Theater hits hard by funding cuts

By Dene Schultz
Staff Writer

The decrease in state higher education funding and the defunct S-percent plan have affected every department in the University in a different way. But the theater department has been particularly hard hit.

The department has lost a faculty directing position, reduced performances and abolished the graduate program in acting and directing.

The department can't support the undergraduate and graduate curricula after it lost the faculty director because of the 2-percent plan, David Stevens, chairman of the department, said.

The S-percent plan, which began in 1985 and was discontinued in September, cut faculty positions throughout the University and used the money saved to increase salaries of other faculty members.

The loss of the theater faculty director also resulted in the loss of two graduate programs. The University's many classes are now offered to students at the graduate level only and requirements for acting and directing majors have changed, Stevens said.

USO makes plans for student elections

By Susan Curtis
Staff Writer

The theme for this year's student elections, "make more than a difference," is designed to let people know what student government is all about. The Undergraduate Student Organization election commissioner said.

Commissioner Duane Mathis said tentative dates for the election have been set. April. "We've got all the basic mechanism in place," he said. The election commission has been established and money has been allocated from the USO to initiate the election, he said.

This year, the election for student senators will be held concurrently with the student trustee election, Mathis said.

Students who are elected to the advisory council on the USO, and others, will go on and off the election commission.

Mathis said the commission is looking for help from anyone who is not running for a position.

Most of the people on the election commission are USO members and are not running for positions next year, Mathis said. "I'd like to think that we (USO) can run as honest an election as anyone," he said.

This is Mathis' third year of involvement with the elections, and he said he wants to make it the best. "I see more groups becoming interested," he said.

Another way the commission is working to ensure fairness is the requirement for candidates to sign the student elections form, which must be approved by the commission before a candidate can run for student council.

Sen. Paul Simon finished third in the New Hampshire primary Tuesday, throwing the future of his financially troubled campaign into doubt.

But Simon supporters in Southern Illinois vowed to fight on.

Michael Dukakis and Vice President George Bush were declared winners long before all the results were in from the primary.

With 74 percent of the precincts reporting, President Bush led the Republican pack with 38 percent of the votes. His closest contender was Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas with 29 percent, followed by New York Rep. Jack Kemp with 13 percent, former Delaware Gov. Pete du Pont with 11 percent, and evangelist Pat Robertson with 9 percent.

In the Democratic race, Dukakis had a strong lead. With 78 percent of the returns in, he had 36 percent of the vote.

Navy reducing ships in Persian Gulf

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Navy is reducing its fleet in the Persian Gulf, but this does not reflect any change in policy of protecting Kuwaiti tanker recombination to try the American flag, a senior Pentagon official said Tuesday.

The fleet, currently numbering 24 ships in the gulf and the nearby Arabian Sea will be reduced by three warships, said Richard Armitage, assistant defense secretary for international security affairs.

Noting there had been "considerable speculation" about changes in U.S. policy toward the region, Armitage told a Pentagon briefing "nothing could be further from the truth."

In December, Armitage said the United States had told Iran the naval force in the gulf would be reduced once Tehran lessened its threat to the tankers. The seven-numbered 32 ships, down from 29 ships a month earlier.

As of Tuesday if this threat had diminished, Armitage said the number of warships in the gulf during January and February had gone down.

But they are expected to increase in the next month, Armitage said, based on increased Iranian F-14 Tomcat fighter on an Iraqi warplane.

The official also said a U.S. military team was visiting Baghdad to work out procedures to avoid a repeat of incidents in December, when an Iraqi Badger bomber fired a missile that came within 8 miles of a U.S. navy ship in the gulf.

Nicaragua closes borders, money plan takes effect

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Nicaragua closed its borders Tuesday and banned the sale of alcoholic beverages to prevent disorders on the second day of a dazzling anti-inflation plan that introduced an entirely new currency. Vice President Sergio Ramirez said Monday that all border crossings with Honduras to the north and Colombia to the south would be closed Tuesday and Wednesday to prevent U.S.-backed Contra rebels and other speculators from bringng money into the country during the changeover to a new currency.

Pirate Arab radio station offers riots, not rock

RAMALLAH, Israeli-occupied West Bank (UPI) — A pirate Arab radio station with a "Top 10" list of riots — not records — is playing the bloody Palestinian uprising, broadening its audience from the West Bank and Gaza Strip, and Israel is trying to knock it off the air.

The station, called "Al Oumi," Arabic for "Arabaser" has developed a wide audience in the West Bank and parts of Gaza since it began operations a few days after anti-Israel unrest erupted Dec. 9.

Israel vows punishment for guilt in burial

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin and two senior army commanders pledged swift and severe punishment Tuesday for Israeli soldiers accused of burying alive four Palestinian youths after a riot in the occupied West Bank. Revelations about the incident prompted an outcry in Israel and stunned military officials already under pressure from Palestinian leaders for having unchecked Palestinian rioters to break up anti-Israel protests sweeping the occupied territories.

England convicts American IRA member

LONDON (UPI) — A 40-year-old American — the first Irish Republican Army member ever extradited from the United States — was convicted Tuesday of slaying a policeman 13 years ago. Judge Christopher Rose sentenced William Quinn to life in prison for the shooting death of a 29-year-old policeman who tried to question him near an alleged IRA bomb factory. Quinn was extradited two years ago and pleaded innocent to the charge.

