Gas consumers in Southern Illinois could continue to feel oil spill effects

By Jackie Spinner
Staff Writer

Southern Illinois gas consumers could feel the effects well into the summer months of the worst U.S. oil spill in history.

The Exxon Valdez, which crashed into Bligh Reef south of Valdez, Alaska, March 24, sent more than 10 million gallons of gasoline into Pacific waters and since the disaster, gasoline prices have increased more than 15 cents a gallon.

To meet the West Coast oil shortage, gulf coast oil has been directed to California, causing shortages in the Midwest states, which usually receive oil from refineries in New Orleans and Texas, Joan Veatch, Veatch Oil vice president, said.

With the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries cutting back oil production and additional Environmental Protection Agency regulations, gasoline prices could continue to increase during the summer.

For the rest of April, prices should stabilize with the average price per gallon for self-service unleaded gasoline at $1.06, Steve Daggers, spokesman for AAA-Chicago

Motor Club, said.

Small fluctuations in price will continue through the summer, Daggers said, "but we shouldn't see another month like this."

Philip Verleger, visiting fellow at the Institute of International Economics in Washington, said the price level also critically depends on EPA regulations.

"With new regulations, the price of gasoline could increase by 20 percent over last year," Verleger said.

'88-89 Obelisk II yearbook canceled

By Miguel Alba
Staff Writer

Plagued by a history of financial deficits and low student interest, the 1988-89 Obelisk II yearbook has been canceled leaving the organization's future in question.

Nancy Hunter Pei, student development director, said this year represents an all time low in generated book sale revenues.

"The bottom line is we just haven't sold the book," Pei said. "The Obelisk II staff has spent so much time working to put the yearbook together that they have had no time to sell it."

"In the past years, yearbook sales have peaked at 2,000 volumes," Pei said, adding this reflected low student interest in a student population of 25,000. Average sales linger between 1,200 to 1,500 copies a year.

"It (yearbook) has been slowly dying for the past few years," Pei said. "At some

Wright faces 69 violations

Gifts, book sales lead to conclusion

WASHINGTON (SHNS) — A unanimous House ethics committee charged Monday that Speaker Jim Wright violated House rules 69 times by not disclosing up to $145,000 in alleged gifts from his Texas business partner and by skirting outside income limits through bulk sales of a book.

Wright, D-Texas, immediately defended himself in a speech to a labor group, saying, "I know in my heart I have not violated any of the rules of that institution."

He is to appear Tuesday before the House Democratic Caucus to explain his position. In the meantime, his fellow Democrats are taking the "ack that the committee's charges are, so far, only allegations that have yet to be proven."

House Majority Whip Tony Coelho, D-Calif., said Wright "is entitled to a presumption of innocence and the committee must now meet a very exacting standard of proof. I remain confident the speaker will be cleared and will remain speaker so long as he wishes."

Republican reaction was generally cautious. House GOP leader Bob Mitchell, R-Ill., urged his members to "exercise extraordinary restraint and patience until final action has been taken."

An exception was Rep. Robert Walker, R-Pa., a junior member of the Republican leadership, who urged Wright to step aside as speaker until the committee proceedings are over.

William Oldaker, Wright's lawyer, insisted that Wright

ISSC financial aid students to receive $29.40 in refunds

By Lisa Miller
Staff Writer

Some students receiving financial aid from the Illinois State Scholarship Commission will get an refund on their Bursar bill.

The University's financial aid office has decided to give some refunds to students qualifying for this aid, Daniel Mann, associate financial aid director, said. The students who are receiving the most monetary aid from the ISSC will get an extra $29.40 in refunds from the University.

The students receiving the money were the ones who received the largest monetary tuition waiver of $150 this year.

The number of students to receive the extra money is very low, Mann said. Less than 20 percent of the students who receive aid from the ISSC are the ones who will receive the money.

A bill passed in January by Gov. James R. Thompson provided Illinois universities with an extra $5.7 million for financial aid.

An early payment of $350,000 was made in March to the University. The rest of the money will be sent when the ISSC recalculates the students' financial aid awards, Mann said.

The $350,000 is currently in an account in the Bursar's office. The money will stay there until the ISSC sends the rest of the financial aid.

"We will compile a list of students who are already receiving aid from ISSC and will submit to them (ISSC) for recalculation," Mann said.

Robert Clements, ISSC director, said the next payment will be made to SIUC after the list of students and their financial situations have been sent to the ISSC.

Mann said the next payment probably wouldn't come to the University until after school is out for the semester.

Mann said the University

Officials blast Exxon plan as inadequate

VALDEZ, Alaska (UPI) — State officials Monday lashed out at Exxon's long-awaited cleanup plan on the grounds that it fails to consider ridding toxic wastes and skimming contaminants from water.

Exxon, according to a draft obtained by United Press International, wants to hire 4,000 workers and launch beach cleanup efforts by April 22 in hopes of repairing damage from America's worst oil spill by the end of September when the weather turns stormy.

"Exxon seems to have a hard time getting it together," said Dennis Kelso, the state's top environmental officer. "What has happened to date shows a lack of organization, lack of planning and lack of delivery."

Kelso said he was concerned that Exxon, which took three weeks to produce a sketchy cleanup plan, would not be able to meet its own timetable.

Coast Guard Admiral Paul Yost, ordered to the site by President Bush, said time was crucial. "The oil is weathering rapidly," he said. "It's forming into tar balls and covering areas that are getting hard to reach. It's our intention to measure whether Exxon stays on target."

Exxon previously has been accused of moving too slowly.

It took the company more than 35 hours to encircle the tanker Exxon Valdez with containment booms after the March 24 rupture and four days before chemical dispersants were sprayed.

State officials were particularly incensed that the scheme failed to address waste disposal and water skimming. "We've got tons and tons of oily gunk our crews are bringing in," Kelso said.

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir and Monday he opposes Arab residents of East Jerusalem participating in elections in the occupied territories and vowed the balloting would not lead to an independent Palestinian state. Kabul sentences Jordanian in showcase trial KABUL, Afghanistan (UPI) — A special tribunal sentenced a Jordanian to 16 years in jail Monday on charges of spying against the Soviet-supported government in a trial highlighting Kabul's allegation that thousands of non-Afghans are assisting the insurgency. During the one-hour trial, witnessed by about 30 spectators and foreign reporters, the defendant denied he had fought with the U.S.-armed rebels, but admitted Saudi Arabia recruited him to mediate a dispute between two rebel commanders and to spread Islam.

