Alpha Kappa Psi sponsors many professional programs including an Honors Day banquet, Business Forum and a District Conference. It has been named the outstanding chapter in the region as well as No. 1 chapter in the nation.

Registration Not Required For Election

Polls for the Carbondale general election will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. today and except for two precincts, polling places will be in the same locations as the primaries.

Carbondale voters are not required to be registered for this election. If they meet the state and city residency requirements, they need only sign an affidavit to this effect at the time of voting.

The requirements are that a voter reside in the state for one year, the county for 90 days and the precinct for 30 days.

Richard Richman, Jackson County state's attorney, said that because a voter is a student, he is not necessarily eliminated from the Carbondale voting polls.

Richman said determination of a student's eligibility to vote here is an individual matter.

Some Carbondale officials have argued that to vote a citizen must have an "intent to reside," which implies that the voter must plan to make Carbondale his or her home.

Richman said there are no state guidelines set up to establish a person's intent to become a permanent resident. "I don't see how they (voting officials) can determine whether or not an individual meets these requirements," he continued.

In voting today, voters must

Morris Concerned Over Bills' Revision Of Board Powers

EDWARDSVILLE — Concern over "a spate of bills" seeking to withdraw certain authority previously delegated to educational boards was expressed Saturday by President Delyte W. Morris.

He expressed this concern while speaking to the general faculty meeting in the Communications Building at the Edwardsville Campus. Morris was discussing legislation of interest in the current session of the General Assembly.

The "spate of bills" to which he referred constitute "a drawing back to the General Assembly" of certain powers previously delegated to boards, such as SIU's Board of Trustees, or the State Board of Higher Education, Morris said. He called the proposals "an unfortunate direction."

One such measure is House Bill 1172 which seeks to reserve to the General Assembly the final approval on construction of university housing. As it stands, the bill would apply whether state, federal, guaranteed loans, or any other source of financing was involved, Morris told the faculty.

"It's a pretty comprehensive law," he declared. Its provisions were outlined in greater detail in Saturday's Daily Egyptian.

Morris also discussed the evolution of the State Board of Higher Education. He also gave his opinion of the purpose and objectives of the board; on balance, the total effect is good, Morris declared.

He outlined the highlights of the development of the board, which has certain powers over the operation and development of higher education in Illinois.

The original basis was a law passed in 1963, Morris told the faculty. The board was empowered to approve all new programs in the schools under its jurisdiction; to review all operating and capital-outlay budgets and make recommendations on them to the governor and General Assembly; and to develop a master plan for higher education in Illinois.

An executive order of the governor in 1964 designated this board as the state agency

Weeks of Investigation

2 Students Arrested After Narcotics Raid

William Van Meter, a 19-year-old SIU student from La Grange, pleaded guilty Monday to a charge of possession of dangerous drugs. He appeared in Jackson County Court.

State's Attorney Richard Richman said the student was placed on probation for six months and fined $100 plus court costs.

Monday's hearing followed an investigation and narcotics raid in Carbondale Friday, according to Capt. Carl B. Kirk of the SIU Security Police.

Pleading not guilty to a charge of possession of narcotics was James Riely, 18, of La Grange. Both Riely and Van Meter were apprehended Friday during the raid on an apartment at 411 E. Hester St.

Riely posted $10,000 bond, Richman said. Riely's case will be presented to the Grand Jury, Richman added.

According to Richman, Riely was charged with possession of marijuana and Van Meter charged with possession of dexadrine, a stimulant drug.

Capt. Kirk said the arrest came after several weeks of investigation at SIU.

Last month two area men were arrested in the Chicago area and a shipment of drugs estimated to be valued at $3,000 was confiscated. The drugs were thought destined for southern Illinois, Kirk said.

Arrested March 11 were James P. Kennedy, 22, a native of Oklahoma who had lived in the Carbondale area, and Charles Prickette, 23, of De Soto. The two men were not SIU students.

Both Richman and Kirk said that Friday's arrests were the first on a narcotics charge at SIU in recent years. "There is experimentation in the narcotics field at SIU just like on any other campus across the country," Kirk said.

He indicated that an investigation into the use of narcotics on campus will continue although he believed there was no problem at SIU at this time.

Several faculty members and students have attributed their illness to food poisoning.

The University Health Service reports that it treated approximately 10 persons who attended the banquet.

The Jackson County Health Department is investigating.

Book Examination Proves Successful

The number of textbooks underlined and marked in has decreased since a stepped-up watchdog system began, according to Henry T. Stroman of the Textbook Rental Service.

A closer check is being made on books, especially new ones.

Money taken in by the "sale" of the textbooks is figured in with the University Bookstore profit.

The average student has in his possession six to seven books a quarter, added Stroman.

A warning not to mark in the books or pay for the ones so marked is stated on a pocket in the back of the books. Stroman said that the Textbook Service handles about 100,000 to 125,000 books a quarter. Books from winter quarter are still being checked.

Argentine Composer, Pianist Scheduled for Convocations

At 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Thursday the University Convocation Series will present Vince Guaraldi, an Argentine-born jazz pianist.

Guaraldi composed and played the music for "Charlie Brown" show recently presented on the CBS television network. Guaraldi is one of the few jazz musicians who have had jazz compositions on a national hit disc. He received a "Grammy" award for his hit record "Cast Your Fate to the Wind."

