Tornadoes return for regional battle

By Doug Durso
General Assignment Reporter

The fury of a tornado spiraling down from the sky strikes fear and awe in all people, but precautions can decrease tragedies from occurring during these storms.

Jay Pearce, news director for WSU-FM radio in Carbondale, said people should be aware of the possibilities of tornadoes this time of the year.

"From mid-March through June

Winds blow in season of dangerous weather

this region has seen the most of its tornadoes," Pearce said.

John Halmstad, versication specialist for the National Severe Storm Forecast Center, said the worst tornado in Illinois history was March 18, 1925, killing 740 people and covering more than 210 miles in Southern Illinois, southern Indiana and southeast Missouri.

Other historic tornadoes in Illinois were the 1982 tornado that ripped through Southern Illinois and the August 1990 Plainfield tornado that killed 29, Halmstad said.

Halmstad said Illinois rank eighth in the nation in reported tornadoes since 1950, with 1,083. Texas is first with 5,186.

SIUC professor Doc Horsley, an American Meteorological Society certified meteorologist, said conditions are best for tornadoes to strike from March to August, but they have occurred every day of the year except one.

Tornadoes are more likely to occur between these months because the greatest instability of temperature occurs then, Horsley said.

Horsley said instability of temperature, moisture and warm air rising and creating rotation in a vortex are basic factors tornadoes need to form.

This time is just a way to raise public attention of the danger, Horsley said.

Pearce said important keys in preparing for a tornado are knowing the difference between a watch or warning and having a plan of action, knowing procedure and where to go, if a tornado should occur.

A watch means conditions are

Fears rise after heavy rain; flooding possible this year

By Stephanie Moletti
Environmental Reporter

Rains the last few days served as a vivid reminder to many Southern Illinois residents of the Great Flood of 1993, but weather officials say the worst is over as sunny skies greet the area this week.

Citizens of towns such as Chester and Prairie du Rocher still are repairing damages from last year and cautiously are watching water levels.

The Great Flood of 1993 spread across three states — Illinois, Missouri and Iowa — from May to September, forcing families out of their homes, sometimes taking homes down river, placing entire crops under water, closing highways and destroying entire communities.

A stationary front spreading from Kansas to Northern Missouri and into Southern Illinois caused the flooding. The front produced daily storms through spring and into late summer, which resulted in flooding by early summer, according to National Weather Service officials.

Loretha Kenny, Prairie du Rocher village clerk, said Randolph County called for sand baggers Wednesday in preparation of possible floods.

The Fountain Creek levee, which waters topped last summer, was increased four feet to 39 feet tall. Kenny said with water levels of 39 feet in St. Louis and 41 feet in Chester, Prairie du Rocher residents are concerned.

Juanita Bleem, coordinator for Emergency Services and Disaster Agency in Randolph County, said officials alerted people, but no one has been evacuated.

Taxes protested

Deadline brings gathering to post office

By Paul Eisenberg
Business Reporter

Not rain, nor thunder nor a cloudy morning Friday could stop protesters from showing up at the Carbondale Post office for the 10th annual protest at the April 15 income-tax filing deadline.

The Peace Coalition of Southern Illinois' message was that too many tax dollars go toward the military, and not enough go for social services and aid.

According to a chart distributed by coalition members, U.S. military spending in 1994 was listed at $261.5 billion, but education received only $28.8 billion; environmental protection received $6.7 and economic development was allotted only $.3 billion.

E.G. Hughes, Army veteran and member of the Peace Coalition of Southern Illinois, said the group has protested at the post office every April 15 since 1984.

"We like to be here to make a statement," Hughes said. "What we need to face here is the size of the military budget and how much we don't spend on desperately needed programs here, like jobs and homelessness."

Coalition member Georgeann Hartzog said U.S. citizens live in a state where national security means more than the well being of the population.

Clinton reacts to policy criticism

Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON—As criticism of his Bosnian policy mounted Sunday, President Clinton insisted that diplomatic rather than military actions hold the key to defusing the renewed hostilities in the war-torn nation.

Speaking with reporters Sunday,

Clinton said that U.N. officials in Bosnia-Herzegovina have concluded that further NATO air strikes would be ineffective against Bosnian Serb forces besieging the Muslim enclave of Gorazde, and he stressed once more his hope of finding "a negotiated agreement" to the civil war.

"We have a diplomatic role, and we are doing our best to fulfill it," Clinton said during a trip to Virginia and North Carolina.

But even as the president spoke, a senior official in the Bosnian government warned that any diplomatic agreement that left the Bosnian Serbs in control of

MAJOR POST ELECTION CHANGES EXPECTED

SOWETO, South Africa—Born into a life of quiet desperation, in which a few whites have everything and most blacks nothing, Samuel and Joyce Mnisni have high expectations of a new South Africa under black majority rule. High on the wish list of the black couple, who live in a neat little house in this township near Johannesburg, is a decent job for Joyce, 36, who earns $58 a month as a temporary baby-sitter for a black family in Soweto. The Mnisnis also hope a radical improvement in education would train their two young children for high-skill jobs, replacing a curriculum designed under apartheid to prepare blacks largely for lives of servitude to whites.

ANTI-ARISTIDE GROUP LINKED TO VIOLENCE

NEW YORK—A group accused of widespread political violence in Haiti has set up a chapter in New York and has vowed to be a thorn in the side of exiled President Jean-Bertrand Aristide. The Front for the Advancement and Progress of Haiti apparently has limited membership in the area. But the establishment of an area office sets the stage for conflict with large numbers of Haitian immigrants who revere Aristide as a national hero. The organization is known in Haiti by its French acronym, FRAPH, which sounds like "frappe," the French word for "hit." The local coordinator, Lionel Sterling, said the New York group merely wants to criticize the policies of Aristide, a Catholic priest who is an advocate for the poor masses. "We are not an enemy of the people," Sterling said, "because we are the people."

BOMBS SIGNAL NEW STRATEGY OF PALESTINIANS

JERUSALEM—As police and ambulance crews raced frantically to help survivors of the bomb attack in Hadera's Central Bus Station last week, another bomb sat on a nearby bench, unnoticed. It exploded just as police began to suspect something was amiss and had cleared the area, but before it could be examined. The second bomb, which police believe was detonated with a timer, was one of several clues in recent weeks of a new, more aggressive strategy by the militant Islamic movement, Hamas. Just seven months after Hamas leaders returned from their deportation by Israel to southern Lebanon, the movement has twice carried out suicide bomb attacks inside Israel against crowded civilian targets.

AGENT CLAIMS OPPENHEIMER PASSED SECRETS

LONDON—A Soviet spy chief's memoirs published here Monday claim that the late J. Robert Oppenheimer, head of the U.S. atomic bomb project during and after World War II, passed nuclear secrets to Soviet agents. The allegations were made by Gen. Pavel Sudoplatov, who was in charge of efforts to obtain atomic secrets from the West, and excerpts of them ran in The Sunday Telegraph. Time magazine will print excerpts in Monday's issue. The memoirs charge that Oppenheimer, a University of California physicist known as the "father of the atomic bomb," condoned and assisted in the flow of vital nuclear secrets.

HELICOPTER VICTIMS MOURNED IN TURKEY

ADANA, Turkey—The home air base for U.S. planes flying over northern Iraq held a memorial service Sunday for the 26 people killed Thursday when U.S. jets accidentally destroyed two U.S. helicopters over Iraq. Turks here expressed a mix of anger and sorrow over the incident, in which three Turkish officers died along with American, British, French and Iraqi Kurdish passengers. The service at Inerlik Air Base was closed to journalists. But civilians there said by telephone that the accident had cast a pall of disbelief over the community of 5,000 Americans.

Native Illinoisan promises service, work dedication

By Paul Eisenberg
Business Reporter

St. Louis postal worker Robert Gryzmala was inducted as Carbondale's new postmaster on Friday.

Gryzmala became Carbondale's postmaster at 1 p.m. on Friday. St. Louis Postmaster Larry Wood said Gryzmala will be missed in St. Louis.

"He's a great postal person," Wood said, "and he'll be one of the first people in the post office at 6 in the morning."

In his induction speech, Gryzmala promised area postal customers continued good service, and that he would listen and respond to concerns.

Gryzmala addressed the U.S. Post Office's plan to raise postal rates, by saying the post office operates like other businesses.

"The cost of living goes up for everyone," he said.

