a heavy burden on the Polish people" at a time when the government is seeking popular backing for reform.

Offered in tandem with $140 million in commodities from the European Community, the result of an agreement reached at the seven-nation Economic Summit in July, the food should arrive in Poland "in time for the difficult winter months," Bush added.

While acknowledging the need for more food aid, the administration has rejected any short-term increase in actual economic aid.

The White House announcement came several hours after Senate

Agriculture Committee Chairman Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., added his voice to the growing call from Capitol Hill for Bush to increase the U.S. stake in Poland's future.

Police Blotter

A Student Center employee was listed in fair condition Wednesday morning after a collision in the hallway of the Student Center with a student, University Security Police said.

Jocann Alms, 58, of Hurst, was taken to St. Joseph Memorial Hospital in Murphysboro after she collided with Cedric Rogers, 20, of 202 Abbott Hall.

Alms apparently fell and struck her head on the floor, knocking her unconscious, police said. No charges were filed.

A Decatur man was arrested Wednesday evening and charged with theft over $300 by possession after University Security Police recovered an auto that was reported stolen in Decatur, Police said. University Security police towed the auto from Parking Lot 15 between Neely Hall and Brush Towers.

An unidentified Brush Tower resident called police later to check to see if the car had been towed and police asked her to come to the station. Mark E. Box, 20, of 416 Dipper lane, Decatur, arrived at the station shortly after the Brush Tower resident did and was then placed under arrest, according to police.

Box was in Carbondale because he was to appear in Jackson County Court for a traffic violation, police said.

Box and the Brush Tower resident claim that the owner of the vehicle and Box had an agreement to use the car, police said. Box claimed he didn't know the car was reported stolen.

The Brush Tower resident was released.

Carbondale Township Fire Department responded to a call at Carbondale Mobile Homes, N. Rt. 51, at 5:55 p.m. Wednesday and found a trailer on fire, a fire station spokesman said.

Trailer No. 317 sustained an estimated $3,000 worth of damage. No injuries were reported.

Bill Schifferdecker, 20, the resident of the trailer, was not home at the time of the fire.

A fire department spokesman said the fire was started by an electrical failure in a floor fan.

House panel passes capital gains tax break

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee narrowly approved a cut in the capital gains tax Thursday in a significant defeat for Democratic leaders, who vowed an all-out fight to kill the proposal on the floor.

On a 19-17 vote, the tax-writing panel approved the plan sponsored by Reps. Ed Jenkins, D-Ga., and Bill Archer, R-Texas, to cut the tax rate on profits from the sale of assets such as stocks, bonds and real estate from the current 28 percent to 19.6 percent through Dec. 31, 1991.

During a private committee meeting, amendments that would have modified or gutted the proposed cut were defeated on close or tie votes by the Republican minority teamed with Democrats who broke from their majority party line.

Angry Democratic leaders vowed to fight the cut in the full House, contending a lower capital gains rate would benefit wealthy Americans at the expense of middle-income citizens less than three years after national tax reform.

"This tax cut for the rich is being paid for by middle-income families and don't let anybody tell you different," said Rep. Marty Russo, D-Ill., a tax cut opponent.

USG meeting.

Jenna Herhold, a senator representing the west side, asked how the "no crashing" rule would be enforced.

Hildebrand said it would be hard to enforce the rule at dormitories other than Brush Towers, since meal tickets are checked upon entrance of the building.

Herhold asked for an amendment to the "crashing" rule, saying the "one person per bed" part should be taken out.

Hildebrand said, "I'll request that the rule read 'residents only in residence halls,' or something to that effect."

Vice President for Student Affairs Harvey Welch reminded the USG that the intent of the rule is "to simply enforce the rules that have always been a part of University housing."

"We're trying to make the Halloween of the past go away," Welch said.

Landscape waste can be diverted from the landfill easier than other waste because it is usually separated from other garbage by the consumer, Warren said.

Wayne Wheelers, Carbonade Superintendent of Streets and Sanitation, said the city has not decided on the details of collecting the landscape waste.

some new journals. We've barely held our own lately with the new editions of our current publications and in some years, we've even had to cut back. This has hurt us," Black said.

The allocated money is a combination of state appropriations and University revenue, according to the board.

Jenkins said he had "a general idea" of how the money would be spent, but a budget analysis has been initiated to determine the best use of the additional funds.

Jenkins noted the board had approved this year's increase and proposed a 15-percent increase for fiscal year 1991, but the future of the library's budget was uncertain after that point.

"We're trying to be conservative with the money because there's no guarantee it's always going to be there," he said. "There's been a two-year tax increase which is being funneled into education. After that, who knows?"