In 1965, he set Christmas themes to jazz.

According to a story in the July 9, 1965, edition of Time Magazine, Guaraldi was responsible for bringing jazz into religion. Music was intended for the church, with sounding brass and crashing cymbals, so why not also with alto sax, clarinet, bongos and bass, the story asked.

Also appearing with Guaraldi will be Jorje Morel, a Classical guitarist.

Following Convocations will be a coffee hour in the University Center for students and faculty.

Next week's convocation will present the internationally known poet, Mark Van Doren.

Citizenry Not the Only Group Concerned With City's Needs

Much has been said and written in recent months concerning who can and cannot vote in today's general elections.

Some city officials have interpreted Illinois election laws governing municipal elections to hang voter eligibility on an "intent to reside."

This means that when the voter signs an affidavit swearing he is a bona fide resident, he intends to make Carbondale his home.

The intent of this is to eliminate students and some faculty members from the voting rolls. State's Attorney Richard Richman said voting regulations cannot be predicated on occupation, and in effect, the current restrictions seem to do exactly this.

Richman also said these laws are vague and that eligibility is determined by individual circumstances.

Students who are 21 years old, have severed ties with their parents, meet state residency requirements, and are not registered elsewhere, should be allowed to vote today.

There are other factors such as marital status, number of months spent annually in Carbondale, military status, etc., which enter into the picture.

The point of all this is that a voter cannot be disenfranchised merely because he or she is a student or faculty member.

Any student or faculty member who feels he meets the requirements, "intent to reside" notwithstanding, should exercise his right to vote and select the candidates who will best serve the needs of Carbondale.

The needs of Carbondale are not limited to one specific segment of the citizenry. All portions of the populace have a vested interest in seeing that Carbondale progresses and grows.

The ballot is the best means for each person to realize his or her needs.

If you are eligible to vote, then vote.

Letters to the Editor

No Hotel Needed

To the editor:

I have read with interest the asinine comments of Mr. Mike Nauer who seems to have complete access to your editorial page regardless of how unfounded his bias, or how uninformed he may be about the areas in which he espouses.

His latest comment on "university hotel" is the best demonstration he has made, to date, of his complete lack of understanding of the "free enterprise system."

If Mr. Nauer would take time to pick up a telephone and do a "spot survey" on the per cent of occupancy of Carbondale motel and hotel operations — over a 6 or 12 month period — he would find that we have enough facilities to serve current needs. If he would take time to find out why national franchise groups such as Ramada Inn and Howard Johnson have no secured facilities and investors for this area, he would find that these people — who I am sure he would admit, know a little more about hotel-motel operations than he does, do not find the "market ready" for their operations. Simply put, because I know Mr. Nauer needs things simplified — they can't make enough money to make the damn things worth while.

It might also interest Mr. Nauer to know that these very same private investors will not invest in a market that is threatened by competition from a tax-supported body such as SIU that can expand capital investments without worrying about such a mundane thing as making it pay. That "one thing or another" Mr. Nauer refers to is just such a "hostile climate."

That the present lodging facilities in Carbondale cannot handle "graduation" — Du Quoin State Fair Week — Homecoming and the opening of school is not contested by anyone. But, Mr. Nauer, would you suggest we invest several millions of dollars in facilities that would be used 4 or 5 times a year? If some people have to book reservations 5 months in advance or drive 20 miles to "area motels — or stay in the "campus operated hotel" — Neely Hall for these weekends is simply a reflection of the fact that this is still an underpopulated area without the influx of people throughout the year that would justify the building of extra units.

It might also interest Mr. Nauer, if he would do a little checking, to know that plans are on the drawing boards — awaiting SIU's decisions — by private investors to build a 4-story hotel-motel with convention facilities and dining rooms to accommodate 400 guests. This project may never see realization because of SIU's competition. I know Mr. Nauer is not concerned over the fact that this would be a tax-paying — not a tax-eating installation, but it is one more example of how a tax-eating institution can eliminate the very source of its existence — the tax-paying private industry you seem to understand so little of. I sincerely hope "Mike" that someday you have to invest some of your own money in a business that is in direct competition to some state or federal supported enterprise. You may "grow up" in a hurry.

French Ungrateful

To the editor:

I am happy to see that the French are keeping up their policy of acting without thinking. In Tuesday's Egyptian there was a wonderful picture of young French countrymen burning our American flag. These wonderful young French firebugs have short memories. The French demonstrators have forgotten all the United States has done for them since the turn of the century.

In the last half century we have fought twice on the same side against the same enemy. We aided France in every way possible. We died on French soil, shedding our Yankee's blood so France would rid herself from oppression. We helped these people make France a better place to live in.

After the devastation and destruction of war on the French mainland this poor impoverished country needed help. When the French called for our help we did not hesitate. Many American dollars have been spent on helping France restore its once gracious beauty. We still aid France while some of our own people do not have enough to eat. Maybe my memory is faulty but I cannot recall hearing about the young demonstrators when we were giving them food and clothing under the Marshall Plan. The United States aided the French materially and diplomatically.

Let us look at things differently.

These anti U.S demonstrators may be advocating removal of the U.S. from Viet Nam. I agree with them, but who was in Viet Nam? Who tried to rule over Nam but only failed asked for the U.S. 1954? Maybe it was young Parisians.

