Alliance, Stand parties dominate

Each party wins 13 seats, Phoenix Party gets 9 seats

By Susan Curtis
Staff Writer

The Alliance and Stand parties claimed 13 senate seats each and the Phoenix Party claimed nine in Wednesday's election.

Mathis said 2,003 students voted in the election.

The mass transit referendum passed 1,296 to 606 and the USO name change passed 1,137 to 752.

The referendum for multiple polling places passed 1,252 to 600. "I think it (the vote) was that high because people weren't aware of the possibilities of fraud" as there has been in the past with multiple polling places, Mathis said.

Mickey Mouse was the only write-in candidate with enough votes to claim a senate seat, but Undergraduate Student Organization election commissioner Damon Mathis said the commission voted not to seat him.

Mickey, with 73 votes, will be considered for an honorary seat, Mathis said. "We're expecting a complaint from Walt Disney Studios," he said.

Darrell Johnson, who ran uncontested, will be student trustee.

Contras consider proposal

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Defense Minister Humberto Ortega presented a new Sandinista proposal Sunday as the U.S.-backed Contra rebels and the Nicaraguan government resumed high-level talks on ending the seven-year civil war.

The two sides discussed the proposal at the start of their second full day of talks. The Contra leaders greeted the proposal warily but did not immediately reject it.

"There are new elements in the proposal that didn't exist before," Contra leader Pedro Joaquin Chamorro said. "Some are very dangerous steps that could potentially affect this process and begin the war once again."

The Contras said the proposal did not mention democratic reform in the country and failed to address issues such as the separation of the Nicaraguan military from the ruling Sandinista Front.

"The Sandinista proposal does not lead to peace as we understand it and confirms our fears that this process could be taken back to December when it began," Adolfo Calero, also a Contra leader, said.

But the Contras did not reject the proposal presented by Humberto Ortega, the brother of President Daniel Ortega and head of the government delegation to the peace talks.

"We have not rejected the proposal because we are still

Group refuses to pay taxes

Tax resisters against funding of foreign policy

By John Mohler
Staff Writer

Four women walked among the long tax-day line of cars outside the post office, talking to drivers on Route 13 and handing out fliers.

One of them talked to people walking into the office. She looked the picture of a kindly grandmother.

She and two others in the area comprise the Southern Illinois Community of War Tax Resisters, a group that refuses to pay federal taxes in protest of U.S. foreign policy.

"I believe in taxation, but not war," Morton said, adding that she does pay state taxes.

Morton said too much money is spent on the U.S. military and supporting insurgencies in countries like El Salvador, Nicaragua, Angola and Mozambique.

Morton said she has not paid federal taxes in about seven years, despite several warnings from the Internal Revenue Service that she do so.

Although the IRS has refrained from seizing Morton's property, it began taking part of her wages in December, Morton said. The agency took the same action in 1983, when they garnished Morton's earnings for taxes owed in 1980 and 1981, she said.

Morton said she still fears her valuables may be taken and auctioned, and said that she knows of tax resisters who lost their houses.

"I always get scared when I receive these notices," Morton said. "They (the IRS) are authorized to take any of my belongings."

She said the IRS first threatened "enforcement" action in letters she received in 1984. Morton said she responded with her own letters, which explain her views on federal military spending.

"I never get a response from the IRS," Morton said. "I'm sure they just throw them away."

Morton did not know the number of tax resisters in the United States, but she said the movement is growing.

Organizations exist that assist resisters in paying penalties and give out information about tax resistance, Morton said. The groups also encourage tax resisters to correspond with each other.

Morton said she has written Democratic Sens. Paul Simon and Alan Dixon and Rep. Ken Gray, D-West Frankfurt, urging them to establish a "peace tax fund." Money in the fund would support social programs such as soup kitchens and public housing, Morton said.

Morton said that Simon wrote her a letter in which he said he agreed with her proposal.

Local resisters have been pooling their tax money in an account and donating the interest to development projects in countries like the Philippines and India, Morton said.

Hijackers extend deadline

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI) — Hijackers holding 31 hostages aboard a Kuwait Airways jumbo jet backed away from a refueling deadline and agreed Sunday to give Algerian negotiators more time to mediate an end to one of the longest hijackings on record.

The 13th day of the ordeal began at Algiers' Houari Boumediene Airport when the gunmen demanded 12,000 liters of jet fuel. "Perhaps this could be delivered by 5 a. m.," a spokesman for the hijack team told the control tower.

The jet on the palm-lined runway was not refueled and a short time before the deadline expired an Algerian mediator climbed up the plane steps for yet another negotiating session with the terrorists. The hijackers made a brief but conciliatory statement.

"In the name of Allah, the compassionate and merciful, a declaration from the plane of martyrdom," the hijackers said.

"After the end of the period we set to deliver fuel to the plane and to leave the soil of Algeria, and at the request of our Algerian brothers, we declare that we agreed to extend the deadline of the departure, to give the Algerian brothers more room to continue their goodwill efforts," they said.

The hijackers did not set a new deadline.

The tone of the message contrasted sharply with the tough language the terrorists used during a news conference at the plane's doorway Saturday in which they demanded fuel to leave Algeria so they could blow up the plane outside "friendly Algeria."

Sources close to the Algerian negotiators Saturday speculated two hostages might be released "as a good-will gesture to Algeria." But there

Iraq claims major victory in Iranian held peninsula

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Iraqi forces claimed victory Sunday in their first major attempt to retake the Iranian-controlled Faw peninsula, routing heavily entrenched Iranian troops and bolstering their hold on the strategic strip of territory. Iran's official radio confirmed there was "heavy fighting" on the Faw peninsula and said Iranian troops inflicted "heavy losses" on Iraqi forces. It gave no further details.

Six Sikh extremists killed in farmhouse battle

RUTTA GUDHA, India (UPI) — Authorities killed six Sikh extremists during a fierce nine-hour gunbattle at a farmhouse, throwing gasoline bombs and hand grenades to burn out the group, who were part of a gang wanted for slaying more than 70 people, police said Sunday. Casualties from the clash and three other deaths Saturday bring to at least 819 the number of people killed this year in violence by Sikh separatists who want to turn Punjab state into an independent nation.

Waite warned of peril before disappearance

LONDON (UPI) — Shortly before he disappeared in Lebanon, missing Anglican Church envoy Terry Waite received a cryptic warning in Latin and English from the British consul that he might be in danger, according to telephone conversation transcripts released Sunday. In one of the taped conversations, British Consul in Beirut, Frank Gallagher, warned the Anglican Church troubleshooter and hostage negotiator that because of the arrest of an accused Lebanese terrorist there was greater risk for Westerners in Lebanon.

Gang kills villagers, steals animals in Kenya

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — A gang of rustlers with automatic rifles and bows and arrows raided a nomadic settlement in remote northern Kenya, killing at least 192 people before fleeing with about 3,500 animals, authorities and Nairobi newspapers said Sunday. Most of the livestock was recovered and many of the intruders were killed by pursuing security forces.

Captain refused order to abandon ship twice

PORTSMOUTH, R.I. (UPI) — The captain of a Navy frigate damaged by a mine in the Persian Gulf said he was ordered twice to abandon ship but refused because he knew his crew could save the vessel, it was reported Sunday. The crew did exactly what they were supposed to do, Capt. Paul X. Rinn said. They put out the fires and stopped the flooding, he said. Rinn's comments came Saturday during his first telephone call stateside since the Thursday incident in which 10 servicemen were injured.

Money laundering cases need state, local help

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Local law enforcement agencies could open a new front in the war against drugs by joining money-laundering investigations of operations that take in as much as $100 billion a year in profits, the Justice Department said Sunday. The government has been the leader in such probes because of the international scale of the cash-rich drug operations, but the National Institute of Justice, the department's principal research agency, released a study showing there is a significant role for state and local agencies to play.

Government to enlarge probe of Texas Air

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Transportation Secretary James Burnley announced Sunday the government will expand its "intensive inspection" of Texas Air Corp.'s Eastern Airlines to the fleet of its flagship carrier Continental Airlines. Burnley said, as part of a review of Texas Air operations, almost $1 million in proposed penalties pending against Continental for safety violations were found in the files of the Federal Aviation Administration, an agency under the department's umbrella.