Jenkins said the library probably will install more C.D.-ROM (Compact Disc-Read Only Memory) systems. He compared the systems to "an automated paper index" which is more efficient and easier for the students to use.

"It (the C.D.-Rom) is a unit which, in a sense, is a mini data base current tied in with a PC (personal computer)," he said.

Jenkins said the Library probably also will add some journal and periodical subscriptions and/or increase the number of books ordered, based on the needs of the individual departments.

"Some departments, such as science, depend heavily on materials obtained through periodical research. Other disciplines are better served through the addition of books," he said.

James Fox, social studies librarian, said his department would increase the amount of new book orders, which had been reduced in the past in order to maintain some periodical subscriptions.

"I think this will be a tremendous help. The book collection especially suffered because we cut into (the number of) book orders we placed in an effort to maintain the level of periodicals we have to offer," he said. "We will mostly purchase those non-serial items such as some of the more expensive volumes that we've had to cut back on to maintain our periodical collection."

Even with such measures, Fox said his department has been "fairly cautious" with the purchases it has made, noting that the number of periodicals offered had declined considerably.

"It's been a fairly steady erosion of journals. At one time, we had 19,000 to 20,000 to offer. Now, I would say we dipped under 14,000," he said.

Black said widespread overall budget cuts for public universities in the 1980s cause a shortage of research material.

Comedy Cellar comedian lacked humor, lost control

By Doug Toole
Staff Writer

It was a really pretty picture: the Comedy Cellar started early in the year, the Big Muddy Room was always packed on Wednesday nights and the performers were well worth the $1 admission price.

We were bound to get a weak performance sometime.

Enter Buzz Sutherland.

Sutherland's performance at the Comedy Cellar Wednesday night was crude, insulting and lacked humor. His style was unprofessional, his material was weak and he demonstrated little control over his audience. The act just seemed to drag on and on with very little relief.

Sutherland was introduced as a performer with over four years experience in the St. Louis comedy circuit. He must have left most of his act back home.

He started out with some crude jokes to grab attention, then searched the audience for targets to bash throughout the show. He found more than a half-dozen people to pick on repeatedly, and directed insults at the security officers and the entire audience the rest of the time.

All good stand-up comedians need to know how to deal with dead crowds and hecklers. Sutherland, however, went out of his way to create problems with the audience. Perhaps he thought it would distract people's attention away from his jokes. Too bad.

And the jokes were bad. They ranged from stereotyping the people who live in Illinois and describing drunken behavior to talking about homosexuals.

Sutherland showed that of the small amount of material he had prepared beforehand, nearly all of it was inappropriate to the area and for the most part not very funny. Sutherland's lack of command and control over the audience was by far the worst part of the act. He consistently let people in the crowd make comments, bounce insults off him, talk across the room to each other and even take the microphone and sing. During these outbursts he would walk around the stage away from the microphone and tell the people in the front row that he wasn't needed.

How right he was. Apparently what Sutherland didn't realize was that by inviting the comments of the Big Muddy crowd, he took the risk of being upstaged by a roomful of closet comedians and hecklers. Unfortunately for him, that is exactly what happened.

If this was your first experience with the Comedy Cellar, you probably weren't too impressed. But have faith: Sutherland had the exception to the usual level of performer, not the rule.

Finance commission offers award to students for designing new logo

Students with a creative idea can design a new logo for the Illinois Student Assistance Commission and win $1,000 for the effort.

The commission is sponsoring the logo competition in the wake of its name change from the Illinois Student Scholarship Commission.

The competition, open to all collegiate students both part and full time that attend Illinois schools, will be judged by a panel of commission staff and two design firms.

Both firms, KER Marketing from Springfield and Leo Burret USA from Chicago have done work for the commission in the past.

"We're a more comprehensive program, thus we need a more comprehensive logo," Robert J. Clement, director of ISAC said.

Clement said any medium may be used in the competition. All entries must be postmarked by Oct. 9 and all entries must have the student's name, social security number, address, telephone number and school name on the back of the entire.

The winner of the competition will be announced on Nov. 2. The cash awards will be $1,000 for the first place finisher, $500 for second, and $250 for third.

Group aims to push city into recycling

By Curtis Winston
Staff Writer

A recently formed citizens' group is trying to make people in the Carbondale area think about recycling.

The Citizen's Recycling Coalition, which held its organizational meeting Wednesday night, is in the process of putting itself together, Jackie Turner, a member of the steering committee, said.

"We are still working out the details of the organization," Turner said.

One of the group's goals is to establish curbside recycling programs in Carbondale and Murphysboro, Turner said, but much research would have to be done before such a program could start.

Because of this, the group is concentrating on getting property owners and renters to start compost piles, a place on the property where such landscape waste as grass clippings and leaves are disposed, she said.

