Council ok's street party cover funds

A $750 contingency fund to provide for initial insurance costs and to compensate South Illinois Avenue service station owners for lost business during the coming street parties was authorized by the Carbondale City Council Tuesday night.

Steve Hoffmann, local liquor dealer and a spokesman for the South Illinois Avenue task force, told the council the contingency fund is needed to pay insurance costs, which he said would add up to $50 per night.

Two service station owners whose businesses will be closed by the celebration will be paid about $50 each for every night the street is closed.

Hoffmann said about 30 applications for activities and concessions have been received by the task force thus far, and "We expect that there will be at least 30 concessions.

A final schedule of activities for the first of six possible weekend celebrations will be presented to acting City Manager Bob Schweiger Wednesday. The activities are scheduled to begin at 5 p.m. on Friday and Saturday and continue to 3 a.m.

The task force will collect 25 per cent of the net profit from the sale of beverages from vehicles and a $5 registration fee from all concessions in order to defray the costs of insurance and compensation.

In other action, the council designated April 30 as "Abe" Martin Day in Carbondale in honor of the former SIU athletic official and coach.

IPIRG study shows 40 per cent difference in drug store prices

By Sue Mikes
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A survey conducted by the Illinois Public Interest Research Group (IPIRG) of Carbondale area drug stores showed a 39.7 per cent price difference between the "best buy" and the "worst buy" on the prices of 18 items surveyed. April 8-12.

John Fazord, manager of Hewitt's Drug Store, the most expensive store listed, said he did not consider the survey.

"In the first place, I think the girl who took down my prices was mad at us because of a disagreement we had. I don't think they (IPIRG) even used the correct price. Their methods were a little subversive, so it's hard to tell," Fazord said.

Fazord said he did not think his store and Penney's could be justly compared since the list leaders that Penney's uses are nationally advertised brands, such as those used in the survey.

"We have our own low cost brands, and in the end it think it equals out," he said.

The list leaders that Fazord was speaking about are the advertised items used to get people in the store—those items usually take a loss.

Bob Peele, IPIRG representative, said all the items surveyed were national brands. "Originally, all items were taken from the Phase II top selling items on the base price list. Then we extracted the 18 most frequently purchased items that were common to all the stores surveyed," he explained.

Peele said that none of the stores were contacted in advance that a survey would be taken. Fazord had suggested that some of the stores surveyed may have been aware that a survey was going to be taken and thus lowered their prices.

"We based the best price list totally on the prices of the 18 items surveyed," Peele added. The IPIRG "best boys" in order are: Penney's, drug department; Mohr Value, drug department; Sav-Mart, drug department; Western Retail; University Drugs, Campus Plaza and University Drugs, South Illinois; Atwood Drugs; Murdade Walgreen's; Hewitt's.

Fazord charged that IPIRG was surveying a field that doesn't concern them or really matter. Peele explained that the purpose of the survey was to provide information concerning purchases in various fields to enable students to make more knowledgeable purchases.

The IPIRG survey also included 16 other items. However, all those items were not common to all the stores surveyed.

"We published the information anyway for the students' general information, but no comparison of prices was done with those items," he said.

Passing time

When the good weather comes, so do the fair weather diversions. For Frank Zamakis and Bill Studie a canoe trip on Campus Lake passes some time on a pleasant spring day. The two natives of Arlington Heights may find Wednesday's weather less favorable, however, with predictions of rain and cooler temperatures. (Photo by John Lopinto)

Derge, governance heads agree to meet

By Daryl Stephenson
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The heads of three campus governmental units along with David Kenney, president of the University Senate, agreed to hold a meeting with President David R. Derge to discuss the fate of the campus governance system and the "decline of campus morale." Anthony Catanese, vice-president of the Student Government, said the meeting will be held at 3 p.m. Tuesday at the U-5enate building.

The proposal to meet Derge came from Catanese, who said "the current morale on this campus is lower than at any point since the spring of 1970. Either President Derge doesn't know it or doesn't acknowledge it. The various governmental units have a moral responsibility to make him (Derge) aware of this, because we all have a vested interest in making this University move ahead."

