The MOTHERSHIP descends

|| STORY BY MEXISIA NEAL ||

THE YEAR IS 1999. THE PLACE IS YOUR VERY OWN BACKYARD. THE EVENT IS THE LANDING OF THE MOTHERSHIP AND A WHOLE LOT OF RHYTHM GOIN' ROUND.

Funkateers and Clones of Dr. Funkenstein get ready for the return of P-Funk legend George Clinton. "The Godfather of Superfunk" is armed with his 'Bop Gun' and ready to funk you up.

"I love it when we do college shows — it's a new group of funkateers," Clinton said. "We always make sure to keep the show fresh with a new set each time to keep getting fresh fans."

George Clinton and the P-Funk All Stars will headline the second-annual Spring Thing at 4 p.m. Saturday in support of their latest album "Dope Dogs." This year's concert will be held in Lot 56, the parking lot behind the SIU Arena. The free event is sponsored by the Student Programming Council.

Clinton says about 30 people will accompany him on stage for the three- to four-hour live performance.

"All the original P-Funk All Stars will be cut — there are so many things we like to do," Clinton said. "The Funkadelics will perform, and Parliament will be out there. We're going to do some of the old records and some new things, too."

Andrew Daly, executive director of SPC, said he booked Clinton and his entourage to headline the concert because of timing and diversity.

"They are about one of the most diverse acts out there, and our goal is to bring out a diverse crowd," Daly said.

The mothership is set to land at 4 p.m. and will entail all of the usual funkiness we have come to expect from the P-Funk All Stars. The group members have maintained their spaced-out look with their shiny-silver jumpsuits, rainbow-colored afros and oversized diapers throughout the years. Clinton will be geared up in his patented colorful dreadlocks and tie-died dashiki.

Clinton said the stage costumes are designed to make the group look like "pimps from outer space."

For those who are unfamiliar with the sound of the P-Funk, Clinton describes it as pop, mid-tempo, funky New Orleans music. The story of how the P-Funk movement began is one Clinton tells with an unusual sense of humbleness.

Organizers hope to repeat Spring Thing safety, success

MAIT SMENOS
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

Organizers of this year's "Spring Thing," sponsored by the Student Programming Council, is hoping for a second year of success this weekend.

Recovering from the craziness of the Springfest, SPC is attempting to recreate the positive environment of last year's Spring Thing which, according to SPC Director Andrew Daly, was an enormous success.

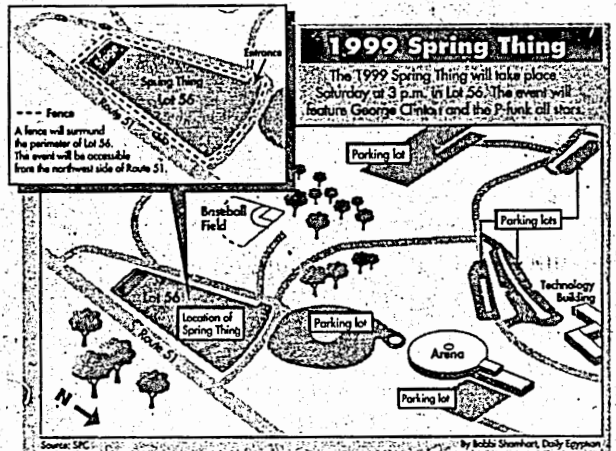

"We had a really great turnout last year, and it was a really good, safe time," Daly said. "We're one step closer to redeeming ourselves in the eyes of the administration."

The annual SIUC Springfest event was canceled after the 1991 event when concert-goers threw beer cans at others. From 1993 to 1995, SIUC had the Dawg Days of Spring, a non-alcoholic version of Springfest. The event was canceled because of low turnout.

The success of last year's gala featuring Ziggy Marley and the Melodymakers at McAndrew Stadium attracted 9,000 people to the event.

This year's Spring Thing will be located in Lot 56 south of the SIU Arena. The lot will be accessible from the northwest side of Route 51.

Bat-beating suspects apprehended Wednesday at residence

DAVID FERRARA
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

University police arrested two Carbondale men Wednesday and another is being sought after they allegedly beat three SIUC students with baseball bats on campus Monday evening.

Cory R. Cummings, 20, and Garland D. Fulford, 23, were arrested by University police at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday on charges of aggravated battery and unlawful use of a weapon by a felon for allegedly possessing bats in the attack.

On Tuesday, University officials issued a campus alert in relation to this incident. One of the victims remains in intensive care at Memorial Hospital of Carbondale.

Police apprehended Cummings and Fulford at their residence in the 5100 block of Logan Street based on information from witnesses. Police also found narcotics at the home but would not specify what drugs were found.

The men could face additional charges by State's Attorney Mike Wepsiec in relation to the narcotics discovery, police said, but Wepsiec could not be reached for comment

Thursday.

Police did not have any information regarding the third suspect and said they would continue to enforce the campus alert.

Minutes before midnight Monday, Cummings, Fulford and the other man approached three students with baseball bats and beat one man in the face and head in what apparently was a random attack, police said.

"To my knowledge (the suspects) had no prior acquaintances with these people," University police Lt. Todd Stigler said.

The other two victims did not require medical attention.

At the time of their arrests, Fulford and Cummings were awaiting an April 19 trial in relation to the shooting of an SIUC student in October. While exiting a trailer at 708 E. College St., Fulford fired a .38-caliber revolver at the student and others, striking the student in the leg.

Cummings also is charged with unlawful possession of a weapon in that incident. Fulford faces the same charge in addition to a charge of aggravated discharge of a firearm.

Cummings and Fulford were being detained at Jackson County Jail on $5,000 bond as of press time.

Vice chancellors part with good will

SAYING GOODBYE:

With chancellor transition complete, Tweedy, Welch leave.

SARA BEAN
POLITICS EDITOR

James Tweedy and Harvey Welch both concede they are leaving on good terms with the University as they become the final two to leave of the foursome of vice chancellors that remained from last year.

Tweedy's last day will be June 30. Welch will remain with the University until December.

Welch and Tweedy are the last two vice chancellors to leave from the original four in place when SIUC Chancellor Jo Ann Argersinger arrived June 30, 1998. John Jackson, vice chancellor for Academic Affairs and provost, will step down from his post June 30 to teach political science. Tom Britton, vice chancellor for Institutional Advancement, has returned to the School of Law as the associate dean of Administration.

Both men made plans to retire while former SIUC Chancellor Donald Beggs was still in office.