"Supposedly, a major part of what goes into landfills is landscape waste," Turner said.

Members of the group are participating in a pilot compost program, Turner said. "We are going to try it within the group first and see how it works."

"Once we get the composts going we could definitely get something going where everybody recycles as much as they can."

—Jackie Turner

"Once we get the composts going we could definitely get something going where everybody recycles as much as they can," she said.

Another project of the group is developing ways to stimulate the market for recycled products, Turner said.

Turner said the group has contacted the FSC Paper Company in Chicago, which would send a truckload of recycled paper products to the city and the University and take back a load of used paper and newspaper in return.

The group also is expected to design a symbol that businesses and offices would use to let customers know that recycled products are being used, Turner said.

The Citizen's Recycling Coalition got its start last spring under the auspices of the Jackson County League of Women Voters, Turner said.

Muriel Haywood, an active League member and a member of the coalition, said the League did a study on solid waste disposal and "decided that in view of the problems with the landfill ... we would like to work on recycling in the area."

Haywood said another one of the coalition's goals is to "persuade food markets not to use so much packaging."

The coalition is sponsoring a tour of the Jackson County landfill near DeSoto on Sept. 30, Haywood said. Everett Allen, landfill operator, and Jim Bloom, from the Jackson County Health Department, which regulates the landfill, will give a lecture before the tour.

Space on the tour is limited. To reserve a spot, contact Genevieve Houghton at 549-4517.

Colombia arrests traffickers wanted for violations in U.S.

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — Two more Colombians wanted on cocaine trafficking charges in the United States have been arrested, bringing to four the number of suspects awaiting extradition, police said Thursday.

The national police agency DAS said Guillermo Bueno Delgado and Bernardo Pelaez Roldan were informed, as required, that the government intends to extradite them to the United States and that they have five days to appeal the order.

Police said Bueno Delgado is wanted in Florida on charges of smuggling five tons of cocaine into the United States. He was captured on the Colombian island of San Andres in the Caribbean. Pelaez Roldan is wanted in Detroit for cocaine trafficking.

Police gave no further details of the arrests and did not say when they took place.

Already being held pending extradition are Ana Beatrice Zunig and Victor Carlini Arico. A fifth Colombian drug suspect, Eduardo Martinez Romero, the first Colombian to be extradited to the United States since Barco's decree, is now facing charges in Atlanta of laundering millions of dollars in cocaine earnings. He was flown out of Colombia on Sept. 6.

The arrests are part of the government's offensive against cocaine traffickers that began when President Virgilio Barco declared a state-of-siege and reinstated an extradition treaty with the United States after the Aug. 18 assassination of Sen. Luis Carlos Galan by a cocaine-linked gang.

Colombia's cocaine cartels have declared 'total war' against the government and vowed to kill five Americans.

In response, Colombia's cocaine cartels have declared "total war" against the government and have vowed to kill five Americans and 10 Colombian judges for every drug suspect extradited to the United States.

"The Extraditables," a hit squad allegedly financed and trained by the cocaine cartels, has yet to make good on its vow to murder Americans and judges in retaliation for Martinez's extradition.

Colombian officials said their war on the cocaine cartels was beginning to bite deep. They noted that Brazil has moved a portable radar near its border with Colombia, and other surrounding countries have increased border patrols as cocaine producers flee the country for safer havens.

"We are detecting that many (cocaine) laboratories are abandoning our territory," said Gen. Miguel Gomez, commander of the National Police.

Both U.S. and Colombian officials say cocaine traffickers are looking to surrounding South American countries that have remote areas, coca leaf production, few resources to battle powerful cartels and low-paid officials susceptible to bribery or intimidation. Venezuela, Peru and Ecuador also have increased border patrols, officials in those countries said. And although Bolivia does not share a border with Colombia, the government in La Paz has increased surveillance in airports.

Gomez said police have evidence that transportation routes are shifting to other countries like Venezuela, where vigilance of plane and boat traffic is looser than in Colombia.

The drug lords' flight to other South American countries began earlier this year after the government began its most extensive crackdown.

Police get Brazilian drug king

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UPI) — Brazilian police said Thursday they have arrested the man believed to control more than half Rio de Janeiro's cocaine trade, in part of a network associated with Colombia's Medellin cartel.

Police arrested da Darcy da Silva, 37, Wednesday afternoon on a street in the impoverished Acari district in Rio's north zone after receiving an anonymous tip, said police Lt. Col. Emir Campos Larangeira, who headed the operation.

Campos said Silva, known by the nickname "Cy," was part of a vast international drug trafficking network associated with the Medellin Cartel of Colombia.

