Five candidates for state court battle for bench

By United Press International

Tensions have been rising among the five judges vying for a Southern Illinois vacancy on the Illinois Supreme Court as the candidates clash over alleged ,adicial corruption and whether jurists have the right to publicly comment on controversial issues.

On the Democratic side, former St. Clair County Circuit Judge Carl Becker of Red Bud has accused one opponent of being a "machine candidate" who will turn a blind eye to crooked judges.

In a recent interview with the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Becker said state Appellate Judge Moses Harrison II of Collinsville represents Democratic leaders in the legislature who have meddled in judicial appointments and other administrative matters in the past.

But Harrison told the newspaper the charges are "all in Judge Becker's imagination" and said Becker made the same complaints about a different opponent when Becker made an unsuccessful Supreme Court bid in 1988.

"If I didn't have any qualifications, I'd take potshots at the leader—and the winner—too," Harrison said.

The third Democrat in the race, Appellate Judge Charles 'Bill' Chapman of Edwardsville, has tried to steer clear of the

City council to ponder parking improvements

By Teri Lynn Carlock City Writer

The City Council will vote tonight on a resolution to continue parking lot improvements in downtown Carbondale. Several months ago, the city was contacted by Bill Haupt. owner of the Corner Diner who wants the city to enter into a lease agreement and place parking meters in his parking lot.

The lot, subject to the improvements, located at West College and Renfro streets, will not be totally metered. The area between Ruthie's and the Campus Shopping Center will remain open.

If the resolution is passed, about 25 spaces will be added to the area behind the Corner Diner. Five spaces will remain open.

Haupt is dealing with problems of people parking in his lot but not patronizing his business, said Tom Redmond, downtown coordinator.

Committee says freight building should be razed

By Teri Lynn Carlock

Carbondale Citizen's Committee members have changed their minds on plans for renovating the rail freight building downtown. The City Council will discuss tonight the committee's new recommendation to dismantle the building and store it.

The Old Freight Building was built in 1854 by Daniel Brush, the founder of Carbondale. It was built for the arrival of the first train in the city July 4, 1854.

During the past year and a half, the council has reviewed the idea of renovating the building but the matter was tabled, most recently Dec. 17.

Credit compromise

State legislators change student loan bill

By Todd Welvaert

A compromise in a legislation designed to cut the mediator out of the student loan system has made the bill more attractive to legislators but may have placed university administrators in a precarious position with lending institutions

Legislators sponsoring the Income Dependent Education Assistance Credit plan proposed a compremise that would allow colleges and universities to choose the method they use to fund student loans, but some SIUC officials fear the choice will allow banking institutions to pressure bank loan dependent schools into staying with the current Guaranteed Student Loan plan.

IDEA, sponsored by Sen. Paul Simon, D-Makanda, and Sen., David Durenberger, R-Minn, would eliminate banks from the

Under the bill, students would receive loans directly from the federal government, with the Internal Revenue Service as the collection agency.

Banking institutions have lobbied hard against the legislation because of the value of the student loans, which rank right behind automobile loans and credit cards in profitability.

Bigger SIUC players outboard WSU by 34

By Tony Mancuso

The basketball Salukis got off to a big lead and never let go for a 69-55 Missouri Valley Conference win Monday night against Wichita State.

Coach Rich Herrin's squad, which won its fourth in a row, improved to a first-place 11-3 in the Valley and 18-5 overall. WSU dropped to 3-10 in the MVC and 5-17 overall.

The Dawgs held the Shockers scoreless for the first four minutes of the game and built up a 14-0 lead during that time. Junior forward Ashraf Amaya, who led the team with 22 points and 12 rebounds, scored the first 7 points of the game.

The Salukis stretched the lead to 18 and led at halftime 36-18.

In the past three victories SIUC had been out to of any least at halftime only to squander the possibility of a blowout and eke out wins in close matchups. But before a small Arena gathering of 4,658 the Salukis never let the lead go below 12 points in the second

Wichita State coach Mike Cohen said the key to the game was that SIUC could build an insurmountable lead early

"Before the game, I told my guys Southern would try to win the game in the first five minutes," Cohen said. "We knew we had to stop them early and we said. We take we had to stop them carry and we didn't, and they took it away from us.

