Severe winter may help sales of Illinois coal, official says

By Debra Hafe
til of the Associated Press

A bitterly cold winter and also a retrieval of the nation's coal industry will boost coal sales temperatures, and coal production is stabilizing, an official of the Illinois Coal Association says.

United Mine Workers' contracts expires this year and utilities have not forgotten the union's 2-month strike in 1981. The Illinois Mining Association, which is the association's vice president. "So, they are going to be stockpiling on normal to make sure the supply is adequate for the rest of the year."

He said utilities have consumed much of the coal they bought in 1983, making a greater than normal amount of unburned coal possible for a while. "This is because of the heavy air conditioning used last summer and also because the quite cold winter so far obviates their need for coal sales," he said.

More than 5,000 Illinois coal miners and their families are being abandoned by the hospital, the Illinois Coal Association's official of the Illinois Coal Association,

Memorial Hospital of Carbondale, Illinois Health Facilities Planning Board, who he said were con-

The Board of Directors of the Illinois Health Facilities Planning Board, said that if it is no longer viable, the hospital filed an appeal on the ruling, which is still pending.

The Carbondale Clinic dropped its application for a certificate of need for a surgeon center in Carbondale.

The HFPB will also be faced with a certificate of need for a surgeon center in Carbondale.

Given that a petition to the HFPB to consider the clinic's original application was denied and the clinic will not apply for a new application.

The HFPB representatives expressed a desire to review both applications simultaneously. Maroney said.

In exchange for consideration of the applications, the Memorial Hospital and Comprehensive Health Planning in Southern Illinois must withdraw appeals of the HFPB's previous decision and waive rights of appeal on the upcoming decision, Maroney said.

The Greater Egypt Health Council and the Carbondale Clinic must also waive rights of appeal on the HFPB's decision be heard.

CHPSI filed an appeal on the decision similar to the appeal filed by the hospital. Maroney said he and Givens will attempt to persuade CHPSI to drop that appeal and assist CHPSI to waive future appeals.

Maroney said that Memorial Hospital and the Carbondale Clinic had been competing for potential approval for only one surgeon center in Carbondale.

"There has been a sense all along that there was an adequate mix of patients to support two distinct facilities," he said. "We are now looking at a completely different approach to outpatient surgery in the Carbondale community."

"We feel there is a need for two facilities," Given said.

About half of the doctors on the Memorial Hospital staff are also on the staff of the Carbondale Clinic. Maroney said.

Those physicians would perform ambulatory surgery at the Carbondale Clinic, he said.

Maroney projected that each surgeon center would perform about 2,000 operations annually.
States move to force Congress to balance the federal budget

By Tom Raum

WASHINGTON (AP) - Proposals for a constitutional amendment to balance the federal budget have lain dormant in Congress for over a year, but with deficits nearing $200 billion, activity is increasing on the state level to force the government's hand.

Balanced-budget proponents say they are within striking distance - 32 state legislatures now have formally petitioned Congress to convene a constitutional convention to draft an amendment requiring a balanced U.S. budget except in times of war or other national emergencies.

That's just two away from the 34 states needed under Article V of the Constitution. Proponents are now beating the beaten to at least four states - New York, Kentucky, Vermont and California - in hopes of coming up with the additional two states this year.

They claim momentum is on their side.

"We're only two states away and the impetus is greater now than ever because people are so concerned with the high deficits," said Rep. John Kline, R-Minn., a co-chairman of the National Taxpayer's Union, which has promoted the amendment for a decade.

"We've always thought Congress would pass a balanced-budget resolution without heavy pressure from the states."

He said the decision by the Missouri Legislature in May to join the ranks after it repeatedly rejected such proposals gave the movement a boost that proponents needed to get their effort back on track.

If two more states follow suit, Congress would be bound to call the first such constitutional convention in the nation's history.