"When you do business, you have to deal with rising costs," he said.

"I've had to deal with rising costs for the 27 years I've been in the post office. Back then, new cars were under $2,000, and gas was only 8 cents a gallon."

and, if successful, will remain in the position until he is promoted or retires.

Louis Moore, special assistant to the St. Louis postmaster, said Gryzmala has a history of good service.

"He'll be an excellent postmaster and great for the community" Moore said.

A native Illinoisian who resides in Red Bud, Gryzmala plans to move to Carbondale soon with his wife and three daughters.

New ISC president to bring different ideas to 1994 group

By Emily Priddy
International Reporter

Wan Napi

When the 1994-95 school year begins, a familiar face will bring some new ideas to the International Student Council as current vice president for internal affairs Wan Kamal Wan Napi assumes the presidency.

Wan Napi won the presidential race against council member Rajasegar Govindasamy Friday night with his proposal for a system of checks and balances.

In the race for vice president for internal affairs, Yiannis Gavrielides, of the Cypriot Student Association, defeated Panagiotis Pantazopoulos, of the European Student Association, and Berk Berken, of the Turkish Student Association.

Sahabo M-shammad, president of the Nigerian Student Association, ran unopposed for vice president for finance.

Wan Napi criticized members' personal and political conflicts that have limited the council's effectiveness.

"We cannot longer accuse one another, because we are all here," he said. "We have to love one another — we are here side by side. We are in the same boat, and we sink or sail together."

Berkmen also emphasized the importance of unity among council members.

"I think we always forget we are only one," he said. "We can have personal problems or cultural problems, but in the council, we are supposed to be only one."

Wan Napi promised to delegate specific responsibilities to small groups, such as a budgeting committee, which will make decisions and report to the council regularly.

Wan Napi said the council then must approve recommendations before committees can take action.

Fair representation of international students in campus issues was a prominent concern in all three races.

Mohammad said although international students pay more tuition than other SIUC students, they have difficulty obtaining funds for their activities.

"We need to establish more relationships with outside associations, such as Undergraduate Student Government) to get money from them," Mohammad said.

"International students pay tuition — three times the amount indigents pay. We have to explain to them, 'We need the funds.'"

Govindasamy also said he would like to see international students take a more active role on campus.

"International students are just a piece of statistics for the University," Govindasamy said. "We need to prioritize our activities so we address the real issues. We need representation in student-government organizations."

Gavrielides said many SIUC

Achieving goals, job part of American dream

By Doug Durso
General Assignment Reporter

Focused planning of goals is the key to making the transition between college life and becoming a member of the work force, an SIUC engineering alumnus said Saturday.

Jason R. Nanay, an electrical engineer for the FMC Corporation in Minneapolis, said there always will be jobs for engineers, but to have a successful career is to have a plan in mind.

"You have got to have a dream and make plans to attain it," Nanay said.

"You have to have a six-month plan, a one-year plan and a five year plan. The bottom line is you have to set goals, they can change, but you need direction."

Nanay spoke at the Career Awareness Miniconference where former SIUC minority engineers discussed subjects such as the transition from college into the professional field, what is going on in the field today and opportunities for engineers, especially minorities.

SIUC graduate, Nathaniel Wright, a space-shuttle project engineer at NASA's Kennedy Space Center in Florida, said although people still discriminate against minorities, good job performance and integrity will force them to recognize them as professionals.

"If you shine that will come through and they will have to deal with you on your own merit," Wright said.

Wright said to become a good professional, people must set goals and have the tenacity to continue through the tough times.

"Being tenacious, setting goals and following through even though the job may be difficult, people have to persevere," Wright said.

Although the transition from college to a career is a new culture with different rules and languages, Wright said companies usually do not put too much pressure on new engineers.

"People aren't going to hit you over head with deadlines, this might be different for other companies, but for about the first year, new employees can relax and absorb what they need to know," Wright said.

Nanay also said everyone was a new employee at some time so they understand the transition period.

Nanay said he also is able to do more activities away from work than he was able to do in college because being a professional allows him to manage his time and set priorities.

"I give everything when I am at work but I am also an aerobics instructor and work out two hours every day," Nanay said.

"Making the transition from college life to a career is all about being a professional which leads to a better quality of life."

Linda Helstern, assistant to the dean of engineering, said the miniconference's goal was to make engineering students aware of life after college.

"We want to enhance professional development and career awareness among engineering students especially minorities," Helstern said.

Student BOT candidates face off in platform debate

By Marc Chase
General Assignment Reporter

SIUC students will have the opportunity tonight to hear the platforms of those who will serve as their voice to the SIUC Board of Trustees.

Mark Kochan of the Progressive Party and Matt Parsons of the Unity Party will face off at 7 p.m. in the Student Center Renaissance Room on issues concerning student representation in the board in a debate sponsored by the Student Trustee Election Commission.

Election commissioner Kirsten Bonde said the candidates will debate issues such as program elimination, drastic tuition and fee increases and declining enrollment. She said it is important for students to attend the debate to make an informed decision on election day because the student trustee is the only voice students have on the board.

Kochan, the current trustee, said his past experiences in the position give him an edge over his opponent.

"I feel that my past experiences have enabled me to be an effective liaison between the students and the Board of Trustees," Kochan said.

"Also, I have professionalized the office (of student trustee) by obtaining a computer link-up to assist in daily operations; the office is also more accessible since I relocated it to the Student Center."

Kochan's past student government experiences include being a student trustee for John A. Logan College in 1989, student member of

Internship awarded for hard work

By Tina McIlrath
General Assignment Reporter

An SIUC graduate student who worked as a prison supervisor for three years was chosen one of 169 presidential management interns to work in the federal government this fall.

Larry Soliday, a graduate student in public administration, admits that he was not a very serious undergraduate.

"I took three years working for the state's nastiest prison to get my head on straight," he said.

Before entering graduate school, Soliday supervised about 100 inmates at Menard Correctional Center near Chester, a job he said prepared him for the responsibility required of a government manager.

"I guess what the PMI usually implies is that you're an outstanding student," Soliday said.

"But, you can always change, and SIUC gave me a second shot."

The PMI program chose this year's finalists from about 1,200 nominees and 350 semi-finalists. The program allows Soliday to choose an agency where he would like to work during a two-year traineeship.

Uday Desai, director of the master of public administration program, said PMIs progress up the federal government management ladder at a rapid rate.

Desai said many of SIUC's finalists from the past now are in the senior executive service, which is the top of federal career service.

"Once you come out of the first tier, you're on the fast track to an excellent government position," Soliday said.

To become a finalist, Soliday participated in a rigorous interview process, including written and verbal exercises in problem solving, as well as evaluations by government executives.

Soliday, joking about the application process, said, "The hard part's over. Now, I have to decide where to spend the rest of my life."

Cathy Lilley, office manager for the master of public administration office, said Soliday will attend a job fair April 25 in the Washington.

Elections important; choices will affect all

EMOTIONS RUN HIGH, STUDENTS HURRY around in a frenzy, people talk at the top of their voices about how they should be allowed in the bars even though they are underage — No, this is not a scene on the Strip during Halloween.

This is the time of the year for the Undergraduate Student Government elections, the student body empowered to voice the cares, concerns and viewpoints of each and every undergraduate student at SIUC. If anyone has kept up with the news in the last year, it will be obvious why the elections Wednesday will be important.

Students somehow feel that the issues in these elections will not affect them, and therefore, do not bother to vote.

Issues such as the 3-percent tuition hike (and more increases that are likely to follow,) the question of athletic funding, the losing battle on parking, the bar entry age limit — all these and more should be familiar to students. The reasons for which these are issues should be a factor of concern for all students.

UNFORTUNATELY, MANY STUDENTS ARE NOT aware of these situations and many of them do not even care. It would be safe to go as far as to say that some students do not know what USG stands for, where it is located or even who the current president is.

SIUC has long had been labeled as an apathetic campus, with students who do not give a hoot for the administration, the student government or any issue, unless it involves some form of entertainment.

An example of this was the USG-sponsored concert with free chow for those who showed up. This was used as a ploy to get these students to board buses after the concert that would take them straight to City Hall in a show of protest for the change in bar entry age. But after the concert was over and the grub had vanished, only a handful of students trickled into the buses that were waiting.

Sad, but true.

THIS BEING THE CLASSICAL CASE, USG elections have never had a high turnout for many years now. The basis of this low turnout is that students feel these issues will not have an affect them.