"But tonight they played a very good game from start to finish, and even though we played much better in the second half they held us off."

Herrin said the Salukis moved the ball well on offense and played good defense to get some easy fastoriense and played good detense to get some easy last-break buckets in the opening minutes.

"We were very happy with the fast start," he said.
"That was the game."

But he said his team dominated the game by dominating the boards. The Dawgs outrebounded a much smaller Shocker team 57-23.

"We really crashed the boards with intensity, and you know we are at the top of our game when we get that many offensive rebounds," said Herrin, whose team picked 29 off the offensive glass.

Freshman forward Marcus Timmons grabbed 12 rebounds and scored 13 points for the Dawgs. Sophomore point guard Chris Lowery had 12 points

Serior guard Robert George led the Shockers with 17 points, freshman forward John Smith had 16 points and 5 rebounds, and sophomore guard K.C. Hunt collected 11 points

The Dawgs next take on Tulsa at 7:35 p.m. Saturday

U.S. hockey gets bloody, ties Sweden

ALBERTVILLE, France (UPI) — The U.S. hockey team, enraged by a first period check that left Greg Brown with a concussion and bloody face, received another strong performance from goalie Ray LeBlanc Monday night to tie powerful Sweden and stay unbeaten in the Olympic tournament.

Sweden, with an all-out assault on LeBlanc late in the game, struck for three goals in the last 13:39, including the tying score by Mikael Johansson with just 21 seconds left. The Swedes outshot the United States 17 2 in the third period.

Although victory eluded the Americans, the outcome left them the No. I seed from their group at the end of round-robin play at 4-0-1.

The U.S. team shocked the defending world champion Swedes by scoring 36 seconds into the game when Tim Sweeney, streaking down the side, fed Clark Donatelli in front of the net.

But that goal did not ignite the Americans any more than did an incident minutes later Sweden's Mats Naslund, a longtime NHL star and twice winner of the Lady Byng Trophy for sportsmanship. skated a third of the way down the ice to slam Brown into the boards behind the American goal, and Brown went down in a heap.

When the trainers finally got him to his feet, the fans and players alike could see a gash across the bridge of the defenseman's nose and a pool of blood on the ice.

Naslund was ejected and the Americans went on to build a 3-0 lead before Sweden finally got to

Compatriot Heike Warnicke finished second in 7:37.59 with Carla Pechstein completing the German sweep in 7:39.80

Mary Docter of Madison Wis a fourtime Olympian perhaps competing in her last Olympic race, finished 17th as the leading American in 8:04, 42

Tara Laszlo of St. Paul, Minn., finished 23rd in 8:15.00 and Michelle Kline of Circle Pines, Minn., was last in the field of 24 in Three of the original field of 27 skaters withdrew prior to the race, including defending Olympic titlist Yvonne van Gennip of Holland, who was bed-ridden

The medal sweep completed Germany's domination of women's speedskating, where it picked up nine of the 15 medals at Racing in the fourth pairing with Mihaela Dascalu of Romania. Niemann seemed to assure her victory after the first of the 12-1/2 laps. Less than two minutes into the race, she had surpassed her teammate's previous fastest split by almost five seconds and then steadily extended her margin.

Niemann, the 3,000 meter world recordholder, began her medal spree Feb. 9, with a victory in the women's 3,000. She also finished second last Wednesday in the 1.50 to teammate Jacqueline Boerner.

Van Gennip's withdrawal from Monday race completed a miserable Olympics for her. A pre-event favorite in three events, sh fell in the 1,500 and finished only sixth in the 3,000 before her withdrawal Monday. She set the women's 5,000 meter world record o 7:14.33 on the way to Olympic gold in

Coach says women's tennis team off to good start after 1992 opener

By Norma Wilke

The SIUC women's tennis team had a good mental and competitive start to its spring season, coach Judy Auld said.

The Salukis had one individual Flight champion and one doubles title at the 7-team Fastern Kentucky Invitational during the weekend. Auld said she was pleased with the team's performance.

The players were very competitive in every match they played," Auld said. "It was a good tournament for this early in the season. It gave us an idea of where we are going and what each player needs to work on."

