Relocation Of 3 Units Is Planned

The University Press, auditor's office and Department of Theater are scheduled for relocation within the next six weeks.

The Press, now located in a two story house at 600 W. Grand Ave., will be moved into remodeled quarters on the second floor of the University Center, according to Rino Bianchi, administrative assistant to John S. Rendleman, vice president for business affairs.

Plywood partitions will be erected in the new space, which is part of the unfinished portion of the Center. The new quarters will adjoin the Press' book warehouse area.

Present Press quarters, along with two houses south of it, will be removed. The Department of Printing and Photography laboratory, located in one of the houses will be moved to the basement of the Communications Building.

Auditors will move from business barracks on South Thompson Street to a house at 108 E. Park St.

Bianchi said relocation of the Department of Theater from its longtime home in the Southern Playhouse barracks to the Communications Building will begin soon. Plans are to convert the Playhouse to rehearsal space for the Department of Music.

The Department of Speech and WSIU Radio in barracks adjacent to the Playhouse, are scheduled to move into the Communications Building by June 1. That space is tentatively planned for the Student Work Office, Office of Financial Assistance and Department of History annex, now in three Harwood Avenue houses slated for removal.

Also set for removal within the next six weeks is the old Health Service building at Park and Washington.

Possible Changes Presented For Senate Representation

Retreat Hears New Proposals

By John Epperheimer

A tentative plan to divide Carbondale into four zones for representation on the Campus Senate was formulated by a group of students Saturday.

The plan would have campus senators represent residents in geographical districts throughout the city. Senators are presently elected from living areas, academic units, and student categories.

The proposal was informally discussed Saturday by 33 students at retreat at Little Grassy Lake.

George J. Paluch, student body president, appointed a committee to attend a meeting of the interim off-campus Presidents' Council at the Off-Campus House, 608 W. College St., at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday. The meeting is also being held to discuss student government reorganization.

The Little Grassy meeting was called by Paluch, who last month expressed a desire to reorganize campus student government to better represent students.

Bardwell Grosse, liberal arts and sciences senator, submitted the plan which was generally favored by the group.

A major concern of those present was to obtain more representation for off-campus residents. More than half of SIU's students do not live in University housing.

The plan favored would provide representation on the basis of population. Grosse drew his plan to follow the "one man, one vote" concept as much as possible, he told the group.

As advocated by the group, the plan calls for Carbondale to be divided into four sectors along Illinois and Grand Avenues.

Within these sectors, districts would be apportioned

SNOW FOOLING—Hardly anyone would believe the weather forecasters Sundays when they kept predicting snow. After all it was bright and sunny and the temperature was way up in the 50s. But this sight greeted them when they awoke Monday morning. Heavy, moist snow clung to everything, but by late in the day much of it had melted or dropped to the ground. Most of the rest of it should disappear by today, the weather forecasters said.

Conditions Ranging From Good to Bad Found by Students Living Off-Campus

By Fred Beyer
First of a Series

Bob Giesen lives off-campus.

"Upstairs in the back, just off the alley," he says.

One week recently he was without water for three days while a broken water pipe was being repaired. Until recently, he said, he didn't see a day that the temperature in his apartment was above 64 degrees—particularly during the recent sub-freezing weather.

Across town, three other students share half of a new duplex. It is furnished in excellent taste, all the equipment is new. Each has his own bed with a comfortable inner-spring mattress. The apartment is heated by gas and is warm.

The owner practically hovers over them like a mother hen to make certain they are comfortable and all systems in the apartment are go.

These two cases represent the extreme in off-campus housing. The very bad—and there is a lot of it—and the very good—and there's more of that than most people are willing to admit.

Giesen says quite bluntly: "I can't think of one good reason why I live off-campus." Others who live off-campus have a long list of reasons why they do, including "we are far enough out that we can have cars with no questions asked."

Anita Kuo, coordinator of off-campus housing and who handles student complaints and gripes about substandard housing, divided the reasons for living off-campus into three areas:

The major reason, Mrs. Kuo noted, was the fact that it is often cheaper to live off-campus both from the standpoint of housing costs and the fact that many off-campus units have cooking facilities to help lower the cost of living in Carbondale.

Also, Mrs. Kuo noted, many students prefer small houses because they don't function well in large groups such as those found in University housing units.

The third drive to the off-campus living centers is the fact that many persons can't get University accommodations and are forced off-campus.

"Privacy, freedom and economy" were the three reasons for living off-campus listed by Ed Underwood, who noted that, "It's easier on me and I eat better meals."

"There's more chance to meet people by living off-campus," said one coed who didn't wish to meet any more by revealing her name.

"I don't have anyone telling me what to do," observed Steve Mutaugh, who added, "It's not that I do anything different, (living off-campus), it's just the idea."

There are two types of off-

Perchers in Oasis Monopolize Spaces

In the 1930s flagpole sitters were the rage. The idea was for a man, or woman, if the urge struck, to climb to the top of a high pole and perch there for a long time.

SIU is currently plagued with its own brand of sitters. Their favorite perch is a chair in the Roman Room or the Oasis at the University Center.

Before someone starts throwing around terms like antisocial, perhaps we had better explain that we are all for socializing, but, although there may be no proper place on campus, there must certainly be a proper time.

Unfortunately most of the horde of chatters choose times when dining room business is at its peak to make their social contacts.

After making the grand tour around the room for the fifth day in a row, we are more than a little disturbed by the fact that many students and yes, even faculty members, think that the Roman Room is where one goes to kill the two hours before the next class, no matter what time it is.

We contend that it is merely common courtesy to eat your meal or drink your cup of coffee or whatever, then relinquish your seat to some poor soul who couldn't get to the University Center from his class or office as quickly as you.

This is at best a temporary solution. As more and more students come to SIU, the problem, even if everyone is always most courteous, will become more and more serious.

But, until University Center food service facilities are expanded, more lounges are built on campus, or warm weather comes (so Lake-on-the-Campus will be the most overpopulated area on campus) please, please, don't cause more traffic jams with your kibitzing.

Pam Gleaton

Library Snoozers Seek Heat, Light

It would be interesting if a Ph.D. candidate at SIU were to do his dissertation on the influence of warmth to sleeping students in Morris Library.