Immigrant says POWs seen in North Korea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An immigrant has told the Pentagon that he saw about 30 men in North Korea who may have been American prisoners of war, consessional sources said Tuesday. An affidavit, according to the sources, was sent to the Defense Intelligence Agency, which is in charge of following up information on American servicemen who were captured in anti-American protests sweepmg the occupied territories.

The meeting brought together Attorney General Robert Abrams, civil rights activist Rev. Al Sharpton and lawyers MacLeish and Ramsey, whose previously advised Tawana Brawley, 16, not to cooperate with authorities because they believed her case had been "rigged." Abrams wanted the attorney general to review the case.

"Tax Phobia" delays filing, IRS chief says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Internal Revenue Service is better prepared than ever to deal with the new tax filing season, IRS Commissioner Lawrence Gibbs told Congress Tuesday, but the question is are the taxpayers? Apparently affected by what Sen. David Pryor, D-Ark., described as "fear phobia" millions of Americans are waiting longer and longer each year to file their income tax returns.

Arsonist has Washington students on move

OMAK, Wash. (UPI) — Elementary students burned out of their school and makeshift church classrooms by arson fires attended classes Tuesday in portable buildings moved to a city park from a federal nuclear reservation. Omap Police Chief Pete Sporto said six suspicious fires — causing at least $2.4 million in damage — have been set in the small town of Omak, a community of 4,000 in the northeastern part of the state, since early December.

Extension of sign permit splits council members

By John Baldwin
Staff Writer

The City Council Tuesday was divided over whether the American Gas and Wash sign should be allowed to continue hanging over city property for a second year.

The council originally approved an encroachment permit for the American Gas and Wash sign on Feb. 2, 1987. That permit has expired and owner Kim Rasnick asked for a one-year extension.

Councilman John Yew said: "I don't want the encroachment permit to be renewed because I have reservations about the sign. I do, but I think those reservations will be raised during this extension."

However, Councilman Keith Tuxhorn said he didn't think an extension would be appropriate.

The sign is encroaching on city property "because of a businessman's poor planning," he said.

"This gentleman knew full well what he was doing and went ahead and moved in on our easement area," Tuxhorn said.

The city is reviewing its sign regulations to determine if encroachment permits need to be renewed. Changes might allow the American Gas and Wash sign to remain. The business is located at 315 E. Walnut.

Rasnick wrote in a letter to Don Monty, Carbondale community development director, that the conditions that prompted the original encroachment permit still exist and that he was waiting for the council's revision of the sign ordinance.

Rasnick did not speak at the council meeting.

Mayor Neil Dillard and Councilman John Morris indicated their support for an extension of the encroachment permit.

Councilman Richard Morris, who didn't indicate whether he was for or against the encroachment permit, said he was concerned about the precedent the city may set if it approves Rasnick's request.

In other business, the council approved an increase in combined sewer and water fees from $3.34 to $3.64 for every 1,000 gallons used.

Water rates will increase from $1.40 to $1.62 for every 1,000 gallons used, and sewer rates will increase from $1.34 to $1.56 for every 1,000 gallons used.

Dougherty is fine after surgery

Clarence G. "Doc" Dougherty, vice president of campus services, is in satisfactory condition after undergoing heart bypass surgery, Feb. 10.

Dougherty, 65, was named director of campus services in 1975. In June 1978, the Board of Trustees changed the position title to vice president. He also has been director of the Student Center.

The Campus Services office oversees the Physical Plant, University Security, Health Service, Pollution Control and several other offices relating to the University's physical facilities.

Dougherty entered Memorial Hospital of Carbondale on the evening of Feb. 9, complaining of back and shoulder pains, Suzanne Bishop, assistant secretary to the vice president, said.

Bishop said doctors discovered clogged and hardened arteries were causing the pain. She said Dougherty was transferred to Barnes Hospital in St. Louis on Feb. 10, where he underwent a six-hour surgery.

Dougherty, in a phone interview from his hospital bed, said: "I think I'm getting along as well as I possibly could." He said he has never had any heart problems before. Adding: "It was a complete surprise."
Don’t allow dogs to wander loose

VICIOUS DOGS — Or any dogs for that matter — have no business running loose.

A prime example of this dangerous situation made headlines last week when a pit bull attacked a Carbondale teenager. Although the dog broke free while being leash ed for a walk — a safe enough practice — the issue of proper pet management still remains a concern.

All too often, dogs are seen roaming free in residential neighborhoods or in city streets. For the most part, these dogs are good-natured beasts only seeking food and companionship, but that doesn’t excuse their unsupervised excursions.

There always is the chance, however remote, that conditions could turn one of these canines into a ferocious, bloodthirsty monster out for the throat of some unsuspecting passerby who stoops to pet it.

THE ANIMAL MAY be left to fend for itself against overpowering enemies — the weather, hunger and even stronger dogs. When faced with such obstacles, it is only natural for any animal’s most savage instincts to come to the fore.

Some dog owners may consider it cruel to keep their cute little Spock or Fido chained or fenced in. But the truth is that allowing a dog to wander about freely only invites trouble.