The United States is a great country that has done many great things. People, foreign and domestic, do not give the U.S. credit for the good things it does. I am proud of my flag and I am proud of my country. I may not agree with everything my country does but I respect the flag for what it stands for.

An Editor's Viewpoint

A Living's a Right; Work's a Duty

By Jenkins Lloyd Jones
(General Features Corp.)

For the past one-third of a century the American people have been experimenting with various forms and degrees of assistance by the federal government to the poor. It is now time for some assessment.

At the beginning, we considered this federal assistance only as an emergency measure to stave off starvation at a time when proud men were selling apples at the corner and one-time executives were hawking vacuum cleaners door-to-door.

We were told that as times got better these programs would taper off. But the reverse has been true. The better the times, the bigger the relief load. In the past seven years, while Washington has boasted of our unprecedented prosperity, direct federal public assistance rose from $2 billion to $3.3 billion.

What has happened, apparently, is that we are creating a growing army of citizens who cannot or will not support themselves. And in our well-meaning but ham-handed efforts to see that people who don't need relief don't get it we have created conditions that increase irresponsibility and dependency.

For example, we decided that as long as there was an able-bodied man around the house and plenty of jobs available a family would not be eligible for aid-to-dependent-children payments. But this meant in too many cases that the man simply fled the house, or, worse yet, visited it after the social workers had gone home. The rise in the number of apparently fatherless children and slum matriarchies has been spectacular. We are now well into the second generation of this business.

Secondly, we killed incentive to get off the relief rolls by imposing what amounts to a virtual 100 per cent income tax on earnings of relievers. Few Americans would show much incentive under a 100 per cent tax, but this was most devastating among the weakly-motivated, who comprise much of the relief load.

There is also an ominous possible fallout. We can breed down the American people. If the state takes over the responsibility of supporting children of low-competents (or even makes their production profitable to mothers who neglect them) while it imposes tax burdens that compel self-supporting families who have ambitions for their children to strictly limit their numbers, we could practice natural selection in reverse.

Somehow, we have to come up with a relief system that doesn't cause rot. We must find some way of protecting all citizens against starvation and utter want while encouraging responsibility and initiative.

It is conceivable that we could "eliminate poverty" by the simple device of handing out money to anyone adjudged poor. Robert Theobald, the British economist favors this approach, arguing that in an age of increasing automation the stupidest, most ignorant and least reliable citizens will gradually become unemployable. The effect of this cure on the man who works hard all year and finds he has made only $100 more than his neighbor who sat around the saloon has not been tested.

Dr. Milton Friedman of Chicago and Dr. James Tobin of Yale favor the "negative income tax." This would bring payments by the government to all who fall below a poverty line, but would not diminish these payments by the full amount of any income earned. In other words, the reliever who answered the dishwasher-wanted ad would be able to keep what he made washing dishes plus much of his relief until he had risen well above the poverty line.

There would still remain the question of what to do with the person whom no private employer would have at any price.

Lady Rhys Williams of England argues that the state should provide every citizen, rich or poor, with a living allowance. The allowance would, of course, be snatched back in income taxes imposed on all but poor citizens, but it would, as in other schemes, provide a floor below which family income couldn't drop. However, she argues that the state should provide jobs for all who cannot find other employment.

This revival of some form of WPA may, indeed, be what we'll have to come to. The payment of a guaranteed living for no work to hordes of professional mendicants might have grim social consequences.

Dr. Erich Fromm, the social psychologist, feels that if people were removed from the fear of starvation or any compulsion to make a living they would be free to study and train themselves for skills in other lines in harmony with their abilities and talents.

This is probably a naive hope, common to those theorists who themselves are strongly motivated. A large number of people would simply rot. If a living becomes a right, some form of work must also become a duty.

Most people will go to see if the only bugle call they ever hear is the one for chow.

Our Man Hoppe

Ban Bananas' Rings Across Nation

By Arthur Hoppe
(San Francisco Chronicle)

Following is another unwritten chapter in that unpublished reference book, "A History of the World, 1950 to 1999." The title of this one is "The Great Banana Split."

The news from Berkeley, Calif. in March of 1967 that hippies had discovered psychedelic properties in the common banana caused grave concern. The gravest concern, of course, was that the banana was perfectly legal.

At first, hippies would scrape the inside of the banana skin, dry the scrapings and smoke them—a painstaking process known as "taking a trip on a banana peel."

But with further research a simple recipe was developed for a banana split, best summed up by the slogan: "First you take a banana, then you split."

Banana split parlors opened coast-to-coast; "Banana Surprise" was served at all jet set parties; and Chiquita Banana was revived, now wearing ironed hair and leotards, to sing hourly over the radio, "Don't Put Bananas in the Refrigerator (Put them in the humidior, instead)."

"Do you realize," thundered moralists, "that bananas are being openly sold in our once sacrosanct grocery stores?"

But police were powerless. It had taken an Act of Congress to outlaw LSD and it would take another to ban the banana. A bill was introduced and emergency hearings were begun before the Congressional Committee on Morality, whose chairman interrupted his annual around-the-world trip to investigate sin, vice and dancing girls first hand, in order to be present for news photographers.

The State Department testified that a banana ban would "seriously impair our friendly relations with our great sister republics to the South" and the United Fruit Company.

The President, however, was firm. "I will go anywhere at any time to talk to anyone about morality," he said, "unless there are reasons I don't think I should."