The Founding Fathers provided two routes for amending the Constitution, by two-thirds votes in each chamber, or by proposing such an amendment, as has been done for each of the current 26 amendments. A constitutional convention also can be called upon the petition of two-thirds of the state legislatures.

Once an amendment is offered, the process then becomes the same. It must be ratified by three-fourths of the states, or 38.

ministerial assistant in the department's Springfield office. It said, "There where several large mines shut down toward the end of 1982 that never came back. We hope we have seen the bottoming out of that situation." Illinois had 96 mines operating in January. There were 54 at one time in 1983 and 61 in 1982. Production totaled 58.4 million tons in 1983 and 61.4 million tons in 1982.

Evilsizer said production might rise.

"We have a couple new mines cracking up, and mines are getting a few new contracts." The industry's biggest fight, he said, will be fighting stringent proposals to regulate acid rain, which has damaged many lakes in the northeastern United States and Canada. Acid rain is blamed partly on the burning of high-sulfur coal, much of which is mined in Illinois.

Stringent legislation, he said, would almost wipe out the Illinois coal industry.

Bandy Patchett, unopposed to the Republican nomination, remarked that he would not be required to disclose his financial assets for the last 12 years, saying: "I don't have anything to hide."

Patchett, Williamson County state's attorney, said the Federal Election Commission requires all congressional candidates to disclose a financial statement by May 15. Buzbee listed his total net worth as $311,419 as of December 1983, with total liabilities of $161,581. The futures included his wife's income.

Bail for murder suspect refused

SPRINGFIELD (AP) - An Illinois appellate court Wednesday rejected a request for bail from a Bloomington back­ brace salesman accused of killing his wife and three young children.

David Hendricks, 29, had asked the Fourth District Appellate Court in Springfield to overturn a lower court judge's denial of bail. Hendricks has been held in the McLean County jail since his Dec. 6 arrest.

The appellate panel denied the request without comment and by a 2-1 vote.

Judge approves man's extradition

ROZEMAN, Mont. (AP) - A Gallatin County Judge Wednesday cleared the way for the extradition of a local man charged with murder in the cyanide poisoning death of an employee at a city swimming pool.

District Judge Joseph Gary said he found the Illinois governor's warrant to be legal for the extradition of Steven J. O'Nee., 29.

O'Neal, owner of Krazy Stage Stop guest ranch in Gallatin Canyon, had challenged the legality of the warrant, saying he was not in Illinois at the time of the alleged crime.

Drug may have hair-raising results

CHICAGO (AP) - A drug used for treating high blood pressure has helped restore hair growth in about half of patients with male pattern baldness who were tested with it, according to a published report.

The drug, minoxidil, usually produced growth within three months when rubbed into the scalp of the men, according to an interview with Dr. Henry Rongmik, chairman of dermatology at Northwestern University, in the March issue of McCall's magazine.

But "minoxidil may not be the one to cure every case," everyone wants it to be," he said. The drug produced was usually short and stubby, not long and flowing, he said.

Experts say economy growing, deny economic slowdown fears

By Martin Cruminger
The Plain Dealer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Industrial production rose a healthy 1.1 percent in January in what many economists saw as another sign that the pace of the nation's economy growth is not slowing as much as feared.

The increase was almost double the 0.6 percent rise in December and was the biggest jump since a 1.3 percent surge in September.

The government also reported Wednesday that sales outpaced retail sales analysts had expected in January, up 1.3 percent, the best showing since September, and rising was up 1.4 percent.

The January overall production increase followed three months of much smaller declines including 0.8 percent in October, a revised 0.5 percent in November and a revised 0.6 percent in December.

Automobiles were built at an annual rate of 8.1 million units in January, up from 8 million units in December. The report said industry plans for February called for an annual assembly rate of 8.3 million units.

Several injured in accident from blast at nuclear test site

By Tim Dahlgren
The Associated Press

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A tunnel collapsed Wednesday at the Runaway Mesa Test Site three hours after a nuclear test, injuring at least 12 scientists and engineers, two critically, officials said.