Well, they do. In one way or another, the choices students make about their representatives could change the fact that they might get a spot to park on campus at a reasonable time of the day. Or a mass transit system that would put an end to these parking problems in the first place. Or that they could go to the bars on the Strip.

These examples are trivial when compared to some of the bigger issues that could affect how, for example, potential employers look at you based on the fact that your University is listed as a party school. A strong and able-bodied student government could inculcate stronger positions on matters that could SIUC be seen in a more respected light.

Take this election business with a grain of salt and make it something you should do. Learn about the candidates and what they stand for. Then vote. Change can only come with the voice of the people and if change is what we want, be there Wednesday.

Letters to the Editor

New Grassroots authors needed

On Friday, I finally got a copy of the new Grassroots put out by the SIUC English department. I was not impressed. I was furious. The book can be better described as a booklet of 28 pages of poetry and fiction. Three stories were written by the SAME person, one poem was written by the poetry editor, another poem by a staff member, two stories by an author (although a good author) that was also included in last year's issue, and finally the last two poems were also written by a pretreatment of previous writers and staff members! New writers are obviously not allowed into the inner sanctum of this group, unless of course, you happen to be a member of the staff. I myself, could not remain on the Grassroots staff due to the fact that it was taking away from my other studies (I was taking 21 hours at that time). Maybe I should have remained in this "clique". At least I would know that my work (and countless other submissions) would have been looked at instead of being dismissed out of hand as was so obviously the case. NO, I'm not angry because my work wasn't chosen, I'm angry because new writers are ignored for staff and faculty members.

If the magazine is put out next year, perhaps there should be restrictions of sorts. Make the selection process a little more fair to other writers. Limit the final selections to one story or poem (but not both) to an author, previous authors should not have preference above new authors. No staff or editors should be allowed at all. There was the complaint made last year that writers of color were not allowed into the magazine. Well, now it seems that this claim was not totally unfounded. It has just been expanded to include ALL new writers as well. Make the selections a blind process. That way judges, editors and staff will be prevented from practicing discrimination in any way. Open the magazine to new writers!!!!

—Kim Braman, senior

Reasons weak for new parking spaces; SIUC has better ways to spend money

To begin with, there is not a parking problem on the campus of SIUC but rather a laziness problem!! This may come as a shock, but it is not the university's responsibility to provide a parking space with a name on it for each and every student. The university is willing to spend in excess of $400,000 to provide an additional 300 parking spaces in and about campus. Three-hundred extra parking spaces, what a ridiculous, idiotic way to spend university money that is not there.

I contend there are far better ways to spend $400,000+ than on parking! First, we are here for the sole purpose to receive a quality education. All one must do is read the DE and read where another program of another department of another college on campus was reduced or better yet eliminated all together. Why you asked? NOT ENOUGH MONEY! What a deal, fewer programs offered, BUT, better parking.

Secondly, Health Fitness, has anyone ever heard of it. If you students were not so lazy and began to walk more, we could all be better off and believe me there are some that could use the walking! There is a parking lot just the other side of the Arena that is empty most of the day every day. But oh goodness, if one parks in the Arena one must WALK and better yet get to class on time. What an injustice! If we all walked more we would then be more healthy. If we were more healthy, we would not only spend less on health fees but also have more savings for our education. Last but not least, is the aesthetic beauty of the SIUC campus. However, we are willing to disrupt the environment and beauty of campus for of all reasons, PARKING. How stupid can you get! If we are to compete with the rest of the world, then we must save money by learning to walk or ride bikes and not expect our gas guzzling, pollution creating devices called cars to have there place on campus.

Leave campus the way it is and spend this new found $400,000+ on amenities for education programs and departments and try not raising tuition for a change.

"We still are maintaining an arsenal of about 20,000 nuclear weapons," she said. "Those weapons were expensive to create, they're expensive to keep, and they have never done any good."

Hughes said more money is spent on the military than what is listed in the budget, because much is hidden in the budgets for the Central Intelligence Agency and Department of Commerce.

Another chart distributed by coalition members showed U.S. military spending compared to the combined spending of the five countries listed as by the U.S. Government as potential adversaries: Iran, Iraq, Syria, Libya and North Korea.

U.S. military spending was listed at $298.4 billion, while the combined military spending of the five countries was only $22.2.

"We are wasting and squandering our money," Hughes said.

Newly induced postmaster Robert Grymalda had no problem with the protest as long as members did not harass people.

"They're conducting themselves properly," he said.

Tornadoes in Illinois since 1982

The number of yearly tornadoes in Illinois since 1982 has varied from 15 to 50. Illinois ranks 8th in the country for tornadoes since 1950, and 6th for injuries caused by those tornadoes.

likely for a tornado to appear and officials issue a warning when a tornado is spotted on the ground or appears on radar.

"It is very important to take a tornado watch seriously," Pearce said. "If a watch is issued, people should listen to a battery-powered radio for more information and be prepared to seek shelter quickly."

Pearce said people also should know where to seek shelter if a tornado strikes.

"Students in high-rise dorms should go into a hallway or small interior room away from outside windows and walls," Pearce said. "If time allows, people should try to get to the lower levels of the building, but if the tornado is close, the best idea is to just stay in the hallway because a lot of people trying to get down could cause a worse situation."

People should not stay inside a mobile home or try to outrun a tornado in a vehicle, instead they should seek stronger shelter or lie flat in a depression or ditch away from objects that could fall on them, Pearce said.

"In a permanent house or building the best place to go is the basement, but if the building does not have a basement the best place to go is an interior room without windows," Pearce said.

In addition to staying away from windows because they shatter easily from the pressure, Horsley said getting under something sturdy, such as a desk, will help block falling debris.

"While the tornado itself can kill people, most die from flying and falling debris," Horsley said.

Although people worry about tornadoes before and during the storm, it is important to be careful afterwards, Horsley said.

"Do not sight see after tornadoes because injuries from electricity, spoiled food, water and neurotic animals and people could occur," Horsley said.

Chris Nowy, warning official for Carbondale Emergency Management Services, said most tornadoes in Illinois are accompanied by high precipitation, which makes tornadoes difficult to see and limits warning time.

"If a warning is issued people might only have seconds to react so it is important to seek shelter immediately," Nowy said.

Although tornadoes frequently occur in the Midwest and the South, they can occur in any area in United States, Horsley said.

"It is impossible to predict where or how many tornadoes and the amount of damage will occur through the course of a year," Horsley said.

Nowy said an example of this is 1,170 tornadoes which occurred in this area last year, killing 33, while 110 have occurred so far this year, killing 40.

saturated last year that on Kaskaskia Island, only seven families moved back," Bleem said. "No one's been evacuated because not very many people moved back after last year."

The seven homes still present in Kaskaskia have been alerted and Chester Police are on the island, watching rising water.

Prarie du Rocher bottom's residents also are on stand by and farmers in the area were told by officials, Wednesday to move equipment to higher ground, Bleem said.

The water level at Chester was 38.2 feet Sunday and crested Saturday at 38.4 feet. Flood stage is 27 feet.

Bleem said Thursday's winds created white caps on the Mississippi River, which washes away dirt from the levees.

Chester's ring levee was raised to 37 feet Wednesday with plastic, sandbags and picket fences, Bleem said.

At Cairo the water level is 54.2 feet, flood stage is 40 feet. David Humphrey, meteorologist for Paducah National Weather Service said water levels are predicted to slowly drop over the week.

"Everybody is pretty much going down," Humphrey said.

St. Louis is at 34.1 feet with a flood level of 30 feet. However, by Wednesday the water is expected to be at 37.5 feet.

New Madrid has crested at 41.5 feet today but will begin to drop by Tuesday.

Hardin should continue to drop also from 427.6 feet, but will remain above flood stage, 425 feet, through the week.

Paducah is at 43.6 feet, flood stage is 40 feet.

Humphrey said scattered thunder storms are predicted for Wednesday, but because it will not be widespread, most areas are not in danger of dramatic water rises.

Major Bob Arnett, public affairs officer for the Illinois National Guard said the guard has alerted 1,000 soldiers in different Illinois of units and 185 have been activated for flood duty. Of the 185 soldiers activated, 30 are from the 3-130 Company in Marion and are working in Olive Branch, about 35 miles south of Carbondale.

All those activated are guard volunteers, Arnett said.