The temperature on the second floor rivals the climate of a South Sea island—trouble is, you can't go swimming in the Humanities Library, unless you do it vicariously while looking at the mural of the Thames on the Wall in the lounge.

On the other hand, the blue atmosphere of the third floor is accompanied by a cool temperature.

The Social Studies Library attracts a lot of people, and we bet that many of them are not history or government majors.

Last Wednesday, the second floor was nearly deserted, while the third was so crowded that it was hard to find a seat.

On the same night on the second floor, there was a pencil thrust into a thermostat near one of the exits.

Apparently someone who wanted to study there was trying to bring the heat level back down to room temperature. Or maybe the pencil was a library janitor's who couldn't find a screwdriver.

took. You work and it's 60 bucks a week. "Honey," the wife says, "buy us a new car." You can't. But if she go on welfare, they give her $300 a month. Who needs you? She knows it, you know it, the kids know it." He pauses and suddenly starts talking about the riots. "You should've seen them flames, a mile high! I guess we showed we was men."

An old car careens around the corner. A man leans out and shouts the familiar, "Go home, Whitey!" But as he shouts, he waves defiantly and grins.

"The cops are better," says a little man with a limp. "I'm not saying they still don't beat you around like always, once they get you to jail. But here on the street, with everybody watching, they're better. You know," he says, smiling in a quiet, withdrawn way, "lots of things are better."

And so, five months later, Watts is quiet. And yet for those who live in Watts things are better, maybe just a little better. Because the frustrations and rage in some exploded into those nights of blood and flames, life grew better, not worse.

And that, I am very deeply afraid, may well prove to be the real tragedy of Watts.

That Commuter Bus Proposal Never Did Get Off the Ground

It was a good idea while it lasted. But Portland State College's plan to sponsor commuter bus service for students ran out of gas.

Of the estimated 500 students, faculty and staff members along the projected route between Oregon City and PSC, only 15 said they would ride the bus. Fifty was set as the minimum for the experiment.

The poll squares with evidence of commuter sentiment elsewhere. Americans, young and old, would rather scramble for parking places and pay rising parking fees than forfeit the independence of private transportation.

The rest of us cannot be too critical of the kids' devotion to the automobile. They inherited their habits from all the post-Henry Ford generations.

All's Quiet in the Negro Ghetto of Watts

By Arthur Hoppe
San Francisco Chronicle

LOS ANGELES—It's been five months since the nights of flames and blood. What's going on now in the Negro ghetto of Watts?

"Nothing," said the young civil rights militant with the horn-rimmed glasses.

"Not really anything," said the sociologist.

"It's real quiet," said the cop with a shrug.

It looks quiet. The rows on rows of bungalows, some with neat front lawns, some with weeds, the church with its rust-stained neon cross, the clapboard hamburger stands, the boarded-up liquor stores, the rubble-trewn lots along "Charcoal Alley" where the fires centered—it all looks quiet. And yet...

"They used to tell me, 'You do this,' and 'You do that,'" says the young Negro in the porkpie hat and sweatshirt, not looking at you as he talks. "But I found out there ain't one thing in this whole world you ever got to do. Except die."

"See that place there?" says an old Negro man, pointing to a new stucco building in the heart of Watts. "Was going to be a Savings and Loan. Seven days after the burnings the state took it over and give us an employment office. We used to have to go eight miles to look for a job. Now," he says with pride, "they know we're here."

"We don't go around so much knocking each other on the head no more," says a tough-looking young Negro.

HOPPE

"I like look, man, we're all brothers."

"I ain't even Whitey's cousin," says his friend, laughing.

"I'm 38 and I'm dead," says the man in the neat white shirt with the frayed bat collar. "But my kids ain't. They ain't going to have to take the — I

Senator Differs With Paluch, But Raps Rapetti's Editorial

Mr. Rapetti: Taking account of the editorial which was published Feb. 8, I feel compelled to reply.

Since I initially sponsored the bill for the athletics fee increase for intercollegiate athletics, I, of course, am politically aligned with you on that issue and, by the same token, oppose the feelings of George Paluch.

It is true that the majority of voting students on this campus voted "for" the increase. It is also true that George, as student body president, opposes that majority. It is true that George is on illogical grounds, then, in saying he believes a majority opposes the increase. However, your editorial is saturated with argumentation of a lower form.

You make a grievous mistake in stating that Mr. Paluch threatened to veto the bill without written approval from the senators. The fact is that Mr. Paluch asked for written opinions from administrators.

In so requesting he was correctly suggesting that legislators should consult administrators if they expect their work and presentations to be considered seriously. Responsibility for knowledge of the situation about which one is making statements is necessary if we seek to protect the innocent and revere the truth.

I support Mr. Paluch's right to write letter and express his opinion as vociferously as he wishes, but still differ with him. I condemn you for opposing that right and writing incorrect "hearsay" and calling it fact. Next time, live up to your responsibility and, like a good journalist, print the truth.

Oh Sunburst, up in the Sky, Set Tonight and Never Rise

To the editor: Few will deny that the "Old Main" seal needs to be replaced. A replacement was proposed in the Egyptian of Feb. 9.

Is it an adequate replacement? I think not. Here are my reasons.

1. Visually, the sunburst breaks down. It is hard to see as a whole. The continuously looping line tends to break down the circles rather than building them up into a sunburst.

The lettering is not clearly tied to the central emblem, either style-wise or compositionally. Perhaps a sans-serif letter style would be more appropriate to the emblem style.

2. Philosophically, the circle's symbolism seems inappropriate. SIU is the product of, and is set up to accommodate, vast changes, both in culture and in education. It would seem that SIU is a university whose educational outlook presupposes change, adaptation to new circumstances, and growth.

This is a new age—and there is something new under the sun. It would seem, therefore, that the seal of the University should reflect this.

Daniel Gildesgame
Graduate student in design

P.S. I am told that the noted graphic designer Ivan Chermieff has been commissioned to redesign SIU's graphics (letter heads, mailing equipment, forms, etc.). Has he been consulted about the seal?

Captured Patton Tanks Pose Problem

Indian Reds Fail in Anti-U.S. Efforts

By Sundar Rajan
Copley News Service

NEW DELHI—At a Communist Party rally here recently, a burly Sikh youth jumped on the dais and shouted: "Americans are our worst enemies. President Johnson is a gunman!"