The injured were in trailers on the surface checking instruments that recorded the blast when the ground fell about 12 feet said U.S. Department of Energy spokesman Jim Boyer.

"There was no escape of radiation when the earth subsided," Boyer said.

He said the workers were bumped around inside the trailers during the fall.

The accident occurred shortly after noon — three hours after the detonation. 1,108 feet underground of a nuclear test code named Midas Myth.

Boyer declined to give details of the test at Ranier Mesa, about 11 miles southwest of Las Vegas, except to say that it was less than 20 kilotons. One kiloton equals 1,000 tons of TNT.

The scientists and technicians checking the instruments were the first to return to the area after the test. Boyer said, adding: "A collapse in this hard rock area is very unusual.

The tunnels have been dug in a mountain of rock at the barren, desert test site Nuclear devices are exploded inside long, sealed chambers within the tunnels.

The labyrinth contains long rail tracks that carry workers on small cars to and from the various work chambers. Of ficials say everyone is cleared from the area when a device is exploded, and the tunnel remains sealed until it is considered safe to be opened.

The National Earthquake Information Center in Golden, Colo., said the force of the test was measured at 4.9 on the Richter scale.

Earthquakes with a magnitude of 4.0 to 5.0 on the scale are considered moderate and capable of causing local damage, such as breaking dishes and cracking plaster. The Richter scale is a measurement of ground motion. An increase of one on the scale means 10 times as much power has been released.

Irrational rhetoric aiding Reagan's re-election bid

Normally I do not defend anyone in public office, but after reading Matt Holderege's article, I would like to explain to him and anyone else why I, as a Christian, believe Reagan is re-elected.

Matt states that Reagan has been found guilty of many wrongs, and Matt feels these wrongs are the reason for his re-election. Matt states that Reagan has delivered the American people from economic insecurity, and that Reagan has increased security for the American people. Matt states that Reagan has increased national pride and that Reagan believes in the American people.

Matt states that Reagan's re-election bid may be seen as a victory for the American people. Matt also states that Reagan has delivered the American people from economic insecurity, and that Reagan has increased security for the American people. Court claims no jurisdiction in lawsuit against Kerr-McGee

CHICAGO (AP) — Federal courts can’t order Kerr-McGee Corp. to remove radioactive waste from an abandoned factory in a Chicago suburb, a federal judge has ruled.

U.S. District Judge Frank J. McGarr ruled Tuesday that the federal Atomic Energy Act gave the Nuclear Regulatory Commission exclusive jurisdiction over the nuclear industry, and superseded any state law giving courts authority in such cases. McGarr ruled in a suit filed by Donald E. Brown, a 52-year-old bricklayer, and his mother, Edith, residents of West Chicago. Their suit seeks $2.5 million in damages.

McGarr let that portion of the suit stand. Kerr-McGee shut down the plant in 1973 and has demobilized some of its buildings. In May, the NRC issued an environmental impact statement suggesting that the waste be encapsulated and buried on the site. West Chicago officials and the Illinois attorney general’s office have asked the NRC for a hearing on the matter, but the commission has not decided whether to grant the hearing.

Dating Game exhibits more than wit
By Lisa Nichols
Staff Writer

When The Dating Game's first four contestants took their seats on the stage in Student Center Ballroom D Tuesday evening, the standing-room-only crowd expected them to exhibit their conversational skills and quick wits. But there were more exhibitions than that going on—especially in the case of bachelor number three.

Steve Segner. When asked by eligible bachelorette Patricia Niemeyer to stand up and turn around so the audience could rate their posteriors, bachelors numbers one and two did so, but bachelor number three decided to let the audience get a good look at what they were rating. The crowd of over 600 roared as number three dropped his drawers and 'mooned' it.

Niemeyer, hidden from the bachelors by a partition, didn't know what she had started. Despite the fact that bachelor number three had the audience in stitches for most of the evening, and even became the 'butt' of some of the Master of Ceremonies' jokes, Niemeyer chose bachelor number one, Greg Ochalek.