Another enemy of the stray dog is the pet snatcher. While these pet snatchers might have the best interest of the dog in mind when they claim it, that particular form of roulette could be avoided by keeping the dog supervised in the first place.

People have a responsibility to report loose dogs to their neighbors, if known, or to authorities, especially if the animal’s behavior indicates rabies or some other disorder.

PIT BULLS HAVE earned acutthroat reputation over the last few years, and the debate continues over whether or not this tag is warranted. Some extremists have suggested outlawing the dogs as pets, but this isn’t the real issue.

What should be emphasized is how to keep one’s dog — pit bull as well as poodle — from attacking innocent people.

Guard dogs, of course, are good protection against potential burglars and other criminals. But owners who use their dogs in this manner must remember their animals pose a threat to the well-intentioned individuals as well — just ask any letter carrier who ever walked a route.

This situation is remedied by careful training, possibly even taking a few minutes each day until the dog realizes health and companionship, but that doesn’t excuse their unsupervised excursions.

Since AIDS first appeared some ten years ago, the medical profession has always pleaded incompetency in finding a cure and public health educators have treated the virus as a disease that must be controlled through education.

Health educators have organized many conferences, workshops, seminars, teach ins and discussions to educate policy-makers and other non-health professionals that the AIDS virus cannot be contracted through casual contact, but by sex and by exchanging bodily fluids.

But despite all these efforts, the news media are hearing AIDS indicates major disparity between theory and practice.

One recent policy on AIDS, for example, encourages distribution of hypodermic needles and sterilizing bleach within one of the high-risk groups in the country.

The more I read about official policies toward people with AIDS, the more I am reminded of a 1975 book by Rick Carlson entitled "The End of Medicine."

Carlson suggested that many experts’ opinions in health related issues have limited approaches to societal problems and in many cases actually have contributed to many of our current social, cultural and ecological crises.

New cases of AIDS continue to be reported, with the number of cases expected to rise. The question of how to control this disease remains unanswered.

February historically has been designated as Black History Month. During this month many people will give tributes to great black leaders such as the late Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., Malcolm X, and many other great black males and females.

It took him only a few grim minutes to turn a rich elitist like George Bush into a sympathetic character for millions of people who work for their paychecks. Think what Ralph could do for a gallon of milk. Ralph doesn’t mean to scam him back to the factory camp. Columnist Mike Royko, urging that Dan Rather give other candidates equal time.

Quotable Quotes

"My goodness! Are these the people whose money I used to steal from those little blue-and-white cans after collecting funds for a Jewish homeland?" Woody Allen, declaring himself "apalled beyond any measure" by Israel’s treatment of roving Palestinians.

"Gender’s a thing of the past. You’re looking at a guy that’s dealt with Margaret Thatcher and Indira Gandhi," George Bush, claiming he wouldn’t hesitate to name a female running mate.

AIDS policy theory and practice

One recent policy on AIDS, for example, encourages distribution of hypodermic needles and sterilizing bleach within one of the high-risk groups in the country.

It is, therefore, rather disturbing to read a policy directing that the organ of a person with AIDS is good enough to sustain the life of another person when it is necessary to save the patient’s life.

One wonders whether such policies were drafted by members of the medical profession or public health educators. — J. Vincent O’donahue, graduate, health education.

"New students coming in will fall under different requirements and we will not be able to offer them classes that had previously been offered," Barth said.

Jim Barth, a graduate student in acting, said the beginning of the spring term and directing have been suspended and there will be no new acting and directing students in the department for the next two years.

"It is supposed to be reviewed every year. If it falls by the wayside, it will be a cold day before we see it again," he said.

The department is caught in a vicious cycle, he said.

"MASTER'S STUDENTS taught introductory movement and acting classes but you can't be any master's students," Barth said. "A faculty member will have to take over the introductory classes, so there will be a decrease in other classes he taught." He said the introductory classes, though, and one faculty position will be removed this year, "Unless you're really bad at math you can figure out the decrease," and one is not equal," Barth said.

"When coursework gets down, the dean of the College of Communications and Fine Arts will cut more faculty positions and we will get even less funding," Barth added.

"WE WILL only get more funding if we get more students and we won't get more students unless we have more classes, in which we will need more faculty. It's an indefinite system," said Michael Youngblood, acting department chairman of the College of Communications and Fine Arts, said that the department will continue to receive an increase in funds for the 1988-89 fiscal year, although the budget will not be set until late in the semester.

"Unless we are successful with our new increase, we're likely not to see an increase in our budget this year," Youngblood said.

HE SAID the University has been reducing faculty for the last several years in order to increase the salary of faculty that remain. "Parts of the budget are a result of the University cutbacks," Youngblood said. "It's difficult all the way around." Stevens estimated that the theater department receives about $500,000 in aid from the state for telephone and travel expenses, as well as miscellaneous production. He said this is about a 30 percent decrease since 1982.

The loss of support dollars forced a cut in the number of performances in McLeod Theater and resulted in less money being spent on each production. Last year, six major productions were held at the McLeod Theater. This year, there will be four, Stevens said.

The THEATER is used for rehearsals and classrooms only in use in a production. Stevens indicated the budget may have had some positive effects.