Police arrest about 150 in L.A. gang sweep

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Police arrested nearly 150 suspects in a scaled-down anti-gang sweep that involved far fewer officers than an unprecedented effort launched last week, authorities said Sunday. In all, 147 arrests were made Saturday night in South Central Los Angeles, including 73 known gang members, most of whom were booked on drug and traffic violations, Detective John Clark said. Saturday night's operation involved 200 officers. Along with arrests, the officers seized several weapons, drugs and impounded a dozen cars.

Police Blotter

A samurai sword and a handgun were among items stolen by burglars during the weekend, Carbondale police said.

Eli Mayo, 23, of 507 S. Hays St., reported that the sword and a video recorder were stolen from his residence between 10:30 p.m. Friday and 2:30 a.m. Saturday, police said.

The stolen property was valued at $300, police said. A burglar stole a handgun and stereo equipment from the residence of David Chapman, 26, of 309 S. James St., between 11 p.m. Friday and 3 a.m. Saturday, police said.

The property was valued at about $800, police said.

A car owned by Richard Neal, 33, of 1107 E. College, was stolen as he shopped at the Farn Fresh store at 102 S. Wall St. Saturday night, Carbondale police said.

Neal's 1976 Mercury was found a short time later in the 400 block of North Washington Street, police said.

Southern Illinois exhibits industry to promote area

By Susan Curtis
Staff Writer

Southern Illinoisans have a good work ethic, a major university, a good transportation system and an airport — all good resources for industry, a state economic official says.

Jay Hedges, director of the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs spoke at the first Southern Illinois Showcase for manufacturers which was held Saturday and Sunday at the Southern Illinois Airport. Local industries set up booths in a hangar at the airport to exhibit and sell their products.

Southern Illinois is not ready to make a major industrial comeback, but projects like the showcase will help promote industry.

Frankfort said, "We have the merchandise, now we need the salesmen."
"This is an effort to really let people know what's going on," he said.

"We sometimes overlook existing companies at our back door," Gray said. "We need to believe in ourselves." The state and federal governments are good partners but local people are needed to make companies successful, he added.

Scholarship deadline extended

The deadline for the Somit Scholarship, designated for students of immigrant parentage and those who are immigrants themselves, has been extended to April 30 due to the lack of applicants.

The $500 scholarship was established in honor of Albert and Leyla D. Somit. Dr. Somit was the seventh President of SIU-C.

Applicants must be full-time undergraduate students who have completed 25 hours prior to receiving the award. Financial need and grade point average of applicants will be considered, but will not be the only factors of selection. Preference is given to first generation college students.

Applications are available in the Office of the Vice President for Student Affairs and should be completed by April 30.

Southern Illinois is not ready to make a major industrial comeback, but projects like the showcase will help promote industry, Hedges said.

Southern Illinois manufacturers can't sell their products to the rest of the world if local residents aren't aware of them, Hedges said.
Rep. Ken Gray D-West

Southern Illinois manufacturers are proud of their products and are important to the area, Steve Burgess, chairman of the Southern Illinois Coalition, a group a area businesspeople who promote Southern Illinois industry, said.

Auto insurance should be required

EVEN IF YOU haven't been involved in an accident with an uninsured motorist in Illinois, you probably know the routine. Someone gets a little too enthusiastic about making a yellow light as it changes to red, broadsides the car with the right of way and all the victims get is a sob-story and an apology.

Or it could be a fender-bender in a parking lot, or a missed yield sign, or some irresponsible lush seeing upteen roads in search of a bar still open in the wee hours of morning. The scenario doesn't matter — the uninsured driver is an avoidable accident that the laws allow to happen every day.

THE OBVIOUS CORRECTION of this problem is to make auto liability insurance mandatory. Secretary of State Jim Edgar is making a push to do just that. Coverage of $20,000 for injuring or killing a person, $40,000 for injuring or killing more than one person and $15,000 for property damage would be the minimum requirement.

One argument raised against mandatory auto insurance is unaffordability for low-income wage earners, a group that no doubt includes many SIU-C students. But the basic problem with this argument is conveniently forgetting that driving is a privilege, not a right.

STUDENTS MAY BE financially strapped in many cases, but they shouldn't be pampered in a way that sometimes makes members of the work force, with monetary worries of their own, have to pay for others' mistakes.

Insurance companies and powerful lobbyists have been able to block pushes in the past for mandatory insurance, but chances are their defense won't stand up to public scrutiny this time. Edgar knows that almost 90 percent of Illinoisans favor mandatory insurance, and numbers like that would be nice to have on your side in future elections.

Laws, of course, do not prevent stupidity, nor do they prevent accidents. But they can prevent accidents from being compounded by stupidity and lack of foresight. Mandatory auto insurance does exactly that.

Crybaby bikers elicit no sympathy

This letter is addressed to Curtis Winston, Kimbal Koerner and all the other crybaby bikers out there who persist in blaming their woes on pedestrians and the Saluki Patrol.

They would be better off taking a cue from Michael Jackson and giving a long, hard stare at the man (or woman) in the mirror.

As one who has been hit and knocked to the ground by an errant cyclist (while I was completely within the pedestrian lane of the overpass, I might add), I can tell you from first-hand knowledge that the experience is not pleasant. Although the bruises are healed, the torn pants mended and the broken glass repaired, what continues to irk me is the blatant, almost callous disregard for all pedestrian life practiced by an increasing number of cyclists.

The ridiculous rule that bikers must walk their bikes through the Paner breezeway, for example, did not stem from pedestrians violating the rights of bikers. Rather, it was implemented because bikers are swift and silent. Even the most eagle-eyed pedestrians (unless they have eyes in the back of their heads) can't avoid bikers bearing down on them from behind at great speeds.

I'm no friend of the Saluki Patrol. At times, they can be overzealous, insufferable and biased against bikers in their enforcement efforts. Pedestrians who break the rules should suffer the same consequences as bikers. However, bikers are subject to the same rules as drivers of motor vehicles. It is up to them to look out for pedestrians, not the other way around. Without the Saluki Patrol, there would be complete anarchy.

Bikers' complaints elicit little sympathy from me when daily I see the overeager riding at top speed, the foolish clowning with no hands, the illiterate disobeying clearly marked signs on pedestrian walkways and the brain-damaged riding at night without lights or reflectors.

Bikes have so many inherently good qualities that it is a genuine shame to see so many of their riders on collision courses with even more restrictive regulations. Bikers and pedestrians alike should clean up their acts.

— William L. Eppley, Carbondale

Meter maids need no violation to give ticket

Concerning Scott Hille's letter, which was printed on April 8, I have a comment of my own to make about your run-in with the parking division.

I submit that the number of parking tickets issued on this campus has nothing at all to do with the number of violations committed. I think someone gives the officers of the parking division a buzz, tells them how much money to get, and then the parking division sends out the meter maids to issue the appropriate number of tickets.

Don't be too hard on the meter maids though, Scott. They are some of the few people who make more money for the University than they cost. — Jeff Seyferth, senior, electrical engineering discussing it," Roberto Ferrey, political secretary for the Nicaraguan Resistance, said on state-run Radio Sandino.

 The Contras said the proposal requires the disarmament of all rebel forces before they gather into seven cease-fire zones for a 60-day truce that began April 1 under a nine-point accord signed March 23.

The Contras have said they are being held as virtual prisoners at their hotel, and have demanded the right to move freely about Managua to meet with opposition parties.

Calero said in a telephone interview from his hotel before the talks began that the Contras would raise the issue of democracy in Nicaragua, despite the Sandinistas' efforts to limit the discussions to a permanent cease-fire.
 Humberto Ortega said the only goal of the Managua meeting was to arrange a permanent end to the war.
 "When they signed the accord in Sapoa, the Contras agreed to come to Managua exclusively to discuss the terms of a definitive cease-fire," he said. "Any other issues not pertinent to that subject will have to be taken up at the national dialogue."

refuses to make concessions sought by the opposition.
 The 43-member Contra negotiating team arrived Friday in Managua and met briefly that night with the Sandinista group.
 After more than nine hours of talks Saturday at the luxury El Camino Real hotel just outside the capital, the two sides agreed to present their positions in writing in order to "see if we can come up with a synthesis of the two that satisfies both parties," Victor Hugo Tinoco, deputy foreign minister, said after Saturday's round of talks.
 The Saturday talks, which failed to produce any concrete agreements, were described by Calero as "a step backward." "The Sandinista regime must show more flexibility," he said.
 Contra spokesman Bosco Matamoros also complained Sunday that the government had rejected their request to attend the Sunday mass celebrated by Cardinal Miguel Obando y Bravo, an observer at the talks and a one-time mediator between the two sides.