Memorial services for student today

By Tracy Sargeant
Staff Writer

Memorial services for 2nd Lt. Maurice E. Smith, 24, senior in health care management, will be at 11 a.m. today at the New Zion Ministry Baptist Church, 803 Barnes St., Carbondale.

Smith, born Nov. 10, 1964 in Chicago, died April 9 from complications of meningitis while being transferred from Memorial Hospital of Carbondale to the University of Chicago Hospital by Lear jet for further medical treatment, James McCray, Smith's stepfather, said.

Smith's meningitis was not contagious, McCray said.

Scheduled to have graduated in May, Smith would have received a bachelor of science degree in health care management.

Smith had worked at the Student Recreation Center and was finishing an internship at Student Health Services.

He also was vice president of the College Health Care Executive Club. "He was a student leader and a super, person, just an all around neat guy," Elaine Vitello, director of advanced technical studies, said. "He will be missed," she said.

Smith had completed the Army ROTC program last year and had been commissioned as a second lieutenant with the medical service corps.

He wasn't sure what he wanted to do after graduation, McCray said. "A hospital in Chicago, had promised him a job, and he was also thinking about continuing in the Army," he said.

As a child, Smith always had an interest in helping children, McCray said. "He wanted to help them better their lives," he said.

"He was a Christian kid. He liked to be involved with things that involve people," McCray said.

Smith was scheduled to be transported to Chicago by helicopter April 6, but because of weather conditions the flight was delayed until late April 8, McCray said.

Smith was buried at Mount Glenwood Memory Gardens in Glenwood.

Surviving are his mother and stepfather, Rosie and James McCray; his father, Henry Smith; a sister, Glenda Smith; one grandmother, Cora Barefield; and his fiancée, Elke Daniel.

AIDS prevention workshop slated

By Tracy Sargeant
Staff Writer

The AIDS prevention workshop, one of many events sponsored during AIDS Awareness Week, deals with the importance of knowledge, attitudes and social values.

The workshop took place at 11:30 a.m. Monday in the Vermillion Room of the Student Center. It will be repeated at 11:30 a.m. Thursday in the Sangamon Room. Wally Elling, senior in health communication, explained that some people might be embarrassed to express their feelings and personal opinions about Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome.

"In the Health Advocate program, we've decided that it's probably better that you be a little bit embarrassed than to die from a disease that you didn't know about," he said.

Communication was the main point stressed in one of the two videos presented at the workshop.

Elling explained why he decided to conduct the workshop on AIDS prevention. "This subject was the most interesting to me because I didn't know that much about it," Elling said.

"I found out the more knowledgeable I became about AIDS, the less scared I became," he said.

It's time for SIU-C to vote for Progress

THE UNDERGRADUATE Student Government elections are Wednesday and the choices are three: First, NeXT and Progress.

Of the three parties, the candidates for the Progress Party, Tim Hildebrand and Lisa Sproule, have the qualities that would help the USG serve the student interest.

Their platform is simple but feasible: extend the Bursar's and library hours; bring fast food franchises into the Student Center; introduce a directory of classes that would give students a preview of the classes they will take.

These are not complex issues, but will make life simpler for students. The candidates have checked into the ideas on their platform and have reasonable plans for accomplishing them.

ONE OF THE more serious planks for which the Progress candidates have been unfairly maligned is their stance on Black American Studies. While we don't agree with their advocacy of BAS courses in the general education curriculum, Hildebrand and Sproule want to work with the African American Studies Association to convince the administration to look at BAS seriously.

The inclusion of mass transit in the platform along with new parking lots and a University towing service has been questioned by some.

But since the University already owns tow trucks, it would be a benefit to students if the University did not contract out to other towing services. Students' cars would be towed by the University for a minimal fee instead of the higher fee charged by other towing services. This would not affect mass transit because some people would still drive and inevitably be towed.

AND ALTHOUGH mass transit would make travel safer and easier for students, it would not alleviate the parking problem.

Although Halloween has not been a major issue in this campaign, the fall break has. The Progress Party candidates will stand behind the students' referendum vote on the fall break issue, but said it would be more beneficial to have a break earlier in the semester.

They also want to educate students about USG, starting with new students at orientation.

Both Hildebrand, presidential candidate, and Sproule, vice presidential candidate, have experience in USG. They have said everything on their platform is something they can and will accomplish — and we'll hold them to it.

The other candidates have some good ideas such as the First Party's idea for a newsletter to keep students informed about what's going on in USG, and the NeXT Party's idea to help international students get campus jobs more easily.

But both platforms are far too vague.

THE FIRST PARTY candidates have little experience and one of the items they voiced concern over — security lighting in Thompson Woods — was resolved in a senate meeting. Yet Charles Loiseau, First Party presidential candidate, who is now a senator, used it on his platform.

Although the NeXT Party vice presidential candidate, Charles Hagerman, has the experience and leadership ability for the job, the presidential candidate, Brian Skinner, leaves something to be desired.

Skinner was asked if he is now involved in any court proceedings. His answer was "No." However, records in Jackson County Courthouse indicate Skinner is scheduled to appear in court April 25 on four counts of failure to repay $474.60 in loans.

On Wednesday we ask you to go to one of the polling places throughout campus and vote for the people who will control some $250,000 in student fees next year. And vote for Progress.

Many have financial problems, but education is never a waste

Dear Eric Pounder,
I am sure this is a big surprise to you but millions of students pay for their own education all the time.

I think it appalling that you would find this responsibility of yours a burden. That is I think it is amazing that you would feel that it is someone else's responsibility to pay for your education. Furthermore, I have no sympathy for a really mouth complainer.

You complaints are no comparison to mine. I have four children to care for; a husband who has been laid off for two years and can't find a decent job now; I am carrying 15 hours and I work as an R.N. in the evenings.

I am not an honors student as you Mr. Pounder, but I do the best I can. I don't have a campus job with the maximum amount of hours (20 hours). I work 30 to 40 hours a week at nights and I do the best I can.

Please don't misunderstand. I am sure you are upset at having to work so hard to make ends meet. I guess if you should blame someone it should be someone else and not you.

It is easy to point your finger at resident Guyon. However, instead of pointing fingers maybe you could take a look at yourself and see if there might be some things you might want to change about yourself.

Furthermore, education is never a waste. It surprised me that I would read that an honors student thinks that education is a waste.

This motivates me to ask: If you felt school was a waste, how come you feel like someone else should pay for this waste? Just exactly whose money were you planning on wasting so you could get an education?

If I were an honors student and my education was threatened in some way, I would camp out on President Guyon's front lawn until something was changed so I could continue. Guyon and the administration would have no choice but to recognize me.

I would demand an education because I am a person in this world and if there is one thing I have a right to, that is education.