"This has been one of the largest setbacks to narcotics trafficking in Rio de Janeiro, and I think in all of Brazil, in recent years," Campos said.

He said Silva, caught by surprise, was carrying 6 kilograms of cocaine when he was arrested with his 17-year-old nephew and a taxi driver, Antonio Godinho Lessa, 32. Five other suspects escaped, Campos said.

He estimated da Silva's network of sales and distribution sold close to 12 kilograms of cocaine daily.

Reds' owner Marge Schott contacts suspended Rose

This has been an inordinately busy week for Marge Schott, one of the country's most recognizable businesswomen. In addition to her normal duties as chief operating officer of the Cincinnati Reds and several other businesses, she put in a cameo appearance in Charleston, W. Va., to christen the Reds' newest minor-league affiliate. She rushed to Milwaukee for the meeting of baseball owners. Somewhere along the way, she found time to compose a letter to Peter Edward Rose.

Since Rose was suspended from baseball Aug. 24, Mrs. Schott has had no contact with her former manager. In fact, while Rose was being investigated by baseball, Mrs. Schott never spoke with her manager about his predicament or its effect on the team.

But Mrs. Schott received a letter from Rose last week.

"It wasn't exactly an apology. But he said he was sorry he caused all of these problems for the organization. I thought the nicest part was the PS. He said, 'Thanks for the love for Tyler (Rose's son) and for Schoutzie (Schott's dog).'"

Mrs. Schott wrote back, thanking Rose "for the memories."

She likes to refer to baseball's ruling class sarcastically but with a tinge of fondness as, "the grand old men of baseball."

She told Rose the grand old men appreciated the memories too.

It is clear Mrs. Schott has mixed feelings about Rose. She says she would consider rehiring him in some capacity should he ever be reinstated. She also implies it would be beneficial for the organization if his name was never heard again.

Indeed, if there is one attribute Mrs. Schott possesses as an entrepreneur, it is her devotion to public opinion. She is extremely image-conscious and her four seasons with Rose tested her patience.

Initially, firing Rose would have constituted bad public relations. Later, Rose became bad public relations. Mrs. Schott insists, however, she did not breath a sigh of relief when the late Bart Giamatti suspended Rose for life. She scoffs at the suggestion Giamatti's "firing" saved her for the chore.

"The only thing I feel bad about with Pete, and I'm sure he does, too, in his heart, is that he had a very strong image to give to the children. We're so family-oriented with the Reds. Some of the children at Riverfront can't say hello or goodbye but they can say, 'I wuv Pete Rose.' It's sad that Pete to this day doesn't feel he did anything wrong... it's a really tragic thing. You know, he was the legend of baseball."

Had Rose's gambling problem not come to light, Mrs. Schott said she would have kept Rose as manager, even if this team did not win the National League West.

"Let me put it this way. Pete's a hometown hero, OK? He's Cincinnati and I'm Cincinnati. We're probably the only manager and owner from the same town. And yes, Pete would probably be back because it's a difficult situation with him being from Cincinnati and everything. I've heard people say that if this was some other city, he'd have been gone from the beginning. It seems like in some cities, like Cleveland, once you lose a certain number of games, you're gone. I'm not like that."

Even after the investigation became national news, Mrs. Schott said she was seriously considering bringing him back for another season.

"If Pete were to ever come back and work for us in any capacity, things would have to change so his image would be a little better."

—Marge Schott

"If Pete were to ever come back and work for us in any capacity, things would have to change so his image would be a little better. The same things could not continue to go on."

Mrs. Schott said if Rose were still a Reds employee, she would insist he seek professional treatment "because I'm very fond of Pete and his family." Yet she never approached Pete about the gambling issue or suggested he get help.

"And he never came to me, either. The word 'gambling' has never come up in a conversation between us. We never, ever talked about it. I knew we were having some problems in the clubhouse, and (former commissioner) Peter Ueberroth came out with the mandate that from now on, only people who belong in the clubhouse should be there, partly because we had such a loose clubhouse. It helps for the commissioner to come forward and say something like that because it's sometimes hard to tell a person like Pete what to do."

As for Giamatti, Mrs. Schott said she considered him "a friend."

"I didn't disagree with his ruling. It's the law. He didn't make a ruling. He followed a law of baseball. To be honest, I just wish Pete would've gone to New York in the very beginning and met with Giamatti. I don't know if it would've made a difference, but it might have."

"I felt Bart was extremely strong in dealing with Pete. He came out as strong as I've ever seen him. I was kind of surprised he was so strong. I don't think he was arrogant. It's just that as far as integrity goes, he was big on that. You have to be when you're protecting something that is such a big part of America."