This prompted the junior Senator from New York to make a bold speech saying he was for morality and also for bananas and also for young people, who were reaching voting age in ever-increasing numbers.

At last, after only eight months debate, Congress voted. As always, it voted overwhelmingly in favor of morality. All the Congressmen then went off on junkets and the Great Banana Ban went into effect.

Hundreds were arrested for selling, possessing or smoking bananas. Moralists relaxed. "The country is saved," they said.

That's when a hippie in Omaha City discovered that Swiss chard and marshmallow sauce turned you on.

The Swiss Chard Ban the following year was hailed by moralists and small children. In succeeding years, Congress, desperately trying to keep up with research, outlawed potatoes, tomatoes and all health foods, one by one. But when a mixture of mothers' milk and yogurt was found psychedelic, Congressmen threw up their hands.

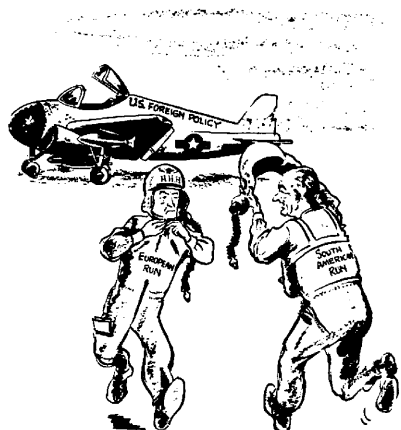

"You can't attack mothers' milk," said one.

Finally, in reaction, a bill was passed saying anybody could eat, drink, or smoke anything he liked as long as he didn't hurt anybody else.

Oddly enough, about the same small percentage of people who wanted to turn on, went on turning on. And the vast majority who didn't, didn't.

The only difference was that turning on wasn't nearly as thrilling.

Polish Debt Settled by Deal to Teach English

(St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

The United States has made a good bargain in an agreement to cancel part of a $29,000,000 debt incurred by Poland in a 1964 purchase of American surplus grains, cotton and tobacco. In return for canceled debts of $9,500,000 Poland will spend the money on a 10-year program of training Polish teachers in the English language. The benefits of this program may be somewhat intangible, but nevertheless real. Anything that helps break down language barriers should help trade and cultural relations, and the more English is spoken throughout the world the greater the benefits to the United States.

It is not always remembered that one of the great postwar assets the United States had in Asia and the Middle East when the cold war competition with the Soviet Union was keen was the extent to which English was used. Nobody spoke Russian, and our guess is that very little Russian is spoken today outside the Soviet Union. The French understood the importance of language and did everything possible to enforce the use of French in Indochina. The English, of course, encouraged the use of their language in India, Burma and other Asian nations. English has long been overtaking French as a universally-comprehended language.

Morris Discusses Legislation Withdrawing Boards' Powers

to administer provisions of the federal Higher Education Act of 1964 as it related to the state, Morris continued.

The General Assembly revised the board's powers in 1965, Morris said. The revision empowered the board to review all existing educational programs for justification of continuance, and advise the appropriate governing board of the institution involved in the findings, Morris explained. The practical effect is that the higher board's findings could result in a recommendation to the General Assembly on funds for a program the higher board questioned, Morris continued.

The 1965 revision empowered the higher board to consider the institutions' tuition and fee rates when reviewing their budget requests, Morris said. The board was similarly empowered to consider building-utilization rates in reviewing institutions' requests for capital expenditures appropriations, he added.

Of particular importance to SIU was a 1965 provision empowering the higher board to approve all nonacademic building facilities proposals of the institutions under its general jurisdiction, Morris said. This power relates particularly to the Edwardsville

Campus, the consideration of it by the higher board as a commuter college, and the subsequent effect on any proposals to build dormitories for the Edwardsville Campus, the president said.

Other provisions of the 1965 legislation empowered the higher board to establish minimum standards for admission to the institutions, and the board's general powers were extended to include the junior college system, Morris added. All nonacademic projects costing over $100,000 require prior approval of the higher board, and all under $100,000 must be reported to the board, he said.

Marines Gash Jungle 'Death Strip'

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command disclosed Monday new troop shifts apparently designed to bolster defenses along the North Vietnamese border area where U.S. Marines, working under fire, were bulldozing a death strip through jungles.

The command reported for the first time that "Flying Horsemen" of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division had been operating in Quang Ngai Province, about 100 miles south of the border, since April 8 and had killed 100 Communists in fighting so far. Last week the command announced that the entire 4,000-man 196th Light Infantry Brigade had been shifted to Chu Lai, on the coast in Quang Ngai Province.

The command withheld information on the number of air cavalrymen transferred from their usual operational areas in the central highlands.

The transfers set off speculation in Saigon that the Army forces had been sent into Quang Ngai, 350 miles northeast of Saigon, to free U.S. Marines for action in the northern border area where two North Vietnamese divisions were believed poised.

The shift of the cavalrymen topped the Monday war communiques of briefing officers in Saigon. They reported no significant ground action elsewhere and said air action included four B52 raids inside South Vietnam and 96 missions by smaller planes over North Vietnam Sunday. The northern raids were limited by cloudy weather.

Marine commanders operating along the demilitarized zone dividing the two Vietnams, reported men clearing the 12-mile-long, 220-yard death strip were meeting sharp Communist resistance. They said 16 Marines had been wounded—one for every 200 yards of jungle cleared—and that the attacks were likely to increase as work progressed.