Any way I get it doesn't matter, just as long as I do. Every person should have a right to this education. You see, I believe education is one of the most important concepts a person can totally have on their own. No one in this world can ever take your education away from you.

At any rate, it is a shame you are having so many problems. Also, I guess I better mention that the example of the lady is not really me. I am really a single student with problems similar to you, only there is one difference between you and me — I am sticking it out.

There might be one good thing you can get out of all this, and that is when you think things are really bad, think about them being worse. Then you might feel better that things really aren't that bad.

— Vicki L. Aponte, junior, psychology.

Adoption good alternative, but difficult

This letter is in response to the adoption ads published in the DE. I am concerned that couples advertising for an infant will not be as carefully screened by social workers trained in child placement, as those couples who patiently wait their turn to adopt.

I realize that the state's Department of Children and Family Services will visit the home once the child is placed and before the adoption is finalized, but an after-the-fact visitation would probably not be as extensive as the normal wait of several years.

Another factor to consider is the ease or difficulty in making contact with a relinquished child once the child is grown. State and private agencies have permanent records, unlike a private attorney who could die or move away, making the possibility of a reunion more difficult.

Don't believe the consoling advice that you will forget this baby, or that you will have other children to replace this one.

I gave up my infant son in 1967 and never stopped thinking of him. Nor did I have any other children, but I was fortunate enough to have successful reunion with my son after an 18 month search. My reason for subscribing to the DE is his enrollment at SIU.

For personal and religious reasons I consider adoption preferable to abortion. But also consider single parenting. Visit the support group which meets at the Wesley Foundation before you make a decision on what is best for you and your unborn child. — Janet Martineau, Sidney, Montana.

Keeping records could help reduce book theft

On April 7 I left a textbook and a notebook in a classroom in Faner Hall. Two hours later I retrieved the notebook, but found the textbook gone.

On April 13 I discovered that 710 bookstore and the University Bookstore would accept descriptions of lost and stolen books to guard against attempts at reselling these books.

After filling out a description at 710 I went downstairs and found my book on the shelves.

The name had not even been marked over!

I went back upstairs and showed the book to the manager who compared it with the description I had just given. The manager then gave me the book without charging me anything. I am grateful to 710, and I thank the manager for returning the book without questioning my integrity.

Still, I question 710's buy-back policy. I was told that the store keeps no records of the books it buys back throughout the semester. This policy seems to make book theft more lucrative.

I feel the store should make it its policy to record the seller's name and social security number.

This small bureaucratic task would have a big payoff by reducing theft on campus. — Julie Meyerson, graduate student, anthropology.

House ethics panel decision centers on rules about gifts

WASHINGTON (SHNS)—The House ethics committee charges questioning Speaker Jim Wright's business and book dealings cut to the core of what constitutes a "gift" and when it is improper for a member of Congress to accept something, even from an old friend.

Potentially the most serious charge is whether Wright, D-Texas, and his wife Betty received improper gifts from George Mallick, a friend for 30 years and their Fort Worth business partner, and whether Mallick had "a direct interest in legislation."

The $145,000 in alleged gifts the Wrights are accused of taking include:

- $72,000 in salary paid Betty Wright from 1991 to 1984 from the Wrights' and Mallick's investment firm, Mallightco, Inc.

- $31,698 in free housing in a Fort Worth condominium owned by the Mallick family between 1979 and 1984, and $21,790 in cut-rate rent for the condominium after Mrs. Wright stopped working for Mallightco in 1984.

- $19,391 for use and maintenance of a Mallightco-owned 1979 Cadillac Seville by Mrs. Wright between 1983 and 1988.

- Wright insists his wife earned her salary and that the condo and car were benefits that came with her employment by a company that was half-owned by them. But the ethics committee, in each instance, said it had found "reason to believe" Mrs. Wright's pay and perks were not "wholly independent of her spousal relationship."

If the salary, the condo and the car constitute gifts, the question then is whether Mallick had a direct interest in legislation.

Mrs. Wright's $18,000 a year was reported as salary, but the car and condo arrangements were not listed as fringe benefits.

will provide "clear and convincing evidence" that he didn't violate the rules during the next phase of committee deliberations. He said the charges constitute "retroactive writing of the rules."

In "a statement of alleged violation" approved by the six Democrats and six Republicans on the ethics committee, the charges are divided into five counts saying there is "reason to believe" Wright violated the House code of official conduct and other rules in 69 separate instances between 1979 and 1988.

The committee is also continuing an investigation into an oil and gas deal involving Wright and his wife.

Ethics committee chairman Julian Dixon, D-Calif., emphasized that the panel's action is similar to an indictment — based on a comparatively low standard of proof — and not a conviction.

"The speaker of the House has not been found guilty of any violations, but from a review of the evidence the committee has found reason to believe" violations may have occurred, Dixon said.

He added that during the next stage of the committee's outside counsel, must provide "clear and convincing proof" that Wright broke the rules.

The committee will allow Wright at least 21 days to respond and another 30 days before it decides whether Wright violated the rules and what punishment, if any, should be recommended to the full House.

Although Wright has written the ethics committee asking to appear within a week, Dixon said he had just received the letter and did not know when Wright will appear.

point you feel like you're beating a dead horse."

Pei and Obelisk II staff met on March 24 to discuss the 1988-89 yearbook and the financial troubles it faced. Several alternatives, including changing to a less expensive magazine format, were discussed.

Though some of the work already had been done, the Obelisk II staff later decided to cancel the 1988-89 yearbook because of delays in the publisher bidding process and a lack of time needed to put the yearbook together, Pei said.

Referring to Obelisk II records, Pei said there were 51 paid orders for the yearbook, 67 unpaid orders, 100 agreed to defer the amount paid for last year's unpublished book to this year's, and 218 were spoken for but not paid.

Only 849 of the 2,000 expected senior portraits were taken, adding to the deficit column, Pei said.

Pei said the yearbook has been in debt since it started up again in the late seventies. She said the amount of its debt has fluctuated from $10,000 to $20,000 a year; a profit has never materialized.

Though it has survived in a deficit through past years, Pei said the organization most likely will disappear because no stable financial support exists for the ailing yearbook.

The organization receives funding from student government, senior portrait commissions, yearbook sales and $1.25 from the Monolith, a freshman directory publication.

She said the organization's future will be influenced by the results of a referendum that will appear on the Undergraduate Student Government elections ballot.

The referendum is to ascertain whether or not students are in support of a special 50-cent-per-student, per-semester, fee to fund the Obelisk II.

So far, the topic has received mixed reviews by student government leaders.