"I don't think Bart was against Pete. Pete could've been Joe Blow. Bart took a firm stand of what baseball had to stand for and what the rules are. That's why his investigation went so long and so deep, because he was trying to be fair."

Just as she never talked to Rose about the investigation, Mrs. Schott never broached the subject with Giamatti. The commissioner suggested that she not discuss the Rose case publicly, and it wasn't until this week that she decided to talk.

"My brother in law said he wished he knew what Giamatti's secret was to get me to shut up for so long."

Twins sweep Blue Jays

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Mark Guthrie and Jeff Reardon combined on a five-hitter Thursday, helping the Minnesota Twins defeat the American-League East Division-leading Toronto Blue Jays, 2-0, for a sweep of their three-game series.

The loss left the Blue Jays 1 and 1/2 games ahead of 1st Baltimore in the AL East. Guthrie, 2-1, allowed five hits.

Washington's running back rushes into all-time Top 20

HERNDON, Va. (UPI) — Washington Redskins running back Gerald Riggs did not make a grand entrance into the NFL's all-time top 20 in rushing.

Riggs, long known as one of the league's most sure-handed ball carriers, fumbled twice deep in New York Giants' territory in Monday's 27-24 season-opening loss, overshadowing a 111-yard rushing performance in his debut with the Redskins.

"I thought Gerald Riggs was laying it on the line. I thought he made some great runs. He is a super-strong guy. I think he is very conscientious"

—Joe Gibbs

Riggs, playing his eighth NFL season, passed Mark Van Eeghan and Chuck Muncie and moved into 20th place in all-time rushing yardage, with 6,742 yards on 1,611 carries. Riggs needs just 47 yards Sunday against the Philadelphia Eagles to catch former Eagle Wilbert Montgomery in 19th place and 61 yards to equal John Henry Johnson in 18th place.

Riggs, 28, played the first seven seasons of his career with the Atlanta Falcons before the Redskins sent a 1989 second-round and 1990 first-round draft choice to the Falcons on April 23 for the running back.

The fumbles spoiled an otherwise competent debut for Riggs. Riggs is trying his best not to think about the fumbles entering Sunday's game with the defending NFC East champion Eagles at RFK Stadium.

"I don't worry about that," Riggs said. "It's in the past. Those are not things that I dwell on nor do I like to remember. It's like a bad word in a running back's vocabulary — 'fumble.' I hate to even mention it."

Coach Joe Gibbs hates to mention it as well.

"With him turning that thing over twice, hopefully something like that for him is maybe the lesson you learn that goes on to make us a better football team — if it doesn't happen again," Gibbs said.

Aside from the fumbles, Gibbs thought Riggs delivered a fine performance.

"I thought Gerald Riggs was laying it on the line. I was very pleased," Gibbs said. "I thought he made some great runs. He's a super-strong guy. I think he's very conscientious."

The Redskins acquired Riggs in the hope of reviving a rushing attack that slumped to 25th in the NFL last season. Riggs was generally pleased with his play.

"I wasn't discouraged in the least bit," he said. "I know I gave a pretty good effort out there. I wanted to have a good showing and I think I did that. I definitely showed people that I'm back to the old Gerald, outside of some things (fumbles) that happened in the game. I was relatively pleased."

Gerald Riggs passed Mark Van Eeghan and Chuck Muncie on the all-time rushing list with 6,742 yards. He is now in the top 20 all-time leading rushers.

Riggs said he feels better about his performance after viewing the game films.

"I had a couple of mistakes and I had a few things happen to me and I thought, 'Gosh, maybe a lot of things didn't go right,'" Riggs said. " (But) I played a lot better than I (initially) thought I did. But it gives me a lot of room for improvement, too."

San Diego, Oilers look to improve

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The San Diego Chargers and Houston Oilers are two teams seeking redemption after ugly losses in Week 1.

The Oilers were touted as strong contenders for the AFC Central title and the Chargers had new hope for respectability when they added quarterback Jim McMahon. But Houston stalled and fell to Minnesota 38-7 while the Chargers were bombed 40-14 by the Los Angeles Raiders.

"I don't think anyone could be worse off than we are," Oilers Coach Jerry Glanville said. "I think the worst thing we can do is hang our heads and pout about this. I don't think you should get too excited about a big win or too depressed after a big loss."

It was not known how the Chargers were nursing their wounds because Coach Dan Henning is in an escalating war with the San Diego media and has closed practices.

The crux of the trouble is McMahon's ribs. There was some disagreement between quarterback and coach immediately after the Raider game as to why McMahon was removed in the third quarter. Henning said he benched McMahon in favor of David Archer in the third quarter for strategic reasons.