Of the 2,000 people present, not more than 100 cheered this remark. The young man's excited gestures seemed to cause more amusement than arouse the expected burst of anti-Americanism.

A mile away from the Reds' meeting the Socialist Party was holding an antigovernment demonstration. A follower of Ram Manohar Lohia, the Socialist leader who declares himself to be both anti-Communist and anti-American, was met by stony silence when he charged that U.S. emergency wheat aid to India was motivated by political considerations.

A group of Delhi University students sitting in a corner later began heckling the speaker. One of them shouted: "Why don't you leave the Americans alone and tell us something about your party's domestic program?"

These incidents underline the fact that political agitators always have found it difficult to whip up anti-American sentiment in this country.

U.S. Information Service libraries were packed with visitors and did not have to call for protective guards even at the height of last September's war with Pakistan when Indian leaders and newspapers charged the U.S. government with partiality toward Pakistan.

The Communist Party of India (CPI) also has failed dismally to organize "massive" anti-American demonstrations on the Viet Nam issue.

But all this does not mean that the anti-American lobby here is winding up or that Americans have no public relations problem.

The truth, however, is that responsible Indian leaders and opinion-makers seem to be realizing that it is the Communists alone who profit by any encouragement given, however unwittingly, to anti-American feelings.

The exhibition of U.S. Patton tanks is a graphic illustration of this.

Soon after the Indo-Pakistan ceasefire, the defense ministry in New Delhi organized what came to be known as "Patton Nagar" or "Patton Town." American tanks destroyed or captured during the 22-day war were brought together in a border hamlet near the town of Amritsar.

Thousands of spectators daily visited the exhibition. Captured Pattons also were shown to the people of the capital as part of the government's "Meet-The-Pakistan-Challenge" campaign.

Arrangements also were made to send Pattons to Bombay, Calcutta and other Indian cities. One was proposed to be exhibited at the great Hindu bathing festival at Allahabad so that millions of

THE EVIDENCE—These U.S. Patton tanks were captured during the undeclared war with Pakistan. Despite exhibits of tanks around country, leftists failed to whip up anti-American sentiment against the country that has sent tons of emergency wheat to help avert famine.

pilgrims could have an intimate look at what one Red-leaning columnist described the exhibition of the Pattons. But the pro-Communist lobby immediately seized on the situation to mount an anti-American campaign using the exhibits as visual aids.

At his last birthday, the late Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri, was provided with a huge birthday cake shaped like a Patton tank.

Bhupesh Gupta, a Communist member of Parliament, has been urging that a Patton tank should be installed in front of the prime minister's house.

Apparently, the Indian government now has come to the conclusion that the Patton business has gone a bit too far. It has ordered the closure of all the exhibitions. No captured tanks will be sent to other centers for public display.

Reports in the Indian press suggest that the action has been taken following U.S. Embassy protests. But Defense Minister Yeshwantrao Chavan says there has been no formal or informal protest.

But many Americans in India have not concealed their annoyance at the Patton tank exhibitions. It is reasonable to assume that the withdrawal of the exhibits is in fact both an official response to American sentiments and an indication of the Indian government's realization that the exhibits were providing much-needed propaganda ammunition to the Communists.

The future of the captured American tanks is posing a delicate problem for the Indian government.

To be sure, at the official level no attempt was made to inject anti-Americanism into as "this pathetic instrument of Western imperialist machinations."

A Daily Egyptian Book Review

Goebbels' Role in the Third Reich

"Goebbels and National Socialist Propaganda, 1925-1945," by Ernest K. Bramsted. East Lansing: Michigan State University Press, 1965. 488 pp. $12.50.

Seldom is it possible to say, "Here is the definitive work on a subject." Little doubt remains that at long last a complete and insightful a non-psychological treatment of Joseph Goebbels' propaganda work with the Third Reich as can be expected has been published.

Liberal documentation, extremely well interwoven and with numerous quotations from a wide variety of authentic sources, permit the reader to know Hitler's chief propagandist via his own words. Considerable use was made not only of speeches from all available printed sources, but also from personal diaries, previously largely neglected.

Wisely, Bramsted limited his subject to Goebbels, his modes of operation, his life. He resisted the temptation to veer off on tangents, injecting Hitler, Himmler and others into the story only doing so expanded on the total picture of Goebbels.

As one example, Bramsted quoted Goebbels' press secretary, Wilfried von Oven, to show Goebbels' admiration for Hitler:

He continued to show him "a child's love and reverence." Each time he visited Hitler at his headquarters, he was "full of distrust of the Fuehrer's genius, full of irritation, criticism and hard words (and) determined to tell Hitler just what he thinks." And yet each time he returned from those visits "full of admiration for the Fuehrer" and exuding an "infectious optimism."

This book's most important contribution lies in its analysis of Goebbels' propaganda techniques and campaigns. It also points out succinctly wherein Goebbels' work differed from that of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. Additionally, the author

Since the tanks were given to Pakistan as part of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization military aid program, they are still technically U.S. government property, according to some observers. The question consequently arises as to whether they should be returned to the Pakistan army once a truce agreement is reached or whether they should be turned over to Washington.

Any move to return the tanks to the Pakistanis is certain to spark a major political controversy. The anti-American lobby will interpret it as a surrender, to "imperialist pressure."

Most Indians are hoping that the valuable tanks will remain with the Indian army to help it meet any future emergency. Indian experts have gone on record that the Pattons are excellent weapons but that the Pakistanis did not know how to make the best use of them.

Some influential Americans in New Delhi think that one impressive way to embarrass the anti-American lobby is to permit the Indian army to retain the Pattons.

Asked how he would react to a gift of the captured Pattons, a Communist Party member here told this correspondent: "Why talk of gifts? These Pattons have been captured by our soldiers and we should keep them, and use them when the time comes, to defend our frontiers. They are no longer American property. Only an imperialist stooge will question their ownership!"

takes the reader behind the scenes to relive those turbulent years from the vantage point of the inner councils of the Third Reich.

Does Bramsted over-emphasize Goebbels' role in Hitler's rise to power? This question each reader can answer for himself. The book does indeed leave the impression that Hitler could not have succeeded in seizing power or in holding it, especially during the frustrating days of impending defeat, without Goebbels.