He said the decrease in funding offered new experiences to students in positions that were then directed by faculty. "There's more opportunity for students to be involved in a variety of experiences such as directing," he said.

In addition, the cut in the number of performances has given actors and directors more time to rehearse. "We have more time to prepare before we open for the public, about six weeks versus a month," Stevens said.

HOWEVER, Barth said there have been positive changes about the changes "in any shape or form," he said.

The production theater is producing plays despite the funding cuts, but with embarrassment, "We were told the department can't afford to buy light bulbs for the lighting instruments so we can't use light," Barth said.

One production Barth is directing, "Of Mice and Men," is being produced on a $600 budget. "That's nothing, a little more like $2,000," Barth said.

As the budget as fell, the department turned increasingly to other funding sources, such as ticket sales and donations.

TICKET SALES cover about one-third of the cost of a production, Stevens said. "As our funding has decreased, our ticket prices have held up," he said. "The income from ticket sales has been increasing, but not fast enough to offset the drop in state support."

A community committee helps fund the theater by collecting donations from area businesses, Stevens said.

Carbondale residents also help through sponsorship. "People who have season ticket make contributions as well," Stevens said. "It doesn't make up for the loss of a state revenue, but it does help to keep us going one year to the next."

mission plans to keep the election fair and honest to have the voting take place on one day and in one area, Mathis said. The polls would be open for 12 hours, he said.

There are a lot of major issues to be raised in this election, including mass transit, the establishment of a public interest group on campus, and possible increases in the student health fee.

There also will be at least one referendum on the ballot, concerning the change of the name of the Undergraduate Student Government Association, Mathis said. Funding for Registered Student Organizations could be another issue.

Mathis said he plans to keep the USO office on the third floor of the Student Center open for anyone who look at it will contain all tentative dates for elections and any other pertinent information.

Gore looks forward to ‘Super Tuesday’

WASHINGTON (UPI) — While other Democratic candidates were counting votes in New Hampshire Tuesday, Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee was counting the days until the “Super Tuesday” contests. The preliminaries are now over and the main event takes place the week of March 1. Gore said, “Many of the candidates have not realized the fundamental change in the electoral process. ‘Other campaigns’ are fighting last year’s war diligently.”

While Iowa and New Hampshire gained an attention for being first on the political calendar, Gore said, the bulk of the national convention delegates came from the South. On Super Tuesday, 1,400 delegates will be chosen, while less than 1 percent of the delegates will be picked in New Hampshire.

Gore largely ignored the Iowa and New Hampshire contests to concentrate on the March 8 primaries in 20 mainly southern states where 1,400 delegates will be chosen.

Scherrie Giamanco, a Simon supporter from Mount Vernon who canvassed in Iowa, said she also believes funds will be difficult to come by. “But I don’t see any loss of confidence,” she added. “We’ll be dealing with two small segments of the population,” she said.

Gephardt supporters were encouraged by Gephardt’s strong showing in New Hampshire. Mark Carney, a Gephardt campaign worker in Muskegon, said, “It’s the next round and we’re still pushing. We’re getting ready for Illinois.” However, Gephardt must clear the March 8 Super Tuesday primary in the south before coming before Illinois Democrats March 15.

On the Republican side, the two front runners seemed intent on keeping the rhetoric at a high pitch.

Bush and Dole had a brief exchange on live television. All Bush had to say to Dole, who was standing by in another studio, was, “Just wish him well and we’ll meet him in the South.”

Dole responded by saying “Stop lying about my record.”
Conrail engineer pleads guilty to manslaughter by locomotive

TOWSLEY, Md. (UPI) - A former Conrail engineer who drove his locomotive down the path of a speeding Amtrak passenger train, killing 16 people, has pleaded guilty to manslaughter Tuesday and faces a maximum five years in prison.

Ricky Gates, 33, originally was charged in 1987 with 16 counts of manslaughter by locomotive. In a plea agreement, Baltimore County State's Attorney John Crouse consolidated the counts into one manslaughter charge bearing all 16 counts.

"I cannot imagine the pain and grief that I've caused the families. I'm sorry," Gates said as he left the courthouse after the verdict.

Relatives of the victims of the crash wept openly when the news conference proceeded.

Gates, who offered no comment following Tuesday's proceedings, faces a maximum of five years and a $1,000 fine when sentenced March 29. He has been convicted on all 16 counts. Gates could have received an 80-year sentence and a $1,000 fine. Gates, wearing a gray, pin stripe suit, was stiff and emotionless during the court proceedings while lawyers read a 43-page statement that detailed events on the day of the Jan. 4, 1987, train tragedy in Chase, Md.

The Conrail brakeman, Edward Cromwell, told investigators he and Gates each took three pints of a marijuana cigarette in the cab of the locomotive; then in sewage, Gates smoked the rest of the drug in a pipe.

Circuit Judge Joseph Murphy accepted the plea bargain agreement. Gates will remain free under a pre-trial release program until sentencing.

Asked why prosecutors decided to plea bargain, Baltimore County State's Attorney Sandra O'Connor said, "We felt it was the easiest way to handle the case for the victims and the respondents of Chase. We thought the finality of the case would be important for them.

S. Illinois group wants insurance reforms

DENVER (UPI) - A federal judge Tuesday issued a temporary restraining order against new regulations that forbid abortion counseling at family planning clinics.