Students who have purchased a 1988-89 yearbook will have to wait six weeks from the refund voucher date to get their money back, Hunter Pei said. She said the vouchers should begin to be processed by the end of the month.

The Obelisk II closed operations in the early seventies and returned in the late seventies by student demand, a cycle that Pei said could happen again if the organization folds.

Sue Shelton, Obelisk II adviser, said the staff decided to call it quits after reviewing all the options available.

Shelton said she could not blame any particular person for the cancellation.

would use the rest of the money from the bill to compensate for tuition waivers granted last fall.

Since tuition increased in the middle of a school year, the Board of Trustees allowed the students receiving ISSC aid to pay the same price in tuition as they had in the fall semester.

"Starting the fall semester, all student will be expected to pay the same price for tuition," Mann said. "However, the ISSC will take into account the tuition hike when deciding how much financial aid each student who applies will receive."

Both the Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses combined are expected to receive $900,000 from the $5.7 million.

"That number is not set in stone," Clements said. "It could fluctuate either way. However, SIU is likely to get more than less."

The Monetary Award Program, the Illinois Veterans Grant and the National GUAC are the subdivision of the ISSC.

mean an extra 20-cents a gallon at the pumps this summer, when prices normally increase for the peak driving season.

A St. Louis District Manager of Amoco said people get excited and fill up their gas tanks, removing inventory and putting pressure on gas prices.

George Beltz added that gas prices have been "unrealistically low" and summer could bring minor fluctuations in price.

University economics associate professor Michael Shields agreed that psychology plays an important role in the gasoline market.

"The price of oil depends on what people think the future price will be," Shields explained.

Full beef truck breaks down; driver sells meat at bargain

By Richard Nunez
Staff Writer

Bob McGinnis was hauling three-quarters of a ton of meat from Mobile, Ala. to Belleville, Ill. when his truck broke down in Carbondale Monday.

McGinnis was hauling the meat down Illinois Route 13 when his transmission gave out and he was forced to park in the Firestone MasterCare Service Center parking lot near the University Mall.

McGinnis had a problem. On Wednesday, McGinnis said he was driving around the coast of the Gulf of Mexico looking for anyone wanting to ship seafood. Instead, he picked up a load of meat from the Hinton Beef Co. in Mobile to be shipped to Belleville.

"They asked me, 'Can you get the...?' " McGinnis said. "I said 'We'll try,' " he said. McGinnis fell short of his destination by almost 100 miles. McGinnis called the Hinton Beef Co., told them of his problem and got permission to sell the beef at retail cost.

With the approval of the Jackson County Health Department and Carbondale City Hall, McGinnis set up shop in the Firestone parking lot and sold the meat to passersby. As of 4 p.m. Monday, McGinnis had 90 cases left.

McGinnis was selling packages containing 12 ribeye steaks for $25, which was $34.50 off the market price and packages of 12 New York strip steaks for $28, which was $29.50 off the market price.

McGinnis also was selling a variety pack containing 84 cuts of meat including 24 ribeye steaks, 12 New York strip steaks, eight T-bone steaks, 20 cube steaks and 20 pork chops for $125, which was $124.50 off the market price.

"The meat is USDA select beef, already inspected," McGinnis said.

McGinnis said he expects to be selling the meat at the same location today.

Successful media figures visit for Journalism Week

By Marc Blumer
Staff Writer

A group of nationally renowned media figures have been assembled to address students in the School of Journalism during the week of April 17 to the 21.

Among the key speakers who will visit the campus during Journalism Week are SIU-C graduates Scott Shaw, a Pulitzer Prize-winning journalist for the Odessa (Tex.) American; Rick Talley, former sports columnist for the Los Angeles Daily News and author of a new book on the 1969 Chicago Cubs; Judith Roales, president of Independent Newspapers Inc.

Also speaking will be David Bennett, executive director of the Illinois Press Association and Richard McCann, news editor for the Houston Post.

Walter Jaehnig, director of the School of Journalism, said: "The main goals of (journalism week) are twofold. First, we want to expose the students to successful, young media people and let the students rub shoulders with them and get an idea what it takes to reach that level. Second, we want to honor students who have excelled in the classroom and in extra-curricular activities."

"We think we have assembled a group of terrific people. They are all young, energetic, successful people in the media industry," Jaehnig said.

Shaw, a 1985 graduate, won a 1988 Pulitzer for his photograph of Jessica McCare, who was trapped in Texas well for several days. Shaw will address students on the topic of making a career as a photojournalist.

Bennett will speak at 7 p.m. Wednesday night at the Morris Library Auditorium on freedom of information in Illinois. This lecture is sponsored by the SIU-C chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists.

McCann will make a presentation 3 p.m. Wednesday in the Communications Building on editing and design of the modern American newspaper.

Talley, a 1988 graduate, will speak to journalism classes on sports writing.

Education becomes winner after increase in Lottery sales

By Daniel Wallenberg
Staff Writer

Because of increased lottery sales, state Sens. Jim Rea, D-Christopher, and Patrick Welch, D-LaSalle-Peru, have introduced an amendment raising the amount of education funding by $37 million for fiscal year 1989.

"A few years ago, we passed legislation to send lottery profits to education. The lottery has provided approximately $500 million annually to education," Rea said.

"However, the governor has decreased the amount appropriated from the General Revenue Fund to education," he said.

Cindy Huebner, a spokeswoman for Rea, said education receives about 50 percent of the money raised through lottery sales. The money goes into the Common School Fund, she said.

The rest of the money is distributed among the winners of the weekly lottery.

Education is the only program benefited by lottery sales, Huebner said.

Huebner said the basis behind the amendment is so that the $200 million allocated for education from the General Revenue Fund is not reduced by the governor.

The senators do not want the amount of the increase in Lottery funds put into education to be deducted from the money allocated by the General Revenue Fund, Huebner said.

"Every new dollar that we can find should be allocated to education," the senators said.

As a general rule for every $1.3 billion in Lottery sales, education will receive about $550 million, Huebner said.

Huebner said in this fiscal year, which ends June 30, there are projected Lottery sales of $1,506 billion. This would mean at least an increase of $37 million for education.

"We now have the opportunity, with the increased profits from the Lottery for fiscal year '89, to make Illinois education a 'Lotto' winner," Rea said.

AIDS awareness stressed; behavior crucial to safe sex

By Andrew Hoffman
and Mary Ann Wildwood
of the Wellness Center

Mike is thinking about his date with Lisa tonight. They could end up spending the night together.

Like many college students, Mike is fairly knowledgeable about HIV (the Human Immunodeficiency Virus that causes acquired immunodeficiency syndrome) and other sexually transmitted diseases.