In fact it credits Goebbels with breaking the attempted coup in July, 1944, holding war production at high levels until war's end, winning public admiration when Hitler remained brooding in seclusion, and, finally, with disobeying Hitler's order to appoint him Reich chancellor near the end of the war.

Anyone interested in the history of the period, the history of modern Europe, the study of propaganda, the operations of a dictatorship, or the press under controls would find this book extremely valuable. It clearly stands as a companion piece to the masterful The Last Days of Hitler by the eminent British historian H. R. Trevor-Roper.

Troopers Kill 29 In Close Combat

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U. S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division troopers grappled hand-to-hand with Viet Cong guerrillas Monday in continuing operations around An Lao Valley that since mid-January have killed 1,295 enemy troops and apparently scattered Communist forces entrenched there for 11 years.

Reports from the base camp at Bong Son said in the day's close-in fighting the U. S. troopers killed another 29 Viet Cong, boosting to 703 their own kill in four phases of the An Lao operations. U. S. Marines, South Vietnamese and South Koreans accounted for the others.

About 40 miles to the south, Viet Cong road mines killed 34 Vietnamese civilians and wounded another 18 in a rice bowl recently wrested from Communist control by U. S. and allied forces. The victims were in three buses on a road 10 miles from the rice harvesting center of Tuy Hoa.

Heavy clouds limited U. S. air strikes against North Viet Nam. U. S. military spokesmen in Saigon said Air Force and Navy planes carried out 19 missions against coastal installations, particularly around Vinh, a railway and highway hub that leads to the South and the Ho Chi Minh Trail in the west across the Laotian border. The cloud cover prevented calculations of damage.

The allied operations in the An Lao area were described as the harshest punishment handed out yet by the allies to the Communists in an area they had held for a long time. An Lao Valley, 280 miles northeast of Saigon, had been Communist real estate since December 1954, and South Vietnamese attempts to penetrate it were always beaten off.

The cavalrymen formed the thrust of the operations that began Jan. 24. The division's 2nd and 3rd brigades pushed into An Lao Valley itself while U. S. Marines, the Vietnamese and South Koreans took up blocking positions.

The 2nd Brigade still is inside An Lao Valley, searching for Communist forces and starting resettlement and civic action programs for civilians. The 3rd Brigade has pushed out into dozens of tiny valleys that could afford the Communists escape routes.

It was in one of these valleys that the 1st Squadron of the 3rd Brigade's 9th clashed hand-to-hand with Viet Cong guerrillas before Monday's dawn.

Sgt. Maj. Lawrence Kennedy of Amory, Miss., told of being tackled by two unarmed guerrillas. His M79 grenade launcher jammed, so he bashed the attackers on the head with the stock, threw the launcher at them and ran. Later a patrol caught up with the guerrillas and killed them, retrieving Kennedy's weapon.

The Viet Cong, believed bolstered by North Vietnamese army regulars, are said to have been scattered by the allied operations.

BULLDOZER BURIED—A crew razing this old elevator at St. Joseph, Ill., decided to whittle away at the structure with a bulldozer. All went nicely until the huge building tipped and trapped the bulldozer underneath. All this raised the question of how to salvage the valuable machine. The elevator is about 10 miles east of Champaign. (AP Photo)

Three-Way Package

Rent-Subsidy Program, Rejected in 1965, Resubmitted by Johnson; Battle Stage Set

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson asked Congress for the relatively modest sum of $30 million Monday and fired up what may become another major brawl over his rent-subsidy program.

Congress authorized the program in a housing bill last year but refused to vote the funds needed to put it into operation after Republicans attacked it as a "grandiose scheme" that they said would benefit contractors, property owners and lending institutions more than the low-income renter.

Johnson said critics were misled by "false propaganda and misrepresentation."

In renewing the request Monday, Johnson included it in a three-way package seeking a total of $55.88 million for the current fiscal year ending June 30.

The two other items are $13.2 million for the National Teachers Corps, which also suffered a last-minute turnaround when Congress was preparing to adjourn last fall; and $12.68 million for helping the Selective Service System meet added demands for manpower.

In a letter to House Speaker John W. McCormack, Johnson told Congress that the three items "are not the frills of luxury."

"They are the necessities of a nation devoted to the improvement of man's estate," he said.

An indication that the Republicans have not softened their opposition to the rent subsidy program came from Rep. John J. Rhodes of Arizona, chairman of the House GOP Policy Committee.

"It is an inflationary expenditure at a time when we have all the inflation we can use. It seems to me this kind of thing can wait," Rhodes said.

The program would be open to families whose incomes are below the levels established for public housing projects. The government would meet the balance of their rent bill after they had put up 25 per cent of their income toward it.

Johnson said in his letter to McCormack that the Housing and Urban Development Department already has received proposals to build nearly 70,000 housing units under the program. These involve 424 projects in 43 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico.

Johnson told Congress that the rent subsidy and Teacher Corps programs are "vital to our efforts to improve the quality of life in America," and he said the additional funds for Selective Service expansion are "a direct effort of our commitment to freedom in Southeast Asia."

Switch to Dollars Going Smoothly

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Australia became a dollar and cent country Monday, and the changeover from pounds, shillings and pence appeared to be going smoothly.

The switch after nearly three years of planning leaves Britain and New Zealand the only major trading nations still using the sterling system. New Zealand plans to convert to decimal currency next year, and Britain is thinking about it.

Australia's new currency includes brightly colored dollar notes, bronze 1- and 2-cent pieces, cupro-nickel 5-, 10- and 20-cent coins and silver 30-cent pieces.

Soviets Present Plan For Cultural Exchange

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government presented to U. S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler Monday a revised draft of a proposed cultural agreement for 1966-67.

An embassy spokesman said the draft would be studied before negotiations are opened on a final agreement. He declined to say how the new draft differed from earlier ones.

The old agreement, which provided for exchanges of students, artistic groups, exhibitions and such, expired Dec. 31.

Humphrey's Laotian Tour Is Whirlwind

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP)—U. S. Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey spent 12 whirlwind hours Monday trying to nail down U. S. friendship in a visit to Laos and examining key Thai development projects.