Following the decision, Kenny suggested that each constituent body be prepared to discuss specific matters dealing directly with their respective areas.

During the meeting, the governmental heads expressed concern that the Campus Governance System is in jeopardy.

"Since President Derge has come into office," Hester said, "our Nonacademic Employees Council has tended to appeal directly to him rather than the U-Senate." This, he said, is due to considerable sentiment within the council that dealing with the president is quicker and more efficient than dealing with the U-Senate.

Jensen, in describing the Graduate Student Council's recent second thoughts concerning campus governance, attributed much of the disillusionment within the council to what he describes as Derge's recent implication that the role of the various constituent bodies would be advisory rather than legislative.

Also, Jensen criticized Derge for saying that he would accept advice from any campus council outside the U-Senate. "I think he's attempting to atomize the campus when he says something like this," Jensen said.

Shelby said, "I'm disturbed by the number of faculty who are questioning the governance system. Many of them want the Graduate Council to withdraw from the U-Senate and establish a one-to-one relationship with the president."

"However," Shelby said, "I don't think the president is any more critical to the problem than the faculty is. I think Derge is hoping the constituent bodies will cool off this thing."

Another factor working against the U-Senate, said Shelby, is the resentment of many people in various campus governments of being linked with different groups in one governmental system. "Many of them oppose the U-Senate as a matter of principle," Shelby said.

Also discussed at the meeting was the possibility of the U-Senate holding its own elections for senators. Currently, there is no provision in the U-Senate bylaws for designating when elections of senators would be elected. Catanese said he had mixed feelings about the U-Senate having its own elections because of what he termed "logistical problems."

Jensen said that some GSC members would object, "because they would not have enough control over the senators."

Kenney said he felt participation by the constituent bodies in the U-Senate election process was a way of increasing awareness of the U-Senate's potential.
Police book Tennessee man on rape charges

A Tennessee man was arrested Monday night in Carbondale and charged with the early evening rape of an SIU coed south of the city.

Larry Gene Mulliken, 20. Jacksonville, Tenn., was taken into custody at about 7:35 p.m. by city and University police in the 300 block of West Elm Street.

He was taken to Jackson County Jail in Murphysboro and charged Tuesday in circuit court with rape.

The woman, whom Jackson County Sheriff John Hoffman said is a student, told police she was driving south of Carbondale when she stopped to pick up a hitchiker.

The man forced her to stop her car on a country road, where the rape occurred.

The woman told police her car later became hung up in a muddy field and a local farmer pulled it out. She and the man returned to Carbondale, where he left the car.

College changes system: first time in 50 years

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—The College Park Senate has approved the first major overhaul of the academic system at the University of Maryland in 50 years.

Under the plan proposed by Chancellor Charles E. Bishop, 10 schools and colleges, 56 departments and numerous boards and institutes would be reorganized into five broad divisions.

Executive candidates quit race

By Randy Thomas
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Tom Johnson, a candidate for Student Body President, announced Tuesday he and his running-mate, Jon Takebara, are quitting the race in favor of Jon Taylor on the basis of the major issues. Takebara said they will be withdrawing from the executive race. Ms. Takebara said she and Johnson will not be withdrawing from student politics at UIU.

"The question discussed when the committee meets at campaign time is unity," said Johnson. "By remaining in the race all we would have done is split the vote. For this reason we are unconditionally giving our moral and active support to Taylor and the Unity Party."

Johnson said he and Taylor would have drawn support from students with similar viewpoints. He said he hopes the move will unify that particular portion of the student body.

"Since we are in agreement on all of the major issues, it is actually irrelevant who wins," he said. The Unity party is well organized with plenty of funds to handle the campaign.

Johnson said he and Ms. Takebara had been funding their campaign out of their own pockets.

Two issues not included on Taylor's original platform apparently will be added in. Johnson said they include compulsory teacher and course evaluation and health foods to be served in dormitories and the Student Center cafeterias.

"Takebara had been funding committee meetings at campaign time," he said. "Ms. Takebara said she and Johnson will not be withdrawing from student politics at UIU."

Faculty Council defeats proposal to establish judicial review board

By Richard Leon,
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Faculty Council Tuesday defeated, with suggestions for change, a proposal which would have established a judicial review board for grievances.