"Prior to [Argersinger's] coming, I spoke with Chancellor Beggs about my plans," Welch said. "I agreed to stay until she had completed the transition."

Tweedy, 60, said he made his decision several years ago when the option of early retirement came up.

"I was given the option to retire at 55," Tweedy said. "When I reached 55 I didn't think I was ready to retire. It was too much fun."

"When Don Beggs left, we sat down and talked about what I was going to do. I decided then, but I didn't announce it. It was private."

Welch and Tweedy both said they are leaving the University on good terms and have enjoyed working with Argersinger.

"I think Dr. Argersinger is leading us in the right direction," Welch said. "We all need to be vigorous supporters of what she is trying to get accomplished."

"We need to remember that yesterday is history — today and tomorrow is the future."

Tweedy also said he had enjoyed working with Argersinger.

The chancellor had kind words in return for both men and says they have been valuable assets in her transition.

"I have really enjoyed working with both Mr. Welch and Dr. Tweedy," Argersinger said. "They have really shown that they want to be part of the team."

Until each leave, it will be business as usual. Welch plans to focus much of his attention on recruitment until December. As a United States Air Force veteran,

Special Senate session called for Sunday after low turnout

DAN CRAFT
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

Low attendance and a loss of quorum because of senators leaving during the meeting made Undergraduate Student Government unable to complete their agenda Wednesday night, prompting USG Vice President Brian Atchison to call a special Senate session for Sunday night.

While USG was able to pass legislation supporting the proposed technology fee and hear reports from officers and committees before quorum was lost, no new business was completed.

Following a five-minute recess after discussion of the first new business item, several senators left the meeting.

Attendance had been low throughout the meeting, and the loss of about three senators left the Senate without a quorum. A quorum is the required number of members present to allow USG to bring a binding vote on any issue.

USG Vice President Brian Atchison expressed disappointment at the turnout.

MEETING

The special USG meeting will be at 5 p.m. Sunday in Activity Rooms B and C on the third floor of the Student Center.

Area police, U.S. Marshals continue search for Bohanna

Carbondale police continue to assist U.S. Marshals and Illinois Department of Corrections in the search of a wanted man, considered armed and dangerous, who may be in the city.

On Thursday, police released a photograph of James Bohanna, 27, who was released from jail after serving time for armed robbery and allegedly shot a Kansas City, Mo., police officer during a traffic stop in November. The weapon used in the shooting has not been recovered.

Bohanna

Bohanna also refused to stop for a Fairview Heights officer in February, which led to a high-speed chase that resulted in an automobile accident, authorities said. Bohanna eluded the officer, and a "confidential source" told authorities Bohanna may be in the Carbondale area.

Bohanna is described as a black man, 5 feet 2 inches tall with a 155-pound muscular build and braided hair. He also may go by the last name Johnson, with aliases of either "Bushwick" or "Lil James," authorities said.

Anyone with information regarding the whereabouts of Bohanna should call the Carbondale Police Crime Stoppers Tip Line at 549-2677.

Beautifying the town Spring Clean Up style

The 11th-annual Carbondale Spring Clean Up day will take place from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday at Turley Park, located at Highway 13 East and Glenview Road in Carbondale.

Several fraternities, sororities, other groups and individuals will help pick up trash from throughout Carbondale. Anyone who is interested can help out.

In years past, the volunteers have collected five tons of trash and recyclables. The people break up into groups and work in areas where there is a lot of litter.

People are broken up into groups that combine people involved in the University and those from the community and points are given to each group.

Our Word

May the Funk be with you

Spring has come at last, and to welcome the season and put a caper on another year at SIUC Dr. Funkenstein is here for Spring Thing to chase the blues of the massive onslaught of projects and tests in the upcoming weeks.

As we all let loose Saturday, it's important to maintain some sanity, for as with any mass gathering of students, big brother SIUC administration will be watching.

And, if it's anything like last year or recent Halloweens, they'll be taping us as well. So while we can still "Tear the Roof Off the Sucker," it's important we remain "One Nation Under a Groove."

We've all been somewhat pent up thanks to a week of clouds and rain, but with Thompson Point's Springfest and the Mothership landing at the SIU Arena parking lot, Saturday will be a day-long party.

Both SPC and Thompson Point RHA has put a lot of planning and work into making this a day to enjoy, so let's try not to ruin it and any future celebrations by being immature and stupid.

Instead, "Let's Take it to the Stage" for a good dose of "Hardcore Jollies."

The DAILY EGYPTIAN extends a big thank you to all the volunteers and coordinators of this year's functions. SPC did an outstanding job of bringing in another quality act through a strong funding push, and as always Thompson Point has done a good job of bringing the various residence halls together to put together what's sure to be another enjoyable Springfest, weather permitting.

Last year we were 9,000 strong.

This year, as we're "Standing on the Verge of Getting It On," "Uncle Jam Wants You" to duplicate the last year's relatively catastrophe-free celebration. Let's have a good time Saturday, Salukis — "Free Your Mind and Your (tails) Will Follow."

Women I can't sleep with and other things I won't write about

The DAILY EGYPTIAN editors would like to reiterate that Chris Kennedy's opinion does not necessarily reflect that of the DAILY EGYPTIAN.

(Editor's note: The editors of the DAILY EGYPTIAN feel all readers should know that this column has been rated PG-13 by conservative thugs and other pious persons. Any college student under the age of 13 should not read this without a parent present.

This column could contain words such as: damn, ass, shit, hell, bastard and hellacious. The DAILY EGYPTIAN would like to warn readers it appears Mr. Kennedy will continue to use these words as he is constantly muttering about "style" and his first amendment rights.

Mr. Kennedy has been known to offend conservatives, liberals, fascists, communists, Nazis and socialists with his criticism of their ideologies. We have yet to hear a complaint from anarchists, but we expect some after Mr. Kennedy's next article, which he has informed us is tentatively titled: "I Love the CIA, FBI, NSA and IRS, Especially When They Shoot People Like The Folks at Ruby Ridge."

This column may contain references to Noam Chomsky, Tibor Fischer, Hunter Thompson, P.J. O'Rourke, Dave Berry, Dennis Miller,

Flatulence in Litany

Christopher Kennedy

Flatulence in Litany appears Fridays. Chris is a senior in creative writing. His opinion does not necessarily reflect that of the DAILY EGYPTIAN.

ckennedy77@hotmail.com

Pat Buchanan, Richard Nixon, Bill "bomber in chief" Clinton, God and other entities people may (a) not believe in, (b) disagree with, or (c) downright loathe.