Sophomore Leesa Joseph, No. 3, was the only Saluki to win her individual flight. Joseph was 3-0 for the weekend. In the final round she played Naomi Mokelke of Eastern Michigan.

Mokelke won the first set 6-7, but Joseph kept her composure and bounced back and won the next two sets 6-2, 6-1. Auld said Joseph wore the opponent down.

"Leesa had three good wins this weekend." Auld said. "In the second set she started playing better and cut down on the errors Leesa has a good mid-court game. and that helped her overcome her opponent." Freshman Irena Feofanova and sophomore Wendy Anderson won

U.S. CENTER TO AID RUSSIAN SCIENTISTS United States, Germany and Russia announced plans Monday for an international center to help provide work for weapons scientists from the former Soviet Union who might otherwise be tempted to sell their services elsewhere. The proposed International Science and Technology Center would be a clearinghouse for developing, funding and monitoring projects to use the skills of thousands of Russian weapons scientists.

LEADERS REPORT NUCLEAR CUTS PROGRESS Russian President Boris Yeltsin and Secretary of State James Baker said Monday they made some progress in talks on separate Russian and U.S. proposals for more radical cuts in nuclear weapons, but no new agreements were reached. Yeltsin said while the two sides were close to each other" in talks on arms control, what he called " differences" remained to be worked out.

THOUSANDS MOURN HEZBOLLAH LEADER-Tens of thousands of mourners gathered Monday to pay tribute to Hezbollah leader Seyyed Abbas Musawi, who was killed in an attack by Israeli helicopters in the latest escalation of violence in the region. The renewed violence in the region raised questions about the struggling Middle East peace process, but both Israel and its Arab neighbors indicated that they would be present when the next phase of the peace conference begins.

ISRAEL, ARAB VIOLENCE CONTINUES - Israelis and Arabs traded rocket and artillery fire Monday after a weekend of violence that killed 15 people, including the leader of the Muslim fundamentalist Hezbollah, but plans for the next round of Middle East peace talks remained an track despite the increased tension. Surface-to-surface missiles were fired from southern Lebanon into northern Israel overnight, and Israeli shells hit southern Muslim strongholds.

VOTING POPULATION REACHES 189 MILLION -

The Census Bureau said Monday the U.S. voting age population will total 189 million by Election Day, Nov. 3, an increase of 3.4 percent or 6.3 million potential voters over the 1988 presidential election. New Hampshire, which holds the nation's first presidential primary Tuesday, will have an age-eligible voting electorate of 852,000 when the general election rolls around, including 415,000 men and 437,000 women voters.

U.S. SPENDING $1,500 FOR HAITIAN REFUGEE -

The United States has spent more than $24 million intercepting, feeding and returning Haitian boat people since September, about $1,500 for each refugee fleeing the poorest nation in the Western Hemisphere. The $1,500 sum is more than four times the annual per capita income in Haiti, a country of 6.3 million people. The figures were compiled Monday by the Fort Landerdale Sun-Sentinel.

Student voter apathy creates no solutions

ELECTIONS PRESENT AN OPPORTUNITY to make changes in a political system that nearly everyone considers problematic, but unfortunately very few people

The United States was founded on the concept of democracy, a concept in which fewer and fewer citizens are choosing to participate.

Even sadder is the fact that the future leaders of the nation-today's college age students-are choosing to let the older generations decide their lives for them. A generation that cries out for respect has yet to show it deserves any.

Even in Carbondale where more than 24,000 students mingle in a continuing exchange of ideas and cultures, responsibility has yet to be shouldered by students. This uncaring attitude is not expected from a student population fering continued attacks from the budget axe.

INSTEAD OF VOTING, people complain. Complaining is easy, but it does little. Every semester students voice their disapproval as tuition increases another notch. Lately the increases are coming more frequently along with cuts to scholarships and loans.

There is a reason why students are being targeted: They do not do anything about it. Voter apathy among collegeage people ranks among the highest. In the last statewide elections, fewer than 20 percent of 1,147 registered SIUC students voted. In 1990, nationwide voting hit a 50 year low when only three million people went to the polls.