"The vote on the proposal without suggestions was defeated 13-13 with one abstention. Three suggestions were made: 1) validation of a complaint be made by the judicial review board and that the hearing of a complaint be done by an ad hoc grievance panel, 2) validation be based on University statutes or the code of faculty ethics and 3) parties of a grievance be allowed to challenge the members of any hearing panel.

The proposal, along with the suggestions, will be sent to the faculty status and welfare joint standing committee for further action.

Approval was granted to a proposal for a code of ethics based on an American Association of University Professors (AAUP) model developed in 1980. The code outlines a faculty member's responsibility to truth and scholarly competence, encourages academic freedom, lists his obligations to other scholars, states his obligations to the university and allows him to take action as a private citizen.

The AAUP statement was amended to include that nothing in the code would limit a person's constitutional rights. An amendment to include the responsibilities of academic freedom to the code was defeated 16-10 with four abstentions. The code will now be sent to President David R. Derge.

Approval was also given to four recommendations made by JoAnne Thorpe, representative to the Affirmative Action Task Force (AATF). Ms. Thorpe recommended that 1) the AATF be continued until its goals are achieved; 2) the work of a dean's committee designed to establish an affirmative action program for the faculty be coordinated with the AATF to prevent duplication of efforts; 3) a committee of faculty women nominated by the council be designated as the compliance officer fully responsible for receiving faculty women's complaints; and 4) faculty complaints be reviewed through standard grievance procedures approved last week.

The recommendations will be sent to Derge.

New York City sets new homicide record in 1971

NEW YORK (AP)—There were 1,825 homicide victims in New York City in 1971, a new high, says Chief Medical Examiner Dr. Milton H. H. H. Derge. In December a record 172 persons were slain in the city.
Jobs unavailable

"Why not go into education so you'll have something to fall back on? There's always a need for more teachers." This used to be a mother's last words of advice to a college student undecided on a major.

This advice no longer holds true. Nearly 100,000 of the 200,000 elementary and high school teachers in 1972 could not find different jobs. In Evanston, Ill., alone there were 25 applicants last year for every position.

The decrease in education job availability has been attributed to a variety of things: foremost among them has been the record high birth rate, the end of the World War II baby boom, and a lack of funding for educational programs.

As a personnel director for schools in Skokie said recently, "A year ago (1970) we added 45 people to the staff. This year we didn't add anybody."

There is still a demand for teachers in some areas. Special education instructors for speech therapy, remedial reading, and programs for disturbed children are in great demand. Also needed are teachers in vocational education, music, women's physical education and preschool programs.

There is some light at the end of the tunnel for education majors and people holding a "useless" teaching certificate. For many, the post war babies will be sending their children to school. And the possibility of funding private schools with state or federal money will bring more teaching positions into the job market.

Letters to the editor

Reader wants apology to Allen

To the Daily Egyptian:

The Daily Egyptian article of Friday April 14, 1972, entitled 'Tenure not a ticket for lawlessness' which was ghost-written for the Daily Egyptian by the New York Times and which was accompanied by an editor's note implying that it had something to do with Doug Allen's tenure case is an example of guilt by an unrelated analogy and I feel is highly indicative of the psychological battle being waged by the School of Journalism against Allen.

The article, lifted from the New York Times and dropped on Carbondale apparently was supposed to shine some light on Allen's case. It did. I proved that Allen is the victim of an out all purging in which the student newspaper staff is rashly encouraging.

The New York Times article was about Bruce Franklin, also a victim of academic purgatory, but whose case does not form a parallel with Doug Allen's for the following reasons: (1) at no time has Allen encouraged disruption, (2) at no time has Allen encouraged illegal acts, (3) at no time has Allen encouraged 'revolutionary counterviolence,' and (4) Allen is not married so he does not even have anybody to carry his rifle. As a matter of fact, Allen has woke people up at 4 a.m. more than once to try to persuade them to call off marches and demonstrations where there was a chance of violence.

I feel that the academic community, and especially the Daily Egyptian, owe Doug Allen a warm apology for their neglect of his efforts to prevent another round of warfare in Carbondale which at this time remains imminent.