 "They should have let us go to mass. Religion is the right of all Nicaraguans and it would have been a sign of good faith to let us attend," Matamoros said.
 Ortega dismissed the rebel attempt to attend mass, saying they wanted to use the Catholic church for "purposes of propaganda."
 "What do they want? Do they want a political show or do they want a moment of spiritual communion?" he said. "If they want to celebrate mass, we will send a priest to their hotel."
 The rebels have said they are being held as virtual prisoners at the hotel, and have demanded the right to move freely about the capital to meet with opposition parties and other groups.
 "They are not here as tourists. They are still a military group, responsible for thousands of deaths in the country and it would be illogical to let them walk the streets at this point," Tinoco said.
 "Once an agreement is signed," he said, "they can come here and do as they please."

The national dialogue between the government and the internal opposition was called for in the peace plan signed August 1987 by five Central American presidents. The talks, to discuss political issues, have been stalemated because the government refuses to make concessions sought by the opposition.

 The 43-member Contra negotiating team arrived Friday in Managua and met briefly that night with the Sandinista group.
 After more than nine hours of talks Saturday at the luxury El Camino Real hotel just outside the capital, the two sides agreed to present their positions in writing in order to "see if we can come up with a synthesis of the two that satisfies both parties," Victor Hugo Tinoco, deputy foreign minister, said after Saturday's round of talks.
 The Saturday talks, which failed to produce any concrete agreements, were described by Calero as "a step backward." "The Sandinista regime must show more flexibility," he said.
 Contra spokesman Bosco Matamoros also complained Sunday that the government was no sign of a release by late Sunday.

 Middle East experts said the hijackers might be softening their stance in keeping with the spirit of the Moslem holy month of Ramadan, which began in most of the Arab world Sunday and begins in Algeria today.

the safety of the passengers and preserves the firm principles Kuwait is pursuing," the Algerian President Cheddi Benjedid briefed the Emir of Kuwait, Sheikh Jaber Al-Ahmad Al-Sabah, and Saudi King Fahd Saturday night.
 The hijackers seized the jet April 5 during a non-stop flight from Bangkok, Thailand, to Kuwait and took it to northeastern Iran, where they freed 57 passengers. The hijacked jumbo jet remained in Mashhad, Iran, for nearly 80 hours before the hijackers forced the plane to leave for Lebanon April 8.

Cyprus allowed the plane to land at Larnaca.
 At Larnaca Airport, the hijackers killed two Kuwaitis and freed 13 captives before flying to Algiers Wednesday.
 An Algerian negotiator resumed talks with the hijackers briefly Saturday, but mediation efforts have been stalled since a diabetic passenger was released Thursday night, leaving 31 hostages on board. Officials have said there are about eight hijackers.

The Arabic-speaking hijackers are demanding that Kuwait free 17 convicted terrorists jailed in connection with the 1983 bombings of the U.S. and French embassies and other targets. Kuwait has said it will not give in to the demand, even though three members of the Kuwaiti royal family are held hostage aboard the blue-and-white Boeing 747.
 The Kuwaiti Cabinet in a statement Saturday said efforts will continue "for a peaceful ending that secures

But in Beirut, Lebanese and Syrian authorities refused to allow the Boeing 747 to land despite pleas from the pilot and hostages that the plane was low on fuel and threats from the hijackers to crash the jumbo jet into the control tower. The tense confrontation ended the same day, when

In the longest hijacking on record, Moslem Shiite gunmen in June 1985 commandeered TWA Flight 847 carrying 153 people, mostly Americans, from Athens to Rome and ordered the plane to Beirut, beginning a 17-day hostage drama. U.S. Navy diver Robert Stethem was killed in the hijacking.

Booming world population linked to the environment

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The United States and other industrialized nations must help stem the population explosion in the Third World or face ecological disaster, a report released Sunday warned.

Timing the release of its findings with the start of World Population Awareness Week, the Washington-based Population Institute report predicted that the environmental balance that sustains life on Earth is "being thrown dangerously out of kilter" by the continuing (population) surge."

"For now, nations and governments too often find it easy to ignore the emerging realities of this growing imbalance between population and resources," the institute's president, Werner Fornos, said. "As we approach the end of this century, however, that luxury will vanish as the signs of ecological damage become increasingly unmistakable." The report said the world's population grew by an unprecedented 90 million people last year to 5.1 billion, with 92 percent of the increase occurring in Third World countries.

Those nations as a whole still rely on wood for much of their energy needs, leading to the rapid destruction of the world's forests and resulting in soil erosion and expanding deserts.

The most devastating environmental consequence of a booming world population has already manifested itself in the slow but certain deterioration of the planet's ozone layer, the report said.

Burning fuels and the buildup of fluorocarbons in the atmosphere already have destroyed 2 percent of the ozone layer, twice the amount previously thought.

The results, the report predicted, will involve an increasing number of human skin cancer cases, emergence of diseases that involve a breakdown of the immune system and warmer temperatures that will disrupt crop production, among other things.

"As we approach the end of this century ... the signs of ecological damage will become increasingly unmistakable," Fornos said. "(And) ecological disasters have little respect for national boundaries.

"Once unleashed by the practices or neglect of one region, they spread ... until they alter the entire global environment," he said.

Study links fire risk with people's age, sex

QUINCY, Mass. (UPI) — The graying of America and the recent mini baby boom could result in more fire deaths because the elderly and very young are most at risk, the National Fire Protection Association said Sunday.

A study of home fires from 1981 through 1985 also showed that males have a 50 percent higher death rate in home fires than females. The pattern applied to all age groups in varying degrees.

No home fire detector was present in 81 percent of all fire fatalities, the group said.

People age 75 and older have a fire death rate of 61.2 deaths per million, more than triple the national average. In this age group, an average of 671 people died from home fires each year between 1981 and 1985.

Preschool children (age 5 and below) are twice as likely as most people to die or suffer serious injuries from fires. Blazes begun by children playing, mostly with matches, caused 30 percent of fire deaths among preschoolers.

"Clearly, home fires present a greater risk of death, and call for special fire protection methods, for the very young and the very old," the fire-prevention group said.

"These age groups, in particular, should have in their homes smoke detectors that are properly maintained and tested. These vulnerable groups need support by more mobile family members," the group said. "Children need to be supervised. Communities with large elderly populations, especially living alone, need to address the special needs of this risk group."

The study also showed that about 55 percent of home fire fatalities, in all age groups, occur in blazes that start when the victims are sleeping.

During the study period, there was an average of 2,799 fire deaths for males each year, compared to 1,971 fire deaths for females. The fire death rate was 24.6 deaths per million for males and 16.4 deaths per million for females.

Injuries from home fires showed a different age pattern than the pattern for fatalities.

The highest risk of home fire injury is for adults 20 to 29 years old, about 50 percent higher than the risk for all other age groups combined. The risk of fire injury for children age six to nine is much lower than the risk for other age groups.

Cooking equipment caused 22 percent of home fires leading to injury, followed by smoking materials at 17 percent and arson or suspected arson at 14 percent.

Measles fear hits Amish

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa. (UPI) — Fear of a measles outbreak has driven some Amish families — normally opposed to shots on religious grounds — to get their children immunized, officials said Sunday.

Young adults and children accompanied by their parents began showing up at clinics to be vaccinated after a measles outbreak struck the Amish community of Lawrence County, north of Pittsburgh, state health officials said.

The Amish are Mennonites of a strict sect founded in the 17th century and oppose the taking of oaths, infant baptism, military service, acceptance of public office and immunization. They also favor plain dress and simple living. The measles outbreak has struck 95 Amish, mostly students and preschoolers, state Health Department spokesman Bruce Reimer said Sunday. The figure is expected to rise next week, he said.

The first reports of measles in the Lawrence and Mercer counties area occurred in early December in the public schools, an outbreak that Reimer said was "pretty much nipped" after 142 confirmed cases in four months.