The next three games were uneventful by comparison, but still entertaining, as Mike Roesslein chose Darlene Wilson, Lisa Booth picked James Eggbert and musician Alan Grin. The contestants were guided through the question-and-answer sessions by Joey Gutierrez, winner of the 'Catch a Rising Star' contest for young comedians held by the Student Programming Council and Miller High Life in November. Nothing was sacred to Gutierrez, a sophomore with an undeclared major, as he made fun of dorm life, Faner Hall classes and even some of the contestants, calling them animals when they gave an especially risque answer. And there were plenty of risque answers from both the contestants and the audience.

The four winning couples will go on their dates Saturday night in a 'love boat on wheels', a mobile home from Ike Buick. They will eat at the Prime Time Restaurant and then watch The Hubbard Street Dance Company in Shryock Auditorium.

The annual event, appropriately held this year on Valentine's Day, was sponsored by SPC.
Minister criticizes U.S. policy after visiting Nicaragua's poor

By Terry Levecke
Staff Writer

Visiting a country where the people think of the United States as the enemy is not a high priority for most Americans, but it was for Wesley Foundation Director Steve Lobacz.

Lobacz said he visited Managua, the capital of Nicaragua, last December and January to see for himself what was going on down there.

After answering an ad in the Guardian newspaper, Lobacz was off to the war-torn Central American country with 14 other Americans to live with a family of four, two cats, a chicken and a Volkswagen minibus. Lobacz and a fellow traveler got a true taste of life.

"The people I stayed with were quite lower class by our standards," Lobacz said. "They certainly had so much less than we have, but they felt like they had so much more because of what they've been through."

He said the Sandino government has made life better for Managuans, who were caught in the turmoil during the Somoza rule that began in 1933 and fell just four years ago.

Lobacz showed slides of half-destroyed buildings that have remained standing since an earthquake in 1972 because Somoza kept most of the rebuilding funds from other countries for himself, Lobacz said.

Lobacz said schooling, food and health have improved since the socialist Sandinistas came to power. He said that since the beginning of the Sandinista rule, the United States has supported the Contras, the last of Somoza's National Guard, who repeatedly raid the country from the Honduran border.

"They are so willing to fight to keep what they have," he said. "It's such a powerful feeling. Yet they seem to be so graceful. They were so quick to impress upon us the strides the revolution has made and that they are friends with the people of the United States and that they want to have good trade relationships with the U.S."

Half of Lobacz's slide presentation consisted of colorful billboards with political and religious statements that decorate Managua — many of which protest the United States and President Reagan. Even though his group was greeted at a factory with a billboard proclaiming "Here. There. A Yankee will die" Lobacz was delighted by the people's right to express themselves.

Lobacz said that the people are "very vindictive toward Reagan."

"They see him as a killer of the people," he said. "He's behind the policies that bring the Contras into their country."

One surprise for Lobacz was the number of people who celebrated Christmas. Church services were conducted throughout the city, nativity scenes and Santas decorated neighborhoods, and people exchanged gifts, he said.

"When you think of a communist or socialist country you think of the Iron Curtain. You think that Christianity or religion is put down, but that was not true."

Although most of Lobacz's experiences with the American Association of University Women on Tuesday night at the Faculty Club. His slides and view of American involvement there enlightened some and offended others.

Living within concrete walls and under a tin roof that housed a family of four, two cats, a chicken and a Volkswagen minibus, Lobacz and a fellow traveler got a true taste of Nicaraguan life.

Daily Egyptian, February 16, 1984, Page 9
NEW YORK (AP) — Ethel Merman, whose pipe-organ voice and brassy verve filled Broadway theaters with such songs as "Everything's Coming Up Roses" for more than three decades, was found dead at her home Wednesday. She was 73.

Miss Merman died of natural causes, said city Medical Examiner Dr. Elliot Gross.