Certain Americans may be repulsed by Mr. Kennedy including (but not limited to): Euro-Americans, African-Americans, Irish-Americans, Southern-Americans, Northern-Americans, NATO-Americans, Japanese-Americans, Angolan-Americans, Serbian-Americans, Albanian-Americans and even un-Americans.

Some topics and terms may not be suitable for virgins under the age of 13, or anyone who hasn't seen "16 Candles" or MTV's "Loveline."

Mr. Kennedy has been known to talk about men with low sex drives, vibrators, women he has slept with, and women who he hasn't slept with.

He has talked frankly about sex, women who are unadventurous in bed, women who are too adventurous in bed, people who get members of the opposite sex drunk on the first date in an attempt to sleep with them, coyote mornings, Mr. Kennedy's attempts to become a gigolo and marry rich, old women and a myriad of other topics no decent person would bring up in a public forum. Do not kid yourself — Mr. Kennedy is not a decent human being. He is a very sick, sick man who needs serious medication.

Anyone that has medication they feel might help are free to drop it off in care of the assistant copy desk editor.

Don't worry, he's a good man and will forward it to the ever-elusive Mr. Kennedy.

Mr. Kennedy has alluded to drugs, including: weed, speed, nicotine, alcohol, morphine, acid, crack and coke. This is in no way an endorsement of drug use by the DAILY EGYPTIAN. These allusions do not mean Mr. Kennedy has taken these substances (x) ever, (y) often, (z) at all or even (zz) hourly. Mr. Kennedy does not advocate anything to anyone except to do whatever they feel like doing.

If you are a professor (either here or at some other fine institution), a student, a community member, a provost, president of a university, head of a Faculty Senate, insane, completely sane, a mother, father, son or daughter, you may become irate at Mr. Kennedy. Do not feel alone because of this — you will not be the first member of your kind to (m) write a letter of outrage; (n) think about writing a letter of outrage; or (o) get someone to write a letter of outrage for you.

Christians, Hindus, Muslims, Buddhists, Scientists and atheists could be dismayed by Mr. Kennedy.

In closing, anyone who does not consider themselves adventurous, open-minded or "cool" should take extreme caution before reading these articles. Remember, just because we print it doesn't mean we agree with what that sick little bastard has to say anyway. Also, we by no means force anyone to read Friday's columnist. Thank you for your time.)

(Second Editor's note: As a result of the monumental warning we just gave you and because of the large amount of space our paper devotes to advertising, we do not have room to print Mr. Kennedy's article titled "What I Won't Write About" in its entirety. We leave you with what we could salvage.)

International coverage often overlooked

Dear Editor,

Few American SIUC students realize that while they are coming to a small town in Southern Illinois, they are also coming to a cosmopolitan community made up of people from all over the world. SIUC hosts between 1,300 and 1,400 international students a year from more than 100 different countries, from Albania to Zimbabwe. The high percentage of international enrollment at this University should be considered a strength because it creates an interestingly diverse student body and it gives American students the chance to learn about other countries and cultures.

The representative organization of international students on campus is the International Student Council (ISC), which is made up of the International Student Associations, from the Arab Student Council to the Thai Student Association. Many international students enjoy the opportunity to share their culture with Americans, and their respective organizations provide activities for this exchange. One of the best examples of this cultural exchange is the main international activity of the year, International Week. Every spring, the ISC and the international associations arrange this festival in an attempt to show the richness and diversity of our cultures. We are happy to share our lives through our performances, displays and shows to SIUC's student body, faculty and the entire Carbondale community.

The International Week is full of international activities and culture: the Flag Parade, Opening Proclamation, Food Fair, Tax Seminar, Panel Discussion, Cultural Exhibition and finally the closing act — the colorful, energetic and sometimes crazy Cultural Show. We appreciate the hard work of all the international students and associations this year because such dedication and perseverance makes it possible for us to continue working on future cultural activities for SIUC. We are also truly thankful to those SIUC administrators, faculty staff, students and Carbondale community members who took advantage of this year's opportunities for cultural immersion.

On the other hand, we feel quite disappointed in the lack of coverage by the media during the International Week this February — the DAILY EGYPTIAN in particular. We feel that we have a lot to offer, and it is a shame that so many missed out on International Week simply because they did not know about it. Also, if people are not able to attend these activities, we would hope that at least they can read about them in the campus newspaper. In past years, the DAILY EGYPTIAN has done a wonderful job of reporting on international students and activities. Unfortunately, this year's coverage has been poor and discouraging. We would like to ask the EGYPTIAN staff to pay more attention to one of the most unique qualities of Carbondale — its international culture.

In the mid '50s, Clinton formed a doo-wop group called "The Parliament." In 1967 they had a hit record called "(I Just Wanna) Testify," which was written and produced by Clinton. The group was signed to Motown records, but with competition from label mates like Smokey Robinson and The Temptations, the group felt they needed something to set them apart from the rest.

"When I worked for Motown it was like a family thing, but the music was changing and we were different from anything else on Motown," Clinton said. "If you didn't want to compete, you had to come up with your own style."

As a result, The Parliaments adapted to the psychedelic times of the '60s and changed the name of the group to Parliament, and the group Funkadelic became their backup. As the years went on, other groups such as "Bootsy's Rubber Band," "The Brides of Funkenstein" and "The Horny Horns" were added to the list of P-Funk All Stars.

"In 1968 the music scene was psychedelic and blues and we were right in the middle of it," he said. "We were all about dancing and getting down."

Today, Clinton and the P-Funk All Stars remain living legends in the music industry. Clinton has continued to write and produce for other artists and still pump out the hits with the P-Funk All Stars. He and Bootsy Collins are working on a new Funkadelic album titled "The Last Time Zone" and Parliament's new album, "Radio Friendly."

Parliament is responsible for such hits as "Atomic Dog" and "We Want the Funk." These hits have become anthems for all funkaters young and old alike. Clinton says he tries to appeal to all age groups and likes to have a diverse audience.

"When we see the crowd grooving, that lets us know that we kicked it off right," he said. "They be out there right to 80, blind, crippled and..."

Students are eagerly awaiting the arrival of the band and the Spring Thing concert.

Carita Bailey, a senior in English from Chicago, is among the hoards of excited fans.

"I've been a fan of George Clinton for as long as I can remember," Bailey said. "I'm excited about his visit because his music has affected every generation... every crowd loves his music."