Probably, like many college students, thoughts of using condoms for protection enter Mike's mind. The thoughts quickly vanish.

He thinks about how healthy and great Lisa looks. He thinks she's sure he could tell if Lisa had HIV or another STD. He would just sense it somehow.

Although he's heard about

To Your Health

college students contracting HIV, he believes there is no way "it" could ever happen to him.

Also, if he brought a condom Lisa might think he sleeps around or that he suspects she does.

Maybe Mike and Lisa won't get HIV. Then again, maybe they will. Maybe one of them has the virus and is spreading it to his or her partner(s). Maybe you or your friends are like Mike and Lisa.

With HIV, there are a lot of maybe's, but here are some facts:

■ Anyone who engages in risky behavior in which contaminated semen or blood enters the body can catch HIV.

■ About one in four college students acquire an STD. HIV is transmitted in many of the same ways.

■ HIV is in Southern Illinois. ■ Even people who look healthy may transmit the virus.

■ People can protect themselves by abstaining from sexual intercourse and avoiding contact with another person's blood.

■ The best way to reduce the risk of HIV infection is to have sex with one partner who is not infected.

■ Proper use of a latex condom greatly reduces the risk of HIV infection. A spermicide with the agent nonoxonyl-9, which destroys HIV, gives extra protection.

Sex can never be safe. But condoms reduce the chances of HIV infection, other STDs and pregnancy.

Students compete, take 1st

University News Service

A team of law students from the University took first place at the American Bar Association regional moot court competition held April 7 and 8 at Indiana University.

The victory, the team's fourth in five years, means a chance at ABA national competition for the fifth year in a row. ABA finals will take place in August in Washington, D.C.

Team members are Kimberly A. King, a third-year law student from Peoria and second-year students Kimberly A. Staten of Chicago and Stephen W. Stone of Decatur.

Competing against representatives from law schools in Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin, the SIU-C team argued a hypothetical dispute over financial responsibility for damages awarded to a person beaten by city police.

SIU-C defeated the Illinois Institute of Technology and Chicago-Kent College of Law to take the first-place title.

University law professor Howard B. Eisenberg, who coached the 1985 and 1986 teams to national victories, serves as faculty adviser to the River to River Relay race triples in size

By Marc Blivner
Staff Writer

The 1,000 or so runners who raced 80 miles across Southern Illinois last Saturday in the River to River Relay discovered that the 2nd annual event, which had tripled in size, has become a major race in the area.

"The race was a big success," Gordon Pitz, SIU-C professor and race director, said. "The 120 volunteers, led by Rosemary Rouse, made sure the race ran very smoothly, and they did a wonderful job."

Runners represented six states and Canada among the 122 teams.

In the format of the race, each team, consisting of eight members, started at Pine Mills Bluff on the banks of the Mississippi River. Each member of the team ran three, three-mile legs until the final runner reached the finish line at the Ohio River in Gloconda.

A team from southern Indiana, The Indiana Brew Crew, placed first in the open division, completing the 80-mile course in 7 hours, 9 minutes, 7 seconds.

The Southern Illinois Boomerangs from Carbondale took the women's title with 9:20.12, while the Prairie State Young and Restless team from Joliet won the mixed division title in 8:04.45.

All of the teams finished with only one team failing to make the cutoff time to be counted as an official finisher. Pitz said that the team in question was at a disadvantage because only six of its runners showed up.

Seminar scheduled for staff evaluations

Library Affairs will sponsor the seminar, "Staff Evaluation: Who Does it, Who Gets It, Who Uses It and Why?" in two sessions on Thursday.

William Capie, SIU-C executive director of personnel and labor relations, will begin the morning session speaking on "Purposes and Objectives of Employee Evaluations," at 8:50 a.m. in the University Museum Auditorium.

Capie's lecture will be followed by Donald Bryant, executive-in-residence at the College of Business and Administration, who will speak on "Performance Appraisal" at 10 a.m.

The afternoon will consist of a panel discussion on "Staff Evaluation in Library Affairs," which will be held from 1:30 to 3 p.m. in Morris Library, in the third floor conference room.

The public is invited to attend the seminar. For details, contact Roland Person or Nancy Fligor in the Undergraduate Library, 453-2818.

Rea sponsors bill to outlaw disrespectful display of flag

By Daniel Wallenberg
Staff Writer

In response to the display of the American flag on the floor of a Chicago Art Institute exhibit, state Sen. Jim Rea, D-Chicago, has sponsored legislation that would make such an act a Class 4 felony.

If convicted, a Class 4 felony carries a penalty of one to three years in prison or a possible $10,000 fine or both.

Cindy Huebner, a spokeswoman for Rea, said Rea was concerned about the exhibit in which people had to step on the flag in order to sign a book.

"I don't believe it is right to display the flag in a manner where it could be damaged. If the law is unclear in that respect, then it should be clarified," Rea said.

Currently, the legislation is under consideration on the state Senate floor.

If approved by both the Senate and the House and signed into law, the legislation would become effective immediately.

The legislation has received support from several Illinois veterans groups including the Illinois Vietnam Veterans Leadership Program, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion, Disabled American Veterans, Paralyzed Veterans of America, Military Order of the Purple Heart, Viet Now, Vietnam Veterans of America and Windy City Veterans.

Amateur fashion show realistic, successful

By Jackie Lay
Student Writer

While half of the models were getting their hair curled, teased and braided, the other half were getting their make-up done by Patti Webber, a senior in clothing and textiles.

Donna Kilgore and Unmi "Grace" Lee, both seniors in clothing and textiles were busy racking the clothes in order of scenes, making sure that accessories were coupled with garments and that last minute pins and needles were in place.

Despite all the commotion and anxiety behind the scenes, "The Art of Fashion Show" was displayed in an orderly fashion by Kilgore and Lee as part of their senior project for clothing and textiles Friday night in Quigley auditorium.

"Time was short and patience was necessary," Krystal O'Neal, junior in business and model in the show, said. "We only had one minute between scenes to change and get ready for the next set."

Other clothing and textiles students were used to assist the models in their quick changes between scenes.

"We were very proud of the models," said Lee. "They only got to practice on the stage 30 minutes before the show began. Some people told me that they should be real runway models."

Kilgore's designs were first in the show. Four scenes were used to display business, sports, casual and evening wear. A total of 30 garments were modeled.

During intermission, Liz Cross, one of the models sang, "The Rose," which was popularized by Bette Midler. Originally, Berlando Drake was going to sing. "Luckily, we had Liz. She had professional voice training and volunteered, on a whim, to sing when the other girl didn't come," Lee said.