The musical stage had no bigger star from 1930, when the untrained singer made her debut in a secondary role in "Gypsy." In between were such classics as "Anything Goes" in 1934, "Panama Hattie" in 1940, "Annie Get Your Gun" in 1946 and "Call Me Madam" in 1950. Miss Merman also made two New York stage appearances - in a limited-run "Annie Get Your Gun" in 1966 and as the wind-up star of "Hello, Dolly!" in 1970.

Her 14 movie credits included "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" with Marilyn Monroe in 1953, "Mame" in 1966 and "Divorce His Wife" in 1970.

Miss Merman once recalled, "I'm never took a singing, dancing or acting lesson in my life. George Gershwin told me, 'Don't ever take a music lesson, Ethel.' All I have done since is belt out the songs.

Born Ethel Agnes Zimmermann in Queens on Jan. 16, 1909, Miss Merman began working as a secretary after school. She supplemented her earnings with local jobs as a singer and a brief movie stint with the Warner Bros. Studies in New York.

Then in 1930 she was the final star of "Hello, Dolly!" which Carol Channing had opened in 1964 after Miss Merman had turned it down. As the show's run lengthened, six Dolly's succeeded Miss Channing, among them Ginger Rogers and Pearl Bailey.

Her performance as Dolly won her that season's Drama Desk Award. Miss Merman won two Tony Awards, one in 1940 for "Call Me Madam" and a special Tony in 1972 honoring her entire career.

Miss Merman received the New York Drama Critics' best performer awards in 1943 for "Something for the Boys." 1947 for "Annie Get Your Gun" and 1959 for "Gypsy."

Her four marriages all ended in divorce. The second, to Hearst executive Robert D. Levitt in 1942, lasted 11 years and produced a son and daughter. The last, to Ernest Borgnine in 1964, ended after 38 days.

She was wed to Hollywood agent William B. Smith for a year in 1940 and her other husband was Robert Six, an airlines executive she wed in 1993 and divorced in 1961.

New ordinance will end era of street artist

PARIS (AP) — Their countless canvases of big-eyed waifs, Eiffel Towers and instant portraits grace living room walls from Kokomo to Tokyo. But hard times are coming for hundreds of artists atop Montmartre.

Under a new city ordinance, the ranks of the street artists will be cut by more than half this spring in the picturesque Place du Tertre, the 600-year-old square that sits in the shadow of Sacre Coeur basilica high above Paris.

"No one wants to remove the artists completely but there are too many of them in the summer and they’re giving the area a bad name," said Andre Roussard, the owner of Montmartre art gallery just off the main square.

"You can’t cross the street without being bothered by their aggressive selling techniques," he said. "The portrait artists are the worst. And what they’re selling cannot be described as fine art."

Roussard is president of an 18-member commission overseeing the ordinance calling for thinning out and licensing street artists in the Place du Tertre, where a tourist can be immortalized in charcoal for a little over $20 or pick up an oil painting for anywhere between $55 and $211.

Beginning March 1, only 100 artists at a time will be allowed to set up easels on the square. A total of 320 artists will be licensed to share the 160 places that have been outlined in white paint on the perimeter of the square.

"Last summer there were 700 artists working in the Place du Tertre and it caused a lot of problems," Roussard said. "The square is just too small for that number."

Throughout the 19th century, writers and painters were drawn to the bohemian lifestyle and cobblestone streets of the Butte, as Montmartre is known locally. For a while, the area was the literary and artistic center of the capital before it was abandoned for Montparnasse in 1914.

Painters Toulouse-Lautrec, Utrillo and Picasso were one-time residents of Montmartre, a hill of twisting narrow roads on the northern edge of Paris.

These days, Montmartre is the third most visited tourist site in Paris after the Georges Pompidou cultural center and the Eiffel Tower. Legions of tour buses clog the streets in the summer and tourists spilt out looking for an "original" French painting.