Geoffrey Gilliams says that P-Funk inspired other forms of music.

"It's going to be really cool to see George Clinton at SIU," said Gilliams, a senior in radio and television from Chicago. "He helped develop P-Funk and a lot of rappers and artists today use that in their music."

The hip-hop industry has definitely reaped from the benefits of the mastermind of Clinton. With songs featuring rappers like Too-Short, Tupac Shakur, Dr. Dre and Outkast, Clinton shows that he is a versatile artist and has what it takes for longevity in the music business.

Despite the constant criticism of rappers for sampling old music, Clinton says he enjoys working with rap artists.

"I like working with the young guys," he said. "Sampling is a way to keep funk alive and working with those artists makes me appeal to a new group."

Clinton says that he is not the founder of the Funk, but he and his group changed it tremendously and the Funk will live forever.

"It didn't start with us. The music (P-Funk) has been around a long time but we championed it," Clinton said.

"We picked up on a vibe and got out of our own way to let the music come through us," he said. "We made it our motto and it has been one nation under a groove ever since."

This year's festivities feature George Clinton and the P-Funk All Stars. Gates will open at 3 p.m. There will be no band opening for George Clinton, who will begin playing at 4 p.m. Alternative weather plans will bring the festivities inside the Arena.

"Last year it rained until a half hour before the show started," Daly said.

Although students can drive to the event, Daly and Lt. Andrew Smith of the SIU Police Department are encouraging students to walk. The Saluki Express will be running Saturday and has stops near the show.

"There are a number of double-header baseball games and other campus events occurring on the same day and the parking could present a problem," Daly said. "We recommend students find other means of getting to the show."

Campus police are going to be present to facilitate parking and ensure safety during the concert.

Daly said last year's safety rules will apply:

- No alcohol
- No book bags
- No coolers

Along with the parking concern, campus police and SPC are expecting another huge turnout.

"We are expecting large crowds," Daly said.

Together with the participation from the students, SPC hopes that this year's event will be provide a safe, enjoyable environment.

"We just want this to be as safe as possible," Lt. Smith said. "We don't really anticipate any problems."

Welch also will devote some time to working with the University's military programs.

Tweedy will devote his final days to the needs of two major projects he had overseen during his administration — improvements in the University power plant's boilers and the Oracle computer project.

Though both men value their time at SIUC, they look forward to the time to devote to other interests after their departures.

Welch plans to devote more time to other interests including the Rotary Club, which he has been a member of since the mid-70s.

He was elected as District Governor last year and presides over a district that covers the southern third of Illinois. Welch said he plans to take advantage of this opportunity to do some recruitment for SIU.

Welch's wife, Patricia, is a professor in the food and nutrition department. Welch said she plans to stay on at the University, while he will take on more of the work at home.

"I will be taking more responsibility at home for cooking and cleaning the house," Welch said. "I already do the laundry."

Welch had nothing but glowing words of praise for the University.

"I've had just a wonderful time here," Welch said. "There have been some problems, but on balance our students are tremendous.

"My retirement is on the very best of terms and I am leaving with nothing but good feelings."

For Tweedy, there are four reasons he plans to retire — his grandchildren.

"There are the four reasons I'm retiring," Tweedy said while gesturing to the various photos framed on his desk. "I want to be able to see them more often."

Tweedy said he and his wife also have plans to travel and he would like to spend more time at their farm in Union County.

"There are a lot of things I want to do there," Tweedy said. "Mary has already made a big list of things for me to do, and the list keeps getting longer."

A blend of acoustic music

Join the audience at Cousin Andy's Coffeehouse, 402 W. Mill St., for a night of acoustic inspiration tonight at 7:30. Popular Minneapolis-based duo Curtis and Loretta will provide a unique blend of original and Celtic material with vocals, Celtic harp mandocello, mandolin guitar claw hammer banjo and a ukulele.

Admission is $5 for adults and $3 for students and low-income families. Tickets are limited and the remainder of the tickets will be sold at the door on a first-come, first-serve basis. For more information call 529-3533.

A Civil War revival

With bullets whizzing overhead, Civil War soldiers needed a way to lift their spirits. So they found a way — through song. Rose of El-A-Noy Minstrels, donned in authentic Civil War gear, will relive the tribulations of these heroes as they sing the 1860s inspirational songs at 8 p.m. Saturday at Melange, 607 S. Illinois Ave. Admission is free. For more information call 549-9161.

WIDB celebrates anniversary

WIDB radio is celebrating its 29th anniversary this week with music, dancing and prizes. They will be offering a free concert tonight at the Free Forum Area at the north end of the Student Center from 5 to 7 p.m.

The concert will feature the Boro City Rollers and Big Swing Face. WIDB also will be raffling free Steve Miller Band tickets as well as other prizes such as condom key chains, t-shirts, stickers, CDs, tapes and 45s. The alternative weather location for the show is the Roman Room located inside the Student Center. For more information call 536-2361.

Bottletones release new CD

The Bottletones will be releasing their new CD, "Sheriff of Bottletone County," at their concert this Saturday at the Copper Dragon, 700 E. Grand Ave. The album will be on sale throughout the show, which will begin at 10 p.m.

Admission is $4. For more information call 549-2319.

Southern Illinois Youth Orchestra to play Shryock

The SIUC Symphony Orchestra will join the Southern Illinois Youth Orchestra in concert at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Shryock Auditorium.

The Youth Orchestra will perform selections by Gluck, Offenbach, Brahms, Duke Ellington and Tchaikovsky's Romeo and Juliet as well as performing with the SIUC Symphony Orchestra.