Guidlines Regarding Alcohol Policy/Football Games

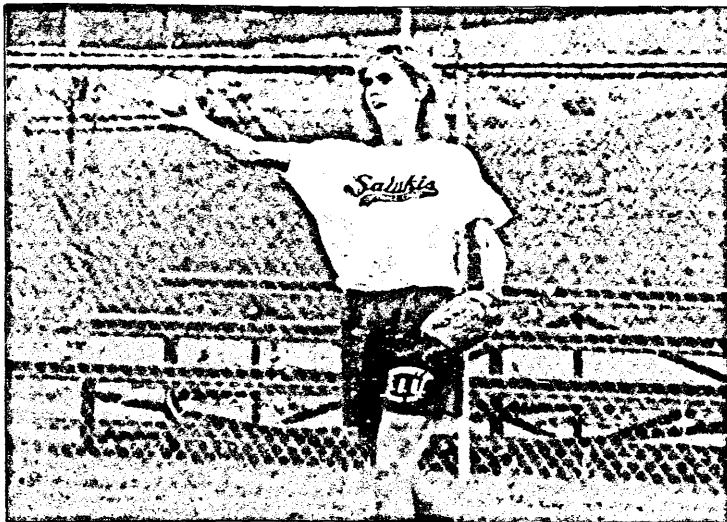

The University Alcohol Policy prohibits all possession or consumption of alcoholic beverages on campus unless an exception is specifically authorized. As done by many colleges and what is known as "tailgate" activities in designated areas, intended to give persons attending football games the opportunity to arrive early, park and have their own food and beverages (including alcohol beverages if they wish) prior to the University Alcohol Policy, the following guidelines have been formulated and will be in effect for your health and safety throughout the football season:

1. Possession and consumption of alcoholic beverages within the intent described above will be permitted only during the period from three hours prior to the kick-off up to fifteen minutes prior to game time on Saturdays of home football games and during half-time of those games in the following areas (these spaces to be available for set-up three hours to kick-off):
 - a) Parking Lot 13, directly west of the stadium;
 - b) Lot 13A, southwest of the stadium;
 - c) Lots 10A and 10B, north of the stadium;
 - d) Lots 53 and 43, near the Physical Plant;
 - e) The Free Forum Area.

Consumption of alcohol on campus other than at the times and locations specified is prohibited by the University Alcohol Policy, unless specifically authorized.

2. The above limited exception applies only to those persons of legal drinking age (21 years of age or older). Undraged possession or consumption of alcoholic beverages in any public place is illegal. Violators will be subject to prosecution.
3. The sale or delivery of alcoholic beverages, direct or indirect, is strictly prohibited. (Sale of other items are permitted only if approved in advance and meet the other requirements of the University Policy on solicitation.)
4. It is recommended that containers be limited to individual servings, but kegs will be permitted, except in the Free Forum Area, subject to provisions of number one above. Only individual servings will be permitted in the Free Forum Area.
5. For safety reasons, the use of non-glass containers is encouraged for all beverages.

Softballers swing into Peoria for play in Bradley Invitational

By Tracy Sargeant
Staff Writer

The SIU-C softball team has a long weekend ahead of it as it travels to Bradley University for a doubleheader Friday and starts in round-robin play Saturday at the Bradley Invitational.

"(Bradley) has good returning players and they are always a competitive team," SIU-C Head Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said.

Brechtelsbauer said that she has been working on several different aspects of the game in practice.

"We've scrimmaged a lot in practice and set up offensive situations. We put a runner on second and let the defense keep the run from scoring. This way, they can be more comfortable and know what to do when that situation occurs in a real game, she said.

Bradley coach Clint Wilson said that the doubleheader against Southern was scheduled on Friday to help promote the Bradley Invitational.

"We want to kick it off on Friday with the doubleheader against SIU-C. We may have a rainout though, because it has rained all week. I hope it clears up by Friday," Wilson said.

Wilson said Bradley has lost some key players.

"We have lost freshman pitcher Michelle Riggio. Last year she was 3rd in the state. She is a very good student and wanted to concentrate on grades," Wilson said.

"This is the time to work the girls in together, get them used to each other. We've worked on fundamentals and reviewed some of the key points the girls might not have had in high school," he said.

"I think SIU is a developed team with good pitching and long hitting. This weekend should be a tough learning experience for us," Wilson said. "This is the best team I've had since 1986." Brechtelsbauer said at this point in the season the team is ready to play against some good competition.

"This should be a fun weekend," Brechtelsbauer said.

than WIU did last week.

"Eastern is playing with a little bit more experience at quarterback than Western, their offense is a little bit more polished. This game will be a good test for our defense.

"In order to contain the Eastern offense the defense will have to put heat on the quarterback, have a great effort from the defensive secondary, and make the big play on offense, Smith said.