Student control

Recently, the University Senate voted to keep Expo rather than send it to the School of Journalism. Maybe this means there will be more student control of the senate and a newspaper to report all the foolishness that would accompany it.

Stand defeated

To the Daily Egyptian:

In Mr. Pawlowski's response to my earlier letter I noted some gross errors which I feel need corrected. His first error was to quote me out of context. My statement was, "It appears to me that these vets are more interested in making people aware that they are veterans than leading an opposition to the war."

Why did Mr. Pawlowski leave off "than an opposition to the war?" Is the truth hurting?

Thirdly, you respect (thank you) the right for me to live my life as I see fit. You then turn around and ask me what I am doing to mobilize my opposition to the war: are you trying to increase your membership in the VVAW to six? Not one place in my article did I deny anyone the right to speak out against the war: all I said was I did not feel anyone is justified in condemning the "silent vet.

Lastly, Mr. Pawlowski asks where are the "sunshine patriots" when their country needs them. I, like many others, volunteered when my country asked for me. I haven't noted the country asking for VVAW, though. Are you ready for another personal bias? As far as I am concerned, "winter soldiers" can freeze their balls off.

"Let's not rush things"
End visitation restrictions

To the Daily Egyptian:

The problem these families are facing with concerns Housing Business Service's decision to close the two trailers, which had been left open for residence of approximately 50 families with children. According to George Mace, Special Assistant to President Derge, the two trailers were to be closed due to the fact that the Housing Business Service has a misplaced sense of priorities.

To the Daily Egyptian:

President Johnson's concern about the fate of Thompson Point developed a plan to allow 24 hour visitation. The proposal was agreed to unanimously by the governing board at the university. President Johnson also met with the fellows and resident council, and the Area Environmentalists who are working to save the area. President Johnson also Travelstead his proposal to the students and visited with the Housing administrators to find a way to keep the housing facilities open for their consent.

Traffic safety experiment 'crashes'

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The federal government's $4-million gamble in traffic safety smashed into a concrete barrier Tuesday, damaging the bumper area of the experimental auto and one of three life-size dummies.

An air bag designed to protect the occupants failed to inflate as fast as expected.

The front half of a conventional car was wracked accordion style in a similar test earlier.

After watching from a desert testing site, Transportation secretary John Volpe told 22 auto manufacturing representatives and several hundred others that the results of experiments could create sweeping auto-design changes in the not too distant future.

The Department of Transportation hopes to produce a vehicle which will allow passengers to walk away from serious accidents with only minor injuries.

Rambling along a ground-mounted monorail at 50 miles an hour, the experimental vehicle smashed into the barrier with its three life-sized dummies unsecured by seat belts.

An air bag failed to inflate in three-quarters of a second as expected and the dummies were thrown into the windshield, shattering it. The dummy on the passenger side of the front seat presumably would have been seriously injured or killed.

Scientists with Dynamic Sciences, a testing company which conducted the tests, said the simulated accident was equal to a head-on collision between two cars at 10 miles an hour.

They said they should know within two weeks what injuries would have been suffered had the occupants been human. The dummies were equipped with sensors designed to duplicate human organs.

$250,000 bond set for 'drifter' hijacker

CHICAGO (AP) — A drifter accused of seizing a jetliner and demanding a half million dollars in ransom on a flight to the Bahamas was charged Tuesday by a federal grand jury with air piracy and interfering with a flight crew.

William B. Greene, III, whose last job was as a motion picture film editor in Hollywood, appeared earlier before a U.S. magistrate who set bond at $250,000 and appointed a federal defender.

Greene, 30, was arrested Monday by the FBI less than an hour after Delta Air Lines Flight 92, en route from Miami to Chicago with a stop at West Palm Beach, Fla., landed at O'Hare International Airport.

The pilot, Carl Lettingt, 45, of Atlanta, cleared the jumble of the hijacker attempt about a third of the way to Chicago when stewardess Julie O'Neal gave him a note written by the hijacker.

Spring quarter enrollment at SIU shows decrease since last year

By Jan Tranchita
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Spring quarter enrollment at SIU is down slightly more than six per cent when compared to the same term a year ago.