Chuck Van Rossum, coordinator for SIUC's Student Development said one SIUC student was activated for flood duty Wednesday.

Van Rossum said any student activated should call Transitional Programs.

The office will verify with the unit the exact activation date and location and will notify students, instructors of their absence.

The office is located in Woody Hall B145 or call 536-2338.

'Invisible Man' author dies

The Washington Post

Ralph Ellison, 80, author of "Invisible Man," widely considered the greatest American novel of the last 50 years, died Saturday at his home in New York. He had pancreatic cancer.

Published in 1952 after a labor of five years, "Invisible Man" takes its nameless black narrator on a brutal odyssey: from the "battle royal," where he is blindfolded and forced to fight other youths for the amusement of a white audience; to his expulsion from a Southern college for improper fraternizing with a white trustee; to his association with the mysterious and treacherous "Brotherhood"; and finally to a soul-destroying race riot in Harlem that literally sends him underground.

Poet Langston Hughes called the novel "a stunning blockbuster of a book that will floor and flabbergast some people, bedevil and intrigue others, and keep everybody reading right through to its explosive end."

That's pretty much the way it happened. "Invisible Man" spent 16 weeks on the bestseller list and won the National Book Award. In 1965, a Book Week poll of 200 critics, authors and editors judged it "the most distinguished single work" of the post-war period. By 1973, the book reportedly had sold 2.6 million copies.

Ellison published two nonfiction collections, "Shadow and Act" in 1964 and "Going to the Territory" in 1986. In both, he solidified his reputation as a man of letters and as a spokesman for moderation and the American melting pot.

During the late 1960s, the writer was attacked in some quarters for being neither angry nor militant enough. At Oberlin College in 1969 he was called an "Uncle Tom" and told, "Your book doesn't mean anything." To these and similar criticisms, the writer responded: "I'm not a separatist. The imagination is integrative. That's how you make the new—by putting something else with what you've got. And I'm unashamedly an American integrationist."

It's a quality he shares with the narrator of his novel, who is not so much angry—a quality that might have dated the book—but ironic. The fictional character argues fiercely for a multi-hued diversity and variety.

"Why, if they follow this conformity business they'll end up by forcing me, an invisible man, to become white, which is not a color but the lack of one," the narrator says. "Must I strive toward colorlessness? But seriously, and without snobbery, think of what the world would lose if that should happen. America is woven of many strands; I would recognize them and let it remain so."

students are not aware of cultural differences and similarities, because international students' activities are not publicized enough.

"I think it's pretty sad that (at) schools like SIUC with so many international students, (diverse cultures are) not as well-respected (throughout) the campus," Gavrielides said. "The more (Americans) know about us, the more they will bring us together as a unity."

Pantazopoulos, who has served on the Student Programming Council, said he wants to take advantage of technology on campus to increase the council's publicity.

"We can, through the use of computers, increase the efficiency (of advertising)," he said. "That way, we can attract more people to our activities."

Election commissioners did not release the actual number of votes each candidate received.

the Illinois Community College Board in 1990 and student trustee for SIUC since 1992.

Parsons said the main issue of his campaign is to encourage student involvement in the election process and student government.

He said without the input of students, trustees and the rest of student government cannot do their jobs effectively.

"The student trustee always must be the true voice of the student body," Parsons said. "I am working in conjunction with the Undergraduate Student Government presidential candidate, Edwin Sawyer from the Unity Party, to establish a permanent student response box in the student center."

Parsons said the box would be a place where students could leave concerns, criticisms and suggestions on issues that the student government should be undertaking.

Both candidates vow to fight tuition and fee increases and push for a University mass transit service for student transportation around Carbondale.

Final elections for student trustee will be April 20 along with USG elections, with polling locations in Lentz Hall, Trueblood Hall, the Old Main area of the Student Center and the Recreation Center.

D.C. area to meet with hundreds of governmental agencies.

Solliday has served for 10 years in the Illinois Reserves International Guard as a security supervisor and unit training man-ager. He is also employed by the School of Social Work as a graduate assistant.

Solliday said he owns the school and the masters of public administration program for preparing him for the PMI opportunity.

The governmental agencies are looking for people with experience in quantitative analysis. Solliday said.

As a graduate assistant, Solliday has gained experience in the analysis of research.

Solliday also said Desai prepared him for the extensive writing and speaking required by the interview process.

In the future, Solliday said he hopes to come back to Desai's class as a guest speaker from a senior executive position.

Spinnin' wheels: Auto clinic teaches basic care to women

By Angela Hyland
Minorities Reporter

Auto repair technician Karen Greenberg works on automobiles daily, but when she saw a new car with an engine destroyed because the oil never had been changed, she said she became angry.

"There's certain things individuals need to be responsible for and there's certain things technicians need to be responsible for," Greenberg said.

Checking fluid levels, belts and tire pressure are skills Greenberg believes all drivers should know, and she taught a free woman's auto-care clinic Sunday to pass on this knowledge.

Greenberg said it upsets her to see a car damaged because of ignorance.

"That was an extreme case, obviously," she said. "But that car had lots of year, ahead of it — people need to be better trained about their cars."

Carbondale residents gathered at the south end of the SIUC Arena parking lot for two and a half hours to watch Greenberg demonstrate preventive maintenance skills and to listen to tips on what to look for when buying a used car.

The class, taught by and for women, was designed to help students learn more about their vehicles.

Greenberg moved from one vehicle to the next, answering questions and pointing out locations of hoses and fluid containers on each car.

Carbondale resident Donna Rainey said she knew little about her car prior to taking the class.

"My husband died not long ago and he always did all the auto maintenance," she said.

"I'm trying to learn as much as I can."

Before driving long distances, Rainey's husband used to make sure tire pressure and fluid levels were adequate and Rainey said she wanted to be able to take similar precautions.

"If I start out on a 100 mile trip, I want to make sure I'll get there," she said.

Rainey said she did not know how to check her brake or transmission fluids before the class and always had relied on mechanics to tell her what needed to be done.

"I'm used to just jumping in and going," Rainey said.

"I haven't been checking everything like she said."

Greenberg recommends checking fluid levels once a week.

Women's Services Director Laura Lyn, said she was surprised Greenberg stayed to answer questions for an hour longer than the scheduled class time.

"I think it's been more in depth than anyone's ever done," Lyn said.

Women's Services employees plan to provide another clinic this semester and a waiting list currently has been started.

The class is free to any woman in the community. Students can sign up by calling 453-8655.

NOTICE OF ROUTINE SPRAYING OF PESTICIDES AND HERBICIDES ON THE CAMPUS OF SIUC

Notice is hereby given to the SIUC-Carbondale community, that starting on April 18, 1994, application of pesticides and herbicides will be used routinely when necessary for the proper care and maintenance of the campus. All applications are covered under Federal and State Guidelines, and will be applied only by qualified licensed application personnel.

Rumors spark public outcry

Los Angeles Times

LIMA, Peru—According to lurid rumors that keep popping up around Latin America, master foreigners are buying or stealing babies through bogus adoptions and taking them abroad to use as donors for organ transplants.

Though never proven, these rumors give international adoption a bad name in this region, as do the bribery and fraud that sometimes accompany the adoption processes.

Peruvian bureaucrats and judges, nervous about scandals, sharply reduced the number of international adoptions in the last two years.

Director working on problems

By Ronald J. Ostrow
Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON—Trying to halt the seemingly endless turf battles and jealousies among various U.S. law enforcement agencies is an acutely sensitive task. So when the job was given to the head of one of those agencies, FBI Director Louis J. Freeh, rather than to a neutral party, some senior officials in other agencies complained the fox had been sent to guard the chicken coop.

It was chosen last November to head the Justice Department's new Office of Investigative Agency Policies. His mission was to bring about cooperation and end wasteful duplication among four justice agencies: the FBI, the Drug Enforcement Administration, Marshals Service and Immigration and Naturalization Service.

The first meeting of representatives of those agencies offered stark proof of the problem.

"We walked in there with open hands, and everybody's coming at us with clenched fists," said James R. Bucknam, a former federal prosecutor in Manhattan who Freeh brought with him to the FBI and who serves as chief of staff of the new office.

In a recent interview, Freeh himself recalled "a lot of apprehension, a lot of tension and a lot of mistrust" at the meeting.

But today, five months into the effort, the walls are beginning to crumble. To the relief and surprise of the other agencies, more than once the group has recommended against FBI preferences in resolving conflicts involving drug intelligence, budgets, violent crime approaches and radio communications—the areas addressed so far.