Offensively the Panthers will be led by junior quarterback Eric Arnold.

Arnold had his best game of the season against the Salukis last year, completing 12 of 21 passes for 292 yards and two touchdowns.

Smith said the Panthers have the ability to run the ball as well and have good speed at the wide receiver position in junior Ralph Stewart.

"Eastern has good speed at wide receiver," Smith said. "They have the ability to go deep and beat you.

Stewart has led the Panthers the last two seasons in receiving, averaging 17 yards per catch and 58 yards per game.

Spoo said EIU will mix up its offense against the Salukis.

"Variety is a good thing to have," Spoo said. "We would like to keep people off balance, but we have to do whatever is necessary to win."

Smith said the Saluki defense will have to work hard to keep pressure on EIU's passing game.

"The way you stop deep passing is to rush the passer," Smith said. "Most quarterbacks can complete anything if you give them enough time."

Smith said the Saluki offense get better blocking for Gibson in order to be successful.

"We are going to drop back and throw a little more, keeping our backs in to get maximum pass protection," Smith said.

Patience will be a key to success for the Saluki offense this week, Smith said.

"We have to be patient," Smith said. "Last week both offensive teams were impatient, both were inept."

"We are going to pull the strings in a little bit offensively and try to simplify," Smith said. "We need to flat out execute a little bit better."

Spoo said the Salukis' seven-game losing streak and 0-2 record to start the season does not mean anything going into this week's contest.

"There is a rivalry associated with this game," Spoo said. "I have tried to caution my players about that."

This weekend also marks the fourth annual Saluki Tailgate festivities, with the fun officially beginning at noon.

Upstart Eastern to invade McAndrew

By Daniel Wallenberg
Staff Writer

Head Coach Bob Smith said there are some people around the Gateway Conference who are now picking the Eastern Illinois University Panthers, a team who was picked to finish fourth in a preseason poll, to win the conference title. But EIU's head coach Bob Spoo has picked them all along.

"There is really only one person who picked us to win the conference and that's me," Spoo said. EIU has only allowed only 10 points in its first two non-conference games, including a 36-0 shutout in the season opener against Austin Peay.

Smith said the Panthers, 2-0, are similar to Western Illinois in the way they play defense.

"Very much like a mirror of Western defensively in ability with a little more speed in the secondary," Smith said. "They are an awfully tough defensive team."

Spoo said both team's defenses will play a key role in the outcome of the game.

"Southern's defense has played well recently," Spoo said. "Hopefully, our defense will not have a let down."

Defensively, EIU will be led by seniors John Jurkovic and Daryl Holcombe.

Jurkovic was named first team All-American by the Associated Press as well as taking the Gateway Conference Defensive Player of the Year award in 1988.

Last year against the Salukis, Jurkovic, a 6-3, 275-pound defensive tackle, had 13 tackles, two for losses, and one sack.

Over the first three seasons of his career at EIU, Jurkovic has recorded 90 solo tackles and 123 assists for a total of 213 with 28 tackles for losses and 21 sacks.

Holcombe, 5-11, 185, was an AP honorable mention All-American last season, playing at the strong safety position. Holcombe also returns kickoffs.

Against the Salukis last season, Holcombe was credited with six tackles. Over his career, Holcombe has netted 182.

As a kick returner, Holcombe has returned 34 kickoffs for 955 yards, a 28.1 average.

Spoo said the Saluki offense, which has scored a total of 10 points in its first two games, is better than it seems.

"I don't underestimate SIU one ounce," Spoo said.

"I have a great deal of respect

Creighton to return 4 starters

Compiled from press releases

It seems like just yesterday that Carbondale was buzzing with talk about the SIU-C men's basketball team and their NIT tournament bid, but that talk faded quickly when they finally went to play.

The Dawgs were soundly trounced by the St. Louis Billikens in the first round and have had a long summer to think about the loss.

That may be part of the reason that members of the Saluki basketball team are preparing early for the upcoming season with pickup games at the Arena. Coaches are not allowed to participate until official basketball practice starts

Oct. 15.

As a member of the Missouri Valley Conference, SIU-C is part of a long basketball heritage.

The Missouri Valley Conference, formed in 1907, will be celebrating its 82nd anniversary this coming season. The MVC is the oldest athletic conference west of the Mississippi River and fourth oldest in the nation.

MVC teams have been to the NCAA Final Four 17 times in league history and have won four NCAA national championships. MVC teams have won six NIT championships, including back-to-back titles in the 1980's - Tulsa in 1981 and Bradley in 1982.

Many players who once starred for the MVC are now in the NBA; Larry Bird, Paul Pressey, Maurice Cheeks, Xavier McDaniel, Steve Harris, Benoit Benjamin and Hersey Hawkins.