DISSATISFACTION USUALLY IS blamed for low voter turnout, but those who are dissatisfied expect things to change on their own. Illinois politicians are going to make budget cuts to groups which traditionally have a low voter turnout. It just so happens that students fit this

Even more discouraging is that leaders who still try to protect higher education have no real power to back up their demands. Student leaders are left looking like beggars unless fellow students vote. Governments are not generous, without power to back up demands, no political decisions will fall in students' favor.

MANY STUDENTS PROBABLY DO NOT believe the budget cuts and tuition increases warrant the lengthy jaunt to the Jackson County Courthouse in Murphysboro to register. But changes need to take place now, not when the situation becomes completely unbearable.

When mommy and daddy cannot pay the way, and financial aid and student loans have been cut to the bone, it will be too late. The state of education cannot be allowed to get any worse.

IT IS TIME TO PUT DOWN THE NINTENDO games and do something. Even if a vote is cast for "none of the above," the message that students care about what happens to them needs to get out.

Cartoon hero flak comical

Lately a furor has been raging about an engineering pro-fessor's somewhat homophobic response to Marvel Comics' "Northstar," the gay superhero.

I am writing to say to you that this is all very silly. Mr. Helmer, this is all very silly. Mr. Helmer, your letter was pretly offensive. If you've taken a look around you, you might have noticed a few of your co-workers or students giving you some particularly evil looks. Well, that's because not everyone feels the same way that you do feels the same way that you do about homosexuality. Still, your argument was gorged with argument was gorged with interesting facts.

The point is moot, however, Mr. Helmer. Superheroes are becoming more linelike all the time. When I was a kid, my javorite crusader was Iron Man. Tony Stark (the man undemeath the hero's armor) was blind, but I never wished I was sightless just to imitate him.

I never wished I was signices; just to imitate him.

If Northstar is gay, it's his own personal enigma. No Marvel Comics won't illustrate his sexual behavior, and you don't have to worry about your kids trying to sodomize other children just to emulate Northstar.

Thank you anyway, Ms. Lehr, for the essay on "Good and Evil," and Ms. Malkin for the insight to positive gay lifestyles. Thank you, Daily Egyptian, for printing Mr. Helmer's letter, and not censoring it like some suggested. However, you can put away all your guns now. ## On heroes, hatred and homosexuality Heroes. Isn't that what all this hysteria over a homosexual cartoon character is about? Wayne Helmer, you should (but won't) be ashamed of yourself for being such a bigot. Here are a few points I would like te suggest that you think over:

1. Some people are gay and some are not. Well-adjusted individuals have no difficulty dealing with that simple fact.

2. Homosexual behavior has occurred throughout history in every society. Homosexual behavior exists even in the animal kingdom.

3. Your entire argument about sexually transmitted diseases is absurd. AIDS (or any other STD for that matter) does not belong to any exclusive group, especially gay heterosexual that stands in the highest risk of AIDS-not homosexuals, not cartoon characters, and not the people who read about homosexual cartoon characters.

You stated in your letter that homosexuals have the same rights as all Americans. Please read on:

a) In the state of Iowa anyone can be terminated from employment directly because of their sexuality. If you are gay, you are fired. That is a state law!

b) The national restaurant chain Cracker Barrel issued a memorandum to its managers eight months ago, stating "anyone in your charge not displaying the proper heterosexual values...should erminated immediately."

Clearly then, homosexuals do not have the same rights as "any other American ve written this letter because Helmer offended the part of me that heroes or role models ary to instill, that part that makes us all want to speak out when we see something wrong. Wayne Pelmer's letter was a thinly-disguised fag attack. He chose as his weapon a pen instead of a club or a knife. His hatred is a much more "destructive lifestyle" than anything I or any ther homosexual practices.

Letter-writers attack character but avoid meaningful debate

The rebuttals by Rev. Edfors and Michelle Malkin (DE Feb. 12) to Wayne Helmer's letter (DE Feb. 7) have raised a couple of issues. My concerns are not with the argumen concerning homosexuality, but how such dialogues should be conducted, particularly at an institution whose purpose is the search for truth.

Living in a pluralist society does not allow us to disregard the beliefs of others. Wayne Helmer was correct in his assertion that crying homophobia (or sexism, white male dominance, minority rights, religious fundamentalism, etc.)can be a convenient way to avoid entering meaningful dialogues. Rev. Edfors' casting of aspersions on Mr. Helmer's character sends the message that the latter's views need not be considered seriously and need not be responded to in a thoughtful, reasonable respectful manner. Rev. Edfors letter would have accomplished its purpose without bringing into bt Mr. Helmer's character.