Also, pianist Jeff McIntosh sang, "Crazy," by Kenny Rogers and one of his own tunes called "Magic Mirror."

Lee opened her fashion display with swimwear. She incorporated 70 designs into 12 scenes.

Her designs included more than one scene from sports, casual, career, evening and night-life wear.

Both designers were pleased with the turnout of the show. "It was pretty crowded in Quigley auditorium. People were even standing up in the back," Lee said.

1989 SPRING SEMESTER FINAL EXAM SCHEDULE

The examination schedule attempts to avoid examination conflicts by providing separate examination periods for Tuesday-Thursday lecture classes. Other information about final examinations is listed below:

1. The class final exam period is scheduled based on the meeting time and days configuration listed on the first line of the class entry in the Schedule of Classes book (which should be the same as the first printed line for the section on the registered student's schedule print-out). For example, a class section is listed in the Schedule book on two lines in the manner:

08:00 T TH
09:00 10:50 W

The listed starting time for the first line of the entry is "8:00". The meeting days of that first line are "T TH", and therefore are in the category "Only T or TH or T TH". The Exam Date and Period is by the attached Spring '89 Final Examination schedule to be Thursday, May 11 at 12:50 p.m. - 2:50 p.m.

2. Classes should plan to hold their final examination in their regularly scheduled class rooms. The space scheduling section of the Office of Admissions and Records will forward to departments information relative to the location for examinations in their regularly scheduled rooms because of a space conflict. This will be done sufficiently in advance of the final examination days to provide sufficient notice for all.

3. Students who find they have more than three examinations on one day may petition, and students who have two examinations scheduled at one time should petition their academic dean for approval to take an examination during the make-up examination period on the last day. Provision for such a make-up examination period does not mean that students may decide to miss the scheduled examination time and expect to make it up during this make-up period. This period is to be used only for students whose petitions have been approved by their dean.

Wind Ensemble to play at Shryock

By Wayne Wallace
Entertainment Editor

After countless rehearsals and a three-day tour of seven Southern Illinois high schools, the University Wind Ensemble is gearing up to pull off a near-flawless performance, conductor Mike Hanes said.

"We've performed the show four to six times now, so we've got all the bugs worked out," Hanes said of the Spring Band Concert to be performed at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Shryock Auditorium.

General admission is $2 and students tickets are $1 with all proceeds going to music scholarships in the SIUC School of Music.

Made up of the top brass, woodwind and percussion players at the University, the 50-member concert band will perform music ranging from traditional marches to new, original compositions.

Hanes said he is especially excited about the performance because Norbert Meier, band director at Mascoutah High School, will be honored as a special guest.

Meier is retiring from teaching after 31 years as an instrumental music educator. He was the junior high band director at Mascoutah for 23 years, high school director for the past eight years and served as supervisor of music in the Mascoutah system for the past 12 years.

In recognition of his outstanding service to music education in Southern Illinois, Hanes said Meier will conduct the Wind Ensemble in "The Southerner," Russell Alexander's march.

Hanes said he hopes to make such honors a regular part of future Wind Ensemble concerts, citing the great number of Southern Illinois music educators who've given their time and knowledge to local youth.

Another concert highlight will be a flute solo performed by Patricia Dusenbury, a graduate student from Polo, majoring in flute performance.

Dusenbury will be featured on Cecile Chaminade's "Concertino for Flute and Band," a work rarely performed at SIUC, Hanes said.

"It's not often you find a flutist good enough to play it," he added.

Dan Phillips, assistant director of bands and horn teacher in the School of Music, will guest conduct the band in his own arrangements of "Rameses March" by J.J. Richards and "Chester," a Revolutionary War hymn and American band classic by William Schuman.

Hanes, who's conducted the ensemble for five years and taught at the University for 20 years, said University Wind Ensemble is a misleading title for the group.

"It sounds like we're a bunch of woodwinds, but we're not. We've got brass and percussion too, of course," Hanes said.

Master Swim Club captures 11 first place finishes

Campus physician claims eight honors to lead SIU-C group

By Stephanie Wood
Staff Writer

The Salukis Master Swim Club made a big splash at the state championship bringing home 11 first-place finishes.

Mary Pohlmann, a physician at the Health Service competing in the 40-44 women category, led the way winning eight events at Northwestern's facility in Evanston April 14-16. The five-person team placed 18th out of 36 teams.

"We had a very good showing," Pohlmann said. "We're all very pleased with our times."

Pohlmann won the 50-yard backstroke (34.39 seconds), 100 backstroke (1:15.19), 200 backstroke (2:41.18), 200 individual medley (2:46.34), 400 individual medley (5:57.33), 50 freestyle, 1,650 freestyle (22:59.18) and the 50 butterfly (33.20).

"This is the one I'm most proud of," Pohlmann said referring to her 200 individual medley victory. "I brought my time down five seconds."

Larry Good, associate professor in physical education, won the 200 individual medley in the 50-54 male category with a time of 2:36.30. He finished second in the 100 backstroke (1:11.55), 100 individual medley (1:11.46), 50 backstroke (32.71) and the 200 backstroke (2:34.53).

Ed Shea, a professor emeritus in the physical education department, won both the 500 and 1,650 freestyle events with times of 7:41.99 and 27:07.53 respectively. Shea competed in the 70-74 men category.

Competing in the 19-24 men age group was Jeff Bonebrake. Bonebrake, a junior in finance from Oak Forest, placed sixth in the 200 freestyle in 2:06.03. He earned a seventh-place finish in the 50 freestyle in 25.21.

Alex Wilson, a second year law student, capture one second-place and three third-place finishes in the 25-29 men category. The Edwardsville native was second in the 200 breaststroke in 2:28.41. His third-place scores came in the 100 breaststroke (1:05.20), 200 butterfly (2:17.77) and the 400 individual medley (4:51.07).

Boston Marathon's medical tent not a place for the weak stomach

BOSTON (UPI) — The yellow-and-white stripes of the medical tent at the Boston Marathon finish line suggest a circus, but there is no festivity inside.

The groans are interspersed by retching and the crackle of Mylar blankets. Green, bile-filled vomit is splashed on the ground, near discarded bloody socks.

Runners who pushed themselves too far, too fast are rocking in agony on their cots. Knees are pulled tight to chest, faces are too white or too red, hands shake as the runners wait for the intravenous solution to restore their lost fluids. The stinging odor of liniment fills the air.

"This is about the closest you could find to a mass-casualty situation, except for war," said Lawrence Armstrong, a volunteer physiologist. "This is maybe on the order of gas or chlorine leaks when a box car overturns."