State health officials believe the disease hit the sect after it was passed on to Amish students who use public school buses and vans for transportation to their own schools, Reimer said.

The Amish have closed three of their 10 schools in the Lawrence County area because of the measles.

Koch launches harsh attack on Jackson for statements

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mayor Edward Koch launched his harshest attack yet on Jesse Jackson two days before the New York primary Sunday, scoring the civil rights leader for "lying" and not being able to handle stress.

"I want to talk about Jesse Jackson's character flaws if I may," Koch, who is supporting Sen. Albert Gore Jr. of Tennessee in Tuesday's primary, said at the outset of a nationally televised ABC News interview.

The outspoken mayor said Jackson "did not tell the truth" under stress 10 years ago when outlining his role in the aftermath of the assassination of Martin Luther King Jr.

"When under stress again ... he uttered the words 'Hymietown,'" Koch said, referring to Jackson's 1984 characterization of New York City for which Jackson apologized.

"I'm not faulting him for that in this election," Koch said. He added he was "faulting him for lying and saying he did not" use the characterization. "Do you want a president who under stress is not capable of telling the truth?"

Jackson declined to respond to Koch's attack. Gore, appearing on ABC's

Koch's new invective against Jackson made a televised debate among the three presidential candidates that was broadcast simultaneously seem like a love feast.

"This Week with David Brinkley" a short time after Koch, declined to join in his No. 1 supporter's latest attack on Jackson. "I don't know about the events that formed the basis of the statement that he made this morning," Gore said of Koch.

"I know Jesse Jackson and respect him as a friend," he said. "I have no personal basis for questioning the honesty of one of my opponents. I respect him and believe he's a man of integrity."

Koch's new invective against Jackson made a televised debate among the three presidential candidates that was broadcast simultaneously seem like a love feast.

Massachusetts Gov. Michael

Dukakis, Jackson and Gore sounded a note of party unity for the fall campaign against the Republicans but clashed over drug policy and South Africa.

The candidates also campaigned around New York City with an emphasis on the city's patchwork quilt of ethnic voters. The city is home to half of the estimated 1 million voters expected to vote Tuesday.

Dukakis and Gore marched up Fifth Avenue in the Salute to Israel parade celebrating the 40th anniversary of the Jewish State and watched by thousands. Later, Gore was taking a walking tour of Little Italy with Koch and visiting the heavily Jewish Lower East Side.

Jackson visited a homeless shelter, led a march across the shut-down Williamsburgh Bridge, which is falling apart, to dramatize the need to repair the nation's deteriorating infrastructure and skipped the Israel parade.

But he scheduled a luncheon with R. Peter Straus, a businessman active in Jewish affairs. Jackson has sought in recent days to allay concerns of some Jewish voters who remember his controversial characterization of Jews as "Hymies" and New York as "Hymietown."

Police guard ballots in Louisiana

SHREVEPORT, La. (UPI) — Law officers were called in Sunday to guard ballots cast in a close election for the 4th Congressional District seat because of irregularities that included 3,800 people being purged from voting rolls.

Unofficial results showed Republican Jim McCrery narrowly defeated Democrat Foster Campbell Saturday in Louisiana's 4th Congressional District. The seat was vacated by Gov. Buddy Roemer.

McCrery garnered 63,481 votes, or 50.6 percent, while Campbell took 61,900 votes or 49.4 percent — a difference of 1,581 votes.

Secretary of State Fox McKeithen said he received reports Saturday that 3,800 voters in Caddo and Bossier parishes were turned away from polls because their names had been purged from voter rolls after the March 8 primary.

"I think it (another election) is entirely possible," McKeithen said. "We're getting reports of other irregularities taking place. It looks like the possibilities at this point, if reports are true, are almost unlimited."

As a precaution, law enforcement officers and private security guards were called out to watch voting machines until the results could be certified.

McKeithen said the names apparently were purged because citizens failed to answer a letter from the registrar of voters' office telling them to confirm they were registered voters.

McKeithen said each year 25 percent of the registered voters receive notices telling them they must confirm they are registered voters. He said the notices normally go out in January, giving registrars several months to purge voting rolls before fall elections.

"Normally our (congressional) elections are in the fall, so that gives us several months to get all that done," McKeithen said. "In the case of this congressional race, perhaps it didn't work so well."

Federal officers said they were told such purges should not take place within six weeks of an election.

"In Caddo Parish, 3,000 people who went to the polls were informed they'd been purged and were not allowed to vote," McKeithen said. "If our figures are correct, it's a big problem."

McKeithen said he also received reports from precincts in Shreveport that more people voted than were registered.

But McCrery was hopeful. "We are confident that the certification procedure on Tuesday will uphold my election," McCrery said.

Campbell, however, said, "This race is razor-thin. I'm not ready to concede. I think the race is too close to call. I think we'll wait. We'll know more about it when the voting machines are opened. I still think we can win this."

Dukakis wins Arizona

PHOENIX (UPI) — Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis widened his lead over Democratic presidential rival Jesse Jackson with an easy victory in the Arizona caucuses, overcoming surprising rural support for Jackson.

The final tally of Saturday's balloting showed Dukakis with 54 percent of the ballots cast in heavier than expected turnout, while Jackson scored better than projected to finish with 38 percent.

Dukakis snared 20,814 votes in the presidential preference poll, followed by Jackson with 14,538 ballots. Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., ran a distant third with 1,972 votes.

That left Dukakis with 22 of the state's 36 delegates who were up for grabs. Jackson took the remaining 14 and Gore

"(Dukakis has) won in every region of this country. No other candidate can say that."

—Jose Villarreal

will not take anything from Arizona, because state party rules stipulate a candidate must carry at least 15 percent of the vote to earn delegates.

"This was a very important state for us, not in terms of the number of delegates, but in terms of showing his (Dukakis') popularity across this land," Jose Villarreal, the Dukakis campaign coordinator in Arizona, said.

By Amy Gaubatz
Staff Writer

A campus camp-out, which is open to the public will be held April 22 and 23 near the Campus Lake boat docks.

Anyone interested in free equipment rental should sign up at the base camp in the Recreation Center.

Last year, 40 people participated in the campout, Rick Waldrup, graduate assistant and supervisor of the Adventure Resource Center, said. Waldrup added that anyone who can play a musical instrument is encouraged to join in during the campfire.

The camp-out, sponsored by the Adventure Resource Center, will begin at 6 p.m. Friday and end at 10 a.m. Saturday. Activities planned for the evening include a moonlight canoe ride, which begins at 8 p.m. and a campfire complete with marshmallows and lemonade.

In case of rain, the camp-out will be rescheduled for fall semester.

Boys become bandits, steal car

BOCA RATON, Fla. (UPI) — Two little brothers, aged 6 and 7, painted mustaches on their upper lips, hopped into a car and drove off — in reverse. "It looked like they were painted on with magic marker," Police Sgt. Robert Muth said of the mustaches. "They wanted to look like they were old enough to drive."

The brothers jumped into a Honda station wagon parked at Randy's German Car Repair with the key in the console Friday evening. But things went badly from the start.

The first problem was the standard transmission.

With the brothers at the wheel, the car backed up and crossed busy Northwest Second Avenue during Friday evening rush hour before circling and crashing into a wall in a residential community.

"(Sgt. Jim O'Hara) saw them get into the car and he pulled up in front of the car so they couldn't take off. But they went in reverse," Muth said. "They put it in 'R' for race."

John-Erik Kellso (center) of the James Dapogny Chicago Jazz Band warms up during sound check before the band's Friday night performance at Shryock Auditorium.

Shryock becomes '30s jazz club

By Curtis Winston
Staff Writer

The Shryock Auditorium stage became a 1930s Chicago jazz club Friday evening when James Dapogny's Chicago Jazz Band performed.

Dapogny, a jazz scholar and pianist, specializes in the music of ragtime pianist Ferdinand "Jelly Roll" Morton.

The physical appearance and instrumental mannerisms of the eight-piece band greatly enhanced the entertainment value and authenticity of the music.

Dressed in black tuxedos, Dapogny's band, consisting of a bassist, drummer, banjoist, trombonist, cornetist and clarinetists, looked and sounded as if they had stepped through a time machine from a jazz club during the great depression.