The seemingly tireless vice president fell so far behind his schedule that he had to drop six projects from his aerial inspection list because darkness fell.

And he was late for a dinner given by Thailand's Premier Thanom Kittichachorn marking the end of Humphrey's talk-and-see stay.

Humphrey moves on today to Karachi, Pakistan.

He accomplished several objectives with his 700-mile-round trip to Vientiane, the Laotian capital, for a visit of only a few hours.

He restated to neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma the U. S. determination to hold an unswerving course of supporting Southeast nations against Communist encroachment.

The Laotians, like the Thais, had been jumpy about whether the Honolulu conference on Viet Nam had involved any unpublicized discussions that might have unfavorable consequences for them.

Earlier, Humphrey had reassured the Thais of U. S. military support. After conferences with Humphrey, Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman told a reporter: "We can now sleep easier."

Souvanna Phouma said he wanted a large number of tractors to replace the Laotian young men "in uniform defending their country."

A third objective accomplished was to avoid bruising Souvanna Phouma's feelings—which some U. S. officials feared might happen if Humphrey had stopped in Thailand but had not paid a call at Vientiane across the Mekong River from Thailand.

Souvanna Phouma, in an expansive mood, entertained Humphrey, Special Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and other Americans.

Educator Asserts That State Schools Need Private Gifts

CHICAGO (AP)—A university official contended Monday that private gifts to public universities must increase if the institutions are to maintain their quality of education during the next decade.

E. Lee McLean of Berkeley, Calif., coordinator of special projects for the nine campuses of the University of California, said none of the 50 states can afford to support completely through taxes the caliber of education needed and also allow enrollment of the large number of stu lents knocking at their doors.

"State universities have only three logical alternatives," he said. "They can turn away students, they can reduce their standards, or they can seek—and deserve—private gifts to supplement state appropriations."

Speaking at the first conference of officials of public universities called to discuss the problem, McLean said that Americans gave $138,257,296 in gifts to state universities during the 1962-63 academic year.

GI's Stage Drink-in To Protest 'Tea' Price

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The teapot in Saigon's tempest of tea leaves boiled merrily despite a GI protest against the rising price of Saigon Tea—the thimblefull of beverage that comes with a pretty bar hostess attached.

It is through such tea that a GI gets the company of a bar hostess. If he wants female companionship, he must buy the girl Saigon Tea.

Some GIs—but not all—think the price for the stuff is too high—from 160 to 180 piasters, about $2 or more. A whisky and soda costs that much. A bottle of beer is the equivalent of 30 cents.

"Cheap Charlies," the bar hostesses call the protesting GIs.

Saturday night a group of soldiers staged a three-hour drink-in at one cafe to emphasize their protest.

"What do GIs want?" complained pretty Co Hai, hostess at the Paris bar. "Once Saigon Tea 80 piasters. Now Saigon Tea 160. Once rice 5 peasters a kilo. Now rice 10. Not happy this way."

"Saigon Tea not too much cost," said Nguyen Thi Hue of the San Francisco bar. "Maybe five Saigon Teas one day. Maybe 10 next. How we live?"

A quick check showed that hostesses average from 5 to 20 Saigon Teas a day—or night—according to their looks, their charm, their blandishments, and their notions of acquiescence.

"Saigon Tea too high?" said Sgt. James C. Metcalfe of Fayetteville, Tenn. "Not at all. It's just the prices of progress. If you don't want to buy

Springer Announces

Re-election Intentions

CHAMPAIGN (AP)—Rep. William L. Springer, Republican, announced Monday he will seek re-election this year to his ninth term in Congress.

He will seek nomination in the June 14 primary for the new 22nd District, covering Champaign, Clark, Coles, Cumberland, Douglas, DeWitt, Edgar, Macon, Moultrie and Piatt counties.

Springer has represented the old 21st District since 1951.

a bar girl a drink, don't buy it."

Metcalfe said he thought bar hostesses provided a boost to a soldier's morale.

"Some are delightful," he smiled as he sipped his beer.

The mama sans in most bars gave no evidence of being disturbed by the unrest among U. S. servicemen here. They smiled in ways that have been described as inscrutable.

One mama san said: "GI like bar girl. Bar girl like GI. No sweat."

Knees Should Be in Breeze, Not Ski Pants, Survey Shows

NEW YORK (AP)—A quick survey of opinion disclosed Monday that short skirts are more distracting to the male than ski pants, although chillier.

In general, American men think ski pants are for skiing, shoveling snow or scaling an Alp. A business girl who wants to trip up the roving eye will get better results with her knees in the breeze.

"Women in business should be effeminate," commented Jack Wood, a clothier of Charlotte, N.C. "They don't look good in pants. They should leave the pants to men."

"With boys wearing long hair, it's hard enough already to tell the difference between some of them and the girls," said Sol Lapin, a Kansas City restaurateur. "If women wore ski pants to the office it would confuse things that much more."

The question of how the girls should dress for business in winter was raised by Dr. Geoffrey Taylor, a doctor based at Cricket Malherbie, England.

"Girls," said the doctor, "would be more efficient employees if they wore ski pants and men would work better if they wore long underpants." "Long underpants?" said Wayne Wood, a junior English major at Emory University.

"Oh, he means on the men."

Emanuel Cassamatis, proprietor of an eatery in St. Louis, said a girl with good legs should wear them out in the open.

"Naturally, the unfortunate girl that doesn't have it must do the best she can," said Cassamatis.

'One Man, One Vote' Proposed For Campus Senate Districts

each winter to provide one senator for about each 800 students.

An exception to this would be "definable units" whose division geographically would hinder representation. It was thought that these areas, because of their individual interests, could best be served if represented by their own senators.

Those areas generally agreed upon were Thompson Point, Small Group Housing, University Park, Woody Hall and University City.

These areas would have at least one senator. For the first apportionment, Thompson Point and University Park would be given two senators, it was proposed.

Under the revised working paper soon scheduled for consideration by University officials and the University Council, an advisory body to the administration, membership in the Carbondale Campus Senate is limited to 24, including two executive officers.

Working with the number of 22 senators, each senator should represent approximately 818 students under present enrollment figures, according to Grosse and John Paul Davis, student body vice president.

The working paper specifies that when the enrollment on the Carbondale campus reaches 25,000, one senator will be added for each 1,000 new students.