Living in a pluralist society also does not mean that we keep our beliefs private and never speak out ort of or against an issue for fear of offending another group. in fact, a university community demands the opposite: a continuing forum of debate and conversation. We need to combat destructive actions directed against all peoples, including those groups with whom we might vehemently disagree. But we cannot allow the silencing of discussion because we fear being politically incorrect. This means that we do not separate our chosen disciplines from our values and beliefs, as Ms. Malkin would like Mr. Helmer to do. The whole of the university is greater than the sum of its parts, i.e., greater than a collection of academic and technological departments. But my comments are based on the presupposition that the university system still ultimately exists for the discovery of truth and what is best for the society as a whole.

Students from 105 nations show off culture at festival

Annual gathering brings fashions, dances, folklore of world to SIUC

By Fatima Janvekar General Assignment Write

Age-old traditions and ancient folklore were brought to life in a cultural display by citizens from more than 105 countries at the International Festival last weekend.

The festival is part of the annual entertainment activities by the International Student Council, the on-campus governing body for international student associations.

Charles Klasek, head of the Office of International and Economic Development on campus, said more than 2,800 international students attend SIUC-which he said could be renamed Southern International University.
"There is no great university

Klasek said.

The festival was part of International Week, which honors the international community for its cultural enlightment and ethnic contribution to the region.

The Friends for Native Americans also participated in both the fashion and the cultural shows. The group performed Native American dances in porcupine-fur headdresses, beaded moccasins and costumes

Research shows lack of light affects some personalities

By Valerie Brew-Parrish Wellness Center

A lack of sunshine during the winter months may bring on a case of the winter blues

People who feel lethargic and depressed when the weather is gloomy and sun does not shine may suffer from a condition known as Seasonal Affective Disorder.

Officials estimate 50 percent of the population in Chicago, Boston and New York have noticeable changes in their energy levels and also experience mood swings during the winter months.

Research into SAD began in carnest in 1980, when scientists at the National Institute of Mental Health noted a direct correlation between people experiencing depression symptoms that appear in winter months and vanish during seasons when the sun shines more.

An actual decrease of light triggers the feelings of melancholia and fatigue in persons who suffer from SAD.

The NIMH has estimated that about 10 million U.S. citizens are afflicted with full cases of SAD.

To Your Health

To cure the winter blues and combat the effects of SAD, it is necessary to increase the amount of light in the environment.

Using a full spectrum lamp can be as effective as natural sunlight. Research has found that SAD sufferers who are exposed to phototherapy, bright panels of light, improve dramatically.

The treatment usually consists of sitting in one's own home in front of a metal box which contains bright fluorescent lights.

This box of light can typically be purchased for about $450 without a prescription, although it is important to consult with a knowledgeable physician or psychologist before purchasing the Self treatment with phototherapy can be risky.

Side effects can include headaches, eye strain, skin irritations and insomnia.

Other ways to minimize light deprivation can be as simple as making sure there are lots of lemps and fixtures in a mom.

building into an open air pavilion, met Feb. 8 reached the decision that the city should dismantle the building. The historic components would be labeled for storage until funding for a new open air pavilion becomes available.

The committee and structural engineers who have looked at the building have suggested it be dismantled. The City Council obtained two estimates for dismantling of the building, one from J W Williams & Sons Construction Co. for Construction Co. for $83,720 and the other from J & L Robinson Construction Co. for $15,500. $15,500.

City Manager Steve Hoffner said the City Council thinks Robinson's bid is an accurate estimate, and if the resolution is passed the city will begin negotiations with the company.
"Robinson submitted a written proposal to the city on Friday stating his bid for $15,500 w/s still solid," Hoffner said. "If everything is approved Tuesday night the dismantling could begin in a couple of weeks."

The city has a balance of $34,205 remaining in the budget this year for the rail freight building project.