Freeh's Office of Investigative Agency Policies is made up of two representatives from each of the four agencies, along with one from the Justice Department's Criminal division and one from the U.S. Attorneys' Advisory committee, which advises Attorney General Janet Reno.

Attorneys general back to the Nixon administration have vowed to end struggles between federal law enforcers, which include freezing others out of operations so as to claim sole credit for successes and competing with other task forces targeting the same fugitives.

Bubbling over: Soap actor laughs it up

Walt Willey, an SIUC alumnus, returned to Shryock Auditorium Saturday night. Willey plays the role of Jackson Montgomery on ABC's daytime drama "All my Children."

By Heather Burrow
Entertainment Reporter

Sporting a hip earring and forearm tattoo like many other SIUC students, soap opera actor Walt Willey Saturday walked on stage at Shryock to greet a school he knows well. "The last time I was in Shryock Auditorium, English Beat was opening for the Pretenders," Willey, who plays Jackson Montgomery on "All My Children," said. "And the last I knew, dog was not spelled dawg — we always spelled it dogg."

Willey, who attended SIUC from 1973-75, spoke for about two hours about his memories of Carbondale as well as his ups and downs in acting.

His humor was obvious and was evidence of his other job, a stand-up comic. "My first time on stage, I broke out in a flop sweat worse than Albert Brooks' in 'Broadcast News' — I was booted off the stage," Willey said.

However, his next stage appearance for Catch a Rising Star, a charity event, was so impressive that actor Christopher Walken invited Willey to his table, and they since have become friends.

Soap opera actors have 90 pages of script to read every day compared to four pages of a movie actor.

To help the future theater students' difficulties, Willey signed and presented the Walt Willey Horizon Scholarship to theater student Todd Doughty.

Doughty, a junior from Cartersville, made a speech after receiving the scholarship. "Some people think that what we do is easy and it isn't easy to memorize lines and worry about characters. We are here to educate, transform and entertain people. Thanks to Walt Willey I'll be able to do that," he said.

Willey explained his participation in the funding of the scholarship.

"I did not feel obliged to set up the scholarship. I just believe that we should support the arts. Football doesn't improve your quality of life, but the arts do," Willey said.

Willey acting in soap operas a form of art. "It really makes me angry that the episode with Tonya Harding was called a "soap opera on ice," he said. "That was nothing like a soap opera. It was cruel destruction to get an opponent out of the running."

Willey was very angry about the bad reputation soap-opera actors have gotten.

"We work more and have more of an impact on people's every-day lives than movies," Willey said. "Yet, we are the red-headed stepchildren of entertainment." Willey sold theater tickets, managed a restaurant, was a private detective for six months before he became an extra on the soap which eventually led to his role on the soap.

"I enjoyed doing extra work because I got to watch the business for free," he said.

By watching other actors, he eventually became professional enough to become a contract player on "All My Children."

"Every 13 weeks I was sweating it out because my employers had the option to fire me," Willey said.

Being a star, however, is a double-edged sword because to a lot of people believe Willey is Jack Montgomery, he said.

"I just believe we should support the arts. Football doesn't improve your quality of life, but the arts do."

Walt Willey

"I try to do other things like Tournament of the Roses, stand up and the Emmys so that I am not pigeonholed," he said.

The one important thing he wanted aspiring actors to remember was that "the business is a business first and foremost."

"You are a commodity and if you have no business acumen you'll never make it in movies or soap operas," he said.

Surprisingly, despite his star status, Willey does not have much of a love life. He lives with his homosexual female assistant of three and a half years and takes her to all of his functions.

"I don't date much, but she gives me a feminine point of view," Willey said. "I think all men need that and all women need a masculine point of view and we would all be better off."

His talents seemed to be endless because to end his speech, he sang "Here in Pine Valley" about the characters on "All My Children."

Willey also explained that a soap actor's job is never completely secure.

Because an actor's contract can be discontinued every 13 weeks, one may end up like a character whose contract was up and nothing was left for him to do but vanish.

Just clownin' around: Kids join Dawg Days

By Melissa Edwards
Entertainment Reporter

Objects were flying through the air Sunday in the Student Center, but the kids who were learning how to juggle had some trouble doing it with the greatest of ease.

Marsha Mallo, a professional clown from the Chicago area, taught the kids how to do such clown activities as juggle, paint their faces, and blow and shape balloons at the Kids Day Clowning Around, part of Dawg Days.

Parents were pleased by the workshop.

Cynthia McWilliams, a doctoral student in English from Carbondale, said her daughter, Sophia, always has been interested in clowns.

"It's great (that she can) learn how to do things — what's behind the magic," she said.

She said she would like to see more kid related activities on campus.

"It's like our vacation — our Six Flags," she said.

Mike Kasser, of Pomona, said he brought his two girls, Kirsten and Tali, because they both like clowns.

"It's something different," he said.

Sister Francine Schuster, of Carbondale, said she also brought her goddaughter Johannah Dueker because she is interested in clowning.

"She has been (clowning) for about a year," she said.

Angela Bridges, chairperson of the special events committee which sponsors Dawg Days, said the experience was great for kids who are clowning.

The committee will continue to plan kid oriented events.

"I wish more parents would have taken an interest in bringing their kids out," she said.

About 10 children participated in the workshop.

DAWGbytes

Researchers: Read This!

When we introduced the new Campus Wide Information System last fall, the Office of Research Development and Administration (ORDA) began creating a menu item called "Research Assistance and Grants" to help faculty, staff and students.

This submenu now contains eight items (more are added all the time) that offer important information about research opportunities, proposal development and other topics of interest to researchers. In fact, there's so much information, we're devoting this issue of Dawg Bytes to an overview so that you know what kind of help is available.

The "Research Assistance and Grants" submenu contains the following items:

1. About Research Assistance and Grants—a document giving a general explanation of this submenu.

2. About ORDA—a menu with items providing a synopsis of services available through this office and other information such as proposal routing procedures, staff contacts and hours of operation.

3. ORDA Publications—this contains current and previous issues of the monthly ORDA newsletter, "Research News and Notes." You'll find all of the regular newsletter sections except Grant Deadlines. (This information is found under "Application Deadlines"—see #7.)

ORDA Publications also features on-line proposal development and project administration guides for faculty and staff. A third guide instructs graduate students in obtaining grants.

4. Research Principles, Policies and Guidelines—this includes regulatory compliance requirements for conducting research at SIUC and covers such areas as the use of University property and conflict of interest. It also features specific guidelines and applications for the SIUC Internal Grants Programs.

5. SIUC Forms and Guidelines—for applying for internal research grants at SIUC. The special research grants guidelines and application are on-line.

6. Rates and Proposal Help—information on fringe benefit rates, indirect cost rates, procedures for submitting proposals, research statistics and forms and templates for proposals (to be added in future).

7. Application Deadlines—contains current deadlines for selected federal, state and private programs by deadline date and agency, as printed in ORDA's newsletter, "Research News and Notes." This item also includes comprehensive deadlines for federal programs, foundations, corporations and other organizations from the University of Minnesota Office of Research and Technology Transfer Administration Bulletin Board. Many of the deadlines in the ORDA section are taken from this directory.

8. Federal Programs—see the following article for an in-depth look.

Tapping into Federal Databases

If you select "Federal Programs" from the "Research Assistance and Grants" submenu of CWIS, you get a seven-item menu that connects you with volumes of information about federal agencies that fund research.

Specifically, you can link up to the bulletin boards of the Department of Education, the National Institutes of Health and the National Science Foundation. Here's a sampling of what you'll find...

Department of Education—information on legislative initiatives such as the Improving America's Schools Act of 1993; guides to departmental programs, grants and federal student aid, and phone directory searches.

National Institutes of Health—grants and research information; workshop and conference listings; searches of the National Library of Medicine; and the phone directory of the NIH.

National Science Foundation—indexes to NSF award abstracts and publications; announcements of programs; NSF reports; and phone directory searches.

Other "Federal Programs" options:

Federal Information Exchange (FEDIX)—provides information on the Department of Energy, Office of Naval Research, NASA, Federal Aviation Administration, Air Force Office of Scientific Research and the Department of Agriculture. Obtain data such as agency research programs, program contacts and used equipment available to researchers. Find information on programs of the Department of Housing and Urban Development and other agencies under the option "Contracts and Procurements."