Loren B. Jung, director of institutional research, said decrease in enrollment figures may be due to a number of reasons.

"Some kids may not have been employed last summer and consequently ran out of money for spring quarter," Jung said.

Jung speculates that this and the need for students to find summer jobs or make money for school are reasons why so many students leave school in spring.

"This decrease has come in the area of continuing students," he said. Transfer student, new student and graduate enrollment has stayed about the same as expected, he said.

At present there are 20,347 enrolled students, 140 fewer than last year.

Spring, however, is the biggest quarter for drops in enrollment.

Jung said. Fall shows large enrollment, winter drops a few students and the majority leave school in the spring, he said.

Most of the students that withdraw from school are freshmen and sophomores. "These students don't have the commitment that juniors and seniors feel about finishing school," he said.

Spring enrollment for freshmen is down by 927 from last year. Sophomores dropped by 946.

Jung said his office predicts that if the total enrollment of students does not stabilize with the beginning of fall quarter, it will most likely drop off again. This drop will be seen in the freshman and sophomore classes.

Actually, Jung said, when there is a drop of enrollment for one particular year, the difference is not made up for four years. "Since we base our studies on a year-to-year basis, a small freshman class one year will show a drop in enrollment of sophomores the next year, and juniors in the year after that," he said.

Jung said that SIU-Edwardsville is also having the same problem of a drop in enrollment. However, it is not as pronounced as a drop as the one in Carbondale.

Daily Egyptian, April 19, 1972, Page 7
This survey is intended to provide consumers with information concerning retail prices of frequently purchased items in the area of drug and department stores. Its items were surveyed on April 8-12 in the Carbondale area. Nine drug and department stores were evaluated in terms of the 18 best selling items common to all stores (List A) and 19 items common to most (List B). Items were originally distilled from the fifty top items in the base price list required by Phase II.

Criteria for "Best Buy" rested solely on the total price of the eighteen items common to all stores (List A). A percentage index is also used to show the percent difference between the least expensive store and the other stores. For example, there is a 39.7% difference in the price for the items sampled in (List A) between Penny's (the least expensive) and Hewitt's (the most expensive). The other nineteen items (List B) on the following page are presented merely for your convenience and information. The price of these 19 items did not reflect in any way in the making of our "Best Buy" list.

Carbondale relies on University as sole industry, President says

By Chuck Matcheart
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

President David R. Derge told a small group of area residents Monday night that Carbondale should be more than a one industry community which relies on the University as its sole industry.

Derge, who spoke at the last of a series of community-University relationship-oriented meetings, said, "It would please me if Carbondale would break away from the one industry situation and into one of diverse industries of which the University is a part."

Derge told the group that he was addressing them as a new citizen of Carbondale who was now paying his taxes and not as the voice of the University.

He met with group in the Carbondale Township Relief Officer on 217 E. Main.

The community needs more industries, Derge said, to avoid being economically tied to the University. When the University is in a financial state of well-being the community prospers, he said, and suffers when the University is in a tight financial condition.

"We are in effect a one industry town," Derge said, "which means the University is the same the community in a particular way.

Derge said the community should take the initiative to seek out more industries and that the University would try to help in what ways it could.

When later asked how he thought the University facilities might assist in getting new industries, Derge answered, saying the University has a "great array of talent" to assist the community once it has decided on a course of action to take.

Another member of the audience then asked if the talent is available to the community, and Derge responded, "Of course it is."

Derge went on to say, "It is not the main job of the University to give marching orders to Carbondale, but for the town to decide what it wants and for us to provide the facilities."

Derge said the University's role with the community should be one of Climbing group offers slide show

All interested people are invited to attend the program. A regular business meeting at 6:30 p.m. will precede the program.

The type of activities Miss Davis pointed to were the old park bands consisting of community members and perhaps exhibits of some sort. "It seems to me certain areas could be developed for activities such as these," Miss Davis said.

CFUT urges election of its members to GSC

By Pat Nusman

Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Carbondale Federation of University Teachers (CFUT) in a press release Monday urged graduate faculty members to nominate and elect members of the union to sit on the Graduate Council.