The most prominent musician in the band was clarinetist Kim Kusek, who played high, swirling passages reminiscent of the late, great Benny Goodman.

The most colorful musician was string bassist Mike Karoub. Much shorter than his bass, Karoub played his instrument in a wild, no-holds-barred, slap-style manner that made one wonder how the old wooden bass could withstand his punishment.

Karoub played a solo during the dixieland chestnut "Sweet Georgia Brown," where he stepped out in front of the rest of the band to show off his unique style. With his dark eyes and black mustache he looked like the stereotypical evil villain of the old silent movies who would tie a woman to the tracks in front of an oncoming railroad locomotive.

Drummer Wayne Jones made a lot of strange rattling noises with his small kit. He would smile and peer out at the audience over his half-frame reading glasses while smashing away at cymbals and lightly bouncing his sticks on a dry sounding snare drum.

Pot-bellied, cornet player Paul Klinger also was fun to watch as he used a small Styrofoam coffee cup to mute his silver horn.

Reedman Russ Whitman was the typical cool sax player. Mostly playing tenor saxophone, he had an understated, quiet style that demanded the listener's attention. Whitman also played an ancient looking baritone saxophone. The low, grunting register of that horn made the music sound old.

Guitarist-banjoist Rob McDonald also helped bring the antiquity of the music out with his rhythmic playing.

The band made great use of Shryock's fine acoustics and each instrument could be heard clearly. Although the stage was cluttered with recording equipment, amplification was used only for vocals.

The first half of the concert was planned and featured such old tunes as "Chicago" and Duke Ellington's "Mood Indigo."

Dapogny's arrangements of the old songs had many humorous characteristics, especially "Button Up Your Overcoat," which featured the "glee club" of Kusek, Whitman and Klinger nonchalantly singing the lyrics while trombonist Bob Smith accompanied the choir with a wailing, comical solo.

The second part of the program was mostly improvised, but stayed along the same lines of fun and good times. Dapogny said that part of the program was "a walk through jazz history."

University student Lenette Lewis, senior in music education, joined the band on clarinet and alto saxophone for two songs that featured a woodwind trio.

Trumpeter John-Erik Kelso, a student from Detroit University, also joined the band for Louis Armstrong's "Symphonic Raps."

Lewis and Kelso each made a significant contribution in filling out the sound of band. Dapogny said the 10-piece incarnation was similar to the first of the big swing bands that became popular in the late 1930s.

Vocalist Carol Leigh also was a treat with her raucous blues vocals on "Let's Pitch A Goochie Woogie." Dressed in a long, clinging purple gown, she looked just like a 1920s torch singer.

Chairman: COLA Council important to students, dean

By Dana DeBeaumont
Staff Writer

The College of Liberal Arts Council was influential in preserving the religious studies department and the Russian major when they were targeted for elimination.

The council also decided that the college wouldn't have a prayer at commencement. And, when it's time for important decisions about the health and welfare of the college, Dean John Jackson said he asks the council for advice.

However, few of the 17,752 students in the college participate with the council.

Voting for College of Liberal Arts Council members starts today in the COLA advisement office and Faner breezeway. The election runs through Thursday. All liberal arts majors are eligible to vote.

William Turley, chairman of the council, said most students don't vote for council members because they don't think the council makes decisions that affect them—but it does.

"Months go by when there is nothing on our plate (agenda)," Turley, a political science professor, said. "The faculty values student input so highly because our job can be done best only with careful consultation with council members."

Political science professor Richard Dale, who is the chairman of the election and selection committee for the council, said students' should vote to protect themselves and to "avoid further pain."

"The student has a choice to be silent, but the more silent you (students) stay, the more they'll lean on you and hurt you," Dale said. "I wish more kids would get excited about the council and vote."

"Individual council members bring complaints, they're hashed out and they become policy when the council passes a resolution," Turley said. "The subject always has to have the dean's acceptance though."

The council, which has 28 student and faculty members, makes recommendations to Jackson, Turley said.

Turley said he couldn't remember a time when Jackson didn't follow the council's recommendations.

"Obviously, it would be unwise for him (Jackson) to contradict a policy that we support because it would cause an open conflict and it would be a lot more difficult for him to get support for his policy."

For instance, when Jackson was considering eliminating the religious studies department and Russian major, he took the issue to the council. The council opposed the proposals and both are still alive, Jackson said.

"I take all my important

Elections for College of Liberal Arts Council members will be held today through Thursday in the COLA advisement office and Faner breezeway.

decisions to them (the council)," Jackson said. "The council is a forum for communication from me to the departments and students then back to me. I don't always agree with them, but I listen."

John LaPine, student vice chair of the council, said: "It's more than a sounding board. It's a reflection of moral views of liberal arts.

"It (the council) is one of few opportunities students' have to exert direct pressure on college administrators for any complaints that affect them directly."

1988 SPRING EXAM SCHEDULE

The examination schedule attempts to avoid examination conflicts by providing separate examination periods for Tuesday-Thursday lecture classes. Other information about final examinations is listed below:

- The class final exam period is scheduled based on the meeting time and days configuration listed on the first line of the class entry in the Schedule of Classes book (which should be the same as the first printed line for the section on the registered student's schedule print-out). For example, a class section is listed in the Schedule book on two lines in the manner:

08:00          T  1h
09:00-10:50   W

The listed starting time for the first line of the entry is "8:00". The meeting days of that first line are "T TH", and therefore are in the category "Only T or TH or T TH". The Exam Date and Period is by the attached Spring '88 Final Examination Schedule to be Thursday, May 12 at 10:10a.-12:10p.m.

- Classes should plan to hold their final examination in their regularly scheduled class rooms. The space scheduling section of the Office of Admissions and Records will forward to departments information relative to the location for examinations for those classes that cannot hold examinations in their regularly scheduled rooms because of a space conflict. This will be done sufficiently in advance of the final examination days to provide sufficient notice for all.

- Students who find they have more than three examinations on one day may petition, and students who have two examinations scheduled at one time should petition their academic dean for approval to take an examination during the make-up examination period on the last day. Provision for such a make-up examination period does not mean that students may decide to miss the scheduled examination time and expect to make it up during this make-up period. This period is to be used only for students whose petitions have been approved by their dean.

Accused death camp guard waits for decision of trial

RAMLE, Israel (UPI) — Retired Ohio autoworker John Demjanjuk laughed with his family and read cards from well-wishers in his prison cell Sunday, the eve of a verdict in his trial on charges he was the sadistic Nazi death camp guard "Ivan the Terrible."

Demjanjuk, 68, spent three hours with his wife Vera, daughter Lydia, son John Jr. and two sons-in-law at the Ayalon Prison, 25 miles from Jerusalem, where he has been held since he arrived in Israel in 1986.

After the visit, family members said Demjanjuk was in good spirits and expressed optimism about the verdict, to be announced by a three-judge panel Monday in Jerusalem. If convicted, Demjanjuk could be hanged.

"He's cautiously optimistic. He thinks the prosecution didn't make a case against him and he just wants to go home," said Ed Nishnic, who is married to Demjanjuk's daughter Irene, 28, and is the father of his 3-year-old grandson.

Prosecutors charge that

Prosecutors charge that Demjanjuk was the guard 'Ivan the Terrible,' who used a sword, whip and pistol to jam tens of thousands of naked prisoners into the gas chambers of a Nazi death camp and then started the engines.

Demjanjuk was the guard "Ivan the terrible," who used a sword, whip and pistol to jam tens of thousands of naked prisoners into the gas chambers of a Nazi death camp in Treblinka, and then fired up the engines that spewed deadly fumes into the chambers.

But Demjanjuk claims he is a victim of mistaken identification. The native Ukrainian says he was held at a prisoner-of-war camp in Chelm, Poland, at the time he was allegedly at Treblinka. He also charges the Soviet Union is trying to frame him because he served in an anti-Soviet Nazi militia at the end of World War II.

Five Treblinka survivors identified Demjanjuk as

"Ivan" at the yearlong trial, one of the longest and most sensational in Israeli history. He faces four charges — war crimes, crimes against humanity, crimes against the Jewish people and crimes against persecuted persons. Only one other person has been tried under Israel's Genocide Law. He was Adolf Eichmann, the mastermind of the Nazi plot to exterminate the Jews, who was kidnapped from Argentina in 1960, convicted, and hanged in 1962.