Search Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance—find federal funding programs with key word searches, and get additional information on these programs from ORDA. For more information, call Connie Shanahan at ORDA, 453-4530.

More On-line Information for Researchers...

There's one more valuable item under the "Federal Programs" submenu researchers should know about called "Legi-Slate." This contains the reports that the Graduate School prepares for University administrators twice a week (Tuesdays and Fridays) based on information compiled from the Federal Register and other resources.

"Legi-Slate" features:

- a list of all federal grants (with contact names and numbers) announced in the current and previous weeks' issues of the Federal Register.

- information on federal student financial aid and rules governing that aid.
- rules and regulations relating to research.
- a list of mentions of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale in federal legislation as well as the Congressional Record, the Federal Register, the Washington Post and the National Journal.

Still more help for researchers

There's a new item on CWIS that links SIUC computer users to the Library of Congress. If you select "Library of Congress Gopher" from the CWIS submenu "Connections (Here, there and everywhere)" you can do word searches of the Library of Congress information system, call up the library's calendar of events and access other useful information.

Info Update

—What's new on UniLink, the automated information system we unveiled last fall...

If you call 453-SIUC from a touchtone phone and use your student ID and PIN (DDYY of your date of birth), you'll be able to access the following data:

financial aid menu—cost of attendance*, application information*, processing holds and award information admissions menu—admission status and missing requirements student record menu—student schedules, eligibility to register and stops on records.

* available 24 hours/day; access all other information Mon.-Fri., 7:15 a.m.-7:50 p.m.

—We have purchased a limited site license for SAS System software, a group of statistical programs for RS/6000 UNIX workstations. Call Al Allen for details, 453-6211.

—Node name change...Folks who send MVS output or CMS data to SIU at Edwardsville should change the node name EVIL'E to SIUEVM before June 1, 1994. SIUE is changing the way files are routed to the campus, and EVILLE will become invalid as of that date.

Also, if you want to make routing to Edwardsville more efficient, you can now transmit batch jobs and output files directly between our MVS system and theirs using the Edwardsville JES2 node name, SIUEMVS, and our JES2 node name, SIUCMVSA.

—Upgrades....This spring, we'll replace the current CA1 tape management system with EPIC/MVS. You can test programs on the new system now. Call Marilyn Renzaglia at 453-6277, or send a note to CA0003@SIUCVMB. Documentation is also available. Under the CWIS menu item "What's New," select "Announcements of Interest."

Also, this summer, we'll replace the existing mainframe operating system, MVS/ESA Version 3, with MVS/ESA Version 4 so that MVS will function better as a server in the new client/server environments on campus.

Water fluoridation in compliance

By Aleksandra Macys
Health Reporter

Carbondale residents drink mineral water every day — not the kind bottled in stores, but from the tap through fluoridation.

The Illinois Department of Public Health recognized the Carbondale Water Department and the Kankand Area Water System, which supply Jackson County, for maintaining required levels of fluoride.

Both suppliers have complete compliance with the Comr unity Water Fluoridation list put out by the department.

Fluoride levels must be maintained for 12 months to have perfect compliance.

Water fluoridation is the process of adjusting the amount of fluoride in water to meet optimal levels, she said.

Dawn Edwards, communications director for the health department said the optimal fluoride level in water is .9 to 1.2 milligrams per liter. Levels in this area are at about 1.0 milligrams per liter.

Sandy Maurizio, a visiting instructor with the SIUC dental hygiene program, said fluoride is a natural element present in foods, beverages and all water. Fluoride helps teeth become more resistant to decay by strengthening tooth enamel. It benefits teeth directly and systemically through uptake into bones and teeth, Maurizio said.

Benefits of maintaining optimal fluoride levels was recorded in Northern Illinois study conducted by the American Dental Society. Nearly 900 Illinois adults living in Aurora, where fluoride levels are high, and Rockford, where fluoride levels are low, were involved in the study. Aurora residents showed 40 percent less dental decay problems.

According to the department, water fluoridation is the most effective method of getting fluoride in the water. The second-most effective method is fluoride supplement tablets.

For direct application methods, fluoride mouthrinses given to school children are most effective, while fluoride toothpastes are the least effective because fluoride levels are lower, the department reported.

Becky Davidson, fluoride treatment coordinator at Unity Point School in Carbondale, said more fluoride is better for decay prevention. She said this especially is true for children, because fluoride helps a stronger tooth structure form.

Davidson said children who get permission from their parents can get a treatment once a week when school is in session. The service is provided free of charge to kindergarten through fifth grades.

"More classes could be done if there were more volunteers who could help distribute the fluoride," Davidson said.

The average cost of fluoridation is 50 cents a person each year. Savings come in the form of decreased dental bills, Maurizio said.

"Everyone, regardless of socioeconomic status, benefits," she said.

State Health Director Dr. John Lumpkin said when fluoride levels in public-water systems meet state standards, citizens of the community benefit through improved oral health.

Illinois is one of 21 states recognized for meeting the year 2000 goal of maintaining required fluoride levels for at least 75 percent of people served by the systems. Currently, Illinois is at 95 percent and far exceeds the national average of 62.

American youth awaits flogging, painful memories

By Katherine Sun

SINGAPORE—The caning faced by 18-year-old Michael Fay is no mere spanking.

He'd be strapped, bent over a padded pedestal, at the hip, tied down at his ankles and wrists and lashed six times by a martial arts specialist with a four-foot-long, half-inch-wide stick of moistened rattan, say those who have witnessed such ordeals.

Back stroke delivered across the upper portion of his bare buttocks would split his skin. After several, his backside likely would be covered in blood.

The pain could cause him to pass out or go into shock.

For perhaps weeks afterwards, he'd have to lie on his belly while his wounds heal.

"It is not a nice thing," says a retired prison officer who supervised canings for 20 years here. "I would think that six strokes would have a very severe effect on a young mind."

Adds a Singapore doctor who has seen the substantial scars left by canings: "The psychological scars are greater than the physical ones. They don't forget it."

While even some Singaporeans disagree with caning for Fay's admitted offense of spray painting cars, few here doubt it's not a crime deterrent.

As Singapore's leader, Lee Kuan Yew, said last week while traveling in New Zealand: "The punishment is not fatal. It is not painless. It does what it is supposed to do, to remind the wrongdoer that he should never do it again. And it does work."

Lee is fond of noting that Singapore inherited caning from its British colonizers.

But in 1966—long after this city-state achieved self-rule—his Peoples Action Party made three strokes with a rattan cane the mandatory punishment for vandalism in convictions. The reason: to keep its opponents from writing political slogans on walls.

Caning also is mandatory here for other offenses, including rape, robbery, extortion and being or helping an illegal immigrant.

Environmental examination could delay roads, Disney

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON—Federal officials say they will require a full environmental review of a Disney theme park and nearby road improvements, a move that could delay the schedule for 1998 opening of the park in Northern Virginia.

The decision Wednesday, by Transportation Secretary Federico Peña's policy and legal staff in Washington, was made because the widening of Interstate 66 and the construction of an interchange near the Disney's America site represent significant changes in a federal highway and therefore require an environmental-impact statement.

Such a study, which can take six months to several years to complete, would involve public hearings and would open the door to a variety of federal agencies, such as the Environmental Protection Agency and the National Register of Historic Places.

"As of this point there will be a full environmental document required," said Mark Tumlin, administrator of the Federal Highway Administration's Richmond Division. "Disney is going to have some impact on traffic, and the environment, and air quality, and whatever."

A Disney spokeswoman said Friday that the company had not been contacted by federal transportation officials.

The requirement of an environmental-impact statement would not change the company's plans, she said.

"Unfortunately, it could substantially affect the people of Prince William County (Va.) and the region by causing a delay in their desperate," needed road improvements essential to reducing traffic congestion and improving air quality," the spokeswoman said.

Federal, state and Prince William County transportation officials said Friday that delays created by the environmental study would not necessarily postpone the project, since design and development work on the highway and the theme park could continue while the study is being done.

Environmental opponents of the park, 35 miles outside Washington, greeted the step with satisfaction, saying it will buy time for detailed traffic and pollution studies to be done and for political opposition to build.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING POLICY

Please Be Sure To Check Your Classified Advertisement For Errors On The First Day Of Publication

The Daily Egyptian cannot be responsible for more than one day's misdirected insertion. Advertisers are responsible for checking their advertisements for errors on the first day they appear. Errors not the fault of the advertiser which lessen the value of the advertisement will be adjusted.