If the City Council decides to proceed with the dismantling of the building additional funding may be required to complete the project. The additional funds required would have to be included in the budget next year if the costs exceed the $34,205

The city can expect to spend funds for an Illinois licensed structural engineer or architect to seal the pavilion. It is not yet clear if the Citizen's Committee intends to provide financial support for the effort.

licenses for the programs.

John S. Haller, the policy's author and vice chancellor for academic affairs, said the details of enforcement and compliance with the policy will be left to the president of each campus. The University will treat this policy as a variation of the Patent and Copyright Committee but has not yet made formal rules for its enforcement, said SIUC President John C. Guyon.

The Patent and Copyright Committee is geared toward the creation of software by students and faculty on car Committee members campus. Committee members are concerned with whether an invention or creation of software belongs to an individual or the University.

When an invention is created with University equipment, SIUC and the individual split the royalties but SIUC holds the patent. Software belongs to an individual even if it is created with University equipment, unless the person is asked to design the

John Yopp, dean of the Graduate School, said the new policy controls a situation similar to renting a video tape and copying it.

This is the first policy of its kind at SIUC, he said.

SIUC could lose federal funding for non-compliance, he said.

Haller said the University developed this policy because it is liable for the pirating of companies' software.

Haller said he will ask the audit department in the chancellor's office to include micro-computer audits so it also can check on the departments on campus.

Most people are not familiar with the copyright laws, especially those concerning software, he said. The University will print brochures and issue computerized warnings to let students and faculty know about the policy and how to comply with it.

Haller said he will urge both campuses to detail the products for which site licenses exist. A site license allows a person or company to buy more than one copy of a software program.

Hengehold said several alternatives to copying exist if software programs are needed for classes or other uses.

Students and faculty can use computers with the software already on the disk drive or can buy copies of the program at the University bookstore, he said. In some cases, the software is even included in the back of textbooks

Another alternative would be for the department or college to buy enough copies for use by in classes, Hengehold said.

Harrison, who has implied Chapman's part-time job as a night school law professor might make him too busy to excel as a Supreme Court justice.

Meanwhile, the Republicans in the race disagree over the high court's Rule 67, which limits a justice's ability to speak out on public issues. Dor. Weber, a former Madison County prosecutor from Carpenter, said he is going forward with a federal lawsuit to challenge the rule because he feels it prevents voters from making informed choices about the judges they elect.

"The voters never seem to connect their vote on election day to the court decision that occurs two or three years later," he said. The other Republican contender, Mount Carmel attorney John Rhine agrees with Rule 67 and said it makes sense.

"If so meone wins a seat by taking a position on a case, it reduces the integrity of the court," Rhine said.

control the parking on his property," he said. "He is paying taxes but is not getting the benefit of the property.

Redmond said the main focus of the installation of parking meters in the Corner Diner area is to provide money to the business' owner or leave spaces available for his customers

City Attorney Michael Wepsiec has drawn up a tentative lease agreement and forwarded it to the property owner.

The agreement states that the city will contract for the needed improvements to the parking lot, which involves asphalt surfacing.

The city will reimburse its original investment through its share of the revenue accumulated from the parking meters, said Ed Reeder, director of public works.

'It is a simple project and the city cannot lose because we can recoup our funds," he said.

E.T. Simonds Construction Co. Carbondale has quoted a price of $15,630 to complete the lot improvements and will receive the job if the resolution is passed, Reeder said.

"We did not go through the normal bidding process because we want to get the job done in March if the weather works," he said. "If we took bids the process would take an extra 60 days.

E.T. Simonds Construction Co. is the principle supplier of asphalt immediate area and the city would rather have it do the work rather than hiring a company farther away, Reeder said. "It is the only local contracting company that can do the work," he said. "Most of the material that needs to be added is bituminous.

The City Council will discuss the parking meter expansion at 7 p.m. tonight at 609 E. College St.

the Flight 3 doubles title. After winning the first two rounds, the duo won the rinals Eastern Michigan's Nicole Gottschalk and Jenny Bergh 6-3, 7-5.

The duo was thrown together at the last minute after junior Karen Wasser, Feofanova's partner from the fall, sprained her ankle in a first-round singles match Friday

Auld said for their first time playing together, the two executed their plays well.

The match was a chance for Anderson to see more playing time in case Wasser is not back in full strength this weekend, she said

Feofanova said the new team tried the best they could and came out on top.