Demjanjuk moved to the United States after the war and worked for 30 years on an automobile assembly line in Cleveland until he was stripped of his U.S. citizenship in 1981 for lying about his past on an immigration application.

Israel sets curfew in territories

Death toll rises from riots caused by leader's death

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israeli soldiers wounded two Arabs Sunday on a relatively quiet day of mourning for an assassinated PLO leader.

The death toll rose to 16 from rioting set off by the slaying and the Israeli Army clamped curfews on much of the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

In the West Bank town of Nur El Shams, the army said soldiers shot and wounded the two Arabs when protesters, some armed with axes, attacked a patrol. In another incident, an Arab teenager, who was on his way to work in Israel, was beaten by youths.

At least 14 Palestinians were killed and 135 wounded by army gunfire Saturday when protests erupted in the occupied territories hours after the slaying of Khalil Al-Wazir, one of the closest aides to Palestine Liberation Organization leader Yasser Arafat.

Two more Palestinians died Sunday as a result of gunshot

Arafat claims U.S. helped assassinate PLO leader

TUNIS, Tunisia (UPI) — Palestine Liberation Organization Chairman Yasser Arafat accused the United States of complicity in slaying his right-hand man and vowed Sunday the Palestinian uprising in the Israeli-occupied territories will continue.

It was Arafat's first public statement on Saturday's early morning assassination of Khalil Al-Wazir, better known as Abu Jihad, or Father of War. He said the death of his childhood friend and the PLO's No. 2 man was not in vain.

"He was martyred while carrying out his duty, weapons in hand. He resisted until he was outnumbered by the Israeli Mossad gang and his body was riddled with tens of bullets," said the PLO chief, who arrived in Tunis Saturday after the assassination.

"The decision was an Israeli decision, taken at the highest levels of the Israeli leadership, with a green light from the American administration," Arafat said.

Arafat vowed the Palestinian uprising in the occupied Gaza Strip and West Bank would continue despite the assassination, which set off some of the worst rioting yet in the Israeli-occupied territories.

wounds suffered during the previous day's violence.

Saturday was the bloodiest day of protests since the anti-Israeli uprising began Dec. 9. At least 158 Arabs have died in the 4-month-old Palestinian uprising. Al-Wazir, 52, a senior military commander widely known as "Abu Jihad," was gunned down in his suburban villa in Tunis, Tunisia, by a commando team.

Open house, party set for Synergy Week

By Phyllis Coon
Staff Writer

Synergy Week, which begins today, gives people an opportunity to get acquainted with the crisis prevention center, a synergy volunteer said.

This week also is Synergy's major fund-raising drive.

"People come in just to find out about us," Jim Skinner, a phone crisis intervention volunteer, said. "We haven't been disappointed with turn outs to Synergy week in the past."

The center is sponsoring a hug booth today in the Student Center. "The booth is for people who are feeling lonely or depressed," Skinner said.

A tie-dye party will be held at 3 p.m. Tuesday in the Synergy dome at 905 S. Illinois Ave. The center will provide dyes for $1.

Participants can bring their own T-shirts, Skinner said.

Synergy also will sell white T-shirts.

A coloring contest for children from Head Start and Puka Preschool will be held Tuesday and Wednesday. The children will be coloring a picture of an abstract dome, Scott Thompson, synergy volunteer, said.

The center will have an open house Thursday.

A coffeehouse will be held from 8 to 12 p.m. Friday at the Wesley Foundation, 816 S. Illinois Ave.

"The coffeehouse is open to anyone," Skinner said. "They can read poetry or folk sing—anything they want. We believe in the coffeehouse because it allows the public to express themselves in a fun manner."

Anyone interested in participating in the coffeehouse should sign up at the Synergy office, he said.

Healthy tennis team wins 3 of 4 conference matches

By Jeff Griesser
Staff Writer

The women's tennis team regained its health and its winning form to capture three of four dual matches Friday and Saturday in St. Louis, Mo.

The Salukis beat Southwest Missouri, 5-4, and Drake, 5-1, on Friday. SIU-C lost to Wichita State, 7-2, then downed Northern Iowa, 8-1, on Saturday.

"It was a really good weekend overall," Coach Judy Auld said. "We're playing very good at singles right now, although our doubles play is kind of rusty."

The Salukis were unable to compete last weekend because of injuries and illness. Auld said that the weekend off did not have a negative effect on her team.

"I don't think having last weekend off hurt us at all," Auld said. "In fact, it might have even helped us.

"I was impressed with our play throughout the weekend, particularly on Friday," Auld said. "The injuries may have flared up a bit toward the end on Saturday."

Maria Coch was the most successful of all the Salukis. Coch won all four of her matches, three at the No. 6 spot and one playing at No. 4.

Ellen Moelering went 2-2 for the weekend at the No. 1 singles position and played "very well," Auld said. No. 2 singles player Beth Boardman also went 2-2, and Dana Cherebetiu went 2-1. Cherebetiu did not play in the Northern Iowa match because of health problems. Missy Jeffrey had a 3-1 record and Sue Steuby was 2-1. Steuby sat out the final match because of reoccurring tendinitis in her shoulder.

Auld said that the team's performance will probably be good enough for a No. 3 seed in the tournament, behind Western Illinois and Wichita State. She feels her team will be in good shape by that time.

"We've got two weeks to recover," she said.

Record within reach for winless Orioles

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Mel Hall collected two doubles and a single, scored two runs and batted in the game-winning run to spark the Cleveland Indians to a 4-1 victory over Baltimore Sunday that extended the Orioles' losing streak to 12 games.

The Orioles crept within one loss of tying the major league record for most defeats at a season's start. The record of 13 is shared by the 1904 Washington Senators and the 1920 Detroit Tigers.

John Farrell, 2-0, struck out four, walked three and scattered four hits in 8 1-3 innings. Dan Schatzeder recorded two outs for his second save. The Indians won their fifth straight game and 11th in their last 12.

Cleveland took a 3-1 lead with a two-run fourth inning against rookie Oswald Peraza, 0-2. Hall and Cory Snyder drove in the runs.

Singles by Brook Jacoby, Hall and Dave Clark's RBI single gave the Indians a 1-0 lead in the second inning.

Baltimore, 0-6 under Manager Frank Robinson, tied it 1-1 in the third inning. Terry Kennedy singled and Rick Schu reached on a bunt single. After Jeff Stone's grounder forced Schu at second base, Joe Orsulak's groundout scored Kennedy from third base.

Jacoby doubled with one out in the fourth inning and scored for a 2-1 lead when Hall doubled into the right field corner. He took third base on right fielder Fred Lynn's error. Snyder's sacrifice fly scored Hall for a 3-1 edge.

Hall opened the seventh inning with a double off reliever Mark Williamson, advanced to third on a Snyder groundout and scored on a groundout by Jay Bell.

Farrell didn't allow a hit after Schu's double in the fifth inning and retired Cal Ripken in four trips, extending the slumping Oriole shortstop's hitless streak to a career-high 29 at-bats.

Cards swept by Mets, remain winless on road

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rookie Kevin Elster singled home Mookie Wilson with two out in the ninth inning Sunday to send the New York Mets to their sixth straight victory, 3-2 over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Wilson led off the ninth with a drive off the right chin of reliever Steve Peters, 0-1. The ball bounded toward the third-base line and Peters retrieved it. He heaved an off-balance throw wild of first base, allowing Wilson to take second on the error.

Pinch hitter Barry Lyons sacrificed and after Peters fell behind 1-0 to Tim Teufel, Scott Terry relieved. Teufel lined to third baseman Terry Pendleton, with Wilson racing back to the bag just in time. Elster then lined a single to center field.

Roger McDowell, 1-0, pitched two innings of one-hit relief for the victory. The Cardinals, who were swept by the Mets in the three-game series, fell to 0-5 on the road.

Jose DeLeon had held the Mets to no runs on four hits over the first seven innings before the Mets tied the score in the eighth. Wally Backman led off the eighth with a walk and Keith Hernandez singled under the glove of first baseman Bob Horner to place runners at first and third.

Elster ran for Hernandez. Darryl Strawberry singled to right, scoring Backman and moving Elster to third.