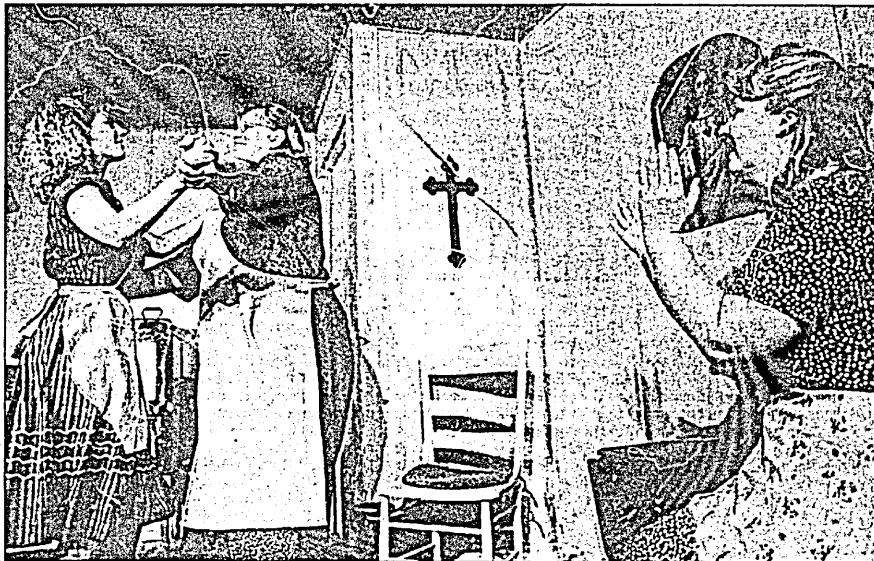

The SIUC orchestra will be reprising pieces from its April 13 concert, including the final duet from Umberto Giordano's French Revolution verismo opera, Andrea Chénier. Admission is free. For more information call 536-8742.

Oh Bother!

Tickets are sold out for the Sunday's musical "Winnie the Pooh" at Shryock Auditorium. But a reminder for those who have tickets already, the show starts at 3 p.m.

Schrader slated to play Shryock tonight

Skilled organist David Schrader will perform at Shryock Auditorium tonight at 8 p.m. Schrader, who plays the harpsichord, organ, piano and fortepiano, has performed with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra and at numerous festivals. The concert is sponsored by the Southern Illinois Chapter of the American Guild of Organists.

Dancing their cares away

STORY BY
THORRIE T. RAINEY

SOMETIMES WHEN LIFE'S TRIBULATIONS ARE TOO MUCH TO BEAR, DANCING IS THE VERY HEART OF LIFE WHERE LANGUAGE DOES NOT EXIST AND IS NO LONGER NECESSARY.

Music is the only release from the lonely lives of five sisters in the play "Dancing at Lughnasa." The play is being performed at The Stage Company, 101 N. Washington St.

"Dancing at Lughnasa" begins tonight at 8 at The Stage Company, 101 N. Washington St. The play runs April 16-18, April 23-25 and April 30 and May 1-2.

For more information call 549-5466.

Brenda Bender, assistant director for the play, was drawn into the sisters' characters and wanted to help in directing the performance.

"Someone suggested to me that I try out for the play, but after reading it I wanted to do more," Bender said.

"The sisters are repressed and need to get things out of their system — they do this through music and dancing."

Set in a small village during the summer of 1936 in Ireland, the play is centered in the lives of five unmarried sisters struggling through their lives. It is during the time of the festival of Lughnasa, which celebrates the pagan god of the harvest with revelry and dancing.

The play is told through the memories of Michael, the illegitimate son of one of the sisters. In this play he reflects on that important time of his life where he first meets his father and the love he received from the women who raised him.

Declan Carey, who plays Michael in the play, understands the feelings that the young boy had about the complicated relationship of his parents.

Michael's father, a Welsh drifter, is an ambitious dreamer and is constantly traveling. During his visits, he constantly proposes marriage and sweeps Michael's mother in elegant dances through the fields.

"He has mixed emotions about the time," he said. "He is happy because he meets his father for the first time, but things do not work out the way he wanted."

Although the play deals with delicate issues, the family does spend many joyous times together.

"It's a tragedy where there are happy moments, but there was a tinge of sadness," Carey said. "It reflects on a period of Ireland that many people can remember."

Originally from County Cork, Ireland, Carey came to Carbondale as a teacher's assistant for the semester. He was walking past the theater and was surprised by the play's advertisement.

"I saw the sign and I was surprised to see an Irish play in Carbondale, so I came in to try out," he said.

Since the play requires the actors to speak with an Irish accent, all the participants — except Carey — had to take Irish dialect classes.

Amy Kucharik, who plays Michael's mother Christina, worked on her accent in her daily life.

"I would go to bars and practice my accent," she said. "Even my mother said I was starting to sound Irish."

Bender said that the cast did a fine job imitating the language and culture.

"I think they do give a suggestion of an Irish accent," she said. "If they did any thicker it wouldn't be natural."

Carey said that although the cast did a fine job on the dialect, that is not the focus of the performance.

"It's hard to be critical of the dialect because it's apparent to me what is wrong with the dialect, but that is not the point of the play," he said. "It is the meaning of the play that should carry."

Book review

NBA basketball and Michael Jordan's almost childlike innocence.

In "For the Love of the Game," Jordan reflects on his 13 seasons dancing on the hardwood floors of basketball arenas around the country and little else. Contrary to Jordan's obvious dedication to the game of basketball and how it shaped his life, the book only skimmed the surface and did not provide any real insight.

I don't know what I expected from this book. So I guess I got what I paid for. This is clearly a book for die-hard sports fans who just want to look at the "pretty pictures."

Although the book does an excellent job on capturing the game of basketball and Jordan's thoughts on his teammates and competitors, it falls short on substance.

In the book, Jordan is constantly talking about the sacrifices that he made for basketball and how it began to control his life, but the way Jordan talks about it I doubt that he minded that much.

'Kissed' a true smacker

DON'T KNOW WHETHER TO CALL THIS CRITIQUE A MOVIE REVIEW OR A CONFESION.

"Forgive me, Father, for I may have sinned. I went and saw 'Never Been Kissed.'" the new film starring Drew Barrymore and I walked out loving every minute of it."

The ad campaign for "Never Been Kissed" makes the movie look like a teeny-bopper flick with the intent of drawing an audience comprised of Barrymore-enthusiastic 12-year-old girls and horny pre-pubescent boys. And indeed when I attended a "Never Been Kissed" matinee the movie look like a teeny-bopper flick with the intent of drawing an audience comprised of Barrymore-enthusiastic 12-year-old girls and horny pre-pubescent boys. And indeed when I attended a "Never Been Kissed" matinee

Anthony Zoubek

When the end credits rolled, the lights in the theater came up and it was kids pissing and moaning about how boring the movie had been. Their parents — and myself — loved it.

"Never Been Kissed" is being pitched to the American public as a comedy of the "Clueless" vein. It should be hailed as a "It Happened One Night" for the '90s.

Barrymore stars as Josie Geller, a mousy copy editor for the Chicago Sun-Times whose boss has her write an undercover series on high school life because — despite resembling a drowned rat that stumbled into a mudslide — Josie is the only Sun-Times employee who looks young enough.