Therefore, the senators will have to represent larger and larger numbers of students until the enrollment reaches 25,000.

The plan of reapportioning within each sector would provide for shifts in population such as the opening of the Brush Towers. It would also eliminate the need to reapportion districts throughout Carbondale each year because some areas might remain relatively static, it was pointed out.

It was argued that Grosse's plan failed to solve the problem of lack of communication between the students and their senators. The senator will still be representing a large area that will have shifting boundaries within each reapportionment, it was contended.

Another phase of the system discussed was to hold elections in the spring and fall in order to attain more continuity in student government and to require an orientation period for all newly elected senators.

Three other proposals were presented at the meeting by Paluch, Staff Loveland, Thompson Point senator, and Bob Wenc, chairman of the Action Party.

Paluch's plan called for establishment of on-campus and off-campus councils which would consider matters pertaining only to their area. The Campus Senate then would only act on all-campus business.

Below the major council would be an area board such as the Thompson Point executive council or the Interfraternity Council. Under these groups would be the residence halls government. Senators would be required to also be members of the councils.

The plan was rejected because the students thought there were too many levels of government, the councils would dominate the Campus Senate, and the senators' multiple membership would be too taxing.

Loveland's proposal also would establish district councils under the Campus Senate. These would represent on-campus, off-campus, and unorganized off-campus areas. The president and senators of each living area would have to belong to the district councils.

Loveland's plan drew criticism for encouraging sectional rivalry. It was felt that maintaining the liaison with the Housing Office, as Paluch's plan did not, was a good idea.

Loveland withdrew his plan in favor of Grosse's after receiving assurance that Grosse wanted systems such as the Thompson Point executive council to continue functioning.

Wenc's plan was based on "political reality," he said. He proposed apportioning Senate seats to established areas like Thompson Point that have participated well in student government. After these areas were given senators, the remaining would be divided among off-campus areas.

Wenc's plan was attacked on grounds that it was too complicated, encouraged sectional rivalry and did not provide equality of representation.

A final proposal was presented by Pat Hare a graduate student in design. He advocated establishing an Office of Research and Projects staffed by one or more graduate students to carry out long-range research for student government. His plan was added to by the group to include a staff of student workers supervised by a graduate worker to man the student government office and do immediate research, as on a Campus Senate bill.

It was decided that a bill to appoint a committee to study Hare's plan would be considered at the next Campus Senate meeting.

Unsound—the Retreat!

'Git a New Tractor?' 'No' 'Them Ain't Dawg Tracks'

Students enroute to the student government retreat at Little Grassy Saturday had cause to wonder about their group's organization early that morning.

First, some students who were to attend the retreat were late and it was decided that the bus should wait for them. But nobody told the bus driver. While the student body president and several campus senators were in the University Center, the bus began to pull away.

Then the bus became so hot that several windows were opened as the group sped down the highway in 40-degree weather.

When the party arrived at Little Grassy, the driver asked for directions and the student body president went to the front of the bus to help him.

Eventually the bus ended up on a narrow dirt road that obviously did not lead to the lodge where the meeting was to be held. The "road" was a driveway between a farmer's house and barn.

In one corner of a field was an old bathtub used as a watering trough for cows. A hound curled under a tree. The bus driver decided to turn around in the driveway. After several tries, it was decided that the farmer's car was in the way.

By that time the noise of the bus and the jeers of the students caused the farmer to come to his door. The student body president, in true diplomatic tradition, scooped the farmer's morning paper off the ground and hastened to reassure him.

As the president calmed the farmer (and received directions), several students moved the car into a deeper patch of mud and the bus turned around. The president hurried back to the bus and the group started anew for the lodge.

And as the bus went over the little hill in front of the farmer's field, a faint cry of "Retreat!" echoed from one of the bus' open windows.

11 SIU Faculty To Attend Meeting At Atlantic City

SIU will be represented by faculty and staff members from the Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses at the annual convention of the American Association of School Administrators in Atlantic City through Wednesday.

The group will include Royce R. Bryant, director of Placement Services; J. Robert O-Daniell, director of the Alumni Association; Cameron W. Meredith, director of State and National Services Division; David Van Horn, Rex D. Karnes, Howard D. Southwood, Parmer L. Ewing, James Herick Hall, Eugene Lawler, David E. Bear and George Ackerklund.

Placement Services will hold an open house at the convention, and Alumni Association will sponsor an alumni breakfast.

High Jumpers Win at Michigan; Woods Sets 2 Shot-Put Records

George Woods of SIU led the track team at the Michigan State Relays Saturday by setting two shot-put records. Woods' toss of 60 feet, 11.75 inches set a new meet-record and auditorium-record at the East Lansing meet.

GEORGE WOODS

The previous records were held by Michigan's Dave Owen, who put the shot at 58-10.5 in 1957.

Woods' mark had his chief competitor, Gene Crews of Missouri, beaten by more than 10 inches.

SIU's mile-relay team did not retain its championship record from last year, and came in third in that event. The sprint medley team, with Al Ackman, Gary Carr, Robin Coventry and Ross MacKenzie, also came in third.

MacKenzie, who competed in three events, won the 300-yard run in 31.5 seconds.

In the high jump event, SIU swept the field, with Mitch Livingston winning on fewer misses at 6 feet, 6 inches. SIU's Tom Ashman was second, clearing 6-6, with more tries.

John Vernon with 22 feet, 6 inches, was fourth in the long jump event.

Other SIU competitors failed to qualify in their events. Rich Ellison cleared 14 feet in the pole vault, but this was not enough to put him in the final competition.

Frank Whitman was beaten in the semifinals in the hurdle event.

Robin Coventry ran the 60-yard dash, but didn't qualify for the finals.

Sigma Pi Members Honor Their Dads

About 25 fathers were guests of their sons at the annual Sigma Pi Dad's Day. Thomas F. McGinnis and Robert L. Mees were the co-chairman for the event.

Matmen Travel in Record Time On Victorious Trip to Arizona

The wrestling team traveled by plane to the Arizona State invitational tournament Saturday in Tempe and set two records—one for the slowest trip on the way down and another for the fastest time home.

In between their traveling, the wrestlers also managed to hold off a tough Wyoming mat squad and win the meet over the other six competitors with a high overall score of 89 points.