A federal judge Zita Weinshienk ruled Monday that such rules violated the privacy of pregnant women's First and Fifth Amendment rights, as well as the anti-abortion rights of a physician. A pregnant woman must be fully informed regarding the consent form and whether or not to terminate a pregnancy, Weinshienk said.

Weinshienk's ruling came in a suit brought by Planned Parenthood Federation of America Inc. of New York and Planned Parenthood agencies in Denver, Boulder and Utah, and two patients.

Elated by the ruling, Planned Parenthood officials said they were encouraged by the Reagan administration's attempt to virtually destroy the federally approved family planning program.

"Once again, the administration has revealed its contempt for the law and for justice in its efforts to repair a long-overdue debt to the small band of compassion planners," said Judge Eve Paul, vice president for legal affairs. "Planned Parenthood is confident that those damaging rules and misguided regulations will never be put into effect."

However, officials at the Department of Health and Human Services, who said they were confident the federal rules will be upheld before they are scheduled to take effect March 2.

"This is purely academic at this point since there are no more courts to rule," said HHS spokesman Chuck Kline. "We believe the regulations are legal and will be upheld." Weinshienk Monday denied the government's motion to dismiss the suit and asked the plaintiffs to file additional evidence on a matter which she will decide whether the injunction is to be permanent.

The judge said the proposed rules would reverse previous policies and that administrively, legislative action, not an administrative decision, would be required. Weinshienk also said the rules would impede a doctor's right to give patients information.

Hearings are scheduled in New York and Boston later this week on similar suits.

Drug is approved to treat illness in AIDS patients

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Food and Drug Administration approved an experimental drug Tuesday to treat a type of life-threatening pneumonia that often afflicts AIDS patients.

FDA Commissioner Frank Young said the drug, trimetrexate, is the first AIDS-related drug to be granted special patient status under the agency's new regulations that allow drug developers to provide, before final administrative approval, promising new drugs to certain serious conditions.

The new experimental drug will be distributed by Wolf Safety, Morris Plains, N.J. as an experimental therapy for Pneumocystis carinii pneumonia, a condition that cannot be treated with two conventional approved treatment drugs.

Pneumocystis carinii pneumonia is one of several potentially life-threatening infections that often affect AIDS patients.

Young said the approved treatment drugs "are toxic to some patients and not always effective."

"Trimetrexate, which must be used with another drug to make it less toxic, offers hope to certain AIDS patients," said Young.

Today's decision reaffirms FDA's commitment to protecting early patient access to promising experimental treatments for AIDS, AIDS-associated conditions and other life-threatening diseases.

You addressed a conference co-sponsored by the FDA and the American Medical Association.

The FDA's new regulations, known as "treatment IND" or investigational new drug, became effective in July 1987, after some 4,000 AIDS patients took part in the early distribution of the drug Retrovir, commonly known as AZT.

Trimetrexate was first discovered by scientists with the Warner-Lambert Co. of Morris Plains, N.J., as a cancer drug.

Other reforms sought by SCAM would require state law to:

- Require public disclosure and consumer access to all necessary information on insurance rates, claims and policies.
- Require policy and claim forms to pass a readability test to aid consumer understanding.
- Require insurance coverage to be made available without unfair restrictions to any or every location.
- Allow individual, business, and non-profit insurance consumers to form groups to purchase low-cost coverage for auto, home, and insurable commercial ventures.
- Hold insurance companies liable in court for practices that hurt individuals or corporations.
- Encourage insurance companies to state incentives and penalties to reinvest Illinois dollars in jobs and housing developments.
- Get minimum standards and guidelines for the advertising and sale of health and life insurance.
- Hold the state responsible for reviewing newly emerging policies for long-term nursing home coverage to ensure fair rates and adequate claims coverage.

Poet speaks about black experiences, history

By Antoinette Hayes
Staff Writer

Charismatic, humorous, sad and inspiring describe the poet laureate of Illinois, Gwendolyn Brooks. Gwendolyn Brooks gave her talk titled "Black History Month" at John A. Logan College Tuesday.

Brooks' presentation was part of the college's annual District High School Writing Competition.

Brooks saluted everyone who participated in the contest, she told the young men and women that the most important thing is not being won, but the writing itself.

"But it is exciting to win," she added.

Brooks noted the observance of Black History Month by reading poetry about the experiences of black people. The poet described the nervousness of being black, the presence of a "black body," a black mind and the feeling of being black.

The poems expressed feelings of black people. The poet described the feeling of being black. She also expressed the pain of being a black person. She told the students that the poems are about the horror that happens as a result of the race relations.

Brooks said the joke illustrated how the media is constantly undermining Jackson's accomplishments.

Brooks encouraged the students to continue writing by reading from her favorite poem. The poem is about the life of a boy named Lincoln who was discriminated against and called "ugly" because he was black.

She told the students even if they are not good, they should not alter their features because they will remain "the real thing."

Brooks received the Pulitzer prize for her value of poems, "Annie Allen." She is the poet laureate of Illinois and a poetry consultant to the Library of Congress. Brooks has received 18 honors and is a member of the National Institute of Arts and Letters.