"The Federation feels that the election of members of the union is essential to move the graduate faculty toward self-governance in academic matters pertaining to graduate education," the release said.

"The CFUT, it is committed to quality graduate education and to full participation of students and faculty in setting standards of graduate education, as well as the widest possible participation of all faculty members in graduate education."

"The role of the Graduate Council, the release said, in determining the goals of graduate education must be strengthened to the point where priorities in graduate education will come under its jurisdiction."

"In anticipation of a contract covering conditions of employment and self-governance, the election of union members will further that end."

Molina Spanish Dance Company to perform Convo flamenco show

By Sue Milles
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Jose Molina Bailes Españoles dance company, will bring a little Spanish flare to the Arena at 1 p.m. Thursday as he and his company perform their classical and flamenco song-dance show.

The performance will consist of songs and dances from all of the Spanish provinces, some operas, ballets and Spanish gypsy music. Born in Madrid, Jose Molina, started to dance at the age of three. Later Molina attended daily classes in flamenco and classics dance simultaneously for a period of four years. Despite his youth, Molina auditioned for the role of second dancer in the famed Soledad Miralles dance company at the age of 14. After presenting three minutes of his audition he was interrupted by Senora Miralles, who proclaimed Molina to be Spain’s youngest and most promising flamenco dancer of the day—she hired him on the spot. He then toured all of Spain with Soledad Miralles and eventually became a first dancer. Soon he was known in his country as an artist who had mastered all aspects of the Spanish dance. When he was 17 he enrolled this reputation by a tour throughout Europe. Following that he came to the United States where he appeared on the Steve Allen Show. Jose Greco caught the show and immediately invited Molina to join his company as a first dancer. Molina remained with Greco for five years.

Some Washington businessmen sponsored Molina in the formation of his own company following his five year stint with Greco. The Jose Molina Bailes Españoles Company, in their annual tours of North America, has become a popular Spanish dance attraction.

Critics have called the company “exciting, spectacular, dazzling and talented.” The Prima Ballerina of the company, Antonia Martinez, joined the Molina company shortly after her United States debut, in 1964 at the New York World’s Fair. She is an accomplished Spanish clasico and flamenco dancer. She was trained by some of Spain’s finest dance teachers including “Antonio” and Alberto Lora.

Complaining student enters not guilty plea

An SIU student pleaded not guilty to charges of public consumption of alcohol and resisting arrest in Carbondale city court Monday.

A trial date of May 8 was set for Howard Blair, 21, Carbondale, arrested April 9 after an incident in front of Merlins in downtown Carbondale.

Blair charged the arresting officers with brutality and said last week he would file a formal complaint with the Board of Police and Fire Commissioners.

A spokesman for the board said Tuesday morning that no letter from Blair had yet been received. The board did not consider the matter at its Monday meeting.

Blair said Tuesday a friend mailed the complaint to the board last Wednesday. Informed that the board had not received his complaint, Blair said he would deliver it personally later Tuesday.

Search provision action expected

A provision dealing with searches and seizures is expected to be discussed and voted on when the Community Conduct Code Committee meets at 3 p.m. Wednesday at the University Senate conference room.

Last week Stephen Washy, committee chairman, read the search provision for the east campus dorms. Washy indicated it could be possible to modify the provision for use in the code.

The committee also will discuss the possibility of allowing temporary sanctions, what to do about non-members of the University who represent a danger to the community and the timetable for procedures.

Bates Bros. win latest auto rally

The Bates brothers won last Sunday's "Bee V.U." auto rally sponsored by the Grand Touring Auto Club.

Driver Rob and navigator John explored the time, speed and distance rally in a MGDBT. Ken and Wayne Patrick finished in second place in a Nova while driver Dennis Adamczyck and navigator Jeffrey Simon placed third in a TI-41.

An Autocross is scheduled for 12 p.m. Sunday starting in the SIU parking lot.

Next in line were the Pacific Eight (4), Big Ten (5), Eastern Intercollegiate Gymnastics League (3) and the Big Eight (4). Holding the bottom end were college division entrants (3) and independents (1). The Southern Intercollegiate Gymnastics League and Pacific Coast League qualified no finalists. If 1972-73 restrictions had ruled over the recent NCAA meet, four team finalists would have been disqualified.