Wyoming was second with 72 points, Arizona State, the host team, was third with 71 points, Utah fourth with 58, Utah State fifth with 39, UCLA sixth with 16, Arizona seventh with 5. Last place went to Southern Utah, 4 points.

California Poly was not in the meet, as originally scheduled, and the Southern Utah matmen took their place.

Three SIU wrestlers won first places; four took second places.

Terry Magoon and Don Schneider took falls, and Tony Pierannunzi won by default in one of his matches. Individual results:

TWO MILES AHEAD—SIU's swim team is two "miles" ahead of its opponents this season as a brother combination, Kimo (left) and Mike Miles of Pearl City, Honolulu, Hawaii, are playing key roles in the Salukis' success. Kimo, a junior set two SIU butterfly records in the NCAA championship meet last season. Mike, a sophomore, is hoping to fare as well in this year's meet at the Air Force Academy next month.

5th Straight Win Swimmers Beat Iowa State; Mossotti Sets Meet Record

Five straight dual meet victories now belong to the swimming Salukis for this season, as they defeated Iowa State 57-37 Saturday at Ames.

A meet record was set by SIU sophomore Ed Mossotti in the 100-yard freestyle, and the Salukis won 6 of the 11 events.

Mossotti's winning time was 48.9 seconds.

Iowa State's Jerry Cortzworth set the only other meet record, winning the 200-yard butterfly in 2:01.7.

The brother combination of Mike and Kimo Miles was a winner for SIU, with Mike winning the 50-yard freestyle in 23.0, and Kimo helping the 400-yard medley team to victory.

Other members of the medley team, which took the event in 3:47.3, are Bob O'Callaghan, Gerry Pearson and Mossotti.

Mike Miles was also on the victorious 400-yard freestyle relay team, with Mossotti, Marco Bonne and Rich Evertz, winning in 3:21.6.

In the 200-yard freestyle, Don Shaffer of SIU won with a time of 1:51.9.

The talented Hoosier swimmers of Indiana will be here Friday to take on the Saluki squad.

Minor ailments may hold the SIU team down in the meet, but Coach Ralph Casey expects to have a stronger team for the national competition at the Air Force Academy next month.

In Saturday's meet, an earlier match between the Iowa State frosh and the SIU frosh saw the junior Saluki team lose 55-40.

Four SIU Students Given Reprimands

Four students have been disciplined by the Office of Student General Affairs after University police saw a student throw an empty beer can from a car on Campus Drive.

The students allegedly entered the car, found the empty can and threw it out. The car was not registered with the University.

The students were reprimanded and the driver of the car was fined $50 for illegal possession of a motor vehicle. The $50 assessment is to be applied to the cost of license plates and liability insurance for the car.

Salukis Await Battle; Panthers on Prowl

The Salukis could be facing one of their toughest games tonight when they meet Kentucky Wesleyan at 8 o'clock in Owensboro.

Southern squeezed by the Panthers 60-56 earlier this year at the Arena and could have considerable trouble with them tonight.

The Panthers now stand at 15-4 on the season and are ranked tenth in the country. Three of their four losses have come by a cumulative total of 12 points. Besides the loss to the Salukis they were dumped 89-84 by Evansville and lost 63-60 to Duquesne last week. The other loss was 74-62 to Carson-Newman College, but the Panthers whipped it in a rematch 72-66. Wesleyan also holds an earlier 80-74 victory over Evansville, a team Southern beat by 14.

The Panthers will be on their home court fresh from a three-game eastern tour. They won two of the games on the trip over Steubenville (Ohio), 61-57, and St. Francis (Pa.), 91-71. The only loss was to Duquesne, who came from three points down in the final minutes to beat Wesleyan.

The Panthers' offense is paced by Sam Smith, a 6-8 center. The 220-pound junior, who hails from Hazard, Ky., in the heart of Appalachia, transferred to Wesleyan from Louisville where he started as a freshman. He is averaging over 21 points a game so far this year and is the team's leading rebounder.

Starting at one forward will be Don Bradley, also 6-6. Bradley led the scoring against St. Francis with 20 points and is averaging 14.7 points a game for the season. He will be joined in the forecourt by George Tinsley, who supposedly can jump to 12 feet. He is averaging 9.5 points a game and got two fouls, one rebound and no points against Southern.

Starting at one guard will be Dallas "Big D," "Stretch," or "Bad News," Thornton, a 6-4 sophomore who has about as many awards at Wesleyan as he has nicknames. Thornton was voted the team's most valuable player a year ago when only a freshman, averaging over 19 points a game. This year he is second to Smith in scoring with an average of 15 points a game. Thornton got 12 points in the first meeting and looked more poised than he did here a year ago.

Rounding out the starting five is Roger Cordell, who got 13 points in the first game. He is a 5-11 guard averaging about 11 points a game and is the team's speedster.

The No. 6 man for the Panthers is Jesse Flynn, who recently lost his starting berth to Tinsley. Flynn is averaging 9.6 points a game and will probably see some action against the Salukis.

Coach Jack Hartman will probably go with his usual starting five of George McNeil and Dave Lee at guards, Randy Goin and Clarence Smith at forwards, with Boyd O'Neal at center. All five starters are averaging better than 10 points a game with McNeil setting the pace with an average of about 17 a game.

FOR ME?—John Rush, familiarly known to SIU sports fans as Pharoah, the rollicking human Saluki, peers at a man-sized valentine he was given at the halftime of the SIU-Puerto Rico basketball game Thursday. George Paluch, student body president (at the microphone), presented the giant card on behalf of the Spirit Council and student government.

Sunburst Belongs to Sealtest, Too

Besides turning out the cream of the crop, SIU and the Sealtest Dairy Products Co. have another common characteristic—sunbursts.

Last week, after the proposed new SIU seal was displayed on the SIU campuses, an unknown person at Edwardsville sent the Alestle, Edwardsville student newspaper, a portion of a Sealtest milk carton which had a sunburst printed on it.

The SIU sunburst and the Sealtest design are similar enough in construction that they could almost be interchanged.

Motorcycle Trials Scheduled Sunday

The Southern Riders Association will hold Scottish trials at 1 p.m. Sunday starting from Horseman's Point on the city reservoir.