Through a series of flashbacks, we learn that Josie was her high school's ugly duckling, a feature that has followed her into adulthood. Going undercover gives Josie the chance to make things right the second time around. Her every move and encounter in the halls of South Glen South High School is being captured by a movie camera disguised as a pin on Josie's sweater. The footage is transmitted onto a television set kept in the Sun-Times editor's office.

As an unspoken romance brews between Josie and her English teacher, Mr. Coulson, the broadcasts become the newsroom's regularly watched soap rather than as a tab on an undercover reporter. (The taboo of a student/teacher relationship — even though Josie is really twenty-something-years-old — only adds piquancy to the possibility that their love might blossom).

The scenes where Josie gets her second chance at teen-hood are not too sophisticated, but they are quite funny. However, at the movie's core when Josie is interacting with other adults, there is a deeper sophistication that is equally funny as well as intelligent and wholehearted.

The plot wins the audience over without feeling artificially sweet. Unlike most heartfelt movies released so far this year, "Never Been Kissed" doesn't feel shameless as it manipulates its audience. The character's charm and charisma are at the root of the story, not a screenwriter or a director's vision.

I walked out of "Never Been Kissed" with a toothy grin from ear to ear having forgotten the day, the month and what time it was. The film had curiously rekindled my appreciation for being alive. If that isn't a powerful enough reason to make "Never Been Kissed" a moviegoing experience of your own, then frankly you have no soul.

'Never Been Kissed'

— of five stars

(The half star is for the inoculation of the movie's misleading ad campaign. It shows that the filmmakers did not have any faith that their film would find its intended audience. So they aimed it at junior high school kids instead. That's like pitching "Boogie Nights" to an audience of senior citizens. To me, this is the film's only intentional flaw).

It almost makes me think that if Michael Jordan was not such an incredible basketball player he would be a pretty dull individual. Jordan only briefly touches on the most important times in his life — his family, the death of his father and the stress of dealing with hungry reporters.

These are the things that would have made this book a much better read for the fans who want to know the man behind the Nike logo. Not to be nosy, but these are essentials are needed to know more about an individual and how he views the world.

So I am sorry to say that this picture book is just that. With no substance, I know just as much about Jordan that I did before I read it. Well, at least it looks good on the coffee table.

Fred was coal miner who liked to dance & party on Saturday nights, but he was also a family man. He wanted to go someplace where he and his entire family could have fun...but didn't cost too much (in other words cheap). There were only so many weddings, Jacob Days & Homecomings to go to. The fraternal clubs were for members only. The Strip didn't play country music, and if you're a drinking man the motel lounges became too expensive. The only solution for Fred was to build his own place, where young and old could go, to hear country music pure & simple, and bring their own coolers, to cut costs. In 1968, Fred built his dance barn and instantly become a part of the cultural tradition of Southern Illinois.

"We haven't had a meeting in three weeks," he said. "People can't even come in and represent their constituents once every three weeks?"

A measure approving polling places for the USG elections Wednesday, as well as recognition of a new Registered Student Organization and a resolution calling for the University to review off-campus residence halls, were not reviewed because of the loss of quorum.

Because the agenda remained unfinished, USG executives have called for the special Senate meeting, which has been scheduled for 5 p.m. Sunday.

The polling places must be approved at that meeting in order for the elections to take place.

USG managed to solidify its support of the technology fee before the recess. The technology fee has been a concern of USG executives all school year. The ruling Progress-Party counted technology as one of the key components of its FAITH campaign in seeking the offices last year.

Law School Dean Thomas Guernsey, who was a member of the committee that drafted the fee proposal, answered senators' questions concerning the final proposal.

Addressing concerns such as spending outlines and control of the fee, Guernsey said the proposal is designed to be flexible in the long term but still eliminate any possibility that the money would be used for salaries or other purposes outside the field of improved technology.

The makeup of the advisory board making recommendations on spending, Guernsey said, might change based on whether graduate students are involved in the technology fee but will contain a majority of students and be chaired by a student.

Guernsey stressed the advisory nature of the board, pointing out the Board of Trustees has the final say in allocating the money generated by the fee. He also added, however, that the recommendations of the board would also go through high-level University administration, including SIUC Chancellor Jo Ann Argersinger.

Also debated but not voted on because of the loss of quorum was a resolution asking the University to review their policies regarding off-campus residence halls that are approved for freshmen.

Thompson Point Senator John Pluskota submitted the bill after observing what he considered sub-standard conditions in an off-campus residence hall.

"These places say 'SIU approved' on big signs," Pluskota said. "We need a comprehensive policy for conditions in these places if we are putting the SIU name on them."

University Hall, 1101 S Wall St., and Stevenson Arms, 600 W Mill St., are the only two residence halls that would be affected by the bill.

In other business, the Senate voted to postpone indefinitely a modification to the USG constitution regarding GPA requirements for USG members.

The amendment, which dealt with including transfer credit GPA, needed to be reworded following correspondence between Internal Affairs Chairman Ben Syfert, who wrote the amendment, and Associate Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Jean Paratore.

Paratore, who is responsible for calculating GPAs as part of her role as USG adviser, communicated to Syfert that transferred credits are currently used to calculate GPAs. Syfert asked to postpone the amendment so that the language could be modified based on this information.

Syfert said former University Park Senator Willis Reynolds was wrongly dismissed Jan. 27 because of an error in calculating Reynolds' GPA.

Reynolds said he will not ask for reinstatement to his position for the seven remaining meetings of the year. He is, however, running for a University Park senatorship for next year.

"If the GPA were simplified to good academic standing, things like this wouldn't happen," Reynolds said.

Reynolds said he received apologies from USG but expressed disappointment that Paratore herself had made no effort to apologize for the error.

He will be running with several other senatorial hopefuls under the moniker of Another Party.

SOFTBALL

Viefhaus ties all-time record

SIUC softball sophomore center fielder Marta Viefhaus tied the SIUC all-time home run record after hitting her eighth home run for the season - giving her 16 in her two years at SIUC - in game one of a doubleheader against the University of Evansville Thursday in Evansville, Ind.

The Salukis (30-14, 7-1) swept the Purple Aces 8-0, 5-4. Sophomore pitcher Erin Stremsterfer (14-6) paced the Salukis in game one with a two-hit shutout. Senior right fielder Jen Feldmeier was 3-4 in the game with two RBIs.

In game two, junior pitcher Carisa Winters (12-8) struck out nine to pick up the win.