Mass. blacks demand reforms with protest

AMHERST, Mass. (UPI) - Weary black students who have occupied their campus building for five days Tuesday presented a list of demands they would like to see met.

The students, who occupied the New Africa House since Friday, met inside the building beginning at 1 p.m. with University of Massachusetts' Chancellor Joseph D. Duffy as some 500 supporters rallied outside.

The students tried to make their entire "refined" list of demands public, but among the demands they have revealed are that five whites be expelled or allegedly attacking and shooting racial slurs at a white woman and two men as they walked on campus on Feb. 7.

The estimated 200 students inside the Afro-American studies building conceded their occupation was a protest until the end of the sit-in.

Questions of racism rise in shooting of deaf man

Los Angeles (UPI) - Michael Campbell, one of only a few white people in his black neighborhood, fell asleep and couldn't hear the racial epithets when he was shot and wounded for complaining about drug dealing on his street.

When police arrived, they found Campbell with a gashed wound in his stomach. Neighbors and hangers-on joke about Campbell being the only white man in the Crescentside neighborhood.

Racial tensions in Los Angeles have been strained recently as a 22-year-old artist was shot to death when she was caught between rival gang groups in 30 in a mostly white neighborhood near UCLA.

Police responded dramatically with increased patrols in the wealthy area, while black leaders charged that slayings in their neighborhood went virtually ignored.

Way the egg bounces will win
most peculiar engineering event

By Phyllis Coon
Staff Writer

The egg drop is expected to be the highlight of the College of Engineering and Technology's Engineering pentathlon Feb. 26.

"The egg drop is more popular because of its sense of reality," Linda Helstern, public information officer for the College of Engineering and Technology, said. "If your solution doesn't work, you know it right then and there, and it does everyone else." In the egg drop, competitors design and build a container for a raw egg. The egg in the container is dropped from a fourth story balcony to a sidewalk target.

Winners are those whose eggs do not break and whose containers land closest to the target. The pentathlon is part of National Engineers' Week, Feb. 21 to 27. The engineering games were started in 1979 by College of Engineering and Technology Dean Kenneth Templemeyer.

"The whole week and especially the pentathlon gives students a sense of creativity that is a part of the discipline," Helstern said. "They are faced with a certain problem and any number of solutions." She said the games are open to both students and non-students. Entry rules are available at the College of Engineering dean's office, Technology Building 108A.

The pentathlon events are:
- Bridge Over No Man's Gorge, 9 a.m. to noon, on the ground floor of section D of the Technology Building. Contestants build bridges using plastic drinking straws. The bridge that holds the most weight wins.
- Precision pacing, 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. and noon to 2 p.m. in the Technology Building courtyard. Contestants estimate distances without using a measuring device.
- Aircraft Design, 10 a.m. to noon, on the ground floor of Technology A in the elevator lobby. The paper plane that flies the farthest and stays in the air the longest wins.
- Castle Greyskull, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the corridor by Room 104 of Technology D. Contestants try to build the tallest free-standing structure using playing cards.
- Egg Drop, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on the fourth floor, south balcony of Technology A.
- Quick Fingers, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in Technology A, Room 33, is a test of contestants' speed in solving math problems with a calculator.
- Moustrap Marathon, noon to 2 p.m. in Technology D's mailroom corridor. The contestants design moustrap-powered toy cars. The car that travels the farthest wins.
- Wheel of Fortune, 3 p.m. in Technology D's ground floor vending lounge. The contestants design moustrap-powered toy cars. The car that travels the farthest wins.

Ballot forms for absentee vote offered

Absentee ballot request forms will be available from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Feb. 22 at a table in the Student Center.

The Undergraduate Student Organization and the Graduate and Professional Student Council are sponsoring distribution of the forms. Request forms must be completed and taken or mailed to the county clerk's office at the Jackson County Courthouse in Murphysboro.

The forms will be mailed to the office at least five days before the election.

Absentee ballots then will be mailed to voters who requested them. When completed, the ballots must be mailed back to the county clerk's office.

Darrell Johnson, GPSC president, said people are being encouraged to vote on an absentee ballot because the primary election falls during spring break, when many students will be out of town.

This is an extension of the voter registration drive sponsored by USO and GPSC, which ended last week.

Malinda Clopton sorts through a client's wardrobe to create new outfits.

Student helps others to create new wardrobe; build new image

By Amy Gaudatz

Do you dread going to the closet each morning? Feel like you have nothing to wear? A wardrobe consultation could be what you need.

Malinda Clopton, 22, a senior majoring in clothing and textiles, coordinates client's wardrobes with the clothes they already have.

"I go to their (clients') homes and go through their wardrobe," she said. "I can help them see what they have that they aren't using, so they get more use out of them."

Clopton first began wardrobe consulting when she coordinated a wardrobe as the final project for an apparel selection class at the University of Tennessee.

She learned about the design elements of balance, rhythm, proportion, line and color, and as well as lifestyle, an element which depends on a person's job and social and recreational activities.

"You use all those elements to make people look different," Clopton said.

"Clothes and putting things together," she added. "It's always new to me. Soon they start looking at it from my angle, putting things together differently. It's really neat to see how excited people get!"

Clopton begins her three-hour consultations by finding out exactly what look the client is interested in.