All classified advertising must be received by 12:00 Noon to appear in the next day's publication. Anything processed after 12:00 Noon will appear in the following day's publication. Classified advertising must be paid in advance except for those accounts with established credit. A 3% charge will be added to billed classified advertising. A service charge of $ 2.00 will be added to the advertiser's account for every check returned to the Daily Egyptian without the advertiser's bank. Every ad must have a valid return address. Payment will be charged a $ 2.00 late fee per day. Any refund under $ 2.00 will be forfeited due to the cost of processing.

All advertising submitted to the Daily Egyptian is subject to approval and may be revised, rejected, or canceled at any time.

The Daily Egyptian assumes no liability for any year if becomes necessary to omit an advertisement.

A sample of all mail-order items must be submitted and approved prior to deadline for publication.

No ads will be mis-classified.

Ex-marathon winner runs on

By Jim Hodges
Los Angeles Times

He has made his peace. Age helps. And so does the job. When you are driving a cab and listening to the problems of others, yours seem less significant.

He took the job for two weeks 14 years ago because he quit teaching, angry with the education system in Groton, Conn.

He's still driving and was working Saturday night. Then he went to Boston as an honored guest, celebrated as a part of the city's history on Patriot's Day.

He's Johnny J. Kelley — Johnny the Younger — as opposed to Johnny the Elder, who won the Boston Marathon in 1935 and still trots the course once a year as part of the race's pageant.

By a flipp of teasing fate, I bore the monarch's name," said Johnny J. Kelley when he won Boston in 1957. For 2 hours 20 minutes 5 seconds, then a course record, he was king, running from Hopkinton, through Framingham, past the women of Wellesley and up the hills of Newton ahead of the world's best, and finally down Fiver Street alone, almost four minutes in front.

With triumph came relief. "The hardest part was always going back to work the next day answering the questions," Kelley, 63, recalled.

They usually asked, "What happened?" For a decade, from the mid-1950s into the early '60s, Kelley was America's best marathoner.

But it was a hollow title because of his failures at Boston, which will be run Monday for the 98th time.

Kelley ran second in '56, '58 and '59, dropped out at 21 miles in 1960 because he knew he couldn't win, ran second again in '61 and '63, and fourth in '62.

"If you are second, you always have an idea that if you had put in a little extra work, done something different tactically, ate something different, slept a little more, you would have won," Kelley said. "That was the hard part for me. I could ignore most of it — all but feeling I had to apologize for finishing second.

"I think it was Churchill who said of war, 'Your majesty, there is no second place.' I know what he meant."

It was worse for Kelley because of the death of American winners. From 1946 until Kelley's victory in 1957, no American won at Boston.

After his victory, no American won until Amby Burfoot, who Kelley coached in high school in Groton in 1968.

Financially, it did not matter much where Kelly finished. In his era, the marathon was an amateur event. Nike, Reebok and Adidas were yet to be born and Converse concentrated on basketball.

"I would go into a shoe store and buy a pair of Keds, rip 'em at the insides to make them lighter and hope they didn't rip up my feet," Kelley said. "Later, I wore custom shoes, made for me to run in."

He ran everywhere, including the 1956 Olympics at Melbourne and the 1960 games at Rome.

He led for 13 miles at Melbourne, burning himself out in the 85-degree heat and hobbling home 21st, behind runners he had beaten at Boston only months before.

"Johnny was always making like he wanted to be accepted in the mainstream," said Burfoot, editor of Runner's World magazine.

He supported himself by teaching remedial reading in the high school in Groton. He would not coach track, but handled the cross-country team.

"Track coaches and other coaches would have you out there, running around in circles," Burfoot said. "Kelley would take us on runs down roads, through an apple orchard and through the water of the Long Island Sound. He would constantly quote Thoreau about reading the simple life, the animal's life."

Kelley would repair to Boston, once a year, to renew a love-hate relationship that had begun when he was in high school in 1949.

"I stopped with about six miles to go, in Newton, and just sat by the side of the road and shivered in the cold," Kelley said. "I didn't know what to do. Nobody was coming by to pick me up. I just sat, a skinny kid in the cold. Then a kid came pedaling his bike over a hill, holding up the marathon edition of the Boston Herald. The headline said, 'Swede Wins.'"

More than an hour after Karl Leanderson had won, Kelley hitched a ride to the finish line in a Studebaker.

"Maybe I should have learned from that," he said.

He did learn from Emil Zatopek, the famous Czech distance runner who prescribed long, slow distances to build endurance.

As a competitor at Boston University, Kelley ran through woods, along rivers and through fields, won weekend races and worked in a cafeteria to survive before getting his English degree.

"I remember winning a race at Salem (Mass.), and they gave me a pair of shoes — leather, business-type shoes for a professional to wear to a job," Kelley said.

SIUC had nine season best performance to go along with the 12 season bests last weekend in Hot Springs, Ark.

Head coach Bill Cornell said he is happy to see his team coming together as the season moves on.

"We gelled together well as a team yesterday," Cornell said. "I think we had a really good team effort."

Top performances for the Salukis involved the men's 4 x 400 relay team, as Jarrin Williams, Jeff Beaumont, Mark Russell, and Ivory Smith set a season best time of 3:22.91.

In the 3000 meter steeplechase Garth Akal came in first-place with a time of 9:26.90 and senior Martin Fysh finished third with a time of 9:55.96.

SIUC hogged finishes in the long jump as they placed four athletes in the top six with newcomer Jessie Tai leading the way with a first-place jump of 24 feet 3/4 inch.

Other season bests include Pat Harris who ran a 10.71 in the 100 meter dash, Jarrin Williams in the 110 meter high hurdles with a time of 14.75 and Chris Muth trying his best to fill the shoes of Torry King and Brian Miller in the discuss with a toss of 143.10.

moved down the Saluki hitters. Baird (7-0) pitched a complete game for the WSU and struck out a career-high eight hitters. SIUC only pitched out three singles off Baird and scored one unearned run in the fourth inning. Game one of the series was a preview of what was to come as the Shockers drilled SIUC, 10-1. The Salukis were only down 2-0 heading into the sixth inning, but WSU heated up with eight runs in its final three at-bats to polish off the dawgs. SIUC scored its lone run in the top of the seventh when Clint Smothers crossed the plate on a wild pitch. Jason Kline pitched seven innings for SIUC, yielding 15 hits and six earned runs. David Kranz came on in relief and gave up two runs off three hits.

Shocker starter Shane Dennis had a no-hitter going into the fifth inning, but ended up giving up five hits on the day. Dennis struck out a career-high 11 hitters and improved his season mark to 5-1. The Salukis are scheduled for two non-conference road games this week at Austin Peay and St. Louis, but return home next weekend for a three game series with Bradley.

center to start the inning. After a sacrifice, Jenny Klotz singled to right to put runners on the corners. After Wilson grounded out, Schutteck smashed a two-out single to left scoring Hasenstab and Klotz.

The lead would not last for the Salukis as they would allow UNI to tally three runs in the bottom of the fifth to put the game away. Although UNI was able to contain most of the Saluki hitters, there were a couple that caused havoc. Klotz, Hasenstab, and Schutteck all had three hits in the two games.

On Saturday the Salukis entertained their final MVC home opponent of the season. Prior to the games, Hasenstab, Wilson, Klotz, and Meier were honored as the seniors of the team.

The two losses to UNI may have awakened the Salukis. In game one of the doubleheader, the Salukis battered around Drake hurler Tina Zuccolo.

In the first inning Schutteck began what would be an outstanding offensive display. With one out in the first, Schutteck smacked an two-run single to put the Salukis ahead 2-0.

The Salukis increased their lead to 3-1 in the third inning. Becky Lis, Miller, and Christine Knotts all walked before Marlo Pecoraro belted an RBI single. Zuccolo settled down during the next two innings, but in the sixth the Salukis put the game away for good. Hasenstab singled to begin what would be a five-run inning for SIUC. Jami Koss followed with a single and after a sacrifice Lis walked to load the bases with one out. Schutteck clobbered Zuccolo's offering over the left field fence for a grand slam which ended the game by way of the seven-run rule. The blast gave Schutteck six RBI's in the game on 2-4 hitting. Meier went the distance to up her record to 8-4. She allowed an unearned run on six hits.