Beginning next spring, all eight finalists must score at least 200 points during qualifying meets. This stimulation eliminates all automatic bids.

This year, Michigan, Arizona, State, Indiana State and Minnesota would have displaced Washington, the Air Force, Georgia Southern and Long Beach State.

"The coaches feel like every team in the nationals is capable of winning," said Moede. "And it hasn't always been that way. In time, we may raise the qualifying mark even higher." Next year's nationals will be April 2-7 at the University of Oregon. The 1974 NCAA meet will bounce back east to Penn State.

Eight (4) States-Fullerton (3) and Indiana (3) would qualify for play Wednesday April 28.

I-I also decided in the ninth — from win over Flat River. That game was run homers by Wilbens and Koehn.

We try to win every ballgame," Jones said. "But our preparation is for the conference season and hopefully a District (Four) playoff berth.

It meant a lot to this club if Raibley or Caufeti could come off the bench, stay relaxed, and get a key hit," Southpaw swinger Raibley boosted his season mark to 3-1 after 3-3 in Sunday's first of two games against MacMurray College.

Powerfully-built Caufeti enjoyed the second game, responding with 2-3 plus a grand slam homer.

Just two weeks ago, both catchers were struggling at bat. Now hitting .240, Caufeti hovered around .300 for three weeks. And Raibley seemed unable to get past .250.

Their composite before today's game shows a .270 batting mark with two homeruns, no triples, five doubles and 12 RBIs. Caufeti is 14-57; Raibley 9-28.

Lefty Tony Jones pitched "toughly," said Logan. "He pitched three innings at Illinois last Tuesday when Baston fanned out and back another Saturday's rainout with St. Louis University pitching today's game. He's been scheduled for Sunday against MacMurray.

"We know they have a good team," said Logan. "But the methods utilized in each game to assure victory is like choosing between colors in the rainbow.

Tuesday was "pitching day" as three Saluki hurlers allowed only four hits while SIU edged John A. Logan College, 2-1.

The win left the diamondmen with a 5-1 season record to be updated Saturday when SIU travels to Danville Junior College for a noon doubleheader.

The issue with John A. Logan was not settled until second baseman Niles Pontius killed a two-out and single just inside of the right-field stripe. A slight bobbling by the Logan right fielder enabled SIU catcher Rob Knob to score all the way from first base with the decisive run.

Coach Bob Parchman of the winners used two pitchers in the game — Kevin O'Boyle and Robin Derry — before Wayne Venckus relieved in the seventh frame to record the victory.

Logan College got on the board in the second inning. The visitors took advantage of O'Boyle's brief control problems after two basers on balls preceded a base hit by the second baseman. Score Logan's lone tally of the contest.

In the next inning it was the Salukis' turn to hit. Kevin O'Boyle led off with a single and scored after succeeding one-baggers from shortstop Mike Wilbens and centerfielder Steve Arbuli.

That was the way it stood — 1-1 — until the clincher by Pontius in the ninth.

Saturday O'Boyle gave up a run on two hits back to back in the eighth. Derry and Venckus turned in strong relief performances, allowing one single and no baserunners.

Tuesday's affair marked a sharp contrast to last Thursday's 10-9 slugfest win over Flat River. That game was also decided in the ninth — from three-run single by Wilbens and Koehn.

The win over Logan produced a total of 12 hits from both sides, all singles. The Salukis will get them anyway they can and they'll try again at Danville Saturday.

itn hopes platooning 'catches' SIU a title

By Mike Klein Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Platooning won the New York Mets a World Series three seasons back so perhaps it could be for another World Series hopeful.

Richard "Ich" Jones, No. 2 last year and right-handed hitter, is "told" Jones he'll take the Salukis against Washington University at 3 p.m. Wednesday on the road.

Last season, Jones rarely switched catchers Bob Sedlik and Caufeti "Moose" started all but one College World Series game but still batted just .380 all year.

"Catching is such a hazardous job, I'd hate to get caught in the same position we did a year ago," Jones said.