"Some people know what they are specifically looking for," she said. "They have to know what they want before I can help them with it."

Clopton charges $35 for each consultation when matching clothing, Clopton said color is the best key to go by.

"I look for color first. I can kind of tell when something will go together," she said. "It's a knack that I have."

"It's trial and error. Try it on and see if it works," she said as she picked up and matched articles of clothing.

Accessories also can change a look, Clopton said. "A basic wardrobe with shoes and accessories can go a long way."

Clopton said she has little trouble choosing clothes to wear.

"When I find myself wearing things over and over, I try to find something I've never worn before, it's a good mental exercise," she said.

Clopton has these tips for anyone who is adding articles or clothing to a wardrobe:

1. If it doesn't go with two or three items you already have, reconsider the wisdom of purchasing it.
2. Make sure you really like it. Sit and move in it. The way it feels on you makes a big difference.
3. If you are going to buy something, consider its closet life. Buying a well-made, expensive garment is better in the long run because of the wear. If it's a classic piece you can wear a long time, you will get your money back in the long run.

And other majors that don't guarantee jobs after graduation

Getting the job you want isn't easy. Especially for recent college grads. Very few majors will prepare you for a specific career. and when you get hired right out of college. For the rest of you, finding something you like won't be simple. You could contemplate grad school. Or law school. Two or three more years of school, and student loans comparable to the national debt. There are very few jobs out there that require little or no experience. Jobs that you would enjoy, where the only requirement is a college degree.

The Federal Aviation Administration is now hiring Air Traffic Control Specialists. Over 3,000 of them. All you need is validity for a college degree. Any major is welcome. You can't even need any aviation experience. Consider the benefits. Starting salaries $56,000 plus up to 26 days vacation a year. Special retirement plan. Locations nationwide. Equal Opportunity Employer.

Graduation will be here soon enough. Consider a civil service career with the Federal Aviation Administration. For more information about a career as an Air Traffic Control Specialist, including an application, send your name and address on a postcard to:

Gateway crown, NCAA bid priorities for women's team

There is nothing we want more than to have the chance to play for an NCAA bid at home.

This week looms large in determining what Gateway Conference teams will earn that ever-coveted bid to the NCAA tournament. The four top teams get to play in the Gateway Conference Tournament with the number one and number two seeded teams receiving home bids.

The road games this week against Indiana State and Illinois State will be crucial. It's unbelievable that our last three conference games are against the three teams we are tied with for first.

While the tip-off in Terre Haute Thursday, Eastern Illinois and Illinois State will be battling in Normal. By the evening's end, the first place team will be determined by two.

Saturday's game in Normal will be a doubleheader with Illinois State men's team playing Bradley. We play at 7:30 p.m., after the Redbirds face Hersey Hawkins and company. The shootout prior to our contest may mean a few thousand on hand for our game.

The players and our coaching staff are extremely proud of our fans. Our goal is to have 3,000 people in the Arena for our Eastern game on Feb. 25. If you remember the last-second shot Dana Fitzpatrick made last season to win the conference championship over Eastern, you won't want to miss this game.

Upsets have abounded this year in college basketball. It's a year of uncertainty and on the women's side, much more parity.

New schools are popping up in the Top 20 and conference races have new faces on top.

Let's hope the Salukis' tournament experience of the past two years will give us that extra edge. When all is said, talent takes a seat beside two other very important factors, preparation and mental toughness.

Julie Beck is in her sixth year as assistant coach for the women's basketball team. Before coming to SIU-C, she was player and assistant coach at the University of Missouri.

- Three players are averaging double-figure scoring. Bonds is at 13.3 ppg, Mary Bergusaha at 10.8 ppg and Tonda Seals at 10.6 ppg. Bonds, who also leads with 46 steals, is shooting .66 percent from the field.
- Bergusaha continues to lead in playing time, logging 790 minutes. She has 183 rebounds for an average of 7.1 per game. Kampwerth is shooting 77.1 percent from the free-throw line and has 27 blocked shots.

- ceremony. Watch the faces of the athletes. Gone will be the apprehension, the worry and the fear of failure. Instead, the athletes will be releasing an incredible sigh of relief.
- The pressure to perform, which has built up over the last four years, has reached crescendo in Calgary, will have disappeared. The smiles on the athletes will flash as wide.
- In past Olympic closing ceremonies, impromptu celebrations by the athletes have forced delays in the proceedings. The athletes can't be blamed. They were trying to prolong the greatest party that they have ever attended.
- Enjoy the party the American athletes are attending for what it really is. It's a thrill just to compete with the world's greatest athletes. Just ask the Jamaican bobsledding team.

Boosters to meet
- The Saluki Booster Club will meet at noon Thursday at the Carbondale Holiday Inn.
- The guest speakers will be women's track coach Don DeNoon and men's track coach Bill Cornell.

Men's tennis team at 1-6; loses to Purdue, Ohio State

Pulling away from home has been unpleasant for the men's tennis team so far this season.

The Salukis lost to Purdue, 6-3, and Ohio State, 7-6, last weekend. SIU-C dropped to 1-4 record.

However, Coach Dick LeFevre is not disappointed with the effort his team put forth against Purdue.