In November, SIUC coach Julie Beck has two scholarships remaining and hopes to fill those spots in the near future.

VOLLEYBALL

Team inks player from Kankakee

SIUC volleyball coach Sonya Locke announced the signing of her sixth scholarship athlete for the 1999-2000 season Thursday. Qianna Nelson, a 5-foot-7 outside hitter from Kankakee, is Locke's latest signee.

Nelson was voted her team's most valuable player at Kankakee High School this year as well as earning an all-area selection. Nelson has also played club ball for Bottom Line for the past five years.

Nelson joins Amber Britton (Louisville, Ill./North Clay), Tara Cain (LaPorte, Ind.), Britten Follet (Marengo), Kristie Kemner (Quincy/Quincy Notre Dame) and Lindsey Schultz (Valparaiso, Ind./Wheeler), all who signed with the Salukis in February.

Locke has one scholarship remaining and is expected to fill that spot later this spring.

BASKETBALL

Salukis add two to recruiting class of 1999

The SIUC women's basketball team added two more players to the 1999-2000 roster Wednesday when Katie Berwanger and Lynn Morancie signed with the Salukis.

Berwanger, a 6-foot forward from Lake Zurich, attended Lake Zurich High School and averaged 9.7 points, 5.4 rebounds and 2.6 steals per game this season.

Berwanger's teams went a combined 64-0 in the Fox Valley Conference, winning four conference and regional titles. An all-conference and all-area performer at Lake Zurich, Berwanger also excels as a student earning a 4.5 GPA (on a 4.0 scale) and will likely major in art design.

Morancie, a 5-foot-6 point guard from Houston, Texas, attended Stephen F. Austin High School, where she earned all-conference after averaging 10 points, five assists and three rebounds per game.

Berwanger and Morancie join Latoya Graves (Memphis, Tenn., Whitehaven High School) and Molly McDowell (Fillmore, Nokomis High School), who signed with the Salukis in the early signing period

TRACK AND FIELD

Men's team travels to Arkansas, women's go to Hoosier land

The SIUC men's track and field team will travel to the highly touted Arkansas/Tyson Invitational this weekend in Fayetteville, Ark., while the women's team will compete at the Sycamore Invitational in Terre Haute, Ind.

The men will compete against 12 other teams, including the No. 1 team in the nation, the University of Arkansas.

Also competing will be 19th-ranked Iowa State University, Seton Hall University, Oklahoma State University, the University of Kansas, Kansas State University and Missouri Valley Conference rival Southwest Missouri State University.

BATTLING

University 9 a.m. Sunday.

"My key focus this whole week-end is the Indiana State match," Auld said.

The Salukis split 5-4 matches with the Sycamores, winning one in the regular season and dropping the other in the second round of the MVC tournament.

Comparing this year's squads, the Sycamores dropped a 5-4 decision to Illinois State University Tuesday. The Salukis fared better, defeating the Rebirds 5-4 in March.

"I think it's going to be another close match," Auld said. "It's a key match for both of us and so I look at it as equal pressure on both teams."

The Salukis expect nothing different against the Racers, who have won three of their last four matches.

The Salukis hope to use the non-conference match to make final adjustments before closing out the regular season Sunday. The MVC tournament begins next weekend.

"I don't want to go in to the Murray State match thinking it's a non-conference match and having the kids go into it being down," Auld said. "I still want them to go into it with the idea of playing good, focused tennis."

SEATS

"When the opposing team is in the outfield, we get a chance to harass the right fielder," Gore said. "Especially since we can walk right over to the fence."

SIUC coach Dan Callahan appreciates the students' support of the team but still reminds the group to play nice.

"For me it brings back memories of the past, when that hill used to be packed," Callahan said. "We don't mind the yelling and them getting on the other team as long as it's clean."

The friendly reminder might be a little late. Earlier this season, the group harassed University of Northern Iowa right fielder Matt Friedmann with chants of "Friedmann" and other language not fit for print.

The group met the mother of Panther center fielder Scott Schirmer, who sat on "The Hill" in the same series. She claimed Friedmann was having the worst weekend of his life because of the "Brown Couch Crew." Friedmann hit 3-for-9 for the series.

"There have been some instances where I thought there was more vulgarity than there should be," Callahan said. "They have to respect the fact, especially when we play Saturday and Sunday games, when there are little kids in the audience."

Also sitting on the brown couch are former Saluki pitchers Aaron Bresko and Jay Schwerman. For Bresko, who fell victim to an injury before the start of the 1998 season, now uses his time cheering in the stands instead of the dugout.

"I can't be on the team, it's just good to be with them," Bresko said. "Just being a fan is like being a part of the program."

Like the rest of the group, Bresko likes being on "The Hill."

"It is still fun just to be able to go out there and jump on the team's right fielder," Bresko said. "When I was playing for them and we went to Texas Tech and Arizona State, some of those guys would heckle, and it gets under your skin. It gets in your head - believe me."

Salukis looking for clearer sky

MIKE BJORKLUND
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

With rain expected for the Southern Illinois region again this weekend, the SIUC baseball team may not get a chance to revert back to its winning ways.

Even without the foul weather expected, the Salukis would still have a tough time defeating the No. 13 team in the country, Wichita State University.

PLAY FOUR

• Weather permitting, the Salukis enter Wichita State University today at 2 p.m. at Abe Martin Field. Saturday's doubleheader begins at noon, and the series will conclude Sunday at 1 p.m. All games will be broadcast on WCIL-AM 1020.

said. "When you play a team with the caliber of a Wichita State, then you got to do the things that you were doing well early on in the season."

The Salukis (21-11 and 7-8 in the Missouri Valley Conference) have lost seven of their last eight games. They will seek solid performances against the Shockers in weather similar to the past few days.

SIUC has been using batting cages and intrasquad games as a way to combat the lack of activity on the playing field. The Salukis have not played since Sunday after their game at Murray State University Wednesday was rained out.

"The thing bothers me is that we had a very, very good practice on Tuesday," Callahan said. "If we played well Wednesday, then we were hoping it would carry over to Friday."

"When you play a team with the caliber of a Wichita State, then you got to do the things that you were doing well early on in the season."

— DAN CALLAHAN
HEAD BASEBALL COACH

Wichita State, on the other hand, does not need anymore practice. Their 31-8 record overall and 9-3 mark in the MVC speaks for itself.

The Shockers are starting to regain their form as the team to beat in the Valley after a slow start in conference play this season.