By Monday night the Marines had cleared 3,200 yards of what they are now calling "The Bloody Gash."

The idea of the death strip, which will cover only about a third of the 40-mile-long border area, is to expose Communist infiltration across the demilitarized zone. The strip starts at the South China Sea coast and runs inland toward Laos but ends at the start of a jungled, mountainous area that U.S. officers say the Communist chiefly use for infiltration.

Marine officers express skepticism of the idea on the grounds that its cost in men, money and machines would far outweigh its result because it fails to cut the major infiltration route.

Speck's Lawyer Seeks New Trial

PEORIA, (AP) — Richard Speck's lawyer asked today for a new trial for the 25-year-old drifter convicted of murdering eight young nurses in their Chicago dormitory.

Gerald Gerty, Cook County (Chicago) public defender, made the request orally at a post-trial session before Judge Herbert C. Paschen in circuit court. The state asked that the motion be presented in writing.

When Gerty explained that a written motion would require considerable time in preparation, Judge Paschen recessed the hearing until May 15.

Speck was to be transferred from Peoria to the Cook County jail in Chicago where he will be confined in an isolated cell. The jury Saturday recommended punishment of death in the electric chair. Illinois law requires appeals of all death verdicts.

Sheriff Joseph Woods of Cook County was given custody of Speck shortly after the courtroom proceedings. The sheriff used eight squad cars, more than 20 sheriff's policemen and state troopers to convey Speck to Chicago. The troopers, armed with rifles and shotguns, formed a protective corridor as Speck was led from the courthouse to a squad car.

THE STATE TREASURER: THE ARCHITECT: THE ATTORNEY: THE CLERK: THE DEPARTMENT OF TREASURY

Trial Hinges On Coppolino's Defense Plea

NAPLES, Fla. (AP) — A defense motion that could cut the heart out of the state's case against Dr. Carl Coppolino—and possibly bring his murder trial to a sudden end—was taken under advisement Monday by the court.

Circuit Judge Lynn Silvertooth said he would rule Tuesday on a move to strike the testimony of two medical experts that Coppolino's wife, Carmela, was killed by a drug injection.

Without this testimony, the state admits there is no evidence that murder occurred, and a motion for a direct verdict of acquittal would be the next logical step for the defense.

Charging that Dr. Milton Helpert and Dr. Charles J. Umberger had testified to "impossible theories," defense attorney F. Lee Bailey told the court: "Now is the time to terminate this case."

Dr. Helpert, New York city's medical examiner, said he determined in a personal five-hour autopsy that Carmela could not have died of any natural cause.

Then Umberger, New York city's chief toxicologist, made chemical tests of the body organs for poisons and testified that he found evidence of a "toxic overdose" of a paralyzing drug, succinylcholine.

High Court Rejects

Integration Delay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court rejected Monday an effort by Louisiana school boards to delay the integration of all public schools in six Southern states by next fall.

The ruling, given without comment, means that school officials in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas must get to work quickly on plans for integrated classrooms, faculties, buses, and all other school activities.

While other legal maneuvers are available to the states, it is highly unlikely the high court would act on them before the end of its session in June. Thus the states may be near the end of the road in their attempt to upset the board integration order given March 29 by the U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans.

Wall Posters Seek Shao-chi's Death

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, (AP)—Peking wall posters Monday demanded trial and death sentences for President Liu Shao-chi and six other high Red Chinese officials, Tanjug news agency reported.

Tanjug's correspondent in Peking said the wall posters were "the final shots" at leaders opposed to Mao Tse-tung and their "removal is being prepared." But the dispatch added the wall posters should be taken with reserve because they have been erroneous or overly zealous in the past.

Bracketed with Liu were: Teng Hsiao-ping, Communist party secretary-general; Peng Chen, ousted as mayor of Peking; Lo Jui-ching, removed as chief of the Army general staff; Lu Ting-yi, former deputy premier who was an alternate member of the politburo, and Yang Shangkun, deputy secretary of the Party Central Committee.

Wall posters put up by Red Guards of university and high schools accused Liu and Teng of preparing a military coup d'etat in February of 1966. The other four were charged with hiding the plot, Tanjug said.

Morris, Dean Caldwell Talk to Faculty

SIU's International Programs Outlined

EDWARDSVILLE — SIU's program of international education is probably one of the 10 best in the United States.

This opinion was expressed at the general faculty meeting Saturday by Oliver J. Caldwell, dean of the International Services Division. He briefly outlined the SIU program, at the invitation of President Delyte W. Morris.

The number of foreign students at SIU is probably growing faster than at any other institution in the U.S., Caldwell told the approximately 175 Carbondale and Edwardsville faculty members who attended Saturday's meeting at the Communications Building on the Edwardsville Campus.

The increase in foreign student enrollment at SIU is about 50 a quarter and totaled approximately 650 in winter quarter, including 22 at Edwardsville, Caldwell said. He estimated the present enrollment of foreign students is about 700—22 per cent over the total at this time a year ago.

The total should reach 800 next fall, he continued. Following Caldwell's presentation, Morris posed a question of what SIU's relationship should be to "the foreign scene." He expanded the question to include SIU's responsibility, what Illinois and the United States stand to gain as a result of SIU's international program, and possible priorities.