"We played well against them," LeFevre said. "Purdue is one of the top three teams in the Big Ten and the match was really competitive." The Salukis lost 8-3, and to Staff Writer 3-6, 6-4.

In singles action, Juan Martinez lost to Jay Cobb 6-7, 7-5, 7-6, 7-5. George Hime topped Brian Ritz 6-2, 6-3, 7-5, and Dean Russell fell to Dave Gorman 6-4, 6-3.

Ramos and Maule won the No. 1 doubles, 6-3, 6-4. No. 2 first singles loss against John Winzinger 6-7, 7-5.

"I'm used to an aggressive style of play," Maule said. "The (circuit) court was really slow, but I wasn't playing well." In other singles action Juan Martinez lost to Jay Cobb 6-7, 7-5, 7-6, 7-5. George Hime topped Brian Ritz 6-2, 6-3, 7-5, and Dean Russell fell to Dave Gorman 6-4, 6-3.

Ramos and Maule won the No. 1 doubles, 6-3, 6-4. No. 2

Judiscak shatters record by 40 in 5,000-meter run

Distance runner Lisa Judiscak shattered a school record in the 5,000-meter run with a time of 17 minutes, 1.47 seconds to help her team finish fourth at the Golden Shoe Invitational in Medford, Wis.

Judiscak finished third in the event. Host Wisconsin won the meet Saturday with 164 points followed by Purdue, 140, Minnesota, 86, and SIU-C, 67. Conference teams Illinois State and Western Illinois finished fifth and sixth.

Resanne Vincent, who was injured earlier in the season, ran her first race of the indoor season as a member of a team record in the 800-meter run in 2:14.50 for fourth. The 800 record has been broken only twice this year.

"We know that she (Resanne) was capable of that all along," Coach Don DeNoon said. "It was just a matter of getting her track meet." DeNoon and Christiana Philippou were the top scorers for SIU-C with 15 and 11 points, respectively.

Kryuciak placed second in the 400-meter dash in 57.30 and 57.22. Philippou went 18-feet, 6 inches into the long jump to capture third. She finished fourth in the triple jump at 36-9.

Freshman Beverly Klett placed fifth in the high jump with a height of 4'11"). "She (Klett) ended up doing a personal best on her part by 3 inches," DeNoon said. "She was beating people about 4'10. I'm real pleased with her performance."

Felicia Veal placed third in the SS-meter sprints with a personal best of 11.62. Vinh Sinou finished third in the 5,000-meters in 17:33.06 and Carola Robbini was third in the pentathlon with 3,241 points.

The team competed without its top three runners, Michelle and Danielle Sciano. DeNoon opted to rest Michelle, who has pulled muscle. Danielle was ill.

Swimming teams honor seniors

The swimming and diving teams held ceremonies before their last meet of the season to honor nine graduating seniors.

The event began with carnations, while the men received medallions bearing the Saluki emblem.

"This class group of people who are the heart and soul of our program," Coach Doug Lam said. "They've been our leaders all year long.

The seniors are:

- Kevin Nagy is a team co-captain and anchors the country's top-ranked 400 freestyle relay team. He was an honorable mention All-American last year.
- Lori Rea is a team co-captain and 12-time All-American. She is the defending school record holder in the 50 and 100 freestyle and 100 butterfly. She qualified for the NCAAs in the 100 butterfly.
- Scott Rose will be a four-year diving lettermen after this season for his best score of 539.75 on the three-meter board.
- Jacee Taljaard was an honorable mention All-American last year with the conference championship team in the 200 and 400 freestyle relay teams.
- Iria van Joanne was a 1988 All-American and an honorable mention. She was the conference champion in the 100 and 200 breaststroke and a member of our conference champion relay teams. She also is a three-time academic All-American.
- Willerle is the conference champion in the 100 and 200 breaststroke, and a member of our conference champion 400 and 400 medley relay teams.

U.S. hockey team 1-1, faces Soviets tonight

The women's basketball team no longer has its back against the wall thanks to back-to-back Gateway Conference wins over Southwest Missouri and Wichita State that put the Salukis in first.

"I probably feel better about the issue now than I have all season," Coach Cindy Scott said.

The Salukis are 16-7 overall and 13-3 in the Gateway, tied for first with Eastern Illinois. SIUC is at Indiana State on Thursday and at Illinois State on Saturday.

"We've taken two very huge steps," Scott said. "Cathy (Kampwerth) is playing with more confidence and Bridget (Bonds) is making a determined effort to make good plays.

Kampwerth, a 6-foot-4 junior center, led the Salukis with 19 points and seven rebounds against Wichita State. Bonds, a 6-foot-1 senior forward, had 17 points and seven rebounds against Southwest Missouri.

The Saluki defense has taken hold, outstanding opponents 59 points per game at 57.8 ppg. Scott said this improvement is two-fold. The team has been successful in cutting down on turnovers and the pace has become more intense.

"The key all season long has been to minimize turnovers," Scott said. "We have to keep our numbers down. It's a combination of concentration and mental toughness.

"In the first 11 games of the season, when the Salukis had a 6-5 record, there were only five games in which they had 20 turnovers or less. In the last 12 games, the team has won 10 games and been under 20 turnovers nine times.

Defensively, the team has held opponents to under 60 points in the last six games.

"It was nice to see that defense back," Scott said.