Scottish trials are described by Frank Koncewicz, who will referee it, as a short, endurance type cross-country event with a few observed sections along the course.

A predetermined average speed must be maintained and riders will be judged on style and skill in the observed sections.

The Southern Riders Association has invited the Star of Egypt Motorcycle Club and Cyclesport, Inc. club members to participate in the meet.

Trophies will be presented in four classes: 0-75cc, 76-125cc, 126-250cc and over 250cc. Head and eye protection will be required.

Arrows will be set up to direct cyclists to the area from the tennis court cycle parking lot.

Football Coach Selection May Be Made This Week

SIU's announcement of its selection of a new football coach may come in a few days, according to an article by Pete Swanson in the Evansville Courier and Press.

In Sunday's paper Swanson reported that there are only three candidates left in the running for the head coaching job.

Swanson listed Ellis Rainsberger as the leading contender, with Orris Kay Dalton and Bill Knuckles as other possibilities.

Rainsberger is currently a defensive backfield coach at the University of Kansas, while Dalton is now the head coach at Western State College of Colorado.

Knuckles has been the defensive line coach for the Salukis during the past two years.

Southern should make its announcement this week or as soon as a telephone survey can be made of the University's Board of Trustees.

The board must formally approve the new coach at a regularly scheduled meeting, but an early selection is desirable, since decisions must soon be made on recruiting and disposition of athletic grants, according to Swanson.

Rainsberger was contacted at his home in Lawrence, Kan., but said he is in no position to disclose whether or not he had been chosen.

"Any announcement must come from Southern Illinois University," he said.

Dalton, second in line, is a 1954 graduate of Colorado

State. He was named to the All-Skyline Conference two straight years, first as an end, then as a tackle.

In his three years at Western State College, where male enrollment is little more than 1,000, Dalton's teams have won 24 games and lost two.

His 1963 team, which was unbeaten and untied in nine games, rated fifth in the nation in total defense.

His team this past year ranked fourth in the nation among small colleges.

Before becoming an assistant to Shroyer, Knuckles was a high school coach in Colorado where his teams compiled a 42-12 record.

SIU Gymnastics Team Defeats Indiana State, Eastern Illinois

It was obvious after the first event that Indiana State's and Eastern Illinois University's gymnastics teams weren't in the same class as the Salukis.

In Friday night's double dual meet at Terre Haute, Ind., the Salukis grabbed the first four places in free exercise and went on to outclass host Indiana State 191.90-167.85 and Eastern Illinois 191.35-143.50.

The discrepancy in Southern's final scores can be attributed to the two lineups that Coach Bill Meade used in the meet.

Meade left his free exercise and trampoline team intact against both teams, but made several changes for the other five events.

However, with almost every Saluki scoring high, the changes turned out to be just routine.

For the fourth straight week Southern had winners in each of the seven events and the all-around.

Rick Tucker, who won the all-around event against Indiana State, continued his fine work on high bar with the top score of 9.4.

Tucker's other accomplishments included third place finishes in free exercise and parallel bars with respective scores of 8.95 and 8.9, a fifth place 7.75 score in long horse and a seventh place 8.2 in rings.

Paul Mayer who worked all-around against Eastern did even better than Tucker, although he did not win the event.

Mayer was second in free exercise with a 9.15 and second in side horse with a 9.0. He was third in long horse, parallel bars and rings with respective scores of 9.35, 8.8 and 8.45 and fourth in high bar with an 8.55.

It didn't make too much difference to Frank Schmitz with whom he was competing as once again he earned firsts in free exercise with a 9.2, in trampoline with a 9.5 and a first-place tie with teammate Brent Williams in long horse with a 9.4.

Against Indiana State, Southern had performers in the top four positions in free exercise, trampoline, and won the top three positions in two other events, high bar and long horse.

Schmitz with a 9.2, Mayer with 9.1, Tucker with 8.95 and Whitlock with 8.85 combined for the sweep in free exercise, and Schmitz with 9.5, Dale Hardt with 9.35, Hutch Dvorak with 9.0 and Williams with 8.25 contributed another sweep in trampoline.

In high bar Tucker was the winner with 9.4, followed by teammates Fred Dennis with 9.2 and Larry Lindauer with 8.95.

In parallel bars Lindauer won with 9.35, followed by teammates Ron Harstad with 9.3 and Tucker with 8.9.

In side horse and rings the Salukis encountered some difficulty, although they won both events.

Mike Boegler was tied for first by Curt Hahn of Indiana State with a 9.25. Mayer was third at 9.0 and Lindauer fourth with an 8.45.

In rings Dennis was the victor with a score of 9.35, and Tom Cook was second with 9.1.

Against Eastern, things were even more lopsided with Salukis taking the top four positions in every event except side horse, and even in that event Southern had the top three finishers in Boegler, Mayer and Dennis.

In free exercise it was Schmitz, Mayer, Tucker and Whitlock; in trampoline, Schmitz, Hardt, Dvorak and Williams; high bar, Tucker, Dennis, Lindauer and Mayer; long horse, Schmitz, Williams, Mayer and Lindauer; parallel bars, Lindauer, Harstad, Mayer and Dennis; and rings, Dennis, Cook, Mayer and Hultz.

A Bryn Mawr, Pa., student has been fined $25 plus $5 costs in Jackson County Circuit Court after he pleaded guilty to a charge of an illegal attempt to purchase liquor.

Peter A. Haganir, 19, had allegedly presented falsified identification to obtain liquor. Irving W. Adams, assistant dean of student general affairs, has recommended that Haganir be placed on disciplinary probation.

The Salukis' next two meets will take them to Colorado, where they will compete Friday with the University of Colorado and Saturday with the Air Force Academy.

January Mean Temperature Certainly Was—28.4 Degrees

The weather in Southern Illinois was much cooler in January than the average for the month, according to the SIU Climatology Laboratory.

The mean temperature for the month in Carbondale was 28.4 degrees, as compared with the long-term average of 35.0 degrees. The highest mean temperature for the month, 43.6, was recorded in 1933. The record low was in 1918, when the average mean for the month was 19.6.

The highest temperature for the month in Carbondale was recorded on Jan. 2, when it was 63 degrees. The record high for any given day in January, 76 degrees, was on Jan. 24, 1943.