He called initial decisions of a number of years ago that served to start SIU's involvement abroad; these decisions now almost constitute policy, Morris said. He did not propose a study of that involvement, but presented the question, Morris also mentioned one conclusion: That SIU lacks a relationship with South America. The possibility of an exchange arrangement between SIU and an Ecuadorian university is under development, he told the faculty.

Caldwell also discussed trends in Ford Foundations and Agency for International Development (AID) support for foreign programs such as SIU's. The University now has projects in Nigeria, Mali, Afghanistan, Nepal and Vietnam.

New legislation also provides for priority for financial assistance for institutions acting in consortium, Caldwell explained. He mentioned the steps toward establishing one, the University Association for International Education, which will initially involve SIU, St. Louis University, Illinois State University and Ohio University.

The purpose of the consortia priority is to seek to achieve greater strength through unified efforts. Caldwell said training of all elementary education supervisors in Vietnam as an example.

Another prospect is cooperation with United Nations agencies such as the Food and Agricultural Organization, Caldwell continued. One project would involve SIU in an FAO college of forestry and agriculture for Trinidad and the Tobago Islands, he told the faculty.

Still another is establishment of a residential college, under SIU leadership, at the University of Tampere, Finland. The college would be a center for European, northern European and Scandinavian studies, Caldwell said.

Paavo O. Koli, rector of the Finnish university, was on the Carbondale campus April 10 and 11 to study patterns of development at SIU. The SIU Department of Journalism established an informal relationship two summers ago with the University of Tampere when Raino Vehmas, chairman of the university's department of social sciences, was on the Carbondale campus.

Last year an exchange program began when Kaarle Nordstrom of Helsinki began studies at SIU and journalism graduate student Kenneth Starck began advanced research studies and teaching at the University of Tampere.

Livestock Judging Team to Compete

SIU's livestock judging team hopes to return from the Southern Spring Livestock Judging Contest at Virginia Polytechnic Institute in Blacksburg, Va. with first place honors.

Composed of a new squad of 12 students, the group will leave for Blacksburg April 25 with their coach, Howard Miller, assistant professor of animal industries. Team members may participate in intercollegiate competition for one calendar year, Miller says.

Over 135 Letters Received

Morris Invites Faculty Ideas On Governance of University

EDWARDSVILLE — An invitation to SIU faculty members to write President Delyte W. Morris with opinions and suggestions on University governance was repeated Saturday.

Morris told the general faculty meeting he has read more than 100 letters from Edwardsville Campus faculty members, and over 35 submitted to him by Carbondale Campus faculty members. He invited other members of the faculty to write similar letters, and requested each letter writer to permit use of his letter in a group study.

The purpose is to extract ideas, suggestions, objections and individual problems about the governance of the University and its two campuses, Morris said.

Robert G. Layer, chairman of the Department of Economics and Faculty Council chairman, also reported on the status of questionnaires on the governance question which were mailed to the faculty. Layer said the return has been sizable and he estimated about a thousand have been received. The council's report will be submitted later, he told the faculty.

Morris, whose request was outlined in detail in recent special bulletins to the faculty, said the letters will serve to "flesh out" the basic "yes or no" structure of the questionnaires. Layer said the deadline for submission of the questionnaires has been extended for faculty members who have not yet completed them.

Morris was asked for a summary of the tenor of the letters he has received. He estimated that 60 per cent of the Carbondale Campus letters favored functional division, and approximately 80 per cent of those from Edwardsville, did so. "The feeling seems to be more intense at Edwardsville than at Carbondale," he said.

The letters also indicate what Morris called "a great range of understandable concern for things that don't relate to organization for governance."

Morris also told of receiving the report of the committee studying the impact on SIU of junior colleges. The question was how the University can relate meaningfully to the junior colleges for their benefit and for SIU's, Morris said.

One implication he mentioned was a state policy that a student who completes his two-year program in junior college with a 3.0 average "shall" be admitted to the Illinois university of his choice. Another question is whether the junior college program will be one of quality education, if the system enrolls many students who are in the lower half of high school graduates.

The faculty met from about 1:30 to 3:10 p.m. Saturday.

Edwardsville's $200-$300 Million Project

Housing Plans Made for SW Campus

(From the Alestle)

EDWARDSVILLE--- Plans for a massive housing development adjacent to the Edwardsville Campus--including student housing--were announced by the Edwardsville Southern Illinois Commonage (ESIC), a public corporation.

The $200-$300 million project, located on Illinois 157 directly across from the Edwardsville Campus entrance, includes 900 acres of land planned to eventually house 12,000 persons in a "total environment" community.

ESIC President Lossie Morris, a Collinsville business man, and his son Chuck Morris, architect for the project, outlined plans at a dinner meeting of the Madison County Home Builders Association.

Lossie Morris, brother of SIU President Delyte W. Morris, said developers plan to annex the project to Edwardsville, which would double the population of the city.

If developers are unable to annex to Edwardsville, Morris said the project is large enough to incorporate as a separate city.

Morris said the project would be the largest single private land development project ever undertaken in the Metro-East area.

He said ESIC will develop the land--including roads, utilities, water and sewer lines--then sell the lots to private builders for construction of homes, stores and business offices.

Ultimate plans call for the construction of single-family and apartment dwellings, schools, churches, restaurants, medical buildings, student residence halls, financial institutions, a regional shopping center and an industrial research center.