This Weekend, let it be Lörenbräu.

Two Olympians stand out among top world talent

SARAJEVO, Yugoslavia (AP) - If the Winter Olympics had a Most Valuable Player Award, it would be a close contest between two long-stemmed women who are collecting medals in Sarajevo.

Karin Enke, 22, a Dresden technical student who shifted to speed skating because she was too tall and awkward for figure skating, won her fourth medal Wednesday, finishing second to East German teammate Andrea Schoene in the 3,000-meter race on Zetra's frozen rink.

Up at Velika Pula, a tall, physical therapist from Finland, Marja-Liisa Hamalainen, 38, was adding a bronze to her two gold medals in cross-country skiing, anchoring her team to a third-place finish in the women's 4x5,000-meter relay.

They are the top multiple medalists with only four days left in the Games, and leading candidates for individual honors won by United States' Eric Heiden four years ago when he scored a phenomenal sweep of five gold medals in speed skating at Lake Placid, N.Y.

Enke was a favorite to make a feat at Lake Placid never be duplicated. She won five gold medals, ranging from 500 to 10,000 meters, setting Olympic records in all and a world record in the 10,000.

Heiden's feat at Lake Placid may never be duplicated. He won five gold medals, ranging from 500 to 10,000 meters, setting Olympic records in all and a world record in the 10,000.

Enke was sent to a special school at an early age and took up figure skating. She grew quickly and before long was a gold triple Saturday in the 30-kilometer cross-country ski races and will go for a gold triple Sunday in the 30-kilometer race.

Heiden's feat at Lake Placid may never be duplicated. He won five gold medals, ranging from 500 to 10,000 meters, setting Olympic records in all and a world record in the 10,000.

Nealt said that the Recreation Center used to sponsor informal handball tournaments, but do not any more because of low interest. The tournament begins at 1 p.m. and will be a double-elimination contest, singles matches only. Entry forms are available on the bulletin board outside court 1 at the Recreation Center.

First prize for Saturday's open tournary is a $25 gift certificate from Bleyer's Sports Mart. Second prize is a $10 gift certificate, also from Bleyer's.

The club took second place in the Southeast Collegiate Regions at Memphis State two weeks ago, Nealt said.

"The club is hoping to participate in the Collegiate Nationals in Colorado Springs, the first weekend in March," Nealt said.

Nealt said that those who wish to join the club should come to practices on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 3 to 7 p.m. or on Saturdays from 3 to 5 p.m.

Nealt said anyone interested is encouraged to join the club, including University faculty, staff, members, students and anyone with a Recreation Center user-pass identification card.

Worst-ever finish only reward for this year's U.S. hockey team

SARAJEVO, Yugoslavia (AP) — The Soviet Union rolled into the semi-finals of the Olympics with a devastating display of firepower Wednesday and Czechoslovakia was just as awesome on defense, while the United States finished with its worst ever in Olympic hockey competition.

The Soviets beat Sweden 10-1, grabbing a 5-0 lead after one period in what was expected to be a competitive game. Nikolai Kravtsov had the third two-goal game of the Olympics and Vyacheslav Fetisov also had two. It was the first time in the tournament the U.S. has split seven games, with three goals scored in regulation and seven goals scored in overtime. The U.S. has won five of its seven games, and is shooting 38.5 percent shooting.

The Czechs are second in the tournament with a 15-6 points per game, and have been held to 7-0 goals in regulation and 2-0 goals in overtime. They will also employ a variety of pressure defences.

The Salukis are second in the U.S. and have been held to 15-6 points per game, and have a 15-6 lead on the Saluki defense. With the shutout against Poland Friday for seventh place, the worst ever for a U.S. team, grabbed a 5-0 lead on Bob Bulka, has given up only seven goals in 38 seconds remaining.

But Finland pulled goalie Kari Takko and got a tie — and a spot in the fifth-place playoff — when Anssi Heleniainen put a screened wrist shot behind U.S. goalie Marc Behrend with 21 seconds remaining.