While winners Abebe Mekonnen and Ingrid Kristiansen enjoyed the limelight at the Copley Plaza

Hotel next door, some 1,000 other runners staggered, fell or were carried into the medical care tent.

The rows of cots stretched out seemingly without end — all of them filled with runners — from muscular teenagers to wizened octogenarians.

The Boston Athletic Association has assembled 450 volunteer doctors, nurses, physiologists and others assigned either to the tent or the sidelines of the race route, said Dr. Bruce Jones, one of the medical organizers.

The clear skies and near-70 degree temperatures delighted spectators but severely strained the athletes.

"The body can't absorb (liquid) as much as you lose through sweat," Armstrong said. "On a day like today, some people lose as much as two quarts an hour."

Jones said the warm temperatures doubled what he called "the casualty rate" over last year when it rained and was in the 50s.

While 6 to 7 percent of last year's runners sought medical attention, about 12 percent needed treatment this year, Jones said.

"Today, most people suffered muscle cramps and blisters," he said. "The most serious injuries are nausea, vomiting, confusion and stuporosity."

Even though the increased use of IV this year cut recovery time for runners in half to about 20 minutes, according to Jones, the bellowing voice over the loudspeaker indicated the 236 cot spaces couldn't be emptied quickly enough.

Leadership.

A good man can handle it.

You don't have to look twice to see that this man is in charge. There's a certain strength of character, an undeniable sense of self-confidence, that says he is a leader. Men believe in him, because he believes in himself. He is a Marine officer.

Blues, Blackhawks open division finals tonight

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — St. Louis and Chicago entered their Stanley Cup quarterfinal series with the Blues wary of a potent playmaker and the Blackhawks conscious of a resilient goaltender.

The Norris Division finalists open their best-of-seven series Tuesday at St. Louis and play every other night, switching to Chicago for Games 3 and 4.

The Blues, who lost no division series this season, went 6-1-1 against the Blackhawks this season — largely due to Greg Millen's goaltending.

"I don't know if the team gave us too much trouble," Chicago Coach Mike Keenan said. "Millen gave us trouble. Millen thrived on playing the Chicago Blackhawks."

Millen, an acrobatic goalie, posted a 2.10 goals-against average while playing every minute of the regular-season series against Chicago.

"As a goaltender, the more things go well for you, the more your confidence builds," Chicago captain Dirk Graham said. "He had his confidence against us. He played some really good games. We're just going to have to be driving for the net, keep working at it and keep shooting."

The Blackhawks were the NHL's last team to make the playoffs, needing overtime in the regular-season finale to qualify. But a key factor in their dismal stretch drive was the ankle injury star center Denis Savard suffered against St. Louis which sidelined him for 22 games and diminished his effectiveness after he returned. But in Chicago's six-game upset of division champion Detroit, Savard scored four goals and set up nine others.

"He's a superstar and a game-breaker," said Millen, who had 2.84 goals against average against Minnesota in the first round.

Traditionally, St. Louis checker Rick Meagher fared well against Savard, who this season managed only six games, two goals and two assists against the Blues.

"The key to the series is Rick Meagher's checking line and the goaltending," said St. Louis sniper Brett Hull said. "Kick has to do the job on Savard and we need good goaltending."

Savard expects to see Meagher on his usual shadowing assignment but thinks he can adjust.

"He usually picks me up in the neutral zone and stays with me the whole game. I'll have to adjust and keep talking with my wingers."

"There's a lot of challenges still waiting for me, though."

Detroit was just one step. We have three more to take.

The speedy Blackhawks has managed 22 points in 15 career playoff games against St. Louis and leads Chicago in career playoff statistics with 42 goals and 52 assists in 69 games.

The Blues outscored the Blackhawks 27-17 in the season series and came into the playoffs as the NHL's second-hottest team behind Montreal, going 16-5-2 since February 22. St. Louis has had a week off since knocking Minnesota out of the first round in five games.

Bobby Hull's son over thrill of playing dad's team

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The thrill of playing Chicago nowadays escapes Brett Hull, whose father gave the Blackhawks some of the biggest thrills in their history.

The son of legendary Bobby Hull leads the St. Louis Blues against his father's former team for a best-of-seven Stanley Cup quarterfinal starting Tuesday at St. Louis.

"The first couple of times I played the Blackhawks it was neat," Hull said. "But I'm over that. I'm a St. Louis Blue."

Bobby Hull, a 12-time Chicago All-Star whose No. 9 was retired, is not expected to attend any of the games. He will be in St. Louis to discuss stress and ulcers on April 24 but the series will have shifted to Chicago.

"I think maybe I caused some of them," Hull said jokingly of his father's stomach problems. "I didn't know he was coming to town. I don't hear from his too often."

The shadow Bobby casts over his son remains large but Brett is developing into a fine hockey player himself.

Hull led the Blues with 41 goals this season and other teams have begun assigning a check to him — a right reserved for high-scoring snipers around the league. He is developing into the player the Blues traded for in March, 1988, when they gave up All-Star defenseman Rob Ramage and dependable goaltender Rick Wamsley to Calgary for Hull.

"When you score goals, people notice you," St. Louis Coach Brian Sutter said. "Brett can score with anybody. He's doing exactly what we want."

The hard slap shot reminds many of his father's and Brett concedes his game has room for improvement.

"Everybody can improve," Hull said. "(Wayne) Gretzky can improve, not much, but he can improve. I try and improve every game. Everything is going well here."

"I'm happy. You have to do the best you can and I think I do. They stress the positive around here."

That was a problem for Hull when he played with Calgary, where he was accused of being a one-way player.

"They don't take you in and make you watch film of your mistakes," Hull said. "They keep it positive around here."

Hull scored four goals in the opening round against Minnesota and is looking forward to the next round.

"I'm chomping at the bit," Hull said. "I'm ready to play. This is the playoffs. This is the best time of the year. You have to be excited about playing now. This is what it's all about."

The Blues dominated Chicago 6-1-1 during the regular season but Hull said that has no bearing on the championship series.

"The keys will be Rick Meagher checking Denis Savard and goaltending," he said. "What happened during the season doesn't matter. I don't even think about it."

"I just want to play a game. We haven't played since last Tuesday and I want to play."

Herrin taps Chicago for 2 top recruits

By David Gallanetti
Staff Writer

Saluki men's basketball coach Rich Herrin is smiling. Not only did SIU-C sign two of Illinois' top 20 high school players for the coming year, it would seem the Chicago connection is alive and well.

Evanston's Tyrone Bell and Rich East's Jason Hodges signed national letters of intent late Sunday night for SIU-C.