In the initial stages of development, 12.75 acres has been set aside for housing students. The housing would consist of apartment-style buildings with resident supervisors, and additional student housing planned for future phases.

ESIC hopes to begin laying sewer lines within 60 days, Morris said, adding that sewer and water lines have already been staked out on the land development. The first lots could be available to builders, he said, within 60 to 90 days, with the first homes open to the public within a year.

Initial development is split into two phases, with 72 acres of Phase I already zoned for 29 single-family residential lots, 38 acres zoned for multi-family to receive some 550 apartment units, and nine acres zoned for commercial use.

Phase II is planned to include 114 acres to accommodate 252 residential lots and 24 acres for 400 apartment units. How soon construction would start on Phase II, Morris said, will depend on the demand for homes constructed in the first phase.

Called a "Controlled" environment, "total" community, Morris told builders they would be allowed a free hand in designing construction, but that designs would be subject to review by ESIC architects.

"Nobody comes in and builds any kind of junk they want," Morris said.

ESIC owns only 214 of the 870 acres involved in the project, but the remaining acreage, developers said, is under a long term option for use in future phased development.

The ESIC corporation, which will make stock available for public sale, was formed several months ago to help develop land which Earl Wilson, developer of the Montclair Shopping Center in Edwardsville, began purchasing in small parcels in 1941.

Since the formation of ESIC,

Morris said, Wilson has sold his holdings in the project to ESIC because of ill health.

Developers of the project said they expect enrollment at the Edwardsville Campus to reach 20,000 by 1970, with a staff of 2,000.

Southern Captures Governor's Tournament Crown

SIU's baseball team won four games and lost none en route to the championship trophy in the Governor's Tournament held in Carbondale and Murphysboro over the weekend.

The Salukis defeated Arkansas State 3-1, Eastern Illinois 14-0, University of Illinois 7-6 and Western Illinois 5-0. Because of rain, which washed out Friday's games, the Salukis didn't play U. of I., Chicago Circle.

Saluki Golfers Finish Second In Notre Dame Quadrangular

SIU's golf team competed in a four team meet at Notre Dame University in South Bend Ind., Saturday and finished second to the host team.

The Salukis won two and lost one but Gary Robinson tied for the individual medalist award, Robinson won the individual medalist award a week ago in Champaign. Robinson shot a 146 for 36 holes to tie Notre Dame's Monty Kopa for the top award. Robinson was the only Saluki golfer to go undefeated in the meet. He won all three of his matches against opposition from Notre Dame, Dayton and Toledo.

Other Saluki scores in the meet were: Steve Heckel 152, Dave Wargo 155, Jack Downey

Volleyball Teams To Compete Here

SIU will be host for a Women's Volleyball Tournament on April 22. JoAnne Thorpe, assistant professor of physical education for women, is sponsor for SIU's three teams.

Ten schools have been invited to the invitational tourney. They include the University of Illinois, Western Illinois University, Eastern Illinois University and Illinois State University.

Arena to Be Available For Individual Practice

Tiger to Defend Title

NEW YORK (AP)—Nigeria's Dick Tiger has agreed to defend his light heavyweight boxing title against Jose Torres, the champion he dethroned, in a 15-rounder at Madison Square Garden May 16.

Southern opened the rna- ment with a 3-1 win over Arkansas State. The Salukis scored all their runs in the bottom of the fourth. Nick Solis and John Mason walked and scored on a double by Barry O' Sullivan. O'Sullivan, in turn, scored on a sacrifice fly by Dwight Clark. Skip Pitlock went the distance for Southern to notch his sixth win of the year without loss.

The Saluki bats then pounded Eastern Illinois pitching for 13 hits and 14 runs for the second victory. Mason had a two-run homer and a two-run double and Rich Hacker went three for three. Don Kirkland pitched a two-hit shutout—striking out seven and issuing only one walk—to nail down his sixth win of the year.

The Salukis had to rally for five runs in the bottom of the seventh to defeat the Illini Saturday night. Illinois led 6-2 going into the final frame but Illini starter Rich Binder had control problems. He walked Jack Finney and Randy Coker to start the seventh. Hacker singled in Finney and Binder walked Solis to load the bases before Mike Rodgers came in to hurl for the Illini.

Rodgerson walked Mason to force in Coker. O'Sullivan hit a slow roller down the third base line and Hacker made it home before the ball could get there. Solis scored on a wild pitch to tie the game and after Mason was out at home on an attempted squeeze play, Kirkland bounced a single to deep short to score O'Sullivan with the winning run.

Norm Harris was the winner for SIU. This was Harris's first win of the year. The Salukis played Western Illinois in the championship game Sunday night. The Leathernecks also were 3-0 going into Sunday's final.

Howard Nickason white-washed Western and the Salukis scored three runs in the fourth and single tallies in the fifth and sixth to ice the verdict. Jimmy Dykes had a two-run double for SIU in the fourth.

Don Kirkland was named the most valuable player in the tournament. Kirkland pitched a shut-out against Eastern and drove in the winning run against Illinois so that two of the Saluki wins can be attributed to him.

Nine Track Records Fall As Oklahoma Wins Triangular

Meet records fell in nine of 16 events Saturday as Oklahoma finished first in a triangular track meet in McAndrew Stadium. The Sooners scored 90 1/2 points to 61 for second place SIU and 37 1/2 for Kansas State.