In game two the Salukis picked up their 20th win of the season to improve to 20-10 overall and 4-4 in the MVC.

Once again the Saluki bats were hot and their pitching remained tough. SIUC used a five-run seventh to break the game wide open in route to a 9-1 victory.

The Salukis first got on the board in the second. Wilson lead off with a double and trotted home on Pecoraro's sacrifice fly. They added a run in the third as Koss doubled and came home on Lis' groundout to second base.

The lead was extended to 4-1 in the fifth inning. Koss doubled again to start things. The two doubles in a game tied a single-game record at SIUC. Koss moved to third with two out before scoring on Wilson's single. Wilson later scored on Miller's groundout to short. Although the Salukis could not break things wide open early, Schutteck remained on top of her game. She would go the distance yielding six hits, one run, and three walks. She struckout two to improve her marks to 8-4, 2-2.

It was in the seventh inning when SIUC put the game out of reach. They erupted for five runs in an inning that featured five baschits, a walk, an error, and a wild pitch.

Wilson and Schutteck hit back-to-back singles to start the seventh. After a sacrifice, Knotts delivered an RBI single. Pecoraro grounded out but Hasenstab went to the opposite field dropping a two-run double to left. After Koss walked and Klotz was involved in a fielder's choice, Lis smashed an RBI single to make it 9-1.

The Salukis finished the game with 16 hits tying their season high. Wilson and Schutteck each had three hits and Koss, Knotts, and Hasenstab all had two.

The Salukis (20-10, 4-4) resume conference action when they hit the road this Wednesday for a doubleheader against Indiana State.

Maybe Toronto got the better of the last two years, collecting two world championships along the way, but Atlanta's stability is starting to pay off. Atlanta has won more games than any other team in the majors the last three years and are poised to make another run at the title.

The Braves are off to an 11-1 start and are undefeated on the road. Their line-up is battering the opposition's pitching and their pitchers are mowing down opposing hitters. It is much to early to lock up, but in a division which includes Philadelphia, Florida, New York and Montreal, the Braves could run away with the pennant by July. Then they sweep through the playoffs and find themselves in the World Series again. Yes, you read it here first, the Braves will be in the World Series this year.

Shockers zap Dawgs 8-6 in conference play

By Grant Deady
Sports Reporter

Wichita State baseball fans were able to wave their brooms in victory for third straight weekend on Sunday after the Shockers swept a three game series with SIUC.

WSU is now 9-0 in Missouri Valley Conference play and boasts a 27-8 record overall.

Game three on Sunday was the closest contest of the series as the Shockers had to come from three runs down to beat the Dawgs.

SIUC was down 3-0 in the second inning, but stormed back to tie the game with one run in the third and two in the fourth.

Dan Esplin then helped put the Dawgs in front 6-3, with a two RBI triple in the fifth and scored a run on a passed ball by WSU catcher Nathan Reese.

The Shockers chipped away at the Saluki lead with one run in the bottom of the fifth and pulled away for good in the sixth when Carl Hall launched a three run homer to left field.

SIUC was blanked offensively through the final four frames and lost 8-6.

Dan Davis (1-7) went the distance for the Dawgs, giving up seven hits and six walks while striking out six.

"Davis pitched a gutsy game against one of the best teams in the country and our battled back all day long," Saluki head coach Sam Riggelman said. "We came back from a three-run deficit to take the lead, but we just couldn't stay on top."

In the nightcap of Saturday's doubleheader, the Shockers flexed its offensive muscle and drummed SIUC, 11-1.

WSU rocked Saluki starter Brian Isaacson (4-4) for 13 hits and six earned runs before the senior was replaced by Dave Farrow in the eighth.

Farrow yielded just one run off three hits in two innings of work, but the Shockers' Brandon Baird

Saluki softball wins, loses two in weekend matches

By Chris Walker
Sports Reporter

The SIUC softball team finished its home schedule for the Missouri Valley Conference by going 2-2 over the weekend.

On Friday Northern Iowa hurlers Kandy Keiper and Dana Hoppel silenced the hot bats of the Salukis. The Salukis did manage 13 hits but stranded 17 runners and only scored three runs in the two games.

The Panthers took game one by the score of 2-1. Keiper pitched the only five hits and one run for the victory. Schutteck (7-4, 1-2) went 5 2/3 innings yielding six hits and two runs for the loss.

Clutch hitting was the story for the Salukis. They could not get the key hits and UNI was able to.

UNI scored a run in the second on a two-out RBI double to make it 1-0 and they increased their lead to 2-0 on a two-out single in the fourth.

The Salukis managed to score in the bottom of the fourth to break the shutout. Laurie Wilson and Jamie Schutteck had singles in the inning. Mandy Miller walked with the bases loaded to force home the only run for the Salukis.

In the second game the Salukis battled back before falling 5-2.

Trailing 1-0 in the top of the fifth the Salukis sent seven batters to the plate and came away with a 2-1 lead.

Braves may follow Bills' lead

If the Atlanta Braves don't watch their step, they could turn in to the Buffalo Bills.

The Braves, like the Bills, are one of the top franchises in their sport. But the Braves, like the Bills, have a penchant for getting to the big game and losing.

The comparisons between the two teams are almost scary. Atlanta went from worst to first in their division in 1991, but then proceeded to lose in the World Series in '91 and '92.

The Bills were the laughingstock of the NFL for much of the 1980's before making a Super Bowl appearance in 1991. The Bills lost a heartbreaker to the Giants and have followed that up with three straight Super Bowl defeats. Now that they have lost four consecutive Super Bowls, the Bills have returned to being the laughingstock of the league.

Both teams have lost some key talent to free agency and injury, but shrewd trade acquisitions kept the wins coming.

But neither has won a world title, and with Atlanta off to an unusually good start, it seems like the Braves are headed for some Buffalonian record.

So what can Atlanta do to avoid a similar fate? Well, they may have done themselves a favor by not getting to the World Series last year. The Braves had gone on an unbelievable hot streak (55-17) just to make the playoffs and would have run out of gas in a Series against the Toronto Blue Jays.

From the Pressbox
Dan Leahy
Sports Editor

So kudos to Philadelphia, who saved the Braves from being losers of three straight Series.

Atlanta took another step in the right direction by retaining all the big guns in their pitching staff. Tom Glavine, Steve Avery, Greg Maddux, Jahn Smoltz and Kent Mercker form one of the best staffs in recent memory. Mercker, the fifth starter in the rotation, threw a no-hitter to begin his 1994 campaign. And all-star voters might as well punch their ballots for Glavine, Avery, Smoltz and Maddux, who combined to lead Atlanta to 103 wins last season.

Atlanta's next bold move was not to resign Ron Gant, who was whining away about money and hobbling around with a bad back. Gant could be counted on for 30 homers and 90 RBIs, but had a propensity to strike out a lot in clutch situations.

The Braves went with young Ryan Klesko in left field instead of Gant and all Klesko has done so far is belt four homers and put up big RBI numbers.

But maybe the most important move Atlanta made was retaining the services of Fred McGriff at first base. McGriff ignited a dormant Brave offense last year and provided veteran leadership in his own quiet manner. Atlanta decided not to go the route of the Blue Jays, who rent players such as David Cone and Rickey Henderson only for the playoffs.

Maybe Toronto got the better of the last two years, collecting two world

SIUC men's golf team wins Bradley Spring Invitational

The SIUC men's golf team won their first golf tournament since the fall of 1992 this weekend when they took on 20 teams at the Bradley Spring Invitational.

The Salukis finished first in the field with a final score of 946 shooting 316-319-311 over the two-day invitational.

Saluki Steve Irish finished No. 2 among the top individuals in the tournament with scores at 76-78-79 over two days for a total low score of 233.

Following Irish for the Salukis was Jason Stillely with a final score of 238.

Among the teams in the invite's field were Southern Indiana, Dayton and Wisconsin-Green Bay finishing second, third and fourth respectively.

Track teams' performance preparation for MVC tourney

By James J. Fares
Sports Reporter

It was quite a weekend for SIUC track and field as the men and women both had outstanding performances in preparation for the Missouri Valley Conference Championships in less than a month.

Starting things off in the right direction was the men's track and field squad as they finished in second place of the Indiana State Invitational with a total of 108 points right behind host Indiana State with 157 and Missouri finished off the top three with 100 points.

SIUC had nine season best