DeLeon fell behind Kevin McReynolds 2-0 and was relieved by Todd Worrell, who had allowed back-to-back homers to Gary Carter and Howard Johnson Saturday to allow the Mets to win 6-4. McReynolds blooped a single to left, driving in Elster with the tying run, but Strawberry was thrown out at third by Vince Coleman. Worrell got Carter to pop out and struck out Dave Magadan to end the inning.

Pendleton and Jim Lindeman had delivered St. Louis' first back-to-back home runs in 105 games to help the Cardinals build a 2-0 lead in the fourth.

Starter Ron Darling had his string of 16 straight scoreless innings snapped by the Cardinals' rare power display.

Distance runners get a rest to prepare for final stretch

By Stephanie Wood
Staff Writer

The men's track team took advantage of its last opportunity to rest this season by taking a small team to the Tyson Invitational in Fayetteville, Ark., Saturday.

"We're at the stretch where we thought it might be our last chance to give somebody a rest," assistant coach Doug Adler said. "We were resting most of our distance runners."

The Salukis will run in the Kansas Relays next weekend, followed by two home meets and the Missouri Valley Conference championships. In the field events, Leonard Vance led the Salukis with a second-place finish in the triple jump at 49 feet 1 3/4 inches. Modiba Crawford placed fourth at 48-2.

"That's not his best but I'm very pleased with that jump," Adler said. "He's showing he can jump consistently."

Eric Bomball placed fourth in the discus with a throw of 164 feet and fourth in the shot put at 51-0 1/2.

All-American Ron Harrer didn't compete this weekend because of soreness in his knee, Adler said.

Shane Weber and Mike Michels finished third and fifth in the pole vault with vaults of 16-0 and 15-6.

Bret Garrett ran a "good race" in the 800-meter run to finish with a time of 1 minute 48.95 seconds, Adler said. Garrett qualified for the indoor national championships in the 800 with a time of 1:49.72.

The 1,600 meter relay team of Gerard Horan, Kevin Steele, Garrett and Erick Pegues ran a time of 3:13.00 to place fifth.

The 4 X 100 relay team of Guy Sikora, Vance, Billie King and Bobby Sloan finished sixth in 41.74 seconds.

"I was pleased with the meet in general," Adler said. "But we need to improve for the conference meet."

Men golfers take sixth at classic

By Steven Welsh
Staff Writer

The men's golf team finished sixth at the Morehead State Eagle Golf Classic this weekend in Gilbertville, Ky.

SIU-C had a 929 total at the 54-hole tournament, finishing just three strokes behind Morehead State. Tennessee Tech won the tournament.

"Morehead's strength was their round on Saturday," Coach Lew Hartzog said. "They played well and pulled ahead of us."

The Salukis' Jeff Mullican, who shot a four-over-par 76 on the second round, was hampered by contact lens problems on the final round. Mullican forgot the solution for his contacts at home and had to resort to wearing glasses. His score shot up to an 84.

"His eyes were irritated and he couldn't see as well with the glasses," Hartzog said. "He had a horrible final round and it hurt us a great deal."

Mark Bellas was the team's low scorer with a 228 total.

Mike Cowen had a 231 (including a 74 on the second round), Bobby Pavelonis shot 237 and Mullican and Tom Neuman both shot 239. Britt Pavelonis, who played individually, shot a 234.

"I was pleased that the three young kids (Bellas, Cowen and Britt Pavelonis) started playing good golf," Hartzog said. "All three of them played well."

The team's next tournament is at the Illinois State Invitational April 24-25 in Normal.

Brechtelsbauer said. "Our defense was sharp. It was frustrating for the other team."

"Inability to get runners across was the reason we lost," Illinois State Coach Melinda Fischer said. "I thought SIU took advantage of that."

Firnback scored after reaching on a single in the sixth.

Winning pitcher Traci Furlow took over from there. Despite giving up two runs in the sixth, she held on for her seventh victory in ten decisions.

"I give all my credit to my teammates. Not only did they defend well, they hit well too," Furlow said. "I was a little nervous because they were ranked. But I got a lot of confidence from coach and the other players."

In the seventh, Furlow had the Illinois State batters baffled. She threw a changeup past Robin Chapman to get ahead in the count. Chapman batted the ball weakly to shortstop for the ground out.

"That was a smart pitch," Brechtelsbauer said. "We are trying to get her to also learn a drop pitch. In the sixth they were getting doubles and triples on high pitches, but she came back with good control on the changeup."

Lisa Peterson (10-7) got the loss in the second game. Illinois State led only 1-0 through six innings, but erupted for five runs on five hits in the seventh.

On Friday Smugala scored the only run and Furlow got the victory in the Salukis' triumph over Indiana State in the first game.

In the second game, Tummins had a two-RBI triple to highlight a four-run second.

struck out nine.

Bradley scored one run in the seventh to tie the game at four, but the Salukis regained the lead in the bottom of the inning.

Joe Hall led off with a double and reached third when the shortstop made a wild throw to third on Cliff McIntosh's grounder. Wrona then drove in Hall with a sharp single to center.

Only two of the five Saluki runs were earned.

On Saturday, the Salukis lost the first game of the series, 5-4. The Salukis had the tying run on second with one out in the seventh, but could not score.

Dale Kisten (3-6) was the losing pitcher. In nine innings, he allowed five runs, four of them earned, on nine hits. He walked one and struck out eight.

In game two, the Salukis won, 5-2, on Lee Meyer's three-hitter. Meyer (4-0) kept his outfielders busy.

Coach notes progress in second scrimmage

By Jeff Griesser
Staff Writer

SIU-C head football coach Rick Rhoades saw both the positive and the negative sides of his team during its Saturday morning scrimmage.

The scrimmage was the second for the Salukis this spring. The team began practice April 7.

"I think we did fairly good," Rhoades said. "We've definitely made progress in a week and a half. Some people are coming along real well while others have obviously got a long way to go."

The Salukis suffered no major injuries in Saturday's scrimmage. Rhoades said the defense may have been slightly ahead of the offense.

"The defense probably had the best of the offense for most of the day, but just when they're going strong the offense drives all the way down field and scores," Rhoades said. "Both sides had their moments."

The top candidates for the quarterback position, Fred Gibson and Reggie Edwards also had their moments, Rhoades said.

"Fred has picked up the option real well, but he's got a lot of work to do on his passing mechanics," Rhoades said. "Reggie had a really good practice, probably his best of the spring."

Running back Byron Mitchell, who has not been participating fully so far, will be able to practice on Monday, Rhoades said.

"Byron had his knee scoped and he's been doing just about all that he can at practice so far," Rhoades said. "He's been OK'd for Monday, so he'll be out there."

Rhoades said he will meet with Sports Information Director Fred Huff at 11 a.m. to discuss the selection of the team's final assistant coach.

"I'll talk with Fred (today) about the coaching spot," Rhoades said. "We'll know a lot more by (this) afternoon."

Michelle Sciano placed second in the 400-meter hurdles in a personal-best 63.86.

In the field events, Christiana Philippou won the triple jump with 39 feet 2½ inches. She placed second in the long jump at 18-10.

Beatty finished third in the triple jump at 36-6¾. She was fourth in the 100- and 200-meter dashes.

Carmen Robbins was fourth at 36-4¾ in the triple jump. She finished third in the long jump with 18-6.

Freshman Beverly Klett tied for fifth in the high jump at 5-2½.

Angie Nunn, returning to the lineup after red-shirting the indoor season, ran a 58.55 in the 400 to place fifth.

All-American status eludes senior Glielmi

By Stephanie Wood
Staff Writer

Gymnast Tom Glielmi finished a disappointing 30th in the floor exercise with a 9.50 average at his final NCAA National competition this weekend in Lincoln, Neb.

Glielmi, a senior, was hoping to reach All-American status. The top six finishers in the final round of each event earn All-American honors.

He qualified for the nationals in the floor exercise with an average score of 9.74. It was his third consecutive trip to nationals in the floor exercise and his second consecutive appearance in the vault.

Glielmi finished 14th in the vault this weekend with an average of 9.38. He qualified for the meet with a season average of 9.55.

Glielmi won the individual vault title in five different meets this season and won the floor exercise title three times.

He was a double winner twice, against the University of Illinois-Chicago on Feb. 20 and at the National Independent Conference Championships March 25-26 in DeKalb.