In other games it was West Germany 3, Italy 2; Brazil 1, Norway 0; and Poland 2, Yugoslavia 1. West Germany plays Finland for fifth place.

"They're an excellent defensive team," Canada's Doug Lidster said of the Czechs. "It's unique for a European team to shut you off like that." Czech Coach Ladislav Bukata thinks his team's tough schedule here will serve as an advantage in the medals round, thinks his team's tough schedule here will serve as an advantage in the medals round.

Kurt Harrand scored two goals at West Germany built a 6-2 lead and held on against Norway, Austria ended up 1-4 and Norway was 1-3-1.

Poland, 1-4, got three goals and one assist from Jerry Cruzo to blast Yugoslavia 1-4.

West Germany's Udo Kieling scored twice and the Germans had six straight goals on a 3-2 lead on Bob Bulka. Tom Verchota and Scott Bystad scored in the second period to overcome a first-period goal by Finland's Raimo Summanen, who Bystad tied it only 1:13 after Bystad's goal, setting the stage for the final minute.

"My junior year I wasn't real good," McCausland said. "She was attracted to IU. McCausland said, because of the climate and the atmosphere the school has that it's not a real big school like Indiana University, where you walk around you will get lost."

"I basically like everything about Southern." McCausland said she thinks the Salukis will improve upon last year's sixth-place finish in the GAC indoor meet.

"I think we can do better than last season," she said. "It is a matter of getting our injuries out of the way and getting our minds to it. With this warmer weather, I think we will do better.

Ballesteros to begin his first full U.S. golf circuit

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Masters champion Seve Ballesteros, the young Spaniard who has dominated European golf in recent years, starts his first full United States campaign this week in the $400,000 Los Angeles Open.

"I do not come to challenge anyone, or to prove anything. I come to play golf as well as I can, maybe learn something," Ballesteros said after a practice round for the tournament that begins Thursday on the 7,000-yard Riviera Country Club course.

Ballesteros, who has won more than 30 international titles including two Masters and two other U.S. titles, joins the U.S. circuit as the principal beneficiary of what has come to be called "the Ballesteros Rule.

That's an adjustment in PGA Tour regulations, effective this year, which lifts restrictions on the number of foreign events in which non-American members of the tour can compete.

"I think PGA Tour Commissioner Deane Beman and the members of the Policy Board committee for making the change in the rules that allow me to play here," Ballesteros said.

"The best players, the best courses, the best weather is here in the United States. If all those things were in Europe, maybe I stay in Europe.

"But they are here. So I come here."

A former British Open champion and winner of two titles in the United States last year, Ballesteros said he expects to compete in a minimum of 15 American Tour events this season, and a dozen or more overseas.

He said he had planned to start his American campaign when the Los Angeles Open started the new tour a few weeks ago, but added the Los Angeles tournament to his schedule because he likes the Riviera course. He said he expects to play in this country through the Masters in April, and will return later in the season.

"If I am not ready, I am very close to being ready."

Hard work turns into success for shot-putter McCausland

By Steve Koons
Staff Writer

All-star center Monees Malone of the Philadelphia 76ers said he doesn't want to be known as the greatest player in the NBA, but at the hardest worker.

SIU-C shot-putter Rhonda McCausland shares the same work ethic as Malone. McCausland qualified for NCAA indoor championships with a throw of 48-2, which was basically first meet and it came in the third track meet, so I'm surprised she didn't do it earlier."

"McCausland's performance at the Eastern Invitational didn't surprise Coach Don Doen."

"I'm not surprised because I had confidence in her and she knew through her practice efforts she was going to do it," Doen said. "We were counting on her making the throw and it was standard in the first meet and it came in the third track meet, so I'm surprised she didn't do it earlier."

 MCCausland's throw was a measure of how she trains. McCausland trains to increase her strength and cross country coach the effort, the training, and has been working on her throwing, and she has applied the something and has applied the training that she can be as successful as any other athletes that I've coached."