Of course, Larry did a phenomenal job (led all Series hitters with .321), that shows what a tremendous competitor he is. But many teams have been thrown in the same spot and gotten crucified.

Other than avoiding crucifixion, Jones remains confident pinch hitting can only be stronger with Caufeti and Raibley both prepared.

"We try to win every ballgame," Jones said. "But our preparation is for the conference season and hopefully a District (Four) playoff berth.

I'll mean a lot to this club if Raibley or Caufeti could come off the bench, stay relaxed, and get a key hit." Southpaw swinger Raibley boosted his season mark to 3-1 after 3-3 in Sunday's first of two games against MacMurray College.

Happy ending

Here's one fish tale that had a happy ending — for the fish. Little Eric Lillard, who visited SIU with the MacMurray baseball team last weekend, found this large carp stranded in a rain-swollen stream near the Saluki diamond. The young lad gave the fish a helping hand and released it in the Lake-On-Campus. (Photo by Jay Needelman)

Over 47,000 watch Cubs spoil Pirates opener

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Billy Williams drilled a three-run homer and scored four times Sunday to help the Chicago Cubs, trailing Pittsburgh 6-4 in the second inning, to a 9-5 win over the Pirates' home opener.

Williams lined a two-out homer in the third inning after Randy Hundley flied out and Bill Pappas was hit by a pitch. Bob Moore pinch.

The Cubs had moved to within one run on their third on Roberto Clemente's second single and a triple by Manny Sanguillen.

But Clemente gave the Cubs breathing room with a two-run homer in the seventh inning after Hundley singled. Clemente also drove in the Cubs' final run in the ninth inning — with a sacrifice fly.

Washington's team batting mark is .243. Top average hitters are leftfielder Dick O'Connell and shortstop John Young (.307).

They'll face two pitchers who have opposite ends of the luck spectrum. Randall's lone victory leaves him three wins, two losses since last season spring.

Known as a control artist, Randall's way off last year's pace when he walked just 22 and fanned 48 in 302 innings. Through 39 innings this year, he has walked 45 and allowed only one easier strike out pace with 18.

But Randall was victimized by miserable weather. He'd pitch three innings at Illinois last Tuesday when a 40 mph south wind had his fastball down, and 10-10 Saturday's rainout with St. Louis University pitching today's game. He'd been scheduled for Sunday against MacMurray.

Fischer apparently shook off arm problems that threatened his career. He won seven and lost two last year but compiled a lofty 4.10 ERA.

Last fall, Fischer threw "worse than ever before," according to Jones. But when the pitches began to count, he wasn't the same old Fischer.

The new Fischer ranks among the nation's top 12 pitchers in earned-run average and he's suddenly become a stopper.

"I think in March, Jim got it into his mind that he'd try for a real starting job," said Jones. "If he still felt flat on his face, he knew the arm was done.

There'd been talk of moving Fischer to the outfield or infield where he likely would become a little-used reserve. But after Fischer won twice down south and came home with a 2.00 ERA, the decision was made.

SHORTSTOPS: Joe Wallis (294) and Danny Thomas (386) are seesawing for the team batting lead. Thomas brings a 17-game hitting streak into today's game.

Team homeleader Dan Rayson (6) hasn't connected since he hit a grand slam against Memphis State nine games ago. He has home run and second but he hasn't homered since the spring trip.

SIU golfers to try again

After an unsuccessful attempt at teeing off last weekend, Southern Illinois' golfers are giving a shot at the Illinois State Invitational at Bloomington.

The weekend downpour cancelled a scheduled triangular between the Salukis, Illinois State and Murray State.

This Saturday's invitational between 14 Midwest schools will feature a three-hole "shotgun" tourney. According to SIU golf coach Lynn Holder, the shotgun method will place each of the participants to tee off simultaneously at different holes.

Hawks lose again

CHICAGO (AP) — Rod Gilbert's second goal of the game, a tie-breaking shot at 12:36 of the third period, lifted the New York Rangers to a 5-3 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks Tuesday night and a 4-0 lead in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semifinal series.

J-V slides by tough Logan, 2-1