Tom Glielmi

Glielmi was the only Saluki to qualify for the national meet this year. Junior Brent Reed just missed qualifying in the high bar.

Host Nebraska won in overall team competition.

Glielmi is only senior the team will lose to graduation. Coach Bill Meade has said this year's team was inconsistent because of injuries and inexperience.

Unser upsets Andretti hold on auto race

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Al Unser Jr., who lost by a split second to Michael Andretti at Long Beach in 1986, Sunday posted a record victory in the $700,000 grand prix and ended the Andretti family's domination of the Indy car race.

Unser led for 73 of the 95 laps around the 1.67-mile seaside course and beat defending Indy-car series champion Bobby Rahal by a full lap and 33.48 seconds. The margin of victory was the biggest in the races five-year history.

Kevin Cogan finished third, followed by Raul Boesel and Derek Daly.

Mario Andretti had won three of the previous Long Beach races with his son Michael taking the other. But the father and son made contact with each other's cars in Turn 1 on the 11th lap. The Andrettis had been running second and third behind Unser at the time. The younger Andretti pitted with suspension damage, returned to action but was never in contention after that and finished seventh.

Mario Andretti remained a distant second to Unser until taking the lead briefly following their first pitstops after the 20th lap. But on the 27th lap Andretti was forced into the pits with a flat left front tire and damaged wheel, which may have been suffered in the incident with his son.

He dropped out of the race for good on the 70th lap with a blown clutch, settling for 15th place.

"We tried a new style clutch. It didn't work out," the elder Andretti said.

Andretti, who started alongside pole-sitter Danny Sullivan, led the field going into Turn 1 on the first lap but lost it to Unser on the last turn of the first lap. Unser held on until he pitted under a yellow on the 21st lap and regained it when he whipped by Sullivan on the 42nd lap.

Salukis move into second

By Dave Miller
Staff Writer

It wasn't pretty and, at times, it was just plain ugly, but the Salukis won three of four against Bradley this weekend at Abe Martin Field.

The Salukis overcame baserunning mistakes, bad throws and misplayed ground balls to stay in contention for a Missouri Valley championship. After losing the first game of the series, the Salukis came from behind to win each of the next three games to move into second place in the Valley.

The Salukis, 24-13 overall and 5-3 in the conference, trail only Creighton who has a 6-2 Valley mark after sweeping its weekend series against Indiana State.

Creighton comes to Carbondale for a showdown for first place next weekend.

The Salukis moved into second place with a 9-6 victory in Sunday's second game. Dale Meyer (2-0) won the game in relief.

In the sixth inning with no outs, Meyer relieved Chris Bend and allowed a game-tying RBI double to the first batter he faced. After issuing an intentional walk to load the bases, Meyer retired the next three batters.

"What an experience he had for a freshman," Coach Itchy Jones said. "He came in a tough situation and did a commendable job."

The Salukis then scored three runs in their half of the sixth to take a 9-6 lead. The Salukis only had one hit in the inning but were aided by two Bradley pitchers who each wild pitched a run home.

Meyer held the Braves scoreless in the seventh to gain the victory. Bradley reliever Doug Slusser (3-2) received the loss for the Braves, who are now 21-12 overall and 3-5 in the conference.

In the first game, Rich Campbell's gutsy pitching and Dave Wrona's clutch hitting erased a couple of blunders on the basepaths to give the Salukis a 5-4 victory.

Campbell (5-1) survived a couple of deep outs early in the game and trouble in the middle innings to earn the win. In nine innings, he allowed four runs, of which three were earned, on eight hits. He walked five and

Gateway softball wins keep Salukis in race

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

NORMAL — By winning three of four games this weekend, the freshman-dominated softball team issued a challenge to the rest of the Gateway Conference.

The new kids on the block have to be reckoned with.

Playing on the road and battling injuries, the Salukis sent two conference-leading teams reeling.

In Terre Haute, Ind., SIU-C blanked Indiana State twice, 1-0 and 4-0.

Then here on Saturday, the Salukis upset the nation's eighth-ranked team 4-3, before losing 6-0 in the second game.

"It showed this young club that we are a team others have to contend with," Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said. "It showed them they can play with any ballclub. The conference championship is not decided yet."

The Salukis are 22-14 overall and 5-5 in the conference.

The victory over Illinois State demonstrated the Salukis' potential. After the Redbirds took a 1-0 lead in the first inning on a Becky Barrigar sacrifice fly to right field that scored Kim Riddering from third base, the Salukis jumped on Illinois State pitching ace Lori Vogel (14-4).

Becky Rickenbaugh punched a one-out single to the right side in the third inning. Kim Tummins cranked a triple over the head of the center fielder to score Rickenbaugh. Then Mary Jo Firnbach sliced an outside pitch to right for an opposite field hit that scored Tummins. After Theresa Smugala flied out to left, Shelly Gibbs ripped a double down the left field line that easily scored Rickenbaugh from first. Gibbs was thrown out at third base by left fielder Debbie Mattes trying to stretch the hit into a triple.

"We hit some bullets at people," Brechtelsbauer said.

With the Salukis ahead 3-1, the defense took over. Illinois State lead off the third with a triple and a bunt single, but two key plays by first baseman Angie LeMonnier prevented any score.

In the fourth, Illinois State lead with a double. But Rickenbaugh charged in from left field, snagging Brenda Gilles' shallow fly ball on the run and again leaving a base runner stranded on third.

"No question about it,"

Women's track dominates field with strong overall performance

By Stephanie Wood

The women's track team won 10 of 18 events in a dominating performance at the Eastern Illinois Converse Invitational this weekend.

"It's probably the best team effort that we've ever had since I've been at SIU," Coach Don DeNoon said.

SIU-C came out on top in the 15-team meet. Other Gateway teams competing included Illinois State, Indiana State, Eastern Illinois and Bradley.

Dora Kyriacou led the Salukis with three first-place finishes and two second-place efforts. She won the 400-meter dash in a personal-best 55.05 seconds. That time also set a national record in Kyriacou's native Cyprus, DeNoon said.

She won the 200-meter dash in 25.14 and helped the 4 X 400 relay team take first place.

Dora Kyriacou

The Rosanne Vincent — Michelle Sciano exchange of the baton resulted in a five-second delay, but the relay team managed to keep the lead relay for the victory. Danielle Sciano was the other leg of the relay.

Kyriacou recorded second-place finishes in the 100-meter dash with 12.39, and in the 4 X 100 relay with 47.77. The team lost by one-hundredth of a second on another bad exchange. Teammates in that relay were Brenda Beatty, Deon Jackson and Felicia Veal.

Veal captured two victories in the 100- and 400-meter hurdles. She won the 400 hurdles in 63.28 seconds and the 100 hurdles in 14.81.

Lisa Judiscak led the distance runners with victories in the 3,000- and 5,000-meter runs. She won the 3,000 with a personal-best 10:04.10 and the 5,000 in 17:45.58.

Jane Schumacher ran a personal-best 4:39:57 to win the 1,500. She placed third in the 3,000 in another personal

Sox complete sweep with 7-6 win over A's

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Lance Johnson drove in two runs and Bobby Thigpen escaped a jam with none out in the ninth inning Sunday to lead the Chicago White Sox to a 7-6 victory over the Athletics before an Oakland Coliseum crowd of 45,150.

Johnson's two-run double highlighted a five-run Chicago fourth as the White Sox completed a two-game sweep of the A's. Chicago has won 12 of the last 13 meetings between the teams and seven straight in Oakland.

Rookie Jack McDowell, 1-1, survived a shaky first inning and recorded the victory, allowing three hits in five innings. John Davis worked 1 2-3 scoreless innings before giving up a run in the ninth to bring the A's with 6-5.

Carney Lansford led off with a walk, stole second and scored on Jose Canseco's double off the left-center field wall. Thigpen relieved and Dave Parker flied out to left center. Canseco alertly tagged up because left fielder Dan Pasqua caught the ball with his back toward third.

Mark McGwire was hit by a pitch for the second time in the game, putting runners at first and third. Thigpen then struck out Ron Hansey and induced Don Baylor to pop out behind second to end the game and notch his third save.

The White Sox had taken a 7-5 lead in the ninth when Eric Plunk walked Greg Walker with the bases loaded.