Last season was one of the most competitive in Missouri Valley Conference history, with two teams tying for second place (one game out of first place) and three others earning a share of the fifth spot.

Creighton, last year's MVC champs in the regular-season and post-season tournament, returns all but one starter from a team that won 20 games.

Tulsa, which finished in a tie for second with Wichita State one game behind the Bluejays, also lost only one player from a team which compiled 18 victories.

Southern Illinois, a team coming off a 20-win season, returns two members from the Valley's all-newcomer team. Illinois State returns its entire team; Indiana State lost only one player to graduation; Bradley welcomes back the MVC newcomer-of-the-year; Drake's nucleus includes a second team all-conference forward; and Wichita State brings back two starters and two others who were first off the bench.

Cards lose again; only 1,519 fans at Busch

ST. LOUIS (UPI) - Albert Hall, Jay Bell and Andy Van Slyke each delivered RBI double with two out in the seventh inning Thursday, helping the Pittsburgh Pirates defeat St. Louis, 4-3, and hand the Cardinals their fifth consecutive loss.

The defeat dropped the Cardinals five 1-2 games behind first place Chicago in the National League East race.

A paid crowd of only 1,519 attended out of a total crowd of 3,534. The previous low this season was 22,198 on April 18 against the Pirates. The previous smallest crowd in Busch Stadium history was 3,380 on Sept. 27, 1972, against the New York Mets.

The game Thursday was a makeup of Wednesday night's game that was rained out after 1-3 innings. It marked the second time that has happened to the Cardinals this season, meaning they will play a club record 164 games. St. Louis has 17 games remaining.

The Pirates have won five consecutive games and six of their last seven.

Pittsburgh collected four doubles in the seventh to score three times and take a 4-2 lead. With one out, Jose Lind doubled off Dan Quisenberry. With two strikes on pinch hitter Benny Distefano, lefty Ken Dayley, 3-3, relieved and struck out Distefano one to give up consecutive doubles to Hall, Jay Bell and Andy Van Slyke for three runs.

The Cardinals had a chance to tie the score in the ninth. With one out, pinch hitter Ozzie Smith delivered an RBI double but Kipper got Vince Coleman on a line out to shortstop and Smith was doubled off second to end the game.

St. Louis took a 2-1 lead in the sixth. Terry Pendleton led off with a single and stole second for his second theft of the game.

Women's cross country team heads for action in Wisconsin

By Greg Scott
Staff Writer

The SIU-C women's cross country team will be part of a 38-team field for the Midwest Collegiate Cross Country Championship Saturday in Kenosha, Wis.

The Salukis will be one of six Gateway Conference schools competing Saturday. Gateway pre-season favorite Illinois State will compete along with Eastern Illinois, Western Illinois, Indiana State and Northern Iowa.

SIU-C finished 16th in the Midwest Collegiate last year. Saluki Coach Don DeNoon thinks his team should improve on that mark this season.

"I am pretty sure there will be a major improvement in how we finish," DeNoon said. "The up front teams are not as solid in the field as they were last year and I also think we are a much improved team. A large number of the schools in this meet are Div. III schools and we should handle them pretty well."

Perennially powerful Wisconsin will not defend in the meet this season. Minnesota, the 1988 runner-up, will be on hand along with Illinois, Ohio University and others.

SIU-C finished in a second place tie with Kansas in last week's triangular. The Purdue Boilermakers pretty much had their own way in the meet last week with 18 team points compared to 55 each for SIU-C and Kansas.

"I think we saw a really good and well-prepared team in Purdue," DeNoon said. "It was their first meet of the season and they wanted to impress their new coach. Our top five kids ran well for us as well."

Lecann Conway has impressed DeNoon this season. Conway, a freshman, won the Eastern Illinois triangular with a time of 19:01 and finished sixth of 29 with 19:06.7 this past weekend in Carbondale.

While DeNoon is proud of his freshman's performance this season, he does not want to put too much pressure on the young runner. "I am not surprised by what she (Conway) has done so far and I think she has even greater potential," DeNoon said. "We don't want to put pressure on her and expect those kind of performances every time. We just want to be happy when they come."

DeNoon pointed out some more bright spots from last week's meet. The improvement of freshman Dawn Barefoot and junior Dona Griffin pleased DeNoon.

Barefoot finished 13th with 19:44.6 last weekend compared to her time of 20:03 in the Eastern Triangular. Griffin finished 12th with a time of 19:34.7 in Carbondale compared to her 20:11 time in the first meet.

"They were both ill during the week," DeNoon said. "They still trained during the week and did well."

Amie Padgett improved her time last week as well. SIU-C's No. 2 runner thus far, Padgett improved