Oklahoma, which was the second best indoor team of the 1967 collegiate season, was responsible for six of the new records. But the best race of the day was Saluki Ross MacKenzie's record performance in winning the 440 with a 47.0 time. MacKenzie out-sprinted Oklahoma's Bill Calhoun, the NCAA indoor titlist, for the quarter mile triumph.

Oscar Moore scored a double win by taking the mile run in 4:06.2, a meet record, and coming back to win the two-mile with a 9:09.1 clocking.

Southern's other record-breaking performance was in the high jump, where Mitch Livingston's 6'8 1/2" leap was good enough for second place. Oklahoma's Ron Tull also went 6'8 1/2", but won the event on the basis of fewer misses.

Grover Webb was the final Saluki winner with a 153'8 - 1/2" toss in the discus.

Oklahoma's Glen Long won the 100-yard dash in 9.8, a new record. Glen's twin brother Wayne finished second and Southern's John Quillen was fourth.

Bill Calhoun won the 220 in 21.7, with Oklahoma's George Aldredge second and MacKenzie third. Southern's Al Ackman finished second to Jim Shields of Oklahoma in the 880. Shields' time of 1:52.5 broke Ackman's old meet record of 1:53.

SIU's Jeff Duxbury was runner-up to Moore in the mile and Saluki Dave Chisholm took third behind Moore and Kansas State's Van Rose in the two-mile. Sooner Tom Melton won the high hurdles in 15.1 with SIU's Frank Whitman second.

Oklahoma's Pete Kron put the shot 49'11" for first place ahead of Southern's Ralph Galoway. The long jump was won by Oklahoma's Ken Scoggins at 23'6 1/2".

In the triple jump SIU's John Vernon finished a disappointing fourth.

DOUBLE WINNER—Oscar Moore set a new McAndrew Stadium track record in the mile run Saturday and came back to win the two-mile run. He is pictured at the end of his 4:06.2 mile.

SIU Girls Place in Gym Meet

Southern's Gail Daley captured third place in an international meet she almost wasn't invited to Saturday in Chicago. Miss Daley finished third in the all-around at the North American Gymnastics Championships, a meet to which she was invited but a week ago after an outstanding show in the collegiate championships.

The trampoline event was dominated by SIU's Judy Wills and Nancy Smith, who finished 1-2 as predicted. Both girls earned a spot on the United States World Games Team. They will compete for the world titles which they won as a synchronized pair last year. The World Games will be held this summer in London.

Salukis Defeat Indiana State, 3-1, 14-8 in Doubleheader

Southern's baseball team, fresh a sweep of the Governor's Tournament, kept their winning ways Monday with a double-header victory over Indiana State, 3-1 and 14-8 at the SIU field.

The Salukis' record now reads 22-3 for the season. The big blow in the first game was Barry O'Sullivan's three-run homer in the bottom of the sixth inning to wipe out a 1-0 Indiana State lead.

Up until that time, the Salukis could do nothing with the Sycamore righthander Dave Falda. Falda had limited SIU to two hits in the first five innings.

But after Gene Hanson had lined off the first, Nick Solis and John Mason singled to set up O'Sullivan's blast. The Saluki lefthander picked out a hanging curve from Falda and sent it over the left field screen.

Don Kirkland—who relieved

Skip Pitlock in the fourth inning—picked up the win. Kirkland is now 7-1 on the season.

Indiana State scored their run in the second inning when Steve Hollenbeck singled to right and Nick Pettryck scored from first when the ball went under Dykes glove.

THANK YOU, BILL—Oklahoma's defending NCAA quarter-mile champ, Bill Calhoun, was pictured Saturday congratulating Ross MacKenzie. MacKenzie won the 440 with a :47.0 time.

Tennis Team Captures First In Oklahoma City Invitational

The competition is getting tougher for SIU in tennis and the Salukis are getting tougher with it. Coach Dick LeFevre's crew won the championship of the Oklahoma City Invitational last weekend by taking all four matches and extending its undefeated string to seven.

The Salukis defeated North Texas, Missouri Valley kingpin in 1966, 4-3 Friday and came back to take a 6-1 decision over top-flight independent Oklahoma City, which was favored to take its own tourney crown. Saturday Southern downed Oklahoma 4-3 and Wichita State 7-0.

The number of points in each dual match were added together to produce tournament standings. SIU and Oklahoma were tied in total points at 21. The Salukis were awarded top spot by virtue of their own win over the Sooners. Oklahoma City and North Texas tied for third at 13 and Wichita was a distant last with two points.

Three Salukis went through their four singles matches without a loss. This same trio, Jose Villarete, Al Pena and Jay Maggione, haven't lost a singles match in seven outings this season.

Mike Sprengelmeyer won two of four and Johnny Yang's only loss was a 6-3, 6-3 decision to Dick Gilkey of Oklahoma. Yang's season record is 6-1 and Sprengelmeyer's 5-2.

The victory over Wichita was the third time this season the Salukis have shut out an opponent.

The Salukis will have two weeks to prepare for a big weekend at Notre Dame, when they will meet Illinois, Northern Illinois and Notre Dame April 28 and 29.

The match with Illinois will be Southern's second of the season. The Salukis defeated the Illini 7-1 earlier in the season.