WSU has won seven straight, including a four-game sweep of Illinois State University, outscoring the Redbirds 60-19.

First baseman Pat Magness (.398 avg., 10 HR, 54 RBI), Jeff Ryan (.345) and catcher Brian Preston (.11 HR), and a team .331 batting average are prime examples of why WSU is ranked 13th.

The Shockers lead the series 52-17, including six straight over the Salukis.

SIUC will have to play a near-perfect series to be competitive, which is something they have not done recently.

Thankfully for SIUC, junior right fielder Marty Worsley has not struggled at the plate. Worsley's .451 average leads the MVC and puts him in the running to once again become the second Saluki ever to ever capture a batting title.

Other Salukis that have not fallen as of late at the plate are senior center fielder Joe Schley (.403) and junior Dave Pohlman (.366).

The Shockers and their 3.22 ERA enter Carbondale with two of the top 10 pitchers in the Valley. Ben Christensen (8-1, 2.52 ERA) and Brandon Sloan (4-1, 3.65 ERA) lead the team.

The pitching rotation for the Salukis this weekend will be Jason Fraser (4-1, 2.17 ERA), David Piazza, Adam Biggs and Brad Heuring. The Salukis also will look to lower their season-high 4.09 ERA.

"I think we are better this year than we were last year, and last year we played them very competitively," Callahan said. "I like to think we are a better ballclub right now, despite the fact that we have struggled the past two weeks."

RICHARDSON

— Doug Woolard is from here. He coached here and he knew the people here. He actually saw us play four times, so that's unusual for an AD from another school."

But what about Bill Rowe? Rowe is the athletic director at Southwest Missouri State

— Alford's old stomping grounds.

Appalachian State University's Buzz Peterson turned down an offer to coach the Bears, possibly leaving the door open for Weber. Could you imagine Weber coming back to coach at SIU Arena next year as a visitor?

"I'm a coach, it's hard to question a guy because of the lack of security," Weber said. "If you have a chance to get a job you have to look at it.

"If guys were given tenure and were told that they weren't going to get fired then they would stay places longer. You see guys getting fired after two years. There's very little security."

But Weber should feel pretty secure around here. No one wants to see him leave.

"I just want to make sure we keep our basketball coach here," interim athletic director Harold Bardo said.

Weber ended the conversation I had with him by saying this:

"I'm here, I'm not going anywhere," Weber said. "My thing is right now, we've got to get a three man. Our kids have got to work hard this summer and we've got to keep building the program and hopefully, maybe next year compete for the title."

Hopefully, he's no Gary Barnett.

Will Weber stay or go?

The Missouri Valley Conference has had its share of departures recently. Just days after Southwest Missouri State University lost in the Sweet 16 of the NCAA Tournament, Steve Alford accepted the head coaching job at the University of Iowa. I wonder if they will call him Dr. Alford?

Then Illinois State University coach Kevin Stallings took his three consecutive league titles and bolted to Vanderbilt University. I wonder if Stallings will think Tubby Smith looks like SIUC junior point guard Ricky Collum's dad, too.

Where is this leading? I'll tell you. Will Saluki coach Bruce Weber be the next early-entry candidate to leave the Valley? Even MVC leading scorer Maurice Evans decided his time was up at Wichita State University. He left the Shocker program after two seasons.

Back to the coaches. Weber, like Alford and Stallings, has restored success to fading programs. But will Weber, like Alford and Stallings, hang around for a while before leaving to a Big Ten or SEC school?

Alford waited four years. Stallings waited six seasons. They made positive moves for themselves," Weber said in a recent interview. "You wish you could get guys to stay longer, but it's part of the coaching profession."

Weber enjoyed a fine freshman season as head coach. After three straight losing seasons, the Salukis went 15-12 and barely missed the NIT.

SIUC loses defensive stopper Monte Jenkins, but incoming freshmen Kent Williams and Brad Korn had tremendous senior years in high school and show promise.

But Weber's superb job of coaching and recruiting caught the attention of the Saint Louis University athletic director Doug Woolard, who is also an SIUC grad.

During the NCAA Tournament, Woolard asked the University for permission to talk to Weber about the vacated Billiken head coaching job left when Charlie Spoonhour resigned last month.

Weber only got as far as a phone conversation with Woolard (did I mention he earned his degree from SIUC) before Saint Louis hired former Pepperdine coach Lorenzo Romar.

"I think it was a rare situation," Weber said of Woolard's interest. "We beat them

Saluki baseball fans gather around the big brown couch behind first base to blow grass, cheer the Salukis or heckle the opponents.

Members of the 'Brown Couch Crew' find comfortable place at Abe Martin Field

A couch at a baseball game is something you might expect to find on MTV's Rock and Jock celebrity softball games, where pieces of furniture garnish the stadium.

But that is exactly what those in attendance at Abe Martin Field can expect to see at each home Saluki baseball game on "The Hill."

A group of 25 SIUC students and former Saluki baseball players call themselves the "Brown Couch Crew." To each game, they bring with them a soft, 10-foot brown couch, resembling something found in a living room.

For the past two years, Steve Gore, a senior in electronics management from Elgin, has owned the piece of furniture and has brought it to Saluki home games.

"We saw people coming out last year bring grills and stuff," Gore said. "And we said, 'Hell, let's just pack up the couch in the truck and just take it out there.'"

The Brown Couch Crew has graced "The Hill" — with the exception of a few Wednesday games — since the 1998 season. The crew has been making the most of its location in right field.

Battling an unlikely opponent

PAUL WLEKLINSKI
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

SIUC women's tennis coach Judy Auld has racked up 352 career wins, but in her 25 years she has never faced an opponent quite like George Clinton and the P-Funk All-Stars.

Auld and her Salukis are not playing tennis against Clinton, but Saturday's match with Murray State University coincides with the Student Programming Council's Spring Thing, which takes place in the south parking lot of SIU Arena.

"Yes, I think it can be very much of a distraction," Auld said. "Not the music so much, but it just depends upon how many people will be milling around the court. You just have to deal with it."

Fortunately for the Salukis, the concert conflicts only with their only non-Missouri Valley Conference match of the weekend. By the time the crowds arrive for the concert, the most important match, Indiana State University, will have been decided. The match begins at 9 a.m. Saturday.

The Salukis also face Bradley

OPEN HOUSE

The SIUC women's tennis team welcomes Indiana State (9 a.m.) and Murray State (2 p.m.) to the University Tennis Courts Saturday before Bradley arrives at 9 a.m. Sunday.