"We played really well together and communicated well," Feofanova said. "We had a good draw.

had three matches and I played differently in all of them, but overall I was pleased with my performance.

In Flight 1, junior Wendy Varnum won two matches and then lost in the finals to Julie Guess of Louisville 7-6, 4-6, 3-6. Auld said she was pleased to see Varnum perform well after a struggling fall season.

"Wendy has always enjoyed this tournament," Auld said. "Last year she won in Flight 3. She's a better, more focused type of player than she was in the fall. Julie Guess is a better player than she looks and is very deceptive

"It didn't come to errors. It came down to Julie beating Wendy."

In Flight 2, senior Lori Edwards lost in the consolation finals to Eva Almkvist of Toledo

In Flight 4. Feofanova won her first match and then lost to Tiffany Egan of West Virginia 6-7, 6-2, 6-1.
In Flight 5, Anna Tsui lost in the consolation finals to Emily Humphery of Toledo 1-6, 0-6.

in Flight 6. Anderson won her first match nd lost her second to Pam McGrath of West Virginia 6-7, 0-6.

Joseph and Edwards, 1-2, lost in the consolation Flight 1 doubles finals to Almkvist and Rekha Pudupakkam of Toledo Varnum and Tsui lost their first Flight 2 match in three sets but then bounced back to win their second match.

The duo forfeited their last match because Varnum's aggravated her recurring upper thigh injury that inhibits her

The netters next play three dual matches at the University of Nevada Las Vegas

The team plays the University of Colorado at 10:30 a.m. Friday, Gateway Conference rival Wichita State at 9 a.m. Saturday and UNLV at 8 a.m. Sunday.

Auld said SIUC needs to come out mentally strong and healthy to beat the and TAC senior athletes and DeNoon said he expects near 400 competitors to attend. This is the second consecutive year the meet has been field at SIUC.

meet has been held at SIOC.

"This is a very prestigious championship for any school to host," DeNoon said.
"Last year we were the first Illinois school to the TAC Championship and we saw several Rec Center records broken in both men's and women's events."

At the 1991 TAC, SIUC notched several first place finishes. Junior Christina Gabler captured both the 1,000-meter and the 800-meter relay along with sophomore Kelly Eiliot and senior Laura Batsie.

The women's team is coming off the five-team Purdue Invitational meet Saturday. The team posted three new school indoor records, 21 career bests and finished a close third.

"It was a meet that we could have one on any other day but on this day we came up a little short," DeNoon said.

Only three points separated the top three teams as Miami of Ohio took first with 57 points, Purdue followed with 54 1/2 and SIUC took third with 54 points.

Filling out the field was Southwest Missouri with 34 points and Notre Dame with 22 1/2

Junior Crystallo Constantinou, who captured both the 55-meter and the 200-meter dashes, set school record in both events. Constantinou's times of 7.17 in the 55-meter and 25.45 in the 200-meter were good enough to earn her fifth place in both events in the SIUC record book

Constantinou, along with juniors Reb-cca Coyne, Nacolia Moore and Shaurae

Winfield, took fourth in the mile relay.

In the 800-meter relay, the team of Eiliot, Batsie, Gabler and junior Dawn Barefoot placed third.

Another of the Salukis' record breakers was senior Annette Klett whose 5-7 high jump gave her first in the event and the No. 2 spot in the SIUC record book.

Also setting new Saluki high-water marks was Elliot, whose time of 2:20.87 in the 800-meter earned her seventh in the event and No. 4 at SIUC, and freshman LaTonya Morrison who now ranks sixth in the 55-meter at SIUC. Morrison's time of 8.6 seconds also gave her the No. eight spot in the event.

Other top finishes included Covne. second in the 55-meter hurdles, senior Michele Williams, second in the long jump and the triple jum, and Moore who took third in the triple jump.

The loss of senior hurdler and sprinter

LeeAnn Conway and junior sprinter Brandi Mock were both out with physical ailments, which hindered the team.

Even with the disadvantage, DeNoon said his team did an outstanding job..

"Either of the other teams may have been missing people too so you really can't complain," DeNoon said. "Hopefully they will be back for the conference championships but if not I think we showed we can still be competitive.