"They are both outstanding basketball players and outstanding students," Herrin said. "I think it is a step in the right direction with the Chicago area. It is a great plus for our program. This is a very exciting day for us."

Bell, a 6-foot 3, 185, guard, scored 19 points per game and shot 53 percent at Evanston. Bell, an honor student, was a two-year starter for the Wildkats, who went 48-12 his junior and senior seasons.

Hodges, also a 6-3, 185-pound

Evanston signee stirs memories for Hart, Mahan

By David Gallanetti
Staff Writer

West Proviso's basketball holiday tournament has been very good to Saluki athletics.

Tyrone Bell, an Evanston High School product who signed a letter of intent with the Salukis late Sunday night, was a first team all-tournament pick at the highly touted tournament this season.

Sterling Mahan, a sophomore at SIU-C, was named first team during his playing days at St. Joseph High School, and Athletics Director Jim Hart was named to the first all-tournament team in 1961 when he played at Niles West High School.

Hart said the signing of Bell has stirred some old high school memories for him.

"I remember before Christmas someone from the Chicago Tribune called and mentioned I was on it," Hart said. "That must have been a lean year for players at that time. I feel honored to have been mentioned with some of the names who have made it there."

Hart said he was listed as a forward on the team, but played center for Niles West. The former NFL star said he lettered in basketball three years in high school, while receiving only two in his claim to fame—football.

adapt well to Division I basketball.

Hodges was a member of the Chicago Sun Times top 20, and Bell was a fourth-team selection by the Illinois Basketball Coaches Association. Both players were on the suburban all-star team, who lost to the city all-stars 95-93 Saturday night in Chicago.

Hodges and Bell were both all-conference selections, Hodges a unanimous pick by SICA South coaches. Bell has been Central Suburban first-team for the past two seasons.

Herrin said despite the Salukis' first signings coming five days into the signing period, he was always confident.

"We felt very confident we would sign what we needed to sign," Herrin said. "We wanted to get two to four people, and they are just as good today as they were last week. We felt all along we would sign those people."

Bell and Hodges are the first two recruits for the Salukis this season. SIU-C did not sign any recruits during the one week signing period in the fall. The current signing period runs through May 15.

Austin Peay next for softball squad

Brechtelsbauer 10 away from 300 wins

By Douglas Powell
Staff Writer

Softball coach Kay Brechtelsbauer is 10 wins from becoming the first Saluki woman's coach ever to reach the 300-victory plateau.

The team plays non-conference foe Austin Peay today at 3 p.m. at the IAW Fields.

With 25 games under their belt and 15 games remaining before the Gateway Conference Tournament the Salukis are 14-11, and have yet to jell, Brechtelsbauer said.

Freshman shortstop Cheryl Venorsky from Belleville continues to swing the biggest bat with a .365 hitting percentage. The freshman standout has come alive in the past weeks to capture the top spot at the plate.

Venorsky, an administration of justice major, set six single season records at Belleville West for most hits (41), home runs (7), extra base hits (20) and RBIs (46), and had a .351 career average.

Brechtelsbauer said of Venorsky, "She has terrific range at short and a great arm."

Junior team leader Shelly Gibbs has the highest percentage at the plate in conference games at .467.

Last week's power hitter was sophomore outfielder Kim Tummins from Memphis, Tenn., who hit .429. The team has hit consistently higher than its opponents this season, as SIU-C has 10 players that are hitting over .200.

Austin Peay, 23-10, will be bringing some heavy bats of their own to Carbondale.

Injury-ridden women face Gateway foe

By Paul Pabst
Staff Writer

The women's tennis team will make its last home appearance of the season as it takes on Eastern Illinois today at the University Courts.

"This should be our last test before we get to the conference championship," coach Judy Auld said. "I hope the weather lets us play."

The forecast is for rain, but the weather isn't the biggest concern for Auld.

Injuries have struck the Salukis at the worst time, just before the conference meet, April 27-29 in Normal.

No. 1 singles Beth Boardman, who is 17-13 for the Salukis this year, is out with torn ligaments in her foot. Lori Edwards is bothered by a pulled quad muscle, but can play.

Beth Boardman

"After this meet we can rest up our injured people," Auld said. "They should be ready to go for conference."

As the Salukis end their season, the leaders in single are: Michele Toye 25-9, Michelle Jeffrey 22-11, Dana Cherebetiu 19-11 and Boardman, Edwards and Maria Coch all with 17 wins each.

Of the three doubles teams, Cherebetiu and Jeffrey lead the team with 16 wins. Coch and Julie Burgess are second with 15 victories.

Today's match will begin at 3 p.m.

Baseball team comes home for quick doubleheader stay

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

After losing four of the last six road games, the baseball team gets a chance to catch a second wind at home when it faces Southern Indiana in a doubleheader today at Abe Martin Field.

The first game starts at 1:30 p.m.

"It's a chance to get our pitchers back onto the mound and get them some exposure," Coach Itchy Jones said. "We hope they will do as well as they can."

A little more than halfway through the season, Abe Martin Field has been a much kinder place for the Salukis to play.

The Salukis are 18-17 overall, but have won 73 percent of their home games, going 11-4. SIU-C's road record is 7-13.

The Salukis' stay at home will be a brief one. SIU-C will not be back to Carbondale until an April 25 date pits them against Missouri. Before that game the Salukis will take on Eastern Illinois and Creighton on the road.

Southern Indiana is coached by second-year man Gary Redman, a 1975 graduate of Indiana State at Evansville.

The Eagles return 10 lettermen from last season's 23-25 squad, and Redman is not hesitant to set his goals high. He has his sights set on a birth in the NCAA Division II national tournament.

Redman has had to cope with the graduation of last year's leading nitter and Gramps Tepe award-winner Keith Ayres. Minus the career .358 hitter, Southern Indiana has relied on seniors Kevin Horton and Roger Huebner.

The Salukis' Doug Shields, who has played in all 35 games this season, leads the team with a .414 batting average. He also is tops in runs scored (33), base hits (53), doubles (13), total bases (75) and stolen bases (12).

Other Salukis hitting over .300: leadoff second baseman Tim Davis (.333), first baseman Mike Kirkpatrick (.320), third baseman Shaun Lewis (.319), third baseman Dave Wrona (.303) and catcher Matt Giegling (.301).

Only two Saluki pitchers are over .500 on the season. Righthander Chris Bend is 4-2 and has a 5.14 earned run average. Righthander Sean Bergman is 4-3 and has a team-best 2.80 ERA.

Righthander Dale Meyer has a team-high 35 strikeouts and 52 1-3 innings pitched. Bend has 33 strikeouts.