McCausland owns the school record in the discus and the second best throw in the javelin. She practices four days a week. She doesn't practice on Thursday and Friday, which are the Salukis' traveling days for Saturday meets.

McCausland trains with shot putter John Smith Jr., who is on the Saluki men's track team. Smith is also being trained by the McCausland's senior year at John A. Logan College in Valparaiso, Ind.

McCausland received permission from his high school coach, Renee Turpa, to train with high school athletes in the area. McCausland is the one who really straightened out the shot put and made me go," McCausland said. The younger McCausland has an impressive record at the Eastern Invitational.

"Basically I was a beginner," McCausland said. "I didn't concentrate on the shot put until my senior year at high school and I've only competed seriously for three years."

McCausland said she prefers to use the rotation technique rather than the glide technique. "The rotation technique is more natural for my body," she said. "I'm kind of small at 5-5 compared to the rest of the competitors, but I can and I got more momentum and throw better with the rotation technique."

McCausland competed in three sports — volleyball, basketball, and shot put. She had the one first three years in high school. She didn't have any time off for basketball because she wanted to devote more time to track. McCausland's decision paid dividends when she set a new

The SIU-C women's basketball team plays Western Illinois Thursday in a game that is considerably less room for error than a league game. A 77-53 loss Saturday night at Vaxie's Jack Traven will almost assure the Salukis' lead in the Gateway conference. The Salukis' record is 4-14 overall and 10-1 in conference play. Tipoff for the Saluki-Western Illinois game is 7:30 at Davies Gym.

If SIU-C loses both games to the Salukis, who have only lost one of the seven games, the Salukis will have clinched the conference title. The Westerners were within eight points of the Salukis' 10-1 record but SIU-C ran off of 16 straight games. The Salukis have beaten the Westerners since 1973. The Salukis have beaten the Westerners since 1973.

"We will have to win this week and play better than we did last week, " said coach J. P. Bein. "If we can get by this week and play game and play like we can, and get by two road games next week, we will be in the first place."

Graded 70 points, McCausland, who doesn't want to be known as the hardest worker, doesn't want to be known as the hardest worker. McCausland's work ethic is averaging 15-2 points and a team-high eight rebounds per game.

Forward terra Jackson is averaging 13.9 points, just ahead of D.D. Plaf's 12.9 and 5.5 rebounds per game.

Along with balanced scoring, defense remains an SIU-C strength.

Spring seems to have arrived in Southern Illinois, and one of the sure signs is the start of the Saluki baseball team preparing for spring outings.

Saturday, the Salukis will be prepared for their first schedule, which opens March 9 with games in 11 days in Coral Gables, Fl., since the first day of the semester at the Arena. Later, through the SIU-C Coach Richard " Ritchy" Jones has been working his squad in the artificial turf of McAndrew Stadium.

Jones' team posted a 2-18 record last year and has the one of the most disappointing marks in recent SIU-C baseball history.

Got from that squad is pitcher Gary Ellis, who was among the league leaders in innings pitched while recording a 4-2

The two, however, said they are not discouraged and hold medal hopes for next month at the World Championships in Sarajevo, Yugoslavia.

"This is our last chance," said Smith. "This is our last chance to make the Olympic Team and we're going to try to make the Olympic Team and we're going to make it."

The 23 women will ski their way to the 1984 Olympics, just before the men — led by U.S. gold medal favorite Hamilton Clark, who didn't win the event.

Things couldn't have gone worse for the Salukis in the 1983-84 season, which ended 12th. The former U.S. and world champions vowed a comeback at the SIU-C Salukis, which lost Saturday night, but got only third place this season.

Jones said his team is healthy and he's looking forward to the SIU-C's first game of the figure-eight each woman is required to trace.

Hamilton maintained his lead entering Thursday's final day of competition. He's still leading the program Tuesday to Canada's Brian Orser.
